
FESTIVAL EVENT SPONSORS - Two local financial institutions are among the corporate sponsors of events of the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival, which will be held Oct. 8-11. Farmers & Merchants Bank & Trust of Oakland will sponsor the Autumn Glory Craft Show, while American Trust Bank will sponsor the Maryland State Fiddle and Banjo championships (see story for details). In the photo above, festival chairman Diane Wolfe accepts a check from Jeff McCauley, vice president of F&M Bank. At right, she receives a check from John J. Simeon, vice president at American Trust Bank.

American Trust To Sponsor Banjo, Fiddle Contests

American Trust Bank will be sponsoring the Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle Championships as part of the 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival.

Some of the best banjo and fiddle players in the area will compete on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 9 and 10. The Maryland State Banjo Championship will be held Friday, Oct. 9, and the Fiddle Championship Saturday, Oct. 10, at the Southern High School gymnasium.

These championships will feature competitions between top banjo and fiddle musicians from five states. Each contest will begin at 7 p.m. "American Trust's sponsorship of these championships represents its second year of commitment to help defray the costs of producing these exciting events," stated festival chairman Diane Wolfe of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. American Trust has also supported the Autumn Glory Festival by purchasing Golden Ambassadorships for many years."

Scholarships To Entrepreneurship Forum Available

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC), in partnership with the nonprofit Corporation for Enterprise Development (CED), is seeking applications from Appalachian community, business, and education leaders for scholarship opportunities to attend the 16th annual Entrepreneurship Education Forum to be held in Nashville, Tenn., from Oct. 31 to Nov. 3.

The Entrepreneurship Education Forum brings together many of the nation's leading business trainers and educators. A total of 35 ARC scholarships will be awarded based on need.

Returning from the conference, scholarship recipients will be asked to lead sessions in their communities about entrepreneurial education practices and activities.

The ARC is offering this scholarship opportunity as part of a region-wide, multi-year, Entrepreneurship Initiative, seeking to strengthen local economies in Appalachia by increasing "home-grown" businesses and jobs.

A copy of the scholarship may be down-loaded from ARC's website: www.arc.gov/infopubs/releases/relmain.htm.

For more information, persons may contact Ray Daffner, ARC Entrepreneurship Initiative director, at 202-884-7777, or the Corporation for Enterprise Development at 202-408-9788.

Community Day Set On Bypass In Meyersdale

The Pennsylvania Department of Transportation (PennDOT) will open a portion of the new Route 219 Meyersdale, Pa., bypass Sunday, Oct. 4, to allow the members of the community to get an up-close look at the new highway.

Slated as the Meyersdale Bypass Community Day, the event will permit pedestrians, bicyclists, joggers, and rollerbladers to examine and enjoy the construction project from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The starting point for the event will be the Route 219 interchange located on the site of former IGA Foodliner, south of Meyersdale. A span of about four miles will be open, which will offer water stations and portable toilet facilities, and chairs for those needing to rest.

Organized by Pastor Craig Lyman of the Meyersdale United Methodist Church, a "Crop Walk" to raise money for hunger projects around the world will also take place on the bypass during the Community Day activities. Registration to participate in the Crop Walk will take place at the starting point for the walk and bike area.

Joining PennDOT in issuing the invitation to the community event are the contractor, New Enterprise Stone and Lime Co. Inc., design consultant Gannett Fleming, environmental consultant Greenhorne and O'Mara Inc., and the project's construction inspection consultant, SAI Consulting Engineers Inc.

PennDOT's district engineer, Earl Neiderhiser, stated that construction is on schedule for the bypass to be open to vehicular traffic by the end of October.

FSU To Host Razumovsky String Concert

The Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series Sunday Afternoon Showcase will present The Razumovsky String Quartet this Sunday, Oct. 4, at 3 p.m. in the Lane Center Greenhouse.

Violinists Peter Sirotin and Alexander Zhuk, along with violist Michael Stepniak and cellist Igor Zubkovsky, comprise the quartet, which recently reached the semi-final round of the Fischoff Chamber Music Competition.

The quartet, which is actively performing throughout the United States, was formed in 1997 when the members were students of the Peabody Institute of Johns Hopkins University. They are currently principals or former principals of the Peabody Symphony Orchestra.

Selections for this performance may include Mozart's Quartet in B flat Major or Mendelssohn's Quartet Op. 44, No.1 in D Major.

For information and ticket reservation, persons may call the Lane Center Box Office, 301-687-4411. Light refreshments will be available.

The Sunday Showcase performances for this season's Cultural Events Series are sponsored by the FSU Foundation Inc. CES also acknowledges the Peabody Institute of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore for its support of the performing arts. The series is funded in part by the Maryland State Arts Council and is presented in association with WFWM 91.9.

FIRST UNITED SPONSORS PARADE - For many years First United Bank & Trust has been the sponsor of the Autumn Glory Festival's Grand Feature Parade, and this year is no exception. Above, festival chairman Diane Wolf accepts a check from Steve Lantz, senior vice president and senior lending officer at First United. See story.

First United To Again Sponsor Festival Parade

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has announced that First United Bank & Trust, Oakland, with five community offices located in Garrett County as well as 15 additional offices throughout Maryland and West Virginia, will sponsor the 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade. The Autumn Glory Festival will be held Oct. 8-11, in downtown Oakland, and throughout the county, with the Grand Feature Parade beginning at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 10. This parade is the largest and most well-attended event of the four-day festival, which boasts an attendance of tens of thousands.

First United employees will staff a festival information booth at the intersection of Second and Liberty Streets from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday before the parade.

"First United Bank & Trust's sponsorship of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade represents its ninth year of commitment to defray the tremendous costs of producing this spectacular event in Garrett County," said Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. "First United has also supported the Autumn Glory Festival by purchasing Golden Ambassadorships since the program's beginning."

For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone 301 334-1948, E-mail info@garrettchamber.com.

Antiques

Motorcycle memorabilia is a relatively new collecting area. Full-sized motorcycles, clothing, signs, catalogs, trophies, giveaways, jewelry and toys are selling well. Those items made before 1930 or those that are three-dimensional, such as the toys, are the highest priced.

In the 1920s, '30s and '40s, Marx made tin motorcycle toys. But the best known and most collectible toys today are the cast-iron toys of the 1930s made by Hubley Manufacturing of Lancaster, Pa. Other cast-iron toys were made at the same time by Arcade Manufacturing Co. of Freeport, Ill.

The iron toys tried to be miniatures of the real motorcycles, while the tin toys were made for children and had more imagination in the design.

Many of Hubley's imaginative toys came with removable drivers.

The toys, which were about four inches long or larger, originally sold for 10 cents to $5. Today, iron toys still covered with the original paint can be worth more than $1,000.

Q. How should I clean rhinestone and pearl jewelry?

A. Most jewelers clean jewelry using electronic devices and professional tools.

If you plan to clean pearls at home, never immerse them in water or any other liquid. The cord holding the pearls could be damaged by soaking.

Place real pearls in a glass jar with a half-cup of powdered magnesia or potato flour. Shake the jar for a few minutes and wait for 24 hours. Repeat the process, then remove the excess powder with a dusting brush. Wipe artificial pearls with a chamois moistened with water.

Never soak rhinestones in water either. They often have a backing that can be damaged by water.

To clean rhinestones, dip a cotton swab or soft, small brush in a glass-cleaning solution or dishwashing liquid and lightly brush each stone. Then polish the stones with a soft linen cloth.

Home Tips

PILLOWCASES – There was a great sale on designer sheets at a local department store. I found king-size sheets in an attractive pattern but no matching pillowcases. Actually, two pillowcases were the same price as one sheet. What to do?

I bought one matching flat king-size sheet. I'm not much of a seamstress, but I can sew a straight seam. I measured carefully, allowing for extra hem widths, tore down instead of cutting to make sure they were on the straight and sewed them up with nice full hems and reinforced seams. One sheet was enough for eight cases. Our bed looks fantastic and I saved a lot of money. Wilma L., Columbia, S.C.

GUMMY LABELS – I keep my address and telephone list up to date by using strips from my VCR tapes and also the sheet that comes with some prescriptions. There are many areas that are plain white and sticky that you can peel right off.

I cut strips to cover changed addresses and telephone numbers. Then I have a clean surface to write the new information. The result is an up-to-date and neat book. Anne T., Fairfax, Va.

BAG IT – Sheet sets are sometimes sold in clear plastic bags with great zippers. They can be used to store all sorts of things. I am filling one up with goodies to send to a friend who is away in the Peace Corps. I am sure she will be able to put it to good use. Edna K., San Antonio, Texas

Biography®

SANDRA DAY O'CONNOR: FIRST LADY OF THE LAW

As the nation's highest court begins its new term on the traditional first Monday in October, Sandra Day O'Connor, the first woman justice to sit on the Court, will embark on her 18th year as a justice. To many, including O'Connor, it seems like only yesterday President Reagan appointed her, fulfilling a campaign promise.

Growing up on her parents' Texas cattle ranch, O'Connor, featured in October's Biography magazine, began life more accustomed to cowboy boots than a judge's robe. Yet her mother, a college graduate, taught her to read early. She was an excellent student, participating in honors classes, skipping two grades and graduating at 16.

O'Connor attended Stanford University and Law School, graduating third in her class. While checking citations in the library, she met fellow law student John O'Connor and married following her graduation. Her superb qualifications notwithstanding, she was unable to find a job at any of the large firms because of her gender, and worked as a civilian lawyer while her husband was in the service

While raising children, O'Connor took a hiatus, concentrating on volunteer work, including jobs for the Republican party. She eventually ran for an open state senator seat and was re-elected twice, becoming the first female Senate majority leader.

Eventually, O'Connor was appointed to the Arizona Court of Appeals, where Reagan tapped her to replace retiring Justice Potter Stewart because of her gender and middle-ground positions. With the Court often divided, O'Connor frequently serves as a "swing vote," able to win concessions from the others, bringing them closer to her views. Hers is not the kind of jurisprudence likely to be studied in law books. But it does generate criticism from more forceful conservatives like Justice Scalia. She spends long hours at Court searching for elusive right answers and then defends them with confidence. She's prepared, and she knows it.

Road Closings, Detours Noted For Grand Feature Parade

The Autumn Glory Festival Committee reports that because of potential traffic and safety hazards, the Maryland State Highway Administration has again recommended policy for the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, slated for Saturday, Oct. 10.

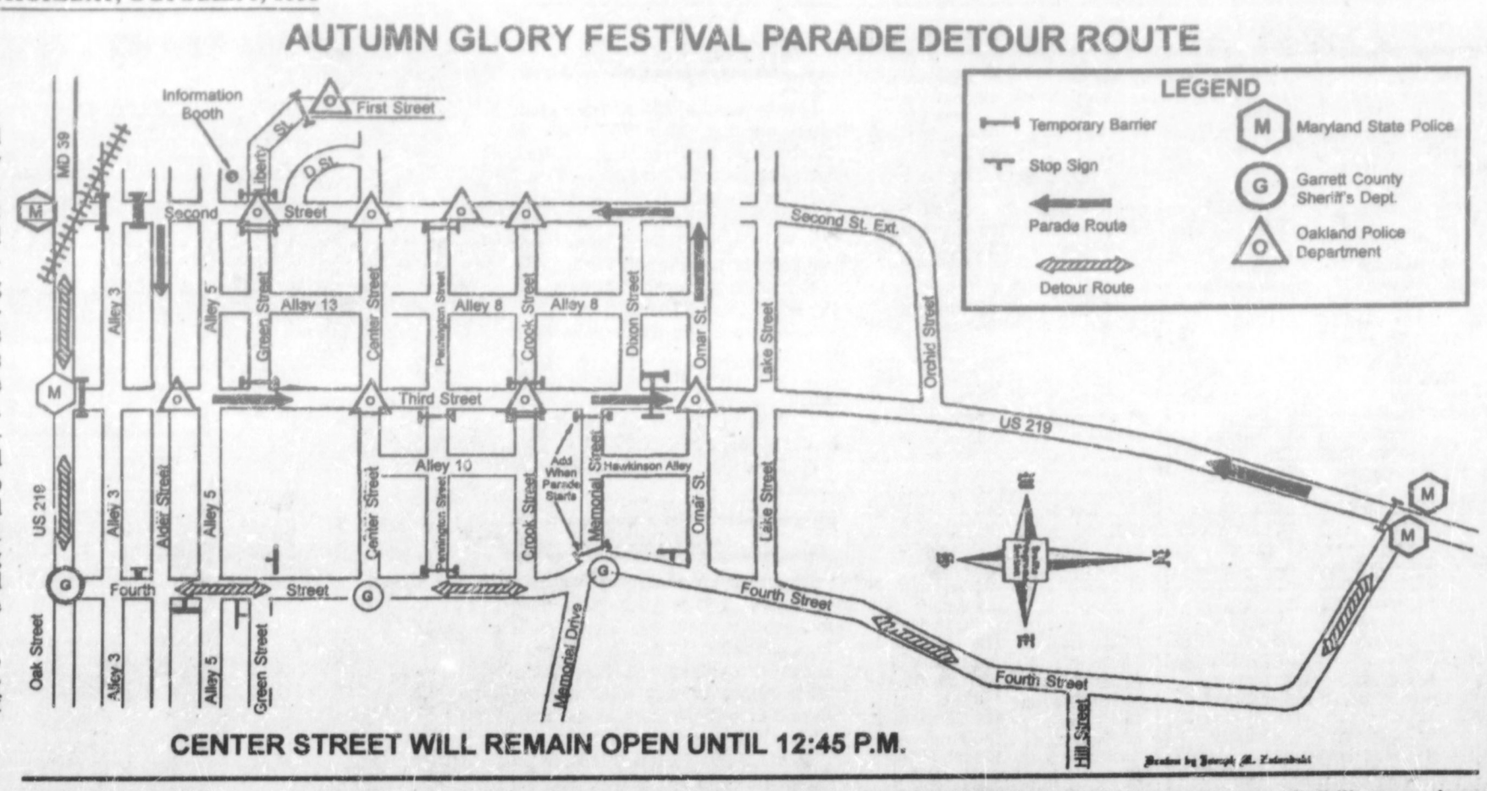
As has been customary with previous Autumn Glory festivals, some roads will be closed for the parade (see map); however, the festival committee requests local residents to note that at 7 a.m. on Saturday, October 10, Green Street will be closed for vendors to set up on the street and in the American Trust Bank drive-in parking lot.

At 11 a.m. that day, all southbound traffic on U.S. Route 219 will be routed through Oakland via Fourth Street and trucks will be routed by Oakland via Sand Flat Road. Beginning at 11 a.m., Route 219 will be open to permit holders only, and all traffic will be southbound only. No parking will be allowed along Fourth Street, and Memorial Drive will be closed for westbound traffic at Fourth Street. Through traffic on Memorial Drive will be detoured at Eighth Street. Memorial Drive will be open for parking and local traffic only between Eighth and Fourth streets.

Roads will be closed in several more locations at 11 a.m.: U.S. Route 219 between Fourth and Oak Streets, Memorial Drive between Third and Fourth Streets, and Pennington, Crook and Omar streets on both sides of Third Street.

Center Street will be open for cross-town traffic only until 12:45 p.m. Signs advising travelers of the detour will be provided by the Maryland State Highway Administration, and help to travelers at closed roads will be provided by personnel from the Maryland State Police, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, and the Oakland Police Department. Permits are being issued by the festival committee to local merchants and festival participants who need to go through the roadblock on Saturday, Oct. 10. The units of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade will set up within the closed area, and the parade will begin at 1 p.m. Handicapped parking will be available at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Lodge on First Street.

For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-334-1948.



First-Time Home Buyers May Get Low-Rate Loans

Potential first-time home buyers in Garrett County still have the opportunity to take advantage of Maryland's low interest rates to help keep mortgage payments affordable.

To create this situation, the state has partnered with local governments and private lenders to provide $75 million for 30-year mortgages at 6.1 percent interest under the Maryland Mortgage Program. The money is available in 21 of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City.

Montgomery and Prince George's counties have separate home-buying programs, but home buyers in those counties may be able to tap another $15 million available in statewide funds that are not issued on behalf of the local governments.

Each county has targeted the money in a way that best meets its housing needs, by tailoring the income requirements and purchase price limits to best reflect the local market. Many jurisdictions use state or Farm Home Administration limits. In Garrett County, income limits are $47,360 for one person households and $56,240 for two or more person households. The maximum acquisition cost in the county is $86,317.

Loans are limited to first-time home buyers, except in federally targeted areas. Most counties in western Maryland, southern Maryland and northeast Maryland have most of their allocations still available.

In western Maryland, Frederick County has about $1.96 million of its allocation remaining, Carroll County has $1.88 million available, Allegany County still has $1.14 million, and Garrett County still has nearly $600,000 available.

In southern Maryland, Charles County has $1.82 million, St. Mary's County still has $1.62 million, and Calvert County has $1.29 million still available. In the northeast corner, Cecil County still has $1.22 million.

All of the money available for Harford County has been reserved, and only a little over $3,000 remains in Washington County (not enough for one loan), but home buyers in those areas also may be able to tap the $15 million state-wide pool.

In other areas of the state, Baltimore County and Wicomico County also have used up all of their allocations and are eligible to use money in the state-wide pool.

Homes in some sections of Allegany, Frederick and Washington counties also may be eligible for purchase under the state's "Forty at Four" program, which has made $40 million available to certain home buyers at 4 percent interest.

For information about the Maryland Mortgage Program or "Forty at Four" program in any part of the state, lists of participating lenders, and county-by-county eligibility requirements, persons may call 410-514-7501, toll free at 800-638-7781 or Maryland Relay for the Deaf at 800-735-2258.

West Virginia University animal science professor Dr. Rich Russell will present the principals of rabbit nutrition and explain the fundamentals of how the rabbit's digestive tract works at Garrett Community College on Saturday, Nov. 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The lecture presentation, sponsored by the Advanced Technology Center Program at GCC, will include a "hands-on lab" in the workings of the rabbit's digestive system.

The registration deadline for this seminar is Friday, Nov. 6, at a cost of $10 per person, with all materials provided. For further information or to register, interested persons may call Patsy McKenzie at 301-387-3122. Mail-in registration should be directed to McKenzie at GCC, P.O. Box 151, McHenry, MD 21541. Checks should be made payable to Garrett Community College.

Autumn Passage

A criss-cross current of wind sweeps leaves from the path before me, swirls them behind me; erases evidence of my passing.

A piercing ray of sun stabs the
of flaming maple, each leaf
a tongue of fire that licks the cerulean sky and crackles against the bowl of blue.

Frost-rimed grass crunches underfoot, yields, springs back reluctantly, preferring to rest against the cold, quiescent earth; listening, listening for its Mother's voice.

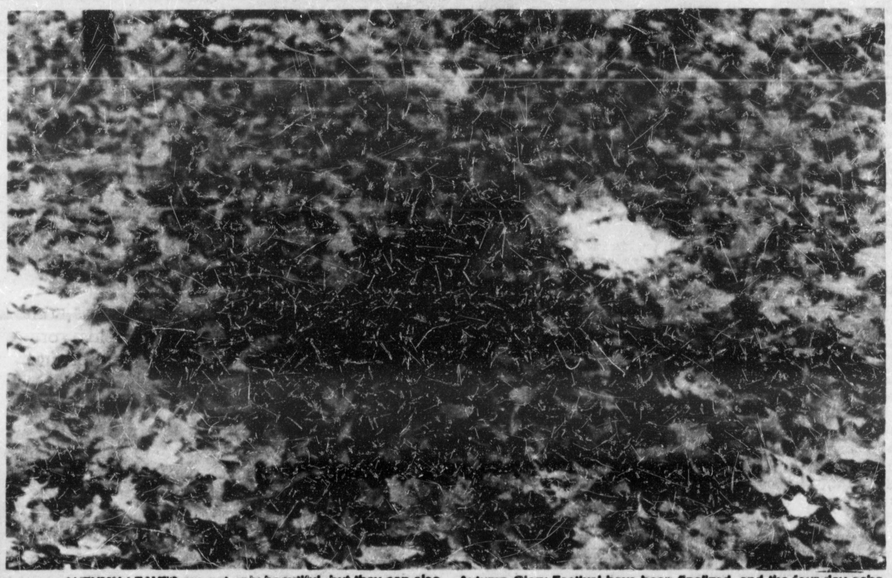
Celebrate The Glory October 8-11

Garrett County's 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival, celebrating the glory of the autumn foliage season is slated for October 8-11 in downtown Oakland and the surrounding area. This year's four-day festival begins Wednesday, Oct. 7, with the Kick--Off Reception and crowning of Autumn Glory Queen Andrea Bender at the McHenry House at Wisp Ski & Golf Resort at Deep Creek Lake.

Events begin Thursday, Oct. 8, with special hours at the Garrett County Historical Museum and the Firemen's Parade and Oktoberfest meal and celebration at the Oakland fire hall. Other events of the festival include the "Offi-



AUTUMN LEAVES are not only beautiful, but they can also be a lot of fun, espacially for little people like the one pictured above. The autumn leaf is a symbol for Garrett County's annual Autumn Glory Festival, a celebration that includes a wide variety of entertainment for people of all ages. Plans for the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival have been finalized, and the four-day schedule of events will get under way at the kickoff reception next Wednesday evening at the McHenry House, Wisp Resort. This publication contains the complete schedule of events and detailed information about the festival.

Rosey Grier To Lead Festival Parade

Rev. Rosey Grier, retired professional athlete, successful actor, singer, author, and an ordained minister, will be a guest in Garrett County during the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival, during which he will serve as the parade marshal of the AGF Grand Feature Parade on Saturday, Oct. 10, and as the guest speaker and celebrity host for the Day of Hope Golf Tournament at the Golf Club at Wisp on Friday, Oct. 9. The announcement was made this week by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the Day of Hope Golf Tournament Committee.

Grier leaped into national prominence as an All-Pro defensive tackle with the New York Giants of the National Football League in 1955. His notoriety as a pro star increased when he was traded to the Los Angeles Rams and became the leader of the "Fearsome Foursome," acclaimed by experts as the best defensive line in professional football history.

After retiring from professional football in 1968, Grier became one of the first professional athletes to make a successful transition to movie and television acting. He has since starred in 10 movies and has guest starred in over 70 television roles. He has toured with Bob Hope and has been a guest performer on several television specials.

An outstanding singer, Grier has performed at Carnegie Hall and other prestigious concert halls and cabarets throughout the country. His album Committed was released nationally by Word Records. Grier has several books to his credit, including his autobiography, Rosey, The Gentle Giant, as well as All American Heroes and Shooting Star.

Grier is also etched in the memory of America because of his historic role in subduing and disarming Sirhan Sirhan seconds after the assassination of Robert Kennedy. Today as an ordained minister he is committed to bettering the conditions of the inner cities of the country. Over the past decade he has developed a series of prototypical educational and spiritual programs, which have trained and benefitted young people in the inner cities.

Grier was elected to the Foundations of the Milken Family's and CAP CURE's board of directors in 1993. The Foundations of the Milken Family's focus is on education, and community and human development. CAP CURE's goal is to find a cure for prostate cancer, a common goal of the Day of Hope Golf Tournament, which attracted Grier to Garrett County.

"Rosey Grier represents what is good about America," stated a Chamber of Commerce spokesperson. "He is one of 11 children of a Geor-

Andrea Bender Named Festival Queen

Miss Andrea Leigh Bender, the daughter of Dave and Lisa Bender, Mtn. Lake Park, will reign as queen of Garrett County's 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival, which will be held October 8-11 in downtown Oakland and the surrounding area. She will be crowned at the Kick-Off Reception on Wednesday, Oct. 7, at the McHenry House at Wisp.

Andrea, a senior at Southern Garrett County High School, serves as Student Council president and National Honor Society president. She is enrolled in Advanced Placement courses at school and has been nominated as a Maryland Distinguished Scholar. She was chosen as the Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership winner as a sophomore and has been an active member of Student Council, having served as both an executive board member and class representative.

Athletically, she has been a recipient of the Minds in Motion award for excelling in both academics and athletics.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Balsamic vinegar adds a sophisticated touch to fruit desserts. Mix 3 Tbs. balsamic vinegar with ¼ cup brown sugar and ½ to 1 tsp. coarse-ground black pepper. Stir in strawberries, cut-up apple and bananas and let the mixture stand 15 minutes as flavors develop.

Portobello mushrooms may sound Italian, but they really come from Pennsylvania. They're just brown button mushrooms allowed to grow a few extra days.

Place thin slices of cheddar cheese, smoked ham, red onion and tomato on good country-style bread; add more cheese, then the top piece of bread. Spread the outsides of the sandwich with butter seasoned with mustard and herbs. Cook in a nonstick skillet.

What is that special, subtle flavor? Maybe the cook pureed a teaspoon of capers in the vinaigrette. The versatile berry is great with fish and chicken, and in pasta sauce with black olives.

Crystal Hinnant, Dana Braskey Selected Festival Princesses

CRYSTAL HINNANT

DANA BRASKEY

Crystal Hinnant and Dana Braskey have been selected princesses for the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival slated for October 8-11, in downtown Oakland, Maryland, and the surrounding area. Andrea Bender of Mtn. Lake Park will reign as queen (see separate story).

Crystal Hinnant, daughter of Charles and Sally Hinnant of Oakland, is a senior at Southern Garrett County High School. She is an honor roll student and has received several prestigious awards, which include Who's Who Among American High School Students and Minds in Motion. Crystal has been involved in many extra curricular activities, including serving as president of the 1999 senior class, a member of the graduation committee, captain of the Varsity Cheerleading Squad, and a member of the Varsity Track Team. She has also participated in the Oakland Ecumenical Youth Ministries program and the Garrett Swim Team. Crystal's interests include snow skiing, water skiing, and swimming. She has been a volunteer for the Maryland Special Winter Olympics and the Blind Skier Program at Wisp, and she has been a volunteer for the Needy Families at Christmas Program in Garrett County. She attends St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland and works as a swim instructor at the YMCA in the summer. She plans to attend Western Maryland

Panelcraft Building Systems

The time to be concerned about how to keep your heating fuel tank full is when you build!

Use Panelcraft's Structural Insulated Panels (SIPs)

SIPs use Polystyrene Insulation which results in Super Energy Efficiency! One example was a 6,500 sq. ft. building being heated with a little Fisher wood stove in the basement with no ducts.

SIP structures go up faster and are stronger than conventional!

American Trust Bank Will Sponsor Banjo, Fiddle Events

American Trust Bank will be sponsoring the Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle Championships as part of the 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival. Some of the best banjo and fiddle players in the area will compete on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 9 and 10. The Maryland State Banjo Championship will be held Friday, Oct. 9, and the Fiddle Championship Saturday, Oct. 10, at the Southern High School gymnasium.

These championships will feature competitions between top banjo and fiddle musicians from five states. Each contest will begin at 7 p.m. "American Trust's sponsorship of these championships represents its second year of commitment to help defray the costs of producing these exciting events," stated festival chairman Diane Wolfe of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. American Trust has also supported the Autumn Glory Festival by purchasing Golden Ambassadorships for many years."

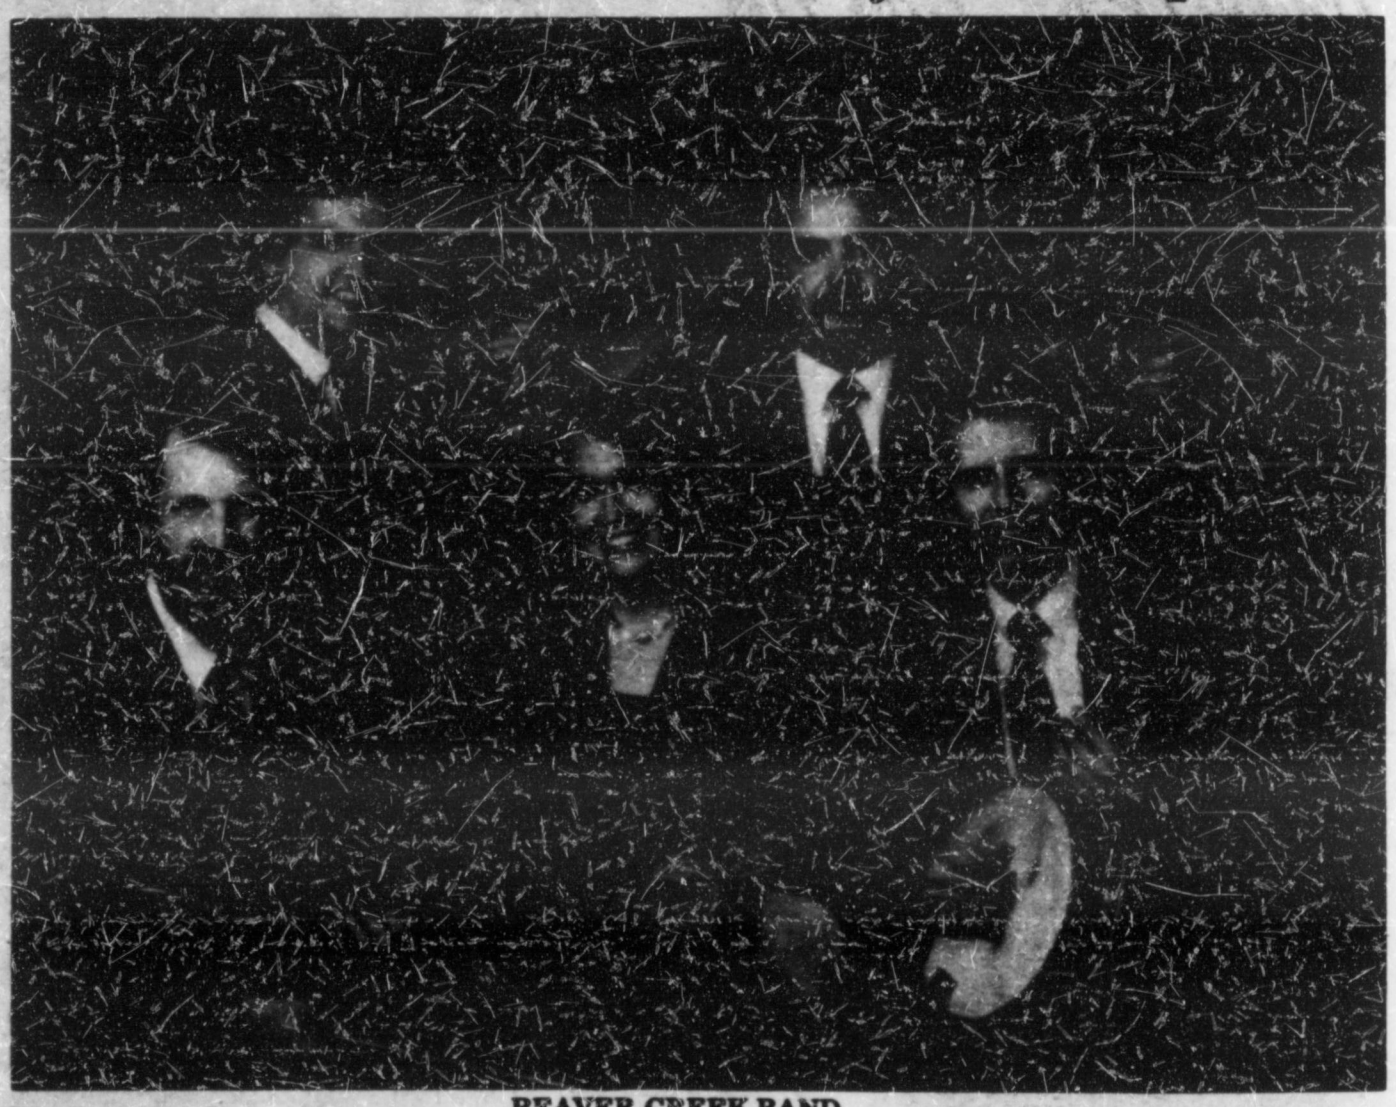
Beaver Creek Band To Perform At Banjo Championships

The official Maryland State Banjo Championship and concerts by the Beaver Creek Band will be held Friday, Oct. 9, in the Southern High School gymnasium, just outside Oakland. Entertainment will begin at 7 p.m. with a concert and will be followed by the Banjo Championship at 8 p.m. and another concert immediately after the contest. The championship features competitions between top banjo players from a five-state area, and trophies and prize money will be awarded to the top four contestants, with a special award for the best "old-time" banjo player and special awards for youth contestants.

The Beaver Creek Band started entertaining audiences in 1980 with a style planted firmly in traditional bluegrass, but with a strong sense of establishing its own sound. The group has developed a reputation as the premier bluegrass band in Western Pennsylvania, with a repertoire that covers bluegrass, gospel, original songs, country ballads, and a large variety of dance tunes. The band includes Mary Kissel and Randy Ord on guitar, lead and harmony vocals; Richard Ord on bass and harmony vocals; Don Shean on banjo, fiddle, guitar, lead and harmony vocals; and Scott Pearson on mandolin, fiddle, and guitar. The band has several recordings, including its most recent project "Having a Wonderful Time," and performs at numerous festivals and events primarily in the eastern United States.



BEAVER CREEK BAND

The Banjo Championship is sponsored by American Trust Bank. Refreshments will be available and doors open at 6:15 p.m. Admission is $6 for adults and $3 for BAILING OUT A LITTLE EARLY is this young would-be aviator at the annual Greater Gortner Airport Fly-In and Open House. This popular event will begin at noon on Sunday, Oct. 11, at the Greater Gortner Airport, located along Blue Ribbon Road off Rt. 219 South. There will be plenty of sights and events for youngsters and the young at hear, including skydiving demonstrations, an airplane candy drop, airplane rides, aircraft and helicopter displays, the Shriner clowns, and more. This is a great family outing, and admission is free.

The Best Insurance Policies Have Some Assembly Required.

It's not often that an insurance company lets you put together your own policy.

But that's exactly what you get with the USP Portfolio from CNA, one of the major carriers we represent. It lets you choose the valuables you want to protect - such as your home and its contents, auto, jewelry, boat, RV or computer - with the convenience of one policy, one expiration date and one premium.

And it's even available to renters and condominium owners. To learn more, just call.

Arts, Crafts, Antiques To Be Available During Fest

Garrett County's 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival, which will be held October 8-11 in downtown Oakland and the surrounding area, will again feature a variety of arts, crafts, and antiques.

The festival will feature the 25th annual Civic Club Antique Show, the Autumn Glory Contemporary Craft Show, and the Heritage Craft Fest, with unique artwork, antiques and craft items on display and for sale.

The Antique Show and Sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Oct. 9 and 10, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 11, at the National Guard Armory, 8th and High streets, Oakland. This show features over 30 dealers displaying antiques, and homemade food will be available. The show is sponsored by the Civic Club of Oakland. Parking is free and admission is $2 per person.

The Autumn Glory Craft Show will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Oct.

BEAUTY LIES OUTDOORS AND INDOORS during the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival, as colorful leaves will adorn the trees and the works of talented local artisans may be viewed at the Mt. Arta Pavilion Cooperative Autumn Glory Show & Sale. The event will encompass two locales from Thursday, Oct. 8, through Sunday, Oct. 11, at the Mt. Arta Pavilion, located along Liberty Street in Oakland (in the former Pritts Garage), and in the former Flinn's Family Store at the corner of Second and Green streets. Popular artist Ken Bauer is pictured above, apparently discussing his work with an admirer. The display sponsored by the Greater Oakland Business Association and funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council. Other works of art can be seen at the annual Heritage Craft Fest at Broad Ford Elementary School and the Autumn Glory Craft Show at Dennett Road Elementary School, both of which will be open on Saturday and Sunday. See schedule of events for more information.

MOLLY PITCHER couldn't have done it any better than Oakland Volunteer Fire Department chief Tom Swiger at last year's Oktoberfest, one of the major events of the Autumn Glory Festival. The 21st annual Oktoberfest will be held Thursday, Oct. 8, with music and dancing getting underway immediately following the 7 p.m. OVFD Fireman's Parade. Revelers may want to come to the fire hall early, though, to enjoy a menu of German-style food and beverages and to get a good seat for Oakland's biggest party of the year. (Chief Swiger's hat was obviously placed on his head by the same person stacking the pitchers!)

HISTORY IS STITCHED FROM MANY THREADS, figuratively and literally, and in the exquisite cross-stitch embroidery of Marilyn McCain and the fine hand-quilting of Karin Rodeheaver, intersecting here in the 19th annual Heritage Craft Fest quilt. This fine needlepoint depiction of Oakland's historic B&O railroad station will be raffled off to benefit the Garrett County Arts Council on Sunday, Oct. 11, at 3:30 p.m. at Broad Ford Elementary School. The Heritage Craft Fest, featuring the works of dozens of artisans and artists, is slated for Saturday, Oct. 10, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Sunday, Oct. 11, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at both Broad Ford Elementary and Southern Middle School. Quilt raffle tickets will be available during the festival at $1 each, and the lucky winner need not be present at the time of the drawing. Prior to the Heritage Craft Fest, the quilt will be on display at the Not Just Quilts Shop, 210 East Alder St., Oakland, where raffle tickets are also available.

Variety Of Events Set For Friday

As part of the 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival, a variety of "Celebrate the Glory" activities are scheduled for Friday, Oct. 9, at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion in the Oakland town parking lot. Festivities scheduled throughout the day include:

9 a.m.-5 p.m. — Mountain Fresh Producers' Association Farmers' Market, featuring arts and crafts, baked goods, flowers, maple syrup, painted pumpkins, coffee, and hot chocolate.

Noon-1:30 p.m. — Country music by Jim Hollis and the Boys.

Noon-5 p.m. — Oakland FFA Petting Zoo.

1-3 p.m. — Balloons and entertainment by the Ali Ghan Shrine Clowns.

3 p.m. — Lakeside Assembly of God Church music and drama performances.

3:45 p.m. — Gospel music by One Accord.

Spectators should plan to bring a lawn chair for these performances. For more information, persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone 301-334-1948; www.garrettchamber.com, E-mail info@garrettchamber.com.

"READY; AIM; EAT!" - Hovering over (and some on) their prey, participants prepare for battle in the No-Hands Sundae Eating Contest at the Lakeside Creamery on Garrett Highway at Deep Creek Lake. The contest to benefit Big Brothers/Big Sisters is scheduled, appropriately enough, for Sunday, Oct. 11, beginning at 2 p.m. Contestants in different age groups will attack a three-scoop sundae with toppings and whipped cream. Prizes will be awarded, not the least of which will be the dreaded "brain freeze."

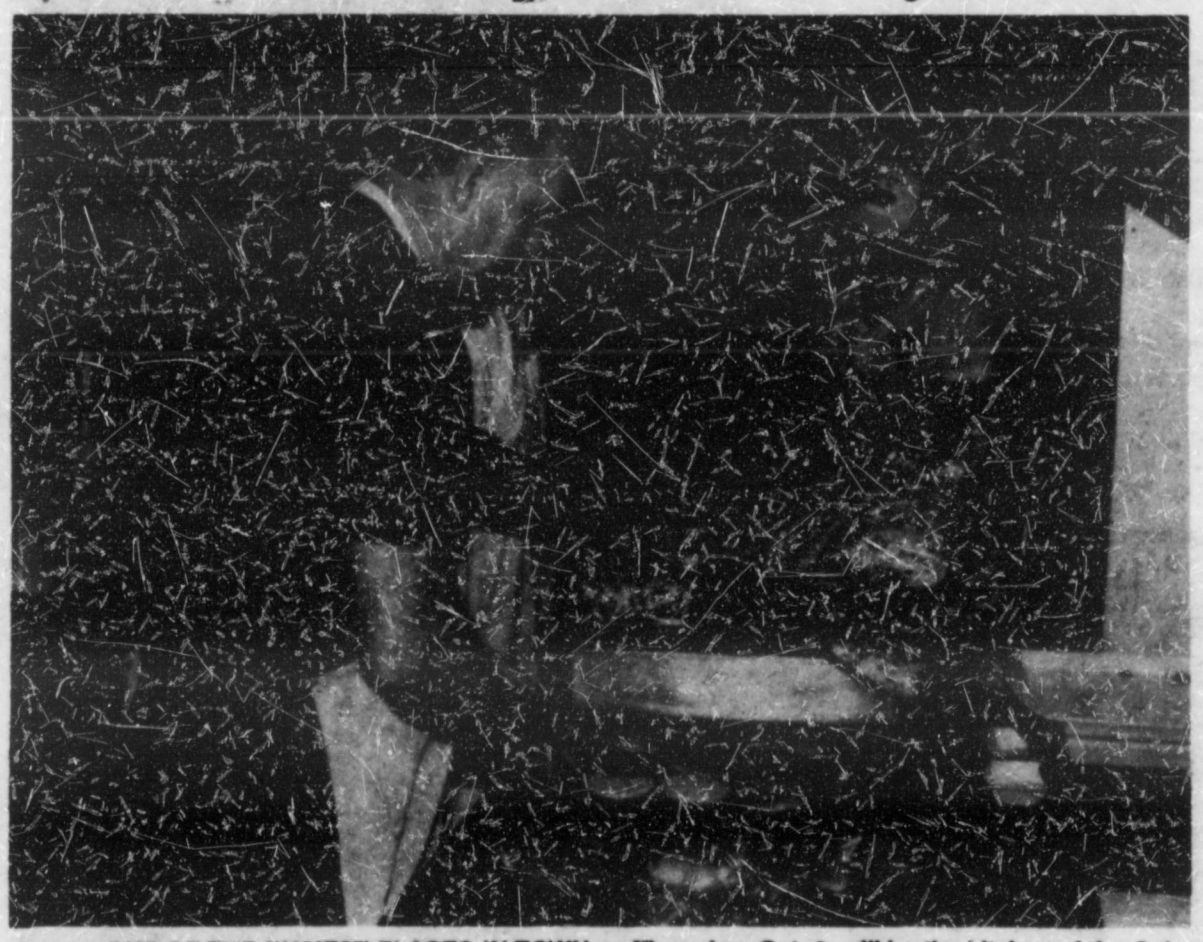
Food, Parade, Oktoberfest, Bingo, Dance To Be Sponsored By OVFD



ONE OF THE BUSIEST PLACES IN TOWN on Thursday, Oct. 8, will be the kitchen of the Oakland fire hall, where members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will be preparing hundreds of beef and pork sandwiches, knockwurst, and a variety of other food items that will be sold prior to their annual AGF Firemen's Parade and following the parade during the OVFD's 21st annual Oktoberfest celebration, which will be held in the engine room of the fire hall. Thousands of persons enjoy the Oktoberfest every year, which features the 24-piece OVFD Oktoberfest Band, conducted by Manning Smith. OVFD members pictured above, from left, are former chief Buzz Updyke, Kevin Savage, and Clay Winters.

Garrett County's 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival will celebrate the glory of the fall foliage season from Thursday, Oct. 8, through Sunday, Oct. 11. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department will open the festival with a variety of events on Thursday evening in downtown Oakland.

The first event on the Autumn Glory agenda will be the ever-popular Oktoberfest meal held at the Oakland fire hall on Third Street from 4 to 7 p.m. Oakland firefighters will bring "a little of old Germany" to Garrett County with in its who's wholike publication. Her accomplishments at Virginia Tech include receiving the Outstanding Student Leadership Award and being a student representative to the University Council; the Maryland Governor's Special Citation, a personal award presented at high school graduation for founding L.I.F.E. Program, and other honors. Heather has been employed as a university PR assistant, an AT&T customer service operator, assistant manager for Telecom firm, and as an anchor/reporter for Tech Tonight, LSU Review, and VT News. She has served internships with CNN, CBN, WVEC-13 (ABC), WSLS-10 (NBC) and WPAR-FM Radio.

Miss Davis's talent is classical piano, and her platform issue is employing peer mentorship to fight substance abuse in elementary and secondary schoolage children through a six-year program called L.I.F.E., which she founded as a senior in high school. Her career ambition is to be a member of a TV news broadcast team, teach mass communication at the university level, and teach classical piano to children. She is the daughter of John and Sharon Davis of Severna

German-style food and drink.

The Firemen's Parade, which will begin at 7 p.m. that same evening, will feature bands, drill teams, fire equipment, antique fire apparatus, and rescue apparatus traveling over 200 miles from throughout the tri-state area. Participating departments are judged in several categories. Firemen from Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and the surrounding areas are invited to join the parade. Prior to the parade, apparatus judging will be held at the Farmer's Market parking lot on Route 219 north of Oakland from 5:30 p.m. until parade time, when the participants will parade south on Route 219 through downtown Oakland.

Wrapping up the evening will be the Oktoberfest Celebration. This popular event takes place each year at the Oakland fire hall immediately following the parade. The celebration includes German-style food, drink, a live "oompah" band, and presentation of the Fireman of the Year Award by the Garrett County Firemen's Association. There is no admission charge.

On Friday, Oct. 9, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Elks Lodge on Elk Street in Oakland, the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and the Oakland Elks will host "Big Bucks" Bingo. Tickets are $30, include all regular games, and are available from any fire department or Elks member. Everyone must be 18 or over, and refreshments and food will be available. For tickets and information, persons may call 301-334-1119 or 301-334-3535.

The OVFD will also hold an "oldies' dance" on Saturday, Oct. 10, at the fire hall, beginning at 8 p.m. Admittance is restricted to persons age 21 and older. Dan Daniels will be the DJ.

First United Bank Will Again Sponsor Grand Feature Parade

FIRST UNITED SPONSORS PARADE - For many years First United Bank & Trust has been the sponsor of the Grand Feature Parade of the Autumn Glory Festival, and this year is no exception. Accepting a check from Steve Lantz, senior vice president and senior lending officer, in the above photo is festival chairman Diane Wolf.

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has announced that First United Bank & Trust, Oakland, with five community offices located in Garrett County as well as 15 additional offices throughout Maryland and West Virginia, will sponsor the 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade. The Autumn Glory Festival will be held Oct. 8-11, in downtown Oakland, and throughout the county, with the Grand Feature Parade beginning at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 10. This parade is the largest and most well-attended event of the four-day festival, which boasts an attendance of tens of thousands.

First United employees will staff a festival information booth at the intersection of Second and Liberty Streets from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday before the parade.

"First United Bank & Trust's sponsorship of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade represents its ninth year of commitment to defray the tremendous costs of producing this spectacular event in Garrett County," said Diane Wolfe, executive director of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. "First United has also supported the Autumn Glory Festival by purchasing Golden Ambassadorships since the program's beginning."

For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550; telephone 301-334-1948, E-mail info@garrettchamber.com.

NORDIC LOG HOMES & CABINS

Our NORTHERN WHITE CEDAR log homes reflect the needs of our customers, people who appreciate beauty as well as function. Unlike pine, our logs are naturally insect repellent and rot resistant thus no chemicals or insecticides are added so none can leach out. Nordic Log Homes & Cabins also offers insulated log homes at no extra charge. Come visit our model and you'll agree, NORTHERN WHITE CEDAR does it naturally.

Dear Kurt,

As my home is now completed, it is with pleasure that I recommend Nordic Log Homes as a log home supplier, and you as general contractor. I am very happy with my dream home, which would not have been possible without your "team" working on my behalf.

My log home is made of excellent quality materials—from the Northern white cedar logs to the wonderful windows to the special stair railings and spindles—every item that came through Nordic Log Homes has exceeded my expectations. In addition to the quality of the materials, I have been impressed by the low-to-moderate cost for my package—an important consideration for someone pursuing this dream on a single income.

As for you, I have nothing but the highest regard and praise. Even my friends, who have watched my progress closely, have learned to say "Thank goodness for Kurt!" You have been responsive when I needed advice, extremely fair in all your dealings with the suppliers, and have become someone I trust. Your support was critical during the months my home was under construction. I have learned a lot during the process of building my home, and I feel qualified to say that you know your business, and do your job very well.

I am very proud of my home, and welcome a visit from anyone who would like to see an example of a Nordic Log Home.

Sincerely,
Lamont V. Monk

LOTS OF FIDDLING AROUND will take place in the Southern High School gymnasium the evening of Saturday, Oct. 10, where the annual Maryland State Fiddle Championships will be held as one of the events of the 31st Autumn Glory Festival. The event will feature top fiddlers from many states and the fun will get under way at 7 p.m. See story for details.

Fest To Again Host State Fiddle Contest

The "Official" Maryland State Fiddle Championships will be held Saturday, Oct. 10, featuring a full evening of foot-stomping music at the Southern Garrett County Senior High School gymnasium during Garrett County's 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival.

This contest features competitions among top fiddle players from numerous states, and contestants will be judged in three amateur categories — age 60 and over, 13-59, and youth 12 and under. First-, second-, and third-place winners in the adult categories will be awarded prize money and trophies, and prize money and medals will be awarded in the youth category. The fiddle contest will also fea-ture a "professional/championship" category, with prize money awarded to first- and second-place winners.

The evening begins at 7 p.m. and contestants should

by Ali Evans

The night air closes with quiet chill.
Fall winds flicker lightly through the hills.
When the light dawns in crisp morning air,
There's a unique scene that nature shares.
It glimmers and sparkles from the rays of light,
Making a brilliant, clear, and most majestic sight.
The panorama shines like a mountain of gold,
As the shades of red, orange, and yellow unfold.
As you stand before this grandeur and gaze,
At the array of color and glittering maze,
You know the bitterness of winter's story
Begins with the majesty of autumn's glory....

FESTIVAL ROYALTY - Every festival needs a queen and a court, and the annual Autumn Glory Festival is no exception. This photo was taken during last year's Grand Feature Parade, as the 30th annual Autumn Glory Queen Chelsea Frickey and princesses Michelle Tetar, left, and Rachel Leverenz waved to thousands of spectators along the streets of Oakland. Selected queen this year was Andrea Bender, and the princesses for the 31st festival will be Crystal Hinnant and Dana Braskey (see story about all three local young women in this publication).

"HI, I'M SUPER DAVE, JUST DROPPING IN" - There's more than one way to make an entrance at the 14th annual Greater Gortner Airport Fly-In/Open House, slated for Sunday, Oct. 11, beginning at noon; however, as there is no admission charge, most people will be driving to the event. The airport is located five miles south of Oakland off Blue Ribbon Road, and the day's program will feature skydiving, aircraft and helicopter displays, including Maryland State Police Helicopter Trooper 5 and WVU's Healthnet Medevac, airplane rides, and airplane candy drop for the kids, Shriner clowns, antique engines, concessions, and other family entertainment.

Fly In/Open House Slated At Greater Gortner Airport

The Gortner Pilots Association will host its annual Fly-In/Open House at the Greater Gortner Airport off Blue Ribbon Road south of Oakland on Sunday, Oct. 11, as part of Garrett County's 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival.

This exciting event will begin at noon and feature skydiving, an airplane candy drop, airplane rides all day, aircraft and helicopter displays (including Maryland Trooper 5 and WVU Healthnet Medevac), Shriner clowns and exhibits, including antique engines, concessions, and other family entertainment. Admission is free.

A special attraction of this year's fly-in will be an appearance by Miss Maryland, Heather Davis of Severna Park. Miss Davis's visit is being sponsored during the festival by Gregg's Pharmacy, Oakland.

For more information on the fly-in, persons may call Jane Simms at 301-334-3541. For more information or a free festival brochure, persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550, telephone 301 3341948; www.garrettchamber.com, or E-mail info@garrettchamber.com.

Tale Tellers Invited To Tell Tales

Fishermen and fisherwomen, coal miners, farmers, business people, sports lovers, jokesters, and storytellers are invited to participate as tellers or listeners in the annual Tall Tale Story Festival, slated for the morning of Oct. 10 at St. Paul's Fellowship Hall, 316 Oak Street, Oakland. Adults will tell their tales at 10:30 a.m., but persons are urged to come a little early to get a good seat.

Each story need only be between 2 to 10 minutes long, according to Dr. Gail Herman, professional storyteller and organizer of the festival, who urges people to volunteer to tell a story or nominate a fellow co-worker, relative, or friend who enjoys telling stories. Herman said that the event is all for charity and the preservation of an old-time Appalachian art form. Out-of-town storytellers are also welcome to participate. Persons should call 301-387-9199 and leave name and phone number. Registration and/or admission for adults is $4.

Prizes by local businesses and organizations are awarded to tellers at the festival. Among them is a $50 U.S. Savings Bond donated by the American Association of University Women, Garrett Branch, a flower basket donated by Jan Florist, and a mint coin set donated by the First United Bank and Trust. Other prizes will be announced later.

Students from elementary and middle schools are also welcome to tell stories from 9 to 10:15 a.m. They should also call 301-387-9199 to register to tell a story from a book or an original tale.

Help on learning one's story is also available by telephone, as Dr. Herman will be willing to help a registered student from a Garrett County school if a time can be arranged during or after school. "Storytelling helps students to become comfortable in front of audiences and

STANDING TALL AMONG THE TALL TALE-TELLERS at the Autumn Glory Tall Tale Story Festival will be William "Doc" Savage, shown above making a point with all five digits. The stories begin at St. Paul's United Methodist Church on Saturday, Oct. 10, with a 9 a.m. children's contest, followed by a 10:30 a.m. adult contest. Admission will be $4 for adults, and $3 for children under 12. Rumours that "Doc" Savage, a local dentist, does not need to use laughing gas with patients in his dentist's office have not yet been verified.

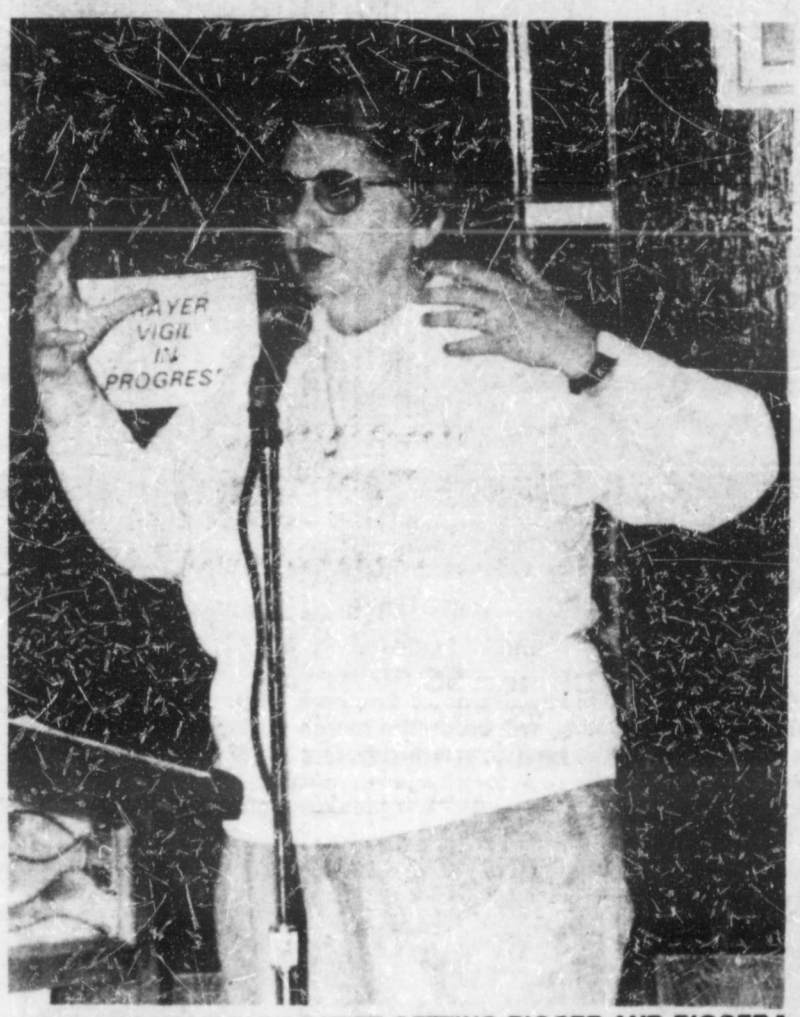
Garrett County Home To Many Storytellers



"THAT FISH JUST KEPT GETTING BIGGER AND BIGGER," area storyteller Virginia Grove seems to be telling her audience. Grove will be among the storytellers at the Tall Tale Story Festival at Oakland's St. Paul's United Methodist Church. (The sign over her right shoulder seems to compliment her work in a rather odd way.)

Garrett County in Western Maryland is one area where an Appalachian oral tradition thrives. Stories have been told and retold for many years about real and not-so-real characters.

The Tall Tale Story Festival continues this tradition each year during the Autumn Glory Festival in Oakland, at the Fellowship Hall of the St. Paul's United Methodist Church, 316 Oak Street on the corner of Fourth Street.

Some of the folk who carry on this tradition include Paul Shogren, who has told what happened when Paul Bunyan made a few stops in Garrett County. William "Doc" Savage, a local and for-real dentist, has a whole kit of characters and a passel of places he says are real. He has been a favorite of the festival for years, with people traveling up to six hours just to hear him tell an old favorite story again. Gary Yoder from the Department of Natural Resources has been another favorite. Yoder tells about "famous" county folk; once his story was about a local dentist named "Doc" Savage!

Katie Ross, a Spanish teacher from Allegany County has told about some "local" mountain farmers with strong accents, as well as characters from the folktale traditions of other cultures. Molly Copes from Falls Church, Va., often told about her own "relatives" exploits. Gail N. Herman, the coordinator of the Tall Tale Story Festival, likes to tell "true" stories about her fisherman husband, who also happens to be the local community college president.

They are busy working on their real and not-so-real stories for October 10th at 10:30 a.m. Other tellers include Matt Novak a teacher of history from Southern High School, Larry Cosner from the Historical Society, Dick Good, a history folklorist, Bill Kolbe, English teacher from Northern High School, Charles McIntyre, Tom DeMay from Granite, Howard Payne from Frederick, and Steve Schlosnagle of Accident, among many others.

These local tellers are not alone in their love of stories

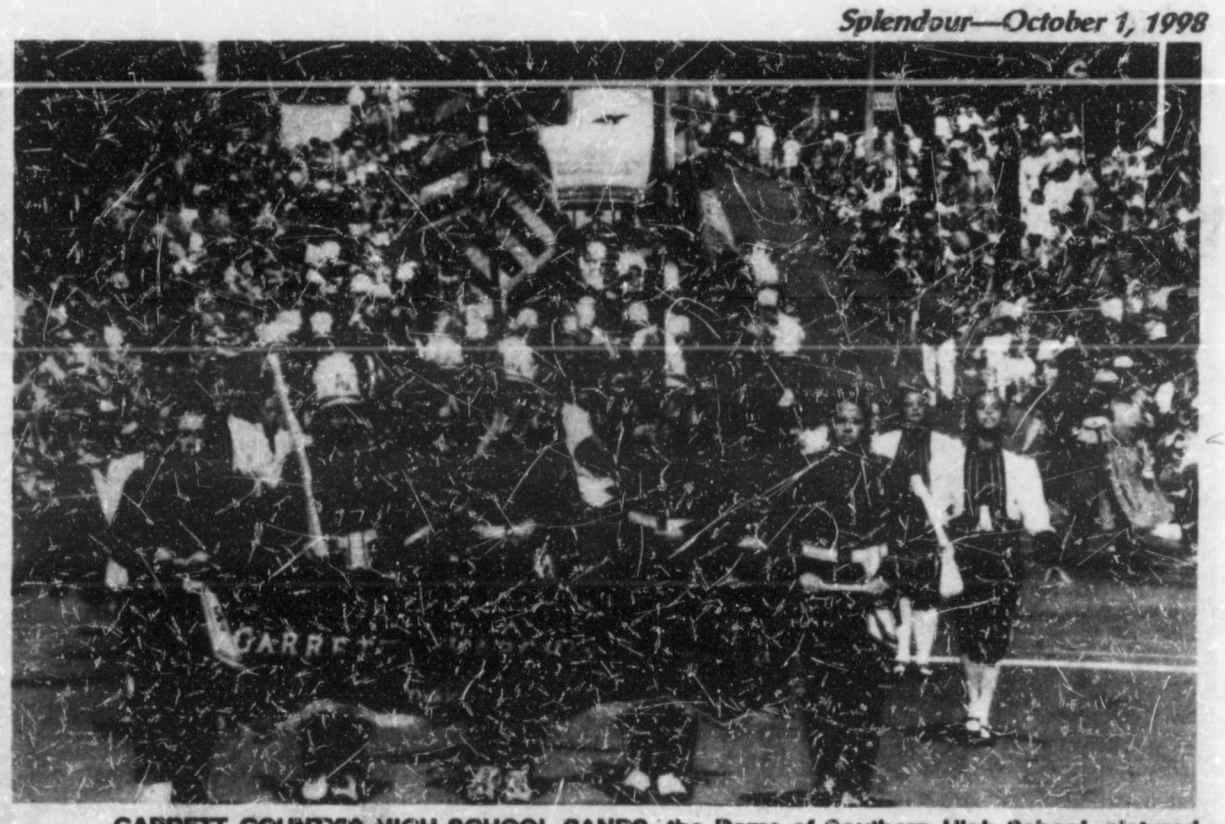
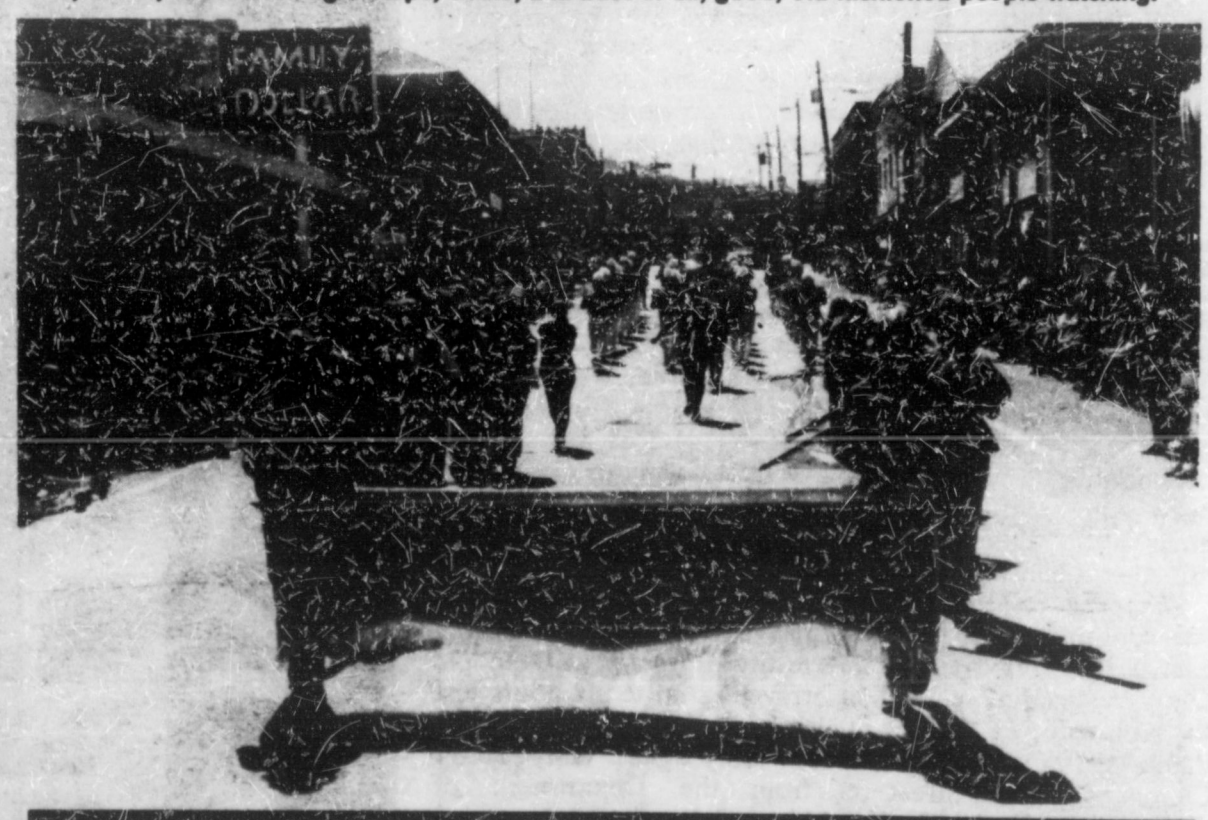
Celebrate the Glory!



GARRETT COUNTY'S HIGH SCHOOL BANDS, the Rams of Southern High School, pictured above, and the Huskies of Northern High school, below, will be on the march during the 31st annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade, which steps off at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 10. Downtown Oakland will reverberate with the sounds bass drums, and excitement for all ages in the form of bands, marching units, clown, drum and bugle corps, floats, and best of all, good, old-fashioned people-watching.



Enjoy Autumn Glory!

Road Closings, Detours, Noted For Grand Feature Parade

The Autumn Glory Festival Committee reports that because of potential traffic and safety hazards, the Maryland State Highway Administration has again recommended policy for the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade, slated for Saturday, Oct. 10.

As has been customary with previous Autumn Glory festivals, some roads will be closed for the parade (see map); however, the festival committee requests local residents to note that at 7 a.m. on Saturday, October 10, Green Street will be closed for vendors to set up on the street and in the American Trust Bank drive-in parking lot.

At 11 a.m. that day, all southbound traffic on U.S. Route 219 will be routed through Oakland via Fourth Street and trucks will be routed by Oakland via Sand Flat Road. Beginning at 11 a.m., Route 219 will be open to permit holders only, and all traffic will be southbound only. No parking will be allowed along Fourth Street, and Memorial Drive will be closed for westbound traffic at Fourth Street. Through traffic on Memorial Drive will be detoured at Eighth Street. Memorial Drive will be open for parking and local traffic only between Eighth and Fourth streets.

Roads will be closed in several more locations at 11 a.m.: U.S. Route 219 between Fourth and Oak Streets, tal organ, with free admission; and the Official Maryland State Banjo Championship, including bluegrass concerts by the Beaver Creek Band. Admission to the Banjo Championship is $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12.

Bagpipe concerts will be performed by the Garrett Community College Pipes & Drums on Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in front of the Grand Feature Parade reviewing stand along Second Street in Oakland and at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, Oct. 11, at St. John's Episcopal Church along Route 135 in Deer Park, and admission is free to both concerts. Also on Saturday, the Pleasant View Baptist Church of Oakland will host a gospel concert from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in front of the Grand Feature Parade reviewing stand. The Back to Country Line Dancers will perform at 3:30 p.m. or immediately following the parade in front of I.C. Electronics along Liberty Street in Oakland, with free admission to these events.

Saturday evening will feature the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands at 6 p.m. at Southern High School's athletic field. Admission is $6 for adults, $3 for students, and free for ages 5 and under. The Official Maryland State Fiddle Championship will begin at 7 p.m. at the Southern High School gym. Fiddle Contest admission is $6 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

Sunday's events include a Handbell Concert beginning at 10 a.m. at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland; the Mt. Top Promenaders Square and Round Dance Demonstration from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Southern Middle School cafeteria outside Oakland; and the End of Season Garrett Lakes Arts Festival Event, featuring bluegrass and country music by the U.S. Navy Band Country Current at 3 p.m. on the Wisp Resort Hotel lawn, with free admission to these events.

The Official Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle Championships are sponsored by American Trust Bank. For more information, persons may contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

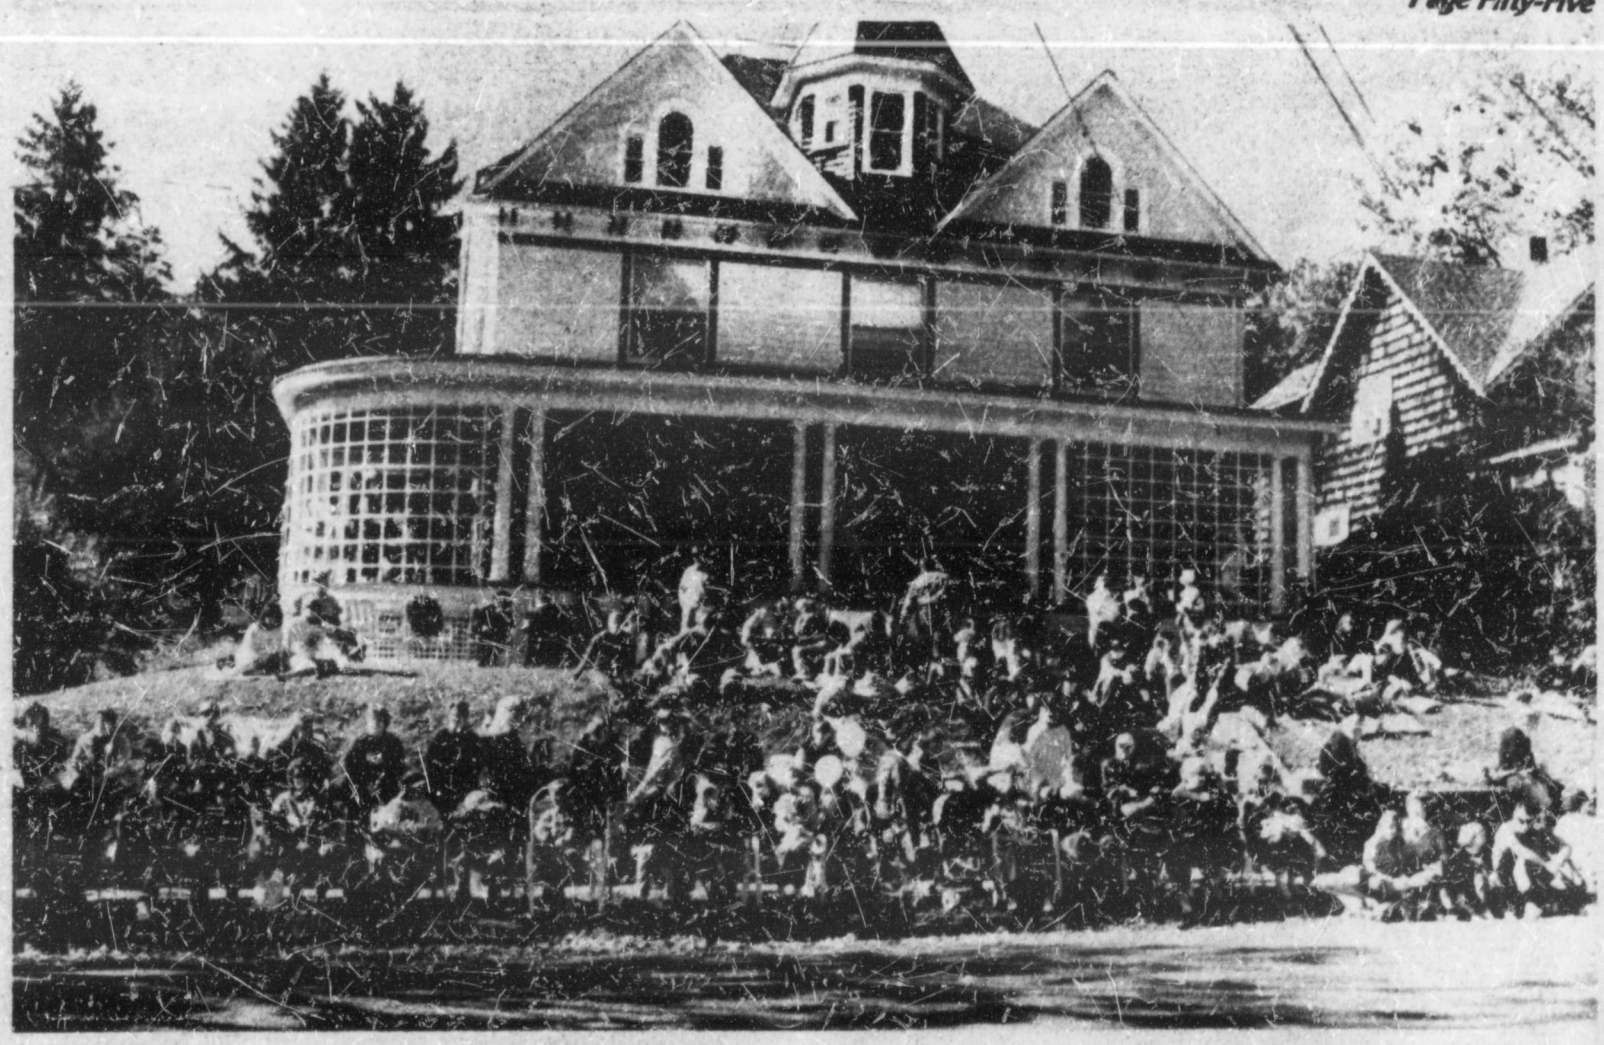
Celebrate the Glory!



"WE LOVE A PARADE!" The streets of Oakland will be lined with thousands of spectators for the Grand Feature Parade of the 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival, which is slated to get under way at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 10. The parade route includes Oakland's historic district on north Second Street, where many beautiful houses built in the late 1800s and early 1900s are situated. The big front porches of many such homes provide the perfect spot for parade parties and the family gatherings that often take place the weekend of the festival. The Grand Feature Parade features many of the region's most outstanding high school bands, a variety of both professional and amateur floats, various other marching units, and a number of dignitaries. The grand marshal for the parade this year will be internationally known athlete, actor, author, singer, and minister (and a master of needlepoint!), Rosey Grier. Persons are advised to arrive in town early the day of the parade, since road closings and detours will go into effect late that morning. (See map and article in this tabloid for specific information.)

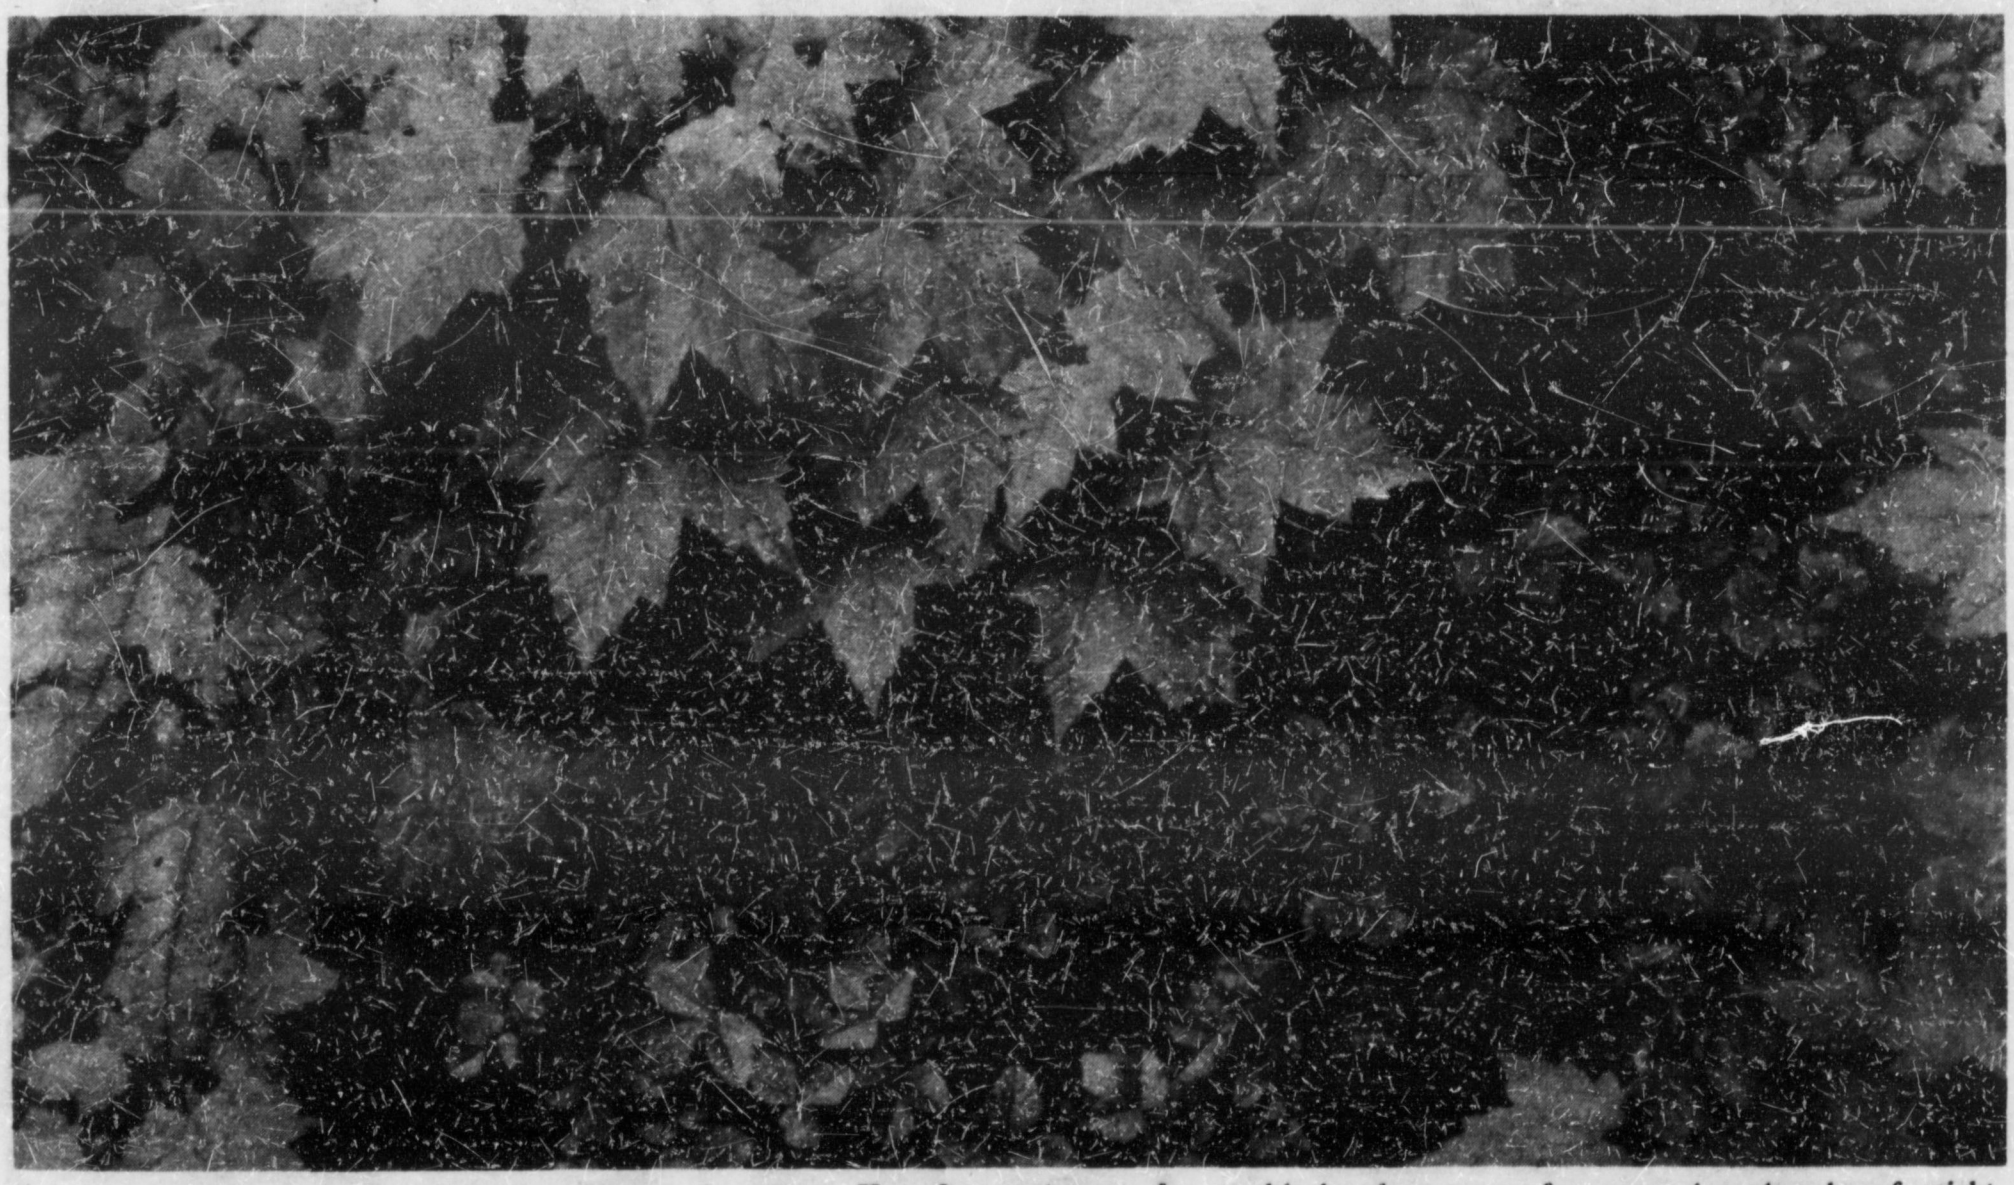
USDA Official Explains Reason For Autumn's Glory



by Julie Bitz
U.S. Department of Agriculture

As days shorten and temperatures become crisp, the quiet green palette of summer foliage is transformed into the vivid autumn palette of reds, oranges, golds, and browns before the leaves fall off the trees. On special years, the colors are truly breathtaking.

How does autumn color happen?

For years, scientists have worked to understand the changes that happen to trees and shrubs in the autumn. Although we don't know all the details, we do know enough to explain the basics to enjoy more fully Nature's multicolored autumn farewell.

Three factors influence autumn leaf color: leaf pigments, length of night, and weather, but not quite in the way many think. The timing of color change and leaf fall are primarily regulated by the calendar — that is, the increasing length of night. None of the other environmental influences — temperature, rainfall, food supply, and so on — is as unvarying as the steadily increasing length of night during autumn. As days grow shorter, and nights grow longer and

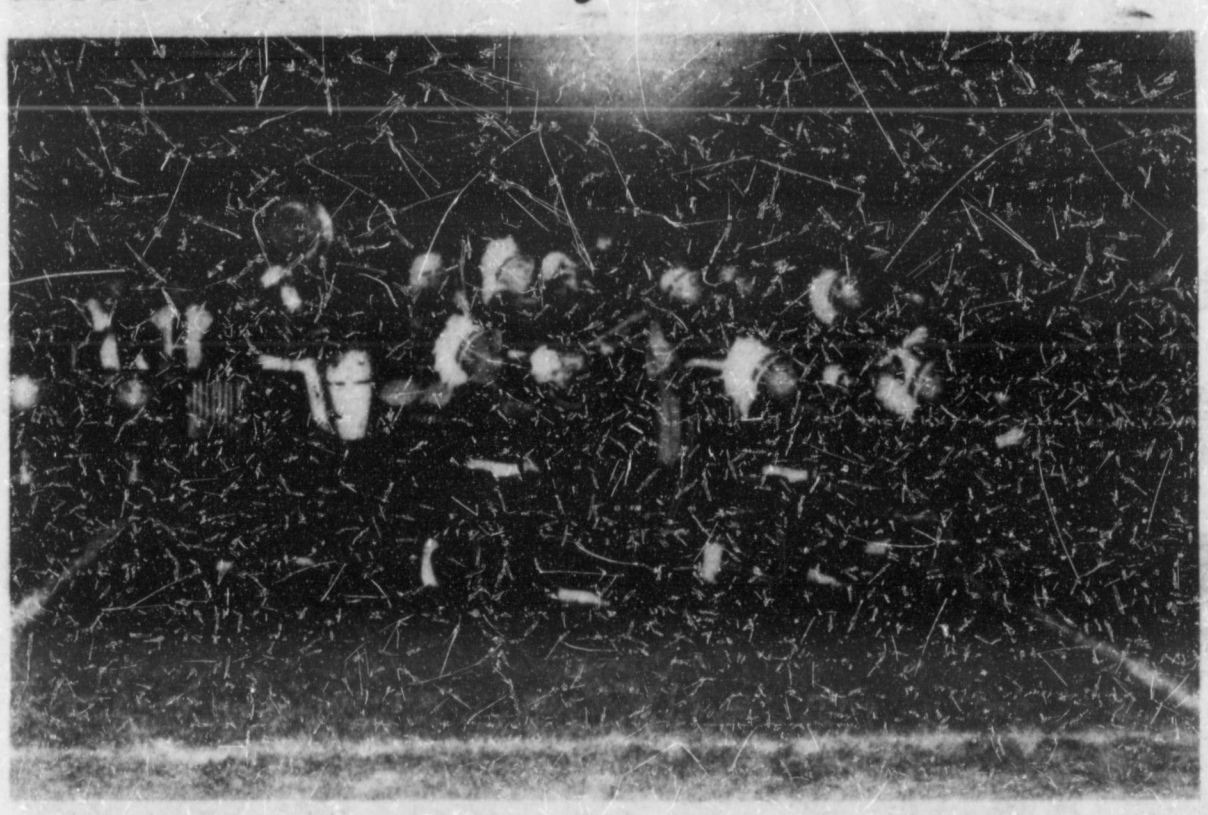
Southern Garrett Marching Band To Host Western Maryland Tournament



SERVING AS HOST of the annual Western Maryland Tournament of Bands are the members of the Southern Garrett Marching Band, some of whom are pictured above during last season's field show. This year's tournament will include bands from Westmar, Northern, Tygarts Valley, Philip Barbour, Allegany, Frankfort, Fairmont, University, Keyser, Severna Park, and Preston high schools, with four different classes of competition, depending upon band size. Trophies, which will be presented in each class, are being sponsored by Uno's Restaurant, Buffalo Coal Company, Mettiki Coal Company, First United Bank & Trust, American Trust Bank, Mane Attractions, WKHJ Radio, Terra Alta Bank, Dr. and Mrs. Tom Johnson, and Dr. Margaret Kaiser. See story for more information.

The annual Western Maryland Tournament of High School Bands will be held Saturday, Oct. 10, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Southern High School athletic field as part of the 31st Annual Autumn Glory Festival. This tournament offers continuous entertainment "for the whole family" with outstanding bands of the region competing for trophies in a display of field show competition of high school marching bands.

Bands participating in this year's tournament will include: Group I-Westmar High School, Lonaconing; Northern Garrett County Se-cooler, biochemical processes in the leaf begin to paint the landscape.

Where do autumn colors come from?

A color palette needs pigments, and there are three types that are involved in autumn color:

- Chlorophyll, which gives leaves their basic green color. It is necessary for photosynthesis, the chemical reaction that enables plants to use sunlight to manufacture sugars for their food. Trees in the temperate zones store these sugars for their winter dormant period.
- Carotenoids, which produce yellow, orange, and brown (sumac leaves) colors in such things as corn, carrots, and daffodils, as well as rutabagas, buttercups, and bananas.
- Anthocyanins, which give color to such familiar things as cranberries, red apples, concord grapes, blueberries, cherries, strawberries, and plums. They are water soluble and appear in the watery liquid of leaf cells.

Both chlorophyll and carotenoids are present in the chloroplasts of leaf cells throughout the growing season. Most anthocyanins are produced in the autumn, in response to bright light and excess plant sugars within leaf cells.

During the growing season, chlorophyll is continually being produced and broken down, and leaves appear green. As night length increases in the autumn, chlorophyll production slows down and then stops until all the chlorophyll is destroyed. The carotenoids and anthocyanins that are present in the leaf are then unmasked and show their colors.

Certain colors are characteristic of particular species. Oaks turn red, brown, or russet; hickories, golden bronze; aspen and yellow-poplar, golden yellow; dogwood, purplish red; beech, light tan; and sourwood and black tupelo, crimson.

Maples differ species by species. Red maple turns brilliant scarlet; sugar maple, orange-red; and black maple, glowing yellow. Striped maple becomes almost colorless. Leaves of some species such as the elms simply shrivel up and fall, exhibiting little color other than drab brown.

The timing of the color change also varies by species. Sourwood in southern forests can become vividly colorful in late summer while all other species are still vigorously green. Oaks put on their colors long after other species have already shed their leaves. These differences in timing among species seem to be genetically inherited, for a particular species at the same latitude will show the same coloration in the cool temperatures of high mountain elevations at about the same time as it does in warmer lowlands.

How does weather affect autumn color?

own pace, knowing he is safely off his feet. You might even feel like taking a break yourself. Come on in, the chairs are fine! (Sorry, mom, you can only park someone over 18.)

Men: This year's Autumn Glory Festival has a new feature that is tailored to that person who wants to participate in this exciting festival, but hates to leave the comfort of home. It is Our Town Theatre's "Autumn Glory Park Your Spouse." Our Town Theatre is located at 121 Center Street in Oakland. For only $2, you avoid complaints about being antisocial, and you save a bundle on shoe leather. The coffee's free and the easy chairs are very comfortable.

"Park Your Spouse" at Our Town Theatre will be open 9 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 10, and will remain open until 4 p.m.

Coffee House: Don't forget Our Town Theatre's Adult Coffee House on Friday, Oct. 9, from 7-11 p.m. We will feature live piano music, poetry, a play reading, free coffee, and lively conversation. It's very relaxing and fun.

For more information, folks may call the theatre at 301-334-5640. Our Town Theatre is a non-profit organization.

The schedule of event for the rest of the year at Our Town Theatre is as follows:

Oct. 9 - Coffee House for Adults, 7-11 p.m., $2 cover charge.

Oct. 10 - Autumn Glory Food Sale and Park Your Spouse.

Oct. 17 - Make Your Own Halloween Costume, 2-5 p.m., $6; Coffee House for Teens, 7-11 p.m., $2 cover charge.

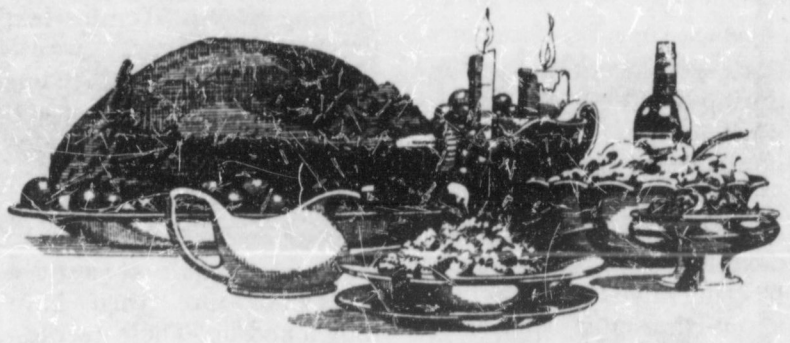
Turkey Dinners A Favorite During Festival



In the early days of the celebration, the Autumn Glory Festival was called Garrett County's Turkey Festival. Today, the traditional turkey is still a favorite during the festival. While these meals may be purchased at many locations around the county, some may still choose to cook their own turkey dinners at home.

Though turkey is a traditional American holiday meal, not everyone knows how to safely thaw and cook this festive fowl.

Turkey comes in many sizes, shapes and forms in the local grocery store. It may be fresh or frozen, whole or in parts. When purchasing, the buyer should be aware of signs that the bird is going to be a safe and wholesome meal.

Frozen turkeys should not show signs of thawing and refreezing. Fresh turkeys should not have overly dry parts or excessive liquid in the tray. Color is also an important factor.

Storing the holiday fowl will also ensure quality. Fresh turkeys should be stored at or below 40 degrees Fahrenheit until it is time to thaw. A frozen bird needs to be kept at or below 0 degrees Fahrenheit.

Thawing the turkey can be tricky. The safest place to defrost is in the refrigerator. This method can take from 1-2 days for 8-12 pound turkeys and up to 4-5 days for 20- 24 pound birds. Those ranging 12-16 pounds take 2-3 days while the 16-20 pounders need 3-4 days thawing time.

If time does not permit the refrigerator method, the turkey can be thawed in cold water according to this time table: 8-12 pounds, 4-6 hours; 12-16 pounds, 6-9 hours; 16-20 pounds, 9-11 hours; and 20-24 pounds, 11-12 hours.

If a frozen turkey is prestuffed when purchased, it should not be thawed but put directly into the oven. Roasting time will be longer for the frozen bird.

Stuffing expands when it cooks inside a turkey, so stuffing the bird loosely is important. For each pound of turkey, 3/4 cup of stuffing can be used. For safety, the turkey should be stuffed just before it goes into the oven.

There should be no interruptions of the roasting. If the cooking process is stopped and the bird allowed to cool before the cooking continues, there is the possibility of bacteria multiplying.

Roasting time for turkeys will also vary according to weight. The small bird weighing 6 pounds will cook in 2¼-3¼ hours, while the 28 pounder will take up to 6½ hours. These times refer to unstuffed turkeys. When the turkey is stuffed, cooking time increases. It is important to check a cookbook to verify this information. The turkey is done when the temperature of the inner thigh of the bird is 180 degrees Fahrenheit.

Left-overs often follow a turkey dinner and need to be stored properly to avoid contamination. Stuffing should be stored separately from the turkey. Turkey, or any food, should be refrigerated after being out of the oven for two hours. Once in the refrigerator, the turkey can be kept 3-4 days. For longer storage, properly wrapped meat can be stored in a freezer.

Anyone wishing more information on safe methods of storing, thawing, and cooking turkey can contact the local Cooperative Extension Service office, 301-334-6960, or call the meat and poultry hotline at 1-800-535-4555.

tions that occur before and during the time the chlorophyll in the leaves is dwindling. Temperature and moisture are the main influences. A succession of warm, sunny days and cool, crisp but not freezing nights seems to bring about the most spectacular color displays. During these days, lots of sugars are produced in the leaf, but the cool nights and the gradual closing of veins going into the leaf prevent these sugars from moving out. These conditions — lots of sugar and lots of light — spur production of the brilliant anthocyanin pigments, which tint reds, purples, and crimson.

Because carotenoids are always present in leaves, the yellow and gold colors remain fairly constant from year to year. The amount of moisture in the soil also affects autumn colors. Like the weather, soil moisture varies greatly from year to year. The countless combinations of these two highly variable factors assure that no two autumns can be exactly alike. A late spring, or a severe summer drought, can delay the onset of fall color by a few weeks. A warm period during fall will also lower the intensity of autumn colors. A warm wet spring, favorable summer weather, and warm sunny fall days with cool nights should produce the most brilliant autumn colors.

What triggers leaf fall?

In early autumn, in response to the shortening days and declining intensity of sunlight, leaves begin the processes leading up to their fall. The veins that carry fluids into and out of the leaf gradually close off as a layer of cells forms at the base of each leaf. These clogged veins trap sugars in the leaf and promote production of anthocyanins. Once this separation layer is complete and the connecting tissues are sealed off, the leaf is ready to fall.

What does all this do for the tree?

Winter is a certainty that all vegetation in the temperate zones must face each year. Perennial plants, including trees, must have some sort of protection to survive freezing temperatures and other harsh wintertime influences. Stems, twigs, and buds are equipped to survive extreme cold so that they can reawaken when spring heralds the start of another growing season. Tender leaf tissues, however, would freeze in winter, so plants must either toughen up and protect their leaves, or dispose of them.

The evergreens — pines, spruces, cedars, firs, and so on — are able to survive winter because they have toughened up. Their needle-like or scale-like foliage is covered with a heavy wax coating and the fluid inside their cells contains substances that resist freezing. Thus the foliage of evergreens can safely withstand all but the severest winter conditions, such as those in the Arctic. Evergreen needles survive for some years but eventually fall because of old age.

The leaves of broadleaved plants, on the other hand, are tender and vulnerable to damage. These leaves are typically broad and thin and are not protected by any thick coverings. The fluid in cells of these leaves is usually a thin, watery sap that freezes readily. This means that the cells could not survive winter where temperatures fall below freezing. Tissues unable to overwinter must be sealed off and shed to ensure the plant's continued survival. Thus leaf fall precedes each winter in the temperate zones.

What happens to all those fallen leaves?

Needles and leaves that fall are not wasted. They decompose and restock the soil with nutrients, and make up part of the spongy humus layer of the forest floor that absorbs and holds rainfall. Fallen leaves also become food for numerous soil organisms vital to the forest ecosystem. It is quite easy to see the benefit to the tree of its annual leaf fall, but the advantage to the entire forest is more subtle. It could well be that the forest could no more survive without its annual replenishment from leaves than the individual tree could survive without shedding these leaves. The many beautiful interrelationships in the forest community leave us with myriad fascinating puzzles still to solve.

Where can I see autumn color in the United States?

You can find autumn color in parks and woodlands, in the cities, countryside, and mountains — anywhere you find deciduous broadleaved trees, the ones that drop their leaves in the autumn. Nature's autumn palette is painted on oaks, maples, beeches, sweetgums, yellow-poplars, dogwoods, hickories, and others. Your own neighborhood may be planted with special trees that were selected for their autumn color. New England is rightly famous for the spectacular autumn colors painted on the trees of its mountains and countryside, but the Adirondack, Appalachian, Smoky, and Rocky Mountains are also clad with colorful displays.

In the east, we can see the reds, oranges, golds, and bronzes of the mixed deciduous woodlands; in the west, we see the bright yellows of

Crellin Will Serve Turkey Dinners Again

For the 31st consecutive year, turkey dinners in the town of Crellin will be a feature of the Autumn Glory Festival. United Community Services, Inc., (the non-profit volunteer organization which owns and operates the Crellin Community Building) is the sponsor.

The Crellin Community Building group originated the tradition of turkey dinners with the first Autumn Glory Festival in 1968. This year, the original menu is being repeated--roasted turkey, mashed potatoes and gravy, dressing, sauerkraut, green beans, applesauce, cranberry sauce, roll, drinks, and harvest apple cake. Prices are $6 for adults and $3 for children under the age of 12. All carry-out orders will be at the $6 adult price.

Everyone is invited to come to Crellin following Saturday's parade to enjoy a home-cooked turkey feast and help support the community of Crellin.

aspen stands and larches contrasting with the dark greens of the evergreen conifers. Many of the United States Forest Service's 100-plus scenic byways were planned with autumn color in mind. In 31 states, travelers can drive on over 3,000 miles of scenic byways, and almost everyone of them offers a beautiful, colorful drive sometime in the autumn.

When is the best time to see autumn color?

Unfortunately, autumn color is not very predictable, especially in the long term. Half the fun is trying to outguess Nature. But it generally starts in late September in New England and moves southward, reaching the Smoky Mountains by early November. It also appears about this time in the high-elevation mountains of the West. Remember that cooler high elevations will color up before the valleys.

The Forest Service's Fall Color Hotline is: 1-800-354-4595. Callers can learn details as the autumn color display progresses.

Vehicles Airborne In Two Accidents; Occupants Injured

In two separate accidents Tuesday, reported by Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack, occupants were injured when the vehicles involved became airborne and overturned.

Police said that at 1:55 a.m., Jeromy Baker, 22, Oakland, was southbound on Route 219 when his 1987 Jeep left the roadway, struck a culvert, traveled airborne for 27 feet, overturned, and slid before coming to a stop.

Baker and two passengers, Joseph Germain and Stephen Shockey, were taken by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital. Shockey and Baker were treated and released. Germain was admitted for treatment.

Police charged Baker in the incident.

In a separate report, police said Benjamin K. Newman, 19, Oakland, was westbound on Ben DeWitt Road at 8 p.m. when he failed to negotiate a turn.

The 1994 Chevrolet Newman was driving crossed the center line, returned to the southbound lane and left 127 feet of tire marks before leaving the roadway, traveling over an embankment, and striking a fence post. The car then continued traveling westbound in a field, where the left rear wheel caught a soft ground and broke off.

The car then went airborne for approximately 67 feet, where it struck a telephone pole, six or seven feet above the ground, with the underside of the vehicle. The car again became airborne a second time, for about 37 feet, and a third time, for about 12 feet. It finally came to rest on its top, the report said.

The collision with the telephone pole broke the right passenger-side seatbelt, and Shad R. Green, 19, Oakland, was partially ejected.

Newman, Green, and another passenger, Ronald A. Guterie, 19, Oakland, were taken by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where all three were admitted for treatment.

Police charged Newman in the incident. Oakland VFD had also responded to both accident scenes.

A MEDAL AND A CROWN were handed out last night at the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival Kickoff Reception, as Jerry Thayer was named the 1998 Honorary Golden Ambassador and Andrea Bender was crowned the 1998 AGF Queen. Above left, Thayer accepts his plaque and medal from last year's honoree, I. Lynn Beckman. Thayer, who served as the festival's Grand Feature Parade coordinator for a dozen years and has been a Promotion Council board member for a number of years, is the second generation of the same family to be so honored. Pictured between Beckman is R. Thomas Thayer, who is a previous winner. At right, Thayer carries out his first official duty of the festival by crowning Miss Bender, daughter of Dave and Lisa Bender, Mtn. Lake Park. Four days of festivities get under way today (see schedule below).

Oakland Man Dies In Traffic Accident Friday

A 74-year-old Oakland man was fatally injured early Friday afternoon when he was pinned under his farm tractor after it was struck by a pickup truck at the junction of Maryland Highway and Oakland Drive between Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park.

Henry Daniel Petersheim died of injuries following the 12:44 p.m. accident. The Garrett County Sheriff's Office stated that Petersheim was operating his Case 300 farm tractor westbound on Oakland drive when a pickup truck operated by Rosa Helen Brown, 67, of Gormania, W.Va., struck his tractor as she turned her vehicle from eastbound Maryland Highway onto Oakland Drive. The left front portion of the pickup truck reportedly struck the left rear tire of the tractor, causing it to skid into a ditch along Oakland Drive and overturn.

Petersheim was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and personnel from the Maryland State Highway Administration also responded to the accident scene.

The sheriff's office collision reconstruction team is investigating the accident, and yesterday afternoon the sheriff's office indicated that charges are pending against Brown.

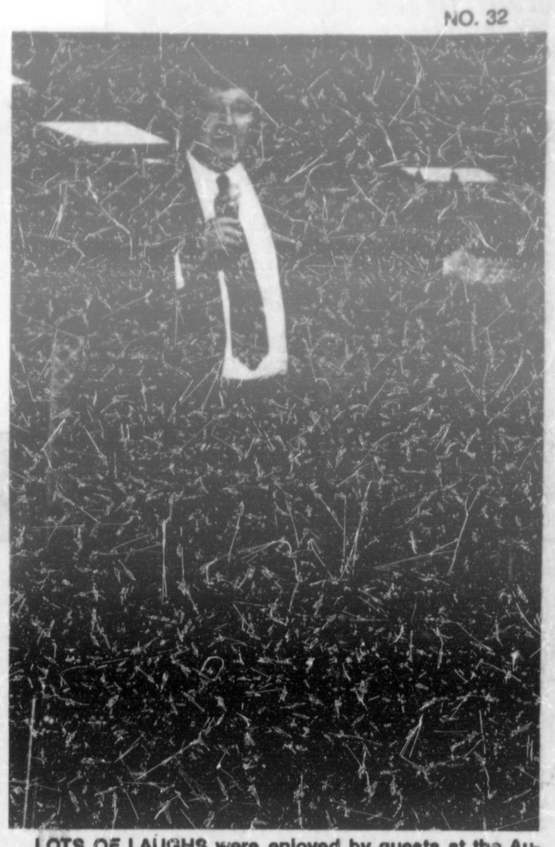
Mr. Petersheim was born Aug. 3, 1924, in Garrett County, a son of the late Daniel and Katie (Swartzentruber) Petersheim. He was also preceded in death by two brothers, Harvey and Allen Petersheim; one foster brother, Walter Wiles; and one foster sister, Carrie (Wiles) Yoder.

He was a member of the Gortner Amish church.

Survivors include his wife, Elizabeth (Shetler) Petersheim; two sons, Paul Neven Petersheim, Oakland, and Edward Lewis Petersheim, Grantsville; one daughter, Irene Ellen Yoder, Oakland; his stepmother, Annie (Beachy) Petersheim; two brothers, Floyd Ervin Petersheim and Fred Petersheim, both of Oakland; two sisters, Matilda Kauffman, Bittinger, and Barbara Yoder, Butler, Ohio; and 12 grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, where a service was conducted Monday, Oct. 5, with Bishop Norman Schrock officiating. Interment was in the Slabaugh Cemetery.

Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, was in charge of arrangements.



LOTS OF LAUGHS were enjoyed by guests at the Autumn Glory Festival Kickoff Reception last night, partially because of the guest speaker, Bill Hillgrove, sports reporter/announcer for WTAE Television, Pittsburgh, and the Pittsburgh Steelers. Hillgrove shared recollections from his long career, and described experiences with a number of noted athletes, television personalities, and other known individuals, incorporating funny stories all the while. He said that he has been to Garrett County several times in the past and has always enjoyed his stay. The reception was held at the McHenry House of the Wisp Resort.

County Awarded $30K Community Service Grant

Garrett County has been awarded a $30,000 community service grant to enhance its adult offender court-ordered community service program. The local funding is part of a $749,866 package distributed throughout Maryland by the state's Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services, Division of Parole and Probation.

Under the community service program for adult offenders, judges have the option of sentencing non-violent offenders to community service rather than sending them to jail. Offenders must volunteer to be eligible for community service participation, and may be assigned to legislatively authorized work sites of governmental agencies and charitable and nonprofit organizations.

"Garrett County's community service program, which is operated by the local State's Attorney's Office, administered 365 individual cases this past fiscal year," said Bill Ferry, local community services coordinator and investigator, "and $42,000 worth of services were provided by the program's participants."

"I am very pleased that these grant awards will help ensure that community service programs operate across the state," said Stuart O. Simms, secretary of the Department of Public Safety and Correctional Services. "The people of Maryland realize many benefits from these workers that otherwise may not have been possible because of fiscal constraints. These programs provide assistance to governmental agencies, allowing them to concentrate resources in other areas.

"Communities are cleaned up and maintained," Simms continued. "Litter along Maryland roadsides is removed; walking trails are constructed in recreational parks; playgrounds are built; [and] offenders are held accountable while providing much-needed services. At the same time, prison beds are freed up for violent offenders who pose the greatest risk to public safety."

Governor Parris N. Glendening commented "Minor offenders need to pay for their crimes. They must understand there are consequences for their actions. The community service grants go a long way in accomplishing this goal," Glendening said.

Rep. Bartlett To Miss Grand Feature Parade

As a result of the impending impeachment hearings on Capital Hill, Representative Roscoe G. Bartlett will be forced to miss the annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade for the first time in many years.

"I'm very disappointed that I will not be able to enjoy the Autumn Glory

Meeting On Bear Creek Bridge Project Slated

The western Maryland office of the State Highway Administration has scheduled a public meeting for Monday, Oct. 19, at Northern Middle School to provide information and collect comments on the proposed Bear Creek bridge replacement project.

The bridge, which carries Route 219 traffic over Bear Creek just north of Accident, is slated for replacement by SHA next year because of structural deficiencies. Bridge division engineers, led by Fred Crozier, District 6 engineer, will be on hand for the meeting to provide information on the project, including its justification and its scope, and the projected effects on traffic in the immediate area during the construction process. Plan sheets will be also be available for public inspection.

A spokesperson for the District 6 office said that SHA intends to open the $7.1 million project for bidding in mid-December, the bids will be opened on January 21 of next year, the notice to proceed will be issued near the end of March, and construction could begin as early as April 1.

For further information on the public meeting, interested persons may contact SHA's District 6 office in LaVale at 1-800-760-7138.

LOCAL YOUTH WINS INTERNATIONAL COMPETITION - National 4-H Week is an excellent time to announce that a Garrett County 4-H member, Brandon Kling, placed first in his class at the International Holstein Show in Madison, WI. Brandon began his winning streak locally, then for the first time in memory, a Garrett County 4-H member won grand championship honors in 4-H/FFA dairy breed competition at the Maryland State Fair. The 14-year-old showman is the son of Ronald and Linda Kling of Grantsville, and is a member of the Buttercreamers 4-H Dairy Club. Brandon purchased his 4-H calf, Ernest-Anthony SD Tobi-ET "Tobi", in North Carolina in the spring of 1996. He showed her in 1996 and 1997 and is showing her in 1998 for the first time as a milking cow. His achievements so far this year are: 1st Senior 2 Year Old (Open & Junior) at the Maryland Spring Holstein Show; Reserve Grand Champion Junior at the Maryland Spring Holstein Show; 1st Senior 2 Year Old, Senior and Grand Champion at the Somerset, PA, Holstein Show; 1st Senior 2 Year Old, Senior and Grand Champion (Open and Junior) at the Garrett County Holstein Show; 1st Senior 2 Year Old, Senior and Grand Champion at the Maryland State 4-H Fair where he received the purple ribbon over 180 entries in the Holstein show; 2nd Senior 2 Year Old, Open, Maryland State Fair; 1st Senior 2 Year Old (Open and Junior) at the Eastern National Holstein Show in Harrisburg, PA, Reserve Intermediate Champion Junior, Eastern National Holstein Show; Member 1st Produce of Dam, Eastern National Holstein Show; and 1st Senior 2 Year Old, Junior Division, International Holstein Show in Madison, WI. Brandon's parents are naturally very proud of him and his attitude in and out of the show ring. "He has shown great sportsmanship and determination," his father said. He proved his determination again in Madison by entering and showing in a class that lasted an hour with a broken leg. Many there were proud of the courage it took to show Tobi under those circumstances. Brandon and Tobi are pictured above at the Maryland State Fair with 3rd Runner Up Maryland State Farm Queen Sarah Bedgar (left), and Garrett/Allegany Dairy Princess April Enlow. More information on National 4-H Week can be found in the farm section of today's paper.

Award-Winning Shrine Temple Motor Corps To Be In Parade

The International Association of Shrine Motor Corps champions of 1997 and 1998 from Kena Shrine Temple, Fairfax, Va., will appear in the Autumn Glory Festival Parade in Oakland this Saturday, Oct. 10. The motor corps rides mostly white, Shrine limited-edition Harley-Davidson motorcycles, also known as "Harley Hogs."

The Kena Motor Corps was formed in 1970 and is celebrating its 28th anniversary this year. The unit has won numerous awards over the years.

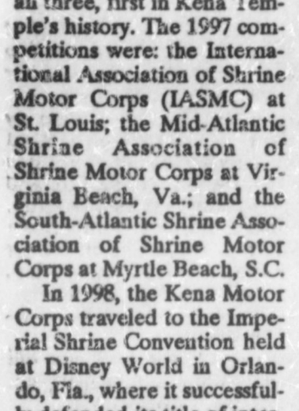
In 1997, the corps not only participated in three competitions, but also won all three, first in Kena Temple's history. The 1997 competitions were: the International Association of Shrine Motor Corps (IASMC) at St. Louis; the Mid-Atlantic Shrine Association of Shrine Motor Corps at Virginia Beach, Va.; and the South-Atlantic Shrine Association of Shrine Motor Corps at Myrtle Beach, S.C.

In 1998, the Kena Motor Corps traveled to the Imperial Shrine Convention held at Disney World in Orlando, Fla., where it successfully defended its title of international champions and, together with the Kena 500 Mini-Corvettes, won the IASMC Sportsmanship Award. At the Mid-Atlantic Shrine Association Motor Corps Competition at Virginia Beach in September, the Kena Motor Corps fielded teams in the Harley Hogs class and in a mixed-match class, where they won first place in both classes. The Harley Hogs team also won the high-point trophy for all two-wheel teams in the competition.

At the South-Atlantic Shrine Association Motor Corps Competition at Gatlinburg, Tenn., in September both of the teams won first place in the view event. The mixed class team won first place in the obstacle course, and the Harley Hogs won second place in the drill competition. The Kena Motor Corps parade unit won second place for all motorcycle units in the South-Atlantic Shrine Association Parade at Gatlinburg.

The 1998 officers of the Kena Motor Corps are: Doug Windsor, director; Tom Martin, assistant director; Tom Howie, secretary; Jack Lohman, treasurer; Billy Ray, quartermaster; and Clark Sprouse, drill instructor.

Two members of the Motor Corps hold offices in regional Shrine associations. They are Doug Windsor, chaplain of the Mid-Atlantic Association of Shrine Motor Corps, and Jim Emery, 2nd vice president of the South-Atlantic Association of Shrine Motor Corps.



AFRICAN CHILDREN WIN LOCAL HEARTS — Many local churches and individuals showed their support of the ministry of the African's Children's Choir, which performed at the Faith Evangelical Free Church in Mtn. Lake Park last week. Combined contributions from that program totalled approximately $3,500, according to a spokesperson. Most of this money will be used to directly help other young Africans, especially Sudanese, who are currently in need of food, clothing, and education. Persons who wish to contribute may still do so by sending donations to Friends in the West, P.O. Box 250, Arlington, Washington 98223. For information about the choir or its mission, persons may call the organization at 360-435-6983, or may visit the website at <www.fitw.com>.

Christian Crossings Thrift Shop Plans Open House Event

An open house and dedication ceremony will take place at the Christian Crossings Thrift Shop, located at the railroad crossing in Loch Lynn, on Saturday, Oct. 17, from 9 a.m. until noon. The dedication will be held at 10 a.m. The public is invited to attend.

The thrift shop is a project of the Garrett Cooperative Ministry, and has been created to serve local persons in critical need. Clothing, appliances, tools, and other items are donated to the shop, and then are provided to persons who are in need.

The undertaking has been a year in the making, according to Robert Huebner, president of the cooperative ministry's board of directors. The directors met about 12 months ago, selected and purchased the real estate for the shop, and have been working since to renovate and prepare the site. The shop has been operating for several weeks, as the directors' first goal was to have it "up and running for those whose needs we want to serve," Huebner said. "We'll complete the work on the physical facility in phases, as time and donations permit."

Tours of the facility will be given as part of the open house activities.

State Police Family Violence Unit Active In Garrett County

Response to incidents of family violence in Garrett County has been intensified through the recent expansion of the Regional Family Violence Unit of the Maryland State Police. Initiated in Maryland about one year ago, the unit extended into Garrett County last month.

Tfc. James Hovis, an 11-year veteran of the state police, is now serving residents of Allegany and Garrett counties through the Family Violence Unit. In this capacity Hovis has a three-part mission: victim safety, referral for support services, and legal prosecution of the abuser.

One goal of the investigators in the Family Violence Unit is to get the necessary documentation that will lead to prosecution of abusers. "We need to get the proper statements and information so that the case can be prosecuted," Hovis said. "Lisa Thayer Welch in the States Attorney's Office has a strong interest in following through on these cases," Hovis noted.

Assisting the victim is another goal of the investigators. "I am here for the victims. I am here to help them feel safe in their environment," Hovis said. To accomplish this he advises victims of the legal options available to them. "We will have the abuser removed from the home. I will go to court with the victim and help to fill out the necessary paperwork. I will help the victim get an ex parte against the abuser," he explained.

His initial contact with a victim is not his last. Hovis will continue to follow up by calling and checking on an abuse victim. "Within 48 hours I will recontact a victim. I want to be sure that the abuse is not continuing. I may call daily or weekly. I want to know just how I can help the victim," he explained.

Hovis provides help in the form of referral for further services. As liaison between the McHenry barrack and the local agencies and organizations that support victims of family violence, Hovis spoke of the need to establish and maintain open lines of communication, and to share information that may be of assistance to the victims.

As an example of this cooperative effort, he described talking and working with Linda Spassil, the director of the Dove Center, on cases of domestic violence or sexual abuse. "This can help us see how to best help the victim," he said.

Hovis will also be working with children and with elderly family members who may suffer from abuse or violence within the home. Recognizing the private and sensitive nature of investigations into family situations, he explained the need for consideration. "We don't want police cars driving up to the house. We want to be discreet. I will arrive in an unmarked car and I will be wearing plain clothes," he said.

Instrumental in the development of this unit and its mission were Col. David B. Mitchell and Garrett County native Col. Cindy Smith. "We want people to know that this issue of family violence is a high priority with the Maryland State Police," Hovis concluded.

Anyone wishing to discuss a problem associated with family violence may contact Tfc. Hovis at 301-387-1101, 301-895-1101, or 301-729-6467.

BOE Announces October Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its next regularly scheduled monthly meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 13, in the Board of Education building meeting room.

At 3 p.m. the meeting will be called to order, followed by public comment, with executive session to begin at 3:05 p.m. The public session will re-open immediately following the executive session at approximately 5 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

During the meeting the board will consider administrative issues, including budget recommendations.

Instructional concerns will include: a proposal to expand summer technology camps, SAT results, a Health Advisory Committee report, and high school field trip requests.

A public comment session is scheduled for 7 p.m., followed by action on personnel matters and board concerns. The board will review a first draft of an Internet usage policy.

EYM To Perform At St. Peter's, Meet With Grier

The Ecumenical Youth Ministry will perform at St. Peter's Catholic Church in Oakland this Saturday, Oct. 10, at the 5:30 p.m. Mass and Sunday, Oct. 11, at the 10 a.m. Mass. They will incorporate into the Mass several numbers, such as, "Lead Me, Lord," "Praise You," "Simple Gifts," and "Jesus Will Make A Way." This will be one of the first appearances of the EYM this fall. All are welcome and invited to attend.

The EYM will also be performing today, Oct. 8, at 4:30 p.m. at St. Peter's Parish Hall for the Grand Marshal of the Autumn Glory Parade, Rosey Grier. This is open to all youth in the area. Grier, a retired All-Pro NFL football player, actor, author, and ordained minister, will be speaking with the youth of Garrett County. All young people (not only EYM members) are welcome to attend.

The Ecumenical Youth Ministry is sponsored by St. Mark's Lutheran, St. Peter's Catholic, and St. Matthew's and St. John's Episcopal churches.

CHOICE–
INDEPENDENCE– DIGNITY–

This is our goal for all Victims of Abuse in Garrett County.

As part of the campaign to lessen the devastating effects of elder and vulnerable persons abuse, the Area Agency on Aging, Seniors And Law Together, and the Dove Center are dedicating Tuesday, October 20, 1998, to this issue. We will have a "hot line" to take calls and to answer any questions or concerns.

Learn the signs and symptoms indicating mistreatment, neglect or abuse of the elderly. In a domestic setting there are also indicators of actual and potential problems. By knowing and watching, you may be able to initiate actions to reduce or prevent the situation from deteriorating. Take a stand and reach out to someone you believe to be a victim of abuse.

Definitions of abuse and neglect for persons to consider are as follows:

Psychological Abuse

Infliction of mental anguish by demeaning, name-calling, insulting, ignoring, humiliating, frightening, threatening, isolating, etc.

Material/Financial Abuse

Illegally or unethically exploiting by using funds, property, or other assets of another person for personal gain, etc.

Active Neglect

Intentional failure to fulfill caregiving obligations; infliction of physical or emotional stress or injury; abandonment; denial of food, medication, personal hygiene, etc.

Physical Abuse

Infliction of physical pain or injury; physical coercion; confinement; slapping, bruising, sexually molesting, cutting, lacerating, burning, restraining, pushing, shoving, etc.

DNR Keeps Pact, Gives County 25% Of Year's Income

The annual allotment of funds from the Department of Natural Resources to Garrett County was presented this week to the commissioners in the amount of $617,618. As per the reimbursement agreement between the DNR and the county, this amount represents 25% of the income generated from public lands in the county during fiscal year 1998.

The allotment of funds coincided with the proclamation of Maryland State Parks Week, Oct. 3-11.

Because of the size of DNR's public land holdings in Garrett County, the Maryland State Forest and Park Service reimburses the county 25% of all revenue collected from its public lands. Most counties in Maryland receive 15% of the generated funds.

"Garrett County's public lands are managed to provide a sustainable supply of timber for the forest products industry, as well as high quality natural resources to support the growing tourism industry," said John R. Griffin, DNR secretary.

Delegate George Edwards said the allotment of funds is "a big plus for Garrett County" and that it is a result of "cooperation between the state and county in utilizing the tremendous natural resources the state has in the county."

Last year's payment was $406,182. Allegany County this year received $125,343; Washington County, $56,691; and Frederick County, $64,020. Statewide, counties will receive a total of $1,364,801.

DNR PRESENTS FUNDS TO COUNTY -- The celebration of Maryland State Parks Week (Oct. 3-11) was crowned Tuesday by the presentation of $617,618 to Garrett County from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The money constitutes 25% of the income generated from public lands in Garrett County during fiscal year 1998. DNR has agreed to reimburse the county this amount each year. See story. The proclamation document signed by the Garrett County commissioners notes that Maryland State Parks "provide for health, inspiration, and education" by providing quality outdoor recreation, and that Maryland is blessed with a variety of natural and historical parks that provide positive recreational experiences for 10.5 million visitors each year. The theme of the special week is "Maryland State Parks — A Healthy Habit." Pictured are several state park officials as they both present the 25% reimbursement check and celebrate the signing of the proclamation. Shown left to right are Lt. Steve Hamilton, manager of Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Park; Capt. Chris Anderson, regional manager; Lt. Paul Durham, Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area manager; and Commissioners Wayne Wilt, Gary Fratz, and Wayne Johnson.

Republican Office In Grantsville Posts 219N Plans

The four alternative plans developed by the State Highway Administration for Route 219N are posted in the display windows of the Grantsville office of The Republican.

Along with the maps are descriptions of each potential course suggested for the stretch of highway, which extends from I-68 north to the Pennsylvania border. Posted along with the plans are addresses and phone numbers for those who wish to comment on the proposals.

The office of The Republican is located in the Grantsville Plaza, near the intersection of Routes 40 and 219.

DLC Boater Found Guilty Of Reckless Operation, OUI

A McHenry man was declared guilty this week of two boating violations on Deep Creek Lake. David R. Bumgarner, 30, was convicted of reckless operation and operating a boat while under the influence of alcohol (OUI). He had pleaded guilty to reckless operation charge, but had entered a not-guilty plea to OUI.

District Court Judge Ralph Burnett found him to be guilty of both offenses and fined him $100 for reckless operation. For the OUI charge, Bumgarner was fined $300, with $100 suspended. He was also sentenced to jail for 30 days, with 16 suspended.

Bumgarner was charged by the Natural Resources Police (NRP) on July 31. A water-skier apparently contacted the authorities to report the reckless operator, and the NRP used the caller's description to locate Bumgarner some time later.

State, County Jobless Rates Both Decrease

With the summer nearing its end, Maryland's labor market made its normal downward adjustments in August. Employment and the labor force declined as workers ended their summer employment and exited the job market, causing the unemployment rate to fall by 0.2 percentage points to 4.5 percent in August.

"The continued drop in the state's unemployment rate is good news in light of the fact that seasonal employers began to trim their work forces during August," said Governor Parris N. Glendening. "Not only did increasing employment in other industries absorb declines in the seasonal jobs sector, but Maryland's unemployment rate is lower than it was a year ago, indicating our strong economy is becoming even stronger."

Meanwhile, Garrett County's jobless rate also decreased, from 8.8 percent in July to 8.0 percent in August. The August 1997 rate for the county was 11.8 percent.

Nationally, downsizing in the labor force caused the same unemployment decline, from 4.7 percent to 4.5 percent.

During August, employment declined by about 31,700 people as positions in restaurants, amusements, agricultural services, hotel and outdoor maintenance and recreation programs began to retreat. The withdrawal of workers, such as college students, from the job market more than offset this decline, leaving just 128,336 people unemployed during August. In addition, hiring continued in construction, business services, and printing, and recalls took place in food processing and local transportation. A year ago, more than 139,000 job seekers, or 4.9 percent of the labor force, were unemployed.

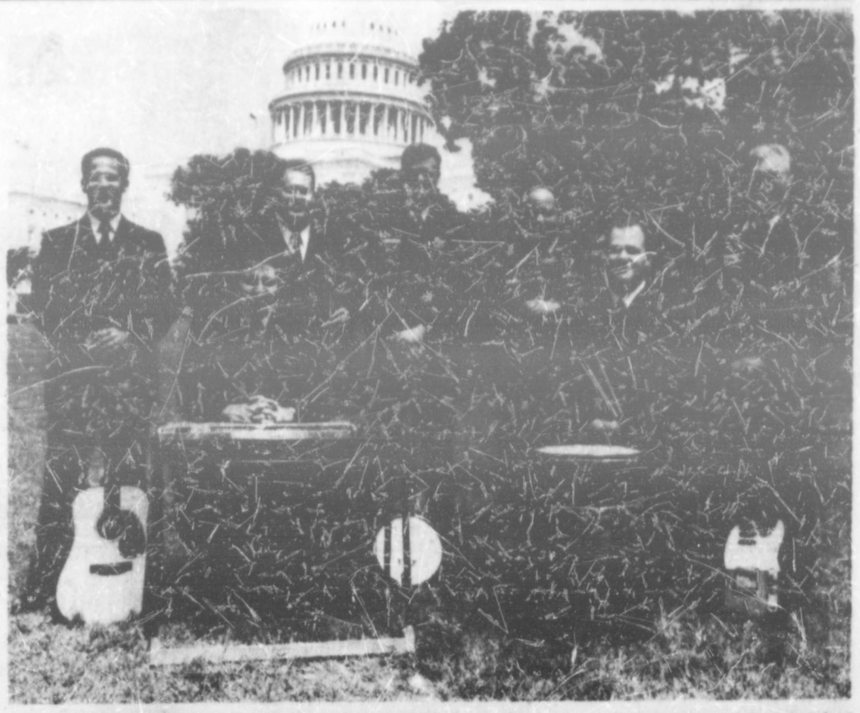
Locally, unemployment rates either dropped or held steady in all but seven jurisdictions.

Oakland Man Is Found Guilty Of Burglary, Theft

A jury in Garrett County Circuit Court convicted a former Oakland man last week of second degree burglary, felony theft, and malicious destruction of property. The defendant, Dwight Howard Clary, 20, has been remanded to the Maryland Department of Corrections pending sentencing for these crimes. He is currently an inmate there, serving a separate 44-month prison term for violation of probation in a prior burglary case, according to information from the county state's attorney.

Clary was arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office after an investigation implicated him in a February break-in and theft incident at Bob's Garage, Kitzmiller. A number of juveniles were also charged, according to the report, and their cases were heard in April.

Sentencing for Clary will take place within days, according to the report.



COUNTRY CURRENT TO BE GLAF'S SEASON FINALE — The final presentation of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's 1998 season will be a free outdoor concert by the U.S. Navy Band's premier bluegrass group Country Current. The show is slated for Sunday, Oct. 11, at 3 p.m. at the Wisp Resort. Prior to Country Current's performance, the local dance band Heart-N-Soul will entertain. The program is being sponsored by the Wisp Resort. Since Country Current's formation in 1973, the band has received wide acclamation for its country and bluegrass music. The seven-member group has performed with such artists as Boots Randolph, Charlie Daniels, and Vince Gill, and has appeared on the Grand Ole Opry and the Academy of Country Music Awards. Heart-N-Soul consists of four local musicians, who together present a repertoire ranging from Brooks and Dunn to the Doobie Brothers. There is no admission fee for this performance, which will take place at the bottom of the "Face" ski slope at Wisp. Guests may bring lawn chairs and picnics. Food will also be available for purchase.

The Festival, The Future...

The Autumn Glory Festival is a wonderful opportunity for us to promote Garrett County and all it has to offer. Thousands of visitors will be here this weekend, some for the first time, and it's important for many reasons that they return home with a positive impression.

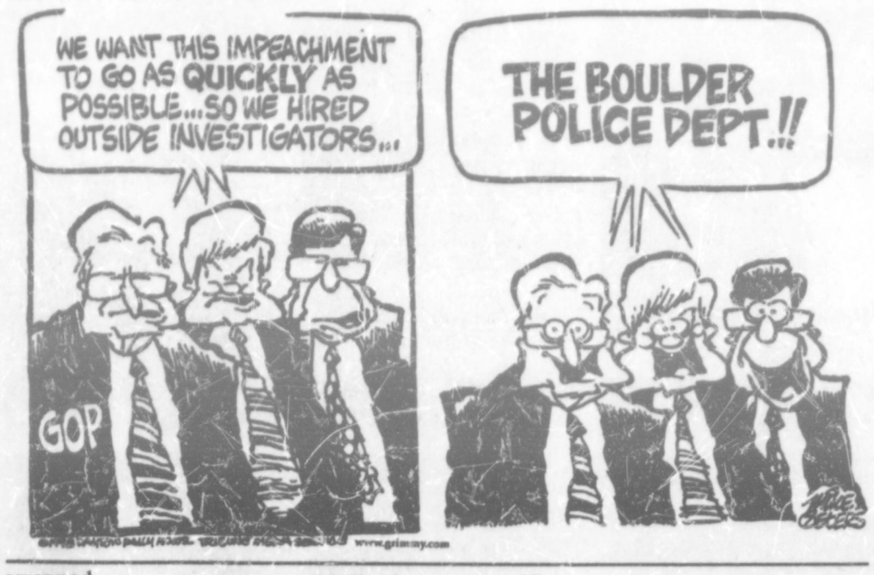
It's important from the standpoint of pure economics, since such a significant chunk of our county's income is tourist dollars. Thus, the quality of our roads, our schools, our services, and life in general hinges upon how successful we are with our number one "industry." We want people to come back.

It's also important to present a good impression of our county just from the standpoint of pride; pride in our county, its resources, and most importantly, its people. We want our visitors to know that we are a warm, courteous, hard-working, well-educated segment of our nation's population that gets a real kick out of seeing visitors enjoy their stay with us.

With all of this in mind, festival time also makes us ponder the important decision-making that lies ahead, in both the near and not-so-near future. There are a number of crucial issues that require wisdom and keen foresightedness so major mistakes are not made today that could destroy what Garrett County offers and what Garrett County is. A couple that come to mind are the plans/talk/threats of the construction of by-passes and superhighways. Another is the apparently impending establishment of a major discount department store in Oakland which, in our opinion, could have devastating effects on the town (we'll write more about this one next week). Another is whether or not it is time, or past time, for some form of county-wide zoning to help guarantee necessary, but responsible, development, be it residential or commercial.

Errors in any one of these areas of planning/decision-making could have serious, detrimental effects on our future, as the uniqueness, beauty, and attraction of our county could be ultimately destroyed, all for the sake of what some short-sighted, narrow-minded individuals believe to be progress.

But, it's festival time, and we don't want to end this column on a gloomy note. So, let's have a blast for the next four days or so, and address more serious matters next week.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The gall of our government to take the funds from the Veterans Trust Fund for Health Care to help pay for the Rt. 219 superhighway and other projects! This is like robbing Peter to pay Paul. Apparently these government officials don't have a veteran relative or they would be concerned with this mismanagement of funds. Our veterans have served our country and this money is for their benefit, and not for some superhighway. The money should be put back! Thanks to George Falter, candidate commissioner District 3, for pointing this out.

If there are excess dollars in this trust fund, then they should be given to these veterans, or provided for them in some way or create jobs for them with this money.

If the funds are not available for a superhighway, then it should be scrapped.

Sincerely,
Charlotte Harkins
Swanton

Dear Mrs. Harkins,

We pointed out this information in one of our articles in our May 28 issue (pg. 3-A), and noted that Congressman Roscoe Bartlett voted against the transportation bill for that very reason. Apparently more people read my "mail" than our news columns.

Editor

To the Editor:

For many months now, I have read with great interest the on going debate for the proposed Route 219 "expressway." It deeply saddens me each time my family and I travel back to the Swanton area to visit friends and relatives, to see a somewhat struggling economy away from the Deep Creek Lake region.

While the economy around the lake is continuing to prosper, the overall business development in the rest of the county continues to suffer. With grocery stores, restaurants of all types, and several other "attraction developments" continuing to grow at an astonishing rate, the rest of the county just goes along with "business as usual."

As I sit here this morning thinking about this expressway, I wonder who this benefits the most? I have a difficult time in believing that it will benefit the businesses and/or the residents of the greater Oakland area, as there will most likely be more access to the lake than to the rest of Garrett County. The Naylors, the Brownings, the Greggs, and the other families that many of us have done business with over the years cannot possibly feel that this highway will help their respective businesses in any way. Yet the businesses that have a mainstream of tourist activity will most graciously accept more and more business. If this happens, the greater Oakland area will possibly be no more than a ghost town in a short period of time.

State and local government continues its campaign that this will considerably boost the economy of the county. In some respects, that is true. However, in the era that I grew up in, my father and the fathers of most of my friends during childhood received nothing from the lake, other than inflated prices and a higher tax assessment. Most of the adults worked at Westvaco, Bausch & Lomb, or were farmers by trade.

Now let's roll this era ahead to the year 2000. Gone is Bausch & Lomb, the farm land has become resort communities, most of the Westvaco employees of this era have either retired or are close to the retirement age. What do our forefathers have for their years of hard labor, and life-long residents of Garrett County? Very simply put, inflated prices and ever increasing tax assessments.

If you, as residents of Garrett County, are truly interested in what your "super highway" will look like, when and if completed, I invite you to take a ride through Pennsylvania, taking "old" Route 219, and look at the eyesore that Pennsylvania has created. Look at the beautiful farm land, the forests, the countryside, and the homes and/or businesses that have been lost due to this totally distasteful highway.

This county is going no where at all, since the only thing that gets attention is Deep Creek Lake. Let's all lobby our state legislature to legally change the name of the county to Deep Creek County.

My grandfather has been gone since 1986. I can honestly say that the economics of Deep Creek Lake never put a meal on his table. And rest assured, natives of the county, a lot of you can say the same thing.

Saddened by the death of the past,
Leslie Beckman

To the Editor:

Recently my family and I went on vacation to Florida. We traveled I-95 from Virginia to Florida I was amazed at the number of vehicles on this interstate, so much so, that I decided to count the vehicles (tractor trailers and cars) that we passed. Of course, making a trip such as this, you look for things to do to keep your children occupied, so counting vehicles took up some travel time. To be fair, we took this test in each state we drove through: Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. We did this on the way down, (I-95 South) and coming home (I-95 North) We took a 15-minute time frame, and began counting. I then averaged the amount of vehicles from each state for my totals. They are as follows: cars passed in 15 minutes, 589; tractor trailers passed in 15 minutes, 172; and total vehicles passed in 15 minutes, 761.

Now, this is an average, as some states (like Florida) had over 150 more vehicles passed than other states. We drove on Wednesday going down, and on Thursday coming home. So as you can see, this is not weekend traffic. And remember, this is in 15-minute time frame!

I have been reading so much lately on the new by-pass, interstate, whatever you want to call it, but this is what Garrett County has to look forward to if this happens, as we would be that continuing route to New York and Canada. I cannot imagine the traffic would be less than that through the Carolinas to Florida.

Another observation we made was the debris on the interstate. Trash, tractor trailer tire debris (which was tremendous), and rotting animals. Construction was everywhere, through each state, as I am sure re-paving, fixing pot holes, line painting, and general maintenance is needed constantly with such a high level of traffic that travels I-95. Bridge repair was also being done on many of the bridges farther south. I couldn't help to think about the winters in Garrett County. Snow removal would be a costly expense, as would the other maintenance mentioned above. This burden would most likely come from taxpayers from Garrett, Allegany, and all counties in Maryland.

We cannot forget the need for gas stations, convenience stores and fast food restaurants that would

REMEMBERING COLUMBUS ON COLUMBUS DAY

In the backwards way of our post-modern age, one of the ways to discern that an event has been downgraded is if 30 years ago it merited a school assembly, and today it is an excuse for a day off — from work, from school, perhaps from life. The discovery of the New World by Christopher Columbus on October 12, 1492, has suffered precisely this fate.

When I was a child I did not know much about Columbus, but I knew that without him I would probably be living in Europe eating kale, oats, and black bread every day and perhaps only once a day. Most, maybe all, the progress made in improvement of the standard of living during the past half millennium hangs on Columbus's discovery.

We summed it all up in the rhyme, "In 1492 Columbus sailed the ocean blue." I can remember sitting on the floor of our school gym, watching skits that re-enacted the great event and celebrating its results, which we were enjoying 24 hours a day.

To my dismay there has been a movement in the intervening 30 years to discredit Columbus. Its success is signified in part by the fact that many people now have a day off for Columbus Day rather than a school assembly.

There are two types of rationale (or irrationale) for the discrediting of Columbus. The first argument is that Columbus did not really discover the New World because there were indigenous peoples already here, and who had been here for thousands of years.

The Scandinavians jump in at this point, and add that Columbus wasn't the first European to sail to the New World, as the Vikings had beached their long boats on the shores of Newfoundland 400 years earlier. An Irish patriot may then leap into the fray to say that Irish monks in coracles may have landed somewhere in North America three centuries before that, as indeed they might have. But so what?

It was because of Columbus that the cross-pollinization not only between Europe and what was to be called the Americas, but, in fact, between all the continents of the globe became possible. Some may argue that this cross-pollinization may not have been a good thing. Those people should return to the continent of their predominant ancestry and live the life of average 15th century folk.

The second argument for discrediting Columbus is that he launched what became a program of genocide against indigenous peoples, as well as the African slave trade. These are grave charges, and are substantially true. They do not, however, indict the man, Columbus; rather they indict his age.

It is difficult to postulate any other explorer at the end of the 15th century doing any better than Columbus on this score. This is to say, then, that the vices of Columbus were largely the vices of his culture, but his discovery of the New World was his own.

Those who, like me, believe Columbus to have been a great man and one to whom all the world owes a great debt might be interested to know what he was doing just 500 years ago this year, in 1498. That was the year of his third voyage. Like most great discoveries, the New World was not found all at once.

For six years Columbus explored what we now call the islands of the Caribbean Sea. He was sure that there was a continent still to be found. On August 1, 1498, Columbus found the mainland of South America, and spent the rest of the month following the coastline of the continent.

Columbus's life became more tumultuous in 1499, and though there were still a few notable achievements in his future, his discovery of continental South America was his last great success. In 1506 Columbus died. Others may have equalled him in his exploration as an endeavor of daring-do, but none has ever equalled Columbus in the re[illegible] of his exploration. I doubt that anyone ever shall

Domestic Violence Awareness Month

Profiling A Victim; Why Does She Stay?

by Linda Spassil
Director, The Dove Center

Who are the victims of domestic violence and why do they stay in such a relationship? Ninety-five percent of victims of domestic violence are female. Since almost any woman can become involved in a violent, intimate relationship, there is no single description that encompasses all aspects of every woman who is battered. However, a profile listing characteristics that are common to many battered women has been developed.

The characteristics in the following profile are the result, not the cause, of the distinctive environment in which the woman has been living. The woman profiled accepts traditional male and female roles; is passive, placating, and easily dominated; accepts male dominance and the myth of male superiority; equates dominance with masculinity; and feels she has no rights, including the right to be free from physical harm.

The woman in this profile also accepts guilt when there has been no wrongdoing; accepts her partner's reality as being the only reality; acts as a buffer between her partner and the rest of the world; feels she must help her mate even if it is at her own expense; has a strong need to be needed; and underestimates or downplays the danger in her situation.

In addition the woman profiled has an unshakable faith that things will improve or else feels that there is absolutely nothing she can do about her situation. She bases her feeling of self-worth on her ability to attract a man and maintain a relationship, suffers from low self-esteem, and doubts her own sanity.

One may ask why a woman would remain in an abusive situation? Usually there is not one reason for staying in a violent relationship, but several overlapping ones. Reasons for staying that have been cited by abused spouses include: fear that leaving will precipitate even more violent incidents of abuse directed toward them or their children; emotional dependence on the marital relationship, accompanied by feelings of low self-esteem and self-blame; lack of financial resources and employment income necessary to establish and maintain an independent household; and concern about the effects of separation or divorce on the children.

Others reasons given for not leaving an abusive situation include: concern about the loss of economic security and benefits such as retirement income and health insurance; feelings of love toward the spouse, coupled with hope that the relationship will improve and the violence will cease; denial of the potential for severe abuse; rationalizations and excuses for the abuser's behavior, as well as the inability to assess accurately the risks of the situation; physical and/or social isolation from family, friends, and community resources; and concern about the negative implication of divorce affecting her career.

Also among the reasons women listed for staying were strong cultural and religious beliefs about the importance of maintaining a marriage, regardless of "marital" problems; feelings of shame about the occurrence of violence in the relationship, preventing requests for help; acceptance of violence as normal in families, resulting from exposure to violent episodes as a child; lack of or perceived lack of, police protection and other forms of intervention; lack of information regarding legal rights, legal options and resources available for victims; and prior unsuccessful attempts to obtain help from extended family or from the [illegible] enforcement, legal, and social service systems

by Melodee Hill

Last week while I was reading Mary's Tangent about never being able to finish a sentence, much less a conversation, because her children are always interrupting her, I experienced an epiphany. Fortunately I was alone, so no one was hurt.

What a word — epiphany. When I was growing up Epiphany was the name given to a religious occasion and no one ever used it much unless he was a priest or a catechism teacher. I could find no other meaning in my 30-year-old Webster, so I'm assuming that the word has been bowdlerized for the new millennium. Now, people use it to describe experiencing very profound revelations about themselves and how such an experience really does feel like a light bulb going on above their heads or exploding beside their ears. However, there is a tendency to use the word too much. Discovering that you would much rather eat oatmeal instead of Pop-tarts for breakfast does not make for an epiphany of any proportion. It's not even all that interesting.

Anyway, back to the thoughts that worked their way up through my subconscious, like bubbles to the surface of an unfathomable depth. I realized that my sons are not rambunctious toddlers anymore. The biggest clues being that they are both several inches taller than I am, they get more phone calls on a daily basis than the White House Press Secretary, and they now interrupt my conversations in throaty voices dripping with testosterone. This is scientific proof of the one caveat we heard repeatedly from friends with slightly older children when our toddlers were going through their "stages" — It doesn't get better, it just gets different.

The other revelation that I experienced was that after 14-plus years of aborted, diverted, and interrupted conversations, I seem to have lost the skill to maintain an entire conversation through to its conclusion. I can usually get things started, but about halfway through it slips out of my grasp and rolls away, like Sisyphus's rock. The little half-asleep guy in Brain Central Station keeps looking at his watch and tapping me on the cerebrum while he mutters, "There's a kid interruption due on synapse nine at any second, wonder what's holding it up?" I could tell him. The kids don't need a ride (yet), they don't need any money (yet), and hanging around their geeky parents is about the uncoolest thing teenagers trying to be hip could do (except actually have a conversation with their parents that doesn't begin with "Can I have...?").

So, whenever this BCS guy is tapping and whistling and the kids are off goofing around and spending money with their equally cool friends (whose parents, unfortunately, are also relegated to geekdom, so it's okay if they hang out with the rest of us geeks), the strangest thing happens. As if my brain has actually been trained to expect the kids' interruption, and it doesn't happen, I start to.... talk about my kids. Somehow the conversation derails and there we are discussing kids' activities, the friends they hang out with, and how much of our money they can spend in 15 minutes. Is there no hope for adult-oriented, mature conversation? Maybe we could talk about the president's activities, the friends he hangs out with, and how much money he spends? On second thought, did you know my older son has his license now?

Why Here? Why Now?

In celebration of October as Arts and Humanities Month, The Republican presents the following commentary written by Steve Schlosnagle, executive director of the Garrett County Arts Council.

At the Garrett County Arts Council, I encounter one question more than any other: "How do you account for the remarkable diversity and quality of artistic talent and expression in Garrett County?"

I've been afforded opportunity to consider numerous variations of this question on many occasions through the curiosity and interest of arts advocates from around the state, outside the region, and primarily from within our own community.

How would you account for the current emergence of a growing, distinctive arts community here?

I can't. There are simply too many variables to take into account to fit any one theory. I'm happy, however, to suggest some social and historic considerations from which to frame the question.

First, Garrett County presents a beautiful natural environment with four distinct, stunning seasons. "Truth is beauty; beauty, truth . . ."

The second consideration relates to the Garrett County climate and our local economy. These have always challenged the people who live here. Mere survival has called forth creativity and ingenuity along with a certain individual scrappiness. Creativity, ingenuity, and independent thought, combined with real life experience, constitute the unwritten page, the blank canvas, and the basic instrument from which artistic expression is most likely to spring forth.

A third consideration is this: While Garrett County has never been a truly closed society, it has (for most of its history since settlement) been a relatively closed-in society, isolated from outside influence. There have been three notable periods of exception. The first occurred with the advent of the National Road and the flow of westward demographic expansion through our mountains in the early nineteenth century. The second period of cultural influx accompanied the establishment of Oakland, Deer Park, Mountain Lake Park, and adjoining areas as popular and elite resort destinations during the heyday of the railroad in the age of steam. In our century, the development of Deep Creek Lake — accompanied by ease and accessibility of personal transportation — has served as a magnet attracting direct outside influence to this neck of the woods.

Each period of social influx has produced a certain cultural synergy, which has stimulated the diversity and quality of artistic expression and opportunity here.

A fourth consideration also has social and economic underpinnings. Ours has been a half-century of relative affluence and leisure. Those of us who now live here can afford to visit elsewhere — and return. Our children can pursue education in the outside world — and (with spunk and dedication) return. Natives and long-time residents who move away for employment and social opportunities, or adventure, can (and in growing numbers do) return. It is not possible to leave these mountains and then return without a broader perspective of the world we live in and the immediate area we inhabit. This going and coming contributes to a social environment of increasing openness, tolerance, receptivity, and experimentation — all hallmarks of free, original artistic expression and exploration.

OCTOBER IS ARTS AND HUMANITIES MONTH, as proclaimed this week by the Garrett County commissioners and numerous local artists and art supporters. The document signed by the commissioners states that "the arts are good for us; enhance the quality our lives, promote free and creative expression and exchange of ideas and emotions; contribute to life-long and well balanced education and healthy development of mind, body, and spirit; stimulate economic development and diversity; spark our imaginations; comfort us in times of trouble and loss; exult us in celebration; engage us in mindful living and civil communication; and entertain us throughout life." The month of October has been recognized as National Arts and Humanities Month by the U.S. Conference of Mayors to encourage participation of the nation's 23,000 cultural organizations and 3,800 local arts agencies in a nationwide celebration of American arts and humanities. Many arts supporters and organization representatives were on hand for the signing, and are pictured above with the commissioners (seated left to right: Wayne Johnson, Wayne Wilt, and Gary Fratz). Standing in the first row, left to right, are Clint Englander, member of the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) board; John Grant, Garrett County Historical Society; Steve Schlosnagle, GCAC executive director; Judy Bertsch, Our Town Theatre (OTT) board of directors; Betty Mattingly, Hammers & Strings; Summer DeBastiani, director of Pandora's Box; Sonia Pratt, artist and GCAC member; Jennifer Mastel-Pietta, artist; Marcene Huebner, chair of Garret Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF); Beth Johnson, GLAF board; and Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools. In the back row, same order, are Dave Bertsch, OTT board; Rebecca McClive, artist; Charles P. Evans, artist; Ron Skidmore, professor of art at Garrett Community College; Laura Stutzman, artist; Mark Stutzman, artist; Glenn Tolbert, Main Street Maryland manager; and Sheila Hughes, Ruth Enlow Library representative.

JENNIFER EVANS REMEMBERED — In keeping with October as Arts and Humanities Month, a painting by the late Jennifer Evans was presented to the Garrett County commissioners this week by Steve Schlosnagle, pictured, executive director of the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC). Also in attendance at the presentation were Jennifer's father, Charles ("Chip") Evans, and her sister, Rebecca McClive, both of whom are also painters. Jennifer had attended the Art Institute in Baltimore and had owned and operated the Art Garret in Oakland. She died suddenly on Oct. 8, 1997, at the age of 30. Her painting titled "View from Liller's" was given to the commissioners to be displayed in the public meeting room. GCAC made the presentation in memory of the artist and in celebration of the artistic talent within the Garrett County community.

be needed for all these travelers. Or how about the information centers and rest stops that would be needed, and weigh stations for tractor trailers? More of Garrett County's beautiful land would be destroyed and more tax dollars spent to accommodate an interstate.

In closing, please think about all aspects of an interstate running through Garrett County: costly maintenance, more travelers than we can imagine, land destruction, tax increases, wildlife destroyed, and crime. Is this really what we want? People from the cities are running away as fast as they can to places like Garrett County for peace of mind, relaxation, less traffic, less crime, and for the nature and beautiful landscapes we provide. I don't think the city dwellers are crazy for wanting what we have, but they do not have to get here on an interstate. We will be voting in the election soon. Please review the candidates' opinions on the interstate, as several are in favor of this. Garrett County, not even one inch of (our) land, should be compromised to get travelers to New York or Canada faster.

Thank You,

Expedition Gets Underway Today

Friendsville's Roger Zbel and three fellow kayakers began a journey across Tibet today, as they kayak down unexplored reaches of that Asian region's Yarling Tsang Po River on an expedition sponsored by National Geographic magazine.

In a live feature interview broadcast during today's Morning Edition news program on National Public Radio, expedition leader Tom McEwan, a Washington, D.C.-area resident, said that the team is eager to begin after a journey of several days from Katmandu to the river's edge.

"With walls sometimes reaching to 16,000 feet above the water, this is the deepest river gorge in the world," McEwan explained over the satellite telephone feed provided by the government of the People's Republic of China. "It's four times deeper than the Grand Canyon. The water flow right now is running more than the Potomac River would at floodstage in Washington."

McEwan, Zbel, and their fellow paddlers will be on the 1,000 mile river for over a month. The 42-year-old Zbel is the founder, owner, and operator of Precision Rafters in Friendsville.

ALL GARRETT AMBULANCES PASS INSPECTION — The seven ambulances used by the Southern and Northern Garrett rescue squads were all inspected last month and were all found to be in satisfactory condition. The annual voluntary inspection is completed by officials of the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Service Systems (MIEMSS), with the help of local mechanics and emergency care professionals. In the photo above, Mike Saunders, first lieutenant for Southern rescue, is shown at left as he watches Dave Ramsey, Region I MEIMSS director, check equipment. Phil Rook, another local Region I inspector, is pictured just inside the vehicle, and Ken May, the chairman for MIEMSS Transportation Committee, is shown in the captain's chair. Edgar Yoder, a local mechanic and a member of the Northern rescue squad, is pictured below as he checks out the engine of Southern rescue's newest unit, a 1998 Ford rescue unit that has been used in only two or three calls so far.

RAM Notes

by Chuck Harkins

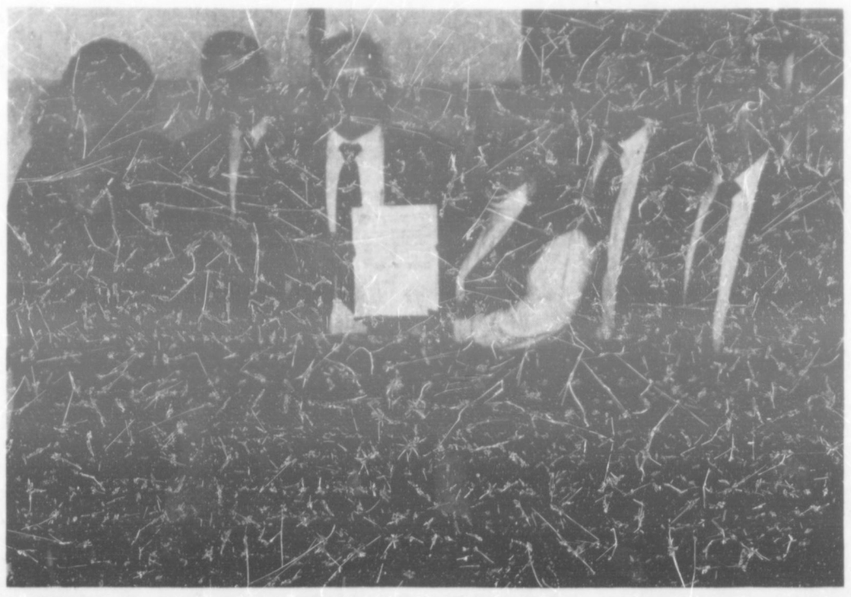
• The Class of 2001 will sponsor a Joe Corby Pizza Sale as a class fund-raiser beginning on October 8. Orders will be taken until October 22, and delivery of the pizzas will be on November 6. The proceeds of this fund-raiser will be used for next year's prom, traditionally sponsored by the junior class. If you would like to help the Class of 2001 increase the treasury and enjoy some good food in the process, see any member of the sophomore class or contact Valerie Frazee or Athena Wilson at the school.

• The Maryland Functional Writing Test is slated for Wednesday, Oct. 21. Parents are reminded that students must be properly rested and eat a good breakfast prior to coming to school that day.

• Parents are reminded that pick-up and drop-off of students is permitted only in the turning circle below the gym. Parents are urged to follow these directions to avoid safety hazards for buses entering or leaving the school premises.

• Parents and students are also reminded that it is posted that all cars must turn left when exiting the student lot at the front of the school from 3:15 until 3:30 p.m. everyday. Students who fail to obey this rule will lose parking privileges. The sheriff's office frequently patrols this area and will issue citations to those individuals who choose to disobey the law.

• Parents are urged to check with Guidance about the upcoming PSAT tests on Tuesday, Oct. 20, and the College Expo, scheduled for this Monday evening, Oct. 12, at GCC.



MENTAL ILLNESS AWARENESS WEEK PROCLAIMED — The Garrett County commissioners teamed up this week with Garrett County Lighthouse Inc. to proclaim Mental Illness Awareness Week, Oct. 4-10. The proclamation states that severe mental illnesses — such as schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, major depression, obsessive-compulsive disorder — affect one in every five families annually, and that these disorders are more common than cancer, diabetes, and heart disease, being the number one reasons for hospital admissions nationwide. The treatment success rate for schizophrenia is 60%, 65% for major depression, and 80% for bipolar disorder, compared to roughly 50% for chronic physical disorders (such as heart disease, diabetes, or cancer). However, brain disorders continue to be shrouded in stigma, and those who suffer from them are regularly discriminated against, the document states. Organizers hope that the designated week will help increase public awareness of severe mental illness and promote greater understanding of those who suffer from the potentially disabling symptoms of these disorders. Pictured at the signing, left to right, are Lighthouse officers Martha Jachowski, president; Barbara Briggs, vice president; Commissioners Wayne Johnson and Wayne Wilt; Debbie Jo Adams-Noroski, executive director; Commissioner Gary Fratz; and Arthur Naylor, treasurer. "We commend the Garrett County commissioners for their efforts in helping Lighthouse educate the people of our county about the true nature of these illnesses and to end the discrimination that our consumers and family members frequently face," said Adams-Noroski.

• On October 5, Southern hosted an all-school assembly called "Flashpoint," from ARC productions. By using live Top 40s music, live drama, and video, the group showed students the danger of using drugs to solve problems or hide emotions. The group also witnessed how anger has destructive results on relationships and productivity. We would like to extend our appreciation to the Garrett County Health Department for sponsoring the "kick-off" of Red Ribbon activities for the month of October.

Some modifications will need to be made to the 125-gallon marine tank in Room 2122 to begin the project. As everyone knows, instructional funds are usually in short supply, and Mrs. Marks is asking for public support through donations and fund-raising activities. Throughout the year, biology students will help to raise monies for these modifications.

The Southern High student body celebrated Fall Homecoming 1998 last week with a host of daily events which allowed students and teachers to participate. The week ended with both the football and soccer teams scoring big wins over their opponents.

Students danced around a bonfire pep rally Thursday night as the band, cheerleaders, sports teams, and the Oakland fire department helped get everyone into the spirit of the week. Friday night's game came down to the last play of the game, and the Rams pulled off an upset victory over Tucker County.

The 1998 Homecoming Court was presented at half-time. These students were selected by their fellow classmates: Lindsay Perry and Tony Wilson, freshmen representatives, Erin Orr and Rusty Strubin represented the sophomore class, and Heather Hanline and Uwe Dietzel were chosen as junior class representatives.

The following seniors were chosen for the court: Megan Conroy and Bo Jonson, Crystal Hinnant and Beau Gibson, Andi Bender and Jason Weaver, Sheri Perando and Keith Parks, and John Andrews and Britiney Slider. Crystal Hinnant was crowned queen and Keith Parks named king at the annual homecoming dance Saturday evening. Over 350 students attended.

SUNDAE EATING ON TRIAL - These four esteemed Garrett Countians will preside as judges for the annual No-Hands Sundae Eating Contest, slated for Sunday, Oct. 11, at 2 p.m. at the Lakeside Creamery to benefit Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Garrett County. Contestants competing in elementary, middle, and high school, "out of high school," and team divisions will pay a $3.25 entry fee, or $30 per team sponsor, to tackle a three-scoop sundae with toppings and whipped cream, armed only with their mouths. Shown above, from the left, Ralph Burnett, judge of the District Court, James Sherbin, judge of the Circuit Court, Lisa Thayer Welch, Garrett County state's attorney, and Lewis Jones, retired District Court judge, surround a sundae that will meet its fate this Sunday. (Burnett and Jones appear to be just a wee bit over-anxious to bite into their roles.) For further information interested persons may call Big Brothers/Big Sisters at 301-334-3591.

Cable Company Notes Changes; Solicits Input

Concerns expressed by customers of the FrontierVision cable company over the loss of local FM radio station signals that were carried on the local cable system have prompted the company to address the matter and seek the public's input via a mail-in radio station survey that appears on this page of The Republican.

Recent channel line-up changes, necessitated by a head-end consolidation, forced FrontierVision to use every available channel space in order to merge two channel line-ups into one. With the new line-up serving the Deep Creek, McHenry, Friendsville, and Accident communities, channels had to be added in order to keep as many of the existing programming services from each community as possible. With this merger, the cable system is channel locked, meaning no additional channel spaces exist.

As a result, FrontierVision plans to upgrade the cable system to 450 MHz over the next 24 months. This upgrade will include new electronics, the replacement of some traditional coax cable, and the addition of state-of-the-art fiber-optic cable.

"This upgrade will deliver improved reception, increased system reliability, and increased channel capacity for expansion in the near future," said Gary Shoemaker, regional plant manager, adding that once the rebuild is complete, FrontierVision will be able to add additional programming services.

"FrontierVision still recognizes the need and demand for local news, weather, and information provided by local radio stations that are difficult to receive using traditional antennas," said Chris Piciacchia, regional marketing manager.

FrontierVision customers can complete the mail-in survey and send it in with their next payment, Piciacchia continued. The company will tally the results and add the local radio station most in demand. The station will be added to channel 97, which is the Garrett Community College channel, and will serve as a background audio feed when not in use by the college.

"For comments or concerns, please contact our customer service office at 1-800-753-0778," Piciacchia said. "We are delighted to deliver our customers the best television entertainment and customer service available."

End-Of-Season Concert Slated At Puzzley Run

The final gospel concert of the 1998 season will be presented by Puzzley Run Folklife Center at Bietschehof, Crantsville. Beginning at 1 p.m., the music will continue until evening. The concert will be hosted by Lewis and Garrett and will feature many names familiar to Puzzley Run concert-goers such as Cross-Road Revival, Charlie Scott, the Starlighters, Glory Bound, and Gertie Wilburn.

Returning from a previous concert will be the Willing Hearts and Julie Wilburn. New to the Puzzley Run stage will be One Journey and Lead by the Spirit.

The Starlighters will also bring a concession trailer, which will offer hamburgers, hot dogs, french fries, and funnel cakes. The "bake lady," Ada Beachy, will have a table of homemade goods.

The Bietschehof petting zoo animals, including the Lamar Llama family, will be on hand.

"We are attempting to provide to the folks and families of our area a time of wonderful music, good food, and recreation to encourage the old-fashioned custom of visiting on a Sunday afternoon to enjoy Christian fellowship," said Bill Durst co-director of Puzzley Run.

Plan are also moving ahead for a three-day Christian Getaway weekend of music, workshops, spiritual renewal, and recreation at Bietschehof, Durst explained. Currently the event is scheduled for June 18-20, 1999. "Folks are invited to share their ideas with us for such a weekend," Durst said.

A freewill offering will be taken at the Sunday concert. Bietschehof is located between Grantsville and Keyser's Ridge, one mile north of Rt. 40. Persons may take Zehner Road to Hetrick Road to the Bietschehof sign. Guests are invited to bring a lawn chair.

For more information persons may call Bietschehof at 301-895-3742.

Richards Vies For Riley's BOE Seat

John Richards has announced his candidacy for the open District 2 Garrett County School Board seat being vacated by Pat Riley. He issued the following statement:

"I am committed to carrying forward the goals and objectives set by the current board four years ago. I do not believe in ambiguous outcome-based educational objectives set by Washington. I believe that decisions affecting our students' learning should be made closest to the local school level, based on objective standards of learning. I am pro life, pro abstinence, and pro character education.

"I feel that a specific character development curriculum, such as Character First or Character Counts, which are perfectly legal and successful, should be adopted by our county schools. Though we have a president who is confused about whether to tell the truth, our children do not need to be confused — They can be taught that it is right to tell the truth in all circumstances, and that there are moral absolutes — No court has invalidated character and moral education.

"I stand for consistent discipline in classrooms and on school buses. A regularly disruptive student should be placed in an alternative classroom with the structure he needs to learn and be controlled. A regularly disruptive student on the bus should find another way to school — Bus riding is a privilege, not a right.

"I support the capital development plan for Northern High School; I will oppose school consolidation when the local elementary school is perfectly viable. I support expanded opportunities for vo-tech and gifted/talented students, and I will work to bring parents into full participation and accountability in the educational process.

"I have more than 20 years' teaching experience — 11 years in Virginia public schools and 10 years in private schools, two of which I served as head teacher. I earned a master's degree in education in 1976. My wife Louise and I live near Grantsville, where she administers the Salem Children's Home, and I work as assistant director at the Salem School for troubled young people.

Union Ambulance Service Secures Legislative Grant For New Unit

Members of Union Ambulance Service, Aurora, recently received word that a legislative grant has been approved to help them purchase a new ambulance for their community.

"Senator Sarah Minear was instrumental in helping us obtain this $30,000 grant," said Ellen Harsh, speaking on behalf of the ambulance service. "We appreciate her help so much. We couldn't have done it without her."

Now the ambulance service has to come up with at least $50,000 more, according to Harsh, and must purchase the vehicle before June 1999, or the grant will be lost. "We have two other units that are both over 10 years old," she said, "and we hope to raise the money we need for a new one by the first of the year."

Among the first of the fundraising activities conducted by members of the squad was a quilt raffle during the recent Mt. Grove Potato Festival. Approximately $700 was realized from that effort, according to Harsh. The next project will be a "road block" on Rt. 50 in Aurora on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 17-18. Members will be accepting donations from motorists throughout the weekend.

The Union Ambulance Service has been an active part of the Aurora community since 1976, and relies primarily on donations from the public. Many volunteer hours by residents of Aurora and its surrounding communities are spent with the ambulance service as they answer emergency calls, assist the Aurora Volunteer Fire Department, as well as other area VFDs. Members also assist with safety drills and demonstrations at the Aurora school, offer CPR classes at the squad hall, provide a location for quilting and for residents to get their flu shots (which is planned in the near future, according to Harsh), and support other communities by offering "stand by" assistance at various festivals and events.

Persons or organizations interested in assisting the Union squad with their undertaking, or those who are interested in becoming a member may call Keith Douglas at 304-735-5228, or Harsh at 304-735-5468.

Film Showing Set At Church

Reprinting Of Killing Waters Book Announced

Publisher Bob Teets has announced plans to reprint Killing Waters: The Great West Virginia Flood of 1985 as a tribute to "the courageous people of West Virginia and the brave local newspaper reporters who faced this tragedy side by side."

"A North Dakota newspaper recently won a Pulitzer Prize for its coverage of a 1997 flood in that state, but West Virginians recall the superlative coverage by their own state newspapers about the 1985 flood that was featured in the best-selling book about the event," Teets said.

The 112-page book, compiled by Teets and Shelby Young, chronicles the November 1985 flood with over 160 photographs and 50 stories, most of which originally appeared in state newspapers at the time. The disaster, America's worst that year, claimed 47 lives and resulted in damages exceeding $500 million in 29 of the state's 55 counties, according to sources listed in the book.

Teets is now president of Headline Books Inc., which is reprinting the book, and he works for the state Public Service Commission. Young works for the Putnam Democrat newspaper. The January 28, 1986, national edition of USA Today was first to declare Killing Waters a bestseller, only two months after its original publication in December 1985. At that time, the book had sold 25,000 copies. Most of those early sales were made through the same newspapers featured in the book. Within months, the book had sold 80,000 copies worldwide, prompting Teets's and Young's publishing company to donate over $25,000 to flood relief agencies and to provide free equipment to a number of newspapers wiped out by the killing waters.

The reprinted version of Killing Waters will sell for $15.95 plus $3 for shipping and handling when it is released in December, but Teets said people can save on the cost if they order the book now from the publisher at a pre-publication price of $12.95 plus the shipping cost (West Virginia buyers must also add 95¢ state tax.).

The process of reprinting the book will not be so easy, Teets explained. Few, if any of the original photographs or printing plates remain, he said, so the book will be reprinted by means of photographing and reproducing every page exactly as it first appeared. "We are very pleased that our printer can handle this exacting task," he said. Killing Waters: The Great West Virginia Flood of 1985 will also be available at bookstores or can be ordered direct from Headline Books Inc., P.O. Box 52, Terra Alta, WV 26764. Orders may also be placed by calling 1-800-570-5951.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

HAUNTED TRAIL AT CATHEDRAL

The Aurora Pioneer 4-H Club is sponsoring a haunted trail again this year at Cathedral State Park on Oct. 24. There will be a "trick or treat" trail at 6:30 p.m. for younger children, and the trail for older children and adults will begin at dark. The public is welcome.

HYMN SING

A hymn sing will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora, on Sunday, Oct. 18, beginning at 2 p.m. There will also be special music presented, including St. Paul's choir. Refreshments will be provided by the Aid Association for Lutherans, Branch 9783, and a freewill offering will be accepted to benefit the youth fund.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

An annual AAL spaghetti dinner is being served from 5 until 7 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 22, at St. Paul's Lutheran parish hall. The menu includes spaghetti, salad, bread, dessert, and beverage, at a cost of $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12. Proceeds go to the youth fund for the next national youth gathering.

CRAFT FAIR

An annual craft fair sponsored by the Mt. View Rebekah Lodge is being held Nov. 7 at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. Tables may be reserved at $10 each by calling Ressie Conrad at 735-5425 or Mary Stemple at 735-5483.

PLEASANT VALLEY SPAGHETTI DINNER

The Bolivian mission team is sponsoring a spaghetti dinner at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on Saturday, Oct. 17, from 4 until 8 p.m. The cost of the meal is $5 for adults, $3 for children 3-10, and children under 2 may eat free. There will also be a silent auction.

Several from this area are involved with the mission group, and the public is encouraged to attend.

REVIVAL

The youth of the Maple Spring Church are planning a revival for the evenings of Oct. 22, 23, and 24, with special music and other activities also planned. Guest speaker is Craig Howard of Petersburg. Services begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening. Everyone is welcome.

QUILTING IN PROGRESS

With another quilt in the frames, the time of quilting at the Union Ambulance Squad Hall has been set for Wednesday afternoons at 1 p.m. Help with the project would be appreciated. Those who can quilt in the evenings are asked to contact Delores Stemple to arrange a time.

PERSONAL MENTION

Courtney Fint, daughter of Joe and Stacy Fint of Aurora, served as maid to Queen Silvia at the 1998 Forest Festival in Elkins. Fint is a sophomore at West Virginia University.

Melvin and Melissa Frantz of Virginia visited this weekend with his parents, Don and Neva Frantz and Missy, Eglon, and with other area relatives.

Dorothy Knapp is spending this week with her daughter and son-in-law, Linn and John Crowe and Julie, at Eglon. Mrs. Knapp resides in Florida.

Jesse and Elsie Harsh of Silver Knob observed their 50th wedding anniversary on Sept. 22. They celebrated Oct. 3 with an open house at the Gortner Union Church. Jesse is a son of the late Nelson and Carrie (Lantz) Harsh, who were residents of Eglon, and Elsie is the daughter of the late Ed and Mary (Crowe) Hesse who had lived at Gortner. They are parents of two children, Mary Teets of Eglon and Charles Harsh of Oakland.

Dale and Mildred Stemple of Aurora visited in Charleston with their daughters, Peggy Cramer and family, and Sandra Stemple.

Word was received here that two former Eglon residents have been ill. Esther Fike Allen of Solon, Ohio, had surgically implanted stints which have reportedly improved her condition. Ellis Harsh of Bridgewater, Va., was the victim of a light stroke from which he is reportedly recovering, but will undergo further tests and surgery.

Those from the area United Methodist churches who went to Burlington last Wednesday to help with apple butter making were Alma Snyder, David and Wilma Mae Teets, Beatrice Ball, Carolyn Mullenax, Ressie and Bill Conrad, Pastor Joe Robinette, Gertrude Stemple, Marie Mullenax, Wilda Stemple, Shirley Parsons, Sheridan and Nina Layman, Paul and Steve Stemple, and Maxine Hauser and Pat Stemple. Ruth Snyder went along and was recognized on Saturday for the many years she had helped with the festival and apple butter making. She stayed with her son there, then returned to Aurora on Sunday.

Doyne Teets of Springfield, Va., and his mother Naomi Teets of Boonsboro, Md., made a brief visit in Eglon last week with Roscoe and Ruth Teets.

Maynard Lantz of Aurora was treated to a late birthday dinner on Saturday, when he and his wife Bonnylin hosted a dinner for their children and families. His birthday was Monday, the day after his return from the hospital.

Thirty-two people attended a meeting on Oct. 6, to establish the Aurora Historical Society. The newly elected officers are: president, Alice Penzo; vice-president, James Slawter; secretary, Virginia Martin; treasurer, Jo Ann Helton; historian, Dan Ingram; curator, Michelle Moune; and librarian, Martha Bolyard.

Last Thursday night, Roy Rogers movies were shown at the Community Building. More than 30 people attended. They enjoyed popcorn and drinks during the break. Some purchased books from the library book sale tables.

Anyone from the class of 1953 who would like a small copy of the cap and gown poster shot, please call Laura Frye at 304-735-5471.

Fundraising Festivities Set For Oct. 17 At Reckart's Mill

An afternoon of festivities on Saturday, Oct. 17, is planned at Reckart's Mill in nearby Cranesville, W.Va., to benefit the restoration of the historic gristmill.

A variety of activities, including tours of the mill, live music, a 50/50 drawing, prizes donated by local merchants, and concessions provided by the Cranesville Homemakers Club, will be provided from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Built in 1895, the mill is now on the National Registry of Historical Places and is currently owned by Glenn and Terrie Hardesty. The Friends of Reckart's Mill Foundation, a non-profit organization, is in charge of the fundraising event.

Rams Flatten Alco Before Upsetting Bishop Walsh

Playing outstanding soccer this past week were the Southern High School varsity boys, who avenged earlier losses to two teams and, in so doing, upset previously unbeaten (10-0) Bishop Walsh. The Rams first crushed visiting Allegany on Saturday, 6-0, in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League clash, and then they traveled to Cumberland on Tuesday afternoon where they stopped the area's number one ranked squad, Bishop Walsh, 2-1. Southern had lost to Allegany, 5-3, and to the Spartans, 6-1, last month.

The victories gave Southern a 5-2-1 record overall and a 5-1-1 mark in the WMIL standings.

Senior All-Area player John Andrews recorded a hat trick in the win over Allegany by scoring goals number two, four, and six. He also assisted on a pair of other goals.

German exchange student Uwe Dietzel scored off a feed by Andrews 9½ minutes into the match to put the Rams' first point on the board. Andrews then buried one in the net off an assist by Derrick Nelson with just under five minutes remaining in the first half to double Southern's total. A goal by freshman D.J. Parsons off Andrews' second assist with less than a minute to play in the half put the Rams on top 3-0 at intermission.

Andrews scored again with just under 25 minutes left in the match off an assist by Dietzel to make it 4-0. Nelson followed with a goal about three minutes later, and Andrews scored unassisted just a minute after that to complete the rout.

The Rams finished with a 23-13 advantage in shots on goal and had a 6-1 lead in corner kicks. Jonathan Price earned nine saves in goal for Southern, while Rob Stansbury recorded eight and Hodges had three for Allegany.

Defensive standouts for Southern were Nick Glotfelty, Chad Lovett, Bo Jonson, and Michael Schwalm.

In Tuesday's huge win over Bishop Walsh, it was Dietzel and Andrews who combined for both of Southern's goals, and both were scored in less than a half-minute.

Dietzel scored off an assist by Andrews with 16:51 remaining in the first half to give Southern a 1-0 advantage. It took just 26 seconds for the Rams to score again, this time by Andrews off a feed from Dietzel.

An unassisted goal by Paul Ruddell with 10:33 left in the match averted a shutout for the Spartans.

Each team was credited with 14 shots on goal, and the Rams finished with a 3-2 edge in corner kicks. Price had six saves for the Rams and John Meyers stopped eight shots for the Spartans.

The Southern junior varsity dropped the preliminary match, 1-0, as BW jayvee Jason Miller scored the only goal of that contest. Brandon Heselbach had six saves in goal for the Rams.

The Rams, who are coached by Tom Powers, Mel Menker, and Bill Lovett, will play again this Friday at Northern. The junior varsity match will kick off at 6 p.m., and the varsity will get under way at 7:30.

AVENGING AN EARLIER LOSS to the Allegany Campers Saturday night at home were the Southern High School varsity boys, who crushed the visitors from Cumberland, 6-0, and upped their season record to 4-2-1 and their Western Maryland Interscholastic League mark to 4-1-1. Above, Ram freshman D.J. Parsons (#2, right foreground) fires a shot past Allegany's Rob Stansbury to record his first-ever high school goal and to put Southern on top 3-0 with less than a minute remaining in the first half. Also identifiable in the photo for Southern is senior Derrick Nelson, who scored Southern's second goal of the evening. In the photo at right, Ram senior Dustin Slider maneuvers around an Alco defender. The Rams also played at Bishop Walsh on Tuesday. See story for details. Photos by John McEwen.

Southern Girls Rip Cats Before Edging Allegany

The first season of girls' soccer at Southern High School is beginning to emerge as an outstanding one, as the Rams crushed visiting Westmar last Thursday, 7-0, and then recorded a big 1-0 victory Tuesday night over Allegany in Cumberland. The pair of Western Maryland Interscholastic League wins upped the Rams' overall season record to 6-1-1 and their WMIL mark to 6-0-1.

Seven different players scored in the easy win over Westmar, with six of those recorded unassisted.

Megan Burner hit the first one for the Rams with 34:12 remaining in the first half. Laura Friend and Krissy Kesner followed with goals at the 19:27 and 17:05 marks to give Southern a 3-0 halftime advantage.

Making it 4-0 was Gina Reeves with an unassisted goal less than two minutes into the second half. Her sister Charlena Reeves followed with an unassisted score at the 26:42 mark.

A goal by Desiree Spady off an assist by Gina Reeves gave the Rams a commanding 6-0 lead with 18:20 to play. Coaches Nan Gangler and Ron Petrella then pulled Becky Martin from the Ram goalkeeper spot, and she scored the final point of the night with an unassisted shot at the 5:02 mark.

Southern finished with a 16-0 spread in shots on goal and recorded a 9-1 lopsided lead in corner kicks. Martin had to make only one save in the match from her keeper spot, while Westmar keeper Ashley McCutcheon stopped a dozen shots by the Rams.

Martin had to be carried from the field in Tuesday night's game against Allegany at Greenway Stadium after she sustained a severe thigh bruise. Taking her place was Gina Reeves, who also scored the only goal of the night to give the Rams their sixth win of the season.

Reeves' goal was recorded, unassisted, with 6:13 remaining in the first half. She also preserved the Rams' one-goal victory when she successfully stopped a penalty kick by the Campers.

S - Charlena Reeves unassisted, 26:42.

S - Desiree Spady assisted by Gina Reeves, 18:20.

S - Becky Martin unassisted, 5:02.

The Rams were outgunned by a 6-5 margin in shots, and Allegany finished with a 6-4 edge in corner kicks. Martin and Reeves combined for five saves, while Brooke Payton had six saves for the Campers. The loss dropped Alco to 2-5 overall and 2-4 in the WMIL.

Southern will return to action on Monday at Westmar for a make-up match with the Wildcats. Kick-off is set for 7 p.m. The Rams will then host cross-county rival Northern next Wednesday. The Rams and Huskies played to a double-overtime, 1-1 tie in their first meeting.

Drill-less Dentistry

New drill-less technology gently sprays away decay

YANT

There is a new dental instrument out called the KCP. Is it really a painless replacement for the drill? The term "painless" is probably an overstatement. However, the KCP™ Kinetic Cavity Preparation system can often be used without anesthesia. And though it doesn't replace the drill completely, it does provide an alternative way to prepare many teeth for fillings. It is especially beneficial in the treatment of children and in the care of patients whose medical conditions restrict the use of anesthesia.

How does it work?
Minute particles, almost too small to be seen with the naked eye, are carried to the tooth by a stream of air, gently and precisely spraying away decay. Think of it as a microscopically precise miniature sandblaster. There is little or no vibration and no whining sound.

Is it safe?
Absolutely. The particles used are alpha alumina, a pure, biocompatible food grade substance long used in medicine and food. Only a tiny amount is actually used in each procedure and most of it is removed by an evacuation system. Laboratory tests show that patients would have to undergo about 28 typical 20-30 second KCP procedures in order to inhale enough alpha alumina to equal the weight of one grain of table salt.

Is every patient treated with the KCP?
No. The drill is still needed to prepare teeth for crowns, remove silver-colored fillings and perform a number of other important procedures. And the KCP system is not used to treat soft tissue such as the gums. When the procedure does call for the KCP, it may be used in combination with other instruments such as the drill.

How can I learn more about the KCP?
If you call our office at 301-334-2225, we'll be happy to answer your questions.

Kenner, Butler Lead Huskies Over Sentinels

Goals by Kara Kenner and Brooke Butler powered the Northern High School girls' soccer team to a big 2-1 Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory over visiting Fort Hill last night, which upped the Huskies' overall record to 5-1-1.

Kenner, a midfielder for Coach Katie Kane, put the first point of the match on the board with 31 minutes left in the first half when she sent a shot from the right side over the head of the Sentinel keeper.

Butler doubled the Huskies' total when she scored an unassisted goal at the 16-minute mark.

The Sentinels (3-5) averted a shutout with a goal at the 37-minute mark of the second half. The rest of the match was all defense.

"It was a real defensive struggle, mostly because of the rain and a slick field," stated Coach Kane.

Further details of the match, such as shots on goal and corner kicks, were unavailable this morning.

The Huskies' next match is tentatively scheduled for Saturday at Bishop Walsh with a 4 p.m. kickoff; however, the schools are attempting to find a new date. Fans may contact Coach Kane at Northern on Friday (746-8668) for an update.

The Huskies will travel to Oakland next Wednesday for a return match with the Southern Rams. The two teams tied in a thriller at Northern.

Local Racquetball League Forming; Tourney Slated

The 1998-99 Winter Racquetball League, which plays its matches at the Board Room Health & Racquet Club in Oakland, is now forming. The league games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday nights. A sign-up sheet is currently posted at the courts, or interested persons may telephone Mike Stephens at 301-387-6604. League play will get under way November 10.

The league is also now recruiting players for a double-elimination tournament, slated for November 3, 5, and 7. The entrance fee is $10 per player. Competition will be held in A, B, and C divisions for all skill levels.

For more information about the tournament, persons may also contact Stephens at the above number, or telephone Stan Eggleston at 301-334-1677.

Husky Booters Fall To University, Mount Savage

The struggling Northern High School boys' soccer team dropped a pair of matches this past week and is still working to record its first victory of the season. The Huskies were topped by visiting University High of Morgantown last Friday, 6-2, and were blanked by Mount Savage, 6-0, Tuesday night in a Western Maryland Interscholastic League game, also at the Cove. The losses gave the Huskies an 0-7-1 mark for the season.

Details of the match with University were sketchy; however, those scoring for the Huskies were Mike Fletcher on an unassisted goal and Josh Gilpin off a feed by Fletcher.

Leading the Mount Savage Indians against the Huskies to their seventh win in nine matches was Joe Shafter, who scored a pair of unassisted goals in Tuesday night's contest.

Shaffer put the first point of the match on the board about five minutes into the first half. Brian Dehaven then scored an unassisted goal about 10 minutes later to make it 2-0, and Karl Hartig's unassisted shot with 12:23 remaining gave the Indians a 3-0 lead. A successful penalty shot by Adam Moulden with 9:35 left put the visitors up 4-0 for the first half.

Shaffer's second goal of the night came with 31:28 remaining in the first half, and Cass Martin added an insurance goal, unassisted, with 16:24 remaining.

The Indians finished with a 19-7 advantage in shots on goal and a 2-0 edge in corner kicks. Jimmy Kenner recorded 14 saves in goal for the Huskies and Adam Stafford finished with six for Mt. Savage.

The Huskies will host the Southern Rams this Friday night, with the jayvees' match slated to get underway at 6 p.m. and the varsity contest at 7:30. Northern will play at Bishop Walsh next Tuesday.

Rams Get Offense Going, Upset Mountain Lions

After several weeks of frustration, particularly with an offensive unit that just could not put the ball in the end zone, the Southern High Rams finally proved last Friday night that they do indeed have a good football team, as they recorded 34 points to upset visiting Tucker County, a team that came into the contest with a 5-0 record and ranked third in West Virginia's AA ratings. The Rams built an impressive 28-0 lead in the first half of play and then held on in the second half to record a 34-27 win.

The contest featured an eerie deja vu, as its conclusion was almost identical to that of the previous week's game against Grafton. The Rams lost that contest, 13-12, as Grafton took possession of the ball on a kickoff with 1:47 remaining, marched down the field, and with .8 second left, and after several tries inside the Rams' three-yard line, scored a touchdown and an extra point to win. Last week, Tucker County began its final possession of the game with 1:47 remaining on the clock, marched downfield inside the Rams' 10-yard line, and had several opportunities to score in the waning seconds. The final attempt came after the clock had expired because of a face-mask penalty. But this time the Ram defensive unit kept the Mountain Lions from scoring and preserved the big victory.

Senior running back Josh Bosley had the best game of his career, as he rushed for 166 yards and four touchdowns, while co-back Jason Weaver picked up 94 yards on 16 attempts. Nick Dolan also had an outstanding night for the Rams on both sides of the ball.

Bosley put the first Ram points on the board with touchdown runs of 37 and 20 yards, both in the first quarter. Dolan ran successfully for the extra two points on the second TD to give Southern a 14-0 lead by the end of the quarter.

Dolan then made it 20-0 with a 15-yard touchdown run early in the second quarter, and Bosley scored his third six-pointer of the night on a two-yard carry with 4:32 left in the first half. Dolan again ran for the conversion to make it 28-0.

The Mountain Lions got a major emotional lift late in the first half when Jason Hetrick hit Wes Lambert with a five-yard touchdown pass with just 25 seconds remaining. Hetrick connected with Derrick Simmons for the extra two points, making the score 28-8 at halftime.

Coach Bill Haddox and the Lions capitalized on that momentum in the third quarter by scoring two touchdowns in a row. Marshall Morris capped one drive with a one-yard touchdown carry, and Simmons hauled in a 23-yard TD pass from Hetrick. Brett Goughnour's conversion kick closed the scoring gap to 28-21 with 2:06 remaining in the third quarter.

After sputtering for most of the third quarter, the Ram offense regained its composure and put a crucial final touchdown on the board when Bosley ran to the end zone from 19 yards out with no time left in the third. The score was set up by a huge, 40-yard, third-down pass from Justin Liller to Jason Rohrbaugh, which put the ball on the Lions' 15. The run for the two-point conversion failed, and Southern led 34-21.

Tucker scored again with 4:56 left in the game when Simmons received a 14-yard TD pass from Hetrick. The kick for the conversion was no good.

The Mountain Lions stopped the Rams on their next drive to give them one final scoring opportunity, but Hetrick's pass into the end zone was incomplete and the game was over.

The Ram defense limited the Lions to just 45 yards on 22 carries on the ground, although Hetrick hit 13 of 30 passes for 203 yards. The Rams finished with a 342-248 advantage in total offense.

Leading the Southern defensive unit were Robert Unger with 11 tackles, including four sacks, and Billy Stoner with a dozen tackles and a sack. All of their sacks were accomplished in the fourth quarter.

"The key play that really helped Tucker was the touchdown right before halftime," Southern coach Tom Woods said. "It really gave them a lot of momentum in the third quarter.

"The key play of the game for us was Justin's 40-yard pass to Jason Rohrbaugh," he said.

The final two minutes of the game were not pleasant for Woods and his staff, however. "When we looked up at the clock and saw 1:47 when Tucker took possession, we couldn't believe that the same thing might happen to us two weeks in a row," he said. "And then when we thought we had won the game on a quarterback sack, but got the face-mask penalty to give them one more chance, we again thought it might be the same outcome as the week before. But our defense did its job. It was a great game and a huge win for our kids."

Woods believed that the Mountain Lions came into the game over-confident, as he hoped they would. "They were 5-0 with practically all seniors and we were 1-3," he said. "It's always tough for a coach to make their players not be over confident in those circumstances."

Woods and his staff are in exactly the same spot this week, as the Rams are preparing to host an 0-5 team. Northwest is a new school in Montgomery County and, despite its winless record, Woods is quick to point out that this team's schedule is extremely difficult. "They are 2A like we are, but they play in a really good 4A league," he said. "Up in our area, they might have a 4-1 or even a 5-0 record."

Since Northwest is a brand new school, there are no seniors on the football squad. But Woods said that game films reveal a high degree of athleticism on the squad, which has him concerned.

"They really look good on film," he said, "and they have some outstanding skill-position players."

Northwest runs a wide open offense that features almost nothing but passing. "They throw the ball about 85% of the time, or 30-35 times per game," Woods said. "Fortunately, our secondary has faced a lot of passing the past two weeks."

Doing all that passing is sophomore quarterback Brian Shaw (6-2, 210), and his favorite targets are junior tight end George Hackey (6-2, 210) and sophomore wide-outs Anwar Phillips (6-1, 175) and Kenny Davis (6-2, 180). The top rusher is junior French Pope (5-7, 165).

Northwest's 4-3 defense is led by Hackey at middle linebacker, sophomore linemen Brad Stewart (6-2, 260) and Michael Benton (6-0, 265), and junior defensive end Michael Theberge (6-2, 205).

Friday's kickoff at the Southern athletic field has been moved from 7:30 to 7 p.m. Preceding the game will be the annual SHS Football Hall of Fame induction ceremony, which will get under way at about 6:45. Named to the list this year will be former Ram standouts Mike Bittinger, J.R. Gibson, Dave Terrant, and Al Marucci.

Vikes, Raiders Will Meet For Youth Title

The Parsons Vikings and the Oakland Raiders will meet each other this Sunday, Oct. 11, to determine the champion of the Oakland Youth Football League's 1998 season, NFL Division. The Vikings, who are undefeated on the season, topped the Oakland Ravens, 34-22, and the Raiders edged the Oakland Jets in overtime, 13-12, on Saturday to earn berths in the title contest.

The championship game will be played in Parsons, with the kickoff set for 2 p.m.

In NCAA Division action Saturday, the Gregg's Pharmacy Mountaineers maintained their unbeaten record with a 46-32 win over the Team One Terps, and also topped the Rinker Construction Nittany Lions, 39-32. The F.O.P. Fighting Irish stopped the First United Buckeyes, 45-31, and the Gonder Insurance Tigers defeated the Terps, 35-14.

Standings in the division are: Mountaineers, 9-0; Irish and Tigers, 6-3; Lions, 4-5; and Terps and Buckeyes, 1-8.

Games scheduled for this Sunday, Oct. 11, will pit the Mountaineers against the Buckeyes, and the Terps against the Lions, both at noon. The Irish will then play the Tigers at 1 p.m.

Women Golfers Meet For Lunch, Elect Officers

The Women's Association of the Oakland Golf Club closed its season with a luncheon meeting on September 24, and among the agenda items was the election of officers for 1999. Elected were: June Bray, president; Julia Sines, vice president; Carolyn Deverse, secretary; Sherry Grant, treasurer; and Cheryl Wotherspoon, corresponding secretary. Concluding a two-year term as president was Marion Boehmer.

The association wrapped up various old business items and heard year-end reports from committee heads. A 50-50 drawing was won by Angie Bosley. The group noted its appreciation to The Republican newspaper for publishing its news and play results throughout the 1998 season.

Any woman interested in joining the association and/or obtaining more information is invited to attend another luncheon meeting next April 29, 1999, which will kick off the 1999 season.

Huskies Fall In Defensive Battle With Beall, 19-6

"It was a pretty even football game throughout," Phil Carr, Northern High School's varsity coach commented after his team's 19-6 loss to Beall Friday night. "We went toe-to-toe and the score doesn't really indicate how close the game was; the two teams were just a play apart all night, but our guys just didn't execute like they're capable of." The loss gives Northern a 3-2 record heading into tomorrow's match-up with Turkeyfoot in Confluence, Pa.

Beall put the first points on the Huskies' home scoreboard in the opening seconds of Friday's contest, as the Mountaineers' Ryan Brodbeck scored a touchdown on a 45-yard option play on the second play of the game. Mike King booted the extra point to make the score 7-0.

Northern retaliated in the second quarter when the defense stripped the ball from Brodbeck, with defensive back Adam Brenneman making the fumble recovery. The Huskies capitalized on this turnover when tailback Rob Dozier took advantage of several good blocks, and broke a tackle in the secondary, to scamper in from 23 yards out. The extra-point kick attempt was blocked, leaving the Huskies down 7-6.

First Quarter

B - Ryan Brodbeck 45 run (Mike King kick).

Second Quarter

N - Rob Dozier 23 run (kick blocked).

B - Tom Leasure 1 run (kick blocked).

Fourth Quarter

B - Nick Marsh 57 run (kick failed).

A one-yard touchdown plunge by Beall's Tom Leasure with four minutes remaining in the second quarter, followed by a blocked extra-point attempt, took the Mountaineers' lead to 13-6 at the half.

Both defenses hunkered down in the second half to basically stymie the respective offenses. "We stopped them three times on fourth down in the second half," Carr said, "and they stopped us twice on fourth down. A nice play by one of their defenders to break up a pass on our second fourth-down attempt came with just over two minutes to go in the game, and they followed up on that by breaking Nick Marsh through our defensive line for a 57-yard touchdown run." Marsh's score was followed by a failed point-after kick attempt, and the game ended with Beall up 19-6.

Dozier gained 105 yards in 19 carries for the Huskies, accounting for the lion's share of Northern's 167 yards of total offense.

"I told the team, 'Beall came to win, and we came to play'," Carr commented. "That was the difference. Our kids are disappointed, but hopefully they've learned from the experience. This week has been our most intense week of practices so far this year as we get ready for our next game."

Looking ahead, Carr noted that Turkeyfoot likes to run a Delaware Wing-T offense, utilizing a quarterback, a pair of halfbacks, and a tailback to make for a crowded backfield with lots of distracting motion. "It's worked for them in the past," Carr said. "They can run a lot of dives, options, and counter plays, which are dangerous misdirections where they will send two running backs in one direction with the ball, only to hand it off to the third back coming across the field in the opposite direction.

"We're hoping to hold their ground game and force them to throw," Carr continued, "although they do have a dangerous receiver in 6-1, 185-lb. Rich Parnell. He has good hands, size, and speed. Another standout of theirs is offensive guard and middle linebacker Marcus Rugg, at 5-11, 260 pounds. He and his cousin, 6-0, 270-lb. Amos Rugg, who helps Marcus anchor their offensive line, help Turkeyfoot outsize us. What we're going to rely on is our quickness, which has helped us get past their line in the past."

The day game is scheduled to begin at 1:45 tomorrow in Confluence.

HUSKIES ON THE RUN - Despite some fine efforts, these Northern ball carriers were not quite able to carry their team to victory in Friday night's 19-6 loss to Beall. Above, sophomore Mark Wolf (#32) braces for impact as a pair of Mountaineers zero in on him; senior split end Jed Wilhelm (#89) looks on from the far right. Below, Rob Dozier (#23) also a sophomore, cuts upfield with several Mountaineers in pursuit; junior fullback Ryan Brenneman (#45) is at the right, looking for a block to throw. Dozier led all rushers on the night, picking up 105 yards on 19 carries.

Northern's Duffers Take WMIL Title With Strong Team Play

"We had a great day at the WMIL (Western Maryland Invitational League)," Northern High School golf team coach Harv Speicher commented after his Huskies took the championship at Maplehurst Country Club in Frostburg. The Monday match saw NHS come out on top of the nine-team field with a 353 team score, followed by Beall High's 370 and Southern High School's 384. Northern's second match of the week came yesterday at the Wisp, and the Huskies took a quadrangular with a 167 score to take their record to 26-1-1.

Key to Northern's success at the WMIL tourney was an excellent all-around team performance. "All six of our golfers broke 100," said Speicher, "and we were the only team there to have more than three players do so. We have a number of kids who can shoot a low score, while most teams only have a couple of players they have to depend on. Our balance is our biggest strength, coupled with the experienced players we have who came back from last year's team."

Senior Matt Settle led the Husky charge with an 84, finishing second in individual standings by a nine-stroke margin behind low medalist J.C. Armstrong and his three-over-par 75 performance. Rams' senior Kane Wengerd placed third with an 86.

Northern placed five golfers in the top nine of the 52-player field. Sophomore A.J. Thomas tied for fourth with an 87, Rob Taylor took seventh with a 90, Greg Speicher placed eighth with a 92, and Ryan Butler was in ninth place with a 95. The sixth Husky team member, Kenny Wampler, placed 12th with a 98.

Southern's Wengerd was joined in the top 10 by teammate Justin Stevens, who shot an 86, while Bryson Meyers finished 13th with a 99.

The top six finishers were named to the All-WMIL team, as Armstrong, Settle, Wengerd, and Fort Hill's Jacob Growden earned spots on the team for the second consecutive year. Thomas and Beall's Derek Yates rounded out the honorary squad.

Yesterday's quadrangular saw the Huskies outdistance second place Beall by 21 strokes. The Mountaineers shot a 188, Southern tallied a 191, and Fort Hill came in last with a 202.

Low medalist was Northern's A.J. Thomas, who carded a 38, ahead of teammate Taylor who shot a 41, tied for second with Beall's Armstrong. Southern's Wengerd had a 43, while Speicher and Butler each had 44s for the Huskies. Paugh turned in a 48 for the Rams, and teammate Justin DiSimone shot a 49. Jordan Swerbinsky shot a 51 for Southern.

"The Wisp is the hardest course in the area," Speicher commented, "and we're lucky to be able to practice on it daily. We really have to hit precise tee shots there to do well, and that precision carries over to the other courses, making us comfortable and confident. We can't thank Jerry Geisler and the Wisp enough for all of the support, it's been a big part of our success in the three years we've had a golf program here at Northern."

Speicher's Huskies will host Westmar on Monday afternoon. The Garrett County Championship follows next Thursday at the Wisp, when the Huskies and the Rams go head to head for the county bragging rights. Play begins on each day at 4 p.m.

Southern's Golf Team Splits In Regular Matches

The golf team of Southern High School dropped a match to Keyser this past Thursday, then came back to take a quadrangular over Frankfort, Bishop Walsh, and Allegany on Tuesday. The WMIL tournament intervened on Monday, in which the Rams finished third in a field of nine, behind Northern and Beall (see Northern golf coverage for WMIL results).

The Rams' 178 was seven strokes off Keyser's winning 171 at the conclusion of play at Polish Pines Country Club last week. Kane Wengerd led Southern with a 38, while Keyser's Joe Farrell shot a 37 to take low medalist honors.

Wengerd and his teammates roared back in the quad match-up at Cumberland, as the senior shot a 42 to lead the Rams to a 202 stroke finish. Frankfort followed with a 209, Bishop Walsh had a 210, and Allegany finished fourth with a 224.

Southern's published schedule shows the Rams traveling to Preston High for a triangular against the hosts and University High of Morgantown this afternoon. The Garrett County Championship follows Thursday at the Wisp, when the Rams take on the Huskies. Play begins at 4 p.m. each day.

Huskies' JV Defeated By Beall, 20-6

Northern's junior varsity football squad still seeks its first win, but the Huskies had a bright spot in Monday's 20-6 loss to Beall when Matt Layman scampered 95 yards for a score in the second quarter.

Beall had opened the scoring on a five-yard run by Zach Roberts, which was followed by a missed point-after kick attempt. Layman's long distance run tied the score at six.

Beall's Chuck Carter lit up the scoreboard with a seven yard run in the second quarter, followed by a two-point conversion run attempt which failed, and a 94 yard touchdown run in the second half, which was paired with a successful two-point conversion on a Chuck Whetstone run.

Behind some fine blocking, Carter finished with 150 yards on the night.

Runnin' Rams Win First, Second In Area CC Meet

The girls' cross country team of Southern High School captured the Area Championship Tuesday afternoon at Allegany College in Cumberland, while the defending state champion boys' team from Southern finished in second place. The boys' squad was without the service of one of its top runners, Eric Rexrode, who is sidelined for health reasons.

The Southern girls, coached by Louis Newcomb, finished with 46 points to defeat Hampshire with 60, Allegany with 73, Keyser with 83, Westmar with 97, Fort Hill with 151, and Frankfort with 164. All seven members of Southern's team were among the top 23 finishers.

Amy Snyder placed seventh individually with a time of 21:04 to lead the Runnin' Rams, while Erin Hoalcraft, Beth Sauder, and Angie Sincell placed ninth, 10th, and 11th, respectively. Katelyne McBee and Faryn Shaffer were the 14th and 15th finishers, while Keri Strubin placed 23rd.

The top two runners in the girls' race were Susan Davis (18:13) and Jennifer Davis (18:52), both from Hampshire.

Hampshire won the boys' title with 51 team points, followed by the Rams with 58, Frankfort with 85, Westmar with 112, Fort Hill with 121, Keyser with 128, Allegany with 162, and Beall with 166.

The Rams, coached by Carl Booth, were led by Casey McBee, who placed fourth with a time of 16:57. Beau Gibson was sixth in 17:15, and Rusty Strubin and Ted Wolf finished 11th and 12th, respectively.

Zach Bittinger of Westmar won the boys' individual title with a time of 16:16, one second ahead of West Garrett of East Hardy.

Southern's Matt Frederick finished sixth and Steve Eiswert placed ninth in the boys' junior varsity race, which was won by Matthew Gallery of Hampshire.

Southern also competed in the 16th annual Frostburg State University Invitational, in which both Southern teams placed eighth out of dozens of teams. Beau Gibson placed 12th to lead the Southern boys.

John Handley High School won the boys' race, while Sherando captured the girls' team title.

The Rams will host Preston in a meet next Tuesday at the Broadford Park course, beginning at 4 p.m. or shortly thereafter, which will conclude their regular season.

Rams' Netters On The Upswing, Take Second Win

Southern High School's volleyball team faltered in the Frankfort (W.Va.) Invitational Tournament on Saturday, but roared back to sweep Oldtown Tuesday with the leadership of Jennifer Teagarden, who tallied 19 service points. After a frustrating start, the Rams now have a pair of victories to their credit, against six losses.

After pool play among the Frankfort tourney participants was completed, Southern was in sixth place with an 0-8 mark for the day. Parkersburg (W.Va.) South eventually downed the hosts in the finals to take the tournament crown.

At Oldtown, Teagarden's fine performance was aided by eight points provided by Keri Niner. Jessica Saturday had nine kills, and Teagarden added three kills.

Southern won the junior varsity match, 15-7, 15-0. Amy Parvack and Nikki Ravenscroft each had six service points.

The Rams are scheduled to host Flintstone tonight, and a road trip to Mt. Savage follows on Wednesday. Both contests begin at 6 p.m.

Lakers' Tide Rising After A Perfect Week; Record Now 14-6

It was five up and five down for the women's volleyball team of Garrett Community College as the Lakers took on and put down all takers for five consecutive wins. Essex, Westmoreland (twice), Community College of Allegheny South Campus, and Beaver were each swamped by the Laker wave, and GCC now stands at 14-6 on the season overall, and 4-2 in Maryland JUCO play.

The week's action opened with a pair of Friday matches on the McHenry court against Essex and Westmoreland, and Erica McBride's 21-service point total led the Lakers to victory in both matches.

Garrett downed Essex in straight games, 15-9, 15-8, and 18-16. McBride had 13 service points and went 20 for 21 on serve with a pair of aces. Melissa Yutzy provided 10 service points, and Andrea Barrick was 25 for 29 on attack with 13 kills. Mindy McCarty, a former Northern High School linchpin, was nine for 11 on serves with two aces, and 15 for 18 on attack with eight kills. Former Southern High School star Sindy Niner tallied six service points, going 12 for 13 from the line with two aces, and was 17 for 20 on attack with a pair of kills.

The Lakers took the nightcap from Westmoreland with scores of 15-7 and 15-7. McBride led in service points again with eight points, going 11 for 12 on serve with one ace and 14 for 16 on attack with eight kills. Kerri Sines, former Husky standout, added seven service points and was 10 for 11 on serve. McCarty had four service points, going six for seven on serve with a pair of aces and 12 for 15 on attack with four kills. Crystal Kimble was a perfect seven for seven from the service line and 10 for 27 on sets with 15 assists.

A trip to West Mifflin, Pa., netted the Lakers their third victory of the week Saturday, as they downed host CCAC by scores of 15-4, 15-7, and 15-8.

Crystal Kimble scored 12 service points with one ace, and had 17 assists, while McCarty tallied 11 points, 10 kills, and 12 assists. McBride added eight service points and a pair of aces, and also had eight kills.

A road rematch with Westmoreland on Tuesday resulted in a three-game sweep of the hosts (game scores were not available). McBride's 15 for 16 serving performance on the night for 11 points and one ace led the Lakers to victory. Lana Groves was 12 for 13 with eight service points and Sines was nine for nine with eight service points. A strong attack from Barrick, who mounted an 18 for 22 tally with nine kills, was aided by Kimble's 15 for 15 performance with seven kills, Niner's 15 for 18 total with five kills, and McBride's 14 for 21 total with five kills. McCarty was 41 for 52 in sets for the evening with 16 assists, while Kimble wa 28 for 27 with nine assists.

At home against Beaver last night the Lakers proved inhospitable hosts by downing their guests 15-1, 17-15, and 18-16.

Thirteen service points by Barrick led Garrett's offense, as she went 17 for 21 with six aces, and four for four on the attack with two kills. Kimble had nine service points, going 17 for 17 with two aces. McCarty went 24 for 28 on the attack with 15 kills, and tallied seven service points. McBride had 12 kills and was 28 for 32 on the attack, two for three on blocks, a pair of which resulted in scores for the Lakers; she also provided five service points.

Garrett's next outing comes Monday evening as the Lakers host Hagerstown Community College and CCAC South. Play gets underway at 6 p.m.

WOW AWARDS BANQUET

Woodman of the World Lodge 45 held its annual Awards Banquet Saturday, Oct. 3, at the Sand Spring Church of God fellowship hall.

Welcome was expressed by Lodge President Julia Sines, with Hannah Sines leading the pledge. Dinner was served following the prayer given by Burt Lytle, WOW field representative.

The officers were introduced including: Julia Sines, president; Thelma Kelley, vice president; Mary Frantz, secretary; Dorothy Lowdermilk, treasurer; Owen Frantz, escort; Helen Holiday, watchman; Ervin Lowdermilk, sentry; Linda Lytle, trustee; Cecil Kelley, trustee; Robert Sines, trustee; Robert Savage, musician; Kevin and Rebecca Sines, Youth Lodge leaders; and Jamie Grove, Youth Lodge president.

Mary Frantz, secretary, gave the State of the Lodge Address. Some of the projects that were completed this year included the WOW pavilion on Blooming Rose Road, spending $800 in matching funds for projects in the community, constructing a ramp at the home of a needy member, donation of flags and loaning of wheelchairs, and packaging of fruit and cookies for shut-ins.

Ed Lytle, area manager, gave a short presentation about Gross .500 WOW Equity and indexed annuity. Randy Conners, State Manager from Hagerstown was guest speaker.

Fifty-year pins were awarded to Shirley Frantz and Carl Lohr, and 25-year pins were awarded to James Frantz and Nancy Wakefield.

James (Pete) Sines received the Environmentalist Citation for his continual effort to keep the highways free of aluminum cans.

The Good Neighbor Citation was awarded to Robert G. Sines for the many hours that he volunteered his services by helping to build a handicap ramp for a fellow lodge member, delivering cookies and fruit trays to the shut-ins, and his involvement in the planning for the new pavilion.

Ronald and Judy Frazee received the Conservation Plaque, which is awarded to those who strive to conserve our natural resources on a large scale. Their son Patrick received the Farming for the Future Citation.

The Honor Plaque, which is presented to an individual involved on a large scale in the community, was presented to Mary A. Frantz. Mary volunteered her time to help the victims of the tornadoes in Pennsylvania and Maryland, and helped with Hospice and the Cancer Society.

The Fraternal Spirit award was presented to Thelma and Cecil Kelley for being the most active and helpful to the lodge in the previous year.

Entertainment for the evening were solos by Alison Sines, daughter of Ken and Lucretia Sines, and Summer Sines, daughter of Marvin (Buck) and Kim Sines.

The winner of the quilt, which was made by Mildred Friend, was Freda Sines. Pearl Bittner won the 50/50 drawing.

The evening was ended with the hymn "I'll Fly Away" sung by Alison Sines.

The next meeting of the WOW Lodge 45 will be its annual visit to the Goodwill Nursing Home in Grantsville on Thursday, Oct. 29 at 6 p.m.

SIMON BIRCH

Rated PG - Running time: 1:53

One of my favorite novels of all time happens to be A Prayer For Owen Meany by John Irving. Therefore, I must strive to be objective when judging the film version, Simon Birch, directed by Mark Steven Johnson, who also adapted Irving's novel for the screen. Comparing the film to the book would be unfair since the story must be considerably boiled down to be told within two hours. Owen Meany is a rich, complex tale involving morals and religion, which if produced in toto would be 12 hours long. So as a film, Simon Birch hits on the major points made in the novel, and though the story is vastly simplified, it is still quite meaningful and enjoyable.

Simon Birch is a boy born small, with what the narrator refers to as a "wrecked voice." That narrator is Jim Carrey, the adult version of Joe Wenteworth, Simon's boyhood friend. We only see Carrey for a few minutes at the beginning and end of the film, but his voiceovers run throughout, explaining the long story of why Simon is the reason he, Joe, believes in God.

Although 12-year-old Simon (Ian Michael Smith) is constantly made fun of for being physically diminutive, he feels God has a purpose for him to fulfill, that he is "God's instrument." Meanwhile, Joe (Joseph Mazzello) suffers from his own embarassment: He is a bastard, born out of wedlock to his attractive but mysterious mother Rebecca (Ashley Judd). No one but Rebecca knows who Joe's father was, and she isn't telling. When she brings home an affable boyfriend named Ben Goodrich (Oliver Platt), Joe is unimpressed, but Simon likes him. Simon's parents never regarded him as anything other than a freak and a bother, so he knows the value of an adult who respects children as people. This is why he loves Rebecca, although he admits he also likes her breasts.

When a freak accident takes Rebecca's life, Joe becomes obsessed with knowing the identity of his father. He and Simon speculate constantly about which member of the small town population could be the man who impregnated Rebecca all those years ago. The day he finds out is the day that turns his entire life, and his faith, around. And he has Simon Birch to thank for it.

This movie is quirky and unpredictable, with pretty cinema and beautiful music. Johnson's pacing is rather uneven, though, and the objectives of the characters sometimes get bogged down in lengthy plot digressions. The acting on the part of 15-year-old Mazzelo is real and quite touching, and Smith does a fair job in his debut performance, with an awesomely difficult character. It's clear he was chosen for this role more for his physical appearance than his acting talent. Judd is breezy and attractive, and Platt's growing relationship with the boys is sensitive and at the same time strong.

Simon Birch is a touching story, painted beautifully on the silver canvas by cinematographer Aaron E. Schneider. It is not destined to be a box-office smash, but shows off some of the subtler talents of several up-and-coming Hollywood artists, on both sides of the screen. ★★★★

For a time now, it has seemed that everything Steven Spielberg touches turns to gold. And it looks like it's gonna stay that way. While he is still riding high on the critical acclaim of his summer blockbuster Saving Private Ryan, his company, Dreamworks SKG, has released a spectacular computer-animated cartoon that is sure to give Disney's upcoming A Bug's Life a run for its sugar grains. Antz, with its impeccable graphics and star-studded cast of voices, is colorful, visual, and spectacular throughout, with a great story and humor for people of all ages.

Written by Todd Alcott and Chris Weitz, and directed by Eric Darnell and Lawrence Guterman, all relative newcomers, Antz may not have been "touched" by Spielberg in any other capacity than being produced by Dreamworks, but the lead character's unmistakable resemblance to E.T. is clearly a nod in his direction.

That lead character is an ant called Z-4195, or "Z" for short. Played by Woody Allen, Z is just as neurotic and self-searching as any of Allen's characters, suffering from feelings of insignificance and inadequacy among his millions of co-workers. His friend Azteca (Jennifer Lopez) cheerfully whacks away with her pick axe (yes, ants use pick axes) and tries to convince him to go with the flow.

While Z is pondering his station in life, the queen (Anne Bancroft) is trying to convince her daughter, Princess Bala (Sharon Stone) to accept her destiny: to be the next queen and the wife of army leader General Mandible (Gene Hackman). Yes, apparently, ants get married. Mandible, though he defers properly to the queen, has secret plans to destroy the masses and move his elite forces to a different, stronger colony. His aide, Colonel Cutter (Christopher Walken) is dubious of this idea, but has learned the first ant rule: Never question authority.

Out for a little aphid juice at the ant bar, Z meets Weaver (Sylvester Stallone), an army ant who envies Z for his access to those foxy ant workers. When he casts an eye on Azteca, Weaver makes a deal with Z to switch places for a day. Little does Z know that tomorrow is the day of Mandible's planned assault on a colony of termites. He just wants to be in the grand review so that he can have another glace at Bala, who danced with him while "slumming it" in the bar.

Z comes back a battle hero and sole survivor of the termite attack, mainly because he kept out of the way during the fighting. With his newfound fame, he launches an attempt to overcome the proletarian mentality that plagues his huge clan, and to make Bala see him as something more than just another worker.

Antz is a great deal of fun and full of spectacularly colorful images, with many cameo appearances by other celebs, including Danny Glover as a good-hearted soldier and Dan Aykroyd and Jane Curtin as a couple of snooty bees. The story of Z and his friends works on many levels, with action scenes to keep the kids interested and lots of hilarious jokes aimed at Mom and Dad's generation. It is unmistakably an "American" film, carrying the message (if you want to look that deeply) that liberty and free choice are necessary rights to be sought and cherished by all. Even ants.

Antz is rated PG, mainly because of some "hells" and "damns," and some cartoon violence. But it is one of those films that deserves to be seen on the big screen. So go now. If you miss it before it goes to video, you'll be sure to suffer a sinking feeling in your thorax. ★★★★★

A NIGHT AT THE ROXBURY

Little did we know in 1975 that the offbeat NBC television show known as Saturday Night Live would still be running a quarter of a century later. The show and its producer, Lorne Michaels, have won Emmy after Emmy, spawning hundreds of hilarious sketches, dozens of memorable characters, and several feature films. The success of The Blues Brothers (1980), the first of the SNL spinoff movies, gave the impression that the feature industry would be a lucrative avenue for ideas based on the show's sketches. But most of the subsequent SNL-based films have been forgettable (with the possible exception of Wayne's World (1992), which did cause a ripple). A Night At The Roxbury, starring SNL veterans Will Ferrell and Chris Kattan, is definitely no exception. Though the sketches featuring the two head-bopping losers have sometimes been hysterical on the show, the premise just doesn't translate to a feature film.

Why is this? It's because the whole point of these guys is that they have no lives. They have no personalities, they have almost never had any lines except the occasional "What's up? Wanna dance?" spoken to an attractive but disgusted female who subsequently gets bounced off the set by their overexcited dancing style. Trying to infuse these characters with a story is killing the whole joke. What works in the three-minute scene is that we don't know who they are or why they got there. But in this film, written by Ferrell and Steve Koren, their lame story is explained in painfully shallow terms.

The guys are two brothers, Steve and Doug Butabi, whose father (Dan Hedaya) runs a silk flower shop in New York City. The boys work there part time, but just like John Travolta's character in Saturday Night Fever, they only work to make money for club hopping. Unlike Travolta's character, however, they never get into the clubs they want. They usually stand in line outside, trying to look cool in their shiny silk shirts, rubbing their noses and hitting on women. Finally, Doug (Kattan), "the smart one," gets an idea: If they can't get into the Roxbury, they will open a club of their own.

This is all well and good, but their father has other plans. He wants Steve (Ferrell), "the looker," to marry the girl-next-door, Emily (fellow SNL-er Molly Shannon), whose father (Dwayne Hickman) owns a lamp shop. Then the two stores can be combined and Steve and Emily can be co-owners of the first lamp-and-flower boutique in history. Emily, who claims to have a crush on Steve, is all for this idea, but Steve is not interested.

Finally, through an accident, they do get into the Roxbury and are therefore mistaken by everyone as important. For a short period they enjoy the sweet life of celebrity, and try to implement their plan to get a new club started. But they are soon discovered to be the losers that they are, and are back on the street in no time.

Despite the fact that Ferrell and Kattan are two of the funniest, most energetic people on SNL right now, this film's story is pointless and most attempts at humor fall flat. Directors John Fortenberry and Peter Markle do nothing to help the situation, presumably because they feel Ferrell and Kattan know what they're doing, trying to breathe life into characters that have none. But these guys are meant to be monosyllabic, two-dimensional cutouts. Forcing them to live longer than five minutes is too painful to watch. ★½

WHAT DREAMS MAY COME

There have been a number of films that speculated about what awaits us all after we leave this plane of exisitence, and many of them have dealt with a protagonist who breaks the rules of heaven to seek out a lover on the other side. Some memorables include Heaven Can Wait (1978), Made in Heaven (1987), Ghost (1990), and, earlier this year, City Of Angels. And the latest in this genre is Vincent Ward's What Dreams May Come, a dark romance about the impressionistic view of heaven by a man who loved art almost as much as he loved his wife.

The first thing that must be said about this film its that its use of color is astounding. The combination of majestic scenery and exquisite computer graphics makes a nice blend between reality and fantasy, using vibrant colors to represent life (heaven) while black and white stand for death (hell). Unfortunately, Ward's treatment is heavy on imagery and light on meaning. While beautiful to look at, the film is so full of trite sentimentality and overdramatic brooding that the subject matter is undermined. The fact that almost every character cries at some time or other should be a telling point.

The first 20 minutes of this movie, adapted from Richard Matheson's novel by Ronald Bass, is like an extra-sappy Hallmark commercial. We meet Chris Nielsen (Robin Williams) and his artist wife Annie (Annabella Sciorra) when they are newly in love, and then move forward about 15 years to when they have two teenagers, Ian (Josh Paddock) and Marie (Jessica Brooks). The family scenes are so sugary-sweet, we can't help knowing that we're being set up for the fall. Chris and Annie are devastated when the kids are killed, but at least they still have each other.

After Chris has his own tragic accident, he falls into the beautiful land of oil paint that is his heaven. He is like an ant walking around on a still-wet Monet painting, squishing huge globs of blue and red paint off the flowers and into his fingers. Soon he meets Albert, his guardian angel (Cuba Gooding Jr.), who leads him around explaining the ins and outs of eternal life. This period is visually impactful but overly expository. Albert practically leads Chris around by the hand, explaining everything--not so much for his benefit as for ours.

When Albert learns that Annie has committed suicide, he informs Chris that she won't be strolling down the acrylic path to greet him, because suicides go to "a different place." Natually Chris chooses to go against all odds and travel to hell to retrieve his beloved. He runs into the kids along the way, and learns that the reason he could never reach Annie after they died is the same reason he still can't.

For people who like art and color, What Dreams May Come may be a favorite. For those who like weepy romances, it's sure to please. But if you enjoy a meaty story with a minimum of sentimental manipulation, you may be disappointed. Though Bass's screenplay means well, it tends to overexplain and oversimplify. What should be subtle, thought-provoking issues are big, fat moral lessons driven home with a sledgehammer. Still, it deserves merit simply for being a breathtakingly beautiful treat for the eyes. ★★★★

Frank Harvey To Perform At Oak Park Church

Frank Roughton Harvey, well-known Christian dramatist, will be coming to the Oak Park Church of the Brethren October 18-21. He will be portraying a series of Biblical characters "designed to make the scripture come alive and add new meaning and insight into some of the well-known persons of the Bible."

Harvey was originally ordained by the Methodist Church and was encouraged to continue in the unique field of drama. "He brings a wealth of research to each of the characters he so uniquely portrays and has been invited to perform at churches, colleges, and state and national conventions throughout the world," stated a church spokesperson.

The public is invited to attend these services, which will begin at 7 p.m. each evening. There will be no admission charge; however, a free-will offering will be taken. A nursery will be provided. For more information, persons may call the Oak Park Church at 301-334-2243.

Wolf To Instruct Teaching Poetry To Children Class

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College will offer a course titled Teaching Poetry to Children at the McHenry campus from October 13 to October 29. This course will meet on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The instructor, Debra Wolf, who is experienced in teaching and writing poetry, has designed this course primarily to assist teachers in stimulating a child's creativity; however, others may find these sessions of equal interest. The class will concentrate on the following objectives: showing children how to read and write poetry, assisting children in making visual aids for poems, utilizing poetry as a tool for reading skills, and helping to enable children to become better writers.

The tuition for this 12-hour course is $26 plus a $4 registration fee. Although pre-registration is preferred, participants may also register at the first session. For additional information and registration, interested persons may contact GCC's Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

All High School Seniors Invited To College Expo

Garrett County high school seniors are invited to attend the Mountain Top College Expo, Monday, Oct. 12, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the McHenry House of the Wisp.

The exposition will offer information to students on opportunities to pursue education following high school graduation. Providing this data will be representatives from about 60 colleges and the armed services.

Financial aid workshops are scheduled to help families take advantage of opportunities to obtain financial assistance. Seniors attending the event will also be able to register to win three $500 scholarships, which are sponsored by several local businesses.

An additional support service will be offered at the expo in the form of the computer program Visions. This tool performs inquiries into two- or four-year colleges, technical schools, and career opportunities.

Expo committee member Joanny Martin noted that though graduating students and their parents are encouraged to attend, all members of the community are also invited.

For further information, persons may contact Joanny Martin at 301-746-8669.

Gentle Touch Electrolysis

Gentle Touch Electrolysis, owned and operated by Nancy Feather, L.E., is now located at Valley View Professional Center, the new office building across from Yough Glades Elementary School. Ms. Feather is a graduate of the National Institute of Clinical Electrology, and is licensed by the Maryland State Board of Electrologists.

The practice stresses universal health precautions, including handwashing, gloves, disinfecting, and sterilization.

Unwanted or excess hair growth is a very common problem, said Feather. There are times in a woman's life when she may produce more hair than she is comfortable with. Those times are puberty, pregnancy, and menopause, and happen because of hormonal changes. However, hormonal changes are not the only causes of unwanted hair growth. Other factors are disease, medication and hereditary factors.

"Because excessive hair growth, especially on the face, is considered by many to be a masculine trait, it often has negative effects on the way a woman views herself," Feather said. "Many of the women who come in are humiliated and feel as though they are the only ones in the world who have this problem. They may have tried a depilatory, tweezing, waxing, sugaring, or a variety of other methods, only to find that the hair always returns.

"Electrolysis is the only proven means of permanent hair removal. Even laser treatment hair removal has not proven to be permanent, merely long term. In this day and age, everyone wants a quick fix for whatever problem they are experiencing. Electrolysis is not an overnight cure. People believe that if they have one treatment the hair should be gone forever. Although one treatment on a fine, shallow (rellus) hair may be enough, for a deep, coarse (terminal) hair, it will probably take several treatments to achieve permanent results. The hair that does reappear after treatment will become less coarse, not as deep as before, and will begin to take longer to reappear between treatments. Permanent results will be achieved by destruction of the follicle (natural opening in the skin that the hair grows from) and the hair-germinating cells (cells which trigger the next hair to be produced). Once that is done, that follicle can never produce hair again. If you are patient you will see positive results."

Electrolysis is not only for women, the operator says. Some men experience unwanted hair on their ears, nose, neck, or back, or some may just like to have beard shaping done.

Feather said electrolysis can be done on eyebrows, cheeks, chin, upper lip, ears, nose, neck, underarms, chest, back, stomach, bikini line, legs, and toes.

"You no longer have to be self-conscious or embarrassed by unwanted hair. There is something you can do about it," Feather said. Interested persons may call 301-334-6200 with questions or for an appointment or a free consultation. If there is no answer, callers may leave a message and their call will be returned in a way that is confidential and professional.

Local Student Earns Scholarship In Med Program

Carrie Filsinger, a 1998 graduate of Southern High School, has accepted a scholarship to Fairleigh Dickinson University in Madison, N.J. She has been accepted into the Direct Medical Program, a seven-year program which consists of three years of undergraduate study and four years of medical school.

While at Southern, Carrie was in the marching band, editor-in-chief of the yearbook, and a member of the National Honor Society. Upon graduation, she received the Lions Club Science Award, the Army Reserve National Scholar/Athlete Award, Honor Graduate, Governor's Merit Certificate, and the Presidential Academic Fitness Award.

She was also active in athletics, winning the Southern Garrett Athletic Association Female Scholarship Award. She was active in JV basketball and played softball four years.

Carrie is the daughter of Mike and Lona Filsinger of Swanton. She is the granddaughter of Mick and Rosemary Filsinger, Deer Park, and Roy and Marie Mullenax, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va.

Distance Learning Offerings On The Increase At GCC

The word "Communiversity" on the wall of the Technology Center at Garrett Community College will be an apt description of the college in the spring semester of 1999 as an increased number of courses are offered via electronic media. "These courses will be offered by compressed video, interactive video, cable television, and the Internet, making them accessible in some cases to students in their homes," said Dr. Terry Norris, coordinator of distance learning.

Courses to be offered through compressed video will be available to students at the McHenry campus or at the Maryland National Guard Armory in Oakland. These courses scheduled with the Maryland Community College Teleconsortium are Windows 95, Microsoft Excel, Accessing the Internet, Introduction to Algebra, Intermediate Algebra, Introduction to Philosophy, and Special Topics in Education: Creative Storytelling.

Interactive video courses will be available to students at Northern and Southern high schools, GCC's McHenry campus, and on FrontierVision at scheduled times. These courses are Pre-Calculus Math, World Civilization Since 1650, Composition II, Introduction to Literature, and Principles of Sociology.

In addition to these courses by television, the first web-based Internet course is being planned for students who have Internet access. Titled Introduction to Computers, the course will be offered on-line so that students can take it anywhere, anytime.

In the future, Norris said, GCC may offer College of the Air, satellite, and videotaped courses.

Persons desiring further information about these distance learning courses may call Norris at GCC at 301-387-3043.

RECOGNIZING BUSINESS WOMEN - The Grantsville mayor and town council joined the Grantsville Area Business and Professional Women in recognizing October 19-23 as National Business Women's Week. Mayor Fred Holliday signed a proclamation stating that working women constitute 62.7 million of the nation's work force, and women-owned businesses account for over one-third of all firms in the country. Women provide employment for one of every four U.S. workers. The major goals of business and professional women are to promote equality for all women and to help create better conditions for business women through the study of social, education, economic, and political problems. In the photo above, seated left to right are council president Gerry Beachy, Fred Holliday, and Grantsville BPW president Amy Harman. Standing in row two are BPW members Ruth DiPaolo, vice president, Brenda Butscher, Martha Sebold, and Ruth Newman. In row three are council members Richard Towers, James McRobie, Ronald Gillum, and Jim Wilburn.

Yough Glades PTG Raises Funds For Playground

The Yough Glades Elementary School's Parent Teacher Group (PTG) will hold a bake sale at the school during Autumn Glory weekend. The sale is scheduled for Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Raffle tickets on a cedar chest, handcrafted by Kenneth and Rita Hardesty, will also be available at the bake sale.

With the goal of purchasing playground equipment for Yough Glades School, the PTG has been raising funds since the school opened in February.

No money was available to build a playground at the time the school was constructed, so the PTG initiated efforts to get contributions from businesses, and to plan projects and activities that would bring in the money necessary to purchase equipment.

Being the newest school in Garrett County caused the group to get off to a slow start. "It was a little difficult at first. Some people didn't know who we were," said PTG president Robin Beckman.

The obstacle was overcome by PTG members, who have held several fundraising events to benefit Yough Glades School. They have raffled two hogs, donated by businesses; appealed to the Lions Club; are collecting General Mills cereal box tops; and have planned additional projects throughout the school year, including a pizza sale, a candy sale, and a Christmas event.

The PTG is not affiliated with any other parent-teacher organization. The group is independent and is open to any member of the community who is interested in Yough Glades. "At present we are having a PTG membership drive. Dues are $1 per year and meetings are the second Monday of the month," Beckman said.

GGBA Addressed By Micro-Business, Marketing Experts

Specialists in developing and enhancing small businesses spoke to the members of the Greater Grantsville Business Association last week during a meeting at Penn Alps Restaurant. Mikal McCartney and Cathy Clocker presented hints, tips, and details of options accessible to owners of local small businesses.

McCartney, director of Garrrett County Community Action's Microworks program, offered those present information on support systems available for micro-enterprises. She underscored the importance of small businesses in today's economy. "Small business has grown tremendously in this country. It is the backbone of our economy," she said.

To strengthen this form of enterprise, Microworks provides an array of training, technical assistance, classes, workshops, and personal counseling. Loans are also available for start-ups, expansions, business plan development, and cash flow.

McCartney urged GGBA members to become pro-active. "When large companies come into the area, they are given incentives. We need to encourage county officials to develop policies to support small businesses," she said.

Clocker, a local marketing expert, offered those present suggestions on how to increase business. She noted that "off" days can be opportunities to promote products or services.

Clocker stressed the importance of helping customers and clients to feel comfortable while doing business. She suggested children's activity areas where possible.

Health Care Summit Slated At Rocky Gap

The Maryland State Office of Rural Health, the FORVM for Rural Maryland, and the Maryland Rural Health Association will host Rural Maryland's Development and Health Care Summit on November 9-10 at Rocky Gap Lodge and Golf Resort in Cumberland. This is the first joint initiative among these three organizations to collaborate in addressing rural development and health care issues, and conduct their annual meetings. This special event offers a wide variety of topics of appeal to a broad audience throughout rural Maryland. Physician continuing medical education credi' will be offered.

Proposed topics for the summit include: Pfiesteria: A Rural Maryland Challenge; Electric Utility Restructuring; What's Ahead for Rural Maryland in the 1999 General Assembly; Rural America: Politics and Action; A Mini-Agricultural/Small Business Forum; A Telecommunication Center featuring Internet Course on Rural Resources and Grateful Med; an Update on the Maryland's Children's Health Program; Dental Health in Rural Maryland; Funding Rural Health Network Development; Paying for Telehealth; and Fetal Infant Mortality Reporting. In addition, several special events will take place during the summit. They include: the FORVM for Rural Maryland's Annual Meeting; the Maryland Rural Health Association's Fourth Annual Meeting; and a reception and awards ceremony.

For registration information, persons may call Becky Whitehill, 301-777-9150, ext. 102. For more information about the conference, persons may call Marita Novicky, 410-767-5942.

REAL ESTATE, REAL EASY™

THE SIGN OF AN EXCEPTIONAL SALES ASSOCIATE.

Dear Ms. Seib;
On September 18, 1998 my wife and I settled on property we found in McHenry, Md. While we looked for some time we were assisted by your Sales Associate Denise Sanders. . . Ms. Sanders was most helpful during the entire process. She was honest and available at a moment's notice to show property that we expressed an interest in.
We wanted you to know of Ms. Sanders' assistance as we had talked to other Agents from other companies and never received any follow-up in our quest to find property. Denise was the only one to 'hang in there' with us and this is greatly appreciated.
We wanted to say THANX ! to your company and especially to Denise Sanders for a successful conclusion to our purchase of property in Garrett County.
Sincerely,
John L. Grumbach

Denise Sanders, Sales Associate

COVER STORY

Two NBC dramas portray family struggles

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Tate Donovan

There's more than geography separating the McCallister family of New York's Hell's Kitchen and the Connolly clan of Hawaii, as viewers will see when two new dramas, the meaty Trinity and the fluffy Wind on Water, debut this week on NBC.

Trinity, about the tensions and troubles of five grown Irish-Catholic siblings, premieres Friday, Oct. 16. The ensemble cast is headed by Tate Donovan as Kevin, a priest.

Also starring are Bonnie Root as Amanda, a schoolteacher; Charlotte Ross as Fiona, a stockbroker; Sam Trammell as Liam, a hustling union organizer; Justin Louis as Bobby, a police officer; and Kim Raver as Bobby's wife, Clarissa.

Jill Clayburgh and John Spencer make occasional appearances as parents Eileen and Simon.

In Trinity, Wells says he wants to capture "the basic conflict and dynamic which is driving the American family. I think an Irish family, because of the influence of the church, and a heritage which requires that you remain close, is a good place to examine that tension."

Series creator Matthew McNair Carnahan purposely gave the characters careers that would generate differing points of view and shifting allegiances.

"I really wanted to pit as diverse a group against or with one another as possible ... and (yet) ultimately express that they're family," Carnahan says.

That's a lot to bite off, and the Trinity pilot is an overburdened hour.

NBC has not succeeded with a family-centered melodrama in recent years, and the expanding Dateline franchise has left few time slots unclaimed.

"My assumption is the show will get off to a slow start," Wells says, conceding the target audience on Fridays is "a group of people who plan to go out but never quite make it."

For those still on the couch 24 hours later, there's Wind on Water, debuting Saturday, Sept. 17.

Six time zones from New York, the Connollys of Hawaii try to hold onto their piece of paradise. Concocted by soft-porn impresario Zalman King and professional surfer Matt George, the coming-of-age drama is long on looks, with Bo Derek as an unmatronly mother. William Gregory Lee and Brian Gross play her sons, extreme-sports gladiators who spend much of the pilot engaged in a surf contest with a local rival (Shawn Christian).

Lee Horsley (Matt Houston) is wasted in his first bad-guy role, as a land-grabbing snake of a neighbor. Jacinda Barrett, who broke into show business on MTV's The Real World, plays his turncoat daughter.

More conversation piece than story, Wind on Water should have been billed as a limited series, for that's just what it will be: an eye-dazzling Hawaiian vacation of six weeks ... or shorter.

Q: Can you explain why the lead role in Young Hercules was recast for the new Fox series? I enjoyed Ian Bohen in the part in the two-hour movie pilot, as well as in several episodes of Hercules: The Legendary Journeys. –Chris Porter in Texas.

A: "Ian has a recurring role on Dawson's Creek," Hercules executive producer Robert Tapert explains, "and when we were picked up as a series, he weighed his options and decided it would be better for him not to move to New Zealand. As it turned out, this actually worked to our advantage."

Tapert is alluding to the fact that he and the show's other producers decided to make the new half-hour weekday series more of a lighthearted "buddy adventure," for which they felt 17-year-old Canadian actor Ryan Gosling was more suitable.

Q: My sister insists that Larry and Laurence Fishburne are the same person. I say no. Who is right? –Alma Green, Vero Beach, Fla.

A: She is, but the actor hasn't been billed as "Larry" since his appearance in a 1992 film titled Deep Cover.

Q: Did Ken Curtis ever play anything else before or after his role as Deputy Festus Haggen on Gunsmoke? –Jim French via e-mail.

A: Absolutely. Curtis, who died at the age of 74 on April 29, 1991, was a veteran character actor with more than 40 film and TV credits. After Gunsmoke left the air in 1975, Curtis co-starred in the miniseries Black Beauty, the TV series How the West Was Won and The Yellow Rose, and the film Conagher – his final appearance – in 1991.

Ian Bohen

Before Gunsmoke, he co-starred on TV's Ripcord, appeared in such movie hits as Mister Roberts, The Alamo and The Searchers, and did guest shots on TV shows including Wagon Train and Rawhide. Curtis also provided a voice in Walt Disney's animated Robin Hood.

Q: Are Diane and Michael Keaton related? Married? –A.L.K., Florence, S.C.

A: Neither. The actress, who has never been married, was born Diane Hall – hence the last name of her Oscar-winning alter ego, Annie Hall. The actor's real name is Michael Keaton Douglas.

Q: Will you please tell my know-it-all friend that she is wrong when she says David Boreanaz (Buffy the Vampire Slayer) is married? Also, how old is he? –Sharon via e-mail.

A: Boreanaz married his girlfriend, Ingrid, earlier this year. He is 27 years old. His TV character, the vampire Angel, is a little older!

Earn GCC Foundation Scholarships

KISTA THOMAS

AMANDA MILLER

APRIL ENLOW

Three local women have been awarded scholarships by the Garrett Community College Foundation to attend college this year, according to Bretta Reinhard, GCCF advancement officer.

Kista Thomas, daughter of Sam and Sharon Thomas of Accident and 1996 graduate of Northern High School, is enrolled in the Office Technology program with plans to become a legal or medical secretary. She has received the Bell Atlantic Scholarship and the GCC General Scholarship. In high school she participated in basketball and track, was on the Honor Roll, and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. She works as secretary at the American Red Cross office and helps on the farm. in her spare time she enjoys painting and ceramics.

Amanda Miller, daughter of Clayton and Dani Miller of Oakland and 1997 graduate of Southern High School, is majoring in accounting at GCC where she plans to receive her A.A. degree and then transfer to Frostburg State University. In high school she was a member of the National Honor Society. She is currently employed as a gymnastics instructor at the Creations School of Dance and Gymnastics. She has received the McDonald's Scholarship and the GCC General Scholarship.

April Enlow, daughter of William and Kristen Enlow of Friendsville and 1998 graduate of Northern High School, is enrolled in the Agricultural Management program at GCC. She plans to complete the degree program and then transfer to get her bachelor's degree. Enlow commented that she feels that more people her age should get interested in agriculture because it is everyone's concern. She has received the Michael Vaughn Vitez Memorial Scholarship and the Hazel Fratz Wright Scholarship. In high school Enlow was FFA president, Livestock Association county representative, varsity track team's most valuable hurdler, student athlete of the month, member of the crop judging team, and member of the Business Club. She was also named to Who's Who Among American High School Students. She is a member of the Farm Bureau and has held offices in 4-H. For recreation she enjoys swimming, skiing, video archery, and hunting.

Notices Sent To Unclaimed Property Owners

Notices from the Maryland State Comptroller's Office are arriving in mailboxes of people across the nation who are known to be owners of unclaimed bank accounts, insurance benefits, wages, security deposits, and the contents of safe deposit boxes.

IRS recently compared Maryland unclaimed property accounts with its address database and mailed the comptroller's notices to those whom a current address was found. The IRS does not share the address information with the comptroller's office, but mails the notices to account owners at the current addresses.

"If you get a notice, please respond because if you receive one it's virtually certain that we have money for you," said Maryland State Comptroller Robert L. Swann. "These individuals may have moved or changed their last names and did not notify the state, their financial institutions, or other businesses that may owe them money."

Because of these kinds of outreach efforts, the state comptroller's office returned $10,830,155 in unclaimed funds to 8,977 individuals and businesses for fiscal year 1998. The average claim amount was $1,206. The office also advertises the most recently reported names of unclaimed property owners in local newspapers each spring and fall. The 1998 fall ad supplement will run October 12 through 24 this year.

Maryland law requires financial institutions, utilities, insurance companies, and other corporations to report to the state comptroller any bank accounts, security deposits, wages, insurance benefits, and the contents of safe deposit boxes which are unclaimed after five years. "There is no time limit on claiming the money that is rightfully yours," Swann said. "You can claim the funds any time, and legitimate heirs can claim the funds after the original owner's death."

Those who miss the ad inserts or don't get a notice from the IRS can still find out if they are the owners of unclaimed property by calling the office at 410-767-1700 in the Baltimore area, or toll-free 1-800-782-7383 outside Baltimore. The website address is www.marylandtaxes.com.

ROTARIANS HONOR ELLIOT, INDUCT ASPINALL — The Rotary Club of Oakland celebrated special events with two members of the group at their recent meeting. The club also hosted Rotary International District 7350 Governor Larry Barnes as a special guest. Barnes is visiting each Rotary Club in his district during his tenure. He met with Oakland Rotary President Herbert Lambert and the board of directors. Barnes discussed the Rotary International theme "Follow Your Rotary Dream," and reviewed the club goals for the year. He also encouraged the club members to attend the annual District Conference, slated in May 1999 at the Rocky Gap Resort. Also at the meeting, Bill Aspinall was inducted as the local group's newest Rotarian, and the 89th birthday of Willard Elliot was celebrated with a cake and congratulations from Barnes. Elliot has been a Rotarian for 53 years, the longest tenure of any Oakland Rotary member. Pictured above, left to right, are Elliot, Barnes, and Lambert. Shown below is Aspinall, left, as he is given his pin by Rotarian Ken Parrin.

FSU To Host London Aquila Theatre Company

The Frostburg State University Cultural Events Series will present the Aquila Theatre Company of London's The Comedy of Errors on Tuesday, Oct. 13, at 8 p.m. in the FSU Performing Arts Center.

"The play is one of Shakespeare's most vibrant and sparkling works. In this inventive and charming comedy, two pairs of identical twins from the same household are torn apart by a devastating shipwreck. But, as the delightful story unfolds, the audience learns that all is not as it seems. Mistaken identity, assumed personae, hilarious intrigue, and whimsical family relationships abound in this witty tale," stated an FSU spokesperson.

Under the direction of producer Peter Meineck and artistic director Robert Richmond, Aquila Theatre of London is one of the United Kingdom's foremost touring companies.

The Aquila Theatre will offer a pre-performance discussion from 7 to 7:30 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of the Performing Arts Center.

Seating is reserved for the play's performance. For information, ticket reservation and prices, persons may contact the FSU Lane Center Information Desk at 301-687-4411.

This event is supported in part by a grant from the Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation in partnership with the Maryland State Arts Council, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Corning Incorporated Foundation, and the Capezio Ballet Makers Dance Foundation.

The organization works with clients from a wide range of industries to link their people, processes, and technologies to their strategies.

ATTENTION

Southern Garrett Alumni Band

With the Autumn Glory Festival creeping up on us once again, it is time to start thinking about Alumni Band. Last year we were small in numbers, but big in both spirit and sound. All of the alumni that stuck it out last year, as well as all of those that watched from the parade route are invited to join in. We had a great deal of people that didn't hear that we were going to march last year, so spread the word around so that we can be the biggest band on the street!

Practice will be held at "The Band Room" on Friday, Oct. 9 at 7:00 p.m.

If you can't make the practice, just catch up with us at the parade line-up on Saturday, Oct. 10.

If there are any questions, call Christine Chaney-Cropp at (304) 599-9102 or E-mail Aaron at adcropp@erols.com.

DIGNITARY VISITS ELKS - The members of the Oakland Elks Lodge #2481 were honored this week by a visit from the highest ranking Elk in the Western District, Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Charles H. Koeneke Jr. While in Oakland, Koeneke joined members of a high level Elks committee to conduct the annual review of Lodge operations. Coinciding with the visit of this Elk dignitary was the annual Elks fall conference, hosted by the Oakland Lodge and its Exalted Ruler, Russell Eddy. Over 400 Elks, spouses, and guests from Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia gathered at Deep Creek Lake to attend workshops on various topics, including effective Lodge administration and membership recruiting techniques. Workshops were conducted by Elk recruiting expert Emile Brady and state membership chair Carroll Wagner. Some of the conference participants pictured above, left to right were Don Moss, Frederick; Greg Wilkes, Hagerstown; Oakland Exalted Ruler Russell Eddy; District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Charles H. Koeneke Jr.; W. Lee Ridenour, Hagerstown; Joseph Beach, Hagerstown; and J. Gordon Alexander, Frederick.

Arts Council Seeks Applicants For Mini-Grants

Senior art exhibits, afternoon concerts, special after-school programs, children's theatre projects, and poetry readings are just some of the activities that could be funded through the Maryland State Arts Council's (MSAC) Fiscal Year 1999 Mini-Grant Program. MSAC is an agency of the Maryland Department of Business & Economic Development.

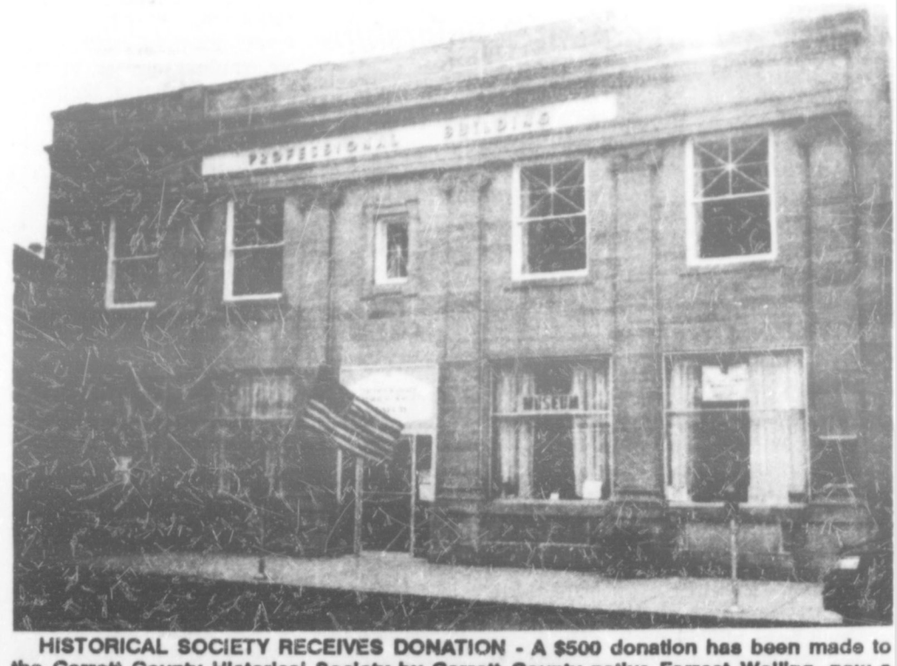
The Mini-Grant Program is open to not-for-profit organizations such as civic groups, libraries, museums, religious organizations, schools, or social clubs which are open to the public and accessible for persons with disabilities. The program, which awards grants of up to $1,000, is designed to assist community-based organizations in producing and presenting arts activities in their communities.

Mini-grants are awarded four times a year, and organizations may submit only one application per deadline and may receive only one mini-grant per fiscal year. The next grants for fiscal year 1999 will be awarded for activities taking place between January 1, 1999, and March 31, 1999. The deadline for applications is October 16, 1998.

Grant applications may be obtained by calling the Maryland State Arts Council at 410-767-6555 or TDD/TTY 410-333-4519. Applicants are encouraged to contact the Maryland State Arts Council to speak with the appropriate staff member before an application is submitted. Completed applications for the January 1 mini-grants must be postmarked on or before October 16, 1998, or hand-delivered by 5 p.m. that day to the Maryland State Arts Council offices at 601 N. Howard Street, Baltimore.

The remaining deadline for the fiscal year 1999 Mini-Grant Program is January 15, 1999, for activities taking place between April 1, 1999, and June 30, 1999.

For more information about the Mini-Grant Program, persons may call the Maryland State Arts Council at 410-767-6555.



HISTORICAL SOCIETY RECEIVES DONATION - A $500 donation has been made to the Garrett County Historical Society by Garrett County native Forrest Welling, now a resident of La Belle, Fla., in his father's name, Wiley William Welling. The elder Welling was a lifelong resident of Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park, and is remembered for his service as a fishing guide to President Grover Cleveland during his honeymoon, which he and his bride Lucy spent at Deer Park in 1886. Welling was a finishing carpenter by trade, as well having served as a deputy game warden for 43 years until his death in 1972. Shown above is the Garrett County Historical Society Museum, located on Second Street in downtown Oakland, which will have special hours of operation during this weekend's Autumn Glory Festival: 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 8—Saturday, Oct. 10, and 1 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 11.

Audio Cassettes Cover Alzheimer's Disease Advice

A new audio cassette is available at the Ruth Enlow Public Library that provides advice to people caring for a patient with Alzheimer's disease.

"Steps for Caregivers: Caring for Person's with Alzheimer's Disease," covers topics that include modifying the home environment, understanding and improving communication, planning activities, and understanding challenging behaviors. Narrated by television star Shelley Fabares, the cassette is made available by the Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association.

For further information on Alzheimer's disease and additional audio cassettes, videos, and books that provide information on the illness, interested persons may call Donna McClintock of the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-8253 or 301-895-3122. The Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association may be reached toll-free at 1-800-696-6830.

Persons caring for an individual with Alzheimer's disease are reminded that a family/caregiver support group meeting of the Western Maryland Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association meets in Garrett County on the last Monday of each month, with the exceptions of December, June, July, and August, at various locations. Further information on this support group is available from McClintock at the phone numbers listed above.

Northern GOP Women Convene

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met Sept. 29 at Hill Top Inn. President Carolyn Ganoe introduced the guest speakers, Brenda Arnold, domestic violence advocate/investigator, and Lt. Larry Gnegy of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. They both explained their duties in detail.

They said that domestic violence has become a serious problem and laws are changing for the victim for her protection. "It all comes down to power and control by the aggressor with emotional abuse, economic abuse, isolation, intimidation, threats, using male privilege, sexual abuse, and using children," Arnold said. Spousal abuse also affects the children and carries on from one generation to the other. There is help for the victims by going to a shelter, where they and children find protection and help at no charge.

The business meeting followed. Carolyn Ganoe and Brenda Butscher will attend the federation meeting Nov. 13 and 14 in the Ramada Convention Center in Hagerstown. A card of thanks was read from Hospice for the contribution given in memory of Martha Glotfelty, a former member of the House of Delegates. A get-well card was signed by each for Sheila O'Neill's brother, a cancer victim. Brenda Butscher won the fruit basket, which netted $42.

An auction will be held at the next meeting, Oct. 27. There will be no meeting in November, but the Christmas luncheon will be held in December, during which the club will have the fruit basket again.

Woodland Owners Able To Secure Advice Locally

John R. Toston of Friendsville, pictured above, is one of 30 Marylanders who were trained in forest and wildlife management recently through the Coverts Project, a natural resources program of the Maryland Cooperative Extension. Toston is now available to assist other woodland owners and managers with methods to improve their wildlife habitat, forest health, timber production, woodland recreation, and aesthetics through sound forest management practices.

Toston received extensive classroom and field training through the Coverts Project, which is named for thickets that shelter wildlife. As a coverts operator Toston is part of a statewide network of volunteers helping Maryland's 25,000 private woodland owners better manage their properties through education and contacts with forestry and wildlife professionals and resources.

Nearly 42 percent of Maryland is woodland and 85 percent of that woodland is in the hands of private landowners, half of whom own 10 acres or less. These woodlands, which provide wildlife habitat, wood products, watershed protection, and recreation opportunities, are subject to reduction and fragmentation. Although some landowners and others think the best action for woodland is none, that is not necessarily so according to the Cooperative Extension. An active management plan that includes sound tree planting and cutting practices will produce a variety of tree growths and habitats that increase wildlife populations.

In the seven years of the Coverts Project in Maryland, almost 200 volunteers have completed the Coverts training and are sharing forest and wildlife management with others in their communities. For further information on the Coverts Program, interested persons may contact the Garrett County Extension Service at 301-334-6960 or Toston at 301-746-4273.

Domestic Violence To Be Addressed At BPW Meeting

"Choice, Independence, and Dignity Denied" is the title of a program on domestic violence that will be presented at a meeting of the Business and Professional Women of Garrett County, set for Thursday, Oct. 15, at 8:30 p.m. at the Will O' the Wisp. The guest speaker will be Linda Spassil, executive director of the Dove Center, the county's domestic violence/sexual assault resource center.

"In commemoration of both the National Business Women's Week [of] October 19-23, and Domestic Violence Prevention Month, the group will focus upon the travesty that choice, independence, and dignity is denied to individuals who experience domestic and family violence," said BPW spokesperson Susan Athey-Oxford.

"A short yet profound video titled 'One Slap Leads to Another' will be shown, [and] there will be a candlelight vigil to tribute victims who, because the violence proved fatal, were unable to fulfill their dreams of becoming business and professional women," Athey-Oxford said.

Persons interested in further information on the meeting may contact Joanne Harsh at 301-334-0585.

Thank You

We would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all those involved in the care of Joseph A. Umbel.

Thanks to the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, Terry Spear, Cumberland & Garrett County hospitals and staff, the doctors who provided care and treatment, local churches, Newman's Funeral Home and Pastor Mike Robinson. All of the flowers, cards, thoughts and prayers, phone calls, and food were greatly appreciated.

A special thanks to Cuppett & Weeks Nursing Home staff — your caring and kindness were greatly appreciated and will never be forgotten.

The Everlasting Light

Those we love must some day pass beyond our present sight
Must leave us and the world we know without their radiant light.
But we know that like a candle, their lovely light will shine to brighten up another place more perfect, more divine,
And in the realm of Heaven,
where they shine so warm and bright,
Our loved one lives forever
in God's eternal light.

We the children of Norma Savage would like to thank everyone for their kindness during our time of loss. Words can never express how we feel. A special thanks to Newman Funeral Home for their help and kindness, Rev. Burlin Wilhelm, special thanks to Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, Nurses and Aides, without you she wouldn't have made it as long as she did, to all who sent food, flowers, and cards. To her grandsons who were pall- bearers, and to her grand-daughters for their beautiful music.

May God bless each and every one of you.

Oedipus Rex
by Sophocles, Kenneth Cavender Translation
October 9, 10, 15, 16 & 17 at 8 pm, October 11 at 2 pm
Timeless...Powerful...A play that keeps us emotionally on edge as we watch this King, this public hero, pledge to rid his people of the curse affecting them. As his search unfolds we watch as his worst nightmare becomes his most feared reality.
"Sophocles is the most skillful of Greek Dramatists in mastery of dramatic structure: His Oedipus Rex is often called 'the most perfect of Greek Tragedies'." — OSCAR G. BROCKETT

A Doll's House
by Henrik Ibsen
November 20, 21, December 3, 4, & 5 at 8 pm, November 22 at 2 pm
A Doll's House tells us that it is the primary duty of every person to discover who s/he is- a message that is certainly as valid today as it was in 1879.
Actress Janet McTeer, who played Nora in the 1997 Tony Award-winning Broadway revival, explains that one must, above all, see A Doll's House as a portrait of a marriage ... the story of two people whose marriage is disintegrating. If you let the play be what it is intended to be, you find it is not a feminist play, but in fact a humanist play, from which you can draw feminist conclusions."

Meet Me In St. Louis
Music & Lyrics by Hugh Martin & Ralph Blane; Book by Hugh Wheeler
March 10, 11, 12, & 13 at 8 pm, March 14 at 2 pm
Based partially on the popular 1944 MGM film, Meet Me In St. Louis includes such familiar songs as The Boy Next Door, The Trolley Song, Under the Bamboo Tree, Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas, and, of course, the title song, Meet Me In St. Louis.
"...so full of life and charm and energy and optimism, you'll be happy to meet it anywhere."

Q. I have a set of risque glasses made of jade green glass. Each glass must be placed on the table upside down because the bottom is not flat. The molded glass looks as if a woman is bent over the glass, her arms holding it, her feet on the sides, and her bottom the rounded bottom of the glass. Why would a set of cocktail glasses have to be empty to be put down? When were they made?

A. You have a set of Bottoms-Up cocktail glasses. The name refers to both the position of the woman on the glass and to the idea that you can't put the glass down unless it is "bottoms up."

The idea of a glass that you had to hold until it was empty was not new. Early 19th century "hunt cups" shaped like dog heads or fox heads were handed to those mounted on horses for the hunt. The riders drained the glass then put it down.

Your Bottoms-Up glasses were made in the 1930s by the McKee Glass Co. McKee had seen pottery glasses made by White Cloud Farms of Rock Tavern, N.Y. McKee copied the idea and later bought the White Cloud pottery.

The pottery pieces were made showing the woman with her legs apart. To make the glass pieces less suggestive, the McKee designers modeled the woman with her legs held tightly together.

Home Tips

CHECK IT OUT – Whenever we go on vacation, I always make a list of the clothes I'm taking and then check them off as I pack. But I never take a copy of that list with me.

During a recent trip, a new outfit I'd purchased for that trip was taken from the closet at the hotel we were in.

I did not wear the outfit while there but was going to after we'd flown somewhere else, where we'd planned to meet friends for a special reunion. Our first night there, I noticed the outfit was missing. I worried somewhat but concluded that I'd forgotten to pack it.

When we got back home, I discovered that the outfit was not here and I had, in fact, listed it as being packed. It was an expensive, dressy outfit and I was much disheartened at its loss.

In the future, I'll always take my list and carry it in my purse, where it will be readily available for a nightly check. Needless to say, there is very little one can do when such a thing occurs and you don't realize it for several days, but it might have been different if I had noticed the loss during a nightly check while on vacation.

I hope this helps prevent such a loss to another traveler. Rita D., Toms River, N.J.

ON THE RECORD – I keep an "action" file going all the time. It contains such items as correspondence that needs an answer, recipes not yet tried, a note or a phone call I need to make and, especially, notes on anything I have ordered through the mail that has not arrived.

During the first week of each month or on days when I have a few minutes to spare, I pull out the file and try to make a few phone calls, write a letter or do something useful instead of wondering, "What do I need to do today?". Jeannie S., Ghent, N.Y.

JULIA ROBERTS: NOT JUST A PRETTY WOMAN

These days, Julia Roberts isn't just a pretty woman. She's a pretty happy woman. Besides steady boyfriend actor Benjamin Bratt, she's had two hit movies last year and currently commands more than $12 million per film, higher than any other actress.

Roberts has also weathered a long list of failed romances and movie flops. The trademark smile – a mile wide and supernova bright – masks her determination. Born in 1967 to parents who ran a theater school, November's Biography magazine cover girl always knew she would be an actress, inventing starring roles for herself as a child. After graduating from high school, Roberts headed for Manhattan and eventually won a role in the quirky coming-of-age comedy, "Mystic Pizza." This led to "Steel Magnolias," "Pretty Woman" and two Golden Globes. At 23, she was America's sweetheart.

But her personal life plummeted. First she ended her engagement to "Steel Magnolias" co-star Dylan McDermott. Then she canceled her wedding to "Flatliners" co-star Kiefer Sutherland, and briefly dated "Speed 2" star Jason Patric before marrying country crooner Lyle Lovett. The union barely lasted two years.

Roberts retreated to regroup. Afraid of being pigeonholed, she made some bad movie choices. She passed on "Sleepless in Seattle," opting for thrillers like "Sleeping with the Enemy" or somber dramas like "Mary Reilly." Now turning 30, she's back on track and recognizes what audiences expect of her. She's balancing crowd-pleasing comedies with the meatier roles she relishes. "My Best Friend's Wedding" was a box office smash, followed by "Conspiracy Theory" with Mel Gibson. Her next film, due in December, is a two-hanky tale titled "Stepmom," about a dying woman (Susan Sarandon) who teaches her ex-husband's new girlfriend how to raise her kids. In "Runaway Bride, ' she will finally reteam with Richard Gere. Roberts concedes, "I think I'm moments away from coming into my own."

Garrett County 4-H Clubs Celebrate National 4-H Week

National 4-H Week is an annual observance held during the first full week of October, this year running from Sun., Oct. 4 to Sat., Oct. 10.

During National 4-H Week, appropriate activities are arranged nationally and in each state, county, and most local communities. A major aim is to enlarge the "image" so that the public realizes opportunities for youth that are available through 4-H youth development programs.

In Garrett County, several clubs set up displays in their communities, and many 4-H members take part in the Autumn Glory Festival, some by marching in the parade on Saturday carrying the maple leaf signs announcing the awards given to various floats to celebrate National 4-H Week as well as Autumn Glory.

The objectives of 4-H and National 4-H Week are to encourage more youth to take advantage of 4-H opportunities; to encourage more adults to volunteer as 4-H local leaders, and by doing so, to enrich their own lives besides serving youth; to acquaint the public with today's 4-H program that adapts to meet the needs of today's youth; to recognize the important contribution of parents to 4-H and influence their continued cooperation; to acknowledge the support of 4-H friends, partners and donors and express appreciation to them; and to report accomplishments of the past year and consider future needs and plans.

4-H club membership is open to all youth ages 9 to 19. To find out how to join one of the following clubs or for more information about 4-H, those interested may call the Garrett County Extension Service at 301-334-6960.

The following is a list of 4-H clubs in Garrett County, where they meet, and when. New members are always welcome.

Bittinger 4-H Club, Bittinger fire hall, Bittinger, meets the first Monday of each month.

Grantsville 4-H Club, Casselman Valley Sportsman's Club, Grantsville, meets the first Monday of each month.

4-H Information Workshop Planned At College Park

4-H volunteers and volunteers of youth programs are gathering on the University of Maryland campus to gain new and updated information about 4-H projects, 4-H programs, volunteer development, and creative ways to work with youth of all ages. This learning and sharing opportunity will take place Sat., Nov. 7, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Animal Science and Agricultural Engineering Building, University of Maryland, College Park.

The events of the day will include educational displays, guest speakers, special recognition for Outstanding State 4-H Volunteers, and details about the statewide 4-H Volunteer Leaders Association. Seminar sessions include Basic Sewing, Workforce Preparation, Service Learning, Disabled Audiences, Learn and Earn, Youth and Adult Partnerships, Conflict Resolution and many, many more.

A $12 registration includes lunch, the program and a bag of goodies. Interested persons are invited to make plans to have a wonderful day of fun and educational experiences.

This program is sponsored by the 4-H program of the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service. For more information, those interested may contact John English at 301-403-4248.

Small Grain Seeding Is Now Under Way

Small grain seeding continued into its second week as barley was reported at 33% seeded for the state. Last week, barley was only being reported to have started. Nevertheless, barley planting is on par with its five-year average and slightly ahead of the previous year. Rye plantings were at 13%, which is behind both its five-year average and the 1997 average. Wheat planting, at 10%, followed barley's pattern and was ahead of both averages. Precipitation in some parts of the state helped to prepare the soil for planting, while lack of rain in most areas slowed the process for farmers.

Harvesting of corn for grain moved to 52% complete. Corn harvesting was still ahead of the previous and five-year averages. Harvesting of silage stands at 90% complete and should finish up in this coming week. Soybean harvesting got underway this week as 6% of Maryland soybeans were reported as harvested. The dry weather in many parts of the state pushed the percentage turned to 77%.

Sorghum turning color was at 80%, a seven point jump from last week's report. Despite the advance, sorghum turning falls behind the previous-year average and the five-year average. Sorghum harvesting moved up five points to 20% complete.

The hay harvest continued as Maryland farmers have started on their fifth cutting of alfalfa. Fourth cutting of other hays is reported as 75% finished. This was above the previous year average of 68% and 24 points above the five-year average.

Topsoil moisture condition was 20% very short, 50% short and 30% adequate. Subsoil moisture condition was 32% very short, 50% short and 18% adequate.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended on Oct. 4, listing the item and the percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follows.

Small grain planting progress: barley 33, --, 29, 33; rye 13, --, 20, 23; winter wheat 10, --, 7, 7.

Development: field corn, mature 91, 80, 88, 90; soybeans, turning 77, 65, 65, 76, shedding leaves 46, 26, 45, 50; sorghum, turning color 80, 73, 94, 87, mature 40, 31, 56, 67.

Harvesting progress: apples 60, 37, 72, 60; corn, grain 52, 50, 22, 41, silage 90, 80, 84, 82; Soybeans 6, --, 9, 6; sorghum 20, 15, 13, 18; other hay, 4th cutting 75, 57, 68, 51; alfalfa hay, 4th cutting 85, 73, 78, 82, 5th cutting 20, --, 6, 12.

Farming In Maryland.....

Production Of Crops Reported For September

The September forecast for corn and soybean yields in Maryland were down from the August expectations. Based on Sept. 1 conditions, the corn for grain crop was expected to average 100 bushels per acre, 5 bushels lower than last month's yield of 105 bushels per acre, but 10 bushel higher than last year's final yield of 90.

Corn for grain production was estimated at 42 million bushels, 12% more than last year's production 37.35 million bushels. Lack of precipitation in much of the state, especially in the lower Eastern Shore and southern Maryland put a damper on the projected corn yield for the state.

Soybean expectations seemed to follow the pattern of corn and was forecasted at 26 bushels per ace. The yield estimate was 3 bushels per acre less than last month's projection and 2 bushels less than last year's yield. The production for soybeans came to 12 million bushels, 19% less than what was estimated for last year. Like corn, the lack of rain for most of the state has hurt the early and late bean crops.

Corn grain production across the United States is forecast at 9.74 billion bushels, up 2% from last month and up 4% from 1997. Based on Sept. 1 conditions, yields are expected to average 132.0 bushels per acre, up 2.0 bushels from last month and up 5 bushels from a year ago. If realized, this would be the second largest production and the second highest yield on record. Acreage for harvest is estimated at 73.8 million bushels, unchanged from last month and virtually unchanged from 1997.

Soybean production is forecast at a record high 2.91 billion bushels, up 3% from Aug. 1, and up 7% from last year's record of 2.73 billion bushels. The yield forecast, at 40.6 bushels per acre, increased 1.1 bushels from last month and is 1.6 bushels above the 1997 final yield. If realized, this will be the second highest yield on record. The record yield of 41.4 bushels was set in 1994. Acreage for harvest is estimated at a record 71.6 million acres, unchanged from Aug. 1 but up 2% from 1997.

Farm Bureau Calls On Congress To Move Emergency Farm Aid Package

The American Farm Bureau Federation has called on Congress to provide emergency supplemental funding of several billion dollars to help the nation's farm and ranch families, given the magnitude of the current economic crisis facing agriculture.

"Net farm income is projected to fall by $7.4 billion this crop year," said AFBF President Dean Kleckner. "A $500 million disaster allocation will not begin to address this shortfall. Because the agenda to which Congress committed is woefully incomplete, Congress must focus on immediate remedies to redress producers."

The request for emergency aid for farmers is one of the key items in a report from presidents of 10 state Farm Bureaus, appointed by Kleckner to a committee to review the farm economy. The committee was led by Texas Farm Bureau President Bob Stallman.

The Farm Bureau report said Congress must avoid abandoning the market-based policies of the FAIR Act.

"The loan program is intended as a method to lessen pressure to sell at harvest time and spread sales throughout the marketing year," Kleckner said. It is a marketing tool for producers, not an income support program.

Among the committee's recommendations addressing short-term needs is a "sanctions indemnity program" to compensate producers for the impact of trade-related problems on current market prices. Congress will be asked to provide immediate funding for a "sanctions indemnity payment" for both program and minor crops.

The Farm Bureau leaders emphasized that a crop disaster assistance program is needed. They believe the $500 million in emergency funding included in the Senate agricultural appropriations bill is insufficient. They said that any disaster assistance should be implemented in a way that maintains the integrity of the crop insurance program.

Kleckner said, "We must avoid sending a signal to producers that discourages them from further participation in the program. The present crop insurance program is so inflexible it cannot be adjusted to unique situations. The program is not capable of responding to multiyear disasters. Supplemental crop insurance payments must be made for those suffering from disasters."

The Farm Bureau report also calls for a disaster feed assistance program to aid livestock producers; enhanced funding for the P.L. 480 program; credit relief from Farm Service Agency-guaranteed farm ownership and operating loans; immediate entrance of additional acreage into the conservation reserve program; and extended assistance for farmers since projections indicate 1999 crop prices will not improve significantly.

Long-term needs include fast-track trade negotiating authority; full-funding for the International Monetary Fund; sanctions reform to allow greater flexibility for food exports to restricted countries; additional funds for the market access program and foreign market development program; and establishment of Farm and Ranch Risk Management accounts to help farmers save pretax income for "rainy days."

GOP Offers Farm Aid Plan To Congress

House and Senate Republicans have unveiled a $3.9 billion farm relief package, which will likely be included in the yet-uncompleted agriculture appropriations bill. The GOP plan counters a more costly $5 billion Democratic measure that was defeated in the Senate. The failed Democratic plan centered on a Farm Bureau-opposed move to lift the cap on marketing loan rates.

The American Farm Bureau Federation called the new Republican plan a welcomed step, but cautioned Congress that the relief measures should not be paid for at the expense of other agriculture programs.

The Republican proposal includes $2.25 billion for crop disaster losses, $75 million for emergency livestock feed assistance, and $1.65 billion in direct payments to help offset the loss of export markets. The additional direct payments will be made only to farmers holding Freedom to Farm contracts.

Recently, the administration and Democratic congressional leaders met to discuss another version of a farm aid package. The administration had earlier proposed lifting the marketing loan rate cap, the major difference between the two parties' farm aid proposals.

"Congress must act quickly to provide necessary help for agricultural producers before adjourning this session," said AFBF President Dean Kleckner. "We are troubled, however, at the lack of a funding mechanism. We understand Congress is looking for ways to offset the $3.9 billion from other agricultural programs. We hope Congress has sufficient concern about the farm economy to approve emergency supplemental funding."

Conferees to the agriculture appropriations bill were expected to complete work on the package by the end of last week.

MARYLAND 4-H HORSE JAMBOREE RESULTS - The Maryland State 4-H Horse Jamboree was recently held at the Carroll County Agricultural Center in Westminster. 4-H'ers observed and participated in a number of activities including horse demonstrations, public speaking, horsemanship contest, tours and workshops. Representing Garrett County in the Horsemanship Contest and Dirty Pony Contest were the following members of Saddle Tramps 4-H Club: (pictured from left to right) Erin Hoalcraft, Senior Horsemanship, white; Lora Teets, Intermediate Horsemanship, white; Beth Sweitzer, Intermediate Horsemanship, red; Kristen Baker, participant in the Dirty Pony Contest; Roxann Hoalcraft, Intermediate Horsemanship, white; Christy Hoalcraft, Senior Horsemanship, white; Jessica Upole, Senior Horsemanship, white; and Brittany Wotring, Intermediate Horsemanship, red. Adults/leaders who participated were: Connie Hoalcraft, Amanda Upole, Marietta Felix, and Lisa Sweitzer.

Last Minute Info On Farm Aid Package

Senate Republicans sent their $4.1 billion farm aid package to President Clinton on Tuesday despite his admonition "not to leave town" before adding more money.

Clinton reiterated his intention to veto the bill in a strongly worded statement issued late Tuesday. "If Congress insists on sending me an agriculture bill that fails to respond fully to the needs of America's farmers, then I will have no choice but to veto the bill," he said.

Clinton and the Democrats have pushed a $7.3 billion plan that would rely mostly on giving farmers an extra $5 billion through a program that subsidizes growers when commodity prices fall below set levels.

The 55-43 Senate vote for the smaller package sets the stage for Clinton's certain presidential veto.

Take Advantage of Cash Discounts

During the next few months many of the Agricultural Supply Businesses will be offering "early-bird" discounts on many of their farm products. These cash discounts are an easy way to make money. The money saved from discounts goes directly to the profit column. If you have money laid away, push the pencil to see if the discount will save you more money than the savings is earning. Also, talk to your banker to see if a line of credit could be established to take advantage of the discounts.

Accidents Impact the Farm Business

All of the hustle and bustle about getting things done lure us into shortcuts and intermediate fixes. These shortcuts can lead to accidents, which can have a critical impact on your farm business. Farm occupations represent 10% of all fatal work injuries. Twenty-one percent of the farm injuries are caused by tractors and machinery. Each year 150,000 to 200,000 people up to age 21 are injured on U.S. farms. As a result, agricultural workers have a disability rate 1.5 times higher than all of the other industries combined.

Most accidents and injuries do not have to occur. Being in the "wrong place at the wrong time" is not justification or an excuse for an accident. Prevention and planning today can minimize the potential for accidents. Following are some tips to consider.

* Maintain equipment and make sure it is working properly.
* Make sure all guards are in place.
* Have parts and tools available for equipment that frequently breaks down.
* Properly train your family members and employees on safe use of equipment.
* Tailor jobs to match youthful skills, maturity, and judgment.
* Have a designated and well-organized work area for "quick fix" repairs.
* Use the tractor seat belt.
* Size the tractor to the attachment to assure control.

Increasing your farm safety in a continual commitment. Experience is a wonderful thing. It enables you to recognize a mistake when you make it again.

Ag Statistics Service Reports On Chicken & Eggs

Laying flocks in Maryland produced 72 million eggs during July 1998, of which 64 million were table eggs and 8 million were hatching eggs. The average rate of lay was 71.5%. The average number of layers on hand during July 1998 was 3,246,000. On August 1, none of the layers in Maryland were being molted and 37.0% of all layers had been through a molt.

Egg production across the United States totaled 6.68 billion during July 1998, up 4% from the 6.44 billion produced during July 1997. Production included 5.64 billion table eggs and 1.04 billion hatching-type eggs.

Hatching eggs included 982 million from broiler-type flocks and 57 million from egg-type flocks. The total number of layers during July 1998 averaged 308 million, up 3% from the average for July 1997. July egg production per layer was 21.7 eggs, compared to 21.5 a year earlier. On August 1, 3.9% of the layers in the U.S. were being molted and 21.7% had been through a molt.

Egg-type chicks hatched during July totaled 36.6 million, up 8% from July 1997. Additional egg-type hatching eggs in incubators on August 1 totaled 28.9 million, up 2% from the previous year.

The July 1998 hatch of broiler-type chicks, at 723 million, was up 2% from July of the previous year.

Annual Seedling Sale

Clements State Tree Nursery Superintendent Dave McCurdy and his staff say they have mixed emotions about the first day of October.

On one hand, they're excited about selling an estimated 1.5 million seedlings to be used for reforestation, erosion control, Christmas tree establishment, shelter belts, windbreaks, and wildlife. On the other hand, they know they'll be very busy for the next several weeks.

The seedlings are made available each year to landowners, community groups, and companies who place orders with the nursery. The trees are not to be used for resale and are to be planted in West Virginia.

"I take the phone off the hook until exactly 8 a.m.," said McCurdy. "Otherwise, I'd be getting calls at 4 in the morning." McCurdy and his nursery staff raise most of the trees from seed bought from private gatherers. They care for the trees for the next one to three years until they are healthy enough to distribute.

"Most of the hardwoods go out when they are one year old. The pines go out after two or three years," said McCurdy. "We make sure they get what they need to be strong."

Part of that strengthening process is the state-of-the art treatment of some trees with the Mycorrhizae inoculation.

"Most people haven't realized the difference this treatment makes because our weather has been pretty mild. In severe, dry weather, the Mycorrhizae makes the roots more efficient, and can be the life or death factor in younger, smaller trees," he added.

McCurdy explained that Mycorrhizae is a fungus which works in cooperation with the roots of the tree to provide better nutrient and water delivery.

The seedlings will be available until next spring in packages of 25 to 500, and will cost between $11 and $80 per 100. For more information about seedling purchase, you can call the Clements State Tree Nursery at 304-675-1820 or stop by the WVU Extension Office on 115 W. Court Street in Kingwood for an order form.

TRUSTEES' SALE
VALUABLE FEE-SIMPLE PROPERTY KNOWN AS LOT 12, SUN VIEW HEIGHTS
SWANTON, MARYLAND 21561

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of Garrett County, Equity Case No. 5507 CIVIL, the undersigned Trustees will sell at public auction to take place AT THE FRONT OF THE GARRETT COUNTY COURTHOUSE LOCATED AT 203 SOUTH 4TH STREET, OAKLAND, MARYLAND 21550 ON OCTOBER 19, 1998 AT 2:15 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS thereon situate in Garrett County, Maryland, and described as follows:

The property is in fee-simple and improved by a DWELLING.

The property will be sold in an "AS IS" condition without either express or implied warranty or representation, including but not limited to the description, fitness for a particular purpose or use, structural integrity, physical condition, construction, extent of construction, workmanship, materials, liability, zoning, subdivision, environmental condition, merchantability, compliance with building or housing codes or other laws, ordinances or regulations, or other similar matters, and subject to easements, agreements and restrictions of record which affect the same, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $2,500.00 payable in cash, certified check or by a cashier's check will be required from purchaser at time of sale, balance in cash upon final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court of Garrett County, interest to be paid at the rate of 17.99% PER ANNUM on unpaid purchase money from date of sale to date of settlement. The secured party herein, if the purchaser, shall not be required to post a deposit or pay interest. The purchaser will be required to complete settlement of the purchase within FIVE (5) DAYS of the ratification of the sale by the Court. In the event that the purchaser fails to go to settlement as required, the aforementioned deposit shall be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the purchaser. Taxes and water rent, if any, to be adjusted to date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, recordation, transfer taxes and all other costs incident to the settlement shall be borne by the purchaser. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason (and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder), there shall be no abatement of interest. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage in the property from date of sale forward. If the Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title or a resale is to take place for any reason, the purchaser's (s') sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the aforementioned deposit. Upon refund of the deposit this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Trustees.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners and the Garrett County Planning Commission will conduct a joint public hearing on October 14, 1998 at 1:30 p.m. in the Planning Commission meeting room (Third Floor, Courthouse, Oakland). The purpose of the meeting will be to receive public comments on the County's draft Land Preservation and Recreation Plan. The plan identifies actions to enhance park and recreation opportunities within the County and its municipalities as well as actions for protecting and preserving Garrett County's natural resources. The Plan will also enable Garrett County to remain eligible for Maryland Program Open Space funding which is the primary funding sources for acquiring and developing new local parks and for improving existing parks in Garrett County. Copies of the draft Plan are available in the Planning Office, Room 307, Courthouse. Interested citizens are welcome to attend.

By Order of The Board of County Commissioners and the Garrett County Planning Commission.

GARRETT COUNTY SANITARY COMMISSION
SOUTHEAST CONVEYANCE SYSTEM
AQUATIC CROSSINGS
A. PROPOSAL SECTIONS
I. INVITATION TO BID

Receipt of Proposals

Sealed bids marked "Bid for the Southeast Conveyance System Aquatic Crossings" will be received by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission (hereinafter referred to as Owner), at 313 East Alder Street, Old Courthouse Room 200, Oakland, Maryland 21550, until 11:00 a.m. on 6th day of November, 1998, and then and there the bids will be publicly opened and read.

General Description of Work

This project will include the following:

1. Approximately 500 LF 8-inch pressure sewer to be hung on the new Glendale Road Bridge, and
2. 1285 LF of twin 6-inch pressure sewer, approximately 700 LF of which will cross under Deep Creek Lake at North Glade Cove.

Pre-Bid Conference

A pre-bid conference will be held on Friday, October 23, 1998, at 2:00 p.m. in the office of the Owner to answer any questions concerning the Bidding Documents. All bidders are invited to attend.

Bidding Documents

Bidding Documents will be available for inspection during regular working hours at the Office of the Owner.

Bidding Documents may be obtained from the Owner upon written request and remittance of full payment of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each set with checks made payable to the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. Payment will not be refunded, said payment being retained by the Owner to cover cost of printing, handling and shipping. Requests for Bidding Documents shall be submitted to:

Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.
313 East Alder Street
Old Courthouse, Room 200
Oakland, Maryland 21550

All bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in in ink or typewritten, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted.

The Owner reserves the right to waive the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, or to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No Bidder may withdraw a Bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the Contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope-of-work by examination of the site and a review of the Bidding Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Bidding Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

Bid Security and Bond Requirements

There are no bid securities or bond requirements for this project. Progress payments will be made for work in place and a ten percent (10%) retainage will be held on all work until the project is completed and the contract requirements are satisfied. Retainage in the amount of five percent (5%) of the final construction cost will be held for a one (1) year warranty period. Bidder may elect to provide a maintenance bond for one hundred percent (100%) of the construction cost in lieu of the five percent (5%) retainage.

The Owner may for any reason whatsoever, determine that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract. In that event, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Owner will not then be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the ninety (90) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

The party to whom the Contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be accompanied by the necessary Agreement and contract forms. In case of failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may, at his option, consider the Bidder in default.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of an acceptable Agreement signed by the party to whom the Contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the Agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

Time For Completion

The successful bidder will be required to fully complete contract work within ninety (90) consecutive calendar days from and including the date of receipt from the Owner of formal notice to proceed.

Award of Contract

The award of any contract will be made by the Owner.

Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalanced may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Bidding Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals, or to award a contract or contracts which in its judgment is in the best interest of the Owner.

Nondiscrimination of Employment

BIDDERS ON THIS WORK WILL BE REQUIRED TO COMPLY WITH THE PRESIDENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 11246. THE REQUIREMENTS FOR BIDDERS AND CONTRACTORS UNDER THIS ORDER ARE EXPLAINED IN 41 CFR 60.4.

Notice of Requirement for Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities

Bidders and offerors are cautioned as follows: By signing this bid or offer, the bidder or offeror will be deemed to have signed and agreed to the provisions of the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" in this solicitation. The certification provides that the bidder or offeror does not maintain or provide for his employees facilities which are segregated on a basis of race, creed, color, or national origin, whether such facilities are segregated by directive or on a de facto basis. The certification also provides that he will not maintain such segregated facilities. Failure of a bidder or offeror to agree to the Certification of Nonsegregated facilities will render his bid or offer non-responsive to the terms of solicitations.

Date at Oakland, Maryland, this 1st day of October, 1998.

SOUTHEAST CONVEYANCE SYSTEM
PUMPING STATIONS
A. PROPOSAL SECTIONS
I. INVITATION TO BID

Receipt of Proposals

Sealed bids marked "Bid for the Southeast Conveyance System Pumping Stations" will be received by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission (hereinafter referred to as Owner), at 313 East Alder Street, Old Courthouse, Room 200, Oakland, Maryland 21550, until 11:00 a.m. on 6th day, November, 1998, and then and there the bids will be publicly opened and read.

General Description of Work

This project will be for a new flushing station for Thousand Acres, modifying existing Pumping Station 11-3 by using a parallel station. The new parallel station for 11-3 will be a submersible station with two submersible pumping units, valve vault and controls.

Pre-Bid Conference

A pre-bid conference will be held on Friday, October 23, 1998, at 2:00 p.m. in the office of the Owner to answer any questions concerning the Bidding Documents. All bidders are invited to attend.

Bidding Documents

Bidding Documents will be available for inspection during regular working hours at the Office of the Owner.

Bidding Documents may be obtained from the Owner upon written request and remittance of full payment of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each set with checks made payable to the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. Payment will not be refunded, said payment being retained by the Owner to cover cost of printing, handling and shipping. Requests for Bidding Documents shall be submitted to:

Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.
313 East Alder Street
Oakland, Maryland 21550

All bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in in ink or typewritten, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted. The owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, or to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No Bidder may withdraw a Bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the Contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope-of-work by examination of the site and a review of the Bidding Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Bidding Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

Bid Security and Bond Requirements

There are no bid securities or bond requirements for this project. Progress payments will be made for work in place and a ten percent (10%) retainage will be held on all work until the project is completed and the contract requirements are satisfied. Retainage in the amount of five percent (5%) of the final construction cost will be for a one (1) year warranty period. Bidder may elect to provide a maintenance bond for one hundred percent (100%) of the construction cost in lieu of the five percent (5%) retainage.

The Owner may for any reason whatsoever, determine that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract. In that event, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Owner will not then be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the ninety (90) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

The party to whom the Contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be accompanied by the necessary Agreement and contract forms. In case of failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may at his option, consider the Bidder in default.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of an acceptable Agreement signed by the party to whom the Contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement with such period, the Bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

Time For Completion

The successful bidder will be required to fully complete all contract work within two hundred seventy (270) consecutive calendar days from and including the date of receipt from the owner of formal notice to proceed.

Award of Contract

The award of any contract will be made by the Owner.

Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalance may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Contract Documents, however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals, or to award a contract or contracts which in its judgement is in the best interest of the Owner.

Nondiscrimination of Employment

BIDDERS ON THIS WORK WILL BE REQUIRED TO COMPLY WITH THE PRESIDENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 11246. THE REQUIREMENTS FOR BIDDERS AND CONTRACTORS UNDER THIS ORDER ARE EXPLAINED IN 41 CFR 60.4.

Notice of Requirement for Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities

Bidders and offerors are cautioned as follows: By signing this bid or offer, the bidder or offeror will be deemed to have signed and agreed to the provisions or the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" in this solicitation. The certification provides that the bidder or offeror does not maintain or provide for his employees facilities which are segregated on a basis of race, creed, color, or national origin, whether such facilities are segregated by directive or on a defacto basis. The certification also provides that he will not maintain such segregated facilities. Failure of a bidder of offeror to agree to the Certification of Nonsegregated facilities will render his bid or offer non-responsive to the terms of solicitations.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will conduct a Public Hearing to obtain the views of citizens on COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND HOUSING NEEDS, and to offer citizens the opportunity to review an application which Garrett County proposes to submit to the State on or before the November 13, 1998 deadline for same. The hearing will be held at the Commissioners' Meeting Room in the Garrett County Courthouse at 9:00 a.m. on October 13, 1998.

On the same date and time the Board of County Commissioners will also conduct a hearing to review and offer an opportunity to comment on the performance of the following CDBG grant previously funded through the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development. This grant will be the Crellin Head Start Project. The grant was awarded to the Garrett County Board of Commissioners and is being administered by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., through a subrecipient agreement.

The Small Cities Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program is a federally sponsored program designed to assist units of general local government with activities directed toward neighborhood and housing revitalization, economic development, and improved community facilities and services.

Maryland's Program is administered by the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), in close cooperation with the Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

The Maryland Program reflects the State's economic and community development priorities and provides public funds for activities which meet the following national objectives, in accordance with the Housing Community Development Act of 1974, as amended:

(1) give maximum feasible priority to activities which will benefit low and moderate income persons and households having an income equal to or less than the Section 8 lower income limits established by HUD;

(2) aid in the prevention of elimination of slums or blight;

(3) meet other community development needs of an urgent nature, or that are an immediate threat to community health and welfare.

Theft, VOP Net Oakland Man Jail Term

An Oakland man who had entered a not guilty plea to a theft charge, incurred while he was already serving two probation sentences, was handed an eight-month jail term in last week's Garrett County District Court proceedings.

Todd William Riley, 23, was most recently arrested in September by Garrett County sheriff's deputies following an investigation into a theft of a Sega Game Gear video game. Riley was accused of taking the video game, valued at $150, from a Mtn. Lake Park residence as he moved out in August; the next day he allegedly pawned the game in a Keyser, W.Va., pawnshop.

After Riley pleaded not guilty to the charge of misdemeanor theft in court last week, Judge Ralph M. Burnett handed down a conviction and sentenced Riley to four months in jail.

The theft occurred as Riley was serving concurrent probation terms for previous convictions on charges of controlled dangerous substance abuse via the inhalation of paint fumes and fourth-degree sex offense for engaging in allegedly consensual sex with a juvenile. The judge revoked probation in each instance and handed Riley a 60-day reimposed jail sentence for each probation violation, to be served consecutively.

Added together, the reimposed sentences and the theft conviction sentence bring Riley's total jail time to eight months.

In other district court news, a Grantsville man was sentenced to two weeks in jail after he pleaded guilty to a fourth-degree sex offense charge.

Michael Lee Kitzmiller, 22, was handed a 30-day sentence, all but 14 days of which were suspended, fined $355, and was placed on one year of supervised probation. Kitzmiller had been charged after his arrest by sheriff's deputies in May for allegedly engaging in consensual sex with a juvenile. An additional charge of second-degree assault was not prosecuted.

Maximilian Andrew Paape Jr., 35, Swanton, who had pleaded not guilty to a charge of second-degree assault stemming from a domestic altercation at his residence, was convicted and received a 30-day sentence with all but two days suspended and one year of unsupervised probation. He had been arrested in July by sheriff's deputies.

Leonard Francis McKenzie, 71, Frostburg, pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree assault and received a 30-day suspended sentence, a $300 fine, and one year of supervised probation. State troopers had arrested McKenzie in June for allegedly threatening a juvenile with an axe.

Harold Dean Michaels, 46, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of misdemeanor theft stemming from his July arrest by sheriff's deputies in connection with a shoplifting incident at Treasure Island. He received a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which were suspended, and six months of unsupervised probation.

Ricky Wayne Lewis, 37, Swanton, pleaded guilty to charges of trespass and disorderly conduct and received a 60-day suspended sentence, a $50 fine, and one year of unsupervised probation. The charges stemmed from his August arrest by sheriff's deputies after a domestic-related incident at his residence.

Shane Matthew Oester, 20, Salisbury, Pa., was sentenced after an earlier conviction on a fourth-degree sex offense charge and received a 60-day suspended sentence and one year of supervised probation. He had been arrested in January by state troopers for allegedly engaging in consensual sex with a juvenile. An additional charge of second-degree assault was not prosecuted.

Chad Edward Steyer, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, was sentenced after an earlier conviction on a marijuana possession charge and received a six-month sentence with all but seven days suspended, a $355 fine, and one year of supervised probation. He had been arrested by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in March for allegedly selling marijuana. An additional charge of manufacturing marijuana with the intent to distribute was not prosecuted.

Howard Richard Platter, 27, Frostburg, was sentenced after an earlier conviction on a charge of second-degree assault and received a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of supervised probation, and an order to make a $100 restitution payment to the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Resource Center. Platter had been arrested by state troopers in April after a domestic incident.

Edward Perry Batie Jr., 36, Fort Hill, Pa., pleaded guilty to a possession of marijuana charge and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ). He also received a $155 fine, six months of unsupervised probation, and an order to complete 40 hours of community service. A traffic stop in Grantsville in June led to Batie's arrest by state troopers, who found suspected marijuana in his vehicle.

Michael Wade Jones, 22, Oakland, and Zachary Ian Pitzer, 19, Tunnelton, W.Va., each received PBJs after pleading guilty to marijuana possession charges. The pair had been arrested in April by state troopers who found marijuana in their vehicle after a traffic stop in Oakland. Jones, the vehicle's driver, received a $155 fine, six months of unsupervised probation, and 40 hours of community service. Pitzer received a $100 fine, six months of unsupervised probation, and 40 hours of community service.

Matthew Scott Doyle, Bethlehem, Pa., pleaded guilty to charges of marijuana possession and driving while under the influence of drugs, which had stemmed from his arrest following a traffic stop near Accident by state troopers in April. He was handed a PBJ, and received a $300 fine, a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which were suspended, and one year of supervised probation.

Charges of second-degree assault and disorderly conduct were placed on the stet docket in the case of Robert Ickes, 70, Salisbury, Pa. The charges stemmed from a domestic-related incident at the Ridge Restaurant on Keyser's Ridge in June which resulted in his arrest by state troopers.

Charges of disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace faced by George David Moore, 21, Oakland, were stetted. He had been arrested by the Oakland City Police in July after allegedly engaging in drunk and disorderly conduct at several different locations in Oakland in the span of one evening.

A charge of trespass faced by James Milton Thomas Jr., 21, Accident, was stetted. He had been arrested by sheriff's deputies in May for loitering in the Browning's Foodland parking lot after having previously been warned not to do so.

Coleen Renee Ellifritz, 29, Eglon, W.Va., was granted a sentence revision to reflect a PBJ on a misdemeanor theft conviction.

Travis Lee Buckel, 19, Grantsville, was granted a sentence revision to reflect a PBJ on a misdemeanor theft conviction.

Dennis Ray Swartzentruber, 46, Oakland, was granted a sentence revision to reflect a PBJ on a felony malicious destruction of property conviction.

Dean Francis Norton, 36, Mtn. Lake Park, was granted a sentence revision on a second-degree assault conviction to reflect time already served in jail, and the balance of his sentence was suspended.

Steven Christopher Bargy, 19, Accident, received a sentence revision to reflect a PBJ on a felony theft charge conviction.

Jessica Dawn Yost, 19, Accident, received a sentence revision to reflect a PBJ on a misdemeanor theft conviction.

Christopher Steven Warnick, 19, Grantsville, received a sentence revision to reflect a PBJ on a marijuana possession conviction.

Steven Lawrence Dawson, 19, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a charge of second-degree assault stemming from a May arrest by sheriff's deputies following a domestic incident.

Timothy Dale Shaffer, 34, Terra Alta, W.Va., was not prosecuted on a charge of felony theft stemming from his August arrest by sheriff's deputies for allegedly selling a rifle that did not belong to him.

Mike Andres, 40, Frostburg, was found not guilty of two counts of second-degree assault.

Dennis Wayne Boyd, 48, Frostburg, was found not guilty of two counts of second-degree assault.

Billy Joe Hott, 34, Augusta, W.Va., was found not guilty of a charge of second-degree assault.

DWIs

Several driving while intoxicated (DWI) and driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI) sentences were handed down by Judge Burnett recently.

RESA To Hold Conference For Local Educators

Frostburg State University will host the first annual Regional Education Service Agency (RESA) "Technology in Teaching Conference" for area educators on Friday, Oct. 30, from 2 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., and Saturday, Oct. 31, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Sessions for both days will convene in the lobby of the FSU Performing Arts Center.

The purpose of the conference is to demonstrate and to encourage the use of information technology in the classroom by featuring presentations by regional educators. Technology vendors will also be present to display and demonstrate their products.

Conference presentation topics will include: "Web Applications for the Classroom," "Teaching Through Interactive Video," "Digital Video For The Classroom," "Creating Multimedia Classroom Presentations," and "Funding Information Technology For Classroom Use." Each presentation will last approximately 30 minutes and be followed by a brief discussion period.

Saturday's luncheon, sponsored by Bell Atlantic, will feature guest speaker Richard N. Rose, director of the University of Maryland Academic Telecommunications Systems (UMATS). He will address the topic "Telecommunication Initiatives in Maryland."

As director of UMATS, Rose is responsible for University of Maryland System's in-house telecommunications, alumni development operations, office automation, training for various data processing applications, distance education, and the telephone PBX system. Among his other duties, Rose is also a technical assistant for over 30 national and international publications.

Early registration is encouraged for the conference. Preregistration, which guarantees a luncheon reservation, will be accepted until Friday, Oct. 16. Conference packages are for single days, or both days are available.

For information and registration, persons may contact the RESA office at 301-777-3525.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Rev. Menker To Host Trip To The Holy Land

Harmon "Mel" Menker, pastor of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren, will host his fourth trip to the Holy Land in January. The 10-day trip, which will begin January 25, will include such biblical sites as: Chorizim, the Mount of the Beatitudes, the Sea of Galilee, Capernaum, the Jordan River, Cana, Nazareth, Caesarea, Mt. Carmel, Megiddo (Armageddon), Qumran, Jericho, the Mount of Olives, the Garden of Gethsemane, Bethany (the tomb of Lazarus), Bethlehem (Church of the Nativity), the Old City of Jerusalem, the Pool of Bethesda, the Via Dolorosa, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre (Christ's tomb), the Temple Mount, the Upper Room, King David's tomb, the House of Caiaphas the High Priest, and the Garden Tomb, among others.

The group will travel with Educational Opportunities, a Christian-based, non-profit organization, which is the largest tour host to the Holy Land in the world.

The basic cost of the tour is $1,728, which covers round-trip air fare from BWI Airport, deluxe motorcoaches, first-class motel accommodations, guided sightseeing, all entrance fees, a breakfast buffet and dinner daily, a Bible study guide, evening lectures, and the services of E.O. staff on site in Israel. There are special discounts available for clergy and their spouses visiting the Holy Land for the first time.

A brochure is available from Pastor Menker and can be obtained by telephoning 301-334-5906. He is also available to visit with individuals/groups to provide more details and answer questions.

DAR Chapter Holds Meeting

The Youghiogheny Glades Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met for a luncheon meeting recently at the Rowlesburg, W.Va., Methodist Church. Members of the Rowlesburg Historical Society and their guests were present.

After the luncheon, Mrs. Charles Thomas, DAR regent, conducted the DAR ritual and business meeting. Mrs. John Ayersman, president of the Rowlesburg Historical Society, then presented a video of the historical sites of Rowlesburg, and a walking tour of the sites concluded the program.

Loch Lynn Church Of God To Host Revival Services

The Loch Lynn Church of God will host revival services with a youth emphasis, Oct. 11-14, at the church located on First Avenue.

The speaker, Bill Snyder, Orlando, Fla., was campus pastor at Oklahoma State University, the regional Chi Alpha representative for College Campus Ministries, and has served as a pastor and evangelist. His most recent project was beginning a home missions church in Orlando. He and his wife, Wendy, have two children, Clinton and Elizabeth.

The services will begin Sunday at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m., and Monday through Wednesday at 7 p.m. A variety of music and drama will be presented each evening as area youth groups minister nightly.

The services are open to the public, and Pastors Ivan and Cindy Ackerman, along with the church's congregation invite all to attend.

For more information, persons may call the Ackermans at 301-334-0959.,

Medicines for Glaucoma Treatment

Glaucoma is an increase in the pressure within the eyeball. The pressure (called intraocular pressure) builds from fluid in the eye. Either there is excess production of fluid or there is a fluid drainage problem. The buildup of pressure, if left untreated, can result in damage to the optic nerve and loss of vision (blindness). In the healthy eye the normal intraocular pressure ranges from 10 to 20 mm mercury. Someone with a reading in the 21 to 30 mm range is considered at risk for glaucoma. Risk factors for glaucoma include a family history of the condition, old age, and certain diseases (e.g., hypertension, diabetes, and hyperthyroidism). Treatment of glaucoma focuses on reducing the intraocular pressure. Laser therapy is directed at opening up the canal that drains fluid from the eye. There are several types of medications used to treat glaucoma.

Rev. Teets Named GCMH Chaplain Of The Month

Reverend Charles E. Teets has been selected as the first individual to be honored as Chaplain of the Month, a new recognition program established by Garrett County Memorial Hospital as an expression of appreciation for the service chaplains provide to the hospital's patients, their families, and the staff.

Rev. Teets, who joined the hospital's chaplaincy program in 1986, serves on the Chaplaincy Board's executive committee and is the scheduling coordinator. As a member of the chaplaincy program, Teets accepts week-long assignments as Chaplain of the Day. During that time he makes daily visits to minister to the patients, their families, and staff. As scheduling coordinator, Teets is responsible for obtaining chaplaincy coverage throughout the rest of the year.

"Reverend Teets is one of the most dedicated and caring pastors I've ever met," said Charlotte Garner, volunteer coordinator for GCMH. "He goes above and beyond the call of duty to see that Garrett Memorial has chaplaincy coverage at all times. He is a good role model for all of us."

Rev. Teets was born in Tunnelton, W.Va., in 1923. He attended Tunnelton High School, from which he graduated in 1941. He attended classes at Marshall College in West Virginia, Huntington College in Huntington, Ind., and the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio. He served appointments at Cottageville Charge, Cottageville, W.Va.; Roxalana Church, Dunbar, W.Va.; and Terra Alta Charge, W.Va. Teets was pastor at the Crellin/Underwood churches for 30 years. He retired from the Pennsylvania Conference United Brethren in Christ in 1988. After retirement he served the Gortner Union Church and Brookside Church of the Brethren Church as interim pastor for seven years.

"I accepted Christ as my savior and received my call to the ministry in 1953. I was ordained in 1961," said Teets. "Serving as chaplain at the hospital has been one of the most rewarding times of my ministry."

Adorable Adoptables

FSU Office Of Public Safety Receives Awards

The Frostburg State University Office of Public Safety has recently been named as the recipient of two categories of Governor's Crime Prevention Awards. These awards are issued throughout the state to qualifying law enforcement officers and departments within all jurisdictions.

The FSU Campus Police received a Category A Award for "outstanding overall crime prevention efforts having incorporated an overall outstanding crime prevention program as an integral part of their daily operations."

This award, one of 19 such awards issued statewide, recognizes the ongoing efforts of the FSU department to maintain its many crime prevention programs, including drug abuse, personal, elderly and youth, residential and commercial, and bike safety. Staff members continue to attend training sessions, increasing their ability to deal effectively with sexual assault and drug interdiction situations. Recognizing the damaging effects of hate crimes to the university campus and working to combat these problems, two officers maintain an active role in the campus National Coalition Building Institute Chapter.

"Because we have been so successful in winning this award for the last several years, it would be easy to underestimate its significance," stated Brian Shanley, director of the FSU Office of Public Safety. "In fact, though, this prestigious award bolsters our reputation as the safest campus in Maryland."

FSU was listed as the safest campus in Maryland by the 1997 report from Healey Roman Associates, a Massachusetts industrial research firm, ranking safety among four-year institutions of higher education.

Receiving Category E Awards, known as the Governor's Crime Prevention Achiever's Awards, were individual FSU Public Safety Department members Karl Hartig, supervisor, and Dennis Durst and Allen Shirk, officers. These department members were recognized for their ongoing efforts in conducting surveys of campus facilities and programs to better continue crime prevention.

"I am pleased by the three officers who won the individual awards," Shanley added. "It is tangible proof of the connection that all the officers make with the community they serve."

Tree Seedlings Available From DNR At Cost

The John S. Ayton State Forest Tree Nursery of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service is offering seedlings, at cost, to individuals and organizations wishing to plant trees on a minimum of a quarter-acre of land. The sale of these seedlings, at cost, is one of the ways that DNR's Forest Service works to help individuals and organizations invest in the future.

Individuals with one-fourth acre or more are encouraged to plant trees as stream buffers and windbreaks, to improve wildlife habitat, and for erosion control. Neighbors may work together to plant one-fourth acre along their property lines, and communities are encouraged to plant seedlings in parks and other common areas. Seedlings are offered in minimum quantities: 250 conifer seedlings in multiples of 50, and 100 hardwood seedlings in multiples of 25.

To encourage the planting of riparian buffers in the state of Maryland, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will offer at no cost a maximum of 425 tree seedlings or 1,200 shrub seedlings per acre to private landowners. The landowner must have a forest plan for the riparian area that the landowner wants to reforest. The riparian buffer is generally limited to the 100-year floodplain, or to the crest of the hill in steep valleys.

Individuals who are interested in planting trees on their property in the spring of 1999 are advised by the DNR Forest Service to contact their local forester for additional information and guidance in planning the planting, because proper site preparation is extremely important. Seedling orders will be taken until February 28, 1999, but seedlings are sold on a first-come, first-served basis, so order early.

Landowners who are planning to plant more than one acre may be eligible for one of the many incentive programs offered by the state or federal government, and may call the Forest Service office at Mt. Nebo, 301-334-3296, for further information about these programs.

Landowners or groups interested in purchasing seedlings for planting next spring can also place their order by contacting the John S. Ayton Forest Tree Nursery at 1-800-TREES-MD (1-800-873-3763). The 1999 catalog may be viewed by visiting the DNR nursery's website at <www.dnr.state.md.us/forests/nursery>.

GCC's Oakland Center To Host Calligraphy Class

A Basic Calligraphy course is being offered by the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College. This course will be held at the Oakland Center of GCC beginning Tuesday, Oct. 13. Sessions are scheduled to be held each Tuesday from 10 a.m. to noon for a total of six sessions.

After learning this art of beautiful writing, students may use their skills for poster lettering, writing notes, or addressing cards and invitations. The cost for this course is $21 for tuition plus a $4 registration fee. Students will need a basic calligraphy pen set to use during instruction. For more information, interested persons may call 301-334-8304.

NHS Student Participates In NASA Program

Joshua Neubert, a senior at Northern Garrett High School, recently completed a research internship at Northwestern University in Chicago, Ill. He was one of seven nationally selected high school students attending the NASA High School Summer Research Program. The students joined 10 university students to investigate problems in astrophysics and planetary science.

Students worked daily on a project headed by a university researcher. Scientists presented seminars each Friday afternoon, and at the end of the summer, participants presented their research.

Neubert worked under the mentorship of Dr. Mark Robinson, organizing the data from the HIRES (HIgh RESolution) telescope on the Clementine space mission, which photographed the moon. The resulting high resolution maps are being used to determine possible sites for water, landing sites, and base station locations on the moon.

A representative of the European Space Agency (ESA) visited Dr. Robinson's research team to coordinate efforts for an ESA planned rover spacecraft to land on the moon and investigate the presence of water. The surveys of data from Neubert's work would be part of this effort.

An honor roll student at Northern, Neubert has won numerous awards for his academic and extracurricular activities. He was awarded second place in a national astronomy competition for a project on asteroid orbits and was selected grand champion at the Western Maryland Regional Science Fair. He is on the school's Science Bowl, math and academic teams.

Joshua Neubert resides in Grantsville and is the son of Cathy and John Neubert.

"DEATH ENDS ALL"

I was talking to an atheist one day, and he said, "I do not believe, Dr. Wilson what you are preaching."

I said, "You have told me what you do not believe; perhaps you will tell me what you do believe."

He replied, "I believe that death ends all."

"So do I," I said.

"What! You believe that death ends all?"

"I certainly do," I answered. "Death ends all your chance for doing evil; death ends all your joy; death ends all your projects, all your ambitions, all your friendships; death ends all the Gospel you will ever hear; death ends it all for you, and you go out into the outer darkness. As for myself, death ends all my wanderings, all my tears, all my perplexities all my disappointments, all my aches and pains; death ends it all, and I go to be with my Lord in glory."

"I never thought of it that way," he said.

The outcome was that I led that man to Christ just by agreeing with him that "death ends all."

Wings of Challenge

A full-experience hunting retreat, Wings of Challenge, has been opened on Everly Road near Accident by Garrett County resident Ray Devine. Seeing a lack of this type of recreational entertainment in this area, Devine developed Wings of Challenge where beginners or veteran bird hunters can challenge their abilities and savor a hunting experience of unsurpassable quality.

Devine said that at Wings of Challenge the hunter will find choice habitats, rolling, open fields, sorghum, corn, and grasses on 380 acres.

"This is a place to pal with buddies or with family," stated Devine. "A place to revive your youth and enthusiasm. A place where nature can calm your spirit. Where the hunt can chase away boredom. A place to forget work and responsibilities. Whatever your needs, it's our pleasure to give you a splendid hunting experience at Wings of Challenge."

Wings of Challenge Hunting Retreat offers field hunting of the hard-flying Chinese strain of ring necked pheasants. The season is from October 1 to April 1, Sunday through Saturday.

"We organize small groups (2 to 4 hunters to a guide) for maximum safety," Devine said. Package rates are based on birds released and according to half- and whole-day hunts. More than four hunters may share a package in two groups. Additional pheasants may be added to a package for an additional fee.

Hunters may use a valid Maryland resident or non-resident hunting license or purchase an R.S.A. license on the grounds. All hunters are required to wear 250 square inches of fluorescent orange in the field. There is no bag limit on pheasants.

Trained bird dogs are available along with a handler for a fee; however, hunters are welcome to bring their own dogs if they are under control. The retreat's 10 dogs are German short hairs, English setters and yellow labs trained by co-operator and dog trainer Jackie McCuiston.

Bird processing (cleaning and packaging) is available, and Styrofoam ice chests can also be purchased.

More information is available on organizing special days and events. Daily times are given by phone and are usually negotiable. Catered lunches are available with prior notice, and lodging is available close by.

For infomation on package costs and complete directions to Wings of Challenge Hunting Retreat, interested persons may call 301-746-8868.

DNR Sets Black Bear Program At Frostburg

A free informational program on western Maryland's black bears will be presented on Tuesday, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m. in Room 202 of the Lane Center on the campus of Frostburg State University.

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Management Unit biologist Steve Bittner will be the main speaker. His presentation will cover the history of black bears in Maryland; current conflicts which exist between humans and bears; the state's bear hunting policy and strategies that are being used in the bear management; and advice for learning to co-exist with the growing bear population.

The program is sponsored by the Western Maryland group of the Sierra Club and the Sierra Student Coalition. For further information interested persons may call 301-689-5975.

Church Women Slate Bazaar

The women of Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, are sponsoring a fall bazaar on Saturday, Oct. 17, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lunch will be served the entire time. Arts and crafts, comforters, woven rugs, holiday items, baked goods, homemade soup, and homemade sauerkraut will be for sale. Parking is available behind the church. Handicapped-accessible entrances are located in the front off U.S. Rt. 219. The public is invited.

College Board Names NHS AP Scholars

Four students from Northern Garrett High School have been named AP Scholars by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement (AP) examinations. Less than 3% of America's graduating seniors take AP examinations and perform at a sufficiently high academic level to merit such recognition.

The College Board recognizes several levels of achievement based on the number of year-long courses and exams at NHS. One student, Eric S. Neubert, qualified for the AP Scholar with Honor Award by earning an average grade of at least 3.5 on all AP Exams taken, and grades of 3 or higher on four or more of these exams.

AP examinations, which students take in May after completing college-level courses at their high schools, are graded on a 5-point scale (5 is the highest). Most of the nation's colleges and universities award credit, advanced placement, or both for grades of 3 or higher. More than 1,400 institutions award a year of credit (sophomore standing) to students presenting a sufficient number of qualifying grades. At the conclusion of the 1997-98 school year, 29 NHS students took AP examinations in one or more of 10 courses.

Three students, Joshua R. Neubert, Angela M. Otto, and Douglas D. Weimer, qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP examinations, with grades of 3 or higher.

Of this year's award recipients, Joshua R. Neubert, now a senior, has one more year in which to do college-level AP work, and possibly earn another Advanced Placement Award.

The College Board is a not-for-profit educational association that supports academic preparation and transition to higher education.

Garden Club Slates Meeting

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will meet on Tuesday, Oct. 20, at 10:30 a.m. at the Will O' the Wisp.

The guest speaker will be Pauline Vollmer, member of the Landscape Design Council of the Maryland State Council of Garden Clubs. The topic of her presentation will be "Bulbs for Nine Months of Magic in the Landscape."

Miss Sukow and Mr. Brown United In June Ceremony

Cassondra Alison Sukow and Jessie James Brown were united in marriage June 27, 1998, in a double-ring ceremony that took place at New Germany State Park. Pastor Bill Vanhoosier officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Kenneth Sukow, Accident, and Sandra Nazelrod, Loch Lynn Heights. The groom is the son of James Brown, Boynton, Pa., and Donna Campbell, Jennings.

The bride was given in marriage and escorted down the aisle by both her mother and father during the outdoor ceremony.

She wore a classic off-white full-length gown with a lace inlay back, and her hairpiece was a rose accented Victorian-style comb.

Serving as matron of honor was sister of the bride, Vicki Kight, Mtn. Lake Park. Bridesmaids were Melissa Garlitz and Amy Garlitz, both of Boynton, friends of the couple. The flower girl was Amber Brown, daughter of the bride and groom.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore full-length black gowns with wine colored flowers and they carried traditional bouquets of roses. The flower girl wore a pink flowered dress and a crown of roses, and carried her own bouquet of roses.

Serving as best man was brother of the groom, Duane Brown, Springs, Pa. Groomsmen were Dale Lung, Boynton, and Rusty Miller, Grantsville. The ring bearer was Tyler Brown, Springs, nephew of the groom.

Daniel Horning, Jeremy Horning, and Adam Horning, Meyersdale, Pa., cousins of the groom, assisted in accompanying the guests to their seats. Sharrell Brown, Springs, niece of the groom, served as guest book attendant.

The reception was held at the pavilion in New Germany State Park. The dinner was picnic style, with many of the family members contributing. The wedding cake was made by the bride's mother, Sandra Nazelrod. The cake was a three-tiered white cake decorated with doves and flowers.

The pavilion was adorned in wine and emerald green accented with roses, ivy, and ribbons. All of the candle holders, flowers, programs, bouquets, and cake top were made by the bride and her sister Vicki Kight.

Documenting the wedding with videography was Jack Kight Jr., brother-in-law of the bride, and Joan Horning, aunt of the groom. Assisting at the gift table were the couple's daughter, Amber, and Vicki Kight.

The bride is a 1993 graduate of Northern Garrett High School. She was employed at O'Donnell's Old Firehouse Restaurant, Salisbury, Pa., for three years prior to the tornadoes this past spring.

The groom is a 1990 graduate of Salisbury-Elk Lick High School. He is currently employed at Guy's Tire Shop, Grantsville.

Following a honeymoon camping trip the couple will reside in Grantsville.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Ten couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court. One couple requested that their names not be published.

Wayne Edward Jones, 40, and Sharon Lea Briggs, 45, both of Philippi, W.Va.

Dennis Arthur Tarquinio, 47, and Rebecca Ann Brandenburg, 38, both of Weirton, W.Va.

Herbert Arthur Anderson, 29, and Marla Beth Milkowski, 28, both of Chicago, Ill.

Robert Henderson Cline Jr., 57, and Brenda Marie McEldowney, 47, both of Bridgeport, W.Va.

Gerry Dale Wyatt, 45, and Reva Ann Vanscoy, 39, both of Moundsville, W.Va.

Hubert Leroy Stout, 62, and Carol Ann Pyles, 31, both of Albright, W.Va.

Douglas James Smith, 30, and Patty Lynn Hickey, 29, both of Oakland.

Gregory Scott Burton, 33, and Jessica Kay Laux, 20, both of Flemington, W.Va.

Beeman-Smith Couple To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Beeman, Kitzmiller, and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith, Swanton, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their children, Kevin Scott Beeman and Jennifer Lynn Smith.

Kevin and Jennifer are both 1998 graduates of Southern High School. Kevin is employed at Wampler Foods in Moorefield, W.Va. Jennifer is employed at Burger King in McHenry and is presently enrolled with ICS, pursuing a career in pet grooming.

A February 1999 wedding is being planned.

Miss DeWitt To Marry Mr. Davis

Larissa Shereé DeWitt and Michael Steven Davis announce their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

DeWitt is the daughter of Stanley and Karen DeWitt of Oakland. Davis is the son of Steve Davis of Oakland and Crystal Webb of Beckley, W.Va.

The wedding will take place at the Crellin Assembly of God Church on Saturday, Oct. 24, at 2 p.m. The reception will follow at the Pleasant Valley Community Center.

Invitations have been sent, but all friends and family are welcome to attend.

Saylor-Schmidt Couple United In Double-Ring Nuptial Mass

Toshia Lea Saylor and Scott Russell Schmidt were united in marriage August 1, 1998. The double-ring nuptial mass was performed by Rev. Bernard L. White at St. Michael's Catholic Church, West Salisbury, Pa.

The bride is the daughter of Rhett and Donna Saylor, Salisbury. The bridegroom is the son of Harold and Nancy Schmidt, Accident.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. The bride wore a designer gown of imported duchess satin and beaded schiffli lace. The gown featured a Queen Anne neckline with long tapered sleeves, ending in bridal points at the wrist. Delicate schiffli lace beaded with tiny pearls and sequins covered the entire bodice and sleeves.

The fitted princess style bodice and waistline flowed to a full cathedral train. Matching beaded schiffli lace edged the entire hem and train. The bride wore a headpiece of beaded jewels that held a back pouf and a fingertip-length veil of imported French illusion.

The bride carried a silk cascading bouquet of calla lilies, roses, carnations, daisies, and mums, accented with iridescent baby's breath, and dusty purple and pale green ribbon. The color scheme of the flowers was carried out in the decorations. The floral bouquets and arrangements were made by the mother of the bride.

Serving as maid of honor was Leann Bluebaugh, Salisbury, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Heather Savage, Meyersdale, Pa., friend of the bride; Lee-Ann Rinker, Aurora, W.Va., sister of the groom; and Jill Albright, Meyersdale, friend of the bride. The flower girl was Chelcee Rinker, Aurora, niece of the groom.

Acting as best man was Glen (Clyde) Marsh, Markleysburg, Pa., friend of the groom. Groomsmen were Andy Schmidt, Friendsville, brother of the groom; Travis Rinker, Aurora, brother-in-law of the groom; and Adam Lininger, Friendsville, friend of the groom. Serving as usher was Justin Saylor, Salisbury, brother of the bride. Ringbearer was Ricky Hetz, Frostburg, cousin of the bride.

Joni Clark, Salisbury, friend of the bride, served as guest book attendant. Erin Resh, Grantsville, cousin of the bride, and Stephanie Cogley, Salisbury, friend of the bride, were program attendants. Wedding bubbles were handed out by Ryan and Shane Saylor, Salisbury, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Merla Murray was organist. She was accompanied by her daughter, Catie Murray, on the flute. Catie was also the soloist.

A reception at the Salisbury Municipal Building immediately followed the ceremony. Food for the reception was prepared by the members of the family. Serving the food was Cyndi Maust, Ellen Thomas, Pat Coberly, Christine Pope, and Jeannine Weimer.

The cake was decorated with live flowers in the dusty purple and pale green color scheme. It was also accented with a Mary Moo Moo wedding party and Bill Elliot McDonald's cars. Sylvia Wagner of Meyersdale baked and decorated the cake.

David Duncan of Duncan's Photo, LaVale, was photographer for the wedding and reception. Music for the reception was provided by DJ Chickenman.

The bride is a 1996 graduate of Salisbury Elk Lick High School and a 1997 graduate of Cambria-Rowe Business College. She is employed by Economy Wholesale as an invoicing secretary.

The bridegroom is a 1993 graduate of Northern High School and a 1994 graduate of Diesel Institute of America. He is employed by Oester Trucking, Salisbury.

Following a honeymoon trip to Seaworld and Geauga Lake in Ohio, the bride and groom set up residence in Springs, Pa.

The bride was the guest of honor at a shower given by her attendants.

The rehearsal dinner, held at Traditions Restaurant, Meyersdale, was hosted by Harold and Nancy Schmidt.

Upoles Celebrate 40th Anniversary

Dan and Betty Upole recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. The couple were married Sept. 20, 1958, at the Hi-way Assembly of God Church in Kitzmiller. The late Rev. Henry Barton performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Upole is the daughter of the late Wesley and Pauline Paugh. Mr. Upole is the son of Minnie Harvey and the late Layman Upole.

The couple were honored by their children, Danny and his wife, Angie Upole, Mary and her husband, Jay Kitzmiller, Bob Upole and his fiancee, Christine Pope, and Shirley and her husband, Mark Gallagher, with an afternoon luncheon buffet at the town hall in Deer Park. Approximately 92 guests attended the celebration, from Virginia, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland. Entertainment was provided by Charles Paugh, singer, and Harold Fike, guitarist.

The Upoles also have 10 grandchildren and one great grandson.

Miss Lantz, Mr. Slagle To Marry

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Lantz Jr., Deer Park, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Angela Lynn, to Russell William Slagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Slagle, Bayard, W.Va.

They will be married in a private ceremony, scheduled in November.

Schools Make Major Strides In Technology

Though major challenges remain, Maryland's public schools have made significant progress since 1995 in providing students with access to technology, according to a report presented recently to the State Board of Education by the Maryland Business Roundtable for Education (MBRT).

The report, titled "Where Do We Stand Now?" indicated that technology in Maryland's public schools has advanced "dramatically" since a baseline survey of technology resources was conducted in 1995. Today, 28 percent of all school computers are high-capacity models, while older, lower capacity computers comprise less than half (47 percent) of the overall total.

The new survey also reported that 89.1 percent of public schools statewide now have Internet access from at least one location in contrast to the 43 percent reported in the earlier study.

Similarly, the ratio of students-to-computers has decreased since the initial survey, from 8-to-1 in 1997 to 7-to-1 today, with the most notable declines at the elementary school level. The national ratio is nine students to one computer. "While student performance will always be the key issue, access to technology has become crucial to helping students succeed," said MBRT executive director June Streckfus.

State school superintendent Nancy Grasmick noted that she was impressed with the information reported. "I am encouraged by the progress our schools are showing. Clearly, MBRT's focus on technology has had a significant impact on our efforts to make technology available to all students," Grasmick said.

Like the 1995 baseline survey of technology in Maryland's public schools, the new report was conducted jointly by the Maryland State Department of Education and MBRT, a coalition of major Maryland businesses committed to supporting educational reform and improving student achievement in the state.

The data contained in the new report was collected in December 1997, with every public school in Maryland participating. The original survey was conducted in 1995, with data released in June 1997.

The new report also called attention to a number of major challenges that remain. The report noted that the highest concentration of low-capacity computers is in classrooms and computer labs, where it directly limits students' and teachers' access to the Internet and other resources.

Similarly, classroom access to computer networks is limited by low-capacity computers and insufficient classroom wiring. "Upgrading computers and providing sufficient wiring to all instructional areas of each school is clearly needed," noted Streckfus. "In addition, improving access to technology in high poverty schools must continue to be a high priority."

Both in Maryland and nationally, schools classified as high-poverty — those with 71 percent or more of the students on free or reduced lunch programs — are likely to have fewer opportunities to use technology resources, including access to the Internet, than those classified as low-poverty.

The new report also advocated increased technology training for teachers. While data indicated that an estimated 82 percent of all Maryland teachers can operate computers and software applications, only about 53 percent know how to use e-mail or the Internet.

The report estimated that only 1.8 percent of all teachers statewide possess the high-level skills needed to integrate technology into their classroom work on a regular basis and to act as technology resources in their schools.

To address challenges, the report concluded that the state-funded Technology in Maryland Schools Program must be accelerated and expanded from its current target of 700 schools to 1,228 schools. Doing so, according to the report, would enable all Maryland schools to be wired for voice, video, and data by the year 2003. It also would serve to increase the number of computers and software applications available in schools, while significantly broadening teachers' knowledge and ability to use the technology.

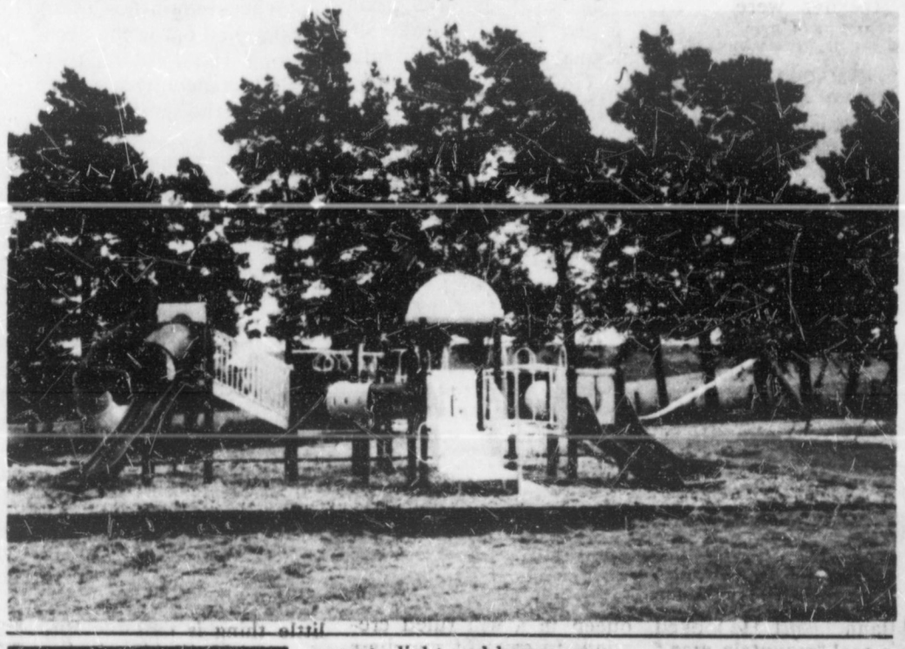
TO BUILD A PLAYGROUND - It's been a long time coming and it has taken a lot of cooperative effort, but the playground at the Grantsville Elementary School is ready for action. Local businesses donated equipment, materials, and labor. Parents and members of the community added the "sweat equity" that the project needed to get going. Students got into the act by helping out in whatever way they could. In the photos, from above left clockwise, the work was documented as foundations were prepared, footers dug and measured, and old equipment spruced up with paint. While working on the equipment, of course it had to be tested for safety. The final product is an exciting new playground for all to enjoy. Students commented on the new equipment. Fifth grader Derek Quade named it "the most awesome playground in six years." "I love the colors and all of the other stuff," said first grader Brianna Singell. "It's interesting and cool," said second grader Karina Walker. "The twisting tunnel slide is fast and fun and shocking," noted Caressa Frazee, fifth grade. Summing it all up, third grader Tessa Beitzel said: "I think it is the best playground in the whole U.S." Principal Linda M. Buckel said she was impressed with the construction crew, many of which were professional contractors. She also expressed thanks to the many parents and community members who donated their time and supported the project.



ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Army Pvt. David L. Shaffer has graduated from One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at Fort Leonard Wood, Waynesville, Mo. The training included basic military training and advanced individual training (AIT).

The basic military trainee received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

During AIT, the soldier was trained as a combat engineer and taught to perform basic combat construction and rigging operations; operate light and heavy engineer wheeled and armor tracked vehicles; assist in assembly and maintenance of military standard float and fixed bridges; prepare, install, and prime firing systems for demolition and explosives; and recognize and neutralize land mines, firing devices, and booby traps.

Shaffer is the son of Sharon L. Sullivan and Kenneth G. Shaffer, both of Oakland. He is a 1998 graduate of Southern High School.

HONOR STUDENT

Michelle Geis received notice that she has been accepted as a member of the Virginia Tech Chapter of Phi Eta Sigma National Honor Society. Her acceptance in the Honor Society was based on her academic performance during her freshman year.

PERSONALS

Sunday lunch guests of Sam and Cindy Stanton and Ferne Beachy were Aaron Stanton, Shane Buckel, and Sally, Lenny, and Torrey Poholsky.

Jimmie Woodie and Bettie Sisk, Heathsville, Va., and Ellis and Betty Sacra, Partlow, Va., were weekend guests of Ruth DiPaolo. They all attended the Springs Festival on Saturday. Loretta Opel was a Friday evening visitor of Ruth and her guests.

Lenny Poholsky visited with his parents, Andrew and Mary Salak, Kittaning, Pa., on Friday.

The Breakers of Railey Mt. Lake Vacations, vs. The Republican Spirit, played on the Northern High School soccer field on Saturday prior to the varsity game. The players include Claire Sussman, Eric Garlitz, Brent Housley, Torrey Poholsky, and Scott Pusateri, and were victorious with a 6 to 5 win.

Sammy Bowser and Dotty Kump of Orrtanna, Pa., and Emma Bowser of Waynesboro, Pa., were recent visitors in the county. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bowser, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Bowser, and Mrs. Olive Hetrick, and also attended the Springs Festival. Emma was an overnight guest of Ferne Beachy.

Ruth DiPaolo attended the state of Maryland Social Service annual meeting at Hunt Valley Inn on Thursday and Friday. Other locals attending were Jane Fox, Jackie Brady, Edith Wilson, Earl Clark, and Henry Brown. Earl Clark has served the directors' organization for the past two years as president.

Joe Resh continues to improve and may return to his home soon. He is still a patient at Sacred Heart Hospital.

Sunday dinner guests of Ida Reckner were Julius and Karmen Carey, Frostburg; Dwaine, Lisa, Adam and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg; Lillian Reckner, McHenry; Tom, Cheryl, Taylor and Tim Gotfelty; and Jim and Donna Glotfelty. Taylor and Tim Glotfelty and Adam Platter were presented a decorated cake honoring them for recent scholastic achievements.

APPALACHIAN SUNDAY

The Bittinger Lutheran Parish celebrated Appalachian Sunday at Emmanuel with a joint worship service with sister congregations of St. John's and Zion. A full house remembered our traditional mountain heritage. Many worshippers dressed in old-fashion costumes. Bob Brenneman was attired in his beautiful dark red flannel shirt. He looked like a real "mountain man," which, of course, he is. Vicki Taliaferro wore her patchwork skirt and there was a good bit of denim, and straw hats were worn. The sanctuary was decorated with quilts, handmade rugs, fruit and vegetables, and jars of canned goods. The color of the quilts and rugs and the fruit of the earth glowed like jewels. The special liturgy mentioned the patchwork of ethnic origins of the Appalachian people: the Irish, Polish, Italian, American Indians, and others, were represented by worshippers referring to the rivers and mountains, the miners, farmers, factory and mill workers, who built our region.

A special piece of music was a sister act by Lana Brenneman Roby and Linda Brenneman Buckel, who sang a duet with old favorite hymns, including "Precious Memories" and "Give Me That Old Time Religion." A lovely rendition of Psalm 121 was sung by Jan Chalkley, accompanied by Wanda Reynolds on the dulcimer. The joint choir sang special songs including "Little Brown Church in the Wildwood" and other favorites.

Past Bishop Alex Black gave a real thoughtful and beautiful sermon about the two creation stories in Genesis. The second story in Genesis is where God gave the world to the people as a garden, which they should tend and care for. It was quite different from the other story were people were seen as a king or queen in a will ruled creation. In spite of members of the congregation being both liberal and conservative, we do not despise each other. This special Appalachian service was planned by Sheila Southerly and Jan Chalkley and was a wonderful experience and service. Holy Communion was administered and the service was in conjunction with Worldwide Communion Sunday.

Sunday afternoon was a stress day after we remembered that Monday evening would be the Bittinger 4-H Club Demonstration Night. We had to help the girls do some preparation for their demonstrations. Caitlin is doing hers on "How to Plant Seeds" and Claire with hers on "How to Put Up a Tent."

I must take a break to take a birthday present to my sister-in-law, Marci Glotfelty. She is about 30 years old today (give or take a couple years).

This is all the news fit to print as far as I know. So, hope I didn't offend anyone this week.

Oh yes, just one more little thing is that the Bittinger 4-H Club's winning booth is currently on display in Brenneman's Store this week in celebration of 4-H Week.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

SAFE DEBRIS BURNING

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service reminds people that fall is traditionally a time of high forest fire danger in Maryland. In 1997 more than 576 wildfires burned nearly 1,872 acres of forest, marsh, and grassland in the state. Twenty-nine of these fires occurred in Garrett County.

Typically, fall is the time of the year when many property owners are conducting outdoor burning of leaves and other debris. Unfortunately, many people do not burn safely, which results in wildfires. In 1997 debris burners caused 19 wildfires in Garrett County, or 66 percent of the wildfires for the county.

In order to prevent wildfires from occurring and causing destruction to private homes and woodlands, the state of Maryland has established Open-Air Burning Regulations. These regulations apply to activities in woodlands and within 200 ft. of woodlands, or activities adjacent to or within an area where flammable materials could ignite and carry fire to where woodlands are located. These regulations follow:

1) A natural or constructed fire break at least 10 feet wide must completely surround the material to be burned.

2) Adequate personnel and equipment must be present to prevent the fire from escaping.

3) At least one responsible person must remain at the burning location until the last spark is out.

4) Permissible burning hours are between 4 p.m. and midnight, Eastern Standard Time.

5) All open air burning requires a burning permit from the Garrett County Health Department. Open air burning prior to 4 p.m. EST and within 200 feet of woodland, requires a burning permit from both the health department and from the DNR Forest Service. A combined permit is currently being used. Further information on open air burning can be obtained by contacting the Garrett County Health Department 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday at 301-334-8980, or the DNR Forest Service Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 301-334-3296.

Those who plan on burning before 4 p.m. EST and went to get a permit should contact the Mt. Nebo office several days in advance to schedule an appointment for a forest ranger to visit the site.

Open air burning of any type not in accordance with these regulations is subject to citations and fines ranging from $50 to $250. If you are burning, be extremely cautious and be certain that the fire does not get out of control and spread into nearby grass and woods. The protection of our forest resources is vital to the continuation of forests for water quality protection, timber, wildlife habitat, and recreation.

GCC To Offer Bikram Yoga

The Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College is offering a Bikram Yoga course on Tuesdays, from October 20 through November 24 at the McHenry campus. Sessions one and two will meet from 5 to 7 p.m., and sessions three through six will meet from 5 to 6:30 p.m.

This course is designed to lead students in the Bikram tradition of Yoga, which focuses on mental and physical strength, balance, and flexibility. The topics to be covered are: systems of the body and how they are affected by each pose, Sanskrit translation, breathing techniques, and meditation.

For additional information and registration, persons may contact the Continuing Education and Training Division at 301-387-3069.

Youth In Naval Sea Cadet Corps

Cadet Nicholas J. George, Friendsville, a member of the United States Naval Sea Cadet Corps, Carrier Theodore Roosevelt Squadron, Cumberland, was commended during an awards ceremony held at Cumberland's Army National Guard building recently.

After joining the Naval Sea Cadet Corps this past May, George attended a two-week boot camp at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in August. He earned Squad Leader Position PO-2-Brave Company during recruit training, which was noted at the Cumberland ceremony, at which time he was also presented with his one-year ribbon and the Boot Camp Commendation ribbon by his commanding officer, Lt. Jane Trail.

George and his Naval Sea Cadet Corps squadron will be marching with a flag honor guard and will be conducting rifle drills during the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade this Saturday.

A seventh grader at Northern Middle School, George is the son of Linda and John George.

State Forestry Association Has Annual Meeting

A line-up of top-notch speakers explored the topic "Sustainable Forestry — Resource Planning for Our Future" as 75 members from across the tri-state area recently attended the Maryland Forests Association's 1998 annual meeting, held at the Holiday Inn at Solomons. According to Karin Miller, MFA executive director, the event was filled with opportunities for forest landowners, loggers, and foresters. Attendees learned how sustainable forestry, or the management of the forest resource to meet the needs of the present without compromising the needs of future generations, must by necessity be a partnership of forest industry, government, the nonindustrial private forest landowner, and the environmental community.

"Nearly 42% of Maryland is forested, and approximately 90% of this land is privately owned. The purpose of this year's discussions was to help both the landowners and the land managers, foresters and loggers understand the importance of sustainable forestry practices, and to introduce us to tools that are easily available that can help us find the silvicultural methods that will best achieve our goals for our land," stated Miller.

Panelists were Thomas C. Norris, CEO of the P.H. Glatfelter Company, a pulp and paper company headquartered in Spring Grove, Pa.; John R. Griffin, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources; Robert H. Eaton, a private nonindustrial forest landowner from Port Tobacco; and Thomas W. Horton, award-winning author and environmental columnist with the Baltimore Sun. They presented their views on sustainable forestry and outlined what they see as their responsibilities in this partnership.

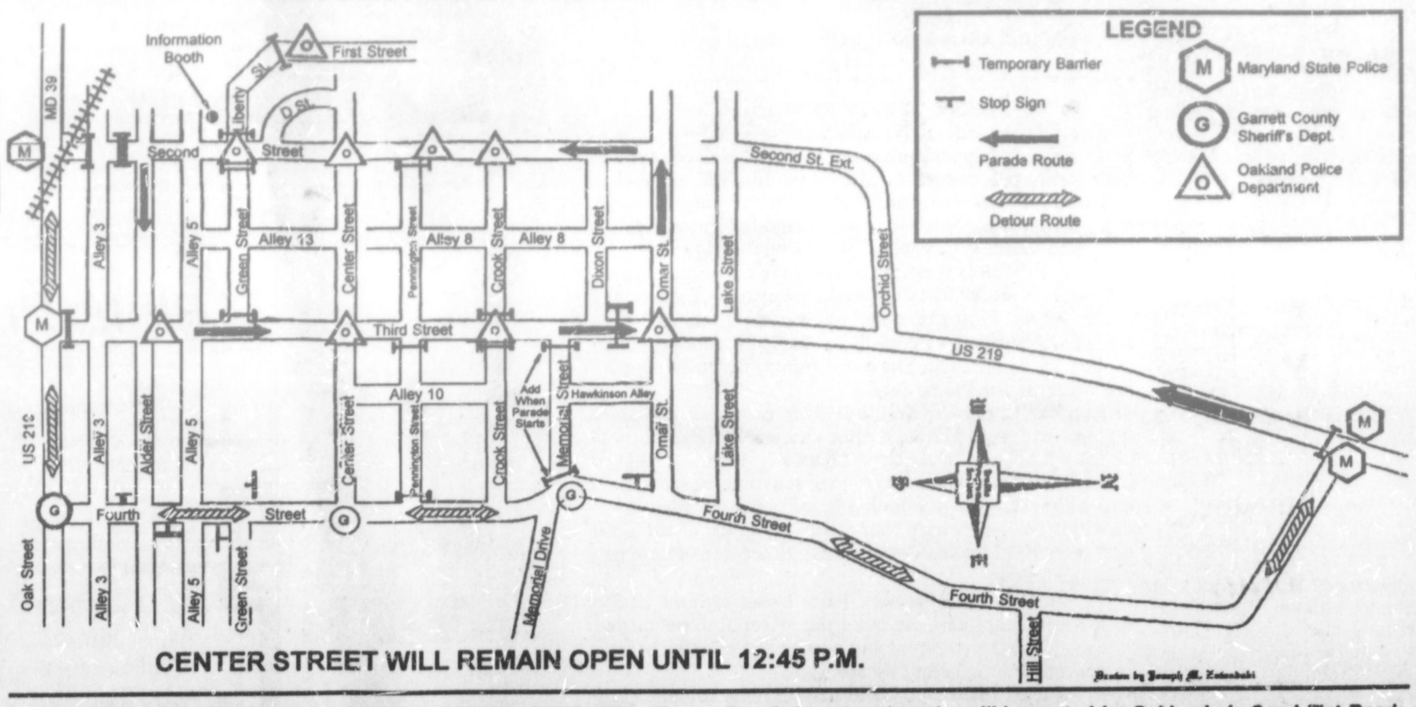
Presentations on the Northeast Decision Model (NED) and Geographic Information Systems (GIS) followed the panel discussion. NED is a computer program, developed by the U.S. Forest Service, designed to help landowners manage their land by providing exposure to and explanations of a wide range of forest practices used to produce a variety of benefits from forest land. GIS is application of spatial data to improve the efficiency of forest and land management businesses.

The event included the Annual Awards Banquet and Silent Auction. Phil MacDonald, Timber Harvest Inc., Cordova, was named MFA's 1998 Logger of the Year. The banquet was followed by "Shays, peaveys, and wood hicks — the early days of logging," a presentation by historical re-enactor Richard Pawling of History Alive! which dramatically set the stage for the next day's discussions. Providing closure to Saturday's discussions was a slide presentation by R. Neil Sampson, "Harvesting with Sustainability in Mind." Sampson used visual examples to discuss sustainable forestry, timber harvesting, and public perception.

MFA is a statewide nonprofit citizen's organization. Since 1976, MFA has worked to promote forest conservation and the maintenance of a healthy and productive forest land base. This year marked the first time that the event was held in Calvert County. The 1999 annual meeting is scheduled for next October and will be held in Wicomico County.

To learn more about the association and its programs, persons may visit MFA's website at http://mdforests.org or contact the MFA office P.O. Box 599, Grantsville, MD 21536; 301-895-5369; or via e-mail at mfa@hereintowa.net.

AUTUMN GLORY FESTIVAL PARADE DETOUR ROUTE



AG GRAND FEATURE PARADE ROAD CLOSINGS, DETOURS - The 31st annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade, set for this Saturday, Oct. 10, will require several temporary adjustments to the traffic pattern in downtown Oakland before, during, and immediately after the event. The solid black arrows in the above map represent the one-way parade route itself, and the shaded arrows represent the traffic detour route. Stop signs, temporary barriers, and the locations of local law enforcement agency personnel who will be on hand to help travelers at closed roads are also delineated on the map. The first phase of the day's traffic management plan goes into effect at 7 a.m., when Green Street will be closed to allow for street vendor set-up. The lion's share of the traffic changes commence at 11 a.m. and are as follows: All southbound traffic on Route 219 will be routed through Oakland via Fourth Street and trucks will be routed by Oakland via Sand Flat Road; Route 219 will be open to permit holders only, and all traffic will be southbound only; no parking will be allowed along Fourth Street, and Memorial Drive will be closed for westbound traffic at Fourth Street; through traffic on Memorial Drive will be detoured at Eighth Street; and Memorial Drive will be open for parking and local traffic only between Eighth and Fourth streets. Roads will be close in several more locations at 11 a.m.: Route 219 between Fourth and Oak streets; Memorial Drive between Third and Fourth streets; and Pennington, Crook, and Omar streets on both sides of Third Street. Center Street will be open for cross-town traffic only until 12:45 p.m. Handicapped parking will be available at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Lodge on First Street. The Grand Feature Parade is slated to kick off at 1 p.m.

Church Slates Benefit Dinner

The young adult Sunday school class at Cherry Grove Church of the Brethren, Grantsville, will serve an "all-you-can-eat" spaghetti dinner on Saturday, Oct. 17, from 4 to 8 p.m. The cost is $5 for adults, $2.50 for children ages 6-10, and free for children 5 and under.

The church is located along U.S. Rt. 219 one mile north of U.S. Rt. 40 near Grantsville.

Turkey Dinner Benefit Slated In Loch Lynn

The Loch Lynn Restaurant will be serving Autumn Glory turkey dinners this Saturday, Oct. 11, from 3 to 7 p.m. The proceeds generated by the sales will benefit the Kurtz Chapel Methodist Church, located along Bethlehem Road outside Loch Lynn.

The menu includes fresh roasted turkey with stuffing, mashed potatoes and gravy, green beans or sauerkraut, homemade bread, pumpkin pie with whipped cream, and a selection of beverages. The suggested donation is $7 per adult, and $3.50 per child.

PCSO Holding Man After Garrett Domestic Assault

A Terra Alta, W.Va., man is being held in the Preston County Jail on a $50,000 bond in connection with a domestic assault that reportedly began in Garrett County and came to a conclusion with his arrest in Preston County.

Rodney Jason Hershman, 22, faces charges in Preston County of burglary and second-degree assault, while the Garrett County Sheriff's Office has filed charges of second-degree assault and false imprisonment.

All charges stem from a Tuesday, Sept. 29, incident, which began when Hershman allegedly threatened his wife, from whom he is separated, with a knife at her Mtn. Lake Park apartment. A physical altercation between the two then ensued, and when it was over the woman agreed to drive Hershman to the Crellin area so he could hitchhike home to Terra Alta from there.

As the pair were riding together, Hershman reportedly forced the woman against her will to drive him to Terra Alta, then from there allegedly drive back into Maryland. The report stated that he forced her to pull the car off a roadway in the area of Fingerboard Road, where he reportedly beat her in the car.

Hershman then reportedly forced the woman to drive back to West Virginia, and while they were parked outside her grandmother's residence the woman managed to escape from him and sought shelter in the house. The report stated that Hershman then allegedly broke into the house and beat his wife with a pool cuestick. Preston County sheriff's deputies were called, and they arrested Hershman there.

DWIs

In recent Garrett County Sheriff's Office activity, several individuals were arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) or driving while under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs (DUI): Steven Ray Bolding, 34, Gregory Alan Dawson, 25, Paul Howard Lefkowitz III, 27, Larry Alamon Roberts, 23, John Charles Ortiz, 19, and Charles Stinson, 43, all of Oakland; James Edward Moon, 29, Mtn. Lake Park; David Lee Rounds, 47, Swanton; and Neil Ross Brubaker, 56, Parkland.

ROSEY GREETED WITH SMILES ALL AROUND — A sea of smiling faces greeted celebrity Rosey Grier Saturday, as he, the Grand Marshal, ushered in the 31st annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade. The air was chilly and the sky overcast, but the crowds came out anyway and enjoyed the two-hour event in Oakland. Mr. Grier spent the weekend in the county, meeting with folks, signing hundreds of autographs, and listening to a short performance by the teenagers of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry. GCC's Advanced Technology Center Awarded Funding

Garrett Community College will receive $283,000 in new funding for the Western Maryland Advanced Technology Center (ATC), an innovative program offering customized training for employees of local businesses which it operates in conjunction with Allegany College of Maryland. The grant is part of a $1.6 million package of new funding awarded to ATCs at community colleges throughout central and western Maryland.

The Western Maryland ATC focuses on the emerging market technologies of alternative meat production and aquaculture, information technology, and the health care industry, plus tourism and related industries unique to the region, such as wilderness sports, winter sports, and resorts.

Governor Parris N. Glendening first proposed the ATC initiative in 1995, asking community colleges to create programs that would serve the high-technology needs of local business and industry. The colleges responded by forging nine cooperatives that serve regional needs.

"Our community colleges have long been in the fore-

Charges Filed In Oakland Dr. Traffic Fatality

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office announced last Thursday afternoon that it had concluded its investigation of the Friday, Oct. 2, truck/tractor collision that fatally injured Henry Petersheim, and that charges had been filed.

After review by the State's Attorney, Rosa Helen Brown, 67, Gormania, W.Va., was charged with negligent driving and failure to drive right of center. The investigation revealed that while making a left turn onto Oakland Drive, Brown's pickup truck traveled left of center and impacted with the Case tractor operated by Petersheim, causing it to skid into a ditch and overturn. Petersheim had reportedly just departed Oakland Drive and was traveling west on Maryland Highway at the time of the collision.

In another vehicle accident with injuries investigated by the sheriff's office, a St. George, W.Va., woman required emergency medical transport to the hospital after her car rear-ended a stopped vehicle on Garrett Highway in front of Shaffer's Ford on Friday, Oct. 2.

Pauline Elizabeth Engel, 67, was driving north on

GCHD Flu Shot Clinics Continue At Various Sites

The Garrett County Health Department is continuing to offer influenza shots to local citizens throughout the county. The cost for the shot is $8. For $16 more, persons may receive the pneumococcal vaccine.

Persons visiting the clinics for these services should be prepared to provide Medicare cards or Medicare replacement cards, such as the Optimum Choice Advantage card. The Medicare replacement card should be accompanied by a referral from a physician.

The clinic schedule is as follows:

Oakland G.W. Plaza, Oct. 15, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Gorman Old Mill Restaurant, Oct. 20, 10 a.m.-1 p.m.; Friendsville Twila's Old Mill Restaurant, Oct. 21, 10 a.m.-1 p.m.; Oakland GW Plaza, Oct. 22, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Bloomington Fire Hall, Oct. 26, 2-6 p.m.; Oakland G.W. Plaza, Oct. 29, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; Grantsville Senior Center, Nov. 4, 1-6 p.m.; and Oakland G.W. Plaza, Nov. 5, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.

The influenza vaccine is recommended annually, while the pneumococcal shot is usually given just

One-Time Tire Amnesty Day To Be Repeated

What was called a "one-time only" event this spring — Tire Amnesty Day — will be repeated on April 24, 1999, as announced by Rodney Glotfelty this week to the Garrett County Commissioners. Glotfelty, director of the office of recycling and solid waste, said he was surprised by the Maryland Department of the Environment's (MDE) announcement last week that the special event would be rerun.

"It was such a success last time, the MDE wants to do it again," Glotfelty said.

The day was designated by the MDE this past April and allowed Maryland residents to get rid of any unused tires, free of charge. Garrett County's response to the day was overwhelming, Glotfelty said, with approximately 171 tons being collected.

"The limit was 75 tons, and we obviously surpassed that. But because other counties didn't take such advantage of the day, the MDE just averaged it out and we were able to turn in our collection, even though it was far over the limit," he said.

The second Amnesty

Chamber President Suggests Boost In County "Bed" Tax

The idea of raising the local accommodations tax from three to four percent is currently being discussed by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Garrett County Commissioners. David Moe, president of the chamber, and James Hinebaugh, director of the county's economic development office, met with the commissioners last week to introduce the idea, and the chamber is to meet this evening to further discuss it. The chamber will meet again with the commissioners next Tuesday, Oct. 20, at 10 a.m.

The accommodations tax, also known as a "bed" tax, is currently collected by hotels, motels, bed and breakfast establishments, and cottage renters. The money is returned to the county and distributed among the chamber (which gets approximately 64%), the economic development department, and municipalities.

Moe said that with the new visitors' center, the chamber is foreseeing additional costs, and the accommodations tax increase would be a logical step.

"It's not like we're asking the citizens to pay more taxes," he said in an interview yesterday. "This will only slightly impact those who come to visit our county."

Moe also said he would like for the chamber to be able expand its services.

"I've heard that in 1977, someone was distributing welcome packets to new residents. These packets included coupons, information about the schools their children would attend, and other items. I would really like to offer that again," he said.

The discussion about the tax with the commissioners will be a part of the regular Tuesday meeting, held in the public meeting room.

NMS To Host Meeting On Bear Creek Bridge Work

A public meeting will be held at Northern Middle School this coming Monday, Oct. 19, from 7 to 9 p.m., regarding the proposal to replace the Rt. 219 bridge that crosses Bear Creek just north of Accident. The bridge is scheduled to be replaced next year because of structural deficiencies.

During the meeting, engineers from the western Maryland office of the State Highway Administration will provide information and collect comments on the $7.1 million proposal.

For further information interested persons may contact the SHA's District 6 office in LaVale at 1-800-760-7138.

SAT Results Released:

Garrett County Class Of '98 Tops State, National Scores

Garrett County's 1998 high school graduates racked up impressive scores on their Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SATs) — surpassing both state and national averages — according to the reports presented to the Garrett County Board of Education at Tuesday night's meeting.

The 36% of Garrett County's high school seniors tested earned an average total of 1023 compared to the state average of 1014 and the national average of 1017. Dr. Patricia Mullenix, coordinator of research evaluation and information at the board of education, offered statistics on the student accomplishments reflected on both verbal and math sections of the test.

Consistencies among the county, state and nation were pointed out by Dr. Mullenix. "In general, males in the county did better than females," she said. This is also typical of the state and national results. However, all jurisdictions indicated more females taking the tests than males, she added.

Mullenix explained that the high scores earned by Garrett County students contradict what some analysts might have expected. "Several factors would lead statisticians to look for scores in the county to be below state and national averages," she said.

Parent education level and family income are generally associated with higher scores. The percentage of college-educated parents in Garrett County is 41%, compared to 56% statewide and 54% nationally. Likewise, county income levels are lower than state and national averages. Of SAT takers in Garrett County, 31% have family incomes below $30,000, compared to 21% statewide and 25% nationally, Dr. Mullenix said.

Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of county schools, said he was very proud of the students and teachers for what they had accomplished. Board members echoed this approval.

There was some discussion about discrepancies between the math scores of males and females. Dr. Brenda McCartney, assistant superintendent, noted the need to do some further analysis of the situation. "Students who take more math courses will do better on the tests. We need to take a look at the enrollment in math classes and see what is happening," she said.

Funding Salary Increase

Garrett County teachers will soon see the additional .5% raise originally agreed to in the contract for the current year. The board had anticipated a 2% increase for the current year, but budget adjustments required a delay in the full funding of that amount. The temporary salary increase given to teachers was 1.5%, pending the audit report for FY98.

The general audit report

Truck Strikes, Injures Child Crossing Road

A child crossing Garrett Highway near Red House was struck by a vehicle Monday afternoon.

The child, 9-year-old Jennifer VonHagel, was crossing the road at 4 p.m. when the incident occurred. Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack reported that the child had crossed Route 219 to retrieve mail, and was returning across the road to her home when she walked into the path of an oncoming truck driven by Mieczyslaw Kulak, 65, Oakland.

Kulak had swerved to avoid hitting the girl, but the mirror on the vehicle struck her, according to the report.

VonHagel was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. She was treated for injuries and released. Gorman VFD also responded to the scene.

Theft Reported

Police reported the theft of a satellite dish last Thursday from a home in the Friendsville area. Between 11:30 and 11:45 p.m. unknown suspects cut the cable and stole the dish from Bruce A. Dennan. The loss was reported to be about $210.

DWI

Police reported the following arrests for driving while intoxicated: Christopher D. Roth, 23, Morgantown, W.Va., Sept. 27; Brian K. Braithwaite, 28, Swanton, Sept. 29; Robert E. Riley, 45, Fallston, Oct. 2; Kimberly Smith, 30, McHenry, Oct. 11; and Tara Crossland, 22, Oakland, Oct. 13.

OOMPAH GALORE! The usual crowd of thousands ignored the damp, chilly weather conditions last Thursday night and went to the Oakland fire hall to enjoy the county's biggest party of the year, the OVFD Oktoberfest. The musical entertainment was provided by the OVFD Oktoberfest Band, conducted by Manning Smith, pictured above center leading a sing-along. The band, which comes together for this one "gig" each year, consists of musicians from the Oakland area, as well as Frostburg and Cumberland. Costume Building Day Planned At Our Town Theatre

"If you dread spending a lot of money for a child's Halloween costume that looks like everyone else's or falls apart at the seams after an hour, you might want to consider bringing your youngster to us this Saturday," said Jane Avery from Our Town Theatre (OTT). There, from 2 until 5 p.m. on Oct. 17, adults and teenagers will work with children to create costumes that Avery said will be imaginative and unique. The fee will be just $6 per costume.

"We have dozens of bits and pieces that we can recycle into all sorts of neat outfits. It should be a delightful, creative afternoon," Avery said. In order to make sure that enough materials are available, the theatre is requesting that all participants make reservations for the workshop by 11:30 a.m. on Saturday morning by calling 301-334-5640.

Teen Coffee House

Our Town Theatre will sponsor its third coffee house for teenagers on Saturday, Oct. 17. Included in the program are a musician, play readings, improvisations, song analyses, poetry, and other activities. For a $2 cover charge, students may stay from 7 until 11 p.m., consume free coffee and pretzels (other snacks will be sold), and choose to listen to or participate in the scheduled events.

Auditions Slated

Our Town Theatre has announced that auditions are scheduled for Sunday, October 18, for Larry Shue's comedy The Nerd. Try-outs will be held 1-4 p.m. and 7-9 p.m. If interested actors are unable to make either of these times, they may call the theatre at 301-334-5640 and arrange a special audition time.

Reservations

To date, more than two-thirds of the tickets to the one-act play The Devil and Daniel Webster have been reserved. OTT strongly encourages theatre-goers to make their reservations well ahead of time. Tickets are $3 and are to be paid for on the night of the production. Persons should call the theatre at 301-334-5640 to reserve seats.

The play will be given at 8 p.m. on Oct. 22-24 and 29-31.

Commission For Women To Host Special Event

The "Friends" arm of the Maryland Commission for Women will host a reception at Allegany College, Cumberland, on Sunday, Oct. 25, at 2 p.m. The program will feature "conversations with" Frances Glendening, Maryland's first lady; Dr. Catherine Gira, president of Frostburg State University; Dr. Alta Schrock, founder of Penn Alps, Grantsville; and Meriam Brode, honoree of Maryland Women in the Arts.

The affair will benefit the Maryland Women's Hall of Fame, sponsored each year in Annapolis by the Maryland Commission For Women and the Women Legislators of Maryland. Guests will learn more about the hall of fame, established in 1985 to honor Maryland women who have made unique and lasting contributions to the economic, political, cultural, and social life in the state; and to provide role models of achievement for tomorrow's female leaders.

The event will take place in the lounge of the College Center. Guests are asked to register for the event by Oct. 20 by calling Phyllis Trickett at 301-334-4810. Tickets are $15 ($10 of which is tax deductible).

FORGING LINKS IN LEARNING - Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett Community College signed agreements this week that will enable high school students to earn college credit in three phases of computer technology: six credits in applications, six credits in electronics, or 12 credits a combination of the two areas. High school courses in Computer Applications I and II will translate into three credits at GCC for Introduction to Computers and, the high school computer programming course will equal three credits as Introduction to Computer Programming at GCC. High School Electronics I, II, and III will be equal to three credits at GCC in Theory/Troubleshooting, and three credits in Circuits and Systems. The combined program concentrations would permit the student to earn a maximum of 12 college credits. In the photo above, signing the agreements are Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of schools, left, and Dr. Steve Herman, GCC president. Standing behind the signer are technology committee member David Moe, assistant school superintendent Dr. Brenda McCartney, school board member Charlotte Sebold, GCC academic dean Lillian Mitchell, and supervisor of technology education JoAnn Vent.

Thieves Dismantle, Steal Shed From Kempton Road Area

A Kempton Road area landowner has reported that an entire shed located on his property has been dismantled, with the majority of its lumber taken in a suspected theft, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

The theft, which occurred sometime between Sunday, Sept. 20, and Saturday, Oct. 10, in the 5400 block of Kempton Road, was reported after the complainant discovered that the floor and three entire sides of the 15x20 foot shed had been taken. The roof was found lying on the ground next to the building's foundation. The total loss of the structure's 670 feet of wormy chestnut lumber is estimated at approximately $6,000. A large sickle, valued at $50, was taken from inside the shed as well.

In other sheriff's news, a theft of numerous tools and miscellaneous items from a barn in the 600 block of Garrett Highway resulted in a loss of more than $1,500 dollars on Sunday, Oct. 4.

Among the many tools taken from toolboxes attached to a pair of John Deer tractors were a $60 Black & Decker circular saw and a $50 variable-speed 3/8 inch Craftsman drill. A number of hand-tools were also taken, many of them Hi-Test brand, including sockets, ratchets, wrenches, screwdrivers, hammers, couplers, and drill bits. Also taken was a blue ABS cattle insemination box, 24 inches long and 12 inches high, which contained a stainless steel gun used for breeding cattle and two packs of plastic sheathing. The box and its contents are valued at approximately $200.

Sheriff's deputies are investigating a pair of burglaries and one attempted burglary, each of which occurred sometime during the night of Sunday, Oct. 11, or early the following morning.

A burglary of Mt. Top Gas and Oil, located in the 8800 block of Garrett Highway, was reported when employees discovered a broken-out window next to the cash register, and the register itself lying on the floor; apparently the only items taken was $45 worth of cigarettes.

A basement window was broken out at the Oakland VFW post building in the 4700 block of Maryland Highway. Taken were $40 worth of beer, in cans and bottles, and approximately $10 in loose change. It appeared that the suspect(s) had first tried to gain entry by attempting to pry open a side door prior to breaking the window.

An attempted break-in reportedly occurred at Arnold's General Store on Edgewood Drive in Deer Park. Although entry was not gained, the report stated that pry marks of the type made by a straight screwdriver were visible on an exterior door and door frame.

Finally, an attempted break-in was reported by a Loch Lynn resident, who said that it occurred sometime over the past two weeks. Deputies observed pry marks on the home's back door jamb and lock assembly; no entry was gained.

Citizens with information about these or any other crimes that may be under investigation are urged to call the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911, or the Crime Solvers number at 301-334-1975.

All Charges Stetted In Maxwell Case

All charges faced by William Robert Maxwell, the former owner of Billy Bob's Oak Grove Tavern, were placed on the stet docket in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings before Judge Ralph M. Burnett.

The 52-year-old Mtn. Lake Park resident faced six charges, comprising a total of eight counts of alleged criminal conduct. The charges stemmed from an ongoing investigation by several local law enforcement agencies that culminated in Maxwell's arrest by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office during a gambling raid of his former establishment in the 3300 block of Hutton Road this past New Year's Eve.

Following the raid Maxwell was charged with three counts each of renting property to be used for gambling and furnishing alcohol to an underage drinker; two counts of keeping a place for gambling; and one count each of contributing to a condition which rendered a juvenile delinquent, operating a pawnshop without a license, and illegally transporting a handgun on his person. A portion of the charges stemmed directly from the New Year's Eve search, while others resulted from an ongoing investigation of Maxwell's alleged activities dating back over a year.

An Oakland man was exonerated of a domestic-related assault charge when his wife invoked marital privilege and refused to testify against him in court.

Dennis Joseph Garlitz, 31, had reportedly broken his wife's jaw during a domestic incident at an acquaintance's residence on Old Crellin Road. She had allegedly gone to the home after getting off work in order to pick Garlitz up and take him back to their home. The sheriff's report stated that an allegedly intoxicated Garlitz argued with her about leaving his friend's house, and during the argument he beat her.

An examination by a doctor at Garrett Memorial Hospital shortly afterwards revealed that the wife's jaw was broken.

A Deer Park man who had entered a not guilty plea in connection with a domestic assault was convicted by the judge.

Carl Edward Cooper, 25, was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $50, and placed on one year of supervised probation for allegedly assaulting his wife at their residence. Sheriff's deputies made the arrest following the August incident.

Douglas Gene Warnick, 34, Grantsville, was handed a 60-day sentence, fined $100, and placed on one year of supervised probation in connection with a February domestic incident. He had been arrested by state troopers when he allegedly broke the glass in the front door of a home in Grantsville, where his wife, from whom he is seperated, resides.

Charges of forgery and uttering a false document faced by James William Shoemaker, 38, Accident, were placed on the stet docket. Shoemaker had been arrested by state troopers in May for forging and cashing a bad check at Hartman's Amoco in Accident.

Scott Allen Hebb, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, was found to be in violation of his probation order, which he had been given as a result of earlier convictions on second-degree assault and malicious destruction of property charges. His original incarceration time of one year was reimposed, six months of which was then suspended; in addition, his period of supervised probation was extended for another year.

DWI Hearings

Three driving while intoxicated (DWI) convictions were handed down from the district court bench recently.

Milford Earl Beckman, 60, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $555, handed a 90-day suspended sentence, placed on 18 months of supervised probation, and was ordered to complete 80 hours of community service.

Jay Lee Howell, 32, Maysell, W.Va., pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a 30-day sentence. The judge credited him with time already served and suspended the remaining balance.

Robert Thomas Duckworth, 50, Westernport, was not prosecuted on a DWI charge.

Garrett Highway when her Buick struck the rear of a Chevrolet Blazer, operated by Aurelia Yvonne Marple, 37, Oakland. Marple's vehicle was stopped in the roadway waiting for oncoming traffic to clear in order to make a left turn. The report stated that Engel's Buick could not slow down in time to avoid striking the Blazer in the rear.

CHITTY CHITTY BANG BANG? No, not quite, although the replica of a 1934 automobile presented by WEPCO was certainly as impressive — impressive enough to win the Grand Marshal Award. The float was one of numerous works of art to travel down the streets of Oakland in the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade.

The Southern Rescue Squad and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department responded along with sheriff's deputies. Engel was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released. No charges were filed by the sheriff's office.

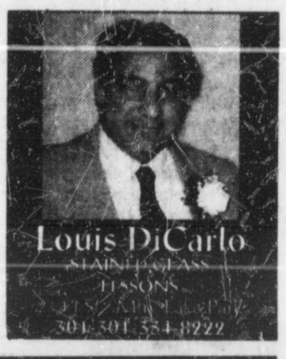
Day limit has been increased to 150 tons, Glotfelty said. Commercial tires are not allowed, but farming equipment is not included in that category.

Glotfelty asked the commissioners if the collection sites could be changed this time, with the event perhaps taking place at the Garrett County fairgrounds. The collection sites were crowded last year, with residents waiting in long lines to drop off their tires.

"If we could be at the fairgrounds, we could line up 13 or 14 big trucks and have several drop-off points right there. It would be a lot easier," he said.

The idea will be pursued, the commissioners said.

A portion of the state's collected tires are chipped and used for road pavement material or as landfill linings. Some others are buried, to be dug up in several years and used in other recycled capacities.



Garrett County Youth Arrested In Burglary

A Grantsville juvenile and a LaVale man were arrested early this morning following a burglary in Frostburg.

Maryland State Police at the LaVale barrack reported that officers responded to a burglary in progress at a residence along Parkersburg Road. Upon arrival of the officers, the suspects fled.

After further investigations and search of the area, the suspects were located and charged in the incident.

Michael Lee Shipley, 24, LaVale, was charged with two counts of fourth degree burglary, malicious destruction of property, and contributing to the delinquency of a child.

The juvenile was charged with one count of fourth degree burglary and malicious destruction of property, and was released to his parents.

was submitted to the board Tuesday night by Jim Murray of Rodeheaver and Associates. A carry-over exists, which is conservatively estimated to be a little over $200,000. The board accepted Dr. Teets's recommendation that the teachers' salary increase be a priority use of a portion of that available fund.

Planned Camp Expansion

Computer resource teacher Chuck Trautwein submitted initial plans to offer an expanded summer technology camp program, in addition to the current camps.

Trautwein suggested an overnight week-long experience to be held possibly at the Wisp. The camp would be marketed in surrounding metropolitan areas.

Presented budget figures and projections for such an undertaking, he indicated that proceeds would revert to the schools for the purchase of educational equipment.

The board unanimously endorsed the concept which Dr. McCartney is working on with Trautwein. Plans will continue with further information to be presented as developed.

WINNING SCORES EARNED - Garrett County students "did their parents and teachers proud" by surpassing their peers statewide and nationally in college entrance tests. On the chart above, scores earned on Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SATs) by Garrett County's 1998 graduating seniors are compared with the scores earned by students in the state and in the nation. With 132 Garrett County students testing, which represented 36% of the senior class, the average total score was 1023. The state average total was recorded as 1014, and the national average was 1017. WHY IS IT?

"Why is it? A man wakes up in the morning after sleeping on an advertised blanket, in advertised pajamas. He will bathe in an advertised tub, wash with advertised soap, shave with an advertised razor, drink advertised coffee after his advertised juice, cereal and toast (toasted in his advertised toaster), put on advertised clothes and an advertised hat. He will ride to work in an advertised car, sit at an advertised desk, and write with an advertised pen. Yet this man hesitates, saying that advertising does not pay. Finally, when his unadvertised business goes badly he will then advertise it for sale."

Wal-Mart: Boom or Doom?...

It's apparently official now: Wal-Mart Stores Inc. is planning to build a discount department store just east of the Oakland city limits. One question that remains is whether or not the store will be an 80,000-square-foot department store or a 150,000-square-foot "supercenter." If all goes as planned, the business will open its doors late next year.

There are no doubt many residents who are delighted by this announcement, particularly those who often travel off the mountaintop just to shop at a Wal-Mart, which indeed offers a wide variety of products at often the lowest prices. However, upon closer consideration of what this will mean for Garrett County, and particularly the Oakland area, the arrival of a Wal-Mart could be disastrous. Too many people do not realize the great downside of such huge discount chain stores until it is too late.

Yes, Wal-Mart will provide jobs, perhaps a couple hundred of them. But, many of them will be, or will become, part-time jobs with low pay and few or no benefits. What is also never reported by Wal-Mart is the number of jobs that are lost in a community after the opening of one of their stores. Long-established businesses that offer similar products, but cannot compete on a price basis, will be severely affected by Wal-Mart, some to the point of going out of business. Not only will those jobs be lost, but along with them the tax revenue and various forms of community support that they currently provide.

One of the towns in Maryland that has managed to keep Wal-Mart out of its community, a town with many similarities to Oakland, is historic Chestertown. An analysis by the National Trust for Historic Preservation made the following conclusions about what a 107,000-square-foot Wal-Mart would do to that town: "cause severe economic damage to between 48-56 existing independently owned businesses in Kent County; that stores within a 20-mile radius of new Wal-Marts show on average a 24 percent decline in sales four years after the Wal-Mart opens; and that, in the end, the people in the community who have the least amont of money are the ones who ultimately suffer the most because of the loss of services in the community that must be financed some other way."

Other negative results of the opening of a Wal-Mart include: reduction in commercial property values because of increased store vacancies; similar reduction in residential property values; and major traffic problems at and near the site of the store, which will increase the number of vehicular accidents, as well as the cost of road maintenance and law enforcement services.

Also, the huge sums of money generated by Wal-Mart stores ($105 billion for FY97) does not stay in the community. There is a token scholarship or two given to high schools by local Wal-Marts, but just try to sell them an ad in your child's soccer program.

It seems to us that efforts should get under way immediately to look closely at these and many other ramifications and learn as much as we can about what other communities have done to either keep certain discount stores out of the community or at least to regulate the size and scope of the proposed store. This is our future we're talking about, and if Wal-Mart opens and things don't work out, they can easily afford to simply close up shop and go away, leaving in their wake a graveyard of vacant buildings and deceased small businesses.

To the Editor:

This is in response to the letter written by Ms. Brenda Thomas. I only have a few questions for your comments. If you are so set against interstate progress, then why did you use I-95 to travel between here and Florida instead of using all the secondary roads available to you? Convenience?

I for one am looking forward to both the new interstate in this area, corridor H in W.Va. and the bypass around Oakland. I would also like to know how many of the individuals who complain about all the great roads tend to use them if it benefits them. Do any of you use I-68 to go to Cumberland or Morgantown? How about I-79 to travel north or south?

To the Editor:

I had the good fortune to grow up on a small farm in Ohio, so when I learned that October 15 would be celebrated as International Rural Women's Day, I tried to write about my mother. But I got lost in the maze of my mother's life — I didn't realize it would be so difficult to write about her.

To make a long story short, she was a farm woman for 34 years before she and Dad sold the farm due to his declining health. My dad nearly killed himself trying to earn a living as a farmer because he loved that life so much. But he couldn't have lasted as long as he did without the support and indeed the excellent management of our lives that my mom provided. She was and still is the consummate rural woman, still making do with what she has and still taking care of us and holding our family together.

What shouldn't be missed in this paper are the tributes to farm and rural women that appear on pp. D-2 and D-3. I urge readers to check out these pages. Even those who have never lived on a farm will appreciate the stories and information related there.

Judging from the biographies of our recently chosen farm queen and the others considered for that honor, I'd have to say the tradition of the rural woman flourishes in Garrett County. Way to go, girls!

Sincerely,
Donna Aspinall

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Garrett County Arts Council, I would like to extend our thanks to the current Board of Garrett County Commissioners for proclaiming the month of October Arts and Humanities Month in Garrett County. Appreciation is also extended to all the local arts and humanities organizations whose representatives made time to attend the proclamation signing.

In issuing the proclamation, our commissioners appropriately acknowledged that "the public interest in the arts is recognized as a legitimate concern of democratic government at federal, state, and local levels...." They urged Garrett County residents and visitors "to participate in and to celebrate the cultural riches our community has to offer."

This Board of Commissioners has been very supportive of the local arts community and of GCAC, the county's official arts agency. Our hats are off to Mr. Wilt, Mr. Fratz, and Mr. Johnson.

With regard to another matter, the GCAC office has received a number of inquiries pertaining to the recent Mountain Arts Cooperative Show held in downtown Oakland. Contrary to a press release appearing prior to Autumn Glory in The Republican, this show was neither sponsored by nor developed in collaboration with GCAC. Inquiries pertaining to the endeavor may be directed to the Micro Works program at Garrett County Community Action.

Sincerely,
Helen Earles
President, GCAC

To the Editor:

The opponents to the Route 219 by-pass should have to live on North Eighth Street from Oak Street to Dennett Road. They would most likely have a change of heart.

On a daily basis the commercial vehicles that I classify as non-essential, such as concrete mixers, heavy semi-tractor trailers, logging trucks, loaded dump trucks, heavy equipment hauiers etc., use this route. The noise and the size of these vehicles should be limited to streets designed for this kind of traffic and not residential areas such as North Eighth Street, as a short cut, as do the commercial vehicles.

What compounds the situation even further are speeding and failure to obey the stop signs at the corner of North Eighth Street and Dennett Road. The signage in the area appears old and obsolete and should possibly be replaced. Virtually no one obeys the 25 mph limit and virtually no one stops at North Eighth Street and Dennett Road.

Living in this area, it is dangerous backing out of your driveway onto North Eighth Street. I respectfully suggest that the city council and our local police department act to correct the misuse of the residential area. Speeding and failure to obey stop signs are acts of breaking the law. They need to be enforced. There should be steps taken to eliminate non-essential commercial traffic on North Eighth Street. This is a residential area and not a commercial short cut. Someone needs to act NOW.

To the Editor:

Tragically, many Americans do not understand what a partial birth abortion is. If you begin with an abortion, that, per se, equals murder; however, the physical killing of a partially born baby is beyond what any civilized person would allow, if they knew what the procedure involved. First, the lie must be placed in the reader's brain that it is for the mother's good. Total lie.

The fact is, the baby must be turned around so the feet come out first. This is (according to women's statements to the medical people) not pleasant. Then, after the feet are out and the delivery is about complete, it is stopped, so only the head is left inside the mother's womb. Then the killer doctor stabs the baby in the back of the brain and the brain is sucked out! This is totally barbaric and heinous!

Reader, our present governor is for partial birth abortion! Please, in the sense of decency, vote for the lady running for this position. Both of our two U.S. senators are also for this horrible criminal act, and our only way to stop it in Maryland is for us to get a governor in office who is opposed to it. Help bring our state back to civility and away from this totally senseless killing.

If you can allow this to continue, do not be concerned that the older folks must be extinguished once they are no longer productive! Please exercise your right while it still exists. For once, vote the issue, skip which political party is involved. Skip the religious concept. Simply vote for sanity in our state.

Sincerely,
Thomas E. Doyle
Oakland

To the Editor:

Recently I have met a number of people who stated that they were sorry I lost the Democratic bid for sheriff of Garrett County. I need to let everyone know that I have gained a great deal from this experience.

It's not often in a person's life that he can walk into a voting booth and see his own name on the ballot. More should experience this.

My police background obligated me to offer myself, not for a job, but for the opportunity to lift the burden of illegal drug use from the heads of the children and place it where it belongs: in the hands of adults. I would not have been happy knowing I was capable, but would not try.

In my quest for the office, I met a lot of nice people I would not otherwise have encountered and that includes David Martin, the victor in the race. He appears to be a nice young man and should serve the people well if he is victorious in November.

After the primary, I met a lady who stated that her son had just turned 26 years old and, during a family conversation, mentioned to them that I had made a positive influence in his life. Words can not describe how important that is.

A person can work all of his life just to add a little joy or ease the burden in another's life, but it's seldom that he will know whether or not he has made a difference.

A wise person once said, "A man never stands as tall as when he stoops to help a child."

Yes, I have lost the battle, but I believe I'm winning the war.

Sincerely,
Floyd R. Baker
McHenry

To the Editor:

It's me again, the inmate with a pen. On this occasion I am writing to let others know, and perhaps to gain outside help, over a grave injustice that is being perpetrated on the inmates.

Recently the warden has decided to enact a rule/law that he imposed back in 1997. This rule/law states that inmates will be charged $4.00 for a doctor visit, $4.00 for a dentist visit, $4.00 for an optometrist visit, and .05¢ for Tylenol and .10¢ for Actifed.

The Tylenol used is a generic version that comes in a quantity of 1,000. At the most, any shopper could pick up a bottle for $3.99. At the rate they charge us inmates are we to assume that they pay $50.00 for a bottle of 1,000 Tylenol?

As for charging the inmates for the doctor visits, don't the state taxpayers already pay the doctor a fee to come into the jail and see the inmates? I am pretty sure that Dr. Lewis, even if he is benevolent enough, is not doing this free of charge, nor is he doing it for $4.00 per inmate.

The reasoning given to us for this action was, "That's the way they do it at the other prisons." At the other prisons they also carry the following items for inmates to purchase from a commissary for themselves: aspirin (100 ct.)$1.06, Tylenol (gen.) $1.48, and Chlor-Trimeton (gen.) $1.38. If inmates are going to be charged for health products, shouldn't we have the same rights as other inmates to purchase our own products instead of paying an irrational amount like we are charged?

Of course, as inmates we no longer have rights, according to our warden.

To sum this up in four words: It depends on you!

Since the inmates have no voice in this matter, perhaps one of the good people of this fair county would step in and be a voice for us. Perhaps that would make a difference to the people who run this institution.

I wish to thank the editor and the people of Garrett County for taking the time to help the inmates.

Thank you,
Bobby D. Tichinel

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the letter from Mr. Robert E. Savage of the September 3rd edition of The Republican. If only perfect people are going to get into heaven, then it is already full! We all have imperfections. Some of us are short, tall, skinny, fat, ugly, physically handicapped, mentally challenged, even young or old. John 3:16, the most quoted Bible verse, says that God loves us all, even with our imperfections.

D.C. Talk, a Christian rock group, has a song that includes the words "The single greatest cause of atheism in the world today is Christians." The pastor, church board, and congregation of the church Mr. Savage spoke of have proven that by their actions. This same kind of discrimination flourishes throughout many churches. If you don't wear the right clothes, have the right bank balance, have weird colors dyed in your hair, have the wrong color of skin, etc., these same so-called Christians "suggest" that you might be comfortable attending another church.

To be a Christian means that we have Christ in us. Christ never turned anyone away. In fact, He said that those who do keep someone from coming to Him will receive their just due on judgment day. These same people who call themselves Christian are going to be sadly disappointed when Christ looks upon them on judgment day and says, "Depart from me, I never knew you."

To the pastor and church who seem bothered by Mr. Savage's loss of an eye, the only thing you should be bothered by is when you look in your mirror! I am sure the blackness of your heart would be enough to bother anyone. My church, my family, and our pastor will continue to pray for the opening of your heart to God's true love of all mankind.

To Mr. Savage, you are welcome at New Life Christian Church at any time, where anyone who wants to truly worship the Lord is welcome. Our pastor is Rev. Richard Sisler and he may be reached at 301-746-6269. The invitation is open to everyone.

Thank you and may God bless Garrett County with an openness to receive His love and then spread it to our neighbors.

Sincerely,
Darla L. C. Schroyer

To the Editor:

On October 8th, The Republican ran a photo and article on the presentation of a check for $617,618 from the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to the Garrett County commissioners. The check presentation was timed to coincide with Maryland State Parks Week, October 3-11. While the article and photo caption game ample explanation of why Garrett County receives these funds, it left out one very important fact.

The article reported that the monies paid to the county represent 25 percent of the income generated from the use of public land in the county during fiscal year 1998. The article quoted DNR Secretary John Griffin saying, "Garrett County's public lands are managed to provide a sustainable supply of timber for the forest products industry, as well as high quality natural resources to support the growing tourism industry."

What the article did not say is that of the monies presented to the county, nearly 71% came from timber harvest revenues from state forests (not parks) and only 29% from user (recreational) fees. In light of this fact, the check presentation would have been much more appropriately timed to coincide with National Forest Products Week, October 18-24.

In 1960, the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America proclaimed the seven-day period beginning on the third Sunday of October in each year National Forest Products Week. Public Law 86-753: 74 STAT. 898 [S.J. RES. 209] Through four decades this week has served to remind Americans of the bounty, the utility, the beauty, and the productivity of our forests and timberlands.

Educational Opportunities, Maryland's Best-Kept Secret

Guest column by
Lt. Gen. (MD) James F. Fretterd
The Adjutant General
Maryland National Guard

More than perhaps at any other time in our nation's history, education is vital to the survival and well-being of our free people. Competition within the global economy will reward those with the knowledge and skills to navigate the high-tech economic landscape of the future.

The young people of Maryland must be equipped to lead the technological revolution in ways unimaginable just a generation ago. Technologies such as the Internet and distance learning are shrinking the classroom, making it more accessible than ever before.

Ironically, as more and better opportunities for education appear on our horizons, the cost of these opportunities are climbing at an alarming rate. Soon, the possibility exists that our high-tech culture will divide into a realm of haves and have-nots, with education being the precious commodity sought by all but held only by those of financial means. With all the futuristic challenges and opportunities of the next millennium nearly upon us, it may seem ironic that an institution that has been a part of the very fabric of Maryland life for nearly three centuries is providing a very real and timely solution to this dilemma.

This institution is the Maryland National Guard, an organization older, in fact, than the United States and responsible for securing and defending our liberties in every major conflict and war since the Revolution. While most Marylanders think only of the National Guard in times of emergencies, the Guard actually is involved continually in community activities.

The Maryland National Guard has established a Partnership in Education with 12 of Maryland's community colleges, whereby members of the Guard receive a 50% tuition waiver. When coupled with state tuition assistance and the Montgomery GI Bill, this waiver allows Guard members to attend one of the 12 community colleges at little or no cost. We are actively pursuing relationships with Washington College, Morgan State University, and the University of Maryland System.

We feel very fortunate that we enjoy a flourishing relationship with Garrett Community College. The partnership between the Maryland National Guard and Garrett Community College is a natural one since these institutions have strong and lasting roots in the community and are committed to improving the quality of life for their fellow citizens.

In a speech prepared for delivery in Dallas the day of his assassination, November 22, 1963, President John F. Kennedy wrote: "Leadership and learning are indispensable to each other." This simple, declarative sentence underscores the importance we in the Maryland National Guard place on education. It also explains why we believe our Partnership in Education is a win-win situation for all parties: our citizen-soldiers and -airmen can gain an affordable education to succeed in both their military and civilian careers, and the community benefits by gaining a better educated, more valuable population.

But the Maryland National Guard is more than just an excellent way to pay for college. The Guard leads the way in pioneering distance learning technologies, or so-called Distributive Training Technology (DTT), which we are making available to the public as part of our plan to make our armories community centers again.

Through a complex network of voice and video computer links, students can further their education throughout our state at specially constructed sites located at our facilities in Laurel, Camp Fretterd (Reisterstown), Oakland, and Warfield Air National Guard (ANG) Base, home of the Maryland Air National Guard's 175th Wing in Middle River. Degree programs are available from the associate's degree level right on through the master's degree, allowing students located in Cumberland, Laurel, Oakland, and Warfield ANG Base in Middle River to attend classes taught by a professor located at Bowie State hundreds of miles away.

We live in a world where partnerships among public institutions are vital in maximizing services to our citizens. We must be interdependent to survive and prosper in an increasingly complex society. We need to pool our resources and optimize our institutional strengths. When the end result is a quality education for those in both urban and rural areas, the benefit is inestimable.

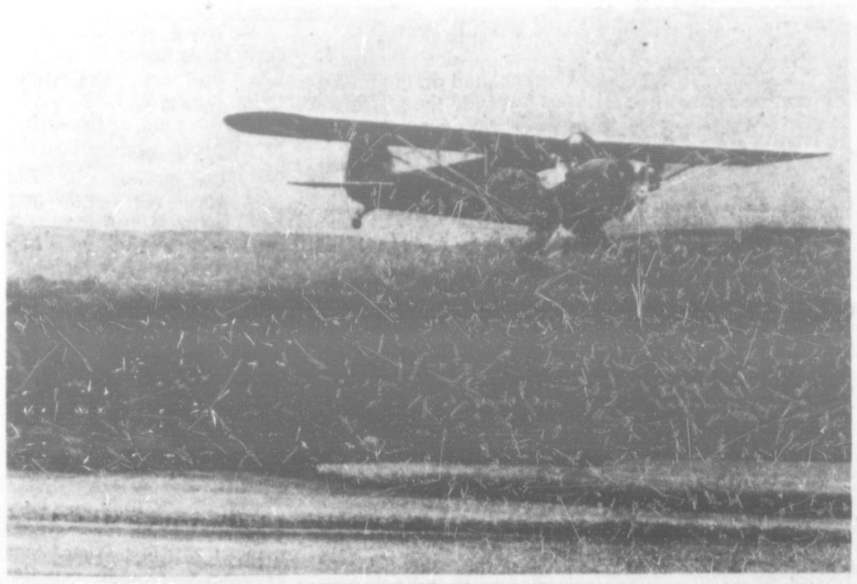
insists are available from non-consumptive uses of the state's wildlands, forests, and parks have yet to materialize. Without the revenue from timber sales, that check presented to the Garrett County commissioners would have been 71 percent smaller. It would have averaged out to only $2.25 per acre. That is very little compensation for 80,000 acres of land that are off the county's tax roles.

The Department of Natural Resources has known for years that the bulk of their income from public lands comes not from recreational dollars but from the sale of timber from public forest lands that are managed for timber production. It's time the public knew this too.

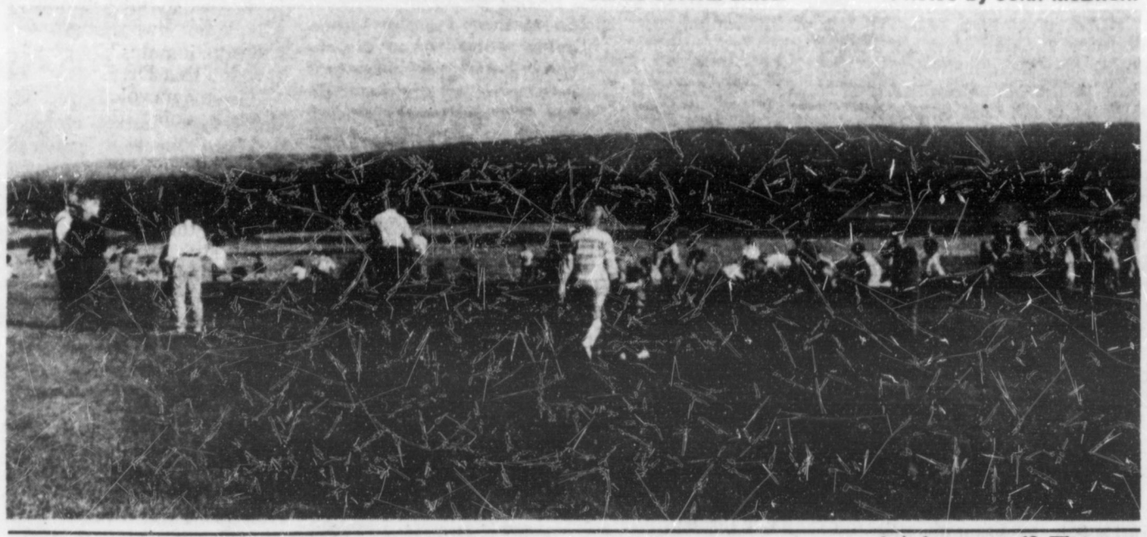
The forest products industry is the leading industry in western Maryland. It's time we all stop and realize just how important this industry is to our local and state economy and how essential the products they supply are to each of us.

National Forests Products Week is the perfect time to do this.

Karin E. Miller,
Executive Director
Maryland Forests Association



AVIATION ANTICS were aplenty Sunday afternoon at the popular annual fly-in at the Greater Gortner Airport, where hundreds of visitors witnessed a variety of flying machines doing their thing. The youngsters' favorite event was surely the impressive candy drop, pictured at left. The sweets, provided by the pilots at the airport, were scattered across about 50 yards of ground, where little ones (and not so little ones) ran to grab up a shirt-full. The "retrievers" are pictured below. Shown above is an SNJ Texan, a WWII/Korean era plane, which was piloted past the exhilerated crowd several times. Photos by John McEwen.



To the Editor:

Parkinson's disease. Alzheimer's disease. Epilepsy. Schizophrenia. All four are brain disorders, but only the first three are adequately covered by insurance. Discrimination and lack of parity in insurance coverage for brain disorders appear to be based on the profound misconception that conditions like schizophrenia are behavioral problems, rather than treatable medical conditions. Severe mental illnesses such as schizophrenia, bipolar disorder, major depression, obsessive compulsive disorder and panic disorder are not caused by "bad" character but, in fact, are biologically based physical disorders that can be diagnosed and effectively treated. Left untreated, disorders of the brain are tragically disabling, disrupting a person's ability to think, feel and relate to others and to his or her environment.

As Garrett County Lighthouse Inc. observes Mental Illness Awareness Week 1998, we remind the citizens of Garrett County that their family may be the one in five families affected by mental illnesses this year. Those needing assistance with recovery need to be encouraged to seek access to treatment. The National Alliance for the Mentally Ill has told us that 40 percent of Americans with a mental illness do not seek treatment, oftentimes because they do not have insurance, do not believe they can be helped, or fear the stigma that is far too often attached to these illnesses.

Lighthouse wants to let people know that through major scientific advances, researchers have been able to identify several biological factors, such as brain chemistry, structure, functioning, as well as genes, that are among the possible cause of brain disorders. Scientists have identified brain chemicals such as serotonin, dopamine, and norepinephrine and their receptors, which determine much of our mental and physical activities. Imbalances in these chemicals have been linked to brain disorders such as schizophrenia and depression. Further, through advanced technology, scientists have identified structural and functional differences in the brains of individuals with brain disorders. Just like other chronic medical conditions such as cancer, diabetes, and heart disease, brain disorders can be effectively diagnosed and treated with medications and other therapies.

Additionally, severe mental illnesses have higher treatment success rates than other equally devastating physical illnesses. Early intervention diagnosis and medical intervention are keys to successfully treating serious brain disorders. Garrett County Lighthouse Inc. knows from experience that people with severe mental illnesses struggle through the daily challenges of life because of their disorder, and that they face a double challenge in life: not only have they worked hard to combat the obstacles their brain disorder presents, but they must face the stigma at work, in the community, or in receiving adequate health care coverage. If you or someone you know needs help with recovery, call us.

Sincerely,
Debbie jo Adams-Noroski,
Executive Director
Garrett County Lighthouse Inc.

To the Editor:

It is time for all of us to take "personalities" out of the mess in Washington, especially as it relates to the White House. First, there was a move on to make the issue of "the president and his bimbo" impartial. That idea went down the tubes...what happened? Then, everyone displays a sad or serious front except the "special prosecutor," who has a permanent smile on his face. Is he happy about all of this?

So far, Senator Hatch seems to be even handed. So why are his Republican peers angry at him for suggesting that censure and a fine might be a solution? Isn't he entitled to his opinion?

If you go back in history to our "founding fathers" who fashioned the impeachment process and who, in many cases, had their own "sweeties," do you really think that they meant to include what they were doing into the process? I think not! Doesn't anyone realize that the first president "coveted his friend's wife" and that another founding father fathered children with his slaves? Has everyone forgotten that when our four-term president died before the end of World War II, it was his mistress, not the first lady, at his bedside? How many men who read this letter wouldn't develop or maintain a bad back if they slept with famous movie stars? What about a general, who later became president, but had sex with his female driver while his wife was at home tending to their farm? How many present senators and congressmen could survive such an inquiry?

If we go back to the Bible, which is what some people are doing, then why don't we recognize that wealth and power were measured by how many women you had in your "stable" besides cows and chickens? Nobody can deny that King Solomon, who was considered very wise, had so many wives, mistresses, concubines, and children that the "family" could, if they settled here, over populate Garrett County! In some circles, the consensus was that he was so tired each morning (as a result of his evening escapades) that his aides has to carry him into his "oval office." However, that never interfered with his many wise decisions.

Of course, all through our history we did not have DNA testing or special prosecutors. In some periods they did not have personal computers, the Internet, TV, or even radio. Also, the news media did not try to be judge and jury. They did not try to tell you what you were thinking. What really frightens me is that the special prosecutor has become the "fourth branch" of government. Our founding fathers said: "Three is enough!"

Also, our country was founded on the principle of: "innocent until proven guilty." Now we wallow in the new rule: "guilty until proven innocent." You were supposed to be judged by your peers, not by those with hidden agendas or extreme left-or-right wing witch hunts, or a religious right that has become "radically wrong."

Poll after poli very strongly indicate that the people (as a whole) do not want the president to resign or to be impeached. However, when the subject of censure is presented to the American people they strongly indicate that it would be an equitable and fair solution. Since the people elected him twice, why don't we all listen to our brethren, instead of turning a deaf ear to what they are saying and how they have voted? The people, for the most part, think that he has done a good job as president and has not committed truly impeachable offenses, even though nearly all of us object to his sexual transgressions. They want him to remain in office.

The world is laughing at us, not the president. The world calls it sex, and the majority of Americans call it sex. Most of us, under similar situations, would have done the same thing. That is why his governing approval rating is so high. They are saying: "I have been there and done that."

Politicians and those in the media should remember that "people in glass houses should not throw stones." Why can't the news media and biased politicians quit feasting on the man and let him get on with running the administrative branch of our government? Then, when election time rolls around (that's the real poll) we can all secretly vote and do things the constitutional way. If we do not, then God help us all.

Conrad I. Adler

HONORING THE ARTISTS - Lori Petersheim and Kristin McCasky, eighth grade students at Swan Meadow School, were honored Tuesday night at the Garrett County Board of Education meeting. The students earned this recognition by winning first place in the Maryland Board of Realtors 1999 Fair Housing calendar art contest. The work of these two artists will be published in this calendar that will be distributed statewide. The students were encouraged to enter the contest by local realtor Earl George and Swan Meadow principal Linda Fleming. School superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets congratulated the two girls on their accomplishment and presented to them a framed photograph taken when they gave a Garrett County gift basket to Gov. Parris Glendening during the award ceremony in Annapolis earlier this year. The photograph will hang in the school. In the photo above, honoring the Swan Meadow students are, left to right Fleming, Lori, George, Kristin, Dr. Teets, and Patrick Filley, board of education president.

Thank You!

I would like to thank my fellow Garrett Countians for the support and confidence given me the past 24 years as Judge of the Orphans' Court. Serving as Judge has been both educational and fulfilling. Much knowledge has been gained and used in the decision-making of the job.

I have truly enjoyed my work and have made many new friends throughout the years. I will miss the camaraderie of the Court and those involved. I want to wish all new candidates much success and prosperity in their new endeavor.

Thank You,
Wilmer W. Margraff

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

The mayor and council met on Monday, Oct. 5.

•Trick-or-treating will be held for local children ages 12 and under on Oct. 31, 6-7:30 p.m. Town residents who wish to participate are asked to turn on porch lights.

•Fall clean-up day will be on Saturday, Oct. 24. Scrap metal will be picked up during this event. Further details will be forthcoming.

•The town has accepted a bid from Keystone Paving to surface the new basketball courts in the park.

•Representatives of the Lions and Rotary clubs attended the meeting to discuss matters of mutual concern. The issues were resolved.

•Several residents at the meeting voiced concerns with the local cable company no longer providing certain channels.

The next town meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 20.

MTN. LAKE PARK

The town meeting was held Tuesday, Oct. 13.

•The mayor received a letter from the county commissioners concerning requested improvements on Deer Park Ave. The funds for the work would be available through the tax differential and would initiate the transfer of ownership of the road to the town.

•Following last month's meeting, the council sent amendments to some town zoning ordinances to the town planning commission for consideration and input.

•A letter from Community Action's executive director Duane Yoder was read. Yoder has petitioned the town to annex Parkwood Village East. The matter has been turned over to the town's attorney.

•There was discussion about the charges for trash removal.

•The mayor and council have requested a representative from CableVision to attend the next town meeting.

•Leaf pick-up will begin Oct. 26.

•All sewer work in Oak Park has been completed.

•The council now has a list of owners of about 30 unlicensed vehicles in the town. Letters will be sent to them.

•The high school community service project in Mtn. Lake Park is still being developed.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 27.

ENJOYING THE LITTLE PEOPLE of the area last Thursday was 6-5, 300-plus-pound Rosey Grier, who got down on their level and listened intently to what they had to say. The National Football League star, actor, author, singer, and ordained minister met with a group of young people at St. Peter's social hall, where he was entertained by the Ecumenical Youth Ministry and then spoke to the crowd. He emphasized the value and significance of each and every person, and spoke of the importance of developing one's talents and abilities after establishing a spiritual life as a firm foundation. Grier also served as the honorary chairman of the Day of Hope Golf Tournament for cancer research at the Wisp on Friday and was the Grand Marshal of the Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade on Saturday.

School/Career Grants Offered To Businesses

To encourage education/employer collaborations, grants of $5,000 to $40,000 are being offered through the Western Maryland Career Connections Consortium.

Business partners are being sought to help address training or development in the following areas: arts, media, and communication; business management and finance; construction and development; consumer services, hospitality, and tourism; environmental, agricultural, and natural resource systems; health and bioscience; human resource services; manufacturing, engineering, and technology; and transportation technologies.

A bidder's conference and informational meeting for the Regional School-To-Careers Employer Incentive Grant will be held Thursday, Oct. 22, at 3:45 p.m. in the Garrett Community College Distance Learning Lab.

For more details on any aspect of this program, persons may call JoAnn Vent, supervisor of Career Technology Education, at the Garrett County Board of Education at 301-334-8915.

Halloween Benefit Marks Return Of Fabulous Hubcaps

A Halloween sock-hop dance featuring the Fabulous Hubcaps will be held in the gymnasium of Garrett Community College on Saturday, Oct. 31, from 8 to 11:30 p.m. All proceeds after expenses will be donated to 5-year-old Tiffany Morgan of Oakland and the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Earlier that afternoon, a classic car show will begin at 1 p.m. at the college, weather permitting.

The dance marks the second straight year that the Fabulous Hubcaps have played a Halloween show at GCC. In their 24th year of performing across the country and internationally in more than 200 shows a year, the Fabulous Hubcaps are able to reproduce the true sound qualities of musical artists of the 1950s and early '60s rock and roll era.

Utilizing three saxophones, two guitars, multi-keyboards, and percussion instruments, combined with precision vocals and harmonies, the group has earned a reputation for capturing a true likeness of the artists' recordings. The image is further cemented by the stage costumes the seven band members use to portray the artists.

Hubcap tributes and medleys are a mainstay of the group's reputation. Medleys include tunes by Little Richard, the Everly Brothers, Elvis, the Coasters, Connie Francis, the Platters, Buddy Holly, the Beach Boys, Sonny and Cher, Tina Turner, the Shirelles, plus the sounds of James Brown, Otis Redding, and the hits of Motown.

The Fabulous Hubcaps have headlined major fundraisers in the past, and the band has played a number of special events and venues, including the Kentucky Derby, performing the national anthem at Camden Yards, and entertaining President and Mrs. Clinton on the south lawn of the White House.

Costume prizes will be awarded at the GCC dance for Halloween, and '50s and '60's theme. Dancing will be encouraged, and dancers wearing tennis shoes or socks are welcome, but no hard-soled shoes will be permitted on the gymnasium floor.

Dash plaques will be given to the first 50 vehicles arriving for the afternoon's classic car show, and a crowd's favorite will be awarded during intermission of the Hubcaps show.

Ticket prices for the dance are $15 per adult, $30 per couple, and $7.50 for children age 12 and under. Tickets may be purchased at GCC's business office, Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland, Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville, or by calling 301-387-4802. Participants in these Halloween activities are reminded that alcoholic beverages are not permitted on the GCC campus.

For further information on the dance or the car show, interested persons may call the college at 301-387-3000. This event is funded in part by the Garrett County Arts Council.

BROOKSIDE REVIVAL

The Rev. Charles Teets is holding a revival at the Brookside Church of the Brethren (beside the Aurora fire hall on U.S. 50), Oct. 15, 16, and 17. Services begin at 7 p.m. each evening and there is special music planned. On Sunday evening, Oct. 18, a love feast and communion will begin at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is welcome to any or all of these services.

HYMN SING OCTOBER 18

A hymn sing will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora, on Sunday, Oct. 18, at 2 p.m. The St. Paul's choir will present special numbers. Refreshments will be provided by the Aid Association for Lutherans Branch 9783, and a freewill offering will benefit the church's youth fund.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

A "come-as-you-are" spaghetti dinner will be served at St. Paul's Lutheran Church on Thursday evening, Oct. 22, from 5 until 7 p.m. The menu includes spaghetti, salad, bread, dessert and beverage, and costs $4 for adults, $2 for children under 12. Proceeds go to the youth fund for the next national youth gathering, and the dinner is being prepared by the AAL Branch 9783.

TRIBULATION HOUSE

The new and improved Tribulation House will open on the following dates: Oct. 15 from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m.; Oct. 16-17 from 6:30 until 9 p.m.; Oct. 22-23 from 6:30 until 9 p.m.; and on Oct. 24 from 1 until 3 p.m. All of this takes place at the Maple Grove Assembly of God Church, Horse Shoe Run, and persons must call for tickets at (304) 735-5007. Admission is free, but this will assure one's admission.

HAUNTED TRAIL

A Haunted Trail at Cathedral State Park is again being sponsored by the Aurora Pioneer 4-H Club. There will also be a "trick or treat trail" for younger children, this to be at 6:30 p.m. Activities for the older children and adults begin at dark.

DINNER FOR BOLIVIAN MISSION

This Saturday, Oct. 17, a spaghetti dinner will be served at the Pleasant Valley Community Center to benefit the Bolivian mission team's work there. A silent auction will also be held. Dinners are $5 for adults, $3 for children, and those under 2 may eat free.

YOUTH REVIVAL

A series of revival services will be held Oct. 22, 23, and 24 at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren near Eglon, beginning each evening at 7:30 p.m. Craig Howard of Petersburg will be the guest minister, and there will be special music along with other activities, including a lock-in on Friday night. Everyone is welcome; the services are also for adults.

QUILTING

Quilting is being continued at the Union Ambulance squad hall, and help is being sought on Wednesday afternoons at 1 p.m. Evening sessions are available by calling Delores Stemple at 735-5187 to make arrangements.

INDUCTED INTO NHS

Four area students were inducted into the Golden Key National Honor Society on Sunday. They were Carla Fint, Amy Moats, Beth Hauser, and Katie Utterback. All are West Virginia University upperclassmen and the ceremonies were held there.

Carla is the daughter of Carl and Betty Fint, Amy the daughter of Tom and Anita Moats, Beth the daughter of Bill and Sandra Hauser, and Katie the daughter of Ed and Mary Utterback.

FALL FESTIVAL

The Aurora School Fall Festival will be held Friday evening, Oct. 30, from 6:30 until 9 p.m. There will be costume parades, games, food, and door prizes. Students are also selling raffle tickets for meat, lottery tickets, and harvest baskets. The public is welcome.

AURORA PTO

The Aurora PTO met at the school on Oct. 6 to plan its many activities. A fall festival is planned for Oct. 30, and donations of 2 liter soft drinks and/or help are sought. Those who can help are asked to contact Jodi Myers at 735-3410.

There are several copies of Aurora School yearbooks for the years 1994, 1996, 1997, and 1998 available. Persons may purchase one of these by calling the school to assure availability.

"Trick or Treat" night in the Union District communities is set for Saturday evening, Oct. 31, from 5:30 until 7:30 p.m. Those planning to participate are asked to have an outside light turned on.

A day for children to make a Christmas craft for Dad and Mom is being planned. April Dixon, 735-5459, and Sandy Amos, 735-5749, are chairing this effort.

In the planning also is a Celebrity Auction. Those who know a famous person or have a fan club address are asked to contact chairpersons Donna Kemphfer at 735-5817 or Sandy Flesher at 735-5063.

The PTO extends its thanks to the Preston County school maintenance men and to local volunteers who worked on the school playground. It is finally in use. Appreciation is also extended to all who helped or supported the hoagie sale.

The summer reading program is sponsoring a trip to Baltimore on Oct. 15, where participants will visit the National Aquarium at the city's Inner Harbor. They will make the trip by chartered bus under the sponsorship of Faith, Hope, and Charity, Inc.

HOME DESTROYED

The home of Jim and Kathy Stemple, Shannon and Rebecca, and two foster daughters was totally destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon while the family was away. The family is currently staying with relatives but will be in need of everything once they find a place to live. Although the fire was discovered by neighbors, it apparently had already advanced beyond the stage that anything could be done.

CRAFT SALE

A craft sale, sponsored by the Mt. View (Aurora) Rebekah Lodge, is set for Nov. 7. Persons may contact Mary Stemple at 735-5483 or Ressie Conrad at 735-5425 to reserve a table. Cost per table is $10.

UNION AMBULANCE

Another fund-raising effort by members of Union Ambulance will be taking place this weekend, with a traffic stop planned in Aurora on Saturday and Sunday. The public may stop by for cookies, coffee, or punch. Blood pressure checks are also planned, and donations will be accepted. Proceeds will go toward the purchase of a new ambulance.

PERSONAL MENTION

Jessie Winters of Eglon underwent surgery last Wednesday at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and returned Friday to her home.

Stanley J. Harsh of Eglon underwent emergency surgery Wednesday at Garrett Memorial after being transported there by Union Ambulance. He remains a patient at this time, but expects to return home by mid-week.

Jim Jamison of Aurora (Youghiogheny Forest) was taken by ambulance Monday to the Clarksburg VA Hospital where he remains a patient.

The Rev. Don Knotts of New Creek, pastor of the Brookside Church of the Brethren, is a patient at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where he received a liver transplant last Friday.

The body of Mary Sophia (Fike) Ford, 87, was brought Tuesday to Eglon for interment in the Eglon Cemetery. She was a daughter of the late Ai and Elizabeth (Crowe) Fike, and died at the home of her son, Cecil Ford, in Florida.

Relatives in Aurora report that Jim Myers of Floral City, Fla., has been suffering with back pain and had been admitted to the hospital, but has been transferred to a nearby nursing home for further recuperation.

Aaron Merrow recently spent three weeks visiting with his grandmother, Frances Stemple, and his uncle, Bob at their home near Eglon. He returned last week to his home with his father, Walter Merrow, in Ohio.

Ressie Conrad and Mary Stemple attended the West Virginia IOOF and Rebekah Convention held Oct. 7-10 in Morgantown at the Ramada Inn.

Alma and Jackie Snyder of Aurora visited in the Williamsburg, Va., area this past weekend.

Nancy Williams returned to her home in New Raymer, Colo., Saturday after visiting in Aurora with her father, Paul Stemple, for two weeks.

Visiting in the area this week are the children of Mary Fike Ford. John and Gerry Beckman of Kansas visited with his brother, Don Beckman, and sisters Avenell Parsons and Doris Arnold and their families.

Union Educational Complex Raffling Off Four-Wheeler

The Union Educational Complex in Mt. Storm, W.Va., is selling chances on a 1998 Kawasaki 220 Bayou four-wheeler to raise funds for the school's programs.

The prize will be on display at the school's Fall Festival, slated for tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 16, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., and at the Monster Mash, the school's Halloween fest, on Tuesday, Oct. 27. Both events will feature food, games, and a variety of activities for the entire family.

Raffle tickets may be obtained by contacting the school at 304-693-7612, and through UEC staff members and at local businesses. The winning ticket will be announced at the girls' varsity basketball team home game scheduled for Dec. 17.

U.S. Navy Seaman Chris L. Pritt, son of John E. Pritt of Route 1 and Alpha J. Pritt of 307 Mayer Ave., Terra Alta, W.Va., recently graduated from the Basic Enlisted Submarine Course at the Naval Submarine School in Groton, Conn.

During the five-week course, Pritt learned the basic theory, construction, and operation of nuclear-powered submarines. He also learned shipboard organization, damage control, and submarine safety and escape procedures.

Pritt participated in hands-on training with reality simulators, practicing firefighting and flood control on board a submarine. He also learned about a submarine's basic hydraulic, water and air systems, and practiced escaping from a simulated sinking submarine.

With nearly 50 percent of the Navy's ships and submarines deployed at any given time, Pritt will spend roughly a quarter of his first enlistment at sea.

"As a graduate of the Basic Enlisted Submarine Course, Pritt demonstrates his ability to excel in an elite underwater force. Whether assigned to ships, squadrons, or shore commands around the world, men and women like Pritt are making a difference as they work to improve their knowledge and skill as part of the most highly technical naval force in history," stated a Navy spokesperson.

The 1994 graduate of Preston High School of Kingwood joined the Navy in March 1998.

FAST AND FURIOUS was the pace in Friday night's soccer clash between the Southern Rams and the Northern Huskies at the Cove, a match that, on paper, the Rams should have won easily. But the Huskies paid no attention to their record, nor the Rams' winning record, and nearly upset their cross-county visitors. The Huskies took a 1-0 lead before the Rams rallied for a pair of goals and held on to record their sixth win of the season. The loss dropped the Huskies to 0-7-1. In the above photo, Southern goal keeper Jonathan Price comes out to repel a shot by the Huskies. Below, Southern's Derrick Nelson runs away from Northern's Shane Mayle. The Rams will play today at Mt. Savage and the Huskies will be at Calvary Christian Academy in Cresaptown this Saturday.

Rams Get By Pesky Huskies For Sixth Win

Despite being a heavy favorite going into last Friday night's soccer match against winless Northern, the Southern Rams had their hands full with the pesky Huskies, and escaped the Cove with a 2-1 victory. As most area fans know, one cannot pay much attention to records when it comes to Southern-Northern contests, for the Rams had a 5-2-1 mark going into the match, while the young Huskies were 0-7-1.

After a scoreless first half, the Huskies took a 1-0 lead when Josh Neubert scored off an assist by Mike Fletcher about seven minutes into the half.

Dustin Slider evened the score for the Rams when he put the ball in the net unassisted with 26:47 remaining. The deadlock remained until there were just over 10 minutes left in the match when John Andrews scored an unassisted goal to five the Rams their first lead of the match and, ultimately, the victory.

The Rams finished with 18 shots on goal and a 6-4 lead in corner kicks. Jonathan Price had five saves in goal for Southern, while Jimmy Kenner recorded 10 for the Huskies.

"Our kids played a great match," said Northern coach Tom Ables. "This was a team (Southern) that had just beaten Bishop Walsh, and we almost pulled it off."

The Huskies dropped another match to Bishop Walsh on Tuesday, 5-1 (see separate story).

The Rams, ranked third in the area, will play again this afternoon against a tough Mt. Savage team, currently ranked second. They will travel to Westmar on Saturday and then conclude their regular season next Tuesday at Flintstone.

Huskies Fall To Spartans; Will Play Calvary Saturday

Joe Rowan and Dustin Freas each scored a pair of goals against the Northern High School boys' varsity soccer team, as the Bishop Walsh Spartans rolled to a 5-1 victory over the Huskies Tuesday evening in Cumberland. It was the ninth loss in 10 matches (one tie) for Coach Tom Ables' young squad, which had nearly upset the highly rated Southern Rams last Friday.

Eric Perlozzo put the Spartans' first point on the board when he scored off an assist by Rowan less than a minute into Tuesday's match.

The Huskies knotted the score at 1-1 with 27:24 remaining in the first half when B.J. Loyd hit the back of the net unassisted.

Freas responded with his first goal of the evening about five minutes later, unassisted, to give the Spartans (12-2) the lead for good.

BW took control of the match with two more goals in the final four minutes of action in the first half. Rowan struck first off a feed by Freas at the 3:58 mark, and Freas earned his second goal of the day with just 16 seconds remaining before halftime, this time off an assist by Craig Zollner.

Rowan added an insurance goal for the Spartans off an assist by Pete Tam in the first three minutes of the second half, and the rest of the match went scoreless.

The Huskies finished with a 27-11 deficit in shots on goal, and the Spartans also had a 5-1 advantage in corner kicks. Jimmy Kenner had 15 saves for the Huskies, while John Myers had seven and Chris Balch, one, for Bishop Walsh.

Spruce Forest 5K Walk/Run Winners Named

The winners of the third annual Spruce Forest "My Heart's in the Arts" 5K Walk/Run event have been announced. About 70 men and women participated in the race, which was held the last Saturday in September.

Dennis Mickey, Ridgeley, W.Va., took overall honors as the top runner, with a time of 16:43. It was his first to run in this event.

Lynn Bridges, Cumberland, earned honors for the best overall time in the female category, with a time of 21:05. She was also one of the first place finishers in the two previous years' races at Spruce Forest.

In the walking category, the male winners in each age group were as follows: 35-39: Michael Lippold, first (34:27); 40-44: Sam Collins first (29:48), David DeWitt, second (37:49); 50-59: Ed Lipski, first (38:32), Clyde Johnson, second; and over 60: Charles Spicola, first (35:26).

Female winners in the walking category were: 20-24: Joni Miller, first (43:55); 40-44: Linda Smith, first (43:40), Donna McClintock, second (47:40); 50-59 Peggy Leer, first (45:21), Connie Stark, second (47:24), and Mary DeCarlo, third (50:00).

In the running category, male winners were as follows: under 20: Jaron Hawkins, first (19:07), Aaron Leister, second (20:56), Nick Tenanglio, third (21:02); 25-29: Jason Griffith, first (18:40); 30-34: Dave Treber, first (18:22), David Ritchie, second (18:27); 35-39: Chris Sheftie, first (17:10), Tony Yurko, second (17:47), Randy Bible, third (23:34); 40-44: Mark Thorne, first (18:45), Steve Sharrad, second (19:06), John Altobello, third (19:27); 45-49: Dan Dawson, first (19:38), Dennis Fisher, second (20:18), Mike Kozier, third (20:47); and 50-59: Bob Schrock, first (22:04).

WORKING HARD to defeat Bishop Walsh on Tuesday were the members of the Northern High School boys' soccer team, but it was not enough, as the Huskies dropped a 5-1 decision to the 10-2 Spartans. Pictured above are Northern's B.J. Lloyd, left, who scored the Huskies' only goal, and Shane Lloyd, center, who is a freshman on Coach Tom Ables' young squad. Below, Northern's Mike Fletcher prepares to blast the ball upfield. In the background for the Huskies are Josh Neubert and Josh Henderson, team co-captains. Photos by John Neubert.

The female winners in each age group were as follows: under 20: Emily DeRosa, first (28:16); 20-24: Heather Moran, first (27:15), Alana Suckel, second (34:11); 25-29: Mary Jane Baniak, first (26:17), Laura Nickles, second (26:27); 30-34: Paula Bridges, first (22:19); 35-39: Robin Gorrell, first (24:26), Kathryn Robinson, second (27:07); 40-44: Gloria Miller, first (26:12), Diane Ruckert, second (27:32), Patty DeRosa, third (28:18); 45-49: Joyce Michaels, first (24:45), Diane Vermette, second (28:20), Judy Stegmaier, third (30:37); and 50-59 Helen Nickles, first (26:26).

The event to benefit Spruce Forest Artisan Village was sponsored by Road

The need is great this year. In Garrett County, Maryland, needy children will go cold this winter without your help.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is neighbors helping neighbors. The Republican is asking readers to donate to the fund, and the proceeds will be used to buy new winter clothing for needy area children. There are no administrative fees; all the money donated is used to buy warm winter clothing.

How are needy children being identified?

Teachers and counselors in the county school system are helping to identify children who need a boost. The staff at the Department of Social Services is helping, too. In the next few months, the families will be contacted and put on the waiting list for shopping trips.

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

The staff at The Republican will be recruiting volunteers to serve as "shoppers" who will accompany selected children and their parents on shopping trips. The kids will be able to select their own coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, boots, or any other needed winter items. The volunteer search has just started, and any person or civic group interested in helping out is welcome to contact Mary McEwen at the newspaper, 301-334-3963.

How can I help?

Either sign up as a volunteer, or complete the coupon below and send it with a donation to the address on the coupon. (All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.) All donations are tax deductible. Please make your donations before December 15, 1998.

Rams Nip Huskies In Girls' Soccer Re-Match

The second soccer match of the season between the outstanding Southern and Northern girls' teams, held last night at Southern, was almost a mirror image of the first exciting meeting between the two teams a few weeks ago at Northern, at least until midway through the second half when the Rams took a 2-1 lead and held on to win.

The first match between the two teams ended in a 1-1 double-overtime tie, and each walked away with 4-1-1 records, each having lost only to Bishop Walsh. Since then the Rams defeated Bishop Walsh in a rematch. Last night's win upped Southern's overall record to 8-1-1 and their Western Maryland Interscholastic League mark to 8-0-1. The Huskies dipped to 6-2-1 overall and 6-1-1 in the WMIL.

As in the first match, last night's first half went scoreless, and Northern put the first point on the board early in the second half. Kara Kenner fired an unassisted shot into the far left side of the goal past a diving Becky Martin with 37:17 remaining in the match to put the Huskies up 1-0.

Southern knotted the score about 10 minutes later when Charlena Reeves blasted a long, high shot that bounced off the outstretched fingers of Northern keeper Ashley Warnick.

The Rams took the lead less than four minutes later when Gina Reeves fired a hard shot that was knocked down by an outstretched Warnick, but then put in the net by Southern forward Sarah Teets. Warnick was injured on the play and had to be replaced by Emily Rawe.

The Rams finished with a 22-11 advantage in shots on goal, while each team had three corner kicks. Martin was credited with nine saves for Southern. Warnick had four saves in the first half and Rawe earned six in the second half.

The Rams, coached by Nan Gangler and Ron Petrella, assistant, will play again next Tuesday at Beall, while the Huskies, coached by Katie Kane, are slated to play at Fort Hill on Monday.

The grand prize, a handcrafted, heirloom blanket chest donated by Casselwood Furniture, was won by Joni Miller, Grantsville. First and second place winners were awarded plaques hand-carved by Frank and Rachael Gerwig. Each participant also received a 1998 hand-thrown pottery mug by village potter Lynn Lais. The overall winners also received $100 savings bonds donated by 1st Philson Bank and Spruce Forest.

Other doorprizes and refreshments were donated by Burger King; Spruce Forest Artisans' Guild members John Daugherty, Lynn Lais, Ann Jones, Susan Holt, Meriam Brode, Jody Best, Jim and Mary Ann Cummings, and Gary Yoder; and Alta Schrock, Corinn Jordan, Penn Alps Restaurant, and Laura Minnich. Newman Funeral donated the "Nice Folks Finish Last" cash prize, which was won by Mary DeCarlo, Frostburg.

Patrons of the Arts for the event were Woody Getz, Ralph Abelow, Brian Held, Jeff Smith, Judy Stegmaier, and Jay Walbert.

Race day volunteers included Amy and Bill Workman and the Queen City Striders, Corinn Jordan, Susan Anderson, Rachel Bender, Luke Jordan, and Lois Scheffel.

Next year's race is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 25. For information about other village programs, persons may contact Trish Morgan at 301-895-3332.

Filsinger Goal Gets Rams By Winless Wildcats

A goal by Jennifer Filsinger was the only score of the match Monday evening between the Southern and Westmar girls, as the Rams captured their seventh victory in nine matches (with one tie) before hosting the Northern Huskies last night (see separate story). The Rams were a heavy favorite going into the match with the winless Wildcats, and they dominated play throughout, but managed just one goal.

After a scoreless first half, and nearly 15 minutes of scoreless play in the second half, Filsinger finally put the ball into the net for the Rams with 25:38 remaining to give Southern a 7-0-1 mark in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League standings.

Southern out-gunned the Wildcats (0-8 overall, 0-7 WMIL) in shots on goal by a 20-2 margin and finished with a 4-2 edge in corner kicks. Goal keeper Stephanie McDonald had 10 saves for Westmar, and Bonnie Riley recorded one for Southern.

The Rams completed a sweep of the Wildcats for this season, having rolled over them in Oakland last month, 7-1.

The Southern girls' next match will be next Tuesday at Beall.

Northern Girls Earn Big 2-1 Victory Over Allegany

As a warm-up to last night's big county clash with the Southern High Rams, the Northern High girls' soccer team recorded a big 2-1 victory over visiting Allegany on Monday. The win was the sixth for Coach Katie Kane and the Huskies against a single loss and one tie. (See separate story on match with Southern.)

The Huskies won the Western Maryland Interscholastic League match Monday with Alco when Brooke Butler scored a goal off an assist by Trisha Kamp with just 2:18 remaining in the contest. The victory gave the Huskies a 6-0-1 mark in the WMIL standings, while the Campers dropped to 2-6 overall and 2-5 in the WMIL.

Butler also had a roll in the Huskies' first goal of the evening, as she was credited with an assist to Ashley Warnick, who scored the first point about five minutes into the match.

The Campers knotted the score at 1-1 midway throughout the half when Tara Skidmore scored an unassisted goal.

The Huskies finished with a 27-14 advantage in shots on goal, while Allegany had a 7-6 edge in corner kicks. Kara Kenner played in goal for Northern in the first half and finished with three saves, and Warnick earned five saves in the second half. Brooke Payton was credited with 15 saves for the Campers.

The Northern girls will play again Monday at Fort Hill, travel to Bishop Walsh on Tuesday, and host Beall next Thursday to wrap up their regular season.

Thank You

I am a truck driver for American Logistical Properties, whose rig, loaded with newsprint for Sincell Publishing Company, got stuck in some mud just south of Oakland on Monday night. I was awakened Tuesday by Doug's Auto & Truck Repairs personnel (whom I did not call), hooking to my rig to pull me out of the mud. They pulled the rig about 20 feet back onto the pavement. The entire operation took two hours. I was then handed the above bill for $780 (it was originally $300 higher than that). The police were called to make sure I paid the bill before moving the truck. I was told I would be arrested on the spot if I moved my rig without paying this bill. In checking with another local towing firm, I learned that the job should have cost less than half what I was charged.

I just want everyone to know how a visitor to your county was treated by one of your local businesses, and my company has contacted the Attorney General's office to pursue this matter.

Rams Roll To Third Win; Whip Northwest

A punishing, 444-yard rushing attack, led by senior Josh Bosley, coupled with another outstanding defensive effort, led the Southern High School varsity to a 34-6 thrashing of visiting Northwest Friday night, as the Rams evened their season record at 3-3.

It was the second game in a row that the Southern offensive unit turned in an impressive effort, after the Rams had suffered three losses in their first four games and managed to put a total of 18 points on the board. In their last two contests, however, the Southern offense has recorded 786 yards and a total of 68 points, with about half of those figures being earned against a 5-0 Tucker County team.

Southern dominated last Friday night's game with Northwest, a new high school located in Montgomery County, as the Rams scored 20 points in the first half and 34 in three quarters while holding the visitors scoreless until the waning minutes of the game. It was the sixth loss in six starts for Northwest, a team that featured some outstanding athletes, but a lack of experience.

Bosley accounted for 147 yards on 17 carries and three of his team's touchdowns, with his first one coming midway through the first quarter on a 31-yard run. Jason Weaver, who finished the evening with 92 yards on 16 carries, ran for the two-point conversion to give the Rams an 8-0 lead.

2-0	Fumbles-Lost	6-2

Southern added a pair of touchdowns in the second quarter, the first on a four-yard carry by Weaver and the second on a one-yard dive by Bosley. The run and pass for the conversion points failed, leaving the Rams with a 20-0 lead at halftime.

Bosley broke loose on a 58-yard scoring run early in the third period to put the Rams up 26-0, as the run for the conversion again failed.

Scoring Southern's final touchdown of the night was Nick Dolan, who raced 20 yards to paydirt on a scissors play. Jeremy Hayhurst hauled in Justin Liller's pass for the two-point conversion to give the Rams a commanding 34-0 lead with 5:50 remaining in the third period.

Southern coach Tom Woods and his staff took advantage of the lead by giving playing time to their reserves, and it was as a reserve running back that Hayhurst raced for 100 more Southern yards on just nine carries. Dolan matched his average with 60 yards on six totes.

Northeast avoided a shutout when Brian Shaw scored a touchdown on a five-yard carry with just 1:23 remaining in the game. The run for the two-point conversion was stopped short.

THE LEADING RUSHER in Friday night's win by the Southern Rams over visiting Northwest of Montgomery County was senior running back Josh Bosley, who racked up 147 yards and three touchdowns on 17 carries. Bosley is pictured here crashing through the Northwest defense. The victory kept playoff hopes alive for the Rams, who are now 3-3. They will host Bishop Walsh this Friday.

Leading the Ram defense, which allowed only 54 yards rushing, were Ryan Channel with six tackles and two sacks, Billy Stoner with six tackles, and Nathaniel Panther with two interceptions, both of which led to touchdowns.

Shaw, who was Northwest's sophomore quarterback, completed 13 of 28 passes for 124 yards.

"We were concerned that we might have an emotional letdown after our big win the week before over Tucker County," Coach Tom Woods said. "But the kids played a good game. We were well prepared and we executed well."

Woods noted the performance of the Rams' offensive line. "For the third straight week, our offensive line has shown a lot of improvement," he said. "Plus, our secondary has also been playing a lot better. They have seen a lot of passing the past three weeks."

Woods cited the individual members of that offensive line for their efforts: Virgil Moats at the center positions, tackles Billy Stoner and Rob Unger, guards Tommy Diehl and T.J. Riley, and tight ends Jason Rohrbaugh and Josh Teets.

"Another real key player for us, who doesn't get a lot of glory, is Nick Dolan," Woods said. "He does a lot of trapping for the other backs and has been a very important part of our success on offense lately."

One downside this week is that, after having almost no injuries this season, three players will most likely miss this week's game. Billy Stoner, a leader on both offense and defense, is "doubtful" for this week because of a deep bruise in his calf. Back-up tight end/defensive end Steve Edwards will be on the sideline with a shoulder injury, and Jordan Uphold, who plays primarily in the secondary, has a back injury, which he sustained in the weight room this week.

If the Rams have to have some gaps in their line-up, this should be a good week for that problem since their next opponent will be Bishop Walsh, a team that is few in number and struggling to get into the win column. However, Coach Woods is quick to point out that, while the Rams have won the last several meetings with the Spartans, it hasn't been easy.

"Bishop Walsh always seems to bring out the worst in us," Woods said. "We've been the favorite the past several years, but we needed a field goal in the last three minutes to beat them in 1995, in 1996 we won 8-0, and last year we held on for an 8-7 win. So, we've told our players this week that they simply can't pay any attention to records, and they're going to risk being upset if they don't play with the same enthusiasm and concentration as they've had the past couple of weeks."

Bishop Walsh's I-formation, option-oriented offense is led by junior fullback Tony Caporale (6-0, 176), senior quarterback Chris Greise (6-3, 172), junior tailback Matt Greise (6-3, 173), junior center Brian Mitchell (5-11, 177), and senior tackle Marcas Holly (6-4, 196), all of whom are returning starters.

"They run the ball predominantly, but they have also had success passing off the option," Woods said.

The 6-2 BW defense is paced by Caporale and junior John Zinn (5-8, 143) at linebacker spots, senior guard Joe Skelley (5-11, 167), and sophomore guard Robert Clark (5-6, 185).

"They stunt a lot on defense with eight players around the line most of the time," Woods said, "which really gave us a lot of trouble last year. I hope we are better prepared for their defense this year."

Friday's kickoff at the Southern athletic field is set for 7:30 p.m.

Defense Perfect In Huskies' 7-0 Victory Over Turkeyfoot

Once again it was Northern High School's defense that paved the way to victory, as Big Blue stymied Turkeyfoot, 7-0. Sophomore tailback Rob Dozier provided the only touchdown of the contest, and the only highlights for a Huskies' offense that continues to sputter, as the team from Accident boosted its record to 4-2 heading into tomorrow night's homecoming matchup with Berkeley Springs.

"It was a tough win for us," NHS head coach Phil Carr commented after the triumph at Turkeyfoot. "Still, anytime you take on a tough opponent in a hostile environment on the road, especially one of your biggest rivals over the past 25 years, it feels good. Turkeyfoot always takes their game with us as the biggest game of their year.

N - Rob Dozier 2 run (Justin Robinson), 5:20.

"Our defense played great, swarming football, and it seemed like eight or nine of our guys were in on almost every tackle. Ends Nathan Resh and Ryan Savage, both juniors, kept their quarterback contained in the pocket play after play, which was vital to our strategy as it neutralized his proven roll-out threat. The coaching staff is really proud of the defense, and justifiably so; it's been outstanding all year.

"Although Rob Dozier had another great rushing game, with some fine blocking from fullback Ryan Brenneman and the offensive line, especially tackle Ryan Savage and guards Brandon Wilkens and John Carey, we played pretty sloppily on offense overall. The steady rain contributed to three turnovers, but that's no excuse, especially because each turnover cost us an excellent scoring opportunity."

Northern's first turnover came on the opening drive of the game, after the offense had worked its way down to Turkeyfoot's 30-yard line. On fourth down, with two yards to go, the Huskies opted to go for the first down as they were deep in Turkeyfoot's territory but still too far out for a field goal attempt. A nice run by Dozier had the first down clinched, but a fumble at the end of the carry led to a Turkeyfoot recovery on the 23-yard line.

The Huskies gave the ball up again midway through the second quarter as Northern was knocking at the door to the end zone. A botched handoff exchange between Dozier and quarterback Adam Brenneman in the backfield on a first and 10 from the 12-yard line led to another fumble that the Turkeyfoot defense gobbled up.

The clock proved another achilles heel for Carr's troops in the first half, as the offense began a drive on its own 37-yard line that ended on Turkeyfoot's 13-yard line as time ran out.

The third snafu came on Northern's first possession of the second half, after Adam Brenneman had scampered 40 yards on a punt return. Dozier muffed the ball on a carry, and Turkeyfoot recovered the fumble on its own 16-yard line.

59	Total Offense	201

Dozier, who put up some fine numbers by totaling 135 yards for the night on 29 carries, redeemed himself as he scored the game's only touchdown from two yards out with just over five minutes to play in the final quarter. The extra point kick by Justin Robinson was successful, making the score 7-0.

Northern's defense then went to work to secure the victory. "We forced Turkeyfoot to punt with 3:30 remaining," Carr recalled, "but we had to punt it away ourselves with 1:12 left. On their first play they threw a 42-yard bomb to put the ball on our 8-yard line with 55 seconds to go.

"The defense held on the next three plays, including a quarterback sack, and on fourth and goal our pressure forced their second-string quarterback, who had replaced their injured starter, to roll out. He was in our guys' grasp and going down when he unloaded, and linebacker Robinson made a great heads-up play to pick off the pass at the goal line to clinch the win."

"The final series was an example of our defense's work all night long," said Carr. "We only gave up four first downs all night long, one by rushing and three via the air; and while the offense still didn't produce the points that we know it can, it still kept the ball out of Turkeyfoot's hands. They were only able to mount 11 plays from scrimmage in the first half, while we were able to get off 29 offensive

Runnin' Rams Run By Preston In Home Finale

The boys' and girls' cross country teams were both victorious in a home meet yesterday against Preston, as the girls recorded 19 team points to crush the visiting Knights with 40 points, and the Southern boys out-raced Preston by a 23-32 score.

Amy Snyder, Beth Sauder, and Erin Hoalcraft finished one, two, three, respectively, with times of 21:32, 21:53, and 22:11 to lead the Southern girls, while Katelyn McBee and Angie Sincell placed sixth and eighth, and Katie Moomau and Faryn Shaffer were ninth and 10th. Joanie Chambers and Kristen Nestor were Preston's top runners, finishing fourth and fifth, respectively, while Amber Helms finished eighth.

Placing first and second with respective times of 17:11 and 17:16 in the boys' race were Southern's Casey McBee and Beau Gibson, while Rusty Strubin and Ted Wolf finished fifth and sixth and Dan Shafer placed ninth. Preston was led by Jesse Messenger and Matt Livengood in third and fourth places. Aaron Miller and Tyler White were seventh and eighth for the Knights, and Steve Zaremba rounded out the top 10.

There was no junior varsity race.

The Runnin' Rams will compete again this Saturday in the first Western Maryland Cross Country Championships, to be held at Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland. Southern will be one of 10 schools from the four western-most counties in the state participating. The varsity girls meet will begin at 2:15 p.m. and the varsity boys will compete at approximately 2:45.

Huskies' Netters Fall To Hyndman Then Drop Oldtown, Mt. Savage

Northern High School's volleyball team opened the week by dropping a close contest at Hyndman this past Thursday, then roared back on its home court to down Oldtown and Mt. Savage. The action gives the Huskies a 7-3 record going into this week's play.

Hyndman's win came as the hosts took the opener 15-10, lost the second to the Huskies 15-11, and then came back to down the visitors in the finale 15-6. Tessa Emerick's 10 service points and five kills led Hyndman to victory. The Hyndman junior varsity took its contest as well, two games to one. No Northern statistics were available for the night's action.

Heidi Frazee's match-high 11 service points led the Huskies to a three-game sweep of Oldtown Monday, 15-2, 15-4, and 15-8. Frazee added four aces and two kills for the night, Melissa McKeever tallied 10 points and four aces, and Oldtown's Danielle Lewis totaled six points.

The Huskies jayvee squad made it a perfect night by sweeping the opposition 15-12, 15-10. Northern's Kelly Carr and Oldtown's Chrissy Atkinson each tallied six points from the service line to lead their teams.

Rebecca Hinebaugh and Mimi Harvey stepped up to take the reins in the Huskies' 3-1 victory over Mt. Savage last night. Hinebaugh had 12 service points for the night and Harvey added 11, as Northern lost the first game 15-5, then roared back to take the next three 18-16, 15-10, and 15-8.

Frazee had a total of six kills while Hinebaugh and Andrea McRobie added three kills each. Kristi O'Neal and Mary Beth Kennell led the Indians with 11 service points apiece.

Northern's junior varsity took its contest as well by scores of 15-6 and 15-9. Malia Collins had seven points and three kills, and Bridget Frazee had four kills for the Huskies. The Indians were led by Katie Murray's seven points.

Northern's schedule lists upcoming home matches with Allegany on Monday night and Preston on Tuesday night, and a road trip to Flintstone on Wednesday night. J.V. games begin at 6 p.m., followed by the varsity contests at 7 p.m.

Huskies' J.V. Breaks Ice With First Win, 8-0

The defense of Northern High School's junior varsity football team held on until the offense put a touchdown on the board late in the final quarter, and its efforts were rewarded with the team's first win, 8-0 over Westmar.

Brian "Bull" Lenhart and Anthony Coddington led the Huskies' outstanding defensive effort with four and three sacks, respectively, and their teammates' hard hitting and gang-tackling complemented those efforts. The only touchdown of the game came with five minutes to play when Matt Layman carried the ball in from nine yards out. He followed up the TD with a two-point conversion run that made the score 8-0.

After tasting victory for the first time, the Huskies go for number two on Monday, Oct. 26, at Bishop Walsh.

Vikings Earn Youth Football League Title

The Parsons Vikings wrapped up a perfect season in the Oakland Youth Football League by defeating the Oakland Raiders, 28-8, in Sunday's NFL Division, league championship game. The Vikings also concluded the regular season without a loss.

Final games in the NCAA Division (flag football) on Saturday saw the Gregg's Pharmacy Mountaineers also complete a perfect 10-0 season with a final 54-25 victory over the First United Buckeyes. The Rinker Construction Nittany Lions topped the Team One Terps, 66-45, and the F.O.P. Fighting Irish stopped the Gonder Insurance Tigers, 61-44.

Final standings in the NCAA Division were: Mountaineers, 10-0; Irish, 7-3; Tigers, 6-4; Lions, 5-5; and Terps and Buckeyes, 1-9.

SENIOR OLYMPIANS - These two Garrett County athletes were among the 2,000 competitors at the 19th annual Maryland Senior Olympics, held on the Towson University Campus in Towson recently, and both brought home the gold. Accident's Earl Wentz, left, took the gold medal in the track competition categories of the 100 meter and 200 meter sprints in the 80-84 age group. Oakland's Mary Sutcliffe, right, earned several medals in swimming in the 70-74 age group: a gold for the 50-yard back-stroke, a silver for the 100-yard backstroke, a pair of bronze medals for the 50-yard freestyle and the 200-yard backstroke. Wentz and Sutcliffe both qualified for the National Senior Olympics, which will be held in Florida next year. Not pictured is Accident's Dick Good, who took a bronze medal in the 5,000 meter run and finished fourth in the 1,500 meter race/walk, competing in the 65-69 age group. Plans are being made for this winter's first Winter Senior Olympics, which will include downhill and cross-country skiing, and may be held at the Wisp.

BUSY YEAR OF CHEERS COMING TO CLOSE - The Northern youth and pee-wee cheerleaders will conclude a busy season this Sunday, Oct. 18, at 4 p.m., by traveling to Fort Hill High School in Cumberland, where they will perform a 3 1/2 minute routine as part of a multi-team cheerleading exhibition. The squad, composed of children from 6 to 12 years old, began practicing in late July and have been hard at work throughout the past two months performing for the Northern Maddawg football games. The "A" squad, ages 10-12, is pictured from the left, Kathleen Seeman, advisor/coach, and cheerleaders Maranda Funk, co-captain Rebecca Stark, Julie Holloway, Jessica Gibson, Kirsten Meyr, and co-captain Tiffany Doerr. Photos of the "B" and "C" squads will appear in next week's sports pages.

Northern's Golfers Finish Season With Near-Perfect 29-1-1 Record

Revenge came for Northern High School's golf team during the Garrett County High School Golf Championship yesterday at the Wisp, as the Huskies defeated the Rams 194-205. That win, combined with a 23-stroke victory over Westmar on Monday, gave the NHS duffers a 29-1-1 record as the regular season concluded, and a 44-5-1 record in overall regional play. Southern had handed Northern its only loss by a single stroke earlier in the season.

The Huskies' Matt Settle shot a low-medalist 43 against Westmar to lead NHS to a 191-214 victory at the Wisp Monday. He was aided by 47s from Ryan Butler and Ian Durney, and a 54 by John Leger. Westmar was led by Blair Bennett's 49 and Matt Snyder's 57. Jeremy Stafford and Adrienne Everline rounded out the Wildcat card with a 59 each.

In windy conditions at the Wisp yesterday, Northern's A.J. Thomas and Ryan Butler each shot a 47, Greg Speicher shot a 49, and Rob Taylor added a 51 in the Huskies' win. Southern's Kane Wengerd took low-medalist honors with a 40, Brian Roderick shot a 50, Justin Stephens carted a 53, and Justin DiSimone a 62.

The Huskies' Thomas and the Rams' Wengerd will represent Garrett County in the Maryland State Championship Golf Tournament, scheduled for Monday, Oct. 19, at the University of Maryland in College Park.

GCC Volleyball Team Drops Pair

A triangular home match left the Garrett Community College volleyball team licking its wounds Monday night, as the Lakers fell to Hagerstown in three straight, then took one from CCAC-South, before dropping the next two. Garrett's record stands at 14-8 overall and 4-3 in conference play.

The JUCO matchup with Hagerstown ended with the visitors downing the Lakers 15-9, 15-10, and 15-3. Mindy McCarty led GCC with an eight for nine performance on serves, tallying three points and one ace, and converting 19 of 21 attacks with eight kills.

Sindy Niner was 14 for 17 on the attack with six kills, Andrea Barrick 16 for 21 with seven kills, and Keri Sines 10 for 10 serving with four points.

GCC took the opener from CCAC-South 15-9, but dropped the next two 15-5 and 15-9.

Niner was 12 for 15 in serves with eight points and four aces, and Sines went 15 for 16 with eight points and three aces. McCarty was 12 for 17 on the attack with five kills and five service points, and Melissa Yutzy had four points, one ace, and went seven for nine on the attack with four kills. Erica McBride was 13 for 17 on the attack with a team-high seven kills, and Barrick was 11 for 15 with four kills.

Reports indicated that the Lakers were scheduled to play at Allegany College in Cumberland last night, but no results were available.

Showing Improvement, Rams' Netters Down Aggies, Lose To Indians, 'Cats

Pieces of the puzzle may be slowly coming together for the Southern High School volleyball team, which downed Flintstone 3-1 to open the week, before losing a hard fought match with one of the top teams in the area, Mt. Savage, by a 3-1 score, followed by a 3-0 loss to Westmar.

Flintstone won the first game in this past Thursday's matchup, 15-7, but the Rams came back to take the victory with three straight wins by scores of 15-13, 14-1, and 15-10.

Jennifer Teagarden served for 19 points and also had a team-high 12 assists, Jessica Saturday added nine kills, and Brittany Slider was perfect from the serving line and added two kills.

Flintstone's J.V. took its match 15-10, 15-12. Marcie Beachy had eight points for the Rams.

The Southern varsity got off on the right foot by downing Mt. Savage 15-13 in Monday's opener, but dropped the next three 15-2, 15-8, and 15-12.

Teagarden led the Rams with nine points and nine assists, Erica Wilt scored nine points, and Saturday tallied 11 kills. The hosts were led by an outstanding performance by Mary Beth Kennell, who turned in 26 kills, six blocks, and a fine defensive game.

The Rams' junior varsity fell in its opener, 15-12, blanked the Indians in the second game 15-0, but fell in the finale 15-4. Aimee Parrack tallied 11 points for Southern.

Last night at SHS, the Rams were swept by Westmar 15-10, 15-0, and 15-3.

Four blocks and a pair of kills by Saturday led Southern, while Keri Niner added four points and Laura Johnson totaled three kills.

Southern's jayvee squad blasted the Wildcats by scores of 15-1 and 15-10, behind Misty Sereno's nine points and Heather Boyce's seven points.

The week ahead will take the Rams to Fort Hill on Wednesday. Junior varsity play gets under way at 6 p.m., followed by the varsity contest at 7 p.m.

plays. It makes it hard for your opponent to win if he can't get the ball."

Looking ahead to tomorrow night's contest, Carr commented "We can't be fooled by Berkeley Spring's 1-5 record; it doesn't indicate how good they really are. Larry Shoemaker, their new head coach, took his old school to the playoff several times, and he's instituting a new scheme there that's taking his players some time to learn. They've played a really tough schedule, and their last couple of losses have been real close, so it looks like they're starting to get it together.

"They run a wing-T on offense, which we've seen for the past three straight games. That's going to help our defense, which as usual gives up some size; we'll just have to be quicker and more aggressive than their offense. Other than experienced senior quarterback Brad Close, who's a good passer and runner, Berkeley Springs relies on their great tailback Davey Cove. He's got excellent speed, and can run with power. We have to key on him, keep him between the ends, and get the gang-tackling going.

"Our team, and our whole school, is really looking forward to this one," Carr said. "The introductions of the senior football players and senior cheerleaders will begin at 7:10 p.m., and kickoff is at 7:30. Our kids are looking forward to homecoming, and playing before a big crowd of our supporters will get the emotional level way up. We're hoping for a big win for our players and our fans."

Muzzleloader Deer Season To Open October 22

The early segment of Maryland's muzzleloader deer season will open this year on Oct. 22 and close Oct. 24, with increased white-tailed deer bag limits in portions of Maryland.

"Muzzleloader bag limits have been modified to allow hunters to take more antlerless deer in sections of the state with growing, or stable but high, deer populations," Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin said.

Last year 5,725 deer were taken during Maryland's three-day muzzleloader season, a 38 percent increase above the previous season. The top five counties were: Washington (476), Garrett (439), Fred-

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

Bill Weisel of Greensburg, Pa., recently landed a Northern Pike out of Deep Creek Lake that measured just a half inch shy of 42 inches and weighed over 17 pounds. That's quite a trophy. Hats off to Bill. Northerns of this size are hard to find, tougher to hook, and even tougher to bring to net.

However, Deep Creek harbors another monster breed of fish that goes pretty much ignored. That fish is the often maligned carp. Anyone who has watched breeding carp wallow in the shallows behind Holy Cross Camp or Back Bay knows well that these are sizable denizens. Yet, other than a few bow fishermen, hardly anyone pursues them.

Are we missing something here? Maybe. In many parts of the world carp are recognized as game fare. I personally hooked a carp on a fly rod while fishing for trout and thought that I was into a world record. I must admit that I was disappointed when I saw my prize, but certainly had a tussle that was quite a thrill.

Day Of Hope Tourney Results Are Announced

Drizzle and cold temperatures did not prevent a large field of area golfers from participating in the second annual Day of Hope Golf Tournament at the Wisp Resort in McHenry last Friday, an event which featured former NFL football star Rosey Grier as its honorary chairman. Proceeds from the tourney are used for research and treatment of prostate cancer, with some of the funds going to Johns Hopkins Medical Institute for research and some to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for local screening programs.

The format for the tournament utilized a six-player team, including five amateurs and one professional, playing an 18-hole captain's choice scramble, with the professional playing his/her own ball. The top seven professionals received cash awards, and the prizes were presented to the members of the first-place gross-score team and top five net-score

Donations Sought For Local Woman Ill With Cancer

Oakland resident Frances Dunbar, pictured above with her husband Tom, is the object of several community-wide fund-raisers to help her family deal with mounting medical bills stemming from her cancer treatment, especially a bone marrow transplant procedure that her insurance plan has refused to cover.

Dunbar, 54 years old and the mother of six and grandmother of nine (with another grandchild on the way) has been living with an aggressive form of breast cancer for the past four years. Surgeries, radiation and chemotherapy treatments, and most recently a bone marrow transplant have been utilized in treating her illness.

Dunbar's bone marrow transplant procedure, which was performed in August, has left the family deep in debt. While her husband's health insurance plan through his workplace, Garrett Memorial Hospital, is paying for 90 percent of the procedure's cost, the Dunbars have been saddled with the remaining 10 percent, which amounts to approximately $40,000.

"We were hoping Frances's Medicare coverage would pay a portion of the remaining outstanding balance," Tom Dunbar said, "but Medicare tells us they won't pay anything at all because they categorize Frances's bone marrow transplant as 'experimental research.' Medicare has been taking, and still takes, money from her checks, which makes it seem a little unfair; yet we have to deal with things like this the best we can."

Led by the Dunbars' friends, neighbors, fellow parishioners at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland, and several community organizations, a county-wide volunteer effort has sprung up to assist the family in paying their medical bills.

Several fund-raising activities have already taken place, and additional ones are planned. Among the coming events are a car wash at Oakland's Markwood Citgo, located on Garrett Highway, slated for this Saturday, Oct. 17, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., and a luncheon set for Friday, Oct. 23, at St. Paul's Church fellowship hall. Luncheon tickets are $3.50 each, and will be available at the door or through advance purchase by calling the church at 301-334-2391 or Robin Shepherd at 301-334-9418. The luncheon menu includes soup, salad, a beverage, and dessert.

For persons interested in making a donation but who are unable to participate in these and other fund-raising activities for the Dunbars, an account in the name of the Frances Dunbar Cancer Fund has been set up at First United Bank. Donations may be made in person at the bank and at St. Paul's Church, and may also be mailed to St. Paul's Church at 316 East Oak St., Oakland, MD 21550.

"We'd like to thank everyone who has helped us over the past few years," Tom Dunbar said. "Lots of people have brought food to us, and have shared their time and prayers. We can't put into words how to thank our neighbors, and the entire community, enough."

Frances Dunbar is known to a number of local residents through her 17 years of employment at Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home, followed by seven years at the Bausch & Lomb plant until it closed in 1996.

This feature story was written by a former Garrett Countian, Barbara Ream Newman, who for a year was the lone teacher in a tiny Montana schoolhouse. Her husband was away with the military most of the time, and her cat, Garland Muffins Honey Baby Newman, was her main companion. Barbara is a 1983 graduate of Southern High School, and is the daughter of William and Betty Ream, Swanton. This story was first published in the January 1998 Ka Leo, a publication of the Officers' Spouses' Club at the Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

Barbie On The Prairie —

Adventures Of A Montana Schoolhouse Teacher

by Barbara Newman

Have you ever heard statements such as: "When I was in the fourth grade, I walked two miles to school when the snowdrifts were four feet deep"? People who make such claims may have attended a one- or two-room rural school. I once thought such educational environments died out years ago, but rural districts are not merely history; they are present day reality. Maybe you watched the television shows "Little House on the Prairie" or "Christie." I experienced elements of both in 1994-1995, when I taught grades one through eight at Trail Creek School in Ismay, Montana.

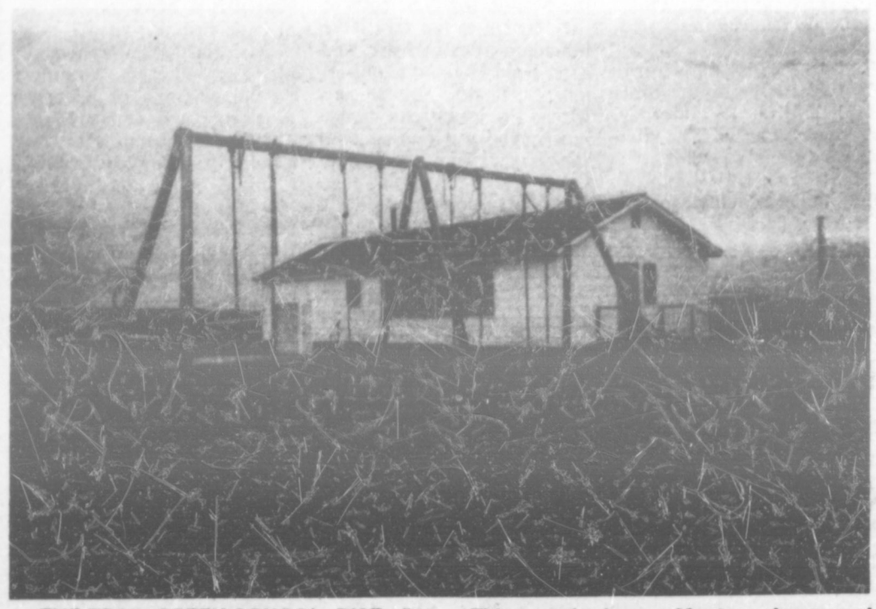
I never actually saw any such place as Ismay. It mostly likely consisted of a building surrounded by nothing, with a sign reading "Post Office." Friends refer to my adventure as Little Schoolhouse on the Prairie. For you teachers out there who desire your own TDYs, I guarantee you will never forget it if you accept the challenge to educate under such conditions.

I lived in the two-room quarters located within the school, and I shared a bathroom with all of the female students. Because the classroom separated my living area and the bathroom, I always wondered what an ill teacher did if he or she were sick and had to race through the room while a substitute taught. Thankfully, I never had to discover that for myself.

I refrained from drinking water from the tap at the single sink everyone shared neared the entrance. The water smelled like sulfur and looked dirty. Despite the school board's insistence that the fourth water sample had finally passed drinkability tests, I purchased the bottled stuff.

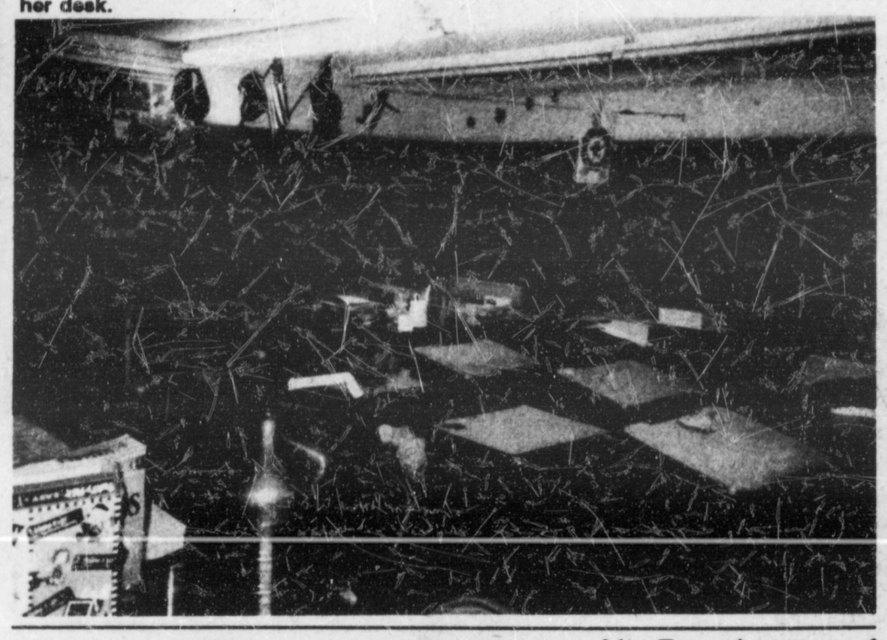
Depleting my water supply meant an hour trip to the small town of Miles City, of which about 35 miles of the 50 included unpaved roadway. Every time I went to town, I carted 10 or so milk jugs full of crystal clear water. My worst fear on the dirt roads was giving some rancher's bull a Chevy emblem tattoo, because they roamed the unfenced pastureland and ran across the road when you least expected it. Try a flat tire, too, when you're 20 miles from nowhere on the road less traveled, the temperature is 45° below, and you happened to be foolish enough to wear a skirt that day. My closest neighborhood rancher rescued me from that one.

THE WRITER, BARBARA NEWMAN, is pictured here with her husband Matt. He was away for most of the year she spent in Ismay, where she learned the art of enjoying the smallest of pleasures, such as getting the mail (which came only weekly) or taking in the amazing scenery spread out in all directions.



THE TRAIL CREEK SCHOOL, DIST. #13 — This was the Ismay, Montana, home and workplace of county native Barbara Newman, who spent a year teaching school and learning about a vastly different way of life for some Americans. Her tiny apartment was in the building, and she shared a bathroom with her female students. Shown below is the classroom section of the building, where Barbara instructed kids from first through eighth grades. Her cat Garland is also in the photo, taking his spot on her desk.

MEET "GARLAND MUFFINS HONEY BABY NEWMAN" — Barbara's sole companion for her year-long adventure was her beloved cat Garland, shown here as he assists in grading papers. His presence was invaluable for Barbara, who strived to manage her loneliness out on the Montana prairie.



The whole area reminded me of some old western in which you might observe Indians running after buffalo, or cowboys shooting it out. In the fall, outside the fenced-in schoolyard, a hundred huge, round hay bales glowed in the sun, contrasting with the colorful leaves on the trees that bordered the locally popular Powder River. Rolling pasturelands blended into picturesque badland-like spires, displaying various hues during the setting of the sun.

Mail time was a highlight because it only occurred once a week. Sometimes I delayed retrieving it until near sunset or moonrise to enjoy the scenery of the quarter-mile walk to the mailbox. I felt isolated and alone once in a while. Mail was a treat. During some of those walks, I longingly looked at the empty grass landing strip, wishing Matt, my husband, were landing. But the students' arrival each day motivated me to welcome solitude an integral component of the adventure. I matured to welcome those emotions as a break.

Students anticipated mail arrival, too. Early on, they informed me about their tradition of occasionally retrieving mail as a school outing. The simplicity there — the joy people found in things we so often take for granted — was refreshing. Students discussed the humor in all the mail showing my name followed by different job titles: Trustee, Chairman of the School Board, Principal, Food Service Manager, Cook, Cafeteria Attendant, Custodian, Boiler Engineer, PE teacher . . . I think you get the picture.

As my additional duty, I served as laundress. The district provided the smallest washer known to man, but I lacked a dryer and space for one. Some fine cord strung across the classroom served two roles — makeshift bulletin board to display the students' work, and clothesline. Weekends were the only time I had to do the wash. On Monday mornings, I might be taking down my underwear 10 minutes prior to the pupils' arrival. I hung laundry on a portable line outside when the weather permitted.

One Saturday I endeavored to get everything clean with the exception of the long-sleeved shirt I was wearing. As I stood on my tiptoes, reaching up for the line outside, I heard a deep voice say, "Gettin' some sun?" I am positive that more turned red than my face! I slinked inside, thankful that my back was turned to the guys on horseback, who just happened to be one of the parents, and an eighth grader. I learned a lesson that regardless of the appearance of isolation, I should never count on being totally alone out there again.

The wildlife provided excellent companionship, but sometimes startled me. A herd of horses once surrounded me and chewed off the long fringe on my leather coat. Deer and antelope played inside the school yard. Prairie chickens raced up and down the road entertaining my most faithful companion — my cat. Garland Muffins Honey Baby Newman.

I was somewhat of a loner, except in the company of a privileged few. That November, Garland abandoned his bashfulness long enough to emerge from the kitchen each morning, as if on cue, to honor the National Anthem. He rubbed against the legs of most of the pupils, then departed the classroom at the conclusion of the song, never visible for the remainder of the day.

I recall returning with Garland from Christmas vacation around 1 a.m., following a five-hour drive from the airport. Since it was pitch black, I kept my headlights on to give me some light while I opened the garage door. As I exited the car with Garland inside his carrier, an owl, who had been perched on a nearby fencepost, saw a meal opportunity. Darting into the light, it swooped down on us, trying to catch me off guard. Instinctively, I threw up my arm. My cherished kitty was not going to be its free dinner. I don't know which scared that owl more — my arm or my screaming — but it aborted its mission. I suppose you cat fans can relate to the defense instinct, even if you are not the mother to humans. Garland taught me much about myself and others.

My Montana memories contain numerous facets, much of which I have difficulty expressing — especially involving people. I experience no such problem relating stories about animals or scenery. Most folks there demonstrated a down-to-earth friendly mentality, but because they belong to humanity, they can be threatened by outsiders. In some instances, I may have violated the Star Trek prime directive — impacting their way of life in an intrusive manner. Yet other times, I am certain, I became a convert to their way of life. Garland got me through that year. Or maybe, God just used him as His instrument.

Sadly, in the U.S., there are significant numbers of huge carp, but they are broadly regarded as pests. However, all of this may be changing as anglers recognize the sporting qualities of the carp. It is inevitable that this trend will be seen on our area lakes shortly.

For those interested in carping, there are various techniques that should prove productive. The most common method is to fish on the bottom with a doughball type of bait. Carp feed on just about anything they can find and they commonly feed on the bottom. But, carp can be taken by floating a bait on the surface as well. Bread or pet food can be used if the angler can devise a way to keep the bait on the hook. One method to be tried is pet food super glued to the hook. Bait presented in this manner can last as long as 30 minutes before it has to be replaced. Small fish are a plague to fishermen using bread or doughball as they will peck at the bait until it is gone. Pet food is probably the best of the lot. Just be sure it floats. Carp are a wary fish, so stealth is important in the presentation. Casting repeatedly to the same area is apt to spook the fish, so it is best to place the bait and leave it there. As for tackle, the best bet is a long rod that is flexible and will give with the surge of a big fish. This enables the fishermen to use the light line necessary to fool the carp. There is a wealth of information on carp fishing available on the Internet. Type "carp fishing" into any of the major search engines. Maybe we'll have enough interest locally for someone to sponsor a carp fishing tournament here. If anyone has had any experiences with carp on local waters, we would be interested in hearing about them and would like to pass them along.

TROUT FISHING HANGING IN

Even though hunting is the outdoor sport of the day, trout fishing in local rivers continues to be good. On the North Branch, fly-fishermen have been taking nice trout during the day on various stonefly patterns and on caddis and terrestrials later in the day. The Savage River has been producing on Caddis, Blue Wing Olives, and terrestrials. The Yough has fished best with Caddis and terrestrial patterns.

NOW IS THE TIME FOR MEMORABLE OUTDOOR PHOTOS

The autumn season in Garrett County is optimum for getting memorable outdoor photos. Opportunities range from wildlife in the backdrop of colorful leaves to anglers working the shoreline on a misty morning. Some of the most interesting photos will be made on days when the weather appears to be the worst. Don't miss a good rainy day afield. Experiment a bit. Even try some black and white film.

HUNTING SEASON FOR MUSHROOMS

Hunters on their way to a deer stand or rabbit patch also have the opportunity to look for edible mushrooms to garnish a steak, whether it be venison or store-bought. Some edible species easy to spot are puffballs, sulfur shelfs, and oyster mushrooms. Puffballs are white globes that range from one inch to a foot in diameter. They should be inspected by slicing from top to bottom. The inside should be white and featureless. If there are any signs of a developing mushroom inside, the mushroom is not a puffball. Indeed, it might be a poisonous Amanita.

Sulfur shelf mushrooms grow on trees or dead wood. They have orange sides which can easily be spotted. Underneath they are pale yellow or white. Oyster mushrooms look like oyster shells. They are found in large clusters on trees or fallen logs. The caps are tan or ivory and very soft. There are many tasty mushrooms to be found while afield. However, anyone contemplating using them should be aware of the risks. Never eat a wild mushroom unless you are absolutely sure of its identity. To learn more about them, consider joining a mushroom aficionado group. Contact the North American Mycological Association at 304-744-1654 or www.namyco.org.

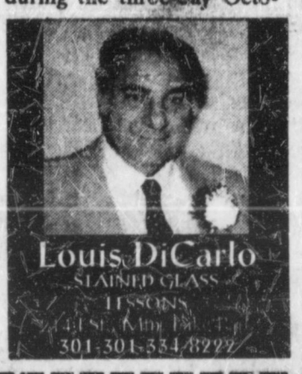
erick (378), Allegany (375), and Kent (343). One in five of Maryland's muzzleloader hunters harvested a deer during the three-day October hunt.



Maryland now has four deer management regions. Deer taken in one region will not count against the bag limit for the other three regions. Descriptions of the deer management regions can be found in Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1998-99.

In Region A, muzzleloader deer hunters may take one antlered white-tailed deer. In Region B, muzzleloader deer hunters may take one antlered or antlerless white-tailed deer. Bonus deer stamps are not valid in Region A and Region B during this three-day segment of the muzzleloader deer season.

Independent bag limits in Region C and Region D allow muzzleloader hunters to take one antlered or antlerless white-tailed deer. After purchasing a bonus deer stamp ($5 for Maryland residents, $25 for non-residents), muzzleloader hunters may take a second white-tailed deer. This deer must be antlerless if the first deer taken with a muzzleloader was antlered. The second deer may be antlered or antlerless if the first deer taken with a muzzleloader was antlerless.

Telescopic sights are legal for muzzleloader deer hunting in Deer Management Regions B, C, and D. Telescopic sights are not permitted for muzzleloader deer hunting in Deer Management Region A (Allegany, Garrett, Washington — Zone 2 counties).

For additional information on Maryland's deer hunting seasons, hunters should consult pages 29-44 of the publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1998-99. This publication is available from all DNR sport license agents and DNR regional service centers.

For additional information regarding DNR public hunting opportunities, local residents may contact the DNR Wildlife and Heritage Division office at Mt. Nebo WMA, 301-334-4255.

front of preparing Marylanders for good jobs in the next century," Governor Glendening said. "With Advanced Technology Centers serving every county, Maryland has a powerful advantage in economic development, one that the business community has welcomed enthusiastically."

The FY 1999 grant for the Advanced Technology Center for Agriculture and Business Development, a consortium led by Carroll Community College, amounts to $253,000. Drawing on the resources of seven colleges, the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Studies and the Greater Baltimore ATC, this ATC is focused entirely on agriculture, seeking export markets for local agricultural products, finding alternative products for niche markets, and applying technology to farm management.

It's been one year since Jesus took you to cradle in His arms. He loaned you to us for such a short time to love and hold near.

Our minds can't conceive the beauty of Heaven, but we find comfort knowing you have no sickness or pain.

We know not why things happen; we only know God's love is true. We hold your precious memory deep in our hearts.

Watch over us, little angel, until we are all together some day.

Notes from Bittinger

by Joan Sussman

Recent guests of Lea Stanton at her home were friends from her college, Jill Speicher, Amy Rowan, and Brook Collins, and other former high school college friends, Brooke Brenneman, Noelle Collins, and Michelle Geis.

Cindy Stanton accompanied Lea's Allegany College volleyball team to Catonsville Community College for a tri-match. Unfortunately, the AC team was successful in winning only one of the seven matches played.

Robbie Glotfelty and Torrey Poholsky were among those attending the autograph signing of Rosie Grier on Thursday in Oakland.

Sally Poholsky was a recent luncheon guest of Lori Gallagher, Friendsville. Lori and her three sons have located here from Deale.

Rodney and Marci Glotfelty and family spent the weekend at Chincoteague Island in Virginia.

Shirley Johnson, Cumberland, visited Ruth DiPaolo on Saturday, and they attended the Autumn Glory Parade in Oakland, followed by a delicious turkey dinner.

Lea Stanton and Leslie Buckel participated in the girls' volleyball alumnae game at Northern on Saturday night.

Bill Southerly attended a hi-tech teaching conference in psychology at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va., several days last week.

Michelle Geis, Blacksburg, Va., spent the weekend with her family.

Joe Resh has returned to his home following an extensive stay in Sacred Heart Hospital. He is being cared for by his wife and family and friends.

MY COMMENTS

I was recently in Oakland a few times, and it looked to me like it is a somewhat weak year for the autumn colors. On the other hand, here in Bittinger, the trees are in full glory. My view of Meadow Mountain behind our farm is all colors of gold, orange, scarlet, with dark green to provide a nice accent. I tried many times to capture the fall scene with paint, and it is very hard and maybe just impossible for us mortals. But I finished a picture today which I think is at least 95% successful, in spite of my pal and physical therapist's advice to "rest your arm." I have an inflamed tendon in my right forearm. He even specifically forbids painting. I can't do it! Even writing the news hurts. But duty calls and I need to do this column.

More about the fall foliage here in Bittinger: You should just see Brenneman's Grove. It is in a blaze of gold. Sunday afternoon my three girls joined Ann McLister and her family for a hike. Following the hike they took a trip to Deep Creek Lake to Lakeside Creamery for the No-Hands Ice Cream Eating Contest. Bittinger could field some strong teams for the contests. Cute and sweet little girls like Coleen and Natalie McLister, the Sussman girls, and little Emma Bass did their best, and Emma came out a winner in one of the three classes for elementary school kids. A surprise upset of defending champion in the Open Class was our beloved friend, Jerry Herpel, who was defeated! I am sure if he trains hard, he will come back strong next year.

Last week during the halftime of a soccer game between Southern and Northern girls, the Railey Rental Stingers, including Torrey, Brent, and Claire, played against the Hornets. The Stingers finally won the game. During the big girls' game, Claire and Kerri McKeever kept warm by trying a little duty as ball girls. They had to chase down out-of-bound balls and bring them back into play. They were pretty worn out by all the running. Meredith and Caitlin assisted them. It was a good thing they did it because it kept them active and warm on a wet and cold evening. I remember those scenes from my years of playing in the Northern High School Band at October football games.

"You're more independent than a pig on ice," as my friend Peg Janney from Friendsville told me. That is just what we should have told Ralph Buckel before he climbed the ladder last Tuesday to do some roof work that just had to be taken care of immediately. Unfortunately the ladder did not keep still, like a good ladder is supposed to do.

Ralph, who just turned 88 the day before, crashed down on the paved driveway as the ladder slipped. Ethel heard the ladder fall and immediately rushed out and found him very much disabled. The rescue squad arrived and took him to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he underwent a hip replacement for his broken hip. His right wrist was broken and also his pelvis. His arm and hand are in a cast and the cracked pelvis will just have to heal on its own. Nice birthday present, huh! He will remain a patient in the hospital for a few more weeks, taking physical therapy. He is already up and out of bed and has walked a bit.

Fortunately, Ethel will not be too lonely at home, as son Jim from North Carolina arrived on Wednesday night and son Ralph Jr. and wife Sarah made it home to see their dad on Saturday. Daughter Judy from Arkansas has also come home to check on her dad and mother. Of course, it was more than a good excuse to come home to see the peak autumn colors.

This is the first year that my husband Lloyd and I agree on when the leaves are at their peak. It also means to me that it is soon time that the soccer season is over.

Last weekend, my family saw an exciting sight, as a hot air balloon flew over the beautiful colored trees along Rock Lodge Road. It was a beautiful day for it.

Harman To Speak At Garrett Farm Bureau Banquet, Oct. 22

The annual Garrett County Farm Bureau banquet will be held Thurs., Oct. 22, at 7 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall. Members are asked to make reservations by Oct. 17 by sending them to Clark Kolb, 31300 Garrett Highway, Accident, MD 21520, or by calling 301-746-8484.

The guest speaker this year will be Wayne Harman of Swanton, who recently returned from a three-week trip to Zimbabwe, where he taught local agridealers how to better serve small-scale, black farmers. He volunteered his time through a program run by the Washington, D.C.-based Citizens Network for Foreign Affairs.

Harman worked with agridealers—the equivalent of U.S. general stores—in Gokwe, Zimbabwe. He led seminars for 11 different stores on western marketing and business management techniques. Harman showed store management how they could better target the small-scale farm market for agricultural input sales. These farmers currently purchase a very small volume of such products. He also provided training on U.S. credit management practices, including estimating credit needs, business plan development and record-keeping techniques. He emphasized that through proper record keeping and sound business management, agridealers would be better customers for suppliers and better distributors of essential agricultural inputs for small-scale farmers.

In addition, Harman met with fertilizer suppliers in Harare to discuss how they could improve service to the local agridealers and, in turn, the small-scale farmers. The suppliers were thrilled about the possibility of tapping a new, relatively unexplored market, and said they would follow-up on Harman's recommendations.

Harman retired from Southern States Cooperative in 1997 after having served as a store manager, district manager and operations manager throughout his career. Harman graduated from West Virginia University in 1956.

CNFA is a private, nonprofit organization committed to stimulating economic growth in the former Soviet Union and southern Africa. Since 1993, CNFA's Agribusiness Volunteer Program has sent more than 500 volunteers to Russia, Ukraine and Moldova, and is currently working on projects in Zimbabwe and Mozambique. CNFA volunteers bring hands-on experience to their assignments helping their overseas counterparts ease the transition to a market economy.

Ag Secretary To Attend SCD Annual Dinner

Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Virts will attend the annual Garrett Soil Conservation District dinner, Oct. 30, 7 p.m., at the Pleasant Valley Community Building.

This year the SCD is focusing on nutrient management and will be discussing the mandatory nutrient management law passed by the Maryland General Assembly. Royden N. Powell III, assistant secretary of agriculture, will be present to give a report on the regulations and to answer questions.

Secretary Virts, a career veterinarian, was deputy secretary, Maryland Dept. of Agriculture, from 1994 to 1998, and has been secretary of agriculture since early 1998. He and his wife Nancy own four working farms in St. Mary's County, where they raise corn, small grains, turf grass and tobacco.

In 1978, his family mutually decided to place their home farm, Trent Hall, on the Patuxent River, in a perpetual easement with the Maryland Environmental Trust. In 1986, he was able to acquire an adjoining property, Washington Creek Farm. This also is preserved in perpetuity by a Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation easement, which enabled Virts to purchase and preserve this property. "We remain very sensitive to the proper stewardship of the land," Virts said.

Those wishing to attend the dinner may complete the information in the ad on page D-4 and return it to the Garrett Soil Conservation District, 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite C, Mtn. Lake Park, MD 21550, no later than Oct. 23.

International Rural Women's Day, Oct. 15

Rural women worldwide are being recognized today, Oct. 15, International Rural Women's Day. The day was launched in 1997 to bring rural women--the world's invisible workers--into the limelight. The Food and Agriculture Organization of The United Nations reports that the gathering of gender-specific statistics in recent years has confirmed two facts: The majority of poor people in the world are women, and these women are overwhelmingly responsible for feeding hungry men and children, as well as themselves. They grow, gather and catch the family meals, bring home water and wood, and prepare and cook the food. Where the rural poor get enough to eat, most often it is largely through the efforts, skills and knowledge of mothers, wives, sisters and daughters, the organization stated.

In many countries, the plight of rural women is worsening, as young and able-bodied men leave for the cities in search of work. The women left behind struggle to raise families and manage farms alone. Today, the organization reports, in some regions of Africa, 60 percent of households are headed by women.

The message today is that investing in rural women worldwide means investing in food security. A cost-benefit analysis carried out by the World Bank indicated that investment in educating women and girls has the highest rate of return of any possible type of investment in developing nations. "For a long time it was believed that the training and information received by men would just naturally be passed on to women. However, all our studies now show that this is not the case," according to Henri Carsalade, asistant director-general for Sustainable Development at the UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), speaking at a symposium to celebrate International Rural Women's Day.

The 1997 symposium, at FAO headquarters, which focused on the theme "Invest in Rural Women through Training and Infomation" and "Towards Food Security--Invest in Rural Women," came one day ahead of World Food Day, which had a similar theme last year: "Investing in Food Security."

In developing countries, rural women produce as much as 80 percent of basic foodstuffs, but receive very limited agricultural training. Women agricultural extension workers are few and illiteracy among women is even more widespread than among men, says an FAO report.

Yet, as a recent study in Kenya showed, yields among rural women could be increased by 24 percent if all women farmers completed primary school. In Kenya, following a national information campaign targeted at women under a National Extension Project, yields of corn increased by 28 percent, beans by 80 percent and potatoes by 84 percent, the report said.

Noting the important role of rural women in agricultural production, Carsalade said FAO recommends that national programs of member countries address the needs of women as well as men. He also said that women represent a long neglected source of traditional agricultural knowledge about plant varities and specific animal breeds that exist in their regions.

This year International Rural Women's Day will be celebrated in some 50 countries around the world. Earlier this year, more than 1,000 women from over 50 countries came to Washington, D.C., for the Second International Conference of Women in Agriculture. Eager to learn about each other's experiences, successes, and concerns, they easily overcame language and cultural barriers to network with amazing efficiency.

In her opening address to the Second International Conference, Australian dairywoman Mary Salce spoke of the pressures on farm women everywhere due to their multiple roles. Noting deep concerns farm women have for their children and for the environment, she said, "Women in agriculture think differently."

Women see agriculture as a "three-legged stool," Salce said, with environmental and social concerns just as important as economics. That recognition of the importance of healthy rural communities and families is needed in policy- and decision-making at all levels, Salce asserted.

The first step is to recognize and acknowledge the work of women in agriculture. Paticipants learned that lack of recognition of women's contributions, both officially and informally, is a major problem all around the world. In her remarks to the conference, Tipper Gore, wife of Vice President Al Gore, spoke of the need to "recognize women's roles in agriculture and as caretakers of the family." "We need to say we value those roles and contributions to families, households, and the rural economy," Gore said.

Texas dairy producer Vera Harrington was sent to the conference by the National Farmers Union. "I was real impressed being with the women and with all the topice they discussed in the break-out sessions," she said.

"We all have the same problems and don't know how to cope with them," Harrington noted. "I did not find one farm woman who said she was doing great." She agreed with the many speakers who encouraged women to run for political office and to get more involved in organizations and cooperatives.

Widowed 20 years ago, Harrington operates a 200-cow dairy at Sulphur Springs. "I don't mind shoveling cow manure as long as we're making money," she noted, "but it's disgusting when we're not."

Harrington hopes for greater recognition of International Rural Women's Day, October 15. The day was first proclaimed in 1997, in the words of President Bill Clinton, to honor the "many quiet heroes" among rural women "whose efforts and energy contribute profoundly to the quality of our lives."

Farm women in this country see many of the same frustrating problems experienced by others around the world. The poor farm economy in this otherwise "very rich" country requires many men to leave the farm for full-time off-farm jobs, leaving the women at home to do the farming. Holding farms and families together in this country today is often the prime goal of the farm wife, who does without many necessities let alone luxuries to achieve that goal. Farm women and all rural women around the world should be recognized for their strength, endurence, and moral fiber, which, along with other qualities, combine to help them achieve that goal.

The following guest writers are sharing their appreciation for rural women in today's farm section, and rural women everywhere appreciate their recognition.

"The Farmer's Wife"

A recent PBS Frontline series, "The Farmer's Wife," gave the largely urban population of this country a behind-the-scenes look at the way only two percent of us live. The series showed the dark side of a way of life that looks perfect to many of those urbanites. It was a very truthful picture of the farmer, the farmer's family, and the farmer's wife.

The story by filmmaker David Sutherland depicted the life of a young farm couple in rural Nebraska facing the loss of everything they hold dear. The Buschkoetters, Darrel and Juanita, told their own story in their own words, and it unfolded before our eyes, as it happened, over a period of three years.

The camera focused on the rhythms of everyday life on the Buschkoetters' farm. It followed Juanita, Darrel, and their three girls through days reminiscent of a forgotten, simpler time in America. But the truth of their existence was an early frost that destroyed 30 percent of their crop, which prevented them from diminishing the debt that was slowly threatening to take away their dream. In an effort to reverse that threat, Darrel went to work at a nearby farm for $7 an hour and did his own farming at night. Juanita cleaned houses while trying to get a college degree so Darrel could stay home and farm, but Darrel worried that if she went off the farm she'd find something she liked better. By mid winter they were dead broke. The situation put a strain on their marriage, and they were unsure of their future.

As the series concluded, Darrel finally harvested the bumper crop he had dreamt about his whole life—thus payment was made on their debt, but Darrel still had to go to work for another farmer to make enough money to feed his family, and he suffered from stress and exhaustion. This stress strained their marriage to the limit, but two months later, the marriage that seemed almost doomed was miraculously transformed. Through counseling, Darrel learned to deal with his anger and saw extraor-

Crediting Their Achievements HPI Promotes Farm Women Worldwide

by Peggy Santamaria

Women in agriculture have probably shared many experiences though they may live and work on opposite sides of the world from one another.

From the plains of Nebraska to the mountains of Bolivia, or the fields of Zimbabwe, a large share of the responsibility for operating the family farm falls on the women. Because the family farm can no longer provide an adequate living for most, a husband may be employed in an urban setting, while his wife remains on the farm to tend children, livestock, crops, and farm business.

Heifer Project International (HPI) has long recognized the significant role of farm women around the world. Founded in 1944 on the simple principle that ending hunger begins with giving people a way to feed themselves, HPI has been helping poor rural families become self-reliant and productive.

HPI does not just provide food for one meal, but food for a lifetime by teaching good farming practices and donating start-up livestock.

Animals that are donated to HPI project partners include chickens, rabbits, llamas, goats, and cows. These animals are used to improve health and life by providing food and income through wool, milk, eggs, and draft-power. One program requirement is that the participants "pass on the gift" by donating one or more livestock offspring to another family in need.

STRONG WOMEN IN MY LIFE

Friends, a husband and wife, were visiting me. The wife had gone to bed. The husband and I sat up talking for awhile. We discussed the relationships between men and women, both specifically and generally.

Expressing a view of which his wife — I was confident — had convinced him, he said men had dominated women for centuries. This politically correct sentiment has become so embedded in our culture that to dispute it is taken as a manifestation of genetic reversion to Neanderthal man.

Nevertheless, in my own home, in a private conversation, late at night, I did dispute it. My friend asked me why I did not accept this nearly universally accepted view. I knew that rational disputation would lead nowhere. In any case, the reason for my certainty that the prevailing view was wrong was based not upon logic, but rather upon my own experience.

I left the room and went to fetch a framed photograph from another room. Upon my return I set the picture in front of him, and said, "That is why." The photograph still sits on my piano. It shows a five-generation picture of my great-great-grandma, my great-grandma, my grandma, my mother, and me as a baby. My friend said nothing. To this day I have no idea what he was thinking at that moment.

I have lived my life among strong, country women. During my 43 years I have experienced the changing role of women from that of putative subordination to putative equality. While the change has been good for some women, on the whole, women and children are poorer today in relation to society in general than they were at the time of my birth.

Those were the days of "the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world." Those were the days when women typically personified Proverbs 31. The women of these days were literally home economists. They ran the home and provided for their families. They managed their households.

They had gardens from which they fed their families, except for those staples which had to be bought. The eggs from their laying flocks and their surplus butter were not only used at home, but were the substance of bartering for the things which had to be purchased outside the home.

My father's mother took her eggs to the grocer. Some-

You Can Take The Kids Out Of The Country, But . . .

by David Foster

My mom was born on a dairy farm in southeast Missouri in 1926, the youngest of nine children born to Wilhelmina and Rudolph Schuchart. While our family's conscious memories do not extend back an extraordinarily long way in years, the memories we do have are examples of the influence that quietly strong farm women have on their family generations down the line, even after their descendants have left the farm to make their living in other ways.

My grandmother, Wilhelmina Hanneken, born in the 1887, was the granddaughter of German immigrants and grew up speaking German in the home and learned English in the one room school on the farmland near St. Louis, as did her future husband Rudy, son of German immigrants. After they met and had married and began raising their family, Wilhelmina and Rudy moved to southeast Missouri to rent farmland, and saved enough money to eventually buy their rented place and start their own dairy herd.

Grandma did everything a farm wife did in those days, rearing five boys, four girls, and countless puppies, kittens, calves, piglets, chicks, ducklings and other animals, keeping house and barn, milking cows, making soap, plucking chickens, herding animals into the barn and the kids to the table and to the church in town, 15 miles away in Sikeston, Mo.

Three episodes in particular capture my grandma's character, giving me a colorful picture of a woman full of life, whom I never met, as she died before I was born.

My 38-year-old grandma, who had already had eight children, gave birth to my mother two months prematurely. There was the real fear, although not on her mother's part, that momma would not live. Her head was the size of an orange; lying lengthwise she barely filled one of her father's calloused hands, and her first crib was a size nine shoebox. Even though the July Missouri summer was hot and humid as usual, grandma improvised an incubator for my tiny mother by placing her in her shoebox on the open oven door of her kitchen's woodstove; the kitchen was my momma's bedroom for months, and she grew slowly but steadily, finally taking her first step when she was nearly three years old.

At about the time my mother was born, the oldest girl, my Aunt Martha, was stricken with typhoid fever, pneumonia, and infantile paralysis. She hovered near death for

OME ECONOMICS
Guide to Better Living

by Irmgard R. Koscielniak

The Strength Of A Nation

Few people would argue that the strength of a nation lies in the rural population and that the quality of rural living rests with rural and farm women. Strength, in this context, should not be equated with money, but with how well families are doing, whether children are growing into quality adults and productive society members. As we are beginning to see, and probably knew all along, inner strength, values, commitment and love for family and community, and one's life style are the contributors to a healthy and strong nation.

Few women's organizations have lasted as long as Homemakers. Even though they have undergone a transition and name change from Extension Homemakers to Association of Family and Community Education (FCE), the values above have not changed. Their number is smaller; however, the determination put into making a difference with modern-world problems affecting families and children is as strong as ever — in fact, they are now working not only harder, but smarter.

The seatbelt law is to a great extent their doing. The effort at improving television programs extends to limiting TV exposure. They also collected signatures for later presentation to congress and senators to promote reading more books. They have excellent programs on personal health and safety, environmental concerns, and community problems. The Kellogg Foundation provides funding to expand on "Enhancing Ethical Leadership." Every one of those topics touches on families, children, and communities.

To keep this core of humanity intact, everyone needs to help. Parenting is a full-time job: Mothers, fathers, child care professionals, and extended family members must help together to get the children through often turbulent growing-up years. It does take a community to raise a child. And it does take women to bring these old truths to the forefront. It is ironic that just when we thought we had it all, our families, communities, and workplaces are falling apart. Nevertheless, forces are in motion to create a gentler America, more considerate of the needs people have. Rural women are not only loving, they have determination growing out of their values.

From whatever station in life, let us look at country living, pick up on what is good and workable, not alienate the environment and other living things, but work with it to make the good better.

My Window

times she owed the grocer a little. Sometimes the grocer owed her 50 cents or a dollar. My mother's mother, whose life led her off the farm after she married, still sought each year to can 500 quarts of fruits and vegetables for her family of five.

Then there was the sewing. Not only did they make clothes, but also sheets and curtains and towels and table cloths and then the bits of fancy work with which they decorated their homes.

Some of all this I experienced. Other parts I know from hearing the stories told of how things once were. Some of my favorite stories are of the craft with which farm women managed their households.

My Grandmother Wilson, who died nine years before my birth, raised turkeys as well as chickens. The turkeys were sold mostly at Thanksgiving. That money then became the Christmas fund.

It was just after World War II when they had a local man to do some papering and painting in the house. While he was working, my grandfather came in, and said to my grandmother, "Lucy, I'm going to Robinson's (the tractor dealership), and I need some money." She replied, "I don't have any money, George." Grandpa rejoined, "What about the turkey money?" "I'll have to look for it," she said.

She hunted, and fussed a little while, and then announced to him that she hadn't been able to find it. "Huh," he said, and left for Robinson's without any money. The painter was terribly upset. "Here I am in this house for the first time, and they are missing money. They'll surely think I took it."

An hour or so passed, and my grandfather returned. "Well, Lucy," he asked, "did you find that turkey money?" "Yes, George, I knew where it was all the time." The painter breathed a deep sigh of relief. When he was an old man and I was a boy, he told me that story, and I never forgot it.

Today in our urbanized society nobody is home. We need to celebrate country women. We need to return to country ways while we still remember them. Lay aside rhetoric and the politically correct ideas; the fact is, women are and always have been leaders. No place is their leadership more critically needed in our nation today than at home.

Recognizing the significant role of farm women, HPI has developed a program, Women in Livestock Development — WiLD, that addresses the specific needs, capabilities, and goals of these women.

One principle of WiLD is that whoever does the work should also reap the benefit. This concept acknowledges the value of the farm work done by women.

In many nations the contributions of farm women have been ignored or belittled. HPI and WiLD have helped to give credence to and to underscore the value of the accomplishments of female farmers.

Grantsville resident and HPI project partner Jean Durst was invited to attend an HPI board of directors' conference in Honduras last fall. While there, the group visited projects and met with partners. They also participated in a "passing-of-the-gift" ceremony in which livestock was conveyed from one HPI member to a another.

"It was an impressive ceremony. Those to receive gifts were present, as were those passing them on. One of the farmers waiting to receive a gift of livestock was a woman. There was no man standing behind her. She was there on her own," Durst explained. This recognition of a woman as a capable farmer represents a change in culture for many countries.

In some African nations women make up a large percentage of HPI project partners. When these women are educated in producing feed, building pens, composting, and caring for livestock, they are able to work more efficiently, feed their children and improve their health, and bring income to the family that may allow children to attend school.

HPI has helped women farmers earn the respect often lacking in cultures where tradition relegates them to lower rungs of the social ladder. The project participants become productive farmers. It is the positive results of their efforts that garner the respect.

The benefits of HPI projects multiply as knowledge and livestock gifts are passed on and shared. These beneficial results are not limited in type or scope. They include improved diet and health, economic growth, stronger bonds between neighbors, and increased respect of for those women who till the soil and tend the animals to meet the needs of family and community.

Finally, he was the at-home parent, farming and caring for their three daughters. Juanita, who earned her college degree, work at a respected crop insurance company in town. In the end, through faith, hope, and hard work, the Buschkoetters saved their farm and rediscovered the love that holds them together.

This story was rightfully called "The Farmer's Wife," because although it's the story of the whole family's struggle, it was the farmer's wife who held them together. She went the extra mile, doing farm chores before and after her work away from the farm; doing all the household chores late at night; caring for three young children, helping with homework; and finding low budget ways to provide for them. She managed to feed the family when there was no money for groceries.

She learned to [illegible] deal with loan officers, the ASCS, [illegible] was the mediator between her husband and the creditors, who showed mercy only because of her insistence. She walked a fine line between his family and hers; his who could never be pleased by anything they did, and hers who couldn't understand why she stayed on the farm. She continued to care for her family and her home while studying to obtain a college degree, only so she could get a better job and Darrel could stay at home and farm. She was strong enough to accomplish all of this while cameras were filming the worst three years of her life.

When answering e-mail letters from viewers, Juanita said she agreed to have their lives filmed to show others who were struggling that they weren't alone, and also to make others [illegible] the American family farm [illegible]

"We've had [illegible] to chase our dreams and get jobs," she wrote, "but I'm proud that we are still here fighting to keep our dreams alive." And, America should be proud of this farmer's wife and hundreds of others like her. many weeks, was bedridden for over three months, and didn't walk for a year after the illnesses struck. During those critical weeks when Aunt Martha was critically ill, her mother and father never gave up on her. Grandma took care of her all day long, delegating as many chores as possible to the other children, and Grandpa would come in from the barn and sit by her bedside all night long. Sans hair, which had all fallen out because of her condition, Aunt Martha returned to school a year later. (Another strong rural woman, the schoolteacher at the one-room schoolhouse, read the riot act to Aunt Martha's classmates about no one teasing her because of her bald head. No one did.)

Finally, the family farm was located along a railroad line, and my grandma is remembered by her children for never turning away any of the many hoboes who came to her kitchen door looking for a meal. After performing a simple chore or two they would be rewarded with a plateful of her delicious home cooking. No one, family or not, ever went away from her house hungry.

If I may indulge the reader a few more moments with memories of rural women in my family...

Aunt Martha eventually graduated from college, taught in a one-room schoolhouse for six years and a larger school for five more years, then joined the U.S. Army in 1942 to serve her country. After beginning as a private, then graduating from Officer Candidate School, she put in a full career as an intelligence officer, retiring as a lt. colonel after traveling the world with the service. She'll turn 85 in December, and still travels constantly.

One of her sisters, my Aunt Ada, the major tomboy of the tomboy Schuchart girls, graduated from college with a nursing degree and joined the Army during the war. She was aboard the hospital ship, a floating blood bank, that was scheduled to ride in to Tokyo Harbor immediately after the first wave of American invasion troops hit the beach. Luckily for her and thousands of her fellow servicemen, the atomic bombs ended the war before a land assault was necessary, and immediately following the Japanese surrender she was sent to treat wounded Americans and other allies in Hiroshima.

My mom, Stella, graduated from college, taught school, then married a returning serviceman and raised six kids of her own. They started our family on a farm in Missouri, then moved the South as my dad worked with a grain elevator construction crew and finally settled in Arlington, Va., just before I was born. Yours truly is number five, and my mom lost a great deal of blood as I was born in 1961. Last rites were administered, and the doctor said it didn't look good at all. After weeks of bed rest, during which my Aunt Ada and my Aunt Martha helped take care of us kids, my mom was on her feet again. She gave birth to my little sister six years later at the age of 41.

Those three women, raised on a Missouri farm by a strong, proud rural woman and who have lived all over the country and the world, have lived within a block of one another in Arlington as neighbors for over 30 years. What they brought from the farm, and their mother, they have passed on to us. Hopefully we city-raised kids are making them as proud of us as we are of them, and their mother.

Soil Moisture Improves For Farmers Statewide

Soil moisture showed a slight improvement this past week, according to the Maryland Ag Statistics Service. Topsoil moisture was rated as 35% very short and short, with last week's rating as 70% short and very short. Subsoil moisture was rated as 65% very short and short this week while last week's was 82% very short and short. Overall, topsoil moisture was 9% very short, 26% short, 63% adequate, and 2% surplus. Subsoil moisture was 23% very short, 42% short and 35% adequate. Although some counties were still in a precipitation deficit, the rain was enough to aid small grain seeding and germination.

Barley seeding moved to 43% complete for the state. This was a nine-point jump during the week but not enough to keep up with last year's average as well as the five-year average. Rye seeding moved up 13 points and was at 26%. Like barley, rye was behind the previous and five-year averages.

Wheat planting showed a slight increase and was the only small grain ahead of both averages.

Corn harvesting made an eight-point increase and was still ahead of the previous year and five-year averages. Field corn has almost reached full maturity. Soybean harvesting was reported at 20% completed, a 14 point improvement over last week's report and ahead of the previous year average. The precipitation was too late to aid in soybean development as 80% of soybeans have shed their leaves, mainly due to the dry growing conditions preceding last week's rains.

Sorghum turning color was reported at 95%. Maturity had progressed 20 point and was at 60%. Sorghum harvesting moved up 10 points.

Following is Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Oct. 11, listing the item, and the percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average.

Small grain planting progress: barley 42, 33, 55, 55; rye 26, 13, 35, 39; winter wheat 18, 10, 14, 16.

Harvesting progress: apples 74, 60, 77, 69; corn, grain 60, 52, 35, 55, silage 92, 90, 95, 92; soybeans 20, 6, 15, 13; sorghum 30, 20, 21, 25; other hay, 4th cutting 88, 75, 76, 58; alfalfa hay, 4th cutting 91, 85, 81, 87, 5th cutting 35, 20, 16.

Fee Simple PROPERTY
SALE AT THE main entrance of the Circuit Courthouse for Garrett County in Oakland
NO. 17 Route #2, Sky Valley, Swanton

Under and by virtue of the power and authority contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Paul I. Fowler and Donna L. Fowler, to Frederick L. Shreves, II, Trustee(s), dated February 9, 1996, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, in Liber 674, Page 0251 , (R. Douglas Jones, Susan S. Flanigan and Mary Jane Fischer, having been appointed as Substituted Trustees therein by Norwest Mortgage, Inc., a California Corporation, formerly known as Norwest Mortgage, Inc., a Minnesota Corporation, by merger and name change, the present holder of the Note secured thereby), the insurer thereof being THE SECRETARY OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT, default having occurred in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, on all that land and premises described in said Deed of Trust as follows:

The land referred to in this Commitment is described as follows:

Lot number Nine (9) in block lettered "F", in a plat entitled "SKY VALLEY" as per plat, which plat is filed in Plat Drawer one (1), File Six (6) among the land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, being in the First Election District of said County.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record, if any.

The property is improved by a DWELLING.

TERMS OF SALE: $9,000.00 cash or by certified check will be required of the purchaser,(other than the above named Note holder or THE SECRETARY OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT) at the time and place of sale, balance of the purchase money in cash upon final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County and to bear interest at 10%, per annum from the day of sale to the day of settlement. In the event the above named Note holder purchases the property no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. All charges for conveyancing, recording, stamp taxes, transfer taxes, certificate of title, etc., to be at the cost of the purchaser. All other expenses, water rent, and real estate taxes and all other assessments and public charges, payable on annual basis including special paving tax, if any, to be adjusted to the date of sale, and assumed thereafter by purchaser.

Time is of the essence and terms of sale are to be complied with within ten days after final ratification thereof by the Court, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. This sale is subject to Ratification by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If the sale is not ratified, or if for any reason the Substituted Trustees are unable to convey clear, marketable title, the sale shall be void and the purchaser's sole remedy shall be the return of the deposit.

By virtue of the power and authority contained in a Deed of Trust from ERIC ANDREW GRACE AND JENNIFER LYNN MATTHEU, dated JANUARY 27, 1995, and recorded in Liber 646, PAGE 452, among the land records of the COUNTY OF GARRETT, in the original principal amount of $61,700.00 with an interest rate of 9.5%, upon default and request for sale, the undersigned trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the front of the Courthouse for the COUNTY OF GARRETT, 204 S. 4TH STREET, OAKLAND, MARYLAND, on OCTOBER 30, 1998, AT 1:30 P.M., all that property described in said Deed of Trust as follows:

EXHIBIT A

All that parcel of land lying along Elder Hill, situate in Election District No. 2, Garrett County, Maryland, which is described as follows:

Beginning at an iron bar found at the southwesterly corner of the lands of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, in the westerly line of Military Lot No. 4126 and thence with a portion of the lands of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, and the said lot line, North 10°, West, 293.96 feet to an iron pin set, thence by a new line of division, South 57° 05' 48" 410.94 feet to an iron pin set and continuing 5 feet, or 415.94 feet total, to a point in the line of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, and in the westerly margin of Route 42, thence with the lines of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, and said road margin, South 32°, 49'29" West, 190.26 feet to an iron bar found at the southeasterly corner of the land of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, thence leaving the said road and with the line of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, as corrected, North 63°, 42'50" West, 217.53 feet to the beginning, containing 1.50 acres, more or less.

Being the same as was conveyed to the herein Mortgagor from Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, by deed dated January 20, 1995, and to be recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

This is a partial purchase money mortgage because the sum received is all or part of the purchase price of the property.

Said property is in fee simple and is improved by a dwelling and is sold in "as is condition" and subject to all superior convenants, conditions, liens, restrictions, easement, rights-of-way, as may affect same, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $6,100.00 cash or certified funds shall be required at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price with interest at 9.5% per annum from the date of sale to the date of payment will be paid with TEN DAYS after the final ratification of the sale. Adjustments on all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. If applicable, condominium and/or homeowners association dues and assessments that may become due after the time of sale will be the responsibility of the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, transfer taxes, title insurance, and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Time is of the essence for the purchaser, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at risk and costs of the defaulting purchaser. If the sale is not ratified or if the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title, the purchaser's only remedy is the return of the deposit. Trustee's File No. 98-43781. GARRETT COUNTY SANITARY COMMISSION
AQUATIC CROSSINGS
A. PROPOSAL SECTIONS
I. INVITATION TO BID

Receipt of Proposals

Sealed bids marked "Bid for the Southeast Conveyance System Aquatic Crossings" will be received by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission (hereinafter referred to as Owner), at 313 East Alder Street, Old Courthouse Room 200, Oakland, Maryland 21550, until 11:00 a.m. on 6th day of November, 1998, and then and there the bids will be publicly opened and read.

General Description of Work

This project will include the following:

1. Approximately 500 LF 8-inch pressure sewer to be hung on the new Glendale Road Bridge, and

2. 1285 LF of twin 6-inch pressure sewer, approximately 700 LF of which will cross under Deep Creek Lake at North Glade Cove.

Pre-Bid Conference

A pre-bid conference will be held on Friday, October 23, 1998, at 2:00 p.m. in the office of the Owner to answer any questions concerning the Bidding Documents. All bidders are invited to attend.

Bidding Documents

Bidding Documents will be available for inspection during regular working hours at the Office of the Owner.

Bidding Documents may be obtained from the Owner upon written request and remittance of full payment of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each set with checks made payable to the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. Payment will not be refunded, said payment being retained by the Owner to cover cost of printing, handling and shipping. Requests for Bidding Documents shall be submitted to:

Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.
313 East Alder Street
Oakland, Maryland 21550

All bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in in ink or typewritten, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted.

The Owner reserves the right to waive the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, or to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No Bidder may withdraw a Bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the Contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope-of-work by examination of the site and a review of the Bidding Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Bidding Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

Bid Security and Bond Requirements

There are no bid securities or bond requirements for this project. Progress payments will be made for work in place and a ten percent (10%) retainage will be held on all work until the project is completed and the contract requirements are satisfied. Retainage in the amount of five percent (5%) of the final construction cost will be held for a one (1) year warranty period. Bidder may elect to provide a maintenance bond for one hundred percent (100%) of the construction cost in lieu of the five percent (5%) retainage.

The Owner may for any reason whatsoever, determine that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract. In that event, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Owner will not then be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the ninety (90) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

The party to whom the Contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be accompanied by the necessary Agreement and contract forms. In case of failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may, at his option, consider the Bidder in default.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of an acceptable Agreement signed by the party to whom the Contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the Agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

Time For Completion

The successful bidder will be required to fully complete contract work within ninety (90) consecutive calendar days from and including the date of receipt from the Owner of formal notice to proceed.

Award of Contract

The award of any contract will be made by the Owner.

Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalanced may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Bidding Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals, or to award a contract or contracts which in its judgment is in the best interest of the Owner.

Nondiscrimination of Employment

BIDDERS ON THIS WORK WILL BE REQUIRED TO COMPLY WITH THE PRESIDENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 11246. THE REQUIREMENTS FOR BIDDERS AND CONTRACTORS UNDER THIS ORDER ARE EXPLAINED IN 41 CFR 60.4.

Notice of Requirement for Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities

Bidders and offerors are cautioned as follows: By signing this bid or offer, the bidder or offeror will be deemed to have signed and agreed to the provisions of the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" in this solicitation. The certification provides that the bidder or offeror does not maintain or provide for his employees facilities which are segregated on a basis of race, creed, color, or national origin, whether such facilities are segregated by directive or on a de facto basis. The certification also provides that he will not maintain such segregated facilities. Failure of a bidder or offeror to agree to the Certification of Nonsegregated facilities will render his bid or offer non-responsive to the terms of solicitations.

GARRETT COUNTY SANITARY COMMISSION
FORCE MAINS AND GRAVITY SEWERS
A. PROPOSAL SECTIONS
I. INVITATION TO BID

Receipt of Proposals

Sealed bids marked "Bid for the Southeast Conveyance System Force Mains and Gravity Sewers" will be received by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission (hereinafter referred to as Owner), at 313 East Alder Street, Old Courthouse Room 200, Oakland, Maryland 21550, until 11:00 a.m. on 6th day November, 1998, and then and there the bids will be publicly opened and read.

General Description of Work

This project will include the following:

1. 7652 LF 10-inch force main from Pumping Station 11-3 to an existing sanitary manhole in Glendale Road, approximately 1900 LF east of Rte. 219.

2. 3095 LF 8-inch pressure sewer from a manhole in Beckman's Peninsula Road, approximately 1000 feet north of North Glade Cove to Pumping Station 11-3.

3. 1903 LF of twin 6-inch pressure sewer in two locations: a) from the end of Beckman's Peninsula Road, approximately 125 LF north of North Glade Cove to the above-mentioned manhole in Beckman's Peninsula Road; and b) from the Thousand Acres Flushing Station to the south shore of North Glade Cove.

4. 4040 LF of 8-inch gravity sewer on the north side of Little Snaggy Mountain on Thousand Acres, discharging at the Thousand Acres Flushing Station.

5. 2092 LF of 3-inch low pressure sewer force main on the north side of Little Snaggy Mountain, also discharging into the above-mentioned 8-inch gravity sewer.

Pre-Bid Conference

A pre-bid conference will be held on Friday, October 23, 1998, at 2:00 p.m. in the office of the Owner to answer any questions concerning the bidding documents. All bidders are invited to attend.

Bidding Documents

Bidding Documents will be available for inspection during regular working hours at the office of the Owner.

Bidding Documents may be obtained from the Owner upon written request and remittance of full payment of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each set with checks made payable to the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. Payment will not be refunded, said payment being retained by the Owner to cover cost of printing, handling and shipping. Requests for Bidding Documents shall be submitted to:

Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.
313 East Alder Street
Oakland, Maryland 21550

All Bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in in ink or typewritten, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, or to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No bidder may withdraw a Bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the Contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope-of-work by examination of the site and a review of the Bidding Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Bidding Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

Bid Security and Bond Requirements

There are no bid securities or bond requirements for this project. Progress payments will be made for work in place and a ten percent (10%) retainage will be held on all work until the project is completed and the contract requirements are satisfied. Retainage in the amount of five percent (5%) of the final construction cost will be held for a one (1) year warranty period. Bidder may elect to provide a maintenance bond for one hundred percent (100%) of the construction cost in lieu of the five percent (5%) retainage.

The Owner may for any reason whatsoever, determine that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract. In that event, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Owner will not then be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the ninety (90) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

The party to whom the Contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be accompanied by the necessary Agreement and contract forms. In case of failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may, at his option, consider the Bidder in default.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of an acceptable Agreement signed by the party to whom the Contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the Agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the Bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

Time For Completion

The successful bidder will be required to fully complete all contract work within one hundred fifty (150) consecutive calendar days from and including the date of receipt from the Owner of formal notice to proceed.

Award of Contract

The award of any contract will be made by the Owner.

Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalanced may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Contract Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals or to award a contract or contracts which in its judgment is in the best interest of the Owner.

Nondiscrimination of Employment

BIDDERS ON THIS WORK WILL BE REQUIRED TO COMPLY WITH THE PRESIDENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 11246. THE REQUIREMENTS FOR BIDDERS AND CONTRACTORS UNDER THIS ORDER ARE EXPLAINED IN 41 CFR 60.4.

Notice of Requirement for Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities

Bidders and offerors are cautioned as follows: By signing this bid or offer, the bidder or offeror will be deemed to have signed and agreed to the provisions of the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" in this solicitation. The certification provides that the bidder or offeror does not maintain or provide for his employees facilities which are segregated on a basis of race, creed, color, or national origin, whether such facilities are segregated by directive or on a de facto basis. The certification also provides that he will not maintain such segregated facilities. Failure of a bidder or offeror to agree to the Certification of Nonsegregated facilities will render his bid or offer non-responsive to the terms of solicitations.

Date at Oakland, Maryland, this 1st day of October, 1998.

Ward and Alan D. Levenstein, Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, defult having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURT HOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1998 AT 1:10 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland, and described as follows:

Lot number Nine (9) in block lettered "F", in a plat titled "SKY VALLEY" as per plat, which plat is filed in Plat Drawer One (1), File Six (6), among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, being in the First Election District of said county.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple.

The property will be sold in an "as in" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $5,000 will be required at time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine acceptable, in their sole discretion. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. Balance to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within the specified period stated, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Substitute Trustees will declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney's fees, and all other charges incurred by the Substitute Trustees. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to the day the funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder, there shall be no abatement of interest caused by the delay. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, Condominium fees and/or Homeowners Association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids, withdraw the property from sale, postpone and advertise the property for sale at a later date. Neither the Substitute Trustees nor any other party guarantees or covenants to deliver or to in any way obtain possession of the premises for any purchaser. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Substitute Trustees assume no responsibility for security deposits or other monies paid by the tenants to anyone. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees or the noteholder. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale. The property is sold in "AS IS" condition without express or implied warranty or representation including, but not limited to description, fitness, use for a particular purpose, construction, environmental condition, zoning, habitability, merchantability, and/or compliance with building codes or other laws. The Substitute Trustees, their attorneys, and/or the noteholder shall not be liable individually or otherwise for any matters relating to this sale or the property.

FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

RUSH BAPTIST

There will be a Sunday School meeting for all teachers and workers following the 11 a.m. morning worship service on Sunday, Oct. 18.

An Outreach Committee meeting will be held following the morning worship service on Sunday, Oct. 25.

The Rush Baptist Church holds Sunday school starting at 9:45 a.m., with morning worship services at 11 a.m. Sunday evening worship begins at 6 p.m. Bible study and prayer meeting is held every Wednesday at 7 p.m., with choir practice following at 8 p.m.

FRIENDSVILLE METHODIST

The Friendsville United Methodist Women will meet on Monday, Oct. 19, at the church at 6:30 p.m.

ASHER GLADE

Bible study will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 21, at 7 p.m.

On Sunday, Oct. 18, during the regular worship service, a missionary group that recently traveled to Haiti, headed by Glen McClelland, will give the message.

The Ladies Aid attended the District Ladies Fall Rally at Oak Park Church in Oakland on Wednesday, Oct. 14.

WOW LODGE 45

The next meeting of the Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 will be its annual visit to the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home in Grantsville on Thursday, Oct. 29, at 6 p.m.

FLU VACCINATIONS TIME CORRECTION

On Wednesday, Oct. 21, flu and pneumonia vaccinations will be available at the Mill Grill Restaurant from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., not from 1-3 p.m. as previously stated.

HARVEST DINNER

The Friendsville United Methodist Church will be holding its annual Harvest Dinner on Saturday, Oct. 24, from 4 to 7 p.m. The dinner consists of turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, sauerkraut and kielbasa, rolls, cranberry salad, beverage, and choice of pumpkin pie or gingerbread.

The cost will be $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Persons may eat in or carry out. Delivery is also available by contacting Pearl Bittner at 301-746-5103 to place orders. Volunteers are needed, and persons interested in volunteering may contact Julia Sines at 301-746-5619.

TEEN CONCERT AND LOCK IN

The Sand Spring Church of God will present UZ in a teen concert as part of an all-night lock-in, starting at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. 23, and ending at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 24, at the Sand Spring Church of God Fellowship Hall at 1251 Fearer Road. The lock-in will include games, volleyball, Bible study, pizza and veggie tales, along with the concert.

LIBRARY NEWS

The Friendsville branch of the Ruth Enlow Library now has Stephen King's Bag of Bones and Diary of Mattie Spenser by Sandra Dallas available to check out.

Halloween color and activity sheets are available at the check-out desk for all children.

A reference copy of You Can Carve Fantastic Jack-o-Lanterns is available at the check-out desk. This reference copy cannot leave the library, but patrons may copy for their own use.

Regular library hours are Mon-Fri. from 2 to 7 p.m., and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

ANNUAL FALL CLEAN-UP

Friendsville's annual fall clean-up has been scheduled for Oct. 23 and 24. Residents are encouraged to take advantage of the clean-up by disposing of worn-out furniture, broken appliances, and useless old items.

Regular trash removal will be on Friday, Oct. 23, at the usual times. Pick-up of large household items will be on Saturday, Oct. 24, beginning at 9 a.m. Town residents are reminded to please separate furniture, appliances, and scrap metal for Saturday's pick--up.

The trash trucks will not be able to accept old tires at this time.

TRICK OR TREAT

Door to door trick or treat will be held Saturday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Children 12 and under may participate. Residents who wish to participate are asked to have a porch light on to signify so.

TOWN NEWS

The playground equipment for the Friendsville Community Park is 75% installed and will be completed soon.

The Mayor and Town Council would like to remind residents that no dumping of any kind is allowed on town property, which includes the town park and behind the new maintenance building.

Regarding the concerns for the changes that were made in the town's cable TV channels, everyone is encouraged to fill out the survey form made available by FrontierVision that was in last week's Republican. The survey was asking for patrons to specify a choice of an FM station to be put back onto the cable lineup. This is especially beneficial to those needing to know of school closings and cancellations during bad weather.

A.D.D. SUPPORT GROUP

There will be an Attention Deficit Disorder Support Group meeting on Monday, Oct. 26, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Zion Lutheran Church in Accident. Guest speaker will be Mary Wolowicz, director of Education and Support Services at TRANSACT Health System in Pittsburgh. For more information, persons may contact Sherry Georg at 301-746-8357.

SCHOOL NEWS

The Accelerated Reading Program is proving to be an effective incentive for the students to get excited and stay interested in reading. Students in grades 2-5 participate in this reading program, which allows them to receive points each time they pass a computerized test pertaining to books read. The points can then be used by the students in the Reading Store, watching a movie or a pizza party. Each month has one of these goals for students to spend their points on.

Students have passed 587 tests already, earning over 500 points. There is now a computer in each classroom for students to test on.

Ms. Whetsell's second grade class has been studying maps and map keys. The class will take a field trip to Smoke Hole Caverns and Blackwater Falls.

PTO NEWS

The Friendsville Elementary School is sponsoring its first fund-raiser of the new school year by selling Joe Corbie pizza kits.

The PTO has decided to focus the majority of its fund-raising activity toward raising the rest of the money necessary to purchase the new playground equipment.

The pizza sale is now through Oct. 23, with the delivery date scheduled for Nov. 4.

The goal is for each child to sell at least five pizza kits. Every child who reaches this goal will be eligible for a drawing of his or her choice of a new bike or a boom box. There will be the name of one boy and one girl drawn from among the group of children reaching this goal. The drawing for the prizes will be on Oct. 26, with the names of the winners announced in school that day.

FALL FUN FESTIVAL

A Fall Fun Festival is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 30, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Friendsville Elementary School cafeteria. The public is invited to attend, and there will be no charge for this festival, which will include clowns, illusions, puppets, music, and balloons.

DINNER THEATER

The Friendsville Elementary School is sponsoring a dinner theater on Saturday, Nov. 7, and Sunday, Nov. 8, and again on Saturday, Nov. 14, and Sunday, Nov. 15.

A musical titled "The Castaways" will be performed by local talent, students, and faculty of the school. The price of the tickets will be $6 per person, which will include dinner and a performance.

The dinner will include ham, scalloped potatoes, green beans, corn muffins, cake, and a beverage. The Saturday dinners will begin at 6 p.m., and the show will follow at 7 p.m. The Sunday dinners will begin at 2 p.m., and the show is scheduled for 3 p.m.

Tickets are available by calling the school at 301-746-5100 and asking for Julia. There is limited seating for each performance, so interested persons are urged to order their tickets early.

Volunteers are currently selling ads for the program booklet, with complimentary tickets given according to the size of the ad. Ads available are ¼ page for $20 and 1 complimentary ticket, ½ page for $35 and 2 tickets, 3/4 page for $65 and 3 tickets, or a full page ad for $100 and 4 complimentary tickets. Ads are available for purchase by individuals or businesses.

PERSONALS

Chris Turney and Jimmy Surratt, Shenandoah University School of Pharmacy, spent the weekend with Chris's grandmother, Betty Turney, and mother Donna. Shane Buckel visited with Chris and Jim on Saturday.

Saturday visitors of Betty Turney were Gene and Dean Friend of York, Pa.

VOWS EXCHANGED

Jennifer Lytle, daughter of Burt and Linda Lytle, was joined in marriage to Ronald Hockman Jr. (Bonkey), son of Ron and Kay (Wiley) Hockman, Accident, on Saturday, Oct. 10. The 6 p.m. nuptials took place at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church at Accident, with Rev. Oren Bender officiating. Ezra Yoder sang "The Lords Prayer" following the lighting of the unity candles. Jonathan McCulley, Confluence, played the keyboard.

Flowers were placed on the altar in memory of their grandparents, Lawrence and Elaine Hockman, Blaine Wiley, Thomas and Violet Knight, and Alvin and Lela Lytle. A long-stemmed rose was given to each of the mothers.

The reception was held at the Friendsville fire hall, with approximately 200 attending. A shower of bubbles greeted the newlyweds as they were presented to the crowd. Music was provided by Tidewater Entertainment with disc jockey C.J. Stevens and Valerie Frazee. A special appearance was made by "Elvis."

The bridal party consisted of best man Ed Lytle, brother of the bride; groomsmen Tim Foster and Doug Brenneman; ring bearer Eddie Lytle, nephew of the bride; matron of honor Rachel Deigert, friend of the bride; bridesmaids Sandy Michaels and Amy Mickle; jr. bridesmaid Kelsey Lytle, niece of the bride; and flower girl Aundrea Deigert.

The cake was baked by Nancy Arsenberger. Mary Ann Lytle, sister-in-law of the bride, and Ruth Ann Hyatt, aunt of the bride, cut and served the cake. Stefanie Hyatt, cousin of the bride, and Greg Lytle, brother of the bride, were guest book attendants.

Valerie Frazee was the wedding coordinator. Photographer and videographer was Mark Rogue. Betty Frantz, Rachel Deigert, and Ruth Ann Hyatt prepared the food, and Dot Lowdermilk made the punch. Joy Fisher and Sharon Hoover served.

Following their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hockman Jr. will reside at 3810 Cove Road, Accident.

A WHITER SMILE IN YOUR FUTURE?

Teeth may become discolored because of a number of reasons. Often discoloration is due to more than one cause including: smoking, smokeless tobacco, coffee, tea, tooth trauma, long term tetracycline use, and normal aging.

A visit to your dentist will help you know if you can erase these stains with whitening (or bleaching) solutions.

Custom fitted trays are made to fit over your teeth and the whitening material is worn either at night while you sleep or during the day for short periods of time.

You may find that in as little as one week you can remove years of stain from your teeth and smile with confidence.

GCC's Board Of Trustees Meeting Focuses On Emerging Technology

The Board of Trustees of Garrett Community College discussed several technology-related issues during its recent meetings, highlighting the growing importance of technology education as the college approaches the 21st century.

INCENTIVE PROGRAM

College president Steve Herman informed the board that the Maryland legislature approved a program called Innovative Partners in Technology during its most recent session. Framed in terms of an incentive grant, the program gives GCC the opportunity to raise nearly $1 million for technology.

Under this program, if GCC can raise $200,000 in private donations in cash or technology equipment or software, the state would provide matching dollars. GCC would then have two more years to raise another $200,000 for another state match, bringing the total amount of funding for the college to $800,000.

Dr. Herman said that the GCC Foundation is developing a fund-raising strategy to try and find four large donors at $50,000 each to be spread over a four-year period. If the foundation is successful in getting these donors, a challenge would then be issued to the community. "We'd like to see GCC have a technology endowment fund to help keep the college current with the latest technology," Herman commented.

TECH PREP PROGRAM

Another illustration of the growing emphasis being placed on technology was evident when Dr. Nancy Priselac, chairperson of GCC's math department, spoke about the Technology Preparation Program. The Tech Prep Program is designed to "create a partnership between the college and Garrett County's public school system to prepare teachers and students for the changes in math and science that are influencing not only what we teach but how we teach," Priselac said.

Priselac credited Jim Davis, former adjunct instructor and newly appointed instructor of computer applications, with much of the success of the Tech Prep program. She also said that one of the highlights of the program will be a training session for public school math and science teachers on the Casio graphing calculator, which will be held in the near future.

"The public schools are doing a great job of sending the college well-prepared students," Priselac commented, "for example, we have 23 Calculus I students this fall, the most we've ever had. These students are coming from Northern and Southern high schools, and our own feeder program. These students are the future of technology, a future that is here with us now."

GIEC

Herman then addressed the proposal to construct a new building on the campus to house the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC). As one of the main missions of the college is to foster local economic development, Herman said, GCC seeks to play an active role in supporting businesses by responding to their needs whenever possible.

The GIEC project is designed to provide incubator space to support start up of 10-16 information- intensive and -dependent businesses. Located on the McHenry campus, the facility would receive institutional support from the college that would include affordable access to advanced telecommunications equipment, services, and student and professional technical support.

"We're talking about a $1.46 million project," said Herman, "although we're still simplifying the building design to save money. We hope to complete construction by January of 2000."

CONSTRUCTION TECH

Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, reported that a recommendation had been submitted by Jim Allen, director of technology, that the board discontinue the Construction Technology Certificate program. "We've offered this program for 26 years," said Mitchell, "but enrollment has always been very low. Most of our students have not been looking for overall certification in the field, just isolated courses to learn and develop particular construction-related skills."

The board voted to discontinue the certificate program in the future, while at the same time providing for any students who are currently in the program to complete a certificate. Some construction technology classes will continue to be offered even though the certificate program has been dropped; these include welding classes and residential wiring classes.

NEW FACULTY

The board voted unanimously to approve the appointments of a pair of new GCC faculty members.

Steve Storck is a new assistant professor of Adventure Sports. A doctoral candidate at West Virginia University's forestry department, Storck is certified through the National Outdoor Leadership School. "Steve is full of energy, and the students are very pleased with his work," Mitchell commented.

Jim Davis, referred to earlier in relation to the Tech Prep program, is a new instructor of computer applications. A retired federal civil servant, Davis holds a bachelor's from the University of Maryland and has been an adjunct instructor at GCC for a year. "Student evaluations of Jim's performance are very high," said Mitchell.

ENROLLMENT REPORT

Mitchell presented the enrollment report figures as of mid-September, which showed that 680 students had enrolled for the fall semester, a 7.2 percent drop from the record of 733 students at the same time last year. The current FTE figure stood at 249.45, down from 266.95 at the same point last year, a 6.6 percent decline.

These declining figures are not seen as a cause for a great deal of concern, as last year's record figures included a number of former Bausch and Lomb workers seeking college studies. As many of them have completed their programs, GCC's enrollment figures are seen as returning to normal.

FUND REDESIGNATION

Michelle Quinn, dean of administration, informed the board that the Maryland Department of Transportation has declined a request for a GCC sign on Route 219 at Bumble Bee Road, towards which the college had agreed to designate $20,000 of its cumulative fund balance this summer. The DOT turned down the request with the explanation that too many signs were already standing in that area, and the added presence of another sign could distract motorists and cause traffic accidents.

On Quinn's recommendation, the board agreed to amend the fund balance designation by eliminating the $20,000 for the GCC sign and increasing the allocation to the Tech Center renovations, a revision that results in the following designations: pole building construction, $100,000; National Guard Armory classroom renovation, $20,000; and Tech Center renovations, $60,000.

Quinn pointed out that the undesignated fund balance next June is projected at approximately $185,000, and that the auxiliary fund balance, which has been operating in the red over recent years, is now in a positive position and will cease to be an offset to the operating fund balance.

MISSION STATEMENT

Herman presented the board with the mission statement of the college, prepared for the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

Some of the highlights of the five-page document included these 10 measurable objectives, under the head-

A brisk breeze chases downy clouds through bright blue skies. The sunshine is deceiving on this cool October day, as young mothers enthusiastically push babies in strollers past elderly couples sitting on park benches.

Scampering, chattering squirrels forage through crackling leaves in search of acorns, hoarding them for the cold winter ahead, when food will be scarce and snow covers the ground. They know instinctively to prepare for the future while food is plentiful, not waiting until frigid winds blow through bare branches.

We also can ensure nourishment for our soul as we worship God in His house each Sabbath. Visit Him and invite Him into your heart. God's love will brighten each day, and will strengthen you when the cold winds of adversity are threatening.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE ARROGANCE OF POWER

October 18, 1998

Background Scripture:
I Kings 12
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 27:15-26

It is tempting for us to assume that Rehoboam and Jeroboam were simply evil men doing what evil men do best: evil! But to put their thoughts and actions into perspective, we must realize that probably neither of these men thought of themselves as evil. Like us and leaders in our own time, they probably both honestly believed in the rightness of their actions. Most evil people do not start out to be evil, but simply become evil in the arrogant way in which they exercise power.

Actually, I am more fearful of the person who is unreservedly certain that he is doing the smart thing than the one who knowingly sets out to do evil. The former is, I think, the most dangerous, because he or she does not realize and acknowledge the human capacity to be and do wrong. One of my seminary professors, Reinhold Niebuhr has written that, "Power always thinks that it has a great soul and vast views beyond the comprehension of the weak; and that it is doing God's service when it is violating all His laws" (The Irony of American History). I can imagine that both Rehoboam and Jeroboam entertained the assumption that they were "doing God's service" as Niebuhr put it.

THEY HAD CHOICES

It is also significant to me that neither of these men were forced to make the choices that proved so disastrous. Rehoboam, the son of King Solomon, was assured of the support of the entire twelve tribes of Israel if he would but "lighten the hard service of your father and his heavy yoke upon us..." (12:4). Nor could Rehoboam blame his bad decision on his court, for he had a choice between the wise counsel of his elder advisors and the harsh words recommended by his young advisors.

Note the arrogance of their reply: "...this you shall say to them, 'My little finger is thicker than my father's loins. And now, whereas my father laid upon you a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke. My father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions" (12:11). Did these men really believe words such as these would bring the nation under Rehoboam's control. Apparently they did. As harsh as those words sound, they are possibly no more cynical than the advice some advisors and consultants give to political figures in our own time.

The case of Jeroboam was different. None of the tribes, except that of Judah (and Benjamin), would submit to Rehoboam, who had practically handed the rest of Israel to Jeroboam on a silver platter. And he made a good start: warned by a prophet not to raise an army to conquer Rehoboam and the men of Judah, he canceled his invasion plans. So far, so good.

POLITICAL GROUNDS

But Jeroboam soured a good beginning with a disastrous ending. Assured of the support of the ten tribes of Israel, Jeroboam made a religious decision on political grounds and it proved to be disastrous. Fearing that if his people returned to Jerusalem to worship as they had since the time of David, they would want to defect to Rehoboam, he decided to keep them from Jerusalem by setting up places of worship in both Dan and Bethel. Cocky with power, he also decided not to use the God-appointed Levites as priests and replaced traditional worship with obeisance to calves of gold. I'll bet he thought that was a really clever idea!

William J. Gaynor, a Mayor of New York City, has said, "We have more to fear from the growth of arbitrary power in officials than from all other vices and crimes combined." Power is a drug that numbs our sensibilities and befuddles our brains. Among antitrust lawyers there is a saying: "Show me the power and I will show you its abuse." Why, because, necessary as it is to lead and govern, power tends to corrupt human nature.

Whether practiced in the state house, the White House or your house, it can be dangerously intoxicating.

These Firms invite you to a House of Worship each week

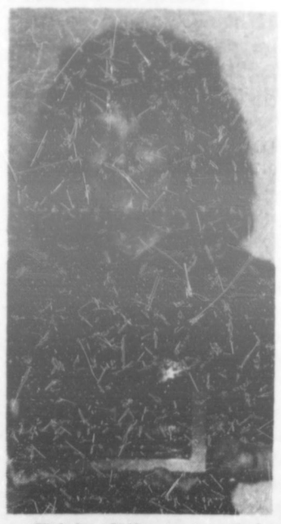
Winquest Inducted Into Neb. Rock And Roll Hall



Tricia Winquest, Oakland, was recently inducted into the Nebraska Rock and Roll Hall of Fame for her accomplishments as co-owner of Sandy's Escape, a noted teen nightclub in Omaha in the 1960s and '70s. The induction ceremony was held at the hall of fame, located in Omaha.

Winquest and her partner, disc jockey Sandy Jackson, opened their doors on New Year's Eve, 1964. By the end of the opening night, over 1,000 teens had visited the 600-person capacity club after waiting in line in the winter weather.

Sandy's Escape, which soon caught the attention of the music industry's trade magazines, was formerly a restaurant with a large main floor and a lower floor to match. With the volunteer help of their friends, Winquest and Jackson renovated the structure and transformed it into the most popular gathering spot for the young people of Omaha for the next several years.

Local and regional bands, both experienced and beginners, played on both floors often jammed with young dancers, and the club's stage gave a boost to a myriad of talented young musicians who were getting their start in those early days of rock music.

One of those Omaha-based bands, the Chevrons, also received a Hall of Fame award during Winquest's induction ceremony. She discovered the group practicing in a garage in 1964 when its members were 14 and 15 years old, and as their original manager she is credited with giving them a start that culminated in their becoming one of the top rock groups in the region during their college years.

Although some members of the Chevrons have relocated to other states in the intervening decades, the original band reunited for the recent Hall of Fame awards ceremony. With only two days of rehearsal, they performed for 1½ hours for an ecstatic crowd of over 2,000 baby boomers who had been their loyal fans 30 years ago.

As Winquest joined the Chevrons onstage for a reunion, the leader of the band said, "She was like a second mom to us, always encouraging and uplifting. She put us on a pedestal, gave us confidence, and we ran with it."

Winquest, who has been an Oakland resident for the last three years, was joined by four of her seven children at her induction, two of whom traveled from Texas, one from California, and one who resides in Omaha.

Good Will From Goodwill

by Miriam Loos and Clara Withnell

Autumn has slowed the gardening, but Goodwill Nursing Home residents are still enjoying the fruits of their labors. Freda Moser, Ellen Saunders, and Elsie Vitez are waiting to harvest white and sweet potatoes and are still enjoying the tomatoes and parsley. One of the residents was heard to say, "Cooked cabbage will taste so good!" They all liked the corn on the cob, cucumbers, tomatoes, and fried squash cooked by Martha Bender's staff and distributed by Elaine Yoder.

September brought a variety of activities. For the Labor Day picnic, Miriam Blough of Short Gap, W.Va., played the accordion and Geraldine Garrett followed her from room to room, singing whatever songs she knew. One day Linda Lancaster brought a litter of puppies for residents to cuddle. Two good nature films the residents enjoyed were "Beaver Valley" and "Bear Country." Oak Grove Mennonite Church hosted the Tea Party and brought some of their home-canned meats, vegetables, preserves, and juices to show off. The Birthday Party was hosted by a group from Jennings United Methodist Church who were all dressed as clowns. The birthday honorees were: Dorothy Fifer, Mary Durst (resident member), Mary Cesnick, Verna Frazee, Fred Humberson, and Lura Folk, who celebrated her 100th birthday.

For chapel services we are grateful for: George Aist of Frostburg Methodist Church (resident members Albert Neal and Edith Kennedy), John Crow of Maple Springs Church of the Brethren in Eglon, W.Va. (resident member Ernest Arnold), Steve Lightner of Mt. Zion Methodist Church and Emmanuel Methodist Church in Frostburg, and Terrill Mallow of Maple Grove Church of the Brethren.

Jack Smouse reported on the following evening programs and participants: Grace Bible Church sang and played the hammered dulcimer, guitar, fiddle, and piano; Joe Byler and 10 kids sang and played the accordion, guitar, violin, and piano; singers from Maple Glen and Little Meadows Baptist churches; Milton Johnson from Cumberland played the accordion; Mr. and Mrs. Gary Steyer played base and guitar while their daughter Cathy fiddled; for Labor Day, Duane Frederick of Meadow Mountain spoke and played guitar and sang; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morgan of Carpendale, W.Va.; three Beitzel brothers of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church played guitar, saxophone, and violin, and sang; Trinity Assembly of God from Midlothian; Starlighters from Berlin played piano and bells, and sang; Full Gospel Church; Church of the Brethren from Cumberland played piano; Jean Richardson played piano; Glendale Assembly of God Church of Midlothian played guitars and sang; Donna Sites sang; a group from Swanton Mennonite Church sang a cappella; Mr. and Mrs. Lowery came with Charles and Barbara Winebrenner, who were leaving shortly afterwards for Russia to establish two churches in the Grenoble area; Heaven's Mountain Band from Swallow Falls and Oakland played mandolin, guitar, and banjo, and sang; Dry Run Mennonite Church choir sang a cappella; Sand Springs Church of God; Abigail Malay, niece of certified nursing assistants Ruth Malay and Sue Pritts, played her harp; Lolly Yommer of Jennings Church of God (resident member Amanda Wilburn); Glory Bound Singers; World Lighthouse; men's choir from Church of the Brethren in Meyersdale; Edna Clark, Mary Duncan, and Jim Miller; and a youth group from God's Ark of Safety. One of our first-time entertainers was Leonard Eiswert, an attorney from Oakland. Another newcomer was Susan Weisbrod and her brother, Richard Kusy, who played guitar and sang.

The Villagers welcome new residents Grady and Margaret Forrester, whose mother, Ottie Meadows, lives at the home. We are also looking forward to welcoming Evelyn and Jack Slocomb when they finally move in.

NMS DARE ESSAY WINNERS - The DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) Program of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Garrett County Board of Education held commencement exercises recently for 160 graduates at Northern Middle School. The entire sixth grade participated in the program, composed of 17 classes taught by sheriff's deputy and DARE officer Charles Nolan and NMS health teacher Linda Wengerd. Over 250 family members and friends attended the graduation ceremony, which included public readings of four award-winning student essays on the topic "Taking a Stand: How do You Feel about the DARE Program?" Shown above, in the front row from the left, are essay contest winners Robert Stark, Tyler Brenneman, Samantha Hoover, and Stephanie Foutz. Standing behind the essayists are Sheriff P.R. "Dick" Sanders, Garrett County Commissioner-elect Ernest Gregg, Wengerd, and Nolan.

Driver Caution Urged As Deer Activity Rises

Fall is a time of movement and migration for many of western Maryland's wildlife species, including white-tailed deer. After maintaining an annual home range of about one square mile throughout much of the year, deer increase their daily movements and become more active during the fall. These movements lead to the increased risk of deer/car collisions on Garrett County roadways.

The shortening daylight hours of autumn trigger the beginning of deer reproductive cycles, with the peak of breeding coming during the first two weeks of November. As bucks begin to search for receptive females, they may separate the male fawn of the year from its mother. Yearling bucks, participating in their first breeding season, may move many miles from their natal home range.

"All of this natural white-tailed deer movement increases the numbers of deer crossing highways," Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John Griffin said. "This in turn increases the chances for motorists to strike deer."

Over the past five years, the number of deer/vehicle collisions reported to DNR have nearly doubled, from just over 1,900 in 1995 to 3,600 in 1998. The department encourages motorists to increase their awareness of deer during the fall breeding season and offers the following suggestions to decrease the odds of striking a deer:

- A deer standing calmly in a field may suddenly jump into the road; anticipate the potential for this rapid change.
- If a deer is observed crossing the road ahead, slow down and scan for more deer; many times additional deer are out of view.
- Slow down to avoid hitting a deer, but do not swerve; swerving can cause loss of control. Injuries to drivers and passengers increase when the vehicle swerves.
- Be especially aware during the morning and afternoon; deer move between feeding areas and bedding sites during these hours.
- Deer crossing signs should be heeded with elevated awareness on motorists' part; these warning signs indicate locations of greater deer activity.

GCC's Board

ing of short-term goals and initiatives:

- By 2000, every GCC faculty member will have been trained in the electronic delivery of course work and the enrichment of instruction through computer technologies.
- By 2000, GCC will be importing courses via distance education, and by 2001 GCC will be exporting courses in areas of special expertise.
- By 2002, GCC's retention rate will not be less than the statewide median.
- By 2003, GCC will have completely weeded out and replaced out-of-date titles from its hardcopy library collection.
- By 2003, GCC will budget not less that $1,000 per full time faculty member for professional development.
- By 2003, GCC will be a recognized national leader in Adventure Sports and a recognized regional leader in studies in natural resources and in alternative agriculture.
- By 2003, GCC will have bid for the architectural and engineering phase of a new academic building.
- By 2003, GCC's combined FTE will be not less than 800.
- By 2003, GCC will be recognized regionally and nationally as a leader in rural telecommunications.
- By 2003, GCC's salary scale will be competitive with at least one other small Maryland community college.

"These are some high goals we have set for ourselves," Herman commented, "but we have the staff and community support available to us to help us meet every one of them. GCC is in a position to make a name for itself as the 21st century begins."

The board voted unanimously to approve the mission statement.

ADVENTURE SPORTS

The Adventure Sports program, identified within the mission statement as one of GCC's three signature programs, along with the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology and Agricultural Management Technology programs, will be the subject of upcoming articles in two nationally published magazines, Men's Health and Forbes.

The AVS Program will also be profiled in an upcoming episode of the popular PBS television program Trailside. Five days of local filming by a PBS crew wrapped up earlier this week, and the program is slated to run on PBS stations nationwide during the week of Dec. 21-26.

COVER STORY

Africans in America fills the information gap

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Orlando Bagwell

Viewers who tune into PBS' Africans in America this week will be rewarded with a memorable journey.

Rich in sound, word and image, the nonfiction miniseries airs in four 90-minute installments from Monday, Oct. 19, through Thursday, Oct. 22 (check local listings). Spanning the years from the Jamestown colony in 1607 to the post-Civil War era, it adds a missing dimension of black experience to the story of the nation's founding.

Part 1 of the series, The Terrible Transformation, explains how the indentured servitude of both whites and blacks was used to build the North American colonies. When the first Africans arrived by chance on the Virginia coast in 1619, they were put to work alongside white indentured laborers.

"In 1619," notes historical novelist Charles Johnson (Middle Passage), "people were not categorized in terms of races."

Changes came "law by law," as the film's narrative puts it, first in Virginia and later in such colonies as Carolina, which had institutionalized slavery from its founding.

Part 2, Revolution, uses individual stories of slaves and masters – including Virginia planter George Washington – to explore the tension between the colonists' desire to free themselves from tyranny and their continued suppression of the rights of thousands in their midst.

"There's a way of life that is driving the continuation of slavery," Johnson explains. "More than anything else, that is what's hard to give up."

The tension continued after the Revolution. Concessions were made to slavery as an expedient for ratifying the Constitution, yet eventually, Johnson says, "Our presence forces the founders to live up to their own ideals."

and Judgment Day, chronicle the slave rebellions and abolitionist movement. More laws are passed, compelling the return of escaped slaves to their masters. This new legislation forces every citizen to become involved on a moral level.

Africans in America personalizes the epic of slavery through the memoirs of literate black Americans of the time who took care to record their individual odysseys. Readers include actors Andre Braugher and William Hurt. Angela Bassett is the series' narrator.

Viewers learn of John Brown's raid on Harpers Ferry and feel the terror of runaway slaves rounded up and herded onto southbound trains, much like the Jews of World War II Europe. In Part 3, genealogist Karen Hughes White reads out the names of her ancestors from a document recording the sale of Thomas Jefferson's slaves.

Executive producer Orlando Bagwell is optimistic about the impact Africans in America will have on those who invest the time to see it.

"Through a clear and constructive understanding of our past, there is the opportunity for growth and healing," Bagwell says.

"This is not a black history or a white history, but a story that explores how white and black slavery and freedom are connected at the hip."

TV-PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels
©TVData Features Syndicate

Debra Jo Rupp

Q: Who plays the mom of the main character on That '70s Show? –Mike Dues via e-mail.

A: That's comedy veteran Debra Jo Rupp playing relentlessly chipper Kitty Foreman in the new Fox hit. It's the fifth series role for Rupp, who previously co-starred in Over the Top, If Not for You, The Office and Davis Rules.

She also has guest starred on numerous series, including To Have & to Hold, The Adventures of Brisco County Jr., Blossom and Caroline in the City. She had a recurring role on Friends and played Katie, Jerry's obsessive agent, on two episodes of Seinfeld.

Outside of her series work, Rupp played Marilyn See in the HBO miniseries From the Earth to the Moon and appeared in such feature films as Clockwatchers, Sgt. Bilko and Death Becomes Her.

Q: We were having commercial flashbacks the other night. Whatever happened to the woman who played Mother Nature in the old margarine commercials ("It's not nice to fool Mother Nature")? –Crystal and Bob Lallier, Lodi, Calif.

A: Actress Dena Dietrich has been working steadily on television since the 1970s and, in fact, made a guest appearance on Mad About You last March.

She had a recurring role as Phyllis, Phil's wife, on Murphy Brown and in recent seasons also has appeared on Boy Meets World, The Burning Zone, NYPD Blue and Good Grief.

Dietrich has a featured role in The Sky Is Falling, a new movie thriller with Dedee Pfeiffer, Laura Leighton and Eric Close.

A: Scott Paulin (I'll Fly Away) played Corey Randall during the 1993-94 season.

Q: Is the man who plays C.D. on Walker, Texas Ranger the same actor who played J.J. Starbuck several years ago? –Betsy Legg via e-mail.

A: No. Veteran actor Dale Robertson played billionaire J.J. Starbuck on the 1987-88 NBC adventure series. That's Noble Willingham playing C.D. Parker on Walker.

Q: How did the actor who played Virgil Tibbs on In the Heat of the Night die? –Denise in Los Fresnos, Texas.

A: Howard Rollins lost his Heat job due to multiple drug arrests, but he died of lymphoma on Dec. 8, 1996.

Q: Did Michael T. Weiss (The Pretender) ever play on Guiding Light? –The Blodgetts via e-mail.

A: No, but he got his start on Days of Our Lives.

Bloodmobile Scheduled At Oakland Church

A Red Cross bloodmobile is scheduled at St. Peter's Catholic Church, 220 S. Fourth Street, Oakland, on Friday, Oct. 23, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. All eligible donors are urged to support this bloodmobile, which is requesting all blood types.

To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years old, weigh a minimum of 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally, individuals can give blood every 56 days. Those who donated at the August 21 bloodmobile at the Oakland Elks Lodge will be eligible to donate on October 23.

Individuals with specific eligibility questions may contact the Red Cross at 1-800-542-5663.

Local residents and patients are among those served through Red Cross Blood Services, Johnstown Region, which directly serves hospitals, patients, and donors in 66 counties in parts of Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. The regional Red Cross must collect at least 750-800 units of blood a day to meet patients' needs.

In mid-September, following a trend of low collections at regional bloodmobiles, the Johnstown Blood Services Region issued a critical appeal for blood.

According to Diane Bolt, blood services director for the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross, collections have improved throughout the region. Inventories for most blood types are at the desirable level, which is a three-day supply, except for O Negative, which is at a one-day supply.

"To maintain these desirable inventory levels, donors must continue to donate at their community bloodmobiles; and I would encourage the Oakland folks to donate at the upcoming bloodmobile scheduled on October 23," stated Bolt.

Participates In SSU Wilderness Orientation Prog.

RAGE AGAINST THE MACHINE

A local student recently participated in Salisbury State University's award-winning Freshman Orientation in the Wilderness Program. Kenneth Perrin Jr., 18, son of Kenneth and Nancy Perrin of Swanton, pictured above, plans to major in business administration at SSU.

All new Salisbury State students are required to complete a university orientation program. They may choose from a variety of orientation options, including wilderness experiences such as cycling in Maine, sailing on the Chesapeake Bay, or canoeing in Ontario, Canada. Perrin opted for the canoeing trip.

"These trips foster both a sense of self-reliance and trust among students. Remarkably, participants drop out of college at a lower rate than their classmates, become more involved in student life, and generally do well academically," stated a spokesman for the university.

Some 6,000 students in 29 undergraduate and seven graduate programs pursue liberal arts and professional degrees at SSU. For the second consecutive year, U.S. News and World Report recently has ranked SSU among the top 10 public regional universities in the North.

Fall Weather May Lead To Snakes Entering Homes

by John Surrick
Dept. of Natural Resources

Now that autumn is here, snakes are starting to show up in basements and other places where they may not be wanted, looking for places to hibernate. Snakes normally hibernate in crevices under rocks, trees, stream banks, and occasionally in buildings. Sometimes when they crawl into basements and ground floors of buildings, they can't find their way out.

"When situations like this occur, we want people to remember that snakes can be removed from a building safely without killing them," explained Glenn Therres of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Wildlife and Heritage Division. "Believe it or not, snakes are just as afraid of people as some people are afraid of them. The person who unexpectedly finds a snake in a basement or building need not panic."

Most snakes in Maryland are nonpoisonous and can be removed simply and easily without harming the snake or person. Several methods can be used. One is to sweep the snake into a bucket or empty garbage can. Another method is to pick the snake up with a rake or broom handle and place it in a bucket or empty trash can. Then take it outside and let it go at a reasonable distance from the building, releasing it into a forest or field. There is no need to kill the snake; in fact, it is against state law to intentionally kill native wildlife without a permit.

Snakes are an integral part of the environment, and an important part of the food chain. As predators, they feed on mice, rats, insects, and other pest species. They are also prey for hawks, herons, raccoons, and other predators.

Snake identification can be difficult, so one should use caution when removing the snake. Unless the person is familiar with handling snakes, it is best to pick it up with something other than one's hands. To the inexperienced observer, all snakes appear to have heads distinctly wider than their bodies (which is how poisonous snakes are often described) and therefore might be incorrectly thought to be poisonous.

The snakes most commonly found in basements in Maryland are black rat snakes, ring-necked snakes, and garter snakes. Adult black rat snakes are black on top with white bellies, and can be as long as four or five feet in length. Young black rat snakes are usually less than 12 inches in length, having a gray or tan back with black or dark brown spots distributed randomly from its neck to tail. When startled, black rat snakes will rattle their tail, mimicking rattlesnakes. Though black rat snakes can bite, they are nonpoisonous.

Ring-necked snakes are small (usually less than 12 inches in length), with dark brown or black backs, and a cream-colored ring around its neck. Its belly is pink or orange in color. Garter snakes have brown to greenish colored backs, with three tan stripes running from the head to tail. Some garter snakes have small dark spots instead of stripes. A few other species have been found in buildings in Maryland.

There are only two species of poisonous snakes native to Maryland. Copperheads are found statewide. They have cream, beige, or orange-colored backs, with dark brown hour-glass-shaped bands going from side to side. Young copperheads have a yellow-tipped tail. Timber rattlesnakes are the other poisonous species in Maryland. They are found only in the mountains. There are two color phases of timber rattlesnakes: Yellow backs with dark brown or black spots are the more common variety. Dark brown or black is the other color. Both have distinct rattles on their tails. The chances of finding either species in a basement or building are slim, though if the building is in wooded areas, especially in the mountains, it is possible.

Special Concert Slated At FSU For This Sunday

The Frostburg State University Department of Music, in conjunction with the Centennial Homecoming '98 Celebration, will present a special "President's Concert" this Sunday, Oct. 18, at 3 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of the FSU Performing Arts Center.

This event will feature the musical talents of several student scholarship recipients and FSU ensembles. Opening the program is the Collegium Musicum, FSU's premier vocal ensemble, under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg.

Other performers will include: Ken Odom, tuba; Ken Oldham, guitar; Heather Frey, clarinet; Sara Jester, voice; Jim Bowser, tenor; Dan Burk, guitar; Amy Delano, clarinet; and Amy Riffle, piano. Also featured will be the Taiko Drum ensemble and the FSU Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Dr. Jon Bauman.

This Homecoming '98 event is free and open to the public. For more information, persons may contact the Department of Music at 301-687-7454.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations at FSU through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Unclaimed Funds Owners Sought By Comptroller

"October is known as Consumer Information Month. One way we're raising public awareness of Maryland's unclaimed property law is by advertising the names of the 6,000 most recently reported owners of unclaimed funds in a newspaper supplement," said Maryland State Comptroller Robert L. Swann.

The comptroller's office is placing an eight-page unclaimed property advertising supplement in 29 newspapers throughout the state from October 12 to October 24 to help locate about 6,000 individuals and businesses who are among the most recently reported owners of millions of dollars in unclaimed funds. The supplement will appear in The Republican on Thursday, Oct. 15.

Persons can also search more than 40,000 of the most recently reported unclaimed property accounts on the comptroller's website: www.marylandtaxes.com.

"If you see your name listed in the supplement or match a listing on our website, please call our unclaimed property office toll-free at 1-800-782-7383," Swann said. "Most of these advertised accounts are still being held by insurance companies and financial institutions, and we will direct callers to the proper place to make their claim. Our service is absolutely free."

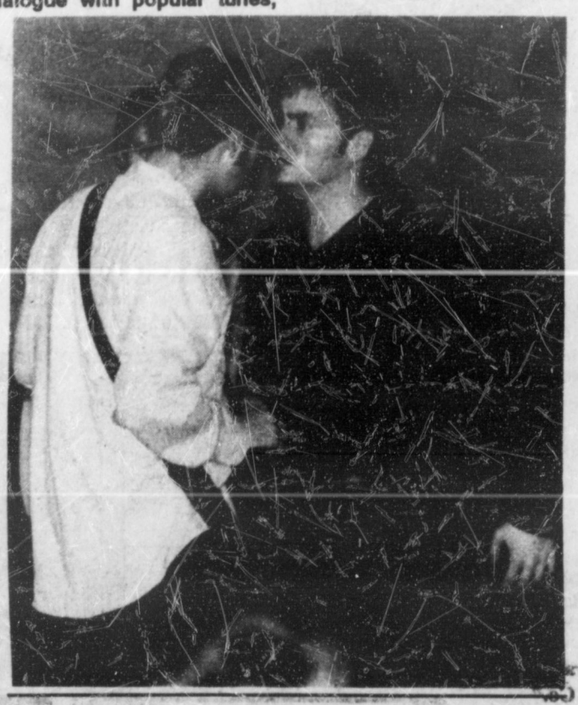
Insurance companies, financial institutions, and other businesses are required to report funds that have been unclaimed for five years. The fall advertisement mostly reflects insurance benefits, such as life insurance benefits which went unclaimed because the policy was not discovered during the settlement of an estate, insurance policies that had a cash value even though all the premiums weren't paid, or medical insurance benefits that were misdirected in the mail and did not reach the proper recipient.

Approximately 30 days after the publication of the supplement, businesses that hold unclaimed accounts will turn the remaining unclaimed money over to the state. However, that money remains the property of the owners or their legitimate heirs and they can claim the funds any time. There is no statute of limitations.

The comptroller's office advertises the most recently reported names of unclaimed property owners each spring and fall. "Our statewide advertising campaign last spring generated about 16,500 inquiries," Swann said. "The comptroller's office has records on approximately 300,000 accounts of unclaimed property worth about $100 million which have been reported over the past 30 years. In fiscal year 1998, we returned $10,830,155 in unclaimed funds to 8,977 individuals and businesses. The average claim was $1,206," he added.

Businesses with questions about how to report unclaimed funds may also call the unclaimed property section at 1-800-782-7383. They may also call the Comptroller's Forms-by-Fax system to obtain Business Tax Tip #19, Reporting Unclaimed Property. This tax tip is listed as document number 4019 on index two of the Forms-by-Fax system. To request this document, persons should dial 410-974-FAXX (3299) and follow the verbal instructions.

FLASHPOINT* CONFRONTS RAGE - A dramatic presentation for students at Northern, Southern, and Salisbury high schools last week spotlighted harsh issues of rage, drugs, and violence. The drama's sponsor, ARC productions, based in Allegan, Mich., draws on the skills of an acting company composed of young adult volunteers. In Flashpoint, through a rock-concert format that included live music, drama and video, the young performers presented a message challenging and encouraging students to make positive decisions at critical moments. In the photos above and below, interspersing dialogue with popular tunes, characters in the production seethed with rage and reached for substances to quell the anger rather than dealing with the source of the emotion. Destructive results of anger on the relationships among the group members were also portrayed by the actors, who then modeled methods of controlling one's behaviors and reactions and uses of conflict resolution. "Because of the documented correlation between substance abuse and violent behavior, addressing these subjects together is essential to today's youth," said and ARC spokesman.



Medical Equip. On Free Loan To Those With MS

Area residents with a confirmed diagnosis of multiple sclerosis (MS) may be eligible to receive the free loan of therapeutic medical equipment such as wheelchairs, portable ramps, canes, walkers, and other items, according to the Multiple Sclerosis Association of America. MSAA, now heading into its 29th year of service, provides the free loan of such equipment to qualified members who cannot secure assistive devices either on their own or though private insurance or government programs. To learn more about this program, those interested may call the MS Association at 1-800-833-4672 or access www.msaa.com.

In addition to standard pieces of therapeutic equipment, the program offers a limited supply of custom equipment as well as the loan of "cool suits." Utilizing NASA spinoff technology, the cool suit (vest and cooling unit) lowers the wearer's body temperature by one degree. Studies have shown this lowering of body temperature offers temporary symptom relief for some MS sufferers.

"Leading an active and independent life is crucial for someone coping with MS," said MSAA President John Hodson Sr. "Our equipment loan program covers a wide range of items which help patients break down many barrier and, in return, restore their mobility, independence, and safety."

Multiple sclerosis is the leading neurological disorder of young adults, afflicting as many as 500,000 Americans. Common symptoms include blindness, tremors, extreme fatigue, and loss of mobility. While MS is not fatal, the condition is chronic and affects a person's physical, emotional, and financial well-being.

The Multiple Sclerosis Association of America is a national nonprofit agency dedicated to assisting the quality of life for MS patient and their family members. In addition to the equipment loan program, MSAA services include a toll-free hotline, peer counseling, literature, support groups, symptom management research, barrier-free housing, MRI diagnostic fund, referrals, awareness and advocacy.

Commerce Dept. Ranks State 16th In Job Creation

The United States Department of Commerce issued a report this week that ranked Maryland 16th in job growth in 1997, a significant jump from 1995's rank of 41.

"This is great news for Maryland," said Governor Parris Glendening. "It's just more evidence that Maryland's economy is booming. For the first time in nine years, our growth rate has exceeded the national average."

According to the governor's office, Maryland's growth in existing home sales, income, and a decline in unemployment insurance are all "strong indicators of the state's continuing economic vitality."

The Maryland Business Research Partnership has ranked Maryland in the top half of the nation for employment growth, with its report citing Maryland's workforce as "one of the best educated and most productive in the country." Maryland ranks third nationally in the number of scientists and engineers with advanced degrees.

4-H Sponsoring Trail Ride To Benefit St. Jude

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital has announced that Saddle Tramps 4-H Club of Oakland will conduct a "Saddle-Up for St. Jude Trail Ride" on October 18 in Pleasant Valley. Volunteer riders are needed for the Trail Ride, which will raise funds for the world-famous research center in its battle against childhood cancer and other catastrophic childhood diseases.

In the Saddle Up Trail Ride, riders ask sponsors to make a donation based on each mile completed of the 10-mile outing. All riders turning in money will receive a ribbon. Those who raise $35 or more will receive a ribbon and a St. Jude T-shirt. When $75 or more is raised, the rider will receive a sports bag in addition to a ribbon and T-shirt. Anyone who raises $125 or more will receive a sweatshirt in addition to the other prizes noted.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, located in Memphis, Tenn., was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases in children. St Jude is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and has provided total medical care to over 14,500 patients. All costs of treatment beyond those reimbursed by insurance are covered by the hospital.

Persons may contact Connie Hoalcraft at 301-334-8854 or a member of Saddle Tramps 4-H Club for details on riding or sponsoring a rider.

COCO CHANEL: REINVENTING FASHION

Though she's remembered primarily for quilted bags, boxy knit suits, the little black dress and exquisite perfumes, Jeanne Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel actually evolutionized fashion, transforming men's fabrics, cuts and practical designs into sporty ensembles for the free-spirited flapper of the teens and '20s.

This purveyor of luxury goods for the rich, featured in November's Biography magazine, was the daughter of an itinerant trader and his girlfriend who abandoned her in a convent where the nuns taught her to sew. By 20, she found work as a seamstress, moonlighting as a chanteuse. Her big number "Who's Seen Coco in the Trocadero?" was stylish enough to win her both her nickname and her first rich admirer. She became Etienne Balsan's mistress. He bankrolled her first business, a millinery shop that specialized in sleek, streamlined hats. Parisian women were tired of the elaborate headdresses then in vogue. She was an instant success.

Next, she met the wealthy Englishman Arthur "Boy" Capel who financed Chanel's expansion into clothing. Unable to afford expensive fabrics, she cultivated a jaunty style, borrowing from the simplicity of menswear. Her unique style proved popular with well-heeled resort patrons. Even World War I helped her business since she was the only designer who kept her shop open. She began creating costumes for ballets and dramas, collaborating with Stravinsky, Diaghilev, Cocteau and others. She introduced Chanel No. 5, the first designer perfume. A six-year affair with the wealthy Duke of Westminster produced a line of innovative English-inspired tweed suits.

During World War II, unlike many other French designers, Chanel befriended the enemy, even having an affair with a Nazi officer, which later branded her a traitor. In 1954, at 71, she attempted a comeback. Her practical yet stylish new line flopped in Europe but was a smash in sportier America, where she remained an icon until her death in 1971.

Q. The mark on the back of my scenic plate looks like a teacup with "G Zell S" inside. Can you identify the maker?

A. Your plate was made between 1908 and 1928 by Georg Schmider Zell in Hamersback, Badenia, Germany. Schmider made many plates with scenes of the Black Forest region.

Q. How can I tell the difference between a hatpin holder, a salt shaker and a sugar shaker? Are sugar shakers still being made?

A. Hatpin holders were made from about 1860 to 1920. That was when hatpins were most popular.

Some hatpin holders look like salt shakers or sugar shakers. There are clues that can help you tell the difference.

Salt and sugar shakers usually have domed tops; hatpin holders usually have flat tops. Hatpin holders usually have flat bases, and if they have a hole in the bottom, it's small; salt and sugar shakers have a welled bottom with a large hole for a cork. The well helped to catch any overflow of salt or sugar as it was poured.

Sugar shakers, which are larger than salt shakers, are still being made. You can find them in diners and country-style restaurants.

Q. I have a teaspoon engraved with the mark "Rockford S.P. Co." Any information?

A. The Racine Silver Plate Co. was founded in Wisconsin in 1872. The factory burned down in 1882. The stockholders reopened the company later that year in Rockford, Ill., and renamed the firm the "Rockford Silver Plate, Co."

When the company was sold to Raymond Sheets in 1925, its name was changed to "Sheets-Rockford Silver Plate Co."

Your spoon was made sometime between 1882 and 1925.

POTATO MAGIC – The other day I was making homemade potato salad and for the life of me, I couldn't find that darned vegetable peeler. I had an old cheese slicer lying in the drawer and thought I'd give that a try. Guess what! It actually worked pretty well.

I thought I would pass this on. That old cheese slicer came in pretty handy when it came to peeling those blasted potatoes. I only could go one way, but what the heck? When worse comes to worst, you use what you have. Liz D., Phoenix, Ariz.

WHAT BRAND? – Paper-towel brand names are easy to remember if you stuff the plastic wrapper up inside the paper tube when you start to use them. Dave C., Middletown, Pa.

DRIED OUT – I am in charge of preparing communion for our church services and have found that after washing the glass communion cups, a quick way of drying them is to use the hair dryer.

The glasses are too small to dry with a towel and blow-drying them works great. Hannah F., Camarillo, Calif.

Local Educators Attend Forum On Safe Schools

Three members of Northern Garrett High School's Safety Committee recently attended a statewide conference titled "Safe Schools: A Shared Responsibility Shaping the Future," at the Baltimore Convention Center. Representing NHS were Robert Yunker, chair of the Safety Team; Mary Douds, guidance counselor; and Vonda Yunker, teacher.

Jointly sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education, the Office of the Lieutenant Governor, and the Maryland State Teachers Association, the conference had a two-fold purpose: to give information on programs and activities that promote positive behavior and reduce student disruption, and to provide work sessions to develop action plans for local schools.

"The conference served as a catalyst for school/community teams to shape safe and orderly learning environments where teachers can teach and students can learn," said Robert Yunker.

The 600 attendees were addressed by a number of state and nationally known figures, including Lt. Gov. Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, who presided over the meeting; Sen. Paul Sarbanes, who made the opening remarks; Dr. Nancy Grasmick, state school superintendent; and Gov. Parris Glendening, who announced forthcoming additional state monies for the Safe Schools project.

Keynote speaker Richard Riley, U.S. secretary of education, advocated safer schools, better discipline, higher academic standards, improved teaching and learning, greater family involvement, improved access to college, expanded availability of technology for classroom use, and community-based solutions to educational improvement.

Luncheon speakers included Dr. Crystal Kuykendall, whose address was titled "Shaping the Future by Bringing Out the Best in All Students," and Heather Davis, Miss Maryland 1998, who spoke on anti-violence and anti-drug programs.

The keynote speaker on the second day, Dr. Scott Poland, is chairman of the National Emergency Assistance Team and director of psychological services for the Cypress-Fairbanks Independent School District, Houston, Tex.

Poland was selected as the National Association of School Psychologists representative sent to Oklahoma City, Okla., following the bombing in 1995. He also served as team leader and spokesman for the National Organization for Victim Assistance teams sent to Paducah, Ky., following the Heath High shooting in Jonesboro, Ark., earlier this year.

Poland spoke about lessons learned. His message included ways to try to prevent tragedies and ways to help people cope in the aftermath of tragedy.

From the 50 workshops offered, the NHS team selected Safe School Buildings, Early Warnings, Nuts and Bolts — A School Safety Toolbox, Parents and Communities Promoting Safe Schools, Timely Response — A Guide to Safe Schools, and Team Leaders Orientation.

Yunker noted that although the team did acquire a lot valuable knowledge and the opportunity to develop a more comprehensive safety plan, NHS already has a number of safety programs in place.

"The Northern Garrett High School administration and staff are always cognizant of creating the safest learning environment possible for our students," he stated.

Yunker spoke also of financial advantage for participating in this forum. "One of the greatest benefits from our attendance at the conference is that Northern is now eligible to apply for grant money ranging up to $10,000 to help implement our school safety goals," he concluded.

HONORED BY SMALL BUSINESS - The National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB) recently named Rep. Roscoe Bartlett a winner of its 1998 Guardian of Small Business Award. NFIB presents the award every two years in recognition of outstanding legislative leadership on behalf of small business. NFIB president Jack Faris praised Bartlett for "taking a stand" for small business, citing his 100 percent NFIB voting record. "The record shows that when the roll is called, Rep. Bartlett has been a true and consistent friend of small business," Faris said. NFIB's voting record tallied 13 key small-business votes in the House taken in the 1997-98 sessions. These included issues such as reinstatement of the home office deduction, lessening the "death tax" levied on family-owned businesses, and allowing the self-employed to deduct their health care costs. NFIB represents 600,000 small and independent businesses nationwide. In the photo above is Bartlett, left, as he accepts the award from Faris.

Lung Association Re-Establishes Regional Office

The American Lung Association of Maryland has re-established a regional office in Cumberland in order to better serve western Marylanders. The office, located in the Columbia Building at 11 Columbia Street, will serve as a "gateway" to the western region, according to an association spokesperson, and will make it easier for the Lung Association to offer a number of programs involving asthma, lung disease, air quality, and tobacco control to the surrounding communities. The association provides a variety of services, including sponsoring smoking cessation classes, educating the public on respiratory illnesses, furnishing lung health information to health care providers, and promoting lung research in Maryland.

"More than 47,000 people from Allegany, Garrett, Frederick, and Washington counties suffer from chronic lung diseases," said Lynn Whitall, regional director for the new office. Whitall joined the Lung Association as program coordinator for the Maryland Capital Area office. In that position, she was involved extensively in program development and coordination, public relations, and strategic planning. In her new position, Whitall will be responsible for developing and implementing Lung Association programs in the western Maryland region.

Those interested in learning more about Lung Association programs may call the Cumberland Office at 301-777-7317.

Western Maryland Trauma Seminar Slated At GCC

The Western Maryland Trauma Seminar will be held on Saturday, Nov. 7, and Sunday, Nov. 8, at Garrett Community College. The seminar is being offered by the Maryland Fire & Rescue Institute, the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems, and GCC.

The seminar will include the following sessions: Rural Preventable Mortality — The Role of Airway; Maryland Triage Tag System; Maryland EMS System Update; Conventional & Biological Weapons of Mass Destruction; Bomb Blast Injuries; and Multisystem Trauma Case Review. Workshop sessions will include: Computer Applications to Emergency Services — Web Searches & Interactive Self-Study; EMS Quality Improvement; Behavioral Emergencies — Interactive Lecture & Role Play; and River Rescue.

Registration is open to all emergency services personnel, but will be limited to 150 participants and will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. The seminar will provide both BLS and ALS continuing education. The cost of the seminar is $40 for Maryland residents and $100 for out of state residents. Lodging will be available at the Wisp Resort.

For more information, interested persons may call the Continuing Education Office of GCC at 301-387-3069.

CAPTIVE FREE, a team of young adults who offer a Christian, youth-oriented musical ministry, will perform at St. John's Lutheran Church, Cove Road, Accident, on Friday, Oct. 23, at 7 p.m. The team, which is being hosted by St. John's youth group, will present a program for all ages. The band members commit to a year-long, full-time tour, and perform in hundreds of churches, schools, coffee houses, nursing homes, camps, and prisons. They incorporate contemporary music, drama, puppets, personal sharing, and group building. Youth Encounter, based in Minneapolis, sponsors eight national bands that travel in various regions of the U.S. and two to four international teams. Members of the group that will perform at St. John's are pictured above and include: Cammy Anderson, Rachael Dietz, Lisa Gould, Neysa Gruening, Ryan Hoffman, Mike Ickes, and Joshua Withrow. There is no admission charge to the concert; however, a free-will offering will be accepted. The church is located at 1065 Cove Road, off U.S. Rt. 219 just north of Accident.

MSP To Focus On Preventing Auto Thefts

During the months of October, November, and December, the Maryland State Police, McHenry barrack, will be concentrating their efforts on vehicle theft prevention. The objective is to increase public awareness of the potential for auto thefts in Garrett County.

A rural area emerging as a resort community, Garrett County hosts an increasing number of non-residents from surrounding metropolitan areas. "Wherever there is an increase in population, the potential for crime also increases," said a spokesman for the McHenry barrack.

In a report issued by the state police, it was noted that "most residents of Garrett County are not prone to the crimes that are committed in metropolitan areas." Since most county residents have a sense of security, they may not take many precautions and countermeasures to crime associated with their vehicles, the report said.

The prevention efforts of the state police will include aggressive enforcement of the Unattended Motor Vehicle Law, which states: "A person driving or otherwise in charge of a motor vehicle may not leave it unattended until the engine is stopped, the ignition locked, the key removed, and the brake effectively set."

As part of the prevention project, troopers will be making additional patrol checks at car dealerships and other businesses that have experienced problems in the past.

State police will also promote a voluntary program called "Watch Your Car," which involves registration of a vehicle with Maryland State Police. The vehicle owner signs an agreement acknowledging that the vehicle is not normally used between the hours of 1 a.m. and 5 a.m., and stating that if a police officer observes the vehicle being driven anywhere in the United States during these hours, permission is granted to stop the vehicle and verify that it is being operated by the owner or a designee.

For information persons may contact the McHenry barrack at 301-387-1101 or 301-895-1101.

Chastity Promoter Slated To Speak To Local Students

Renowned motivational chastity speaker Molly Kelly, pictured above, is scheduled to make a series of appearances in Garrett, Preston, and Mineral counties this coming week.

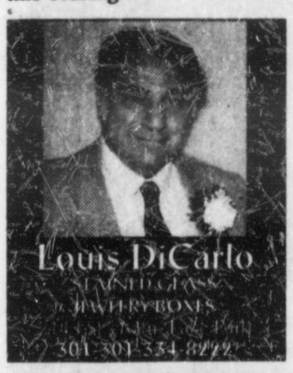
In speaking to approximately 1 million teens annually, Kelly has taken her chastity message to high schools across the United States and Canada, as well as to speaking engagements in England and Australia.

Mother of six sons and two daughters, Kelly said she regards teens as "her favorite people." She added that her goal is to instill a feeling of self-respect and the knowledge that young people can make informed, intelligent decisions in spite of media and peer pressure, as she demonstrates her concern and respect in a positive and upbeat message.

Kelly's area tour will begin on Monday, Oct. 19, at 6:30 p.m., as she speaks at a fund-raising banquet for the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center at 111 Alderson Street in Mtn. Lake Park. On Tuesday, Oct. 20, she will speak to students at Preston High School, Kingwood, W.Va., at 8:45 a.m.; Southern Middle School, Oakland, at 10:15 a.m.; and Northern Middle School, Accident, at 1:15 p.m.

Later that same evening, Kelly will speak at Keyser High School, Keyser, W.Va., at 7 p.m. That particular appearance is open to all interested members of the public, teens and adults. Drawings will be held for gift certificates, and refreshments will be available.

For further, interested persons may call the Mountain Top Crisis Pregnancy Center at 301-334-1058.



Education Group Set For Victims Of Domestic Abuse

An educational group is forming for former and current victims of domestic abuse. These informational classes will be presented by the Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence/sexual abuse resource center.

The sessions will be offered during both day and evening hours. The daytime meetings will be held on Fridays from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. beginning on October 23.

Evening meetings will be held on Wednesdays from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. beginning October 21.

For more information or to schedule a pre-group appointment, persons may contact the Dove Center at 301-334-9000.

Mennonite Head Of Missions To Speak In Springs

Stanley W. Green, president of Mennonite Board of Missions (MBM) since May 1, 1994, will speak at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., on Sunday, Oct. 25, and at 7 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 26 and 27, in the Springs Mennonite Church, Springs, Pa. His topic will be spiritual renewal in the congregation.

Mennonite Board of Missions, the largest Mennonite body in North America, targets evangelism, mission and service.

Prior to leading MBM through a time of restructuring and refocusing its vision, Green's time in Los Angeles, Calif., was divided as an urban missiologist for MBM's Evangelism and Church Development department, and as minister for the Southwest Conference in southern California.

From 1988 to 1993 he went from vice-president to president of what now is the Center for Anabaptist Leadership. Green has held pastorates in Congregational churches in his native South Africa and in Faith Mennonite Church, Downey, Calif.

His bachelor's degree in theology and his master's degree in missiology are from Federal Theological Seminary of Southern Africa. In Pasadena, Calif., at Fuller Theological Seminary Green completed course work for a doctorate in theology and sociology. His doctoral dissertation is titled "An Hermeneutic of the Kingdom of God." Green and his wife Ursula have two sons, Stanley III and James.

Springs Mennonite Church is located at 1686 Springs Road (Route 669), Springs, Pa.

COOL, DAMP CONDITIONS did little to deter thousands of people from downtown Oakland Saturday afternoon, who lined the streets of the town several rows deep to enjoy the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival's Grand Feature Parade. Among the royalty who participated in the event were, pictured above, Autumn Glory Festival Queen Andrea Bender, center, and Princesses Dana Braskey and Crystal Hinnant, left and right, respectively. Another queen in the parade was the 1998 Garrett County Farm Queen Jennifer Barnard, pictured below in the seat of a restored 1933 Farmall tractor. Above right is a shot of the Southern Garrett Marching Band of Southern High School, and directly below that is a similar glimpse of the Northern High School Band. At bottom is a regiment of All Ghan Shrine Club members, who always delight (and occasionally frighten) the crowd with their brigade of miniature motorized vehicles. The Grand Marshal of the parade was former NFL football star, actor, author, singer, and ordained minister, Rosey Grier.

1998 AG Grand Feature Parade Winners Noted

The annual Autumn Glory Festival Parade winners were announced this week by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

In the float category, the Grand Marshall award went to the WEPCO Federal Credit Union, which maintains offices in Bloomington and Oakland.

Amateur division float winners were: first place, Aurora School and Mountain Lions Club, Aurora, W.Va.; second place, Preston County Buckwheat Festival, Kingwood, W.Va.; third place, Walnut Bottom Assembly of God Church, Swanton.

Commercial division float winners were: first place, Brenda's Body Shop, Oakland; second place, Trader's Landing, McHenry; third place, Preston Memorial Hospital, Kingwood.

The professional division float winner was the Terra Alta Bank, Terra Alta, W.Va.

In the category of high school marching bands with more than 70 members playing instruments, first place went to Morgantown High School's Red and Blue Marching Band, Morgantown, W.Va.; second place went to the North County Knights Marching Band, Glen Burnie; and in third place was Elizabeth Forward High School's Warrior Marching Band, Elizabeth, Pa.

"The Redcoats Are Coming!"

Listen, my children, and you shall hear a modern tale of Paul Revere....

"Hey!" yelled Paul, running down Alder Street from the Courthouse. "Hey, everybody, the Redcoats are coming!"

In his excitement, he ran smack into an old family friend holding up the street sign on the corner of Second. "Never mind--" the old man said, helping the boy regain his balance; "the Redcoats--like the clowns--" (he chuckled) "are already here! We've surrendered."

"We have?" gasped Paul. "Why?" He couldn't believe his ears.

"Because the Redcoats send their money and lawyers first. Some people, they buy; the rest, they scare. People are afraid..."

"But who's in charge of the Redcoats? Who's their boss?"

"Nobody knows--for sure. We only know that they operate from Wall Street."

"But they'll destroy us!"

The old man laughed, shaking his head, sadly. "Not really," he said. "They need us too much for that; in fact, they need us more than we need them! No, they won't destroy us... They'll change us."

"How?"

"To get our money, they'll wreck our neighborhoods and our hopes and dreams to live like neighbors. They'll destroy our sense of community; along with our money, they'll take our spirit."

"They can't!" protested Paul. "That wouldn't be fair!"

"They can," the old man sighed. "They've done it before--many places, many times.... It's perfectly legal."

"But how did they get here so fast?" the boy persisted.

"Think!" the old man said. "You already know!"

The boy shook his head and scratched his brain until a light bulb lit and a quick look of horror took possession of face. "We built the road for them!" he exclaimed. "We paved the way!"

"And?"

"And--and most people didn't give it much thought!"

"And," the old man muttered to himself, "we elected politicians and hired consultants not unfriendly to Wall Street."

"Is there no hope?" the boy asked pleaded.

"Well," the old man said, "it's a rare judge who doesn't have a Wall Street bed--"

"Is there no hope?" the boy persisted.

"We'll see," the old man said; "we'll see..."

Would you sacrifice family farms and pay $48,000,000 to shave 2-3 minutes from your drive through Oakland on your way to the mall? > Steve Schlosnagle wouldn't.

Abundance Of Acorns May Result In Less Bear Damage To Crops

by Steve Bittner
DNR Forest Game Biologist

October is a time of year that many people enjoy tremendously. The summer weather is gone and fall weather has arrived. The days are cooler, and trees are turning on their wonderful array of fall colors. Hunters are out enjoying early hunting seasons, while others are enjoying high school football and other fall sports.

Black bears find October to be a month of critical importance in their survival. It's at this time of year that bears forage extensively for foods high in carbohydrates. These high energy foods are important, as bears must fatten up for the upcoming winter season. Bears may travel great distances to take advantage of available food sources during this period. Large amounts of fat must be stored in order for bears to survive the long winter season.

The primary food source for bears in October is acorns and other nuts. Acorns, both from the white oak group and the black oak group, provide the necessary carbohydrate levels that bears need to produce large amounts of fat. Some bears will add two pounds a day during years of abundant food crops. It is imperative that such weight gains occur for bears to survive the rigors of the upcoming winter.

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife & Heritage Division conducts annual mast surveys in the four western counties. These surveys involve field personnel counting acorns on selected trees on established plots at different elevation levels. The presence of other mast crops such as hickory nuts, beech nuts, and wild apples are noted while conducting the acorn count. These surveys have been conducted since 1976, and provide field biologists with an idea of available food levels for forest wildlife.

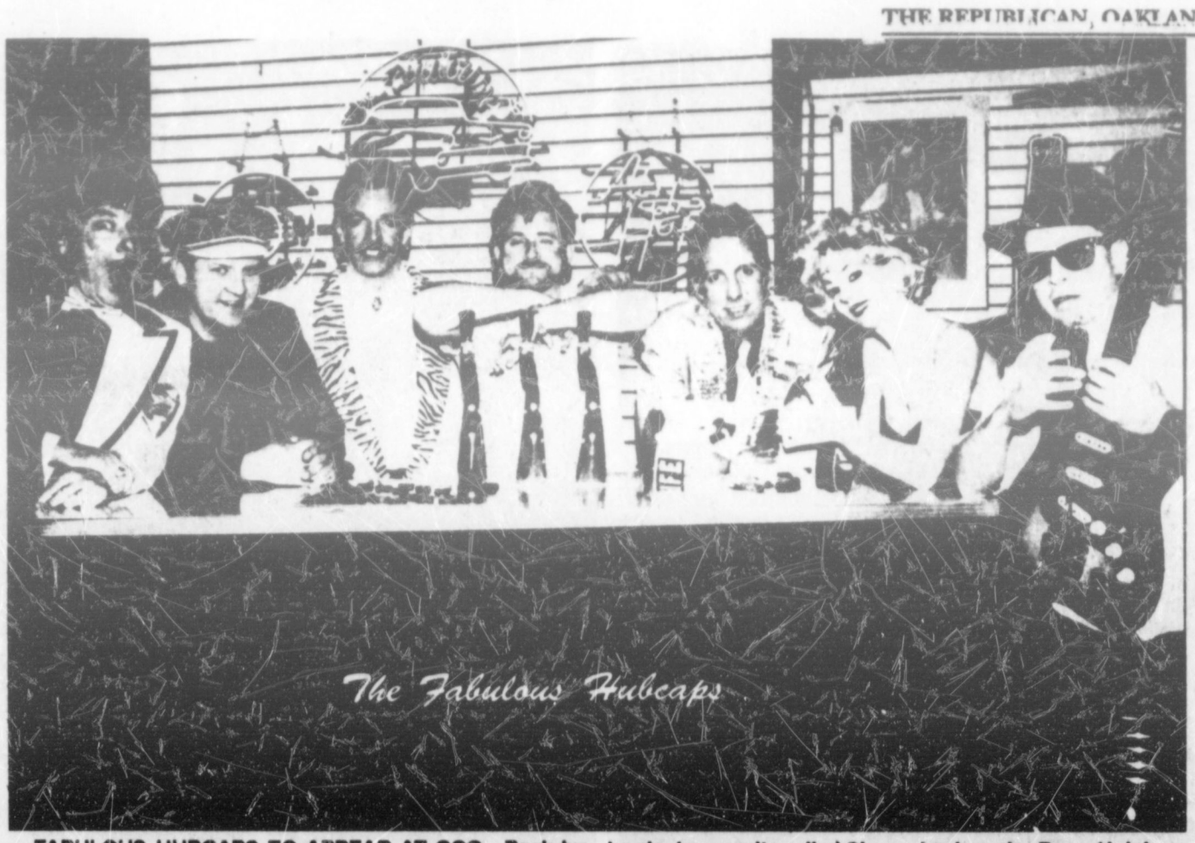
It appears that acorn production in 1998 in Garrett County is near record levels. The black oak group is rated as abundant, while the white oak group is rated as poor and spotty. However, when the two groups are combined, the overall rating is abundant. In only two years, 1976 and 1994, has the overall acorn count been higher than in 1998. In 1997, acorn production was rated as a mast failure in Garrett County. The only other mast crops rated as heavy in Garrett County in 1998 are beech nuts.

In Allegany County, acorn crops are reported to be substantially less than in Garrett County. The overall rating for Allegany County in 1998 is poor and spotty, with white oaks being more abundant than black oaks. It also appears that black oaks are more abundant at higher elevations than lower elevations. Despite being lower than Garrett County, acorn production in Allegany County is substantially higher than last gear, when acorn crops were rated as a mast failure. Other mast crops rated as heavy in Allegany County in 1998 are hickory nuts and Devil's walking stick. It appears that there are plenty of acorns available for bears and other wildlife in western Maryland in 1998.

This will have a significant impact on bear activities in western Maryland. We anticipate bear nuisance problems to be minimal this fall because of the abundance of acorns. Bear damage complaints to agricultural crops to date in 1998 have not been as numerous or severe as last year, when acorns were virtually nonexistent. Bears prefer to eat these natural foods over other foods, and therefore aren't as attracted to nonnatural foods.

In 1997, when acorn crops were virtually nonexistent in western Maryland, bear nuisance complaints were at record levels. Documented damage to agricultural crops was in excess of $45,000, mainly to standing corn. Bears turned to corn crops as a food source for preparation for the winter of 1998, as acorns could not be found. Nuisance complaints during April and May of this year were also high, as natural foods were still scarce. As natural foods such as blackberries, crabapple, and acorns became available, bears had a ready source of food and did not bother unnatural sources such as garbage.

Black bears feed primarily on natural foods such as acorns and berries. These foods provide the nutrients necessary for bears to survive. In years of abundant mast crops, such as this year, bears will forage extensively on high-quality foods such as acorns; only in years of mast failures do bears turn extensively to agricultural crops as a primary food source. In 1998, bear damage to crops should theoretically be low due to the preponderance of acorns throughout Garrett and Allegany counties.



FABULOUS HUBCAPS TO APPEAR AT GCC - Back by popular demand, the Fabulous Hubcaps will be performing for the second consecutive year at a Halloween dance at Garrett Community College. Dancers and other revelers will be eligible for a variety of prizes in several costume contests at the Saturday, Oct. 31, event, slated to run from 8 to 11:30 p.m., and the Hubcaps' stage act includes costumes to recreate the look as well as the sound of the 1950s and early '60s rock and roll era. The Fabulous Hubcaps, who have been performing for 24 years, are shown above, from left: Denny Cook, lead singer; Doug "Wolfman" Lewis, bass guitar; Jimi Simon, keyboards; Barry Holober, drums; Rocky Simon, saxophone and guitar; Barbie Riehl, saxophone; and Coe Anderson, guitar. Tickets for the Halloween dance are priced at $15 each for adults or $30 per couple, and $7.50 for children age 12 and under. Tickets are on sale now at the GCC business office, Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland, Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville, and may also be obtained by calling 301-387-4802. After-expenses proceeds will be forwarded to Tiffany Morgan, a young Oakland resident with cystic fibrosis, and the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Church Slates Steak Dinner

The UMW of the Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church, located at 8 Virts Road, will be having a baked steak dinner this Friday, Oct. 16, in the church basement. Serving will begin at 4 p.m. and continue until the food is gone.

The menu consists of baked steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, cole slaw, rolls, dessert, and drinks.

Donations will be accepted for the meal. Take-outs will be available.

MS Society Begins Letter, Phone Campaign

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society is kicking off its third annual Golden Opportunity Campaign in Maryland. The campaign invites members of the Maryland Chapter, National MS Society, and volunteers to request contributions from their family and neighbors through a letter-writing and phone-calling campaign.

Those who support the MS Society's Golden Opportunity will help fight MS in two ways: Gifts will provide the Maryland chapter with assistance and support quality of life programs for the 3,700 people in Maryland who are affected with MS. Donations also will help fund the continued search for a cure for MS.

MS is a chronic, often disabling disease of the central nervous system. Symptoms may be mild, such as numbness in the limbs, or as serious as paralysis or loss of vision. Most people are diagnosed between the ages of 20 and 40, but the unpredictable physical and emotional effects can be lifelong. The progress, severity, and specific symptoms of MS in any one person cannot yet be predicted, but advances in research and treatment are giving hope to those affected by the disease.

The mission of the MS Society is to end the devastating effects of MS. For more information, persons may call the Maryland Chapter, National MS Society, at 410-527-1770 or 1-800-FIGHT-MS.

Oakland Chapter Of Eastern Star Honors Masons

Oakland Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, met Tuesday, Oct. 6, at the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple in Oakland. The meeting was called to order by Worthy Patron Delmar Sliger. Worthy Matron Lois Evans opened with a reading, "Thank God for Little Things" and then greeted Wilda Hile, Deputy Grand Lecturer of Maryland; Past Matrons, Past Patrons, officers, and members; and Brothers holding Masonic honors Ted Raynovich and Delmar Sliger.

Discussion was held to hold a 75th anniversary celebration next year in honor of the Oakland Chapter. More details will be forthcoming.

Nellie Swartzentruber was presented her 25-year pin by the Chapter. Ms. Evans closed with a reading, "A Mason, A Man." A program titled "Gone Fishing" was presented in honor of Master Masons, and a gift was presented to those in attendance. Refreshments were served by Thelma Henshaw and Helene McCauley.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 20, at which the members of the Past Matrons and Past Patrons Association of Western Maryland will be honored.

Bloodmobile Nets 34 Units In Friendsville

A visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile to Friendsville on October 2 netted 34 productive units of blood, according to Esther Benedict, coordinator of the visit.

Thirty-six persons responded to the visit, two of whom were deferred and one of whom was a first-time donor. Rose Frazee reached the four-gallon level. Volunteers assisting with the visit were Pauline Faucett, Helen Holliday, Karen Benedict, Josh Fike, and Esther Benedict.

The next visit of the bloodmobile to Friendsville will be next spring.

Garrett Arts Council Seeks Artists, Writers

The Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC) is requesting the participation of local artists and writers for two new planned arts initiatives.

The council is planning an annual literary magazine to feature original poetry, short fiction, essays, and narratives. All Garrett County residents, high school-age through adult, are invited to submit samples of original writing for review and possible publication. The deadline for submission for the inaugural issue of the magazine is November 14. Guidelines and submission forms are available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library or by calling the council office at 301-387-3121. Submission information is also contained in an advertisement in this week's issue of The Republican.

In December, GCAC will sponsor a special holiday art exhibit to promote the local fine arts community and to select 12 works of original art for reproduction in a color wall calendar for the year 2000. Approximately 10,000 copies of the calendar will be distributed free of charge to the public in late 1999. The submission exhibit — to be held at the Garrett Community College Art Gallery — will open Dec. 1 and close Dec. 17. Participation is open to all full-time resident Garrett County artists, ages 18 and older. Participating artists must submit work by Saturday, Nov. 21, at noon. Complete guidelines and submission requirements are available by calling the office of the Garrett County Arts Council at 301-387-3121.

County Resident Receives Forestry Journalism Award

Garrett County resident Patrice Jastrzembski, pictured above, was honored by the Society of American Foresters (SAF) with its Outstanding Forestry Journalism Award at the organization's annual national convention in Traverse City, Mich., recently. The annual award recognizes high-quality journalistic coverage of topics that increase the American public's understanding of forestry and natural resources, and includes an engraved plaque and a $500 honorarium.

An environmental educator with seven years' experience as a columnist, Jastrzembski was noted by the SAF for providing technically sound and environmentally friendly messages that invite her readers to be more observant of the natural world around them.

Jastrzembski's current contributions include the biweekly "Tree Talk" articles, which usually focus on forestry and how forests relate to everyday people, for the Anne Arundel County Forest Conservancy District Board newspaper The Capital. She also authors the "Maryland Forests" column which is distributed to newspapers across the state, including The Republican, by the Grantsville-based Maryland Forests Association. "Maryland Forests" covers a wide range of topics of interest to the general public and primarily involves how forest management and forest products touch daily li[illegible].

The SAF is the national scientific and educational organization representing the forestry profession in the United States. Its mission, in part, is to advance the science, technology, education, and practice of professional forestry.

GCC Schedules Painting Class For Seniors

A painting for seniors (oil) class is being offered by the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett Community College. Sessions will be conducted at the Grantsville Senior Center.

The painting classes will meet for five weeks beginning Friday, Oct. 23, from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Maryland residents age 60 and over may attend this course tuition free, but there will be a $15 fee charged. Class participants must supply their own materials, which include a 16x20-inch canvas, oil paints, brushes, and pencils. A fee of $20 plus materials will be charged to others wishing to enroll.

Oakland Rotary Auction Kicks Off Christmas Project

The Oakland Rotary is gearing up for its 17th annual Christmas Project, which helps nearly 500 Garrett County families that are hard-pressed to celebrate the holiday season.

With this year's Christmas Project slogan of "Thank You for Sharing the Gift of Giving" in mind, Rotarians are seeking the public's assistance through donations of cash, services, or items for the Oakland Rotary Auction, set for Saturday, Oct. 24, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Oakland fire hall. Monies raised at the auction will help fill the Santa's lists, which will be hung on 40 giving trees located throughout the county.

The Oakland Rotary Christmas Project was conceived in 1981 when Dr. David Bollinger suggested that the organization initiate a Christmas project for families hard-pressed to celebrate the holiday season. In its first year, the Rotary allocated $500 and delivered food baskets to 10 families.

With the help of local businesses, organizations, governmental agencies, and individuals, the Christmas Project has grown to the point where last year Rotarians and their extended families and friends delivered food baskets and gift boxes to 484 Garrett County families from Bloomington to Friendsville and points in between.

The expanded project now requires volunteers to load a pair of borrowed tractor-trailers with food, toys, and clothing and disperse the contents at designated distribution points countywide. Waiting drivers at each spot load their cars and vans and have the pleasure of seeing faces light up when they "play Santa" at the appointed individual homes.

In past years the employees at the Bausch & Lomb plant provided a great deal of support to the project, and more recently the employees of the Garrett County Department of Social Services have expanded their role in the volunteer effort.

Persons or organizations interested in assisting with this year's Oakland Rotary Christmas Project may call Dora Hanlin at the Department of Social Services at 301-334-9461 or Dr. Bollinger at 301-334-1122.

Herrington Lake Drained For Work

The lake at Herrington Manor State Park has been drained to make way for the reconstruction of the dam's east wing wall and the Gabion Spillway wall.

The actual reconstruction work is slated to begin Monday, Nov. 2, and continue for the next 60 days. The contractor for the $88,050 project is Pyramid Equipment Company of La-Vale, and the engineer is the Robert B. Balter Company of Owings Mills.

The fish in the lake have been moved by the Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Service to the Lewiston Fish Hatchery near Thurmont. The lake will be filled and restocked in time for the spring fishing, boating, and swimming season. For further information interested persons may call the park's headquarters at 301-334-9180.

Air Force Cites Southern Grad For Flood Work

A former resident of Garrett County and graduate of Southern High School has been awarded the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal in part for his efforts during the 1997 Red River flood in Grand Forks, S.D.

Staff Sgt. Richard Goad, 29, a son of Robert and Elnora Goad, Mabscott, W.Va., was part of the initial cadre of military representatives assigned to support the city of Grand Forks Emergency Operations Center during the flood. According to the citation that accompanied his award, Goad's "expert coordination" resulted in the timely rescue of a news reporter and cameraman after they were stranded by rising waters from the worst flood to hit the Red River Valley in over 500 years.

The citation said that Goad worked closely with two major command headquarters to gain insight in specific reporting requirements and reduced the overall wing reporting error rate by 50 percent after he identified and corrected personnel reporting deficiencies uncovered by his in-depth audit of collected data.

Further, the citation said Goad "demonstrated outstanding leadership, guiding three controllers through a fast-paced, real-world mission as the most experienced controller deployed to Moron Air Base, Spain, in support of Operation Phoenix Scorpion."

Goad, who has been in the Air Force since 1990, also attended Garrett Community College. His older brother, Robert Goad Jr., 31, is also an Air Force staff sergeant. Their father, Robert Sr., spent more than 20 years in the Air Force before his retirement as a master sergeant.

Miss Hoover Becomes Bride Of Mr. Resh In September Ceremony

Janet Sue Hoover and William Thomas Resh were united in marriage September 5, 1998, in a double-ring ceremony. The ceremony took place at the United Pentecostal Church, Friendsville.

The bride is the daughter of Howard and Margie Hoover, Friendsville. The groom is the son of Galen and Nancy Resh, Accident.

The bride wore a gown of white satin. The long-sleeved gown featured a V-neckline and full skirt and cathedral train. Appliqués and beads adorned the gown. The veil, which was created by the bride, was of pencil-edged illusion netting, a pouf, white silk flowers, and beaded sprays. She carried a silk, cascading bouquet she made of pink roses, white carnations, and ivy.

The groom wore a white-tailed tuxedo with a white vest and tie and a pink rosebud boutonniere.

Serving as the bride's maid of honor was her cousin, Erin Matthews of Hazelton, W.Va. The bridesmaid was one of the groom's sisters, Rebecca Resh, Accident. The bride's attendants wore identical tea-length princess-style dresses, fashioned by the bride's mother, of pink brocade with white lace inserts at the V-neckline. They carried round bouquets of pink roses and white carnations, also created by the bride.

Serving as best man was John Georg, Accident. Groomsman was Randall Guthrie Jr., also of Accident. The ringbearer was the bride and groom's oldest son, Tyler Scott Resh, Friendsville. Both men wore white-tailed tuxedos with pink cummerbunds and ties. Tyler wore a white-tailed tuxedo identical to that of his father's, with a white vest and tie. All wore pink rosebud boutonnieres.

The reception immediately followed at the Sand Spring Fellowship Hall, Friendsville.

Kathryn Sincell And Neal Corwell Marry In July Outdoor Ceremony

Kathryn Louise Sincell and Neal Lynn Corwell, Clear Spring, were united in marriage on Saturday, July 11, at the Mountain Lake Park home of the bride's parents, Robert and Hannah Sincell. The groom is the son of Maxwell and Jeanne Corwell, Clear Spring.

The bride was escorted to the outdoor altar by her father. She wore a cream colored brocade floor-length gown, featuring a princess waistline, puffed short sleeves, and a full skirt and train, gathered back by a large bow. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and wore flowers of pink hydrangea and delphinium in her hair, which was styled by Kim Sanders, friend of the bride.

Serving as the matron of honor was Mary Sincell McEwen, Oakland, sister of the bride. She wore a sea-green tea-length silk gown, sewn by her mother-in-law, Alice McEwuen of Morgantown, W.Va. The bridesmaid was Rosalyn Rodeheaver, Lancaster, Ky., friend of the bride, who wore a navy blue silk tea-length gown, sewn by her mother, Rosetta Rodeheaver, Oakland. Both attendants carried bouquets of white and pink lilies and pink hydrangea.

The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with tails. His best man was his brother-in-law, David Martin, Greencastle, Pa. The groomsman was Jeffry Sincell, Berlin, N.J., brother of the bride. Both men wore black tuxedos.

Pastor Michael Robinson of St. Mark's Lutheran Church led the marriage ceremony. Lenora Eve, friend of the couple and resident of New York City, was the soloist, accompanied by the groom's sister, Jo Anne Michael, Clear Spring, on the keyboard. Also providing music were the St. James (Md.) Brass Quintet and the Appalachian Woodwind Quintet of the Hagerstown area. A reading from the Song of Solomon was given by Carol Corwell Martin, sister of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held on the lawn, with music provided by the quintets, as well as by the groom, who played the trombone and euphonium along with the attending musicians. Also playing trombone was the bride's brother, Donald Sincell.

Catering was provided by Martin Heise, and the flowers for the ceremony were arranged by the bride's cousin, Pam Wagoner, Martinsburg, W.Va. The four-tier wedding cake was prepared by Penny Shissler, Mechanicsville, and was decorated with a garland of pink roses and greenery.

Photographs were taken by John McEwen, brother-in-law of the bride, as well as the bride's brother Jeff. Guests came from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, and Virginia.

The bride is an adjunct music instructor at Frostburg State College, as well as a private piano and voice teacher in her home. She is the executive director for the annual classical music festival of the Symphony at Deep Creek.

She earned a bachelor of arts degree in vocal performance from Frostburg State College and a master of music degree in vocal performance from Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas.

The groom is a free-lance composer and performer, specializing in lower brass. He tours regularly as a member of various ensembles, as well as a soloist performer. Corwell is also employed in the family farming business in Clear Spring.

He holds a bachelor of arts degree in euphonium performance from Frostburg State University, a master's degree from George Mason University, and a doctorate of musical arts degree from the University of Maryland.

After a honeymoon trip to Maine, the couple established residence in Clear Spring.

Rounds Couple Celebrate 50th

Arlie R. Rounds Sr. and Hazel L. (Wiland) Rounds, Accident, were joined by approximately 160 family members and friends on October 4 to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. To mark the event, a dinner party was held at the Grantsville fire hall, which the family members had decorated in gold, blue, and white.

Mr. and Mrs. Rounds were married Oct. 2, 1948, at the parsonage of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland. Rev. Denver Pickens officiated at the ceremony.

Mr. Rounds, son of the late Floyd and Sarah (Broadwater) Rounds, retired in 1991 from Harbison-Walker Refractories Dresser Industries Inc., Jennings. Mrs. Rounds, daughter of the late Ralph and Lucy (Martin) Wiland, is a homemaker.

Among those to gather for the anniversary celebration were the couple's 13 children: Marie Durst, Auburndale, Fla.; Leanna Lewis, Oakland; Elmer Rounds, Diana Deal, Terry Rounds, Harrison "Peanut" Rounds, and Ron "Herbie" Rounds, all of Accident; Dennis Rounds, Timothy E. Rounds, and Stephanie Wengerd, all of Grantsville; Arlie "Buster" Rounds Jr., Markleysburg, Pa.; Sfc. Ricky Rounds, Licking, Mo.; and Kimberly Frazee, Bruceton Mills, W.Va.

In addition to the children and their spouses, the dinner party was attended by 23 of the Rounds's 30 grandchildren and 5 of their 10 great-grandchildren.

Blue and white flower arrangements decorating the tables were prepared by Mary Herron, Larue Lewis, and Kathy Savage, all of Oakland.

The meal was catered by Debbie's Catering Service, Frostburg, and David Deal, Baltimore, the oldest grandson, provided the dinner music. Lisa Lewis, Oakland, the oldest granddaughter, was the guest book attendant.

Edward Deal, Accident, a son-in-law, offered the anniversary toast.

Monika Sann, Friendsville, baked the three-tiered white and chocolate cake with side cakes, which was decorated in gold, blue, and white.

Videographer for the event was Stanley Perdew, Frostburg, and photographic services were provided by Peggy Santamaria, Accident, and Donna Bittinger, Swanton.

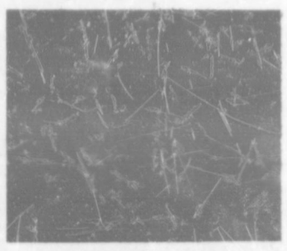
Vicki Joann Rush and William Charles Taylor were united in marriage September 23, 1998. The ceremony took place at the Westernport home of Eddie and Patty Hershman. Pastor Patrick Mallone officiated.

The couple honeymooned in Jamaica and reside in Oakland. The bride and groom are both realtors at A&A Realty/Long & Foster.

Miss Ravenscroft, Mr. James To Wed



Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Friend, Deep Creek Lake, announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Ellen Ravenscroft, to David Gardner James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Pitcairn James of Milton, Mass. The bride-to-be is the daughter of the late Claude R. Ravenscroft, formerly of Westernport.

Mr. James is a 1990 graduate of Princeton University, with a degree in aerospace engineering. He currently performs engineering and business development consulting services in the areas of space and missile systems for John Goyak and Associates Inc., Highlands Ranch, Colo.

Miss Ravenscroft is a 1985 graduate of the University of Maryland, with a degree in accounting. She is employed as a pricing and finance specialist for TRW Inc., Fairfax, Va., where she was assigned the lead finance function for the National Missile Defense Lead System Integrator proposal.

Currently on leave of absence from TRW, Miss Ravenscroft has moved to Huntington Beach, Calif., where she and Mr. James currently reside.

A private wedding is planned for October 16, 1999, at the Nemacolin Woodlands Resort and Spa in Farmington, Pa. The couple plans to honeymoon in the French Riviera.

Agency On Aging Slates Two New Senior Activities

The Community Action Committee/Area Agency on Aging has approved two new activities, line dancing and water aerobics, both of which will begin at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 26, and will continue each Monday evening thereafter indefinitely.

Line dancing classes for all experience levels will be held from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. each Monday evening at the Mary Browning Senior Center at 104 East Center Street in Oakland. The cost is $2 per person, and people 50 and older may participate. Seniors are encouraged to bring their grandchildren with them to participate in the line dancing activity. The instructor will be Anne Morris.

Water aerobics will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. each Monday evening at the B&R Resort along Rock Lodge Road in McHenry. The cost of the sessions are $4 per person, and all persons 50 and older may participate. The instructor will be Deb Clatterbuck.

Registration and payment for these activities will be made at the door, and there is no need to pre-register. For further information, interested persons may call Veronica Padmos, OAA Programs, at 301-334-9431, ext. 142.

Kennedy Named Rehab Services Clinic Director

Audrey Kennedy, a licensed physical therapist, has been named clinic director of therapy services at Garrett Rehab Services (GRS). GRS is the new joint venture which will combine the outpatient physical therapy services of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and RehabSolutions. GRS will be temporarily housed in the current RehabSolutions building at 12811 Garrett Highway until spring of 1999, at which time the staff will move into a new facility in the Thayer Center.

Kennedy holds a bachelor's degree in physical therapy from Ohio University, as well as a master's degree in exercise physiology from Cleveland State University. In her position, she supervises the services provided in the fields of physical, occupational, and speech therapies, all offered at GRS. The therapist's responsibilities include scheduling, marketing, budgeting, continuing education, and clinical skill development for the 14-member staff.

"Through my experiences with Audrey, it is clear that she possesses the skills necessary to provide the leadership at GRS. We are lucky to have hired an individual who has the work experience, personality, decision-making abilities, and communication necessary to lead us in this exciting time," stated Bill Freas, CEO of RehabSolutions and board member of GRS.

During her career, Kennedy has worked in outpatient settings, specializing in sports medicine. She also has served as clinic director at RehabSolutions in Cumberland. She is a member of the American Physical Therapy Association.

Kennedy resides at Deep Creek Lake with her husband Mike. Her hobbies include fitness and sports.

Domestic Violence Awareness Month
Recognizing Traits, Beliefs Of Batterers

by Linda Spassil
Executive Director, The Dove Center

Who are the abusers? Why do they batter? The abusers are primarily male. They represent all ages, races, religion (including no religion), educational levels, cultures and socio-economic groups. The abuser may be a blue-collar worker, unemployed, or highly paid. He may be a drinker or a non-drinker. Different personalities, family backgrounds, and professions are represented. In summation: There is no typical batterer or abuser.

Some common characteristics of a man who batters include: having low self-esteem; believing in all myths about battering relationships; and being a traditionalist with beliefs in male supremacy and the stereotypical masculine sex role in the family.

Other common traits or behaviors of a batterer include blaming others for his actions; being pathologically jealous; presenting a dual personality; and experiencing severe stress reactions during which he uses drinking and wife battering to cope.

Behaviors common to batterers also include the frequent use of sex as an act of aggression to enhance self-esteem in view of waning virility, and lack of belief that his violent actions should have negative consequences.

Typically, when people try to understand why men batter, they tend to look for what is "wrong" with them, believing batterers must be sick in some way. However, battering is not a mental illness that can be diagnosed, but is instead a learned behavior choice. Men who batter use physical force to maintain power and control over their relationships with their partners. Most batterers are not out of control when they abuse and are not angry, nasty men. Rather, a batterer believes he is entitled to control his partner and that his partner is obligated to obey him; he is a moral person, even if he uses violence against his partner; he will get what he wants through his use of violence; and he will not suffer significant adverse physical, legal, economic, or personal consequences.

Many batterers grew up in homes where they or a sibling or mother were physically abused by their father. In fact, wit-nessing domestic violence as a child has been identified as the most common risk factor for becoming a batterer in adulthood.

Because battering is a learned behavior, it can be "unearned." However, the goal of non-violence is unlikely to be achieved through traditional marital or couples counseling. Programs designed specifically for batterers are the preferred method for addressing abusive behavior.

Programs for batterers are not the cure-all for domestic violence, but one facet of a coordinated community response to the problem. The community must send the message to the abuser that battering will not be tolerated and that there will be consequences for the violence.

The primary goal of a batterer's program is to eliminate physical, sexual, and psychological violence. The focus is the victim's safety and well-being. The following are key elements of successful abuser programs: The batterer is held completely responsible for the violence and for changing his behavior to end it; the focus is not on treating individual psychopathology, but on teaching how to choose and develop non-violent behaviors, emotions, and attitudes; and the abuser learns of the social systems and norms that have given him tacit approval of battering.

Batterers' programs cannot operate in isolation, but need to be coordinated with community services for abused women. These programs serve a vital role and should work in the community to change the systems' responses to domestic violence, in addition to working with individual men.

COUNTRY KIDS 4-H
by Sarah Rexroad

The Country Kids 4-H Club met at DeWitt's farm for the September meeting. The day started with a picnic, and the meeting was fol-lowed by the launching of the rockets which the mem-bers had made in the spring.

Pledges were led by Casee Hughes. Sarah Pysell reported on the State Fair. Alicia DeWitt received Champion in the state fashion revue in the category she entered. Jennifer Barnard received Reserve Champion in her category.

The following fair activities were reported on: Sharon Harvey — the club picnic; Ashley Tuck — the float; Andrew Harvey — the livestock sale; and Sarah Rexroad — the fashion revue.

The club members discussed activities for National 4-H Week. The club will attend church services at the Pleasant view Baptist Church on Sunday, Oct. 18, for the 10:15 a.m. service.

Beef tickets were distributed, and members were en-couraged to sell several books each.

Jerry Browning discussed rocket safety with the members prior to the rocket launch.

The next meeting will be held October 20 at 7 p.m. at the Deer Park Community Building.

FCSI Promotes Natalie Newhall

Natalie Newhall has been promoted to training consultant with Oakland's Financial Computer Support Inc.

In her new position, Newhall will train the company's clients and staff on the dbCAMS+ software package, designed for use by financial planners. She will work with the company's training team to organize and conduct training at FCSI's corporate headquarters in Oakland and at member offices nationwide.

A native of the Washington, D.C., area, Newhall moved to Garrett County in her youth and graduated from Southern High School. She attended Slippery Rock University, Slippery Rock, Pa., before pursuing a government career for 12 years. She now resides in the Oakland area.

Wendell Beitzel Knows That a Well-Rounded Community is a Strong Community.

Wendell Beitzel, Republican nominee for District 3 Commissioner, is a candidate who sees the big picture...a candidate who recognizes that well-rounded communities aren't mired down in just one issue, but are places of diversity where tackling a variety of challenges head on is what strengthens a community and helps it to prosper. Whether you're a Republican or Democrat, your vote for Wendell Beitzel will help to ensure that he is able take the following principal actions as Garrett County's next Commissioner:

- Restoring sound financial management of our county's resources.
- Better managing our tax dollars to reduce county debt.
- Improving county roads, employing sound construction practices with efficient use of equipment and personnel.
- Working to reduce taxes on agricultural properties.
- Supporting our county educational system—a key to the success of our children.
- Protecting and improving our quality of life.

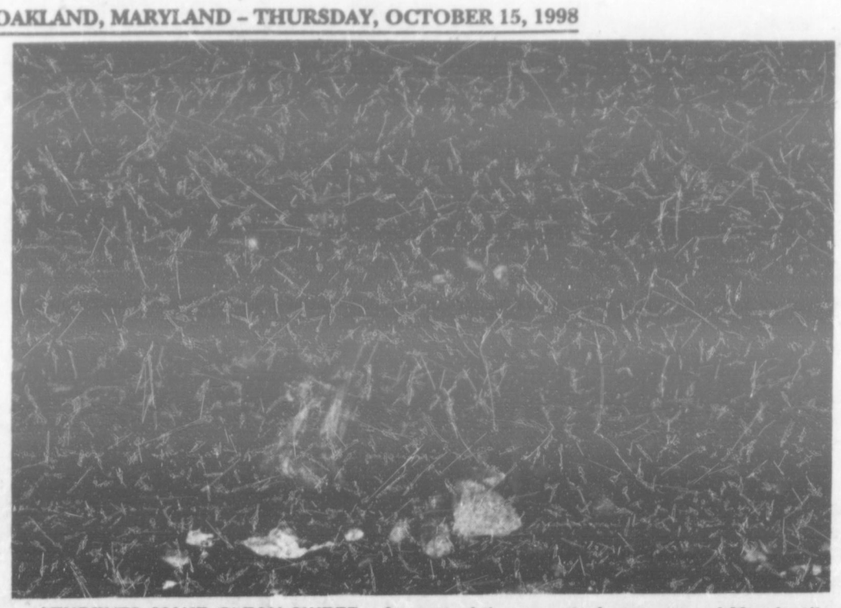
SSG. Schlossnagle Awarded Medal By Gen. Fretterd

Staff Sergeant Larry E. Schlossnagle, a member of the Maryland Army National Guard, Detachment 2, 243rd Engineer Company (CSE), Oakland, was awarded the Army Commendation Medal during the annual open house held at the armory on September 13. The award was presented by Maryland Army National Guard Adjutant General James F. Fretterd. Also in attendance during the open house and presentation were Dr. Steve Herman, president of Garrett Community College, State Senator John Hafer, and Delegate George Edwards.

SSG. Schlossnagle's award citation stated, "For outstanding service while assigned to Det. 2, 243rd Engineer Company. His performance as the unit's public affairs representative was exceptional. His tireless efforts resulted in countless articles and news releases submitted to the local media. As a result, he has kept the community and this state aware of the contributions the engineer units have made to the citizenry and the successes we have achieved. Staff Sergeant Schlossnagle's dedication and devotion to duty reflect great credit on him, the Maryland Army National Guard, and the United States Army."

SSG. Schlossnagle is employed by Beitzel Corporation, Grantsville, and resides near McHenry with his wife Sharon and daughter Jill.



STUDENTS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP - As part of the recent observance of Maryland's State Parks Week, approximately 140 eighth graders from Northern Middle School descended upon Deep Creek Lake State Park to donate a morning of trash removal, cleaning, painting, and general sprucing up. Among the participants were Kelly Stein, pictured above collecting garbage while leaving nature's leaves to blanket the landscape. Below, Eric Beitzel, foreground, and Greg Jones make a reach for refuse around and under a park picnic table. In a win-win situation for DNR and the Board of Education, the students received community service time for their efforts, and were also rewarded as two pontoon boats donated by Bill's Marine Service took them out in groups for boating safety awareness courses. Coordinating the event were DNR ranger Carole Walker and NMS teacher George Landers.

House Of Yoder Schedules Third Annual Meeting

House of Yoder Inc., a non-profit organization building a Yoder House in a colonial-era style at Spruce Forest Artisan Village in Grantsville, will hold its third annual meeting at Penn Alps in Grantsville on Saturday, Nov. 14, beginning at 10 a.m. Agenda items include: sharing a brunch at the Penn Alps Restaurant, a tour of the Yoder House under construction, a short business meeting, and input from a speaker, Virgil Yoder. Yoder will present a documentary through slides and lecture of the early beginnings of the Yoder family, tracing the family from St. Joder in Switzerland to their arrival in America. He includes the struggles the Yoders faced through the Reformation and traces his Amish family line in America.

According to the Yoder Family Archives web site, Yoder is noted for his "well-researched, wonderfully photographed, and exceptionally scripted slide show of Yoder Heritage in the old world."

House of Yoder Inc. is currently building the Yoder House under the leadership of a 10-member executive committee. The house will contain Yoder-related historical documents, genealogical data, and family artifacts. All interested persons, especially those with the Yoder name and/or Yoder ancestry, are welcome at the annual meeting. For further information, persons may contact Lonnie Yoder at 540-432-6467.

GC State Forests To Unveil Annual Plans At GCC

The fiscal year 2000 annual plan of work for state forests will be presented to the public in Room 155, Garrett Community College, on Saturday, Oct. 31. The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. with a presentation of the work plans by the forest managers. This will be followed by a question and answer period and a public comment period.

These plans, formulated by the forest managers this past winter, were presented to a DNR interdisciplinary review in June and to the forest advisory boards in September. They include proposals for new construction, changes in forest use, and timber harvests.

A copy of the annual plan will be available at the public meeting or may be obtained from the forest headquarters. A 30-day comment period will run until December 1, and members of the public are welcome to give comments in writing if they cannot attend the meeting by sending them to the Savage River State Forest at 349 Headquarters Lane, Grantsville, MD 21536, or Potomac-Garrett State Forest at 1431 Potomac Camp Road, Oakland, MD 21550.

Printed on RECYCLED NEWSPRINT

TRICKSTER'S TEMPTING TUNE targets the Cast-Aways in the up-coming musical production, now in rehearsal in Friendsville. The Cast-Aways are a group of New York City street children driven by poverty at the turn of the century to earn a living on the street by whatever means possible. In Fagan fashion, Trickster (actor/director/school principal) Doug Gaither, tries to convince the children to join his pick-pocket gang. The dinner theater performance, featuring a cast of 22, is scheduled for the first two weekends in November at Friendsville Elementary School. Part of the proceeds from the show will benefit The Republican's Warm the Children campaign. For more information, see story.

Wal-Mart Rumors Sparked By Land Option Signing

Reports on local radio airwaves that a Wal-Mart, the world's largest discount retailing chain, had secured an option to purchase a tract of land at Maryland Highway and Weber Road were the subject of a great deal of conversation this past week.

Although the radio news report remains unconfirmed, and undenied, after several inquires this week with the radio station that initiated the reports and Wal-Mart's corporate headquarters in Bentonville, Ark., however, the landowner in the area did state this morning that an option to purchase had been taken on his property by an unnamed development company.

"There's been an option taken out on the ground," said Russell Sines, who owns the property surrounding his Midas Tire shop between Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park. "However, nothing has been formalized. I don't know the company's name, but they dealt through Tommy Thayer (of Railey Realty)."

"I have an oath of confidentiality that my client, a developer — not Wal-Mart itself — has required me to sign regarding that property," said Thayer. "An oath of confidentiality is not normal, but has been done before. Right now there's no contracts out there, though.

"I'm not working with Wal-Mart, I'm working with a developer," Thayer continued. "I'm in business to sell real estate, not to keep people away from the county. Developers approach me, we don't go after them. For example, I work with about a half-dozen developers who are working to bring services to the county that are lacking here, and I can't turn them down.

"There have been rumors for three years that a major retailer was coming to the county, at one time Ames, at one time K-Mart. But I have to stress again that I've had no dealings with Wal-Mart directly over the property in question, and no contracts have been signed."

Several phone calls to Wal-Mart's headquarters in

SHEDDING LIGHT ON DOMESTIC VIOLENCE - The Business and Professional Women of Garrett County have long been working in conjunction with a number of other civic groups and organizations to bring the issues surrounding domestic violence to the forefront. As part of this effort, the BPW invited Linda Spassil, executive director of the Garrett County Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Resource Center, to make a presentation at its October meeting. Following the meeting, which coincided with Domestic Violence Awareness month, participants gathered outside the Will O' the Wisp to hold a candlelight vigil, symbolizing the continuing work required to dispel the darkness surrounding domestic violence. As part of their solidarity with victims of domestic violence, the participants shown here declined to be identified for their photo — a gesture that highlights domestic violence as an issue that until recently has been only whispered about (if addressed at all), yet which victimizes entire families throughout Garrett County, the nation, and the world.

Chamber Changes Request; Seeks Other Funding

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce met last week and voted down President David Moe's suggestion to raise the accommodations tax by one percent. Moe had made the suggestion (apparently with the support of the chamber's executive committee) to the Garrett County commissioners last week, who advised him to get a definite vote from the chamber on the issue.

Moe met with the commissioners again this week and announced that the chamber will now seek to obtain half of the accommodations tax revenue and half of the amusement tax revenue. Lamont Pagenhardt, county administrator, said in an interview this morning that the amount would be somewhere around $700,000, based on previously accrued tax monies. This fiscal year, the chamber had requested $257,758. It was allotted $245,935.

The increase in funding is needed, Moe explained, partly because the chamber has voted to hire an executive director. This will be a paid full-time position, and will be in addition to the manager of the new visitors' center, another paid position. There will also be some part-time positions created to help manage the center. (The maintenance jobs at the building have already been projected by the county's general services department.)

Moe would also like to

Garrett Information Enterprise Center Awarded $360K ARC Grant

Senators Paul S. Sarbanes and Barbara A. Mikulski have announced that the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) has awarded $360,000 to Garrett Community College to create the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC). This business resource center will provide for a low-cost assistance and support network to help new, small technology firms, employing under 50 people, to succeed and grow. In its first year, this center will provide for 36 new jobs and help retrain those in 10 existing jobs.

"The creation of the Garrett Information Enterprise Center will provide a resource for citizens and business people throughout Western Maryland who need guidance in how best to become active in the growing business climate in this region, in particular to capitalize on the need for information firms as we approach the onset of the 21st century," said Sarbanes.

"In addition to helping individuals, this center will also help the local economy by drawing new small businesses to the area and helping them to reach self-sufficiency. And finally, it will build upon our highly successful Western Maryland Small Business Procurement Conference in August," Sarbanes added.

"The new center at Garrett Community College will help many workers in the area who might otherwise be left behind by technology in this fast-paced global economy. It will contribute to a robust future for the economy of Western Maryland," said Mikulski. "I am proud to announce this ARC grant at Garrett Community College. This is a great example of making sure we are ready for jobs of the future and that those jobs will be available to Maryland."

DNR To Present FY 2000 Forest Plans At GCC

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) State Forest and Park Service will host public meetings to present the Fiscal Year 2000 work plans for the Savage River and Potomac-Garrett state forests on Saturday, Oct. 31, at 10 a.m. in Room 155 at Garrett Community College. During the meetings, staff will present proposals for new construction and changes in forest use and timber harvests. A question/answer and public comment opportunity will follow the presentations.

"State forests and park management improves wildlife habitat and offers limited sustainable timber harvesting, as well as recreational opportunities," said DNR Secretary John R. Griffin. "I encourage citizens to participate in the public meeting process and contribute ideas and suggestions that will improve the quality and future of our state parks."

Forest managers formulated work plans last winter and presented the plans to a DNR interdisciplinary review in June, followed by review by forest advisory boards in September. A copy of the annual plan will be available at the public meetings or can be obtained from any of the forest headquarters. A 30-day comment period will run through December 1, 1998, and the public is encouraged to submit comments in writing if unable to attend. Comments may be directed to: Savage River State Forest, 349 Headquarters Lane, Grantsville, MD 21536 (301-895-5759); or Potomac-Garrett State Forest, 1431 Potomac Camp Road, Oakland, MD 21550 (301-334-2038).

Grantsville After-School Program Praised At Governor's Conference

The after-school program provided at the Grantsville Senior Center, Kids Inc., received recognition from Gov. Parris Glendening and Lieutenant Gov. Kathleen Kennedy-Townshend during a statewide HotSpot meeting in Baltimore last month. Attended by several thousand people, the meeting at the Baltimore Convention Center kicked off the second year of the HotSpot program.

Geared to students in elementary and middle school, the Grantsville after-school program is under the auspices of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc., and is funded in part by the governor's HotSpot initiative.

Selected in 1997 as a community in Garrett County with the potential for crime, Grantsville was awarded funding through the HotSpot program to organize procedures to unify the community in awareness and prevention of crime. The funds also were earmarked to provide support services from various state and county agencies.

Karen Wood, coordinator of Grantsville's Kids Inc. program, is assisted by AmeriCorps members and Northern High School service learning students. The program has started its second year of providing care, tutoring, recreation, and activities for children attending the center.

Present at the conference to receive the honorary mention recognition were 15 Garrett County students, and three adult members of the HotSpot team, Woods, Linda Green from GCCAC, and Kerrie Margroff from the Office of Parole and Probation.

The students who participated in the statewide conference were those who had

Grant Awarded To Combat Underage Drinking In GC

Garrett County is one of seven Maryland counties that will share a federal grant to combat underage drinking, the offices of U.S. Senators Barbara A. Mikulski and Paul S. Sarbanes announced recently. The $400,000 grant will assist communities in Garrett, Allegany, Frederick, Harford, Montgomery, Talbot, and Baltimore counties.

The U.S. Department of Justice funds will be used in the Combating Underage Drinking in Maryland program, which has a goal of reducing the amount of alcohol consumption by minors and to prohibit the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors.

"This money is another step in the right direction to stopping those under the legal drinking age from using or abusing alcohol," said Mikulski. "Not only will this grant help to fight underage drinking, but it will also make Maryland's streets safer by giving local communities the necessary resources needed to stop minors from consuming alcohol or driving under the influence."

"These funds will provide for a strategic plan that helps point our young people in the right direction, and away from underage drinking, which can result in decreased performance at school, criminal activity, or even loss of life," added Sarbanes. "These efforts are critical to providing our youth with the tools necessary for a successful future as we move into the next century."

In order to be eligible for the Combating Underage Drinking program, communities must have an existent task force, strategic plan, a needs assessment, plans to establish or enhance a system of enforcement and prevention, interest and ability to take advantage of technical assistance and training, a local representative of the Department of Juvenile Justice and the State Police, the county traffic safety coordinator, the Safe and Drug-free Schools coordinator, liquor board, youth leaders, and a coordinator.

BOE Forum To Be Aired Sunday

Voters who missed the second candidates' forum held September 13 at Garrett Community College will be able to hear the Board of Education portion on WMSG Radio, 1050 AM. The five candidates, three of whom will be chosen by voters in the November 3 General Election, will be heard on the air this Sunday, Oct. 25, at noon.

The Voters Guide for the General Election will be printed in the Oct. 29 issue of The Republican. This guide will contain the profiles of the BOE candidates, as well as an explanation of two ballot questions affecting the state of Maryland's constitution and a sample ballot for the election.

"Caring citizens should vote on November 3 — Complacency and apathy should not be allowed to," commented a spokesperson for the League of Women Voters. "To vote will be the best 5-minute investment in time we can all make on election day. Too much is at stake — the next four years of our lives — for us to leave such decisions to others."

TA Teacher Dies When Car Lands In Alpine Lake

An early Sunday morning accident at Alpine Lake Resort claimed the life of a Terra Alta resident and teacher.

According to a report filed by the West Virginia State Police, 45-year-old Patricia Rose (Jenkins) Sanders drowned when her 1992 Chevrolet mini-van ran off the road on Alpine Drive, traveled down an embankment, and into Alpine Lake. The front of the van reportedly landed in the lake, causing the vehicle to flip onto its top.

A security guard, who initially responded to a report that a car was stuck in a ditch, found the van at approximately 8 a.m., with only its wheels sticking out of the water, according to the police report. It is believed the accident happened between 1 and 8 a.m. Sunday.

Born May 11, 1953, in Oakland, Sanders was a daughter of Willard and Betty (Burns) Jenkins, Cranesville, W.Va.

She was a 1971 graduate of Terra Alta High School and received her bachelor of science degree in education from West Virginia

SHARING NEWS ABOUT THE STATION - Gov. Parris Glendening, left, met with Oakland mayor Asa McCain when both men were in Cumberland last Friday for meetings. McCain updated the governor on the progress of the restoration of Oakland's train station. Because of his interest in this project, the governor included $226,000 in his supplemental budget, and has supported the town's effort to obtain an additional $400,000 in restoration grant requests. He also set up a task force to assist Oakland in pursuing purchase money. Restoration should begin next summer in time for Oakland's 150th anniversary.

THRIFT SHOP RIBBON CUT — The doors were officially opened at the new Christian Crossing Thrift Shop in Loch Lynn this weekend, with several people in attendance to witness the ribbon-cutting. The shop, which is a project of the Garrett Cooperative Ministry Inc., has actually been operating since August, but the official dedication took place Saturday during an open house event. Pictured on the porch of the new establishment are Bob Huebner (left) of Coldwell Banker Deep Creek Realty, which provided seed money for the project, and Pastor Mike Robinson of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. The ministry is a volunteer, not-for-profit organization with the purpose of providing clothing and household items to local people in need. The volunteers at the center accept donated items, sort them, and arrange them in the warehouse. They are sold at nominal prices to shoppers who need them. Anyone who has useable furniture, appliances, clothing, or other items to donate are welcome to do so. Donations are tax deductible and tax receipts are given upon request. Volunteers are always needed, and interested persons are invited to come by the shop during operating hours (Tuesdays-Thursdays, 10 a.m.-1 p.m.; first and third Saturdays, 9 a.m.-noon) or call 301-334-6339.

Chamber Seeking Member Input On Legislation Ideas

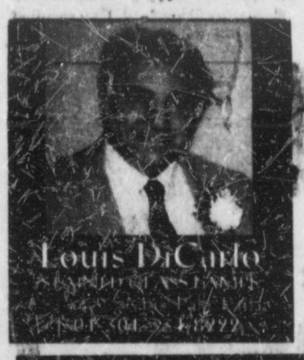
David Moe, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, has put out a call for suggestions and ideas from the members of the organization. The request is in connection with Governor Parris Glendening's appointment of the Western Maryland Economic Development Strategies Task Force, which held its first meeting on Oct. 16.

Local representatives on the task force are Elaine McDonald, chamber secretary; Jim Hinebaugh, director of the county's economic development department; Commissioner Gary Fratz; Delegate George Edwards; and Moe.

The Allegany and Garrett County chambers have been asked to develop a list of recommendations on legislative and administrative changes necessary to develop a healthy business climate in western Maryland. To that end, Moe is requesting that local business people provide specific suggestions and recommendations to the local representatives.

"Please cite specific legislation or regulations you believe need to be created or modified, and provide a brief explanation of how such change would be beneficial to Western Maryland," Moe said.

Persons are to send their information to the chamber office in an envelop marked "Task Force Input." (The address is the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, 200 South Third Street, Oakland, MD 21550.) The information is needed quickly, as it is to be submitted by Oct. 30.



Deep Creek Lake, GC Info Booth Closes For Season

The Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Information Booth on Route 219 south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge closed for the season Oct. 12.

A total of 18,848 persons visited the booth from mid-May through the Autumn Glory Festival weekend. Those visitors came from 36 states and 35 foreign countries, with the largest number of visitors from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Virginia.

The majority of the 45,067 inquiries received at the booth were for directions, followed by questions about recreation and lodging.

The information booth was open seven days a week through the Autumn Glory Festival. The booth was staffed by Edgar Bender and William Sipple, both of Grantsville. The facility is operated by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Southern Band In Midst Of Winning Season

The Southern Garrett High School Marching Band has won first place at every competition thus far this season, according to Richard Clever, director of the group.

"We're having a great season, and we may very well go undefeated this year. We haven't done that since 1983," Clever said.

The marchers traveled to Musselman High School in Bunker Hill, W.Va., last weekend, where they competed against five bands in Group II. With a score of 86.05, the local marchers bested second place Potomac Falls of Virginia and third placing McDonough High School of Pennsylvania. The group also won the specialty awards for best drum major, best percussion, best music, and best marching.

"The color guard missed its specialty award by just three tenths of a point," Clever said.

This Saturday, the band will represent Southern High School at the Maryland State Marching Band Competition, where 18 other bands will vie for the first-place trophy.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE AWARENESS MONTH PROCLAIMED — The Garrett County commissioners this week joined with members of the Business and Professional Women of Garrett County (BPW) to proclaim October as Domestic Violence Awareness Month. The local observance is being sponsored by the BPW, the Commission for Women, the Dove Center, and other organizations seeking to eliminate personal and institutional violence against women. The proclamation states that violence against women continues to be prevalent as a social problem because of the imbalance of power, resulting from gender, and that the problems of domestic violence are not confined to any group of people, but cross all economic, racial, and societal lines, and are supported by societal indifference. It also states that the impact of violence is wide ranging, directly affecting women and society as a whole, and that it is often battered women themselves who are in the forefront in efforts to bring peace and equality to the home. Pictured left to right are Pam Glotfelty, BPW member; June Heselbach, BPW president; Commissioner Wayne Wilt (chairman); Donna McClintock, vice president of the BPW; and Commissioners Wayne Johnson and Gary Fratz.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland And Kitzmiller

The American Red Cross will send its bloodmobile to Oakland this Friday, Oct. 23, and to Kitzmiller the following Friday, Oct. 30. The Oakland visit will be hosted in the St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall along Oak and Fourth streets, where donors will be accepted from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The site in Kitzmiller for Oct. 30 will be the Kitzmiller fire hall, where donors will be welcomed from noon to 6 p.m.

The ARC reports that the need for blood is not quite as urgent as it was in September, as inventories for most blood types are at the desirable, three-day supply level; however, the exception is O-negative blood, of which there is only a one-day supply in the Johnstown, Pa., region.

Local residents and patients are among those served through the Johnstown Region of the ARC Blood Services. The region includes 66 counties in Maryland (including Garrett), Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Virginia. The Red Cross must collect at least 750 units of blood per day in order to meet patients' needs.

To be eligible to give blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh a minimum of 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Normally, persons may give blood every 56 days. Oakland area donors who gave at the Aug. 21 visit of the bloodmobile to the Oakland Elks lodge will be eligible to give again this Friday, Oct. 23.

Police Report Rt. 40 Mishap Injures Driver

A single-vehicle accident Saturday on Route 40 near Amish Road sent the driver to the hospital for treatment of injuries.

According to a report filed by Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack Joseph L. Trammel, 22, Gaithersburg, was eastbound on Route 40 at 6:27 a.m. when the incident occurred.

Trammel was allegedly operating his Suzuki Sidekick at an apparent high rate of speed and lost control on the vehicle while negotiating a turn. The vehicle then struck an embankment and overturned several times. He was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, where he was treated and released.

Police charged Trammel with driving while intoxicated.

Illegal Passing

A man was injured on Rt. 219 near Foster Road Sunday evening when he attempted to pass another vehicle in a "no passing zone."

Police reported that Amy C. Kight, 30, Oakland, was traveling on Route 219, when she started to turn left onto Foster Road. A vehicle operated by Zachary N. Overking, 23, Morgantown, attempted to pass Kight's car, which was turning. Overking's vehicle struck the vehicle driven by Kight, then struck a guardrail.

Overking was taken by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. He was charged by police in the incident.

Fails To Reduce Speed

Two people were injured in an accident on Monday in McHenry. Larry A. Morgan, Oakland, and Carol J. Cunningham, Olney, were both northbound on Rt. 219 around 1 p.m. Police said Cunningham had stopped her vehicle and was preparing to turn left when Morgan's vehicle approached, failed to reduce speed, and rear-ended Cunningham's vehicle.

Morgan and a passenger in his car were taken by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

DWI

The follow arrests for driving while intoxicated were reported by the police: Brandon S. Baumgardner, 20, Friendsville, Oct. 16; Robert J. Welch, 47, Oakland, Oct. 16; and James J. Warnick, 18, Lonaconing, Oct. 18.

Lions Halloween Parade, Events Slated Oct. 29

The annual Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club Halloween Parade will be held next Thursday, Oct. 29, at 6:30 p.m. in downtown Oakland. Participants will line up in front of Mary Browning Senior Citizen Center along Center Street. The parade will begin forming at 6:15 and start promptly at 6:30.

The parade will proceed south on Second Street, east on Alder Street, and then north on Third Street to the Oakland fire hall. Everyone marching in costume will receive a treat, with major winners receiving special prizes. Those marching in the parade can pick up their treats and prizes at the fire hall. Last year over 500 treats and prizes were donated by local businesses and individuals throughout southern Garrett County.

Everyone is invited to come by the fire hall after the parade, where games, cake walks, and food will be available for all ages. A 25" color television will be raffled off at the end of the evening.

The proceeds from this event will benefit the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

AMI Members Share Concerns With Candidates

Members of the Alliance for the Mentally Ill invited several candidate for political office to join them recently for an open forum. The purpose of the meeting was to provide an opportunity for the candidates to learn about issues being addressed by AMI, and for the members to learn more about the candidates.

This interactive meeting was held at Garrett County Lighthouse, a community rehabilitation program for adults with mental illness. The agenda for the evening event included dining and socialization, and a time for individual presentations.

AMI board member Mary Ann Brenneman said that the intermingling of political hopefuls with group members was beneficial. She noted that through the comments and conversations with the politicians, AMI members were able to convey needs and goals of the group. "It became obvious that many people don't know that this organization exists. They are not aware of some of the problems faced by the mentally ill," Brenneman said.

Among the issues she took the opportunity to address, she said, was the need for law enforcement officers to be better informed on dealing with individuals with mental illnesses. "There is a free training program for law enforcement officers on working with the mentally ill. I was glad there was a candidate for sheriff attending," she added.

Brenneman said the AMI members appreciated having the chance to meet and speak with the candidates in this informal and personal setting. "I feel it was a profitable experience. We were able to speak out for the mentally ill and the work we are doing. Our message was: 'We are here.'"

Dinner Theater Cast Rehearses In Friendsville

Rehearsals are under - way for the November community dinner theater musical production to be performed in Friendsville. The cast of 22 characters, drawn from several communities around the county, is under the direction of Douglas Gaither.

For this year's production, Gaither, who is also principal of Friendsville Elementary School, selected a work titled Cast-Aways, which depicts the life of turn-of-the-century New York City street children. Written by Michael and Jill Gallina in 1994, the story follows these displaced children, known as Street Arabs, whose parents were unable to support them. Some had been abandoned, others had run away to eke out a living by whatever means possible.

Though noted by the authors to be fiction, Cast-Aways is based upon events that took place and conditions that existed in large eastern cities from the mid-1800s until the 1920s — prior to the development of a social service system.

Through a series of adventures and misadventures, the youngsters are befriended by several adults who are able to provide food, shelter, and a plan for their future.

This is the second year that the theater troupe, the Yough River Local Vocals, has mounted a dinner theater production under Gaither's direction. The cast is composed of residents of Frostburg, Accident, McHenry, Grantsville, and Friendsville.

Gaither, acting in as well as directing this musical, said that a portion of the proceeds will benefit the Warm the Children campaign being sponsored by The Republican.

Held at the Friendsville Elementary School, the dinner theater will offer a complete ham dinner prior to the production. Performances are scheduled for Nov. 7, 8, 14, and 15. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m., followed by the show on Saturdays and at 2 p.m. on Sundays. Tickets are $6 per person and can be reserved by calling 301-746-5100.

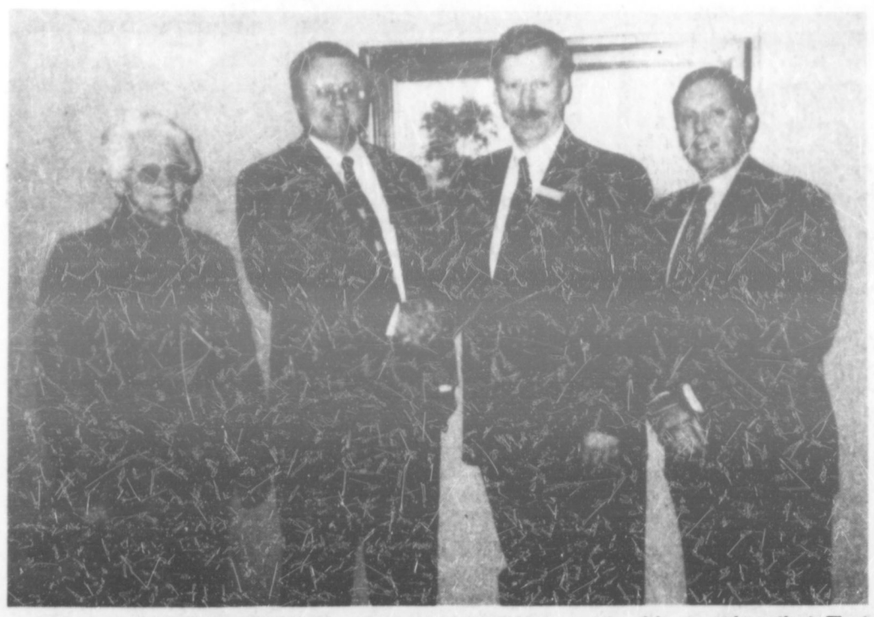
First United To Acquire Gonder Insurance Agency



BANK PURCHASES AGENCY - Announcement was made this morning that First United Corporation, which operates First United Bank & Trust, is purchasing the Gonder Insurance Agency, also based in Oakland. Pictured from left above are: Nancy L. Helbig and Terry Helbig, agency owners; William B. Grant, chairman of the First United Board and chief executive officer; and Robert W. Kurtz, president and chief financial officer for First United. See story for details.

First United Corporation, headquartered in Oakland, announced that it has signed a letter of intent to acquire the Gonder Insurance Agency, an Oakland-based, full-line, independent insurance agency. Founded in 1921, the Gonder Agency is one of the premier independent agency writers of personal lines and small commercial package insurance in Western Maryland. The transaction is subject to regulatory approval. If approved, the transaction is anticipated to close in the first quarter of 1999.

"The Gonder Agency has a long-standing tradition of providing quality service to its customers," stated William B. Grant, chairman and CEO of First United. "We are excited about the opportunities that this affiliation presents for First United's customers and shareholders. The Gonder Agency will allow us to enhance the array of quality financial products and services we offer to our customers and serve to increase First United's non-interest income base."

Upon completion of the transaction, Terry Helbig, Gonder's principal owner, will assume the role of president and CEO of the agency and will continue to be responsible for its day-to-day operations. The agency will continue to operate under the Gonder name. All employees of the Gonder Agency are expected to continue under First United ownership.

"The Gonder acquisition represents a key element in First United's strategy to grow not only its traditional financial services business but also expand its base in nontraditional financial services markets," Grant said.

"Gonder Insurance is looking forward to its affiliation with First United. We will continue to focus on customer service for our clients at our same location with our trained staff," Helbig said.

First United Corporation operates a traditional network of offices through Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties in Maryland, as well as Mineral, Hardy, Hampshire, and Berkeley counties in West Virginia. As of September 30, 1998, the corporation posted assets of $617.03 million.

Burglary At Old Delano's Site Nets $8K Loss

A burglary of a storage trailer parked at the old location of Delano's Carpet and Furniture in the 17000 block of Garrett Highway resulted in the loss of over $8,000 worth of tools to the business, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Delano's employees discovered the theft on the morning of Friday, Oct. 16, and estimated that it had occurred within the previous 24 hours. The deputy's report noted that a window had been broken out of the trailer, and that numerous hand and power tools had been taken, including the following: a Black & Decker grinder; three DeWalt drills; a DeWalt reciprocating saw; a DeWalt 4-inch sander; a Craftsman router with a bit set; and a red six-ton floor jack.

The report also stated that sugar appeared to have been poured into the gas tanks of a 3500-watt generator next to the trailer and a Cushman motor scooter parked alongside.

Sheriff's deputies are attempting to locate and question the driver a green king-cab pickup, make unknown, that was seen in the area within the suspected time frame of the burglary.

Delano's store recently moved to a new location on Garrett Highway several hundred yards north of its previous location.

In other sheriff's news, a 1992 Ford F150 pickup truck was stolen from the driveway of a residence in the 2000 block of Gorman Road on the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 17. The light blue truck bore W.Va. tag 1M8509, displayed a "4x4" sticker on its windshield, and has a vehicle identification number of 1FTEF14Y5NLA207451. It is valued at $5,000.

Wagner's Trucking on Spring Glade Road was struck by thieves, who took a number of citizen's band radios and antennas sometime between the evening of Saturday, Oct. 17, and Sunday, Oct. 18. Taken from trucks parked at the business were a pair of Galaxie radios valued at $300 each, eight Cobra 19 radios valued at $130 each, and 10 CB antennas valued at $25 each. Also missing from one of the trucks is a Craftsman toolbox and tool set, valued at $500.

A Stihl chainsaw worth $400, together with its $50 carrying case, was taken from the driveway of a residence in the 2400 block of Shady Dell Road sometime during the night of Tuesday, Oct. 20. The 18-inch, .028 Wood Boss saw was orange and white and displayed a Green Acres sticker on top, and the carrying case was described as bright orange with a dent on top.

Sheriff's deputies charged an Oakland man with failure to drive right of center in connection with a vehicle accident that sent another driver to the hospital on Tuesday morning, Oct. 20.

Mickey Ray Beeman, 25, was traveling south on Garrett Highway near Blue Ribbon Road when his 1989 Chevrolet crossed the centerline and struck a southbound 1994 Ford operated by Nancy Lee Miller, 57. The Southern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Miller to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was reportedly treated and released. Personnel from the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene of the 9 a.m. mishap.

Correction

Last week's sheriff's office news coverage erroneously reported that the domestic assault involving Rodney Jason Hershman, 22, Terra Alta, W.Va., which culminated in his arrest by the Preston County Sheriff's Office on both Preston and Garrett county charges, began at his wife's apartment in Mtn. Lake Park. In fact the Sept. 29 incident began at an apartment belonging to an acquaintance of the victim.

Rumors Sparked

Bentonville resulted in an Tuesday afternoon interview with Daphne Davis of the company's community affairs office. "I've checked into your area, we don't have any plans for an Oakland-area store that I can locate at this point," she said. "There's a lot of preplanning and study that goes into the process before we can announce that we're bringing a Wal-Mart store to serve your community."

"I will check on the status of land transactions and call you back, but haven't been able to locate anything like that so far," Davis said when asked about the existence on an option agreement. By press time she had not called The Republican back.

"We don't announce regional or local plans," Davis stated in the conversation, "although the nationwide information of 40 new Wal-Mart department stores and 150 new supercenters being built this coming fiscal year is accurate."

WKHJ radio had reported that the move paved the way for construction of a store on the site that could open by late next year, yet the radio station did not provide the source for its information when asked. "My source was upper management here at WKHJ," Jim Shaffer said on Friday. "Roger Ruff, one of the owners, and I worked on the story together. He got the information and relayed it me. I'll have him call you."

By press time Ruff had not called the offices of The Republican.

Several local officials, including the Garrett County commissioners, Oakland Mayor Asa McCain, director of planning John Nelson, director of economic development Jim Hinebaugh, and Chamber of Commerce president David Moe, each stated that they had no knowledge of any contract being signed in connection with the sale of the property.

Nelson added that Wal-Mart has not approached his office in any way to learn of the county's codes and requirements for building construction.

Workout For Hope Slated; Pirate Parrot To Be Among Special Guests

The Pittsburgh Pirate Parrot will be on hand again this year to help out with the Workout for Hope, a dance-exercise extravaganza for the entire family that is also a fund-raising event to benefit the House of Hope. The event will be held on Sunday, Nov. 15, 2-5 p.m. at the Southern High School gymnasium.

Workout for Hope is being sponsored by the House of Hope and coordinated by Brenda's Body Shop and Premier Physical Therapy.

"We are excited to be a part of the Workout for Hope," said Teresa Hannibal, physical therapist for Premier Physical Therapy. "The event not only helps raise funds for the House of Hope, but also sends a positive message to the youth about health, fitness, and the importance of community and volunteering.

"The energy and enthusiasm of all the people who participate is truly inspirational," said Brenda Brosnihan, event coordinator. "Last year our event raised over $6,000 in pledges and donations. We applaud the efforts of the 75 people who solicited pledges. This year our goal is to encourage more people to participate in the pledging and to beat our total from last year."

The fund-raiser strategy is this: Participants agree to exercise for at least one 30-minute segment and seek pledges of support from friends and family. The participants will have a chance to earn various prizes for their efforts. In addition to the prize incentive for the pledges, there will also be grand prizes.

Organizers said the three-hour event will be "action-packed" with workouts and entertainment. Performing groups from Brenda's Body Shop will include the Aerobic Diehards, Power Pac, Energizers, Mat Mates, Tryhards, and Jr. Jazz. Another highlight will be the introduction of the sport-aerobic team which will be representing Brenda's Body Shop at the U.S. National Aerobic Championships in April. The team is being chosen from a local contest the day before the Workout for Hope event.

The Southern and Northern cheerleaders will kick off the event by leading a cheer with all the workout participants. The cheerleaders will also keep the energy going throughout the night with dance routines and cheers.

The first workout of the evening will be "Jump and Jive," featuring the Pittsburgh Pirate Parrot. The Parrot has been entertaining fans of all ages since 1972. In addition to the 81 home games in which he participates, the Parrot has entertained throughout the world at hockey games, grand openings, and parades.

"We are happy to have the Pirate Parrot coming again this year. At last year's Workout for Hope, he was very entertaining. The children really enjoyed his antics," stated Brosnihan. The Jump and Jive workout is recommended for children age 3 and up.

The second workout segment will be called "Rock Your Body," featuring a variety of popular dances from the '70s to the '90s, all led by Brenda Brosnihan, along with many of her students.

Middle and high school students may receive up to three hours of community service hours for participating in the workout. Those interested in taking part may pick up a pledge sheet at Brenda's Body Shop. There is no admission to the event; however, spectators will be requested to make an open donation at the door or donate a non-perishable food item for the House of Hope Food Pantry.

For more information about the event, persons may contact Brenda's Body Shop at 301-334-1275 or Premier Physical Therapy at 301-533-3202.

Since the spring of 1978 this column has been written exclusively by the editor, with the exception of one week, when his oldest child decided to come into the world right at presstime. Today we are proud to lend this space to that child (now 19 years old) to share some personal feelings he is experiencing today following the sudden death of his grandmother yesterday.

It's About Time...

Time is such a funny word. It moves both slowly and quickly... it is boundless, yet feels confining at times; it is merely a lifetime, yet it is also an eternity. When it comes right down to it, the word "time" just seems to be too small.

But, for lack of a better, longer word, I must concede to speaking of time as I know it... as we all know it: our lives. At times we go running through our lives, not quite sure where it will take us. Sometimes it is wise to be careful, like when we have to climb a mountain. But then there are times when we have to run wildly through it, sometimes with our eyes closed. When we see a field in front of us, it is time to spread our arms and simply take off at full speed. Sometimes if we get going too fast, we stumble, or even fall down. It is important to keep in mind that we heal.

There are also times when we run so fast we forget to look around us; we forget to notice the flowers at our feet, or the briars that tear at our legs. Heck, we don't even notice when the ground disappears beneath our very feet, and we fall. These are the times that require the most healing, but they are also the times that force us to stop for a bit and really notice what just happened. We are forced to pick ourselves up, brush ourselves off, and continue our journeys.

Of course, we aren't alone all of the time in our journeys. In fact, it is inevitable that our paths will cross every now and then, and occasionally some people will choose the same path, and then a few more add on over the years — daughters, sons, granddaughters, grandsons, cousins. Sometimes there are so many and we are focused so much on where our own feet are landing that we forget to look to our left or right and smile at those who are making this journey with us. Once in a while we remember to look and a person is still there right beside us, but we don't realize that she is getting tired, and falling farther and farther behind, until one day we look and she isn't there. Time seems to stop. We all look for our lost companion. Sometimes we find her and are able to help her up, and to carry her for a little bit. Sometimes she rejoins the adventure, and other times she decides that it is her time to stop. It is a very sad time, because we know that we all must continue our own journey. There are people who are still beside us, counting on us to catch their smile when they turn and throw it to us. She doesn't want us to drop anyone's smile, so she insists that we move on... we have other places to go and other people to meet. It is hard for awhile, and we all try to stay for a time. But we finally do say goodbye. We all must remember to get her address, though, so we can visit her after we ourselves have found that perfect place to end our own journey here on earth.

Time... such a short word. But perhaps it is adequate after all. Time is short for all of us on this earth, and there isn't anything we can do about it. What we can do is run a little, walk a little, be cautious sometimes but be crazy other times, hold someone's hand sometimes but remember to let go every now and then, always be kind to strangers (you never know when they may lend you a hand), laugh a lot, cry enough, learn a lot, smell the flowers, brush ourselves off when we fall, use lots of band-aids (but take them off when our wounds have healed), look at everyone running beside us and remember to smile at them, and remember all of the people who smiled at us in the past. But most importantly, we must realize that someday we'll have to say goodbye to all of them... not forever, of course.

So, I'm sure we'll see you again, Grandma. Until then, be sure to give us all a nudge when you think we need it.

Matt Sincell

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

In June of 1991 an exit ramp from I-68 to Chestnut Ridge Road/US 219 North was completed in the Grantsville area. This cost was $1,490,980.16.

Less than a year ago (November of 1997) this exit was changed so that travelers now had a "new access." Then in June of this year, the "new access" was closed. To my knowledge, there is no plan to re-open the section. Was the "new access" unsafe? Some say it was. I am wondering why the safety factor was not addressed before our tax dollars were spent for this project. The cost for this now closed "new access"? $218,563.16. In addition, what an eyesore!

Ruth Yoder
Grantsville

To the Editor:

I don't normally write letters to the newspapers, but I had to write about two things.

One is about the letter from the inmate who wrote about having to pay for his doctor's care. We taxpayers pay for everything now for the inmates, why shouldn't they start paying for something? They did the crime, now it's time to pay, no matter if it is for doctors, etc. So sorry, Mr. Inmate, you don't have my taxpaying support.

The other subject is about Wal-Mart coming to Garrett County. I agree one hundred percent with the editorial in last week's paper. When Wal-Mart moves in, Garrett County will become a ghost county. Yes, it will put people to work, but it will also close the little stores. So why put 200 to work and put 400 out of work?

Come on, people, wake up and smell the coffee. Do we really need Wal-Mart? So what if we have to drive an hour to shop. Remember how Garrett County looks now, because if Wal-Mart comes in, good-bye Garrett County.

Thank you,
Sandy Tasker

To the Editor:

This letter is in response of the write up in The Republican about Wal-Mart. Whoever wrote that column stuck their foot in their own mouth.

They spoke about jobs being low pay. It will be no different than what Garrett County citizens are getting now. Everyone should be used to that.

The only people that should be worrying are the business owners. They are the ones that are going to lose money and employees. For years business owners pretty much controlled the sales in this county. Let's see what they do when Mr. Walton's store comes to Oakland.

I laughed when I heard about Wal-Mart. I'll be counting down the days until grand opening. My family will be one of a lot of people to gladly shop there. It will be about time we hard-working citizens get things at a fair price without having to drive 50 miles or so.

The only ones who will try to keep Wal-Mart out are the business owners. I bet one thing, if you asked all other citizens, it would be a landslide for Wal-Mart and everyone knows that.

I end this letter saying, "Hurry up, Wal-Mart, the sooner the better."

Sincerely,
James A. Tasker

P.S. Please don't say anything about taxes. I'll pay a little more, 'cause in the long run I'll be saving more money at Wal-Mart.

To the Editor:

As the Donor Resources Field Representative for the American Red Cross Blood Services servicing hospitals in the western Maryland area, I urge your citizens to donate blood this Friday, Oct. 23. We have a blood mobile scheduled for St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church on 4th Street in Oakland from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Your readers should know a few facts about how important volunteer blood donors are.

1. A "summer slump" in blood donations is normal each year. The problem is we are not recovering from this "slump." Blood collections continue to decline and we don't know why.

2. Our regional area needs to collect 775 units or pints of blood each weekday to meet hospital demands. Since Oct. 1, 1998, we have collected over 775 units only one day.

3. Flu shots do not affect blood donation. You can give blood after getting a flu shot!

4. Blood comes from one source: human beings!

Our goal is to collect 175 pints on Friday, Oct. 23. Please mark your calendar to donate blood between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Thank you for your past support and saving the lives of thousands of patients.

Sincerely,
Leslie Nicholson

To the Editor:

In celebration of October being Breast Cancer Awareness Month, many women throughout the area are being educated about early detection of the disease. Breast Cancer Awareness Month is set aside each year for everyone to learn more and become more comfortable talking about breast cancer. The message from all health care professionals is that "Early Detection Saves Lives." A simple message sometimes overlooked.

The world is a busy place. We have work to do and families that need our time. As women, taking care of ourselves is sometimes a lower priority than those of our loved ones. Taking time out of our busy schedule to do a breast self-exam, to have a mammogram or to see our doctor can always wait until later. Or can it?

One out of every eight women in the U.S. will be diagnosed with breast cancer, a statistic that many women still ignore or don't like to hear. We pretend that if we don't talk about it, then it won't happen. We come up with excuses why we can't go see the doctor, why we shouldn't have a mammogram, or why we're too busy.

The American Cancer Society recommends that women over age 40 do a monthly breast self-exam and have a yearly mammogram; women at higher risk should begin the screening process earlier.

A few minutes could save your life.

Sincerely,
Rita Tephabock
Fort Ashby

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the members of the Southern Garrett Band for obtaining their third first place trophy of their season at the Mussleman Tournament of Bands this past Saturday.

I'd like to take this opportunity to thank the Southern Garrett Band, Mr. Clever, and above all, the parents who donated their time and efforts to make this year's Autumn Glory Tournament of Bands very successful. Even with the weather a little chilly this year, we were able to match last year's record, which

CRAZY TIMES

It was one of those weeks. I can't really complain, because nothing bad happened. Even the events which made the week wild were not calamitous, even in the pan-boiling-over-on-the-stove kind of way.

On Friday evening the pigs got out.

It was the week I was working on refinishing floors in a bedroom and hallway upstairs. I had given the floors a light sanding and was vacuuming when I heard the dogs barking. I looked up the lane, but did not see any vehicle. I looked across the field, but did not see the tractor and manure spreader on its daily appearance. So I looked toward the dog kennel — The dogs are usually inside, but I put them out while I was working on the floors. There I saw the pigs scurrying across the barnyard.

I got a bucket of water and a bucket of feed. The pigs would come right over to me, have a drink and a snack, and then look around a little more. We repeated that process four or five times. I decided I needed some help or, at least, as my mother was to suggest later, moral support.

My brother was not home so it was my mother I phoned. She turned off her stove and came right away. The main thing she did was to turn the pigs when they were headed the wrong way, while I continued to lure them the right way. When my main concern was that the pigs not head up the lane or across the fields, Mom's job was more than moral support.

After another 10 to 15 minutes we got the pigs in, and they seemed as content as could be. Mom went back to her cooking. I looked at my watch and saw that I needed to wrap up for the afternoon.

Before my own supper I took a shower. I had just gotten soaped up real good when I heard a hard pounding on the back door, which is just around the corner from the bathroom. I turned off the shower, put a towel around my middle, stepped out the bathroom door, and put my head around the corner.

At the door was a fellow I know only a little, but I remembered that he is the son-in-law of a candidate for office, and that he had, no doubt, brought me some yard signs. I told him to give me a minute, and I would be right out.

My bathrobe was upstairs. After all, I was home alone, and who was to be bothered if I made the trek to the bathroom without a robe? So now I had to creep through the kitchen and up the back stairs while clutching the towel around me — I am bigger around than the towel was long so this was a feat in and of itself.

I got my robe, put on my garden clogs, and went outside only to find not only the son-in-law, but his wife and young son as well. So there I was now, holding the bathrobe together while collecting the yard signs. The boy, maybe 6 years old, was asking me every question he could think of. "What kind of dogs are they?" "Why are your shoes red?" On and on.

That was all that happened on Friday, but I would perform my pièce de resistance on the morrow.

I had applied the first coat of polyurethane to the floors early Saturday afternoon. I was sitting at the computer, working on my sermon for the next day. Friends had invited me to go to dinner with them that evening. I was just thinking what I would wear when I realized that my good clothes and all my dress shoes were on the other side of the polyurethane from me.

There was a phone conference with the friends who had invited me out. They assured me that it would be a very casual evening. I had some decent casual clothes on the right side of the polyurethane. I wore my barn shoes — well cleaned — and no one ever knew the difference. Well, I don't think they did, anyway.

As I say, it was quite a week.

LOAVES AND FISH'S BAIT

by Melodee Hill

I have been feeling rather proud of myself lately. In my last three trips to the grocery store I accomplished the nearly impossible task of bringing homes loaves of bread that still retained their original fresh-from-the factory loaf shape! This makes the lunch-maker and the kids much happier. I have mentioned my kids often enough that you know by now how picky they are. Imagine wanting bread to approximate a square! Or complaining because the next slice of bread resembles an origami peacock! Regrettably, in order to quell the rioting and diminish our supply of bread cubes, I have had to resort to subterfuge and sneakiness to carry out my mission. Sometimes a good sandwich is worth the price of deception.

It doesn't seem as if the cashiers at the stores actually realize that they are handling our food (once we have paid for it, of course) or that we may have spent a little extra time picking it out or that we are eventually going to eat it. I had one cashier recently who threw the food around like she was auditioning for the juggling job at the circus. The problem was that she didn't have a partner to catch any of it. While she simultaneously kept in the air a can of soup, two oranges and an apple pie, I felt she was sufficiently distracted for me to reach under the watermelon and retrieve the dough ball that used to be 10 or 12 sandwiches. She blithely continued to toss and stack the food like it was a cord of firewood.

This blasé attitude seemed to start with the advent of plastic "grocery" bags. Now you and I both know that those bags won't carry a hill of beans, much less bread, rolls, and the occasional Ho-Hos and/or potato chips. The only people who don't seem to realize the limitations of these bags are the people whose bright idea they were in the first place and almost every cashier or bagger who has bagged my groceries. There seem to be two factions regulating the use of these plastic bags.

One group likes to pack so much stuff into a bag that it ripples and bulges as if the garlic bread, pepperoni, and tomato sauce are fighting before they reach your tummy. Of course, as soon as you let the handles go (which have permanently grooved your palms) and place the bag down in your car, the cans, bottles, and loose fruit begin a mad dash for the farthest recess under the seat or in your trunk. When I was cleaning my car once I found some plums that had escaped from a previous expedition. Of course now they were prunes. Talk about loose fruit!

The other group of packers and baggers senses the frailty of the bags. They have never actually tested the theory that each bag could possibly hold two or more (not too many more) items. They will place one bag of potato chips into a bag and believe that it is overflowing. Then you wind up with 27 plastic bags and only 16 grocery items. I don't know how they do that! There is the rare exception who tries to reach middle ground and knows that more than three cans in those bags will cause a rift bigger than the San Andreas fault. This is the one who will carefully place the loaf of white bread lengthwise across the bottom of the bag, then gently toss four or five cans on top of the bread assuming that by the time the bag rips, the bread will be mashed to just the right size to plug up the hole. This is my personal favorite because you don't realize that you have an entire "loaf" of fish bait until you get home and unpack the groceries. "Half a loaf is better than none" doesn't apply to the density of the thing.

When plastic bags first began being used in grocery stores, I thought I would give them a try. Now, I usually request paper bags and not just so the bread will fare better. I realize it's a reflection of my square, symmetrical personality and desire for order that makes paper bags make more sense to me for packing square boxes, round cans and bottles, and flat oblong packages of meat. Just because you shop at the Piggly Wiggly doesn't mean that your groceries have to come home higgledy-piggledy. Say, could I have some mayo on that slice of origami?

certainly proves all the efforts made with additional fund-raisers at the tournament helped tremendously. We had 15 bands perform that night, and it was great to see and hear all the talented kids from our tri-state area.

Just a note about the Southern Garrett Band's upcoming fund-raisers: This weekend, on Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Oakland National Guard Armory, is the Longaberger Basket Bingo. Tickets will be available at the door or at Englander's Pharmacy in advance. Seating is limited.

Every Friday night is regular Bingo sponsored by the Southern Garrett Band, with doors opening at 5:30 p.m. and games beginning at 6:30 p.m. This week's Bonanza Bingo is up to 60 numbers and the mystery number is over $300. Come and bring a friend.

The Southern Garrett Band members have also begun taking orders for Christmas wreaths. Please see any band member to order your beautiful fresh pine wreath. they will also be selling fresh-cut Christmas trees again this year at the Christmas Chalet, with all proceeds going to the band.

Last, but certainly not least, best of luck to the Southern Garrett Band this weekend as they go to States to perform in competition in Group II. Strive for the stars again!

We love you all,

To the Editor:

I enjoy immensely The Republican and especially your editorial page. It is so chock full of interesting and useful information for Garrett Countians.

I especially this week enjoyed the letter of Debbie Jo Noroski and Conrad Adler. I have watched for some years for information to be written concerning our seriously mentally ill by some of the many professionals we have here and Debbie Jo finally did it! Thanks, Debbie Jo! I hope more will follow! We desperately need information, education, enlightenment, and real help for our seriously mentally ill in Garrett County.

We need to eliminate our Rip Van Winkle state and it's 40 years overdue!

Conrad Adler is like a precious jewel! He tells it like it is so well, and so beautifully does he tell our history, which so many never read or seem not to know; thus, it repeats itself over and over!

As an independent, I have said "pox" on all the immoral, disgusting, disgraceful performances of all those involved for many years! It is not Republicans or Democrats I loathe, it is anyone disgracing our country!

I have some positive facts. I have required in recent times much help and assistance. I have been blessed to have so many people assist me in my many family problems. I am deeply grateful and thankful! There are two marvelous neighboring families whom I publicly wish to acknowledge: Mr. and Mrs. Merle (Janice) Frazee, who for years have been such joyous, willing neighbors. If ever there are Christians, blessed they are! The same for a new friend, Pat Schmidt. I am so thankful to God for three such wonderful people.

Thanking you,
sincerely,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey

To the Editor:

As a member of Wal-Mart management and former Oakland resident, I feel obligated to respond to your recent editorial.

I'm not quite sure what would compel you to write such a negative editorial. You really need to check your facts on Wal-Mart.

Wal-Mart is the largest employer below the federal government in the United States. It provides jobs to 725,000-plus people. Yes, some of those jobs are part-time. But, in nearly every store there are far more full-time jobs than part time.

The benefits for all associates include a 10% discount on merchandise, life insurance, 401(K) plan, holiday pay, stock purchase plan, and profit sharing. As a full-time associate, Wal-Mart offers group health insurance, short-term disability, long-term disability, paid vacations, dental insurance, and sick leave. Wal-Mart also offers excellent career advancement opportunities. How many other businesses in Oakland can provide all of these benefits?

How can you really judge a company that can be so beneficial for such a small town? People will actually be able to buy products at a reasonable cost. When is the last time you have priced some of the items at local businesses? They are ridiculous. Wal-Mart's buying power is huge, which allows the savings to be passed on to the customer.

Do you realize the amount of money Wal-Mart provides to a community? Not only do they pay huge taxes, but they do a large amount of donations. Wal-Mart associates raise money for a variety of wonderful organizations. They are the #1 corporate sponsors for Children's Miracle Network which benefits our local children's hospitals in Morgantown and Washington, D.C. Many babies and children from Oakland have been treated at these hospitals. Wal-Mart is very active in the United Way, as well as Big Brothers/Big Sisters. They give many grants to schools, churches, social organizations, Boy Scouts, and Girl Scouts. The list could go on and on.

Wal-Mart is the largest retail company in the world. They close very few stores each year and open far more than they close. I see many people from the Oakland area shopping my store every day. I'm sure Oakland would not mind taking that revenue and keeping it for themselves.

So, before you go causing an uproar in the community trying to keep Wal-Mart out, research your facts a little closer and you will find Wal-Mart will be a benefit.

Sincerely,
Melissa Davis-Clark

FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK PROCLAIMED — The Garrett County commissioners signed a document Tuesday proclaiming Oct. 18-24 as Forest Products Week. The local officials joined with Governor Parris Glendening in the designation of the special observance, which has the theme of "Healthy Forests for a Healthy Environment." The proclamation states in part that forests are the main source of oxygen, they act as filters to clean the air and water, and that trees are a renewable resource, never to be depleted as long as foresters and natural resources professionals build on their record of finding ways to effectively manage forest lands. The document also notes that there are 1,500 certified tree farms across Meryland, covering more than 275,000 acres, and most are committed to implementing Best Management Practices (BMPs). Pictured left to right are Karin Miller, executive director of the Maryland Forests Association and a Garrett County Forest Association board member; Commissioners Wayne Wilt, Wayne Johnson, and Gary Fratz; and Michael Kozier, chairperson of the local forestry board and director of the FSA office.

REV. DAVID C. TRIMBLE

The Rev. Canon David Churchman Trimble, 96, a resident of the Fahrney-Keedy Memorial Retirement Home, Boonsboro, died Wednesday, Oct. 14, 1998, at the home.

Born Sept. 6, 1902, in Baltimore, he was the son of the late Dr. Isaac Ridgeway Trimble and Margaret Emily (Jones) Trimble.

He was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church Hagerstown. During his 52-year ministry, he served as rector of St. Matthew's Parish, Oakland, St. John's Parish, Glyndon, St. Luke's Parish, Prescott, Ariz., and Antietam Parish (St. Paul's in Sharpsburg and St. Mark's in Lappans). Following his retirement, he assisted on the staff of St. John's Episcopal Church. He was a chaplain with the Maryland State Guard from 1941 until 1943, where he attained the rank of captain.

He was made an honorary canon by the bishop of Arizona. He was a member of two Rotary clubs since 1943, where he was a past president and a Paul Harris Fellow. He was also a former president of the Washington County Ministers' Association.

There was no viewing. A service was conducted at St. John's Episcopal Church on Friday, Oct. 16, with the Rt. Rev. Robert W. Ihloff, Bishop of Maryland, presiding. He was assisted by the Rev. Kenneth J. Dorsch. Private interment was in the Wye House Plantation Family Cemetery, Easton.

Donations may be made to St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Lappans, or St. John's Episcopal Church, Hagerstown.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Andrew K. Coffman Funeral Home, Hagerstown.

JAMES J. WEIMER

James J. Weimer, 69, Dongola, Ill., died Tuesday, Oct. 13, 1998, at his home.

Born Nov. 29, 1928, in St. Paul, Pa., he was the son of the late Walter Milton and Lyna (Woods) Weimer.

He retired in 1984 after 30 years as a quality control shop foreman for General Motors Corp., Pontiac, Mich., and was a member of United Auto Workers Local 653.

Surviving are one daughter, Linda G. Hauser, Oakland; three half-brothers, Donald Weimer, Oliphant Furnace, Pa., Thomas Weimer, West Leisenring, Pa., and Paul Weimer, Pataskala, Ohio; his step-mother, Margaret Weimer, Fairchance, Pa.; one half-sister, Beulah Brady, Myron, Mich.; and two grandsons.

Friends were received at the Crain Funeral Home, Anna, Ill., where a service was conducted on Thursday, Oct. 15, with the Rev. Gene Terbrak officiating.

JOANNE B. HENRY (REBELE)

Joanne Barbara Henry (Rebele), Mtn. Lake Park, died suddenly on Wednesday, Oct. 21, 1998, at Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., following complications from heart by-pass surgery.

Born September 22, 1929, in Allentown, Pa., Ms. Henry was the daughter of the late Dr. Ralph and Sara (Fritch) Henry.

Ms. Henry was a retired Garrett County school teacher, having taught for 25 years at Loch Lynn and Dennett Road elementary schools. She was a graduate of Allentown High School, held an undergraduate degree from Pennsylvania State University, and a master's degree from the University of Maryland. She had also completed graduate work at Kutztown University of Pennsylvania.

She was an active member of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, the Oakland Civic Club, the Mountain Laurel Garden Club, and the American Association of University Women. She was also an active member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland. She was a staunch supporter of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, both financially and by serving as a host for musicians of the Symphony at Deep Creek.

Ms. Henry is survived by one daughter, Suzanne B. Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park; two sons, Carl H. (Hank) Rebele, Owings Mills; and David N. Rebele, Hagerstown; six grandchildren and two step-grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Durst Funeral Home in Oakland this Friday, Oct. 23, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. A funeral service will be held at St. Mark's Lutheran Church on Saturday at 11 a.m., with the Rev. Michael Robinson officiating. A graveside service and interment will be held at a later date in Macungie, Pa.

The family requests that expressions of sympathy take the form of donations to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation, the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, and/or St. Mark's Lutheran Church.

CHARLES D. LUCAS

Charles D. Lucas, 78, Gormania, W.Va., died Thursday, Oct. 8, 1998, at the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home, Oakland.

Born May 17, 1920, in Schell, W.Va., he was a son of the late Adam J. and Elizabeth (Roderick) Lucas. He was also preceded in death by one daughter, Dora Snyder.

He was a retired machine operator for the Western Maryland Railroad and was a member of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way. A U.S. Army veteran of World War II, he was a life member of Abraham Lincoln Post 6735, VFW, Mt. Storm, W.Va.

Survivors include two daughters, Carol Slonaker, Hanover, Pa., and Charlotte Lucas, Jacksonville, Fla.; one son, Dennis Lucas, Loch Lynn; one brother, James Lucas, Gray, Pa.; six grandchildren; and eight great-grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, where a service was conducted Sunday, Oct. 11, with the Rev. Wally Weeks officiating. Interment was in the Rehoboth Cemetery, Mt. Storm.

Military honors were accorded at the cemetery by members of the various veterans organizations in southern Garrett County.

The Longs and Kents also visited with Mrs. Faye Brown and daughter T.J., Mr. Eric Brown and friend, and Mr. David Warrick and sons David and Billy, all of Carlisle, Pa. The Longs and Kents had supper together that evening in honor of their respective anniversaries. The Longs celebrated 19 years on Oct. 7, and the Kents celebrated 10 years on Oct. 3.

Saturday visitors of Linda Thomas and son Keaton, were Dick Hockman and friend Linda and Martha Hughes, Newark, Ohio.

Relatives received word that James Weimer, 69, of Dongola, Ill., died Tuesday, Oct. 13. He was the stepson of Mrs. Margaret Weimer, Fairchance, Pa., and the son of the late Walter Weimer. The funeral service and interment was in Illinois.

Mrs. John Sherwood, Mt. Nebo, W.Va., arrived on Thursday evening to spend a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanft. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Beatty and daughters, Baltimore, and Peggy Sue Collins, Laurel, spent the weekend. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Hanft and daughters, Addison, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Needer and son, Timonium, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Higson and daughters, Cumberland, and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Oester, Meyersdale. A Saturday forenoon visitor was Mrs. Oren Bender. Mrs. Barbara Fike was also a caller. The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanft was a Sunday, Oct. 18.

GOSPEL SING

A gospel sing is planned at the Brookside Church of the Brethren, Rt. 50, on Saturday, Oct. 31, beginning at 7 p.m.

This will be an "open mike" sing, and a freewill offering will be accepted, with the proceeds to be used towards Pastor Don Knotts's recent liver transplant.

The public is welcome to attend, and organizers of the event wish to remind everyone that gospel sings are also planned in November and December. More information about these will be announced in future editions of The Republican.

MTN. LIONS DINNER

An annual buckwheat cake and sausage dinner, sponsored by the Mtn. Lions Club, will be held Saturday, Nov. 21, from noon until 7 p.m. Those who wish to reserve bulk sausage, seasoned or unseasoned, should contact John Calcamp at 735-3141 or another member. The sausage will be in 5- or 10-pound packages, at a cost of $1.75 per pound. Delivery will be at the dinner unless otherwise arranged.

The Aurora School float, sponsored by the Mountain Lions Club, captured first place in its class at the Preston County Buckwheat Festival parade. It also placed first in the amateur class at the Autumn Glory parade. The float was decorated by Aurora School personnel and community volunteers, and featured a shaded tree reflecting the stability of the community.

PIONEER 4-H

The Aurora Pioneer 4-H members met in the home of leader Stacy Fint on Oct. 14, after they had first assembled at Cathedral State Park to make final preparations for the "Haunted Trail." Eric Durst led the group in singing "The Skunk Son." The American pledge was led by Coltan Kisner, with Neil Mersing leading the 4-H pledge. Kendra Durst gave the treasurer's report.

Kendra Durst reported on serving buckwheat cakes and the lamb dressing contest at the Buckwheat Festival. Those members who exhibited animals also gave reports on ribbons, placings, and prices received for their animals.

All members participating in the Haunted Trail are to meet at Cathedral State Park at 6 p.m. on Oct. 24 to help set up for the "Trick-or-Treat" trail. All members are also asked to bring bagged treats for refreshments.

Coloring books, sample bottles of shampoo, conditioner, etc., are being collected for the Rape and Domestic Violence Center.

It was announced that Officers' Training and 4-H Achievement Day are to be held on Nov. 8 at Preston High School beginning at 2 p.m. Each family attending is asked to bring a finger food for refreshments.

The 4-H enrollment cards were distributed, completed, and returned during the meeting. It was decided to sell the beef, hog, and lamb tickets as a group at designated businesses in town, rather than as individuals. A committee was formed to make the arrangements.

Tracy Fields led the group in recreation at the end of the meeting. Sixteen members and three leaders were present.

VFW AUXILIARY PLANS ACTIVITIES

A regular meeting of the Aurora-Terra Alta VFW Auxiliary to Post 578 was held at the post home on Oct. 12. The auxiliary will prepare refreshments to be served following the Halloween parade, which will be held Oct. 31 in Terra Alta. They also donated $25 to the Salt Lick Grange, which is sponsoring a "Meet the Candidates" dinner Oct. 24, at 4 p.m.

The annual Veterans' Day dinner will be at the post home on Nov. 11 at 6:30 p.m. The Voice of Democracy ceremony and contest will be held at Preston High School on Nov. 5 at 7 p.m. Harold and Betty Sereno will represent the Aurora-Terra Alta Post 578 at this event.

The treasurer's books were sent for audit on Oct. 12. Attending the meeting were president Betty Sereno, Dorothy Houser, Merle Nice, Mary Downer, Violet Bishop, Linda Snyder and Tina Bryant.

The next meeting will be at the post home at 4 p.m. on Nov. 9.

EGLON 4-H

Matthew Bachtel presided at the Oct. 12 meeting of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club, and Sarah Snyder and Bridgette Strawser, members of the Activity Committee, had the devotions. Pledges were led by Sara Lewis.

Leslie Strawser showed how to make a bird feeder from a milk jug, and each member made a feeder to take home.

Ashley Bachtel reported that the club served the Mtn. Lions Club a lasagne dinner on Sept. 18 at the Maple Spring Church. Sara Lewis reported helping with serving of buckwheat cake dinners at Kingwood, where four members and five leaders worked during various shifts. Five members displayed projects in the Memorial North Building; five had livestock projects, which included Tracy Teets who had the grand champion market hog, as reported by Chris Mullenax. Chris and Josh Mullenax, Dana Feather, and Maria Harsh, the Ag Olympics team, place 4th of the 11 teams participating.

National 4-H Week was observed October 4-10 with a display of projects at the Aurora School and an open house for parents and prospective members. They welcomed new member Andrew Shaffer.

Officers' Training and Achievement Day will be at 2 p.m. on Nov. 8 at Preston High School, with members meeting at 1 p.m. at the Eglon Memorial Building to arrange transportation. Each family is asked to take finger food refreshments. Members are asked to return their beef, pork, and lamb tickets and the money to leader Linda Lewis by Oct. 24.

A Halloween dessert cook-off resulted in the following winners: Sarah Snyder had the "weirdest," Dana Feather the "most original," Shawn Rembold the "nastiest," Sara Lewis's best represented Halloween, and Craig Rembold had the "yummiest." The M&M guess jar was won by Chris Mullenax.

The Nov. 9 meeting will be at 7 p.m. at the Maple Spring Church for members and families. Each is asked to display ribbons and awards won, to bring nonperishable foods for the Food Pantry, and to bring finger foods for refreshments.

BIRTHDAYS

A surprise party was held to honor Peggy (Adams) Houser on her 70th birthday, Oct. 5, following choir practice at the Aurora United Methodist Church. The event was planned by her daughters and attended by the choir and other church friends, her family members, and neighbors.

Craig Rembold celebrated his birthday on Oct. 16 with a family dinner, which included attendance by cousins, uncles and aunts, and his great-uncle and aunt, Doyle and Helen Roth, who were visiting in Eglon. The soup supper was served at the Eglon Memorial Building and also included attendance by his grandparents, Ron and Avenell Parsons.

Jonathon Adair Blamble celebrated his fifth birthday at his home in Aurora on Sept. 23. A party was planned by his parents, Terry and Jackie Blamble. Also there were Jonathon's new sister Danielle; Everett, Shirley and Adam Blamble; George, Donna, Elizabeth, and George Jr. Landis; Hazel Blamble; Sandy, Joey, Tyler, and Melanie Amos; and Stephanie and Dave Hardesty. BOE Nutrition Advisory Group Seeking Input

The Food and Nutrition Advisory Committee to the Garrett County Board of Education is seeking members of the community who may be concerned with issues of school food service. In accordance with the board of education's efforts to get input from the community, the advisory group offers a forum for parents, teachers, students, and others interested in nutrition.

Food and nutrition service manager Scott Germain relayed information on the current status of the group to the board of education during last week's board meeting. "At the meeting on September 28, it was determined that additional members are required," he reported. He referred to other obligations noted by several people who had previously served on the advisory committee and could no longer do so.

"We are looking for ways to get ideas and input about the food service. We may do some of the work through the School Improvement Teams (SITs). We just don't know yet," Germain noted.

New this year to the food and nutrition services manager position, Germain said he hopes to find a way to get the most information from the greatest number of schools. He said this issue will be addressed by the current group members during the next regular monthly meeting.

The advisory committee will meet at the Board of Education meeting room, Oakland, on Monday, Oct. 26, 1-3:30 p.m. Germain said that any interested resident is welcome to attend. He also stated that anyone who is unable to attend the meeting but would like to express an opinion or concern may contact him at the board office at 301-334-8917 or 301-895-3163.

CLASS OF '31 REUNITES - Grantsville High School's graduating class of 1931 held a reunion recently. Of the 18 students who graduated 67 years ago, 5 were boys and 13 were girls. With the July 5th death of class member Glenn Folk, no male graduates remained. Nine of the ten living female class members met for lunch and socializing at Hill Top Restaurant. Attending the event, in the photo above left to right, were Jennie (Durst) Stark, Lonaconing; Mildred (Paul) Loechel, Grantsville; Esther Opel, Accident; Anna (Setzer) Wahl, Meyersdale, Pa.; Ferne (Buckel) Beachy, Accident; Anna Durst, Cumberland; Helen (Swauger) Hendershot, Warfordsburg, Pa.; Helen (Miller) Dixon, Laurel; and Evelyn (Beachy) Hewitt, Grantsville. Claudia (Paul) Goodfellow was a guest in attendance. Former class member Ruth (Brenneman) Bevan, a resident of the Virginian Home, Fairfax, Va., was not present for the reunion.

State Police Vehicles Don Purple Ribbons

Maryland State Police Superintendent Colonel David B. Mitchell has ordered the donning of purple ribbons on state police patrol vehicles in recognition of Domestic Violence Awareness Month.

In observance of the month, the Maryland State Police have joined the Maryland Network Against Domestic Violence to increase public awareness about this issue. State troopers will tie a purple ribbon on their patrol vehicles to symbolize the need for increased awareness and action concerning domestic violence issues.

"Domestic violence is a serious crime that has psychological impacts far beyond the visible physical injury sustained by the victims," said Colonel Mitchell. "We are continuing our efforts in providing valuable resources and assistance to victims and family members affected by domestic violence."

"Driving the Message Home — A Campaign for Domestic Violence Awareness" is one of the many activities sponsored by the Maryland Network Against Domestic Violence (MNADV) throughout the month of October. David Delehantyy, executive director of MNADV, stated, "I am pleased to be working with the Maryland State Police and selected local stores. We hope that our educational campaign underscores the message that help is out there."

Just last month, Lieutenant Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend joined Maryland State Police officials to announce the donation of 400 Polaroid Spectra cameras to local police agencies throughout Maryland to better document physical injuries sustained by domestic violence victims. The cameras were funded by the federal Violence Against Women Act. A one-day training session for the operation of the new cameras was also conducted at State Police Headquarters.

In July 1997, Maryland State Police implemented a statewide Regional Family Violence Unit throughout Maryland utilizing specially trained investigators. Investigators are responsible for investigating domestic violence cases, providing support to domestic violence victims and family members and working closely with local social services centers.

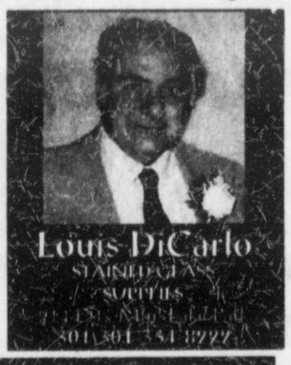
Kids Helping Kids Food Drive Now Under Way

Garrett County Community Action/Community and Emergency Services Department's AmeriCorps members Virginia Fike and Jody Teets are coordinating the ninth annual Kids Helping Kids "Harvest for the Hungry" campaign.

This program encourages children to read books and to request family members and friends to pledge canned food for each book completed. "Last year we collected over 1,200 pounds of food, and we hope to exceed that amount this year," said Teets.

The food received through pledges will be used to help Garrett County families in emergency situations, and the children who participate in the campaign will receive special recognition.

The Kids Helping Kids program began Monday and will continue until November 6. Anyone with questions may contact the Community and Emergency Services Department or Virginia Fike at 301-334-9431.



OCYF's Parent Network Offers Puppet Workshop

The Parent Network and the Garrett County Office for Children, Youth & Families Inc. recently sponsored a puppetry workshop at Garrett Community College.

Presented by Joann Spencer-Siegrist, professor of theater at the University of West Virginia, Morgantown, W.Va., the two-day workshop provided participants with an introduction to the world of puppetry and instruction in the use of simple puppetry techniques that can be used with children in various settings, including daycare centers and classrooms.

The first day of the workshop was for child service professionals — daycare providers, teachers, therapists, and others — while the second day was devoted to parents and young children. A kick-off puppet presentation on day two was followed by a demonstration of the simplicity of using puppets and an opportunity for the children to try out the puppets for themselves. The workshop concluded with the parents and the children working together in a puppet-making activity, and the children took their puppets home at the end of the day.

For further information on programs and activities offered by the Parent Network, interested persons may call Crystal Stewart at the Garrett County OCYF at 301-334-1189.

attended Kids Inc. during its first year and summer session. The youngsters joined others from across the state in workshops and activities provided by the conference organizers. "Our students took an active part in a workshop on peer pressure," Green said.

The students attending the meeting not only had the opportunity to interact with their peers from other counties, but saw some sights in Baltimore. "They were taken on a tour of the Science Center, which they really enjoyed," Green added.

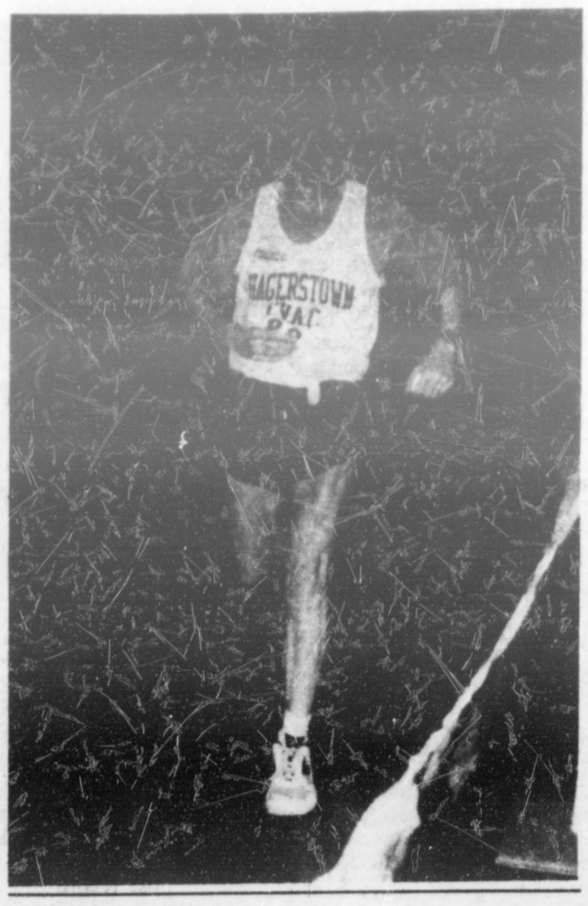
A SPECIAL UNIT from the Maryland Army National Guard Officer Candidate School that trains in Reisterstown participated in the annual Autumn Glory 5K Run for Sight, sponsored by the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club and held at Broadford Park. The unit, pictured above, completed the race in formation. The 15 months of training, which culminates in a commission as a second lieutenant, is extremely challenging both physically and academically, as evidenced by the fact that, of the 48 candidates who began the training in April, only 19 remain. Among the candidates is Joseph D. Shaffer, son of Perry and Joann Shaffer of Oakland, who is carrying the unit banner in the above photo. Their trip to Garrett County and participation in the race was sponsored by the Post 71 American Legion Auxiliary, Oakland, members of which are pictured below. From left are Ann Rebele, Wilda Kildow, and Edna McCartney. In the bottom photo is Jimmy Railey, one of the top finishers of the race and the winner of a mountain bike. At left, crossing the finish line, is Tony Yurko, who was the fastest runner in the event, and at right is Maureen Hall, who was the top female finisher. See story for complete details.



Autumn Glory 5-K Run, Walk Winners Named

Following is a list of the participants in the annual Autumn Glory Run/Walk for Sight, sponsored by the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club and held at Broadford Park during the annual festival.

The overall winner of the 5K race was Tony Yurko, who finished the 3.1-mile course in 17 minutes, 29 seconds. The top female finisher was Maureen Hall, whose time was 19:54.

Various prizes were awarded to the winners and to those holding winning raffle tickets. Proceeds from the race go to the sight programs sponsored by the Lions Club.

Dickenson Notes Leverenz As Its Top Runner

Rachel Leverenz, formerly an outstanding runner at Northern High School, was named to the Centennial Conference Weekly Cross Country Honor Roll for her running performance for Dickenson College at the Allentown Invitational on Sunday.

Dickenson placed 12th out of 46 teams in the 5-kilometer race that included 146 runners. Leverenz was her school's top finisher, taking 34th place as she clocked in with a 20:06:55.

Dickenson's cross country program is enjoying tremendous success behind Leverenz's leadership, boasting a 6-0 record in dual meets and a 119-23 overall mark. An NCAA Division III institution, the college competes in the Centennial Conference under the tutelage of head coach Don Nichter.

Leverenz, who was an honor student at Northern, is the daughter of Jann and Neil Leverenz of Accident.

Rams' Wengerd Golfs To Fifth Place In State

Kane Wengerd of Southern High School placed fifth in a field of 142 competitors at the 1998 Maryland State Golf Tournament at the University of Maryland, College Park, on Tuesday.

Wengerd's 152, on rounds of 75 and 77, tied him with Wooten's James Tendall for fifth place. A second Garrett County golfer, Northern High School's A.J. Thomas, placed 97th in the field at 89-86 for a 175.

The par-71 course proved challenging for all contestants, as the overall individual winner didn't break par for the day. Walkersville's Jimmy Cunningham took low-medalist honors with combined rounds of 69 and 74 to card a one-over 143 for tournament. Runner-up Charles Hong of Whitman was only one stroke off the lead as he turned in a pair of 72 rounds to finish at 144.

In the team standings, Churchill High won the 3A-4A championship with a 635. Walkersville won the 1A-2A title with a 648. Neither Northern nor Southern fielded a team for the state competition, both having been eliminated in regional play.

Huskies Nipped By Calvary Before Tying 1-1 With Elks

The boys' soccer team of Northern High School concluded a tough regular season of competition this week by being edged by host Calvary Christian Academy, 4-3, on Saturday and then tying with visiting Salisbury on Tuesday, 1-1. The results gave the Huskies an overall record of 0-10-2, as they await the draw for next week's regional playoffs.

Simon Hoogland posed the most trouble for the Huskies in the match against Calvary Christian, as he recorded three goals and an assist. He earned his first point of the day, and the first of the match, with a penalty kick seven minutes into the match. He made it 2-0 seven minutes later when he scored off an assist by Brian Wolfe.

The Huskies responded with two goals of their own to tie the match by halftime. B.J. Lloyd struck first for Coach Tom Ables' team with an unassisted goal with about nine minutes left in the half. Ronnie Lipscomb knotted the score just a minute later with a goal off a feed by Greg Whittemore.

Calvary took a 3-2 lead just four minutes into the second half when Wolfe scored off an assist by Hoogland. The Huskies tied it again at 3-3 when Whittemore scored and Justin Fontaine was credited with an assist about 10 minutes into the half.

Hoogland ultimately won the game for Calvary with an unassisted goal with about five minutes left in the match.

Calvary finished with a slight edge in shots on goal, 20-17, while the Huskies led in corner kicks by an 8-2 margin. Jimmy Kenner had 10 saves for the Huskies and Brandon Newell stopped nine Husky shots.

The win gave Calvary a 9-6 mark for the season.

In Tuesday's final match against Salisbury, the Huskies and the Elks each scored a goal in the first quarter, but the rest of the match was all defense.

Salisbury took a 1-0 lead when Dave Short recorded an unassisted goal at the 32:57 mark of the first quarter. The Huskies tied it at the 21:33 mark when Mike Fletcher scored an unassisted goal.

The Huskies finished with a 22-20 edge in shots, and had a 2-1 lead in corner kicks. Kenner was credited with 17 saves in goal for Northern, while B.J. Mull earned 14 for the Elks, whose record is 5-9-2.

Northern Girls Drop A Pair By One Goal; To Host Beall

The Northern High girls' soccer team, one of the top teams in the area, sustained a couple of tough losses within 24 hours of each other this week, as the Huskies were edged by host Fort Hill on Monday, and then dropped a 2-1 contest to the area's top-ranked team, Bishop Walsh, Tuesday evening. The losses dropped the Huskies' overall mark to 6-4-1, and they will attempt to conclude the regular season tonight with a win over visiting Beall.

The only goal scored in the match with Fort Hill was by Jamie Brant with only five seconds remaining in the first half. Brant's match-winner came off a corner kick by Stephanie Skidmore.

The Sentinels finished with a 17-7 advantage in shots on goal and led in corner kicks, 7-4.

Ashley Warnick had 13 saves in goal for the Huskies, while Becky Beeman stopped four shots for the Sentinels (4-7).

The first half against Bishop Walsh on Tuesday was scoreless, as the Huskies kept pace with the Spartans, who have recorded 15 victories this season.

The Huskies took a 1-0 lead seven minutes into the second half when Brooke Butler scored off an assist by Ashley Warnick.

The Spartans countered with a goal less than a minute later, scored by Kelli Amoroso off a feed by Lauren Zapf.

Zapf then scored the winning goal, unassisted, at the 23:15 mark.

The Huskies were outshot by just one, 16-15, and each team finished with five corner kicks. Warnick had five saves for the Huskies and Emily Rawe recorded three. Tiffini Wagner stopped 14 shots for the Spartans.

The kickoff this evening at Husky Stadium will be at 7 p.m.

Ram Booters Edged By Indians, Then Defeat Wildcats, Aggies

The Southern High boys' varsity soccer team lost a Western Maryland Interscholastic League match and then won a pair this past week to conclude the regular season. The Rams dropped a 1-0, overtime heartbreaker to host Mt. Savage last Thursday night, defeated host Westmar on Saturday afternoon, 4-2, and then blanked Flintstone on Tuesday, 2-0, on the Aggies' field. The results left the Rams with a best-ever record of 8-3-1 for the regular season, and they will await Sunday's draw to see whom they will meet in the Class 1A West Region playoffs.

After two tough halves of scoreless defensive combat between the Rams and the league-leading Indians of Mt. Savage, which sent the match into overtime, Dan Bloskey finally won the contest for the home team when he scored an unassisted goal with 5:04 remaining in the first overtime period.

Southern's keeper Jonathan Price played an outstanding game, as he stopped 14 shots, while Adam Stafford finished with three saves for the Indians. The Rams were outgunned by a commanding 16-3 margin in shots on goal and trailed in corner kicks, 4-2.

The win improved the Indians' overall record to 9-2 and their WMIL mark to 6-1.

The Southern junior varsity played the Mt. Savage jayvees to a scoreless tie in the preliminary match.

Bo Jonson, who usually plays defense for Coach Tom Powers, was given a chance to play up front against Westmar on Saturday, and he turned that opportunity into a hat trick. Jonson scored the first two goals of the match off assists by John Andrews, the first just four minutes into the contest and the second with 10:37 expired.

Ryan Ewing then made it 3-0 for the Rams with an unassisted goal three minutes before halftime.

The Wildcats put their first point on the board with less than a minute and a half remaining before halftime when Jamie Clark scored off a feed by Shane Rosenberger.

Jonson upped Southern's lead to 4-1 when he scored off an assist by Nick Glotfelty about seven minutes into the second half.

The Wildcats concluded the scoring with a goal on a penalty kick by Jamie Clark.

The Rams finished with a 17-16 edge in shots on goal, while Westmar had a 4-3 advantage in corner kicks. Price turned away a dozen shots by the Wildcats, and Josh Broadwater matched that effort in goal for Westmar.

The loss dropped the Wildcats to 4-8.

Jonson scored half of the Rams' goals in Tuesday's match at Flintstone, while freshman teammate D.R. Parsons accounted for the match's only other goal.

Parsons scored off an assist by Uwe Dietzel with 8:48 left in the first half to put the first point of the match on the board. Jonson's goal came with just four seconds left in the first half off a feed by John Andrews.

The second half was all defense. The Aggies finished with a 16-14 edge in shots, and neither team had a corner kick. Price had 13 saves for Southern, while Mike Groves and Mickey Lafferty combined for 12 stops for the Aggies, who finished with a 4-9-1 overall record and a 3-4 mark in the WMIL.

The Southern jayvees won the preliminary match, 4-0, as T.J. Nine recorded two goals for the Rams and Chad Panther and Nick Fontaine each scored one. Jimmy Carpenter and Chris Remley each had an assist.

Reeves, Teets Pace Rams To 2-0 Win Over Beall

A pair of second-half goals Tuesday evening at Beall led the Southern High School girls' soccer team to a 2-0 Western Maryland Interscholastic League victory over the Mountaineers and its ninth win of the season in 11 matches.

After a scoreless, defensive first half, Southern's Gina Reeves headed the ball into the net off a feed from Sarah Teets with 20:37 remaining in the match to give the Rams all they would need for the win.

Megan Burner added an insurance goal for Southern on a penalty kick with 12:58 remaining.

The Mountaineers, who are 3-8 overall and 3-6 in the WMIL, out-shot the Rams by an 11-7, and also led in corner kicks, 10-1. Becky Martin was credited with six saves in goal for Southern, while Cheri Simmons recorded three for Beall.

The Rams, who are 9-1-1 overall and 9-0-1 in the WMIL, will conclude its regular season with a return match with Bishop Walsh this Saturday at home. The kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

The Rams' only defeat this year was to Bishop Walsh (15-4-1).

Huskies' Well Runs Dry Against Berkeley Springs In 30-20 Loss

The Huskies of Northern High School would like to have a chance to rewind the tape on Friday night's football game and play the second half over again, for a 14-6 halftime lead evaporated before their eyes and the 1998 Homecoming contest ended in a 30-20 defeat at the hands of Berkeley Springs. "This one was a major disappointment," NHS head coach Phil Carr said afterwards, citing an emotional and psychological collapse on his players' part in the second half. "It's the most disappointing loss in my two years of coaching."

The Indians put the first points on the board when Jason Saville scored on a six-yard TD run in the opening quarter. A missed point after touchdown kick attempt left the score at 6-0. The Huskies bounded back, thanks to their defense, when defensive back Jed Wilhelm returned an interception 22 yards to tie the game, which remained knotted at 6-all when Justin Robinson's PAT kick attempt was blocked. Northern then got off a fine drive downfield late in the second quarter, capped off by a one-yard scoring plunge by quarterback Adam Brenneman, followed by a successful 2-point conversion run by fullback Ryan Brenneman, giving the Huskies' their 14-6 halftime lead.

N - Mark Wolf 88 kick off return (pass failed).

"Both teams made adjustments during the second half," Carr said, "and on their first play from scrimmage as the third quarter opened Berkeley Springs drew a clipping penalty that moved them back to a first and 25 on their own 30-yard line. We had an opportunity to shut them down there and get the ball back in great field position, but we got sloppy. A roughing the passer penalty, a late hit flag, and an offsides call helped them move the ball downfield and they made it to our 23-yard line. On fourth down and four one of our linebackers had their quarterback in his grasp and was taking him down when he was able to pitch the ball to a blocking back, who carried the ball six yards to pick up the first down." The Indians' Saville snagged a six-yard scoring strike, making the score 14-12 with Northern still in the lead. A two-point conversion pass attempt failed.

Later in the same quarter the Huskies' defense brought the Homecoming crowd to its feet once again when defensive back Rob Dozier intercepted a pass that shut down an Indians' drive that had moved the ball deep into Northern's end of the field. The offense stalled, however, and had to punt the ball away from deep in its own territory. Berkeley Springs took possession of the ball inside Northern's 20-yard line, and made the score 18-14 shortly afterwards on a nine-yard run by Davy Cave, followed by a missed two-point conversion pass attempt.

"Without a doubt we were still in the ballgame at that point," said Carr. "We were only down by four points with more than a quarter of football to play; but that score seemed to take the wind out of our guys, they seemed to give up. From then on our offense only had 11 plays from scrimmage, and the defense was on the field for most of the rest of the game."

Saville scored his third touchdown for the visitors on a two-yard run to open the fourth quarter, and after the two-point conversion pass failed the score stood at 24-14. The final Berkeley Springs TD came on a 13-yard reception by Cave, followed by another failed conversion pass attempt, putting the Indians up 30-14. A bright spot for the Huskies' fourth quarter came when Mark Wolf carried the ensuing kickoff 88 yards for a Northern touchdown. The conversion pass attempt failed, leaving the score 30-20, where it ended.

The NHS offense gained only 90 yards of total offense, all on the ground, to the visitors' 236 yards of total offense, and accumulated only five first downs as compared to the Indians 14 (one of which came on a penalty flag). Berkeley Springs stymied the Huskies' running game, holding Dozier, Northern's top runner, to 29 yards rushing. Fullback Ryan Brenneman picked up 40 yards on the ground, and Wolf matched Dozier's 29-yard total. Berkeley Springs' Davy Cave outgained the entire Huskies' offensive production, amassing 128 yards rushing as he ran through a number of missed tackles.

"They had some fine athletes and nine seniors starting on their squad, and have lost some tough games to some of the top teams in West Virginia," said Carr. "Their quarterback and running back were extremely tough. Still, we had the opportunity to win and let it go by us.

"Our collapse is possibly a sign of a young team," Carr continued. "We don't have too many veteran players who have been there before to reach down inside themselves and pull out the extra effort when the chips are down. We have to learn how to win. Our last big season was five years ago; since then we've been floating around .500 ball or less. It's going to continue to take hard work, dedication, and experience to overcome that history."

Looking ahead to tomorrow night's contest at Petersburg, Carr said that a major factor will be whether or not their superb halfback, Ryan Dingess, sees playing time. "Dingess is one of the best running backs around," Carr observed, "but he has had a banged-up knee recently. He's an all-purpose back, can run inside and outside, has excellent hands, and has gained over 200 yards rushing against us in our meetings with Petersburg each of the past two years.

"If Dingess is playing, their offense will run him out of an I-formation with 5-9 175-pound fullback Jonathan Hawke leading the way; if Dingess is out, they will probably switch to a Wing-T and Hawke will do most of the carrying.

"Petersburg's offense comes straight at you from either formation, without much finesse, using a lot of dives and leads. The have a fine offensive line, and we'll be outsized once again. Six-foot, 270-pound guard Wes Haslacker is joined by their best offensive tackle, 6-foot, 217-pound Jason Keplinger, who is also their best defensive lineman. The offensive line also relies on Brent Warner, 6-1, 283 pounds, and Jason Ballanger, 6-foot, 246 pounds. We'll have to rely on our quickness up front again, which has served us well for most of the season."

The Huskies' offense, which hasn't been able to get on track this season, has been working on pass protection in practice this week. "Our quarterback needs more time to throw, we're working on blocking schemes and teaching him to drop back deeper so the pocket can form around him," said Carr. "We also hope to get the running game, which has been our bread and butter on offense, back on track after a disappointing showing against Berkeley Springs."

Kickoff time for the contest at Petersburg is slated for 7:30 p.m.

HUSKY "D" - Northern High School's outstanding defense showed its stuff through a great deal of the Huskies' Homecoming showdown with Berkeley Springs this past Friday night, but in the end fatigue played a noticeable factor as the Indians controlled the ball through the vast majority of a 24-point second half to win, 30-20. Below, a pair of Huskies (count the arms) bring down a Berkeley Springs ballcarrier in a fine example of the gang-tackling that has paced Northern's defense all year long; in the background #64, Josh Resh, can be seen moving in to help finish off the kill. Above, the entire defensive unit, 11 strong, are shown receiving instructions from defensive coordinator Frank Ewing (back to the camera). The Huskies' defense had been having a fabulous season until the Berkeley Springs game, but the Indians racked up 200 yards rushing as they downed Northern. Identifiable in the photo above, from the left, are sophomore DB Rob Dozier, who at 6-5 towers above his teammates; #89, senior DB Jed Wilhelm, who returned an interception 22 yards for a touchdown against the Indians; #32, sophomore LB Mark Wolf; #12, junior LB Adam Brenneman; #79, sophomore NG Toby Gilpin; #64, junior DT Resh; and #76, junior DE Ryan Savage.

Rams Need Only One Half To Dispose Of Spartans

It was a major mis-match Friday night on the Southern High School athletic field, where the varsity Rams needed only one half of action to dispose of the out-manned Bishop Walsh Spartans. The Rams recorded their fourth win in seven outings by rolling over the winless Spartans, 40-0, with all 40 of those points scored in the first half. The rout allowed Coach Tom Woods and staff to let the Southern junior varsity play most of the second half, since a previousiy scheduled jayvee game with Tucker County for the week was cancelled.

Jason Weaver recorded 152 yards and three touchdowns on just 11 carries in the first half of the game, while junior teammate Josh Bosley added 103 yards and two touchdowns on just six attempts. The Southern offense finished with 369 yards rushing on 36 carries.

Weaver put the first points on the board when he broke loose on a 20-yard touchdown run with 8:06 remaining in the first quarter. Jason Rohrbaugh hauled in the two-point conversion pass from Justin Liller.

On the next Ram possession, Bosley capped a drive with a 13-yard touchdown run and Nick Dolan received Liller's pass for the extra two points to put Southern up 16-0 with 1:37 left in the first quarter.

Weaver added a 28-yard touchdown carry with 9:35 left in the first half and Dolan ran successfully for the two-point conversion to put the Rams ahead 24-0.

Weaver's third six-pointer of the night was on an eight-yard run with 3:30 left in the half, and Dolan again pulled in Liller's pass for the two-point conversion.

The final points of the game were scored when Bosley raced 70 yards to the end zone on the final play of the half, and Liller ran for the conversion.

The Ram junior varsity defensive unit kept the Spartans out of the end zone throughout the second half, while the jayvee offense moved the ball against the visitors, all the way to the three-yard line, where quarterback Josh Sharon knelt down on the final play of the game.

Dolan finished with 56 yards rushing on five carries for Southern. Leading the defense were Mickey Chapman with seven tackles and Robert Unger with five. The Spartans (0-8) managed only 79 yards of total offense.

"We needed an opportunity like this for our younger kids to get some valuable varsity experience," stated Southern coach Tom Woods. "It was also a nice break in an otherwise very difficult schedule.

"I do feel for Bishop Walsh, though," he said. "It's going to be tough for them to keep their program going. They said it was also the last time they would play us."

Woods said he was pleased with another strong performance by the Southern offensive unit, as well as the play by the junior varsity personnel. But the game was not without some major expense.

Lost for the season is the Rams' starting junior quarterback, Justin Liller, who has a broken arm, and sidelined for at least this week will be senior Billy Stoner, a team leader on both the offensive and defensive lines, who had surgery this week for a calf injury.

"These are obviously key people in our line-up," Woods said. "We hope we can at least get Billy back by next week, but Justin is definitely finished for the year, as is Steve Edwards (back-up tight end/defensive end), who had shoulder surgery."

Starting in place of Liller this week against Hampshire will be Keith Parks, whose running ability may give the Ram offense another dimension. "Keith does run the ball well and he has good speed," Woods said, "so we hope to be able to capitalize on his abilities."

The Hampshire Trojans, who will host the Rams this Friday night, are 2-5 so far this season, but Woods said that their record is deceiving. "They have been in every game this year, and have lost a couple of them in the final minutes, including last week against a good Beall team," he said. "They lost by only two touchdowns to Tucker County, so we believe we will have our hands full, especially with a new quarterback on our offense."

The Trojans are led offensively by the area's third leading rusher, Matt Meadows, a 5-10, 170-pound senior who is averaging 125 yards per game; senior flanker Shannon Watts (6-1, 150), senior guard Ray Bennett (6-0, 205), and senior quarterback and split end Joe Davis (6-1, 170).

"They use the I-formation and they run a well balanced offense," Woods said. "They throw about 50% of the time, and they run and pass successfully."

The Trojan 4-4 defense is anchored by a pair of senior linebackers in Dan Rexrode (5-8, 150) and Joey Carlton (6-1, 172), and junior defensive end David Gibbons (6-3, 180).

"They like to stunt a lot with their linebackers," Woods said.

The Rams' game plan will be similar to that of the past several weeks. "We'll continue to run from an unbalanced line, featuring the running game of our fullback (Bosley) and tailback (Weaver)," he said.

Friday's kickoff at Trojan field, located just west of Romney along U.S. Rt. 50, will be at 7:30 p.m.

Bodybuilding, Fitness Event Set At Beall High

Brian Miller of Miller's IronHouse Gym is promoting a men's and women's drug-free bodybuilding and lady fitness competition at Beall High School, Frostburg, on Saturday, Oct. 17. The 1998 NABF Mason Dixon All Natural Victor's Crown will feature some of the top physiques from the East Coast and parts of Canada. The competition is sanctioned by the North America Bodybuilding Federation.

The different divisions include: Juniors (under 21); Women's Masters (35 & over); Sr. Grand Masters (45 & over); Men's Masters (38 & over); Men's Sr. Grand Masters (55 & over); Women's Open Lightweight and Heavyweight; Men' Open Lightweight, Middleweight, Light Heavyweight and Heavyweight; and Lady Fitness. Sculptured awards will be given to the top four finishers. Overalls will be given to the top female and male in the Open Division. The top two finishers will be eligible for the Nationals, which will be held in Providence, R.I., in November. Many nationally ranked bodybuilders will be represented as they prepare for the Nationals.

Brian Miller, who has been training 18 years drug-free and has been a competitive bodybuilder in the NABF for three years, will be guest posing at the evening show. Pre-judging will begin at noon and the evening show will begin at 6 p.m. This will be the first sanctioned bodybuilding and lady fitness competition in the area. Spectators are encouraged by Miller to come out and "get a better perspective" of the sport of drug-free bodybuilding. For information and tickets, persons may call 301-777-0644.

Service Club Basketball Tryouts Slated

Tryouts for spots on a total of 12 different teams in three different divisions will be held Monday, Nov. 2, through Wednesday, Nov. 4, at Southern High School's gymnasium.

Girls in grades 5 through 8 should report to the gym on Monday evening at 6:30 p.m. for their tryout, which will last until 8 p.m.

Boys in grades 5 and 6 should report to the gym on Tuesday evening at 5:30 p.m. for a tryout that will last until 7 p.m.

Boys in grades 7 and 8 should report to the gym that same evening at 7 p.m. for a tryout that will last until 8:30 p.m.

Any boy or girl who was absent for those tryouts yet still wishes to be considered may attend a make-up tryout set Wednesday evening from 5:30 to 6 p.m.

Players drafted from these tryouts will be notified by the coach who drafts them. Practices will begin the week of Nov. 16-21, and league games will begin in January and run through February.

The Service Club Basketball League serves over 140 boys and girls in grades 5 through 8 in the southern end of Garrett County. League sponsors include Oakland-based service clubs such as the Rotary Club, Lions Club, Elks Club, Knights of Pythias, Masonic Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Catholic Daughters of America, Women's Civic Club, American Legion Women's Auxiliary, and Business and Professional Women's Club.

For further information on the Service Club Basketball League and its tryouts interested persons may call Dave Bender at 301-334-4390 or Fred Greg at 301-334-8416.

"LET'S GO MADDAWGS!" - The Northern youth and pee wee cheerleaders wrapped up their 1998 season by participating in a cheerleading exhibition at Fort Hill High School in Cumberland recently. The cheerleaders, who hail from throughout Garrett County, have dedicated two and sometimes three afternoons a week to practicing their routines for Northern Maddawg football games. The cheerleaders are divided into three squads, two of which are pictured here. (The "A" squad, ages 10-12, was pictured in last week's issue of The Republican). The "B" squad, ages 8 and 9, is pictured above; kneeling from the left in the front row are Penny Durst, Jessie Wilt, and Andi Miller; in the second row are cheerleader advisor Kathleen Seaman, Maria Perfetti, Kayla Durst, captain Lauren Jarrell, Jackie Skeweris, Hannah Carr, Meggan Humberson, Caitlin Carr, co-captain Ashley Branthoover, and coach Amy Metz. In the third row are Amanda Wilhelm, Stephanie Law, captain Ariana Wilt, and co-captain Danielle Brenneman. The "C" squad is pictured below; in the front row from the left are Kayley Green and co-captain Amber Branthoover; in the center is captain Cecalaie Georg; in the back row are Seaman, Tori Holtschneider, Teresa Friend, Chelsie Rodeheaver, Katie Wilt, Nikki Diehl, and coach Kelli Doerr. Northern's J.V. Ties Bishop Walsh, 14-14

An interception return for a touchdown and a 16-yard scoring strike helped the Northern High School's junior varsity squad put 14 points on the scoreboard in Accident Monday evening, but a pair of scores by visiting Bishop Walsh left the two teams knotted at 14-14 at the end of the contest.

BW struck first with a 65-yard second-quarter touchdown pass from Nathan Chambers to Anthony Chambers. A failed point after conversion run left the score at 6-0. Northern responded when linebacker Anthony Coddington picked off a Chambers pass and carried it 20 yards for a TD, followed by a Matt Layman run for the two-point conversion. The Huskies struck again when Ethan DeVore snagged a 16-yard TD pass from Brandon Kamp to give the NHS squad a 14-6 halftime lead.

The Spartans scored in the third quarter when Robbie Clark scored on a seven-yard run and also ran in the conversion play, tying the score at 14-14. The defensive units shut down the respective offenses for the rest of the way, and time ran out in regulation with the score still tied. No overtime play occurred.

Northern's next outing will be at home against Beall Monday night, with a 7 p.m. kickoff time.

Bishop Walsh 0 6 8 0 - 14
Northern 0 14 0 0 - 14

BW - Anthony Chambers 65 pass from Nathan Chambers (run failed).

N - Anthony Coddington 20 interception return (Matt Laymen run).

Busy Week Sees Huskies' Netters Fall To Alco; Drop Preston, Flintstone

A pair of wins this week by the womens' volleyball team of Garrett Community College over Allegany and Prince George's gives the Lakers a 16-8 record overall, and a 6-3 JUCO mark heading into the final week of regular season play. A match scheduled for Monday night against Penn State-New Kensington was canceled.

The Lakers downed Allegany 3-1 in their opening match of the week, opening with 16-14, 15-4 victories, then falling 15-7, and finally storming back to take the final game 15-6.

Southern High School alumna Sindy Niner led GCC by going 18 for 20 on service with a pair of aces and 14 service points, while also converting 20 of 24 attacks with eight kills; Laurel Wolf was 15 for 16 on service with three aces and 12 service points, and and her fellow Northern High School alumna Kerri Sines was a perfect 13 for 13 on service with one ace and eight service points.

Andrea Barrick led the Garrett attack by going 17 for 20 with nine kills, also tallying a five for six effort on solo blocks. NHS graduate Mindy McCarty was 16 for 21 with nine kills, and 46 for 53 on sets with 17 assists. Crystal Kimble was 35 for 46 on sets with 13 assists.

Amy Stafford led Allegany with four kills, nine blocks, six points, and three aces. Stacey Risch had 10 points and two aces.

GCC swept past Prince George's 3-0 Friday night, by 15-0, 15-5, and 15-12 scores.

Niner totaled 12 service points, converting 17 for 17 from the line with five aces. She also went seven for 10 on the attack with five kills. Kimble added eight service points, going a perfect 13 for 13 with an ace, and four for five on the attack with four kills. Sines had seven service points as she went 12 for 12 for her second perfect service night in a row, tallying a pair of aces. McCarty had two service points, going three for four on serves with two aces and converting nine of 15 attacks with four kills. Barrick was nine for 10 on the attack with six kills, and Erica McBride had two service points, was five for five on serve and nine for 12 on attack with eight kills.

Garrett's upcoming week of action begins with a Saturday road trip to Catonsville, followed by a home rematch with Allegany on Monday, and a regular season finale on Wednesday at Montgomery/Rockville. All matches begin at 6 p.m.

The Region XX Tournament will be played the weekend of Oct. 31-Nov. 1 at Hagerstown Community College.

Hunters Can Feed The Hungry With Donated Venison

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is endorsing a new, statewide venison donation program. Hunters and Farmers Feeding the Hungry is a non-profit, food share program that helps put meat (food banks' least available, most expensive food item) on the tables of Maryland's less fortunate for just pennies a serving.

Under this program, hunters donate field-dressed, legally tagged deer at participating processors across the state during all Maryland deer seasons. Once processed, the venison is distributed by hundreds of Maryland community organizations such as the Salvation Army, community food banks, church pantries and feeding ministries, emergency assistance programs, and children's homes.

Unlike earlier programs that required donors to pay processing charges, Hunters and Farmers Feeding the Hungry uses cash donations from foundations, businesses, churches and individuals to cover the special $35 processing fee. Since the average deer yields about 50 pounds of venison, the cost for this nutritious low-fat meat is approximately 70 cents per pound (compared to a retail cost of $2 - $5 per pound).

So far this year, more than nine tons of venison have been donated by hunters, resulting in 72,000 meals being served to the needy. Yet, because of increased bag limits and hunter participation, the venison donation rate this year is exceeding the rate of financial contributions. The program does not accept road-killed deer or pre-packaged meat. However, beginning this year with a small pilot program, processing will be expanded to include deer taken as a result of crop damage.

For more information about the Hunters and Farmers Feed the Hungry program, or to locate a participating meat processor or make a donation, visit the program's web site at <www.hfth.org> or call Rick Wilson, the program's director, at 301-582-4506.

Lakers' Netters Take Pair Of Big Wins Over AC, PG

A packed schedule on the courts saw the Northern High School girls' varsity volleyball team sweep Preston and Flintstone in 3-0 wins, after opening the week's action by being swept by Allegany, one of the top teams in the area. The Huskies' record stands at 9-4 with one week to go in the regular season.

The Huskies were overpowered by Allegany Monday night, as the Campers prevailed in a three-game sweep by scores of 15-12, 15-7, and 15-9.

Rebekah Hinebaugh led Northern with nine points and three kills, and Mimi Harvey added three blocks for the Huskies. Lauren Stillwagon served for a match-high 14 points and added 19 assists to lead the visitors, who have lost only one match all season.

Allegany took the junior varsity match as well, 15-12, 15-11. Kola Artice had eight points for the Huskies, while Jasmine Gilbert tallied 12 points for the Campers.

The Huskies bounded back into the winning column in a big way the next night, blasting Preston County in three straight games, 15-7, 15-1, and 15-11.

Hinebaugh and Harvey again provided the main ammunition for Northern, as the dynamic duo accounted for eight service points apiece for the Huskies. Brandie Tricket had six for Preston.

Northern took the first junior varsity match 15-11, dropped the second 15-10, then roared to victory with a 15-8 score in the third. Amanda Nazelrod had seven service points for the Huskies, and Cassie Huggins totaled 10 for Preston.

A road trip to Flintstone last night gave the Huskies their second straight three-game sweep, 15-5, 16-14, and 15-7.

Harvey paced Northern to victory with 16 service points and three aces. Heidi Frazee had five kills and Hinebaugh added three. Jennifer Whorton led Flintstone with 10 service points.

The hosts' junior varsity squad, which came into the match with only one loss against 12 wins, downed the Huskies J.V. by scores of 15-1 and 15-0.

After this whirlwind week of action, the Huskies will lie low until a road trip to Preston on Monday. Their following, and final, match of the year will come at Southern High School on Wednesday, Oct. 28. The rematch could cement Garrett County bragging rights for Northern, which dropped SHS 3-1 in the first meeting of the two teams one month ago. The varsity match gets under way at 7 p.m., preceded by the junior varsity contest at 6 p.m.

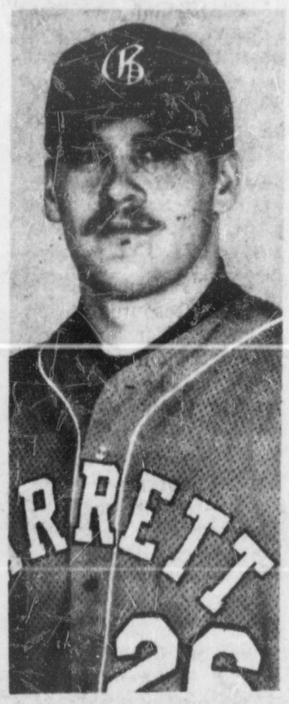
Former Lakers Playing In Ky.

ERIC HARPER



MATT STOLLINGS

Eric Harper and Matt Stollings, former members of the Garrett Community College baseball team, are continuing their athletic and academic careers at Alice Lloyd College in Pippa Passes, Ky. Alice Lloyd College, an NAIA institution, plays a strong schedule in the KIAC conference and posted a 17-21 record for the '98 season.

Harper, a solid hitter for the Lakers, batted .264 with 18 RBI, and had two home runs his freshman year. He played a variety of positions, including first base, catcher, and designated hitter. At Alice Lloyd he is expected to see time as a catcher.

"I would love to see all of our student-athletes put in the time on academics that Eric Harper did," remarked GCC head coach Ed Wildesen. "He progressed as nicely as any athlete we've ever had and it certainly paid off as he is prepared to move on to a four-year institution. His overall power will be missed from our lineup."

Stollings was a solid all-around player for the Lakers, splitting time as a pitcher and first baseman. He was known as a team leader on and off the field. According to the Alice Lloyd coaching staff, he is expected to be pitcher and play third base.

"Every father would wish his son would grow up to be like Matt Stollings," added Wildesen. "Without a doubt, he was one of the best class acts we've ever had at Garrett. He will be a success no matter what he does in life. His versatility will be sorely missed, as well as his quiet leadership."

"Both Matt and Eric are doing well," commented Alice Lloyd head coach Scott Cornett. "I can tell both of these gentlemen have a great deal of baseball experience and I am extremely pleased with their play. We are a young squad and their experience will be valuable to us."

Eric is the son of Larry and Pamela Harper, Madison, W.Va. Matt is the son of Harrison and Edna Stollings, Danville, W.Va.

Rams Overtaken By Sentinels In 3-0 Sweep

A trip to Cumberland to take on Fort Hill, one of the top teams in the area, ended in a 3-0 loss for the girls' volleyball team of Southern High School last night. The Sentinels dropped the Rams in three straight games, 15-8, 15-8, and 15-7.

Jennifer Teagarden led the Southern effort with nine points and five assists while teammate Jessica Saturday tallied a team-high seven kills, as the Rams' record dropped to 3-9. Emily Coyle paced the hosts with nine assists.

Southern's junior varsity opened its contest with a 15-12 win over the Fort Hill squad, but fell in the next two matches 15-4, 15-9. Nikki Ravenscroft, Misty Sereno, and Carrie Steyer each had five points for the Rams, while Lauren Whitacre accumulated nine points for the Sentinels.

Southern's next and final match of the regular season will be at home in a rematch with Northern on Wednesday. Varsity competition begins at 7 p.m, preceded by the junior varsity contest at 6 p.m.

Runnin' Rams Place Second, Third In Western Maryland

The cross country teams of Southern High School competed in the first Western Maryland Championships, held Saturday at Allegany College in Cumberland and featuring high school teams of all sizes from the four western-most counties of the state. The Southern girls' squad captured second place, while the five-time defending state 1A champion boys' team finished third.

The Southern girls, coached by Louis Newcomb, recorded a team score of 67 points, second only to Linganore with 44 points. Urbana was third with 73, followed by Allegany with 82, Frederick with 103, Westmar with 147, Fort Hill with 206, Thomas Johnson with 237, and Beall with 256.

Amy Snyder, Angie Sincell, and Erin Hoalcraft, all three All-State runners, led the Rams by finishing seventh, eighth, and ninth, respectively. Beth Sauder was the 16th finisher.

Winning the girls' race was Liz Lowerie of Urbana with a time of 19:01. Erin Davis of Allegany was second (19:43), and Linganore's Cassy Crouse placed third (19:56).

The Southern boys, coached by Carl Booth, finished with 69 points to win third place as a team. Thomas Johnson was first with 57, followed by Linganore with 65 points. Placing fourth was Urbana with 79, followed by Westmar with 149, Allegany with 152, Fort Hill with 193, Beall with 203, and Frederick with 214.

The top finishers for the Southern boys were Casey McBee and Beau Gibson, who placed fourth and fifth, respectively. Rusty Strubin and Ted Wolf were also among the top 20 runners, with Strubin finishing 16th and Wolf, 19th.

The winner of the boys' race was Shawn Day of Thomas Johnson, who recorded a time of 16:01. Zach Bittinger of Westmar was second in 16:24, and Linganore's Scott Herrick was third (16:58).

The Runnin' Rams will compete again today in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League Championships.

Sight-In Day Set At Savage River Range

The Savage River Complex will hold two sight-in days at the Savage River shooting range on Friday, Oct. 30, and Saturday, Oct. 31, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day.

Department of Natural Resources State Forest and Park staff and volunteers will be on hand to share technical knowledge and experience in preparation for the coming rifle season for deer. Coffee and hot chocolate will be provided. Although the event is free, donations will be accepted.

For further information interested persons may call the Savage River Complex at 301-895-5759 or 301-746-8359.

DNR Announces Trout Stockings Of Local Waters

Maryland's Department of Natural Resources has announced that nearly 50,000 adult rainbow trout have been stocked into selected trout fishing areas as part of the DNR's fall trout fishing program. Stocking began in September and was completed last week.

Nearly 20,000 of these trout are holdover trout, which average one-half pound apiece and more than 12 inches in length. Because of low stream flows, for the most part, stocking was limited to lakes, ponds, and larger rivers.

Garrett County waters that were stocked included: the Piney Reservoir, 1,000; Youghiogheny River, 1,500; Casselman River, 1,000; and North Branch of the Potomac, 2,000.

Anglers are reminded that a trout stamp is required to possess trout caught in Maryland.

The DNR's trout stocking program is funded entirely by the sale of freshwater fishing licenses and trout stamps, and federal Sportfish Restoration Program funds, which are generated by anglers and boaters' tax dollars.

Garrett County Outdoors

By Robert Yonke

The warm weather of early autumn has contributed significantly to a slower start for Maryland's archery season. It seems temperatures have kept deer from their normal fall activity and lingering foliage has made it more difficult for hunters to spot their game. As the weather inevitably cools, conditions should improve dramatically.

The three-day muzzleloader season opens today, October 22, and finishes Saturday. Last year, one of every five muzzleloader hunters was successful and 5,725 whitetails were reported harvested in Maryland. Of those, 439 were tagged in Garrett County. This total was exceeded only by Washington County.

BLACK BEARS REPORTED STOCKING UP ON ACORNS

In preparation for winter, area black bears have been feeding heavily to build their fat supplies. The favorite foods for black bears are acorns and nuts. At this time of year, voracious feeding will enable bears to gain up to two pounds a day.

Garrett County acorn crops this year are at record levels. While white oak acorns have been spotty, black oak mast has been abundant, and beech nuts have been plentiful. In years of abundance like this, there are minimal complaints about nuisance bears foraging on farms, etc. The bears seem to prefer the natural foods and turn to agriculture when the mast crops are insufficient.

WILDLIFE ON THE MOVE

In addition to foraging bears, deer generally get more active this time of year as they feed move in search of food and in response to mating urges. This leads to more encounters with humans, particularly in collisions with cars.

Here are a few tips to decrease the odds of you hitting a deer. If you notice deer in fields adjacent to highways, be on the alert anticipating these deer bounding onto the road. And if you see one deer on the road, expect more to be close by. Often, one will cross a road and two, three, or more will be right behind. Be particularly vigilant when driving early in the day or in late afternoon or evening. This is when deer are most active.

Should a deer be in the path of your car, slow down certainly, but try to avoid swerving. Sudden swerves can lead to more serious accidents with fixed objects or other vehicles.

SNAKES IN BASEMENTS

At this time of year it isn't unusual to find snakes in basements, as they are looking for dens for the winter. Should you encounter one, try to avoid killing it, as these slithery fellows do provide valuable deterrents to mice, rats, and other pests. In most cases, snakes in this area will be non-venomous. However, it is best not to handle them if you aren't experienced. Rather, remove them with a long-handled shovel or such.

The only poisonous snakes indigenous to our area are the copperhead and timber rattler.

UPCOMING EVENTS

On October 31, the Friends of New Germany State Park will be holding a Halloween Social and Fall Festival at the park's lake house. Refreshments will be served and there will be prizes for costume designs. Call 301-895-5759 for time and details.

On the same day, there will be Haunted Hayrides at Herrington Manor State Park. Activities will begin at 7 p.m. at the lake concession area. Reservations are required. Call 301-334-9180.

TROUT FISHING REPORT

Trout fishing in the county has been holding up well. The Casselman River has been restocked for the fall season.

The North Branch continues to produce for anglers using stonefly imitations, as well as caddis and various terrestrials. Biologists conducting fish population surveys recently reported that there are more larger trout in the North Branch this year.

The Savage has been fishing best for those using small caddis and blue wing olives. Ants and other terrestrials have also been good. The Yough has been most productive on caddis, and ants on the surface and beadhead nymphs fished wet.

Fall Turkey Season Set To Open October 31

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has reminded hunters that Maryland's either-sex fall turkey hunting season will open Saturday, Oct. 31, and close on Saturday, Nov. 7. Fall turkey hunting is permitted only in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties.

"DNR decided last spring, during the hunting season proposal period, to extend the length of the fall turkey season in 1998 and 1999. DNR biologists believe that a one-day extension to the season will not have a detrimental impact to the wild turkey population in Western Maryland," Griffin said. "While research conducted in the neighboring states of Virginia and West Virginia has documented the negative impacts of long fall hunting seasons on wild turkey populations, Maryland's season has been and continues to be substantially shorter than seasons in those states."

Field surveys conducted by DNR staff in Western Maryland indicate that turkey populations are somewhat lower in 1998 than in previous years. Reproductive success in 1998 was lower than in 1996 and 1997. Fewer broods were observed, and the total number of turkeys observed was also lower than in previous years.

Summer turkey production is directly related to fall turkey populations, Griffin explained. Record rainfall amounts during the month of June were reported all across Western Maryland. Extended periods of rain can cause young turkey poults to become exposed and chilled, thereby causing additional mortality of poults. It is very probable that this occurred in Western Maryland in 1998, he said.

On a more positive note, mast crops appear to be near abundant levels in Garrett County, and somewhat less numerous in Allegany and Washington counties. Turkeys will be scattered in the three-county area because of this abundance of mast. Therefore, turkeys will be harder to find, as they are not concentrated because of limited food sources.

Also new in 1998 will be the addition of the remaining parts of Washington County to the fall hunting area. Previously, fall turkey hunting was restricted to that area in Washington County west of I-81. Starting in 1998, the area east of I-81 will now be open to fall turkey hunting. This area has an excellent wild turkey population, recording one of the highest harvests during the spring season.

PRACTICAL MAGIC

If you're interested in a fun, romantic romp through the world of witchery, Griffin Dunne's Practical Magic is a serviceable piece of fluff without the droopy qualities of Sandra Bullock's last vehicle, Hope Floats. Unlike that film, Practical Magic provides some fun in between the serious moments rather than just flooring it straight for the Kleenex factory. Bullock plays pretty much the same character (the beautiful girl who can't get a date), except this time she can make a cup of coffee stir itself. Which is handy when you're working on a crossword or something.

Adapted by Robin Swicord from Alice Hoffman's novel, the story tells us of three pairs of sisters: Sally Owens (Bullock) and her sister Gillian (Nicole Kidman), their two aunts (Stockard Channing and Diane Wiest), and, later, Sally's two daughters (Evan Rachel Wood and Alexandra Artrip). All these women are witches, endowed with certain powers of intuition and the ability to alter the laws of nature occasionally, if needed. They all live in the same house and have a generally good time, but suffer from a family curse: Any man who falls in love with an Owens woman will die an untimely death.

Sally and Gillian deal with this in two different ways. Gillian willingly falls in love again and again, using and enjoying her men as she does her cigarettes. Sally, on the other hand, decides to swear off love forever and protect herself from the loss suffered by their great grandmother, who put the curse on the family in the first place. But she eventually caves, marries a nice man, and has two girls. After he gets hit by a truck, Sally tells her aunts that they are never to teach the craft to her daughters. Grudgingly, they accept this.

But when Gillian gets in trouble with her abusive boyfriend Jimmy (Goran Visnjic) and Sally accidentally kills him, they have to use all their powers to get him back. This plan does not appeal to Sally at all, but neither does hard time. Unfortunately, they blow it, and he comes back as some sort of silver-eyed devil. In other words, he's the same guy with a slightly more annoying personality than before. And silver eyes. Meanwhile, a law officer from Arizona (Aidan Quinn) comes to investigate Jimmy's disappearance, and the girls have to hide the evidence while trying not to swoon from his fabulous good looks. A melee ensues.

As I mentioned, Bullock's performance in this film is basically a Hope Floats clone, including the same wistful semi-depression and the same faded blue jeans. She even uses those geeky glasses when she's trying to hide her unhideable good looks (Julia Roberts does the same thing). But, beautiful or not, she's a good actress, and this role comes to her with ease. Wiest and Channing make a nice couple of "Glenda the Good Witches," and Kidman's blatant sex appeal counterbalances Bullock's sweet-young-thing act. Dunne knows this and uses it to extreme--perhaps too much.

One thing that can be said for Practical Magic is that it brings the witches to life in a way we can identify with. We get the idea from the start that they are just real, normal people who live and love like we all do, but with a few special tricks up their sleeves. And the theme of domestic violence is a clever way to infuse the story with a relevant issue facing today's women. But the plot is predictable and the climax disappointing, since we know what's going to happen long before the characters do. It's a fun story, though, for those who don't want to work too hard for their entertainment. ★★★★

BRIDE OF CHUCKY

Rated R - Running time: 1:35

For the fourth movie in such a pathetic series as Child's Play, Ronny Yu's Bride Of Chucky is surprisingly funny and hip, and rises well above its predecessors for entertainment value. The acting is mainly terrible (as with the first three films in the series, it is more a showcase for puppetry and animatronics than for acting or directing), but the relationship between the two evil dolls who serve as main characters is funny enough to keep us interested.

Penned by Don Mancini, who has made a career of writing all the Child's Play movies, the film takes the character of Chucky the doll in a new direction from that of his 1988 debut. Then, he was a classically scary concept: a child's plaything gone wrong. Like in The Exorcist and Rosemary's Baby, the horror came from the juxtaposition of innocence and evil. Now, 10 years later, Mancini's new Chucky has mellowed into a cute little wise-ass with a bad disposition and a butcher knife. His misdeeds and foul language contrast with his childish (if demonic) expression to produce laughs, not horror, and Mancini has turned up the sarcasm full blast. And now Chucky has a girlfriend who's every bit his equal. They trade good-natured barbs as well as Dan and Roseanne.

Brad Dourif has made a long career of playing strange characters, starting with his portrayal of Billy Bibbit in One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (1975) and appearing most recently as the creepy gas station attendant in last month's Urban Legend. His role as the voice of Chucky is probably his most famous, though Child's Play afficionados know that the character is not the doll itself but the spirit of satanic serial killer Charles Lee Ray, whom we met during the opening credits of the 1988 film. As he is being shot by a police officer in a toy store, Ray grabs the first thing he can find--a doll--and calls upon the dark spirits to endow it with his soul. And throughout the following three films, Ray has been trying to get back into a human body, always stymied by those who want to destroy him.

The woman who finds and reassembles the burnt, battered parts of the 10-year-old doll this time is Tiffany (Jennifer Tilly), Ray's long-lost girlfriend. After a lover's spat, she locks him up in a cage with a little plastic bride doll, as a cruel joke. But he breaks out, kills her, and transplants her soul into the girl doll. As we watch, the cute little dolly changes from a doe-eyed bride to a leather-jacketed, black lipsticked hellion with bleached-blonde hair and black roots. After a reconciliation of sorts, the two begin a hunt for the amulet buried with Ray's corpse, which can provide them with the power to regain human form and live horrifically ever after.

Integral to their plan is a pair of lovesick teens, Jesse and Jade (Nick Stabile and Katherine Heigl), who not only can provide wheels to the cemetery, but are perfect specimens of young human flesh. Jesse and Jade are good kids, but at every stop on their trip, someone gets killed. The kids become suspects, and even suspect each other, but no one knows it's really the dolls hiding in the back seat who are doing all the mischief.

Bride Of Chucky's good points (its humor and character chemistry) struggle to overcome its bad points (terrible acting and a tiresome, boring love story between Jesse and Jade). The bloody murders are not nearly as horrible to watch as the doll sex scene (yes), but that scene is necessary to set us up for the following sequel. Not to give away the ending, but I'm willing to bet that the next movie will be called Son Of Chucky. ★★★

Sincell Couple Celebrates 50th

Robert and Hannah Sincell, Mtn. Lake Park, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last weekend with a family gathering at the Will O' the Wisp restaurant.

The couple was married in an evening candlelight ceremony on Oct. 16, 1948, at the Springfield (W.Va.) Methodist Church. Reverend Sumner Sawyers, Keyser, W.Va., officiated at the event.

Mr. Sincell, the son of the late Donald and Elsie Sincell, is the managing editor of The Republican newspaper and co-owner of Sincell Publishing Company Inc. Mrs. Sincell, the daughter of the late Elwood and Grace Wagoner, is retired from the newspaper and is also a co-owner of the business. Both are members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland.

The Sincells have five children: Jeffry, married to Linda (Hess), Berlin, N.J.; Donald, married to Suzanne (Rebele), Mtn. Lake Park; Robert Benjamin Jr., married to Beverly (Remley), Oakland; Kathryn Sincell-Corwell, married to Neal Corwell, Clear Spring; and Mary Ruth McEwen, married to John McEwen, Oakland; and 10 grandchildren.

The children and several of the spouses and grandchildren attended the gathering, along with the Remley, McEwen, and Corwell in-laws. Also attending were Jack Wagoner, brother of Mrs. Sincell; Polly Hanst, aunt of Mr. Sincell; John Hersh, a friend of the family; and Rev. Sawyers.

Greig Couple Celebrate 50th

Henry and Mary Greig of Oak Way Road, Deep Creek Lake, are celebrating 50 years of marriage. They were married December 1, 1948, in Winchester, Va.

Mary is the daughter of the late Adam and Christie Snyder. Henry is the son of the late Margaret and Leonard Greig.

They are the parents of one daughter, Mrs. Donald (Vicki) Zuccolotto, and two sons, Richard, married to the former Penny O'Connor, and Mark, married to the former Jennifer Maus. All are living in Somerset, Pa.

Mr. Greig is a retired truck driver. The couple enjoys gardening, boating, playing golf, and spending time with their seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. They spend the winter months in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

A surprise party was held in their honor at Laurel Highlands Lodge in Donegal, Pa., on October 10, given by their family and attended by many friends and family members.

GRACE LUTHERAN

On Oct. 13, WELCA met at the Grace Lutheran Church social room with eight members present. The topic of the meeting was "Faith for Seasons of Beginnings." The knotted quilt, made by June Cupp and Janice Hileman for the 1998 Street Fair, was won by Dottie L. Frazee. A birthday cake was presented to Edna "Dolly" Livengood for her Oct. 14 birthday.

The Braille dinner is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 7, at Northern High School.

The Friend Family Association dinner will be held in the Grace Lutheran Church social room on Saturday, Oct. 24, starting at 5:30 p.m.

On Saturday, Nov. 14, Pastor Newfer and council members from Grace Lutheran, St. John and St. Paul churches will hold a Stewardship meeting and luncheon in the social room.

A donation was given to the Friendsville Fire and Rescue Squad for the use of their tents for the '98 Street Fair.

The next meeting of the WELCA will be on Tues. Nov. 3, at the Grace Lutheran Church Social room.

Sunday School is held every Sunday at 9 a.m., with regular worship services starting at 9:45 a.m.

RUSH BAPTIST

The Rush Baptist Church holds Sunday School starting at 9:45 a.m., with morning worship services at 11 a.m. Sunday evening worship begins at 6 p.m. Bible study and prayer meeting is held every Wednesday at 7 p.m., with choir practice following at 8 p.m.

An Outreach Committee meeting will be held following the morning worship service on Sunday, Oct. 25.

HARVEST DINNER

The Friendsville United Methodist Church will be holding its annual Harvest Dinner on Saturday, Oct. 24, from 4 to 7 p.m.

The dinner consists of turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, sauerkraut and kielbasa, rolls, cranberry salad, beverage, and choice of pumpkin pie or gingerbread. The cost will be $6 for adults and $3 for children under 12. Persons may eat in or carry out. Delivery is also available by contacting Pearl Bittner at 301-746-5103 to place orders. Volunteers are needed, and persons who may be interested in volunteering may contact Julia Sines at 301-746-5619.

FALL CLEAN-UP

Friendsville's annual fall clean-up is scheduled for Friday, Oct. 23, and Saturday, Oct. 24. Residents are encouraged to take advantage of the clean-up by disposing of worn out furniture, broken appliances and useless old items.

Regular trash removal will be on Friday, Oct. 23, at the usual times. Pick-up of large household items will be on Saturday, Oct. 24, beginning at 9 a.m. Town residents are reminded to please separate furniture, appliances, and scrap metal for Saturday's pick-up.

Old tires will not be accepted at this time.

PAINTING CLASS

A painting class will be held at the First Christian Church on Friday, Oct. 23, starting at 6 p.m. Dee Sullivan, a certified Bob Ross instructor, will be teaching the class. The cost of the class is $35 for participants who bring their own supplies, and supplies will be available for purchase at the class by others. For more information, interested persons may call Loretta Harding at 301-746-5339.

TRICK OR TREAT

Door-to-door-trick-or-treat will be held on Sat. Oct. 31, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Children 12 and under may participate. Residents who wish to participate are asked to have a porch light on to signify so.

WOW LODGE 45

The next meeting of the Woodmen of the World Lodge 45 will be its annual visit to the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home in Grantsville on Thurs., Oct. 29, at 6 p.m.

Five Friendsville WOW Lodge 45 members, including Burt and Linda Lytle, Ed Lytle, Mary Frantz, and Julia Sines, joined two WOW members from Allegany County, one from Washington County and two from the District of Columbia, to represent Woodmen of the World at the Chesapeake State Fraternal Congress annual session in Bowie on Sat., Oct. 17.

JWCC SPONSORING BLOODMOBILE - The Junior Woman's Civic Club will sponsor a visit by the American Red Cross bloodmobile this Friday, Oct. 23, at St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall in Oakland. Presenting a check in the above photo to Elizabeth Huxford, Oakland bloodmobile coordinator, right, is Carm Swift of the JWCC. The funds will be used to cover the cost of serving snacks to blood donors. "We really appreciate the support of organizations like the JWCC," Huxford said. "We hope to see a good turnout Friday, and we invite everybody to bring a friend. Currently there is an urgent need for O-negative blood." Donors will be received from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Persons desiring more information about the visit or ARC blood services program may telephone Huxford at 301-387-2280.

The Chesapeake State Fraternal Congress is an organization of all of the life insurance societies doing business in the states of Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

The WOW Lodge 45 members took along socks, coloring books, crayons, cash and numerous other donations for the University of Maryland Student Outreach Program, one of state volunteers helping disadvantaged children.

SCHOOL NEWS

During the week of Oct. 20-29, the fifth graders will participate in the "College and Me" program offered at Garrett Community College.

On Friday, Oct. 30, the students will march through town for the Halloween Parade, which will begin at 1:30. The students will then return to the school for parties in their classrooms.

Last week the students of the Friendsville Elementary School took field trips to the Smokehole Caverns and Blackwater Falls, both located in West Virginia. It was a learning experience for all.

The first nine weeks of the 1998-99 school year will end on Nov. 3. Parent conferences will be held on Nov. 10 from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m. and on Nov. 11, from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Garrett County's schools will be closed on Tuesday, Nov. 3, for the General Election.

LIBRARY NEWS

The Friendsville Branch of the Ruth Enlow Library will have a special children's story time on Saturday, Nov. 14, and Saturday, Dec. 5, starting at 11 a.m. All preschool and school-age children are invited to attend. Stories will be read and craft activities provided.

New additions to the adult collection on display in the back of the library include: Bag of Bones by Stephen King, Fear Nothing by Dean Koontz, 1997 Writers Almanac, Archer's Digest, Glamour's Gourmet on the Run, Preserving in Today's Kitchen, Farm Tractors, and Chronicles of the American Automobile.

Regular library hours are: Monday - Friday from 2 to 7 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

A.D.D. SUPPORT GROUP

There will be an Attention Deficit Disorder Support Group meeting on Monday, Oct. 26, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Zion Lutheran Church in Accident.

Guest speaker will be Mary Wolowicz, director of education and support services at TRANSACT Health System in Pittsburgh, Pa. For more information, contact Sherry Georg at 301-746-8357.

DINNER THEATER

The Friendsville Elementary School is sponsoring a dinner theater on Saturday, Nov. 7, and Sunday, Nov. 8, and again on Saturday, Nov. 14, and Sunday, Nov. 15.

A musical titled "The Castaways" will be performed by local talent, students, and faculty of the school. The price of the tickets will be $6 per person, which will include dinner and a performance.

The dinner will include ham, scalloped potatoes, green beans, corn muffins, cake, and a beverage. The Saturday dinners will begin at 6 p.m., and the show will follow at 7 p.m. The Sunday dinners will begin at 2 p.m. and the show is scheduled for 3 p.m.

Tickets are available by calling the school at 301-746-5100 and asking for Julia. There is limited seating for each performance, so interested persons are urged to order their tickets early.

Volunteers are currently selling ads for the program booklet, with complimentary tickets given according to the size of the ad. Ads available are 1/4 page for $20 and 1 complimentary ticket, 1/2 page for $35 and 2 tickets, 3/4 page for $65 and 3 tickets, or a full-page ad for $100 and 4 complimentary tickets. Ads are available for purchase by individuals or businesses.

Designer To Be Guest Speaker At Uno's Restaurant

Linda Lindquist Baldwin, designer of Belsnickle, Snowsnickle, and Broomsnickle collectible figurines and ornaments, will be a guest speaker at Uno's Restaurant this evening, Oct. 22, at 6 p.m. The event is being sponsored by Christmas Chalet, and admission is free.

Baldwin's artistic career began in 1986 when she attended an elderly woman's garage sale. Although she didn't see anything she wanted to buy, she picked up a book titled Old Antique Santa Collections and, out of sympathy for the woman, paid the asking price of a nickel. She was so intrigued by the 18th and 19th century European Santas pictured in the book that she wanted one for herself. However, as a single parent working two jobs and attending college classes at night, she couldn't afford one, so she made her own out of a homemade papier mache formula.

Thus began her business of making and selling homemade Santas, and today each of the over 50 figurines and accessories contains a nickel in the base to commemorate Baldwin's nickel garage sale purchase.

Baldwin resides in Joplin, Mo., with her husband and son.

METZLER GET-TOGETHER

Visiting during the week the Stephens home and Kathryn Bowser home were Mr. & Mrs. Isaac J. Metzler, Cumberland; Mr. & Mrs. Wilbur Metzler, Sarasota, Fla.; Mr. & Mrs. Elwood Metzler, Curryville, Pa.; Mr. & Mrs. Cleo Weaver, Harrisonburg, Va.; and Mary Stephens, Bel Air. Dale and Todd Stephens from Bel Air were also weekend guests.

Wayne and Hazel Gomer, Hagerstown, were weekend guests of her mother, Kathryn Bowser.

Helen Englar, Westminster, visited her brother, Dale Glotfelty, and son Courtney, as well as her nieces and nephews and their families over the weekend. She also visited at the Stephens home on Saturday.

Helen's son Courtney, who is a new farm owner in the Cove, recently became a victim of theft. Someone stole his chestnut wood from a couple sheds on his property. He moved to Garrett County to escape the crime, etc., in Baltimore.

Courtney is an avid bird watcher and was recently overjoyed by a recent sighting of a bald eagle over the Cove. While Helen was visiting me on Saturday, her sister, Betty Hummel, from Washington state called on the phone to tell us about her and her husband's recent trip to the Czech Republic and about the many country people involved with picking wild mushrooms. The trains were packed with city folks going out into the country side with their colorful and beautiful mushroom baskets and some of them homebound with those baskets filled with mushrooms.

Sunday luncheon guests of Sam and Cindy Stanton and Ferne Beachy were Lea Stanton, Mike Arnold, and Brooke Collins, all students at Allegany College of Maryland.

Ruth Beachy and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Garner of near Huntingdon, Pa., were Thursday visitors of Ferne Beachy. They came to view the beautiful fall foliage in the Bittinger, Accident, Deep Creek Lake and Oakland areas.

HOSPITALIZED

Ralph Buckel is still at patient at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, but has now been moved to the sub-acute unit, room 209. He is currently taking a lot of therapy. Visiting Ralph in the hospital and Ethel at home were Kathryn Buckel, who returned to Ohio State University on Monday, and Mark Buckel, Hershey, Pa., and Jeff Buckel, Sandy Hook, N.J. Sara Buckel, Chestertown, has been spending some time with Ethel helping with things around home. Jack and Judy Perkins are to arrive home Monday.

RECUPERATING AT HOME

Joe Resh is home and under the watchful eye of "Pooch," his beloved one of some 68 years.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATIONS

Lottie Brenneman hosted a general birthday celebration party for her children and their families on Thursday at her home.

RETREAT

Lottie Brenneman and Linda Buckel attended the Fall Retreat of the Women of the ELCA, WV-MD Synod, over the weekend at Jacksons Mill, W.Va.

CAMP HICKORY

Robbie Glotfelty, Torrey Poholsky, Brent Housley, Derek Buckel, Andrew Hady, and Claire Sussman attended Camp Hickory last week. They are seventh graders at Northern Middle School.

FISHING AWARD

Elliot and Darryl Glotfelty were notified by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce that they won the award for this year of catching the largest large mouth bass in the county. The twins were elated with the award.

Torrey Poholsky and Scott Pusateri attended a soccer shoot-out at Cresaptown on Sunday.

Dale and Barbara Hinebaugh, Oakland, and little Austin Glotfelty visited Ken and Harriett Buckel on Monday evening.

ATTENDS WEDDING

Miriam Brenneman accompanied Ray and Jo Beitzel from Cumberland to a wedding in Hampton, Va., on Saturday, Oct. 17. The bride was Lisa Curtis, daughter of Ruth Ann Beitzel Curtis and granddaughter of Marvin and the late Leona Beitzel. Lisa was married to Matthew Brown of Virginia. Her grandfather, Marvin, attended the wedding from his home in Oklahoma.

MY COMMENTS

Last week I was surprised and delighted by an unexpected visit by the Rev. Dave Rockwood, our former pastor at Bittinger Emmanuel Lutheran Church. He moved about 10 years ago to Wyoming, serving as head pastor at a large congregation. He recently moved back close to our area to a church in Fairmont, W.Va. Dave was a wonderful pastor and friend. It was great to catch up with him.

As part of the Centennial Celebration at Frostburg State University, an Alumni Art Show reception was held at the Stephanie Roper Art Gallery on the campus. The opening was Friday evening the 16th, but the show will continue to run until mid-November. My attendance to the opening was stressful for me, since my ankle brace broke in the parking lot. But quick work by my friend, Lisa Sheirer, a faculty member of the Art Department at Frostburg, found a replacement bolt for my brace in the shop and I was able to arrive late. However, it was too late for me to see my friends and former professors in my master's degree program. Keith Schegle and Philip Allen, dean of the humanities department, had to rush away before I arrived for other commitments with the busy homecoming weekend.

However, I did enjoy a visit with our old friend Mark Wamling, Takoma Park, and his new bride and her mother. Mark, a former art student at FSU, also had some pieces of art in the show. I felt a little out of place since I never took any art classes at Frostburg, but I am an alumna of the master of modern humanities program.

The long-awaited repaving of Rock Lodge is now under way. It was getting a little rough in places. I hope the improved conditions do not encourage a lot more fast traffic on it. The paving crew is now busy just out our lane, and all the action and noise really stir our dogs up. I will have to keep them inside the house until the crew moves on.

My inflamed tendon in my right arm is bad enough that I am supposed to do nothing with it. I am bored and grouchy as a result, and it even hurts to dial the phone. So instead of trying to track down more news, I think I will be better if I take a nap before the kids come home from school.

ROAD CLEAN-UP

The Bittinger 4-H Club was scheduled for a highway clean-up on Saturday, but they had to reschedule for this coming Saturday afternoon.

VISITORS

Recent visitors of Ida Reckner were Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Beachy Jr. and son, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Renner, Thurmont; Charee Reckner and daughter Michaele; and Cathy DeBoeser, Allentown, Pa.; and Ferne Beachy.

Cheryl and Taylor Glotfelty, Ida Reckner and Jim and Donna Glotfelty were Sunday dinner guests of Julius and Karmen Carey, Frostburg. Other guests were Tony Carey, Evangel College, Springfield, Mo., who was spending fall break with home folks; Gary and Evie Morris, Lonaconing, and her friend Ruth Ann; Agnes Carey, Billy and Susan Powell, Shanna and Lydia, and Chris Carey, all of Frostburg; William and Linda Oester, Salisbury, Pa.; and both the senior and youth pastors and their wives, from the Midlothian Assemblies of God Church.

NEW ARRIVALS

At the suggestion of legal counsel, the Public Relations Department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital is in the process of revising its policy on the release of birth information. Effective immediatley, GCMH will not release any birth information to the public and/or press. New parents have been informed of this change in policy and instructed to contact the newspaper if they wish the information to be printed. The Republican will provide a release form that will be included in the packet of information given to new parents. It will be their responsibility to return the form to the newspaper.

Larry and Kimberly Owston Smith, Deep Creek, announce the birth of a daughter, MacKenzie Rae, who arrived Oct. 15 at Garrett Memorial Hospital, Oakland. Paternal grandparents are Carroll and Doris Smith, Deep Creek, and maternal grandparents are Raymond and Nancy Owston, Pittsburgh, Pa. Big sisters are Abbigayle and Kassandra.

Sierra Noelle Boatman was born Friday, Oct. 9, at Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va., to Leigh Ann (Hamilton) Boatman and Jamie Lee Boatman, Oakland.

The maternal grandparents are Doris W. and John R. Hamilton, Pittsburgh, Pa., and the paternal grandparents are Colleen and Darrell Boatman, Fort Ashby, W.Va.

PROPER FLUORIDE LEVELS FOR LESS CAVITIES
Fluoride is a natural compound found in our water, soil and air. When absorbed at appropriate levels in a growing child's teeth, the fluoride is deposited in the enamel and the tooth is much more resistant to tooth decay.
Residents of the Town of Oakland water supply benefit from a fluoridated community water system.
If you are not fortunate enough to have your water supply either naturally or supplementally fluoridated, you may need to provide fluoride supplements for your child.
The current American Dental Association recommendations for fluoride supplementation are:

Age:	Dosage:
birth-6 months	0
6 months-3 years	.25mg/day
3 years-6 years	.50mg/day
6 years-16 years	1mg/day

Asking your dentist or physician if your child could benefit from a fluoride supplement may go a long way to ensure a cavity-free smile.

SWANTON NEWS

Orval and Mareva Teets attended the National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees Unit #103 in LaVale last Wednesday.

Visitors of Ray and Carol Sweitzer Autumn Glory weekend were Jerry and Neil Smith of Virginia Beach, Jim and Sandy Browning, three grandchildren and a great-grandchild, of Upper Marlboro.

A birthday party to celebrate the 89th birthday of Lydia Sweitzer was held at her home last Thursday evening. Those attending were Bruce, Gary, Shirley, and Vernon Sweitzer, Betty, Peggy, and Jade Ream, and Wilma, Mandy, and Roly Stemple.

On Thursday morning Orval Teets attended the Retired Railroaders' breakfast at the Shrine Club in Cumberland.

Charles and Clara Coddington have returned to their home in Lanham after a visit with Amy and Artie Sweitzer.

This is the season for making apple butter outside in an open kettle. The process takes lots of help for a couple of days. On Wednesday and Thursday the families of George and Freda Rexroad and Glen and Freda Teets gathered at the Rexroad home to make apple butter. They also made dozens of apple dumplings for the family freezers.

Then on Friday and Saturday, family and friends gathered at Linda and John Fleming's home to make apple butter. Those who helped were: Lucinda, Steve, and Amber Davis, Augusta, W.Va., Don and Jean Larson, Vienna, Va.; Chris, Rob, and Ellen Riley, Mt. Airy; Debbie, Marybeth, and Daniel Snyder, Millersville; Mary Ellen Lewis, Friendsville; Vernon Sweitzer, Cranesville; Orval and Mareva Teets, Lydia Sweitzer, A.J. Fleming, April Tichnell, Richard Gerlach, Randy, Lawre, Zach, and Hannah Virts, John, Tracey, Emily, and Lindsay Lipscomb, Bob James, Harley Wildesen, and Rev. Meredith Ball, all of Swanton.

On Monday, Crystal Teets of Deer Park and Wandell Feaster of New Creek, W.Va., took their mother, Fannie Rizer of Savage River Road, shopping and to lunch at Gehauf's to celebrate her birthday.

Chris, Rob, and Ellen Riley returned to their home in Mt. Airy Sunday evening after spending the weekend here with relatives and friends.

Orval Rounds is a patient in Garrett Memorial Hospital.

Don and Jean Larson, Vienna, Va., returned to their home on Sunday.

Freda Teets and Freda Rexrode visited Tom and Ellen Beckman one day last week.

OTTERBEIN UM CHURCH NEWS

The United Methodist Women met last Tuesday at the church. Election of officers for 1999 was held. A date for the Thanksgiving "Thank Offering" service was announced for Tuesday, Nov. 24, at 7 p.m. It will be followed by a "welcome party" for Rev. Meredith Ball and his wife Maxine.

Richard Gerlach, Jesse Skipper, and Orval Teets attended the Brotherhood meeting at Hoyes United Methodist Church last Tuesday evening. The Brotherhood Breakfast will be this Saturday, Oct. 24, at 7:30 p.m. at the Casselman Restaurant, Grantsville. Ladies are welcome to attend this month.

Maxine Ball, Mary June Harvey, Wanda Maphis, and Joan Riley attended the annual meeting of West Virginia Conference, United Methodist Women, in Bridgeport, W.Va., last Friday and Saturday.

On Rally Day last Sunday, approximately 80 persons attended the hayride and picnic after Sunday School and worship service.

Last Thursday evening Jesse Skipper, Orval and Mareva Teets, and Mary June Harvey, Swanton, and Gale and Janet Wilson, Bayard, W.Va., traveled to Augusta, W.Va., to attend a revival service at Augusta United Methodist Church, where Steve Davis is pastor.

On Monday, Rev. and Mrs. Meredith Ball and Mary June Harvey attended the Potomac Highland District Ministers' and Wives' meeting at Trinity United Methodist Church, Piedmont, W.Va.

COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION

The association met Monday evening. The following announcements were made: The night for Trick or Treat in the Swanton area will be Saturday, Oct. 31, 6 to 9 p.m. Those who want to participate should leave a porch light on.

A Halloween Social will be held at the Community Center on Friday, Oct. 30. The costume parade will begin at 5:30 p.m. Prizes will be awarded. There will be games, refreshments, and baked goods for sale. The Swanton Girl Scouts will conduct cake walks and a Chinese auction.

The association will again make and sell hard-tack and peanut brittle candy for Christmas. To place an order, persons should call 301-387-4374.

CHECKING OUT THE HIGHWAY ROUTES - Maps and explanations of the alternate routes suggested by the State Highway Administration for the future up-grade of Rt. 219 North are currently displayed in the window of the Grantsville Plaza office of The Republican. Residents and business people are encouraged to stop by the office to see the display. An address for written comments is also displayed. In the photo above, Greater Grantsville Business Association president Lindy Moebs and Grantsville mayor Fred Holliday discuss the different proposals.

Sweitzer Awarded Diploma From Pittsburgh TI

Michael S. Sweitzer, Kitzmiller, recently graduated from the Pittsburgh Technical Institute, where he studied computer-aided drafting and earned an Associate's Degree in technology.

A 1995 graduate of Southern High School, Sweitzer is the son of Leona Sweitzer, Kitzmiller, and the late George E. Sweitzer Jr., and the grandson of Mildred Sweitzer, Kitzmiller, and Claude and Almeda Beckman, Mtn. Lake Park.

Sweitzer is employed by Mineral Fabrications in Keyser, W.Va.

AAD-INC.

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Advertising Art Design Incoporated

AAD-INC. (pronounced Ad - Ink), Advertising Art Design Incorporated, has opened a new office at Deep Creek Lake, retaining the home office in Cumberland. The new office is located along Rt. 219 in McHenry in the new Railey Realty building on the first floor. The new office will provide graphic art, design and photographic services to AAD-INC.'s growing list of Garrett County customers. Owned by Lance Bell and Kathie Smith, the agency is celebrating its 10-year anniversary.

"We specialize in good quality graphic design, ad design, art, display, photography, corporate identity packages and logos, and quality printing," said Bell.

"The additional office will be of more convenience to our Garrett County clients that we've already been working with for the past three or four years, as well as potential new clients," added Smith.

AAD-INC. redesigned the Garrett County Vacation Guide and gave it a new look about three years ago. This year the Vacation Guide will have a face lift again. The 1999—2000 Vacation Guide will have more feature articles about Garrett County, events activities, attractions and people. The layout of the ads will be changed as part of the new look.

The new office can be reached at 301-387-8208 for Garrett County clients or, as always, 6 Commerce Drive in Cumberland at 301-759-2707.

Burger King Pride Night To Benefit Grantsville School

To benefit the Grantsville Elementary School playground fund, the Burger King restaurant on Chestnut Ridge Road will offer a Pride Night on Friday, Oct. 30, from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m.

During the specified time, 20 percent of all "dine in" receipts will be donated to the Grantsville PTA to offset expenses for the school's playground renovations.

Parents, family members, and friends of the school are encouraged by PTA members to support the Burger King project while dining. Restaurant patrons participating in the fundraising will be asked to place receipts for purchases in the brightly colored box that will be available for that purpose.

"We certainly appreciate the generosity of Grantsville Burger King for hosting a special night for us," said a PTA spokesperson.

Scholarship Story Omission Noted

An article on page B-3 concerning scholarships being awarded by Long & Foster Real Estate did not include information specific to the local area. Students wishing to apply for the scholarships may pick up applications at their school guidance offices, or they may contact the local offices of Long & Foster at 301-334-9777 or 301-387-4700.

Dr. Lynch To Be Guest Speaker At Support Meeting

Dr. Joseph Lynch, Morgantown, W.Va., will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Garrett County Cancer Support Group, slated for next Tuesday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. in the board room of Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Lynch, whose topic will be bone marrow transplants, is a member of the medical staff at University Hospitals in Morgantown and is an active member of the North American Marrow Transplant Group (NAMTG), a large, multi-institutional consortium that performs more than 1,000 transplants annually. This group is involved in a number of clinical research projects that have resulted in national recognition for the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center in Morgantown.

"Our program is one of the best in the country," Lynch said. "Our academic program is gaining national recognition, we're performing cutting-edge clinical research, and we're providing the most advanced level of blood and marrow transplantation care in the state."

The support group meets the last Tuesday of each month, except December, in the hospital board room. All are invited to attend.

Local support group member Frances Dunbar recently had a bone marrow transplant. In order to help her defray the expenses of the transplant, a soup, salad, and dessert luncheon will be served at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland this Friday, Oct. 23, from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Tickets for the meal, including beverage, are $3.50 each.

Domestic Violence Awareness Month
Dove Center Responds To Needs Of Victims

by Linda Spassil,
Executive Director, The Dove Center

As a victim of domestic abuse, where can I get help? The Dove Center, Garrett County's domestic violence/sexual assault resource center, offers the following services for those in need:

- A 24-hour "help-line" is available.
- Temporary emergency shelter for victims and their children is provided by the center.
- Crisis and supportive counseling are given.
- Specialized groups are organized for victims and for children who witness violence.
- Referrals are made to appropriate services.
- Advocates serve as liaisons or companions for those seeking police, court, or medical services.
- A speakers' bureau is available to civic, church, or educational groups.

These services were developed by the Dove Center in direct response to the following remarks, which are often made by victims of violence.

Who can I call in the middle of the night when I'm frightened and unsure what options are available? The Dove Center utilizes a core group of volunteers who handle "help-line" calls during non-business hours. They are familiar with civil and criminal options available to victims of domestic violence. They are caring community members who want to help, and do so by lending an ear as well as the expertise acquired through comprehensive training. There is someone available 24-hours a day, seven days a week.

Where would I go to sort things out for myself? The Dove Center shelter offers a safe haven for victims and their children. The facility allows these individuals to carry on with their lives, free from fear and abuse, until their homes can provide a similar environment. As if they were at home, clients in the shelter prepare their meals, dine as a family, share in household chores, watch television together, and sleep in private bedrooms. Staff members are available "around-the-clock" in case someone needs to talk and can't sleep. It's a place to think and plan, to gain perspective, and to get information.

I'm so confused. What is happening to my family? Crisis and supportive counseling are available on an individual basis. Scheduled appointments allow each victim the time to share with the counselor the unique circumstances of her situation. The healing process is sometimes long and hard. Sensitivity to the needs of the victims and their loved ones and an understanding of the dynamics of the abusive relationship help to diminish some the emotional pain. The professional counselors at the Dove Center are ready to provide this service and are only a phone call away.

I feel so alone. Many victims think that they are alone in struggling with this problem. As a means to break down some of the isolation and to begin formulating a support network, group sessions are held on an "as needed" basis. The opportunity to learn from one another is provided in a structured setting. Co-facilitators process the sessions and utilize various forms of resources. These include handout materials, videos, and journal activities. The healing process is often expedited when the victim chooses to participate in a group.

I have no place to live. Networking within the community is a significant part of each staff member's responsibilities. No one agency can provide for all the needs of a victim. Knowing the community's resources is vital. When given the name of a contact person and the phone number, the victim's anxiety level subsides, and so she is able to move on to the next task at hand. These referrals may be made in the course of a phone conversation or during a counseling appointment.

I've never been in a courtroom before. Although the victim may have a family member or friend who is willing to accompany the victim, frequently that person is as unfamiliar as is the victim with the legal process. A Dove Center advocate can facilitate contact with the various systems. The advocate educates the victim as to what to expect and what may be expected of one. Sometimes it's nice just having a warm, caring person with you so that you are not all alone.

No one understands what I'm experiencing. One of the chief tasks of the Dove Center staff is to make people aware of the problem of domestic violence. Many individuals still believe that it isn't there. Education is the key to prevention. Providing educational programs to students, groups, and organizations is one way to familiarize people with the characteristics of an abusive personality and the dynamics and cycles of violence.

Anyone wishing to schedule a program for a group may call 301-334-9000 or toll free 1-800-894-DVSA (3872) Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Town Hall

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held Tuesday, Oct. 20.

- Installation of the new playground equipment in the town park is now complete.
- There has been a recent increase in incidents of vandalism in the town, especially in the park. Citizens with any information on the vandalism are asked to contact the Garrett County's Sheriff's Office at 301-334-1911 or the McHenry barrack of the Maryland State Police at 301-387-1101.
- Residents are reminded that door-to-door trick-or-treating for children age 12 and under will take place on Saturday, Oct. 31, 6-7:30 p.m. Those wishing to participate are asked to turn on porch lights to so indicate.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov.2.

GRANTSVILLE

The town meeting was held Monday, Oct. 19.

- A HotSpot meeting will be held Tuesday at 8:30 a.m. in Town Hall.
- Mayor Holliday met with Duane Stein from the Grantsville VFD and Barry Beal from Northern Rescue Squad to discuss a disaster alert plan for the town. They will develop a list of emergency procedures, which will be distributed to the public upon completion.
- The council is still trying to get permission to install a community bulletin board outside the post office.
- Christmas lights will be installed in town the Saturday before Thanksgiving by members of the Lions Club.
- The winter town meeting schedule will go into effect next month. The town council will meet once each month on the third Monday. This schedule will be in effect until spring.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 16.

HUSKY Notes

by Lester Lewis,
NHS Viking Reporter

●Spirit Week and Homecoming was held the week of October 12-16. Students participated in dress-up days during the week. Monday was Sports Day — students wore clothing that supported their favorite sports team; Tuesday was Camouflage Day; Wednesday was Wacky Day — students dressed up in their wackiest outfits. Thursday was Twin Day — each student picked a friend and they dressed alike. Friday was Blue and Gold Day. In addition, homerooms participated in a door decorating contest. Winners of the contest were: First place — Mrs. Grimm's Room 101; Second Place — Mrs. Coburn's, Room 210; Third Place — Mr. Price's Room 223.

●The homecoming football game was held on Friday, Oct. 16 against the Berkeley Springs Indians. The Huskies lost 30-20.

●The homecoming dance was held on Saturday, Oct. 17 from 8-11 p.m. Members of the Homecoming Court were: king, Craig Kamp; queen, Kanya Knox; prince, Mark Wolf; and princess, Michelle Warnick.

●Passes can not be issued for the following busses because they are at capacity levels: numbers 68, 49, and 6.

●On Oct. 5, the entire student body assembled to see a show titled "Flashpoint" presented by ARC. The 45-minute assembly had an anti-drug and anti-violence message.

●Long-time Northern High football coach, and athletic director, Mr. Tom Vent, recently took a position as principal at Berlin Area High School, Berlin, Pa. Mr. Vent's NHS career began in the 1970s as boys' basketball coach. He became football coach in the mid-1980s, and led the Huskies to a 47-65 record, and one state playoff appearance in 1992. Mr. Vent taught P.E., weight lifting, first aid, and served as a driver's ed. on- the-road supervisor for periods 1-3.

●Agenda books will be distributed to students during the week of October 26. The books have a student planner, where homework and dates of upcoming tests and projects can be written, along with school rules and policies, and restroom passes. Students will be limited to using a certain number of restroom passes per nine week marking period.

●Student organizations met for the first time on October 14. Organizations this year are: Student Council, Yearbook, Lettermen, Girls' Varsity Club, Students For Christ Club, VICA, FFA, Theater Club, Peer Counselor's Club, Enviornthon Club, Video Yearbook Club, and the EMS club. Organizations will meet on the second Wednesday of each month, 2:24-3:15 p.m., through the month of April. Students who do not belong to a student organization are assigned to a study hall with their seventh period teachers.

●Red Ribbon week is October 26-30.

●Heather Butler, a sophomore, was recently named Garrett County's Most Beautiful Person. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Butler, and has completed over 1,700 community service hours.

Chamber

initiate the distribution of welcome/orientation packages for all new businesses and new residents in the county. This, too, would require additional funding, he said.

Commissioner chairman Wayne Wilt said the request could not really be addressed until the next fiscal year, and that the decision would be that of the new board of commissioners. He and the other commissioners did request that Moe and the chamber members provide a more specific outline of the organization's needs.

"That way, we can look at it and perhaps discuss it with the new commissioners, and they can be more informed as budget time gets closer," Wilt said.

Currently, the chamber is chiefly funded by the county. Lesser funding comes from advertisements in the annual Vacation Guide and a few other avenues. The accommodations tax, also known as the "bed tax," is charged by hotels, motels, bed and breakfast establishments. The revenue generated by this tax is to be used for tourism and economic development, so it is allotted to the chamber, as well as to the county's economic development department and to the municipalities.

The amusement tax is a 4.5 percent levy that is attached to any purchase related to amusement, such as ski or boat rentals, movie tickets, or any other recreational activity. This tax is collected by the state of Maryland, which keeps .5 percent, and the remainder is returned to the county and placed in the general fund, Pagenhardt said. It is not currently earmarked to be used for any specific entity in the county's budget.

According to national surveys, information-based technology firms are the fastest growing segment of the U.S. economy. In addition to the $360,000 from ARC, the U.S. Department of Commerce will contribute an $800,000 grant, the state of Maryland will contribute $250,000, and Garrett County Community College will provide $50,000 in matching local funds, subject to approval by the Garrett County board of commissioners.

Yoders' Artworks Featured In "Amish Father/City Son" Exhibition At GCC

by Ron Skidmore
Chairman, GCC Art Dept.

An exhibit of wood carvings and paintings titled "Amish Father/City Son" will be on display through October 31 in the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery of Garrett Community College. The exhibit features folk sculpture by Claude H. Yoder and oil paintings by his son, Olin L. Yoder, both originally from the Grantsville area.

Born in 1904, to an Amish family of 17, Claude had a passion for art. He once said that in the Amish religion "the making of graven images" was considered sinful and was forbidden to him. Claude faced constant discipline from family and community for, as it was termed, "wasting time" drawing pictures, molding clay, or whittling. So began Claude's secret life as a carver.

From an early age Claude had the ability to see into, even beyond, the people and things around him — his Amish elders, the fields, the hills, rock and wood. "I can't pass a woodpile without seeing something to carve," he often said. "A piece of wood tells you what it wants to be, but sometimes you start carving and you see something else. I'm sure that the wood doesn't care if I change its mind a bit."

Claude H. Yoder, who died in 1991 at the age of 87, left a legacy in stone and wood — dozens of carvings of men, women, birds, dogs, marvelous things that show a technically naive but earthy sense of form and texture. Several of Claude's sculptures are on permanent display at the American Visionary Art Museum in Baltimore and the Springs Museum in Springs, Pa.

Olin I. Yoder was born in the mountains of western Maryland. His first recollections are of sitting on his father's lap at the kitchen table, as Claude sketched on the back of oilcloth by kerosene lamp. "I would request animals, people and objects, and he would draw them. This he would do after plowing, milking, harvesting or any of the myriad of chores that are part of farming. I assumed that all fathers did that." This became a great influence on Olin's life.

Olin attended Shepherd College in Shepherdstown, W.Va., on a football scholarship, and received his bachelor of arts degree with a major in art education. He then returned to Maryland and began teaching in the public schools. Olin was 1990 teacher of the year in Anne Arundel County and a state finalist for teacher of the year. He was awarded a master of fine arts from the Maryland Institute of Art in Baltimore.

At present Olin is an art instructor at Catonsville Community College. He has had gallery affiliations in Cumberland, Annapolis, and Alexandria, Va.

Olin's subject matter is varied and eclectic. He uses vivid colors and images in his paintings of street scenes and everyday people throughout Baltimore City. He tries to find interesting subjects to paint as he travels around the world, and he attempts to make the mundane monumental through his work.

Olin Yoder will be presenting a talk about his father's work and the contrasts to his own, and relating his experiences as an artist leaving the farm for the big city. A reception will accompany the guest speaker on Friday, Oct. 23, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the GCC Art Gallery. The public is invited to attend.

The "Amish Father/City Son" exhibit is open until the end of the month between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on weekends and evenings during special events. The exhibition is funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Dairy Economics, Cow Care On Agenda For 1998 Dairy Meeting

Dairy producers, processors, and suppliers will gather in Hagerstown on Tuesday, Nov. 10, to discuss critical issues affecting Maryland's $1 billion dairy industry. The program will be part of the Maryland Dairy Industry Association's (MDIA) 1998 annual meeting, slated for the Four Points Hotel on U.S. Route 40 East.

"We will focus on ways to enhance dairy operations for Maryland producers," said MDIA's president Myron Wilhide of Detour. "It will be a full day of good information for all segments of the dairy industry."

Resource persons scheduled for the MDIA program include noted Cornell University dairy extension specialist Dr. David Galton, whose topic "Profitability in the 21st Century" promises valuable insight and management tips for Maryland producers. He will be joined by Penn State University dairy extension specialist Dr. Larry Hutchinson, presenting latest information on boosting milk production through proper foot care of dairy cows. Extension Agent Stanley Fultz of Maryland Cooperative Extension will lead a panel discussion on grazing and its effects on farmland in the Mid-Atlantic region. Leading suppliers to the dairy industry will be on hand to present new technology to industry participants.

Registration for the MDIA annual meeting opens at 8:30 a.m. on November 10, with meeting and program events scheduled from 10 a.m. through 4 p.m. Luncheon will be served. All events take place at Hagerstown's Four Points Hotel.

Details of the program are available from MDIA headquarters at: MDIA, Suite 1100, 1629 K Street, N.W., Washington, DC 20006. Telephone: 202-293-0476.

Farming In Maryland.....

Southern States Co-Op Completes Gold Kist Farm System Purchase

Southern States Cooperative has completed the purchase of the wholesale and retail farm supply assets of Gold Kist Inc., a farmer cooperative headquartered in Atlanta. Wayne A. Boutwell, Southern States' president and chief executive officer, and Gaylord O. Coan, president and CEO of Gold Kist, made the joint announcement.

Terms of the sale were not disclosed. The two cooperatives had signed a letter of intent on May 20.

By early November, Southern States signs are expected to be up on some 100 Gold Kist retail farm supply stores, plus peanut and grain buying stations, cotton gins, fertilizer plants and terminals, crop protection product distribution centers, feed mills, and related operations. They are located in the states of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas.

Charles T. Wood, the Southern States vice president who heads the retail division encompassing the Gold Kist territory, said familiar products and services would be continued. Faces in the stores will be familiar, too. More than 1,000 of the Gold Kist employees connected with the affected operations have joined Southern States.

Prior to the purchase, Southern States had some 530 retail outlets, along with feed and fertilizer manufacturing facilities and terminals, grain marketing and seed processing units, farm supply distribution centers, and petroleum terminals, primarily in Delaware, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Following an April 1 merger with Michigan Livestock Exchange — now the MLE Marketing Division of Southern States — it also has livestock buying stations and other facilities in Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, and Ohio.

Gold Kist is the nation's second largest poultry producer, with processing capacity of about 14.5 million chickens per week.

Upon completion of the purchase, the Southern States board of directors expands to 24 members, with six seats allocated in the current Gold Kist territory. Districts will be established using Southern States' historic volume-based formula. All directors are active in farming.

"Clearly, the directors and management of both organizations believe that this move will be good for the farmers who own these two successful cooperatives," said Boutwell. "We believe it will give both of us an opportunity to focus on what we do best. This acquisition will enable Southern States even more effectively to provide quality products and services, both to our existing members and the new members in the expanded territory."

Boutwell noted that there are strong similarities, not only in the cultures of the two cooperatives, but also in the agriculture they serve. "Both cooperatives were formed under the leadership of true visionaries," he noted. "W.G. Wysor called together a group of Virginia crop growers 75 years ago to form a much-needed seed co-op. Then, 65 years ago, D.W. Brooks brought, first, cotton farmers, and then, broiler producers together in much the same fashion. Also, topography, crops and livestock enterprises are similar," he pointed out.

Coan said, "There was a time when a retail supply division with 100 farm stores was large enough to capture the economics of scale necessary to provide members with products and services at competitive prices while generating adequate returns on investment. But many factors have radically altered the economics of the farm supply industry.

"Southern States is a specialist in agricultural supply retailing and related services," Coan continued. "We expect a smooth transition. This consolidation assures that farmers in Gold Kist territory will continue to have access to farm supplies and markets for their products from a cooperative organization.

"It will also permit Gold Kist to focus on the protein-producing components of our business — primarily our Gold Kist Farms brand poultry products, along with our pork production and catfish breeding businesses. The poultry industry is recovering nicely from a period of weak earnings, and we intend to accelerate our growth in production and market share in the coming years," Coan added.

Maryland State Tech Committee To Meet 11/12

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) will hold a meeting of the Maryland State Technical Committee on Thursday, Nov. 12, from 9 a.m. to noon in Annapolis.

Discussion topics at the meeting will include the draft strategy for Animal Feeding Operations (AFO), ranking criteria for the Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP), a summary of the EQIP Listening Session, and the 1996 Farm Bill's new Conservation Farm Option Program. Updates will also be provided on other conservation programs.

The primary role of the Maryland State Technical Committee, an advisory group, is to assist in the development of technical guidelines necessary to implement the conservation provisions in the 1996 Farm Bill. David P. Doss, NRCS Maryland state conservationist, will chair the meeting.

The meeting will be held at the NRCS state office building, 339 Busch's Frontage Road, Suite 205 (conference room), Annapolis. The meeting is open to the public. Those interested may call 410-757-0861, extension 313, for more information.

Ag Leaders Welcome College Park President

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND HAS NEW PRESIDENT - Dean Tom Fretz presents a gift basket of Maryland food to new University of Maryland President Dr. Clayton Daniel Mote Jr. as Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Virtz (left) looks on at the Oct. 7 reception to welcome Dr. Mote.

More than 200 agricultural leaders from across Maryland officially welcomed Dr. Clayton Daniel Mote Jr. as the new president of the University of Maryland, College Park, at a reception Oct. 7 on the College Park campus. Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Virts, and Dr. Thomas A. Fretz, dean of the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, hosted the reception, which featured a "Taste of Maryland" array of foods. Attending were representatives from the Maryland Farm Bureau, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Maryland Agricultural Commission and leaders from Maryland's diverse agricultural commodity groups.

"We were gratified to have this opportunity to introduce Dr. Mote to Maryland agriculture and its leaders. Under his leadership, the University and the agriculture industry in Maryland will continue to work closely together on issues related to production of agricultural products, the environment, and food safety and health goals," said Dr. Fretz.

Dr. Mote came to the University of Maryland after an academic career of more than 30 years at the University of California at Berkeley, where he excelled as a teacher and researcher as well as a leader in the institution's comprehensive capital campaign.

"Maryland is a university on the move. That is why I am so excited about being here. We have a goal to achieve a place among the 10 highest quality universities in America, and I know in my bones that is an achievable goal," Mote said.

"Agriculture is Maryland's number one industry and with the enthusiasm and energy of Dr. Mote and Dr. Fretz I know we can look forward to a strong cooperative effort to advance agricultural research and education that will benefit all of our state's agriculture commodities," said Secretary Virts.

A highlight of the evening was the presentation of a gift basket to Dr. Mote of Maryland agriculture products.

"Agriculture is Maryland's number one industry and the University is a crucial part of keeping the industry strong," said Mote.

Negotiations Lead To Final Agriculture Funding Deal

Congressional and White House negotiators reached agreement last week on an "omnibus spending" package to fund government departments and agencies — including agriculture — whose budgets were not taken care of in the normal appropriations process.

The $520 billion budget package was passed Tuesday by the House and Wednesday by the Senate and now goes to President Clinton for his signature. The bill adds $21 billion for emergencies ranging from natural disaster and farm relief to fixing the year 2000 computer problem.

The agriculture appropriations measure and its farm aid provisions were folded into the omnibus measure after President Clinton vetoed a bill sent to him earlier this month. The omnibus package also includes several Farm Bureau-supported tax items that will benefit producers.

The new agriculture funding measure contains a nearly $6 billion farm assistance package that will help producers who suffered crop failures and low commodity prices this year. Despite the higher price tag compared to the earlier relief measure, Republican negotiators were able to fend off Democratic and administration demands that a large portion of the farm aid come in the form of increased marketing loans — a move Farm Bureau opposed.

The largest chunk of the farm assistance package will come from almost $3 billion in direct payments to producers for market losses. Eligible producers must hold Freedom to Farm contracts. The payments will equal around 50 percent of the eligible producers' 1998 Agricultural Market Transition Act payment.

Another $1.5 billion will be made available to producers who suffered disaster crop losses in 1998. For producers who have suffered multiple-year crop losses, the assistance package includes $875 million. And $200 million will be made available to livestock producers who lost their 1998 feed supplies.

Dairy producers will be allotted an additional $200 million in payments, to be distributed at the discretion of the agriculture secretary, as well as an additional $3 million in dairy indemnity payments.

On the tax front, the omnibus bill contains language to make income averaging for farmers and ranchers permanent.

The package also contains language that would allow producers to carry back net operating losses for five years and a provision that clarifies that income from accelerated program payments will be taxed in the year they were received.

Corn and soybean harvesting continued for another week. According to the Maryland Ag Statistics Service, corn harvested for grain jumped 15 points during last week and moved to 75% complete. It was a dry week with 6.3 days suitable for farmers to be in the field to continue their harvesting activities. Silage harvesting moved to 95% for last week. The soybean harvest gained 15 points also and stands at 35%, 14 points ahead of last year's average and 12 points ahead of the five-year average. Soybeans shedding leaves was at 90%, ahead of the previous and five-year averages. Again, dry weather caused most of the soybeans to mature ahead of progress. Sorghum harvesting had an eight-point increase and is at 38%, still ahead of the previous year and five-year averages.

Small grain plantings all had major advances during last week. Just the week before, the state received precipitation, allowing fields to be prepared for seeding. Barley planting was at 69%, a 27-point advancement from the week before. Rye planting moved to the halfway mark, a 24-point increase from the previous week, and winter wheat stands at 38% complete. Winter wheat had the smallest increase, which was a 20-point move.

Topsoil moisture condition was 10% very short, 33% short, 54% adequate, and 3% surplus. Subsoil moisture condition was 19% very short, 42% short, 37% adequate, and 2% surplus.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Oct. 18, listing the item, and the percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, follows:

Development: barley, seeded 69, 42, 65, 70; rye, seeded 50, 26, 55, 53; winter wheat, seeded 38, 18, 27, 31; soybeans, shedding leaves 90, 80, 81, 83.

Harvesting progress: apples 79, 74, 78, 77; corn, grain 75, 60, 44, 65, silage 95, 92, 99, 97; soybeans 35, 20, 21, 23; sorghum 38, 30, 24, 32; other hay, 4th cutting 90, 88, 77, 63; alfalfa hay, 4th cutting 94, 91, 85, 91, 5th cutting 38, 35, 29, 36.

Dairy Situation and Outlook
by Bob Cropp, University of Wisconsin

Milk production has been running below year ago levels, July down 0.8% and August down 0.5%. But an improvement was shown in September with production up slightly, 0.4%. But relatively poor production per cow continues to hold down milk production. Milk production per cow for September was just 0.3% higher than a year ago. Once milk production per cow returns to a more normal increase of 2% or more, milk production will once again increase, putting some downward pressure on milk prices.

Milk cow numbers have stopped declining. September cow numbers for the 20 reporting sales states were up 5,000 head from a year ago and 2,000 head more than August. Ample feed supplies, low grain and concentrate prices, favorable milk prices and a very favorable milk-feed-price ratio, plus low cull cow prices are all factors that have stopped the decline in milk cow numbers.

The big question is, when will prices come down? Prices will come down, but a crash like what occurred in 1996 doesn't seem likely. Sales are good and milk production recovery may be a little slower. However, the record milk prices and relatively low feed prices will eventually bring about a supply response, if the weather for milk production also gets more favorable. With low cull cow prices, producers will hang on longer to milk cows and dairy herd expansion is already taking place. Butter prices have fallen, but should hold at relatively high levels until mid-November as we approach the strong demand period during Thanksgiving and Christmas. The same is true for cheese. Once butter prices drop significantly, cheese prices will follow. But nevertheless, the BFP will stay well above historical levels through early next year. December BFP futures settled at $14.77 on October 15 and the January BFP settled at $13.65. These prices are higher than what I would predict based on the potential for stonger milk production beginning in a month or two. Once California's milk per cow begins to improve and milk production improves some in the south and southeast, there will be some pressure on milk prices. I would encourage producers to consider dairy futures or options to protect these more favorable milk prices.

Lady Bug, Please Fly Away

It is that time of year that lady bugs start swarming around and in the house. What can you do about them? First of all, I do not recommend using an insecticide inside the house unless it is absolutely necessary. In most instances, insecticide bombs only provide temporary control and must be repeated. Personally, I do not want to be breathing the fumes. The best control is to keep the lady bugs outside. Most of the lady bugs will enter the house around window and door cracks. The lady bug can enter through a very small crack that may not even be noticeable; therefore, check very closely and seal off all possible entrances. The best way to remove them from your home is to vacuum. There are some lady bug pheromones on the market that will attract them to one area where they can be easily vacuumed. I do not know if these pheromones are available in our area.

Environmental Impacts Review Started By NRCS

David Doss, Maryland state conservationist for the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), has announced NRCS's intent to prepare a Programmatic Environmental Impact Statement (PEIS) for the Emergency Watershed Protection (EWP) Program. NRCS administers this USDA conservation program.

"The draft PEIS will study the impacts of emergency watershed protection work on people, natural resources, and communities," said Doss. "NRCS is seeking public comment on the program and relevant environmental issues and is holding six scoping (information gathering) meetings across the nation."

NRCS is holding the public meetings to explain the EWP Program and solicit comments on issues that should be considered during the evaluation of the program's environmental impacts. The closest meeting for Maryland residents is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 26, from 1 to 4 p.m., at USDA headquarters, 14th Street and Independence Avenue, SW, in Washington, D.C. The meeting will be held in Jefferson Auditorium (first floor at wing 5). NRCS is also conducting public scoping meetings in Kansas City, Mo.; Atlanta, Ga.; Sacramento, Calif.; Minneapolis, Minn.; and Albany, N.Y.

"It's important for Maryland landowners and communities to provide comments on the EWP Program," said Doss. "NRCS will use the comments as it updates its procedures and wants to be sure that the program's beneficial effects, along with any adverse effects, are identified and studied." The public comment period ends on October 30.

The EWP Program helps local governments, conservation districts, and others repair damages to small rivers and streams that have been harmed by disasters such as floods, wildfires, and droughts. These repairs include removing debris, stabilizing stream banks, replanting barren slopes, and other measures.

"EWP work in Western Maryland has been a priority for NRCS over the past three years," said Doss. "Maryland received approximately $7.8 million through EWP funds to restore watershed areas damaged by floods, blizzards, and hurricanes. This work was done primarily in three counties along the Appalachian Mountains — Frederick, Allegany, and Garrett."

NRCS anticipates that the draft PEIS will be available for public review and comment in the summer 1999. NRCS is preparing the draft PEIS in accordance with guidelines from the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). The Notice of Intent (NOI) to develop a draft PEIS was published in the Federal Register on September 11, 1998.

Information about the PEIS on the EWP Program can be obtained through the NRCS website at www.ftw.nrcs.usda.gov/programs.html, by sending a letter to EWP-PEIS, P.O. Box 745, Falls Church, VA 22040-0745, by telephoning 1-800-534-8692, or by sending an e-mail message to ewp@mangi.com.

NRCS is USDA's lead conservation agency.

on a fair evaluation of resources. Each publication contains work sheets to help attain these goals. All the publications discuss the importance of developing a written lease agreement and stress the need for getting professional legal assistance when necessary.

Fixed and Flexible Cash Rental Arrangements for Your Farm, NCR-75, addresses whether a fixed cash-rent lease arrangement should be used; discusses how to develop a fair fixed cash rental rate; provides information on setting rent for cropland, pasture, and buildings; outlines advantages and disadvantages of flexible cash-leasing arrangements; and discusses the importance of developing a written lease agreement. A sample lease form—Cash Farm Lease Form, NCR-76, 4 pages, is included.

Crop-share or Crop-share /Cash Rental Arrangements for Your Farm, NCR-105, addresses the relative advantages and disadvantages of crop-share leases and explains how to deal with buildings, pasture, and other cropland in arranging a crop-share lease. The publication includes a sample lease form—Crop-Share or Crop-Share/Cash Farm Lease Form, NCR-77.

Irrigation Crop-share and Cash Rental Arrangements for Your Farm, NCR-148, discusses the basic principles of establishing irrigation crop-share arrangements and examines four ways of establishing irrigation cash-rent rates. Because irrigated cropland rental arrangements vary greatly across localities and farming areas, each irrigation lease should be different depending on the quantity and the quality of the assets contributing to production. The publication includes a sample lease form—Irrigation Crop-Share or Crop-Share/Cash Farm Lease Form, NCR-106.

Pasture Rental Arrangements for Your Farm, NCR-149, will help tenants and landlords make sound decisions and develop fair pasture rental arrangements. Part I provides background information on animal units and stocking rates. Parts II and III discuss establishing lease rates on a per-head or per-acre basis. Part IV addresses leasing tame-grass pasture. Part V discusses other factors influencing lease rates. Part VI discusses the importance of developing a written agreement. A sample lease form, Pasture Lease Form, NCR-109, 4 pages, is included.

Each of these publications is available for $4.00 per copy plus shipping and handling. Shipping and handling for orders totaling $20 or less is $3.50 within the continental United States. If order totals over $20, please contact NRAES for shipping and handling rates.

Arthritis Pain Mystery Solved

Horse Liniment is the secret!

OCALA, FL. -- An ingredient used to treat inflammation in thoroughbred racehorse legs, is now recognized as safe and effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx® and comes in a strength designed for humans. Researchers are excited and say the formula can relieve arthritis pain for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Gulf Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a breakthrough in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, tendonitis, backache and more.

Scientists suggest that ARTH-Rx works by intercepting the pain messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain. Although the mechanism is not totally clear, pain is relieved in the affected area because the pain signal actually disappears.

ARTH-Rx is the only product on the market with Neurocaine and is available in a convenient, pleasant scented roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, ARTH-Rx is available in pharmacies, nutrition stores, and even some feed stores. ARTH-Rx can also be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446. ® 1997 PGC

REQUEST FOR BIDS

The Garrett County, Maryland, Community Action Committee, Inc. (GCCAC) is seeking bids for the construction of the Friendsville Community Center addition to the Friendsville Head Start Center located in the southwest corner of the Friendsville Town Park. The work includes furnishing all the labor and materials for the general construction, electrical, plumbing, and HVAC of the 2014 square foot addition. In addition, some demolition to and alteration of the existing Friendsville Head Start Center adjunct is required. A November 1998 construction start is desired, weather permitting, but failing that, an early spring start. This is prevailing wage rate project.

Bid packages consisting of four (4) sets of plans and construction documents may be obtained for a non-refundable fee of $40.00 at the second floor executive offices of GCCAC, 104 East Center Street, Oakland, Maryland beginning at 9:00 a.m., Friday, October 16, 1998. Sealed bid proposals will be due by 3 p.m., Monday, November 16, 1998 at the second floor executive offices of GCCAC. Neither a bid nor performance bond is required but the successful bidder shall be required to furnish a letter of credit to the OWNER in the amount of ten (10) percent of the final Contract Sum. You should direct questions and information requests to Mr. Duane Yoder, President, GCCAC at 301-334-9431 or to Mr. Sheldon Dearden, 301-387-4362. GCCAC is an equal opportunity employer.

Garrett County NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Mayor and Town Council will conduct a Public Hearing to obtain the views of citizens on COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND HOUSING NEEDS, and to offer citizens the opportunity to review an application which the City of Oakland proposes to submit to the State on or before the November 13, 1998 deadline for same. The hearing will be held at the Oakland City Hall at 15 S. Third Street on November 2, 1998 at 7:00 p.m.

On the same date and time the Mayor and Council will also conduct a hearing to review and offer an opportunity to comment on the performance of the following CDBG grant previously funded through the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development. This grant will be the Overlook North Project. The grant was awarded to the mayor and Council and is being administered by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., through a subrecipient agreement.

The Small Cities Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Program is a federally sponsored program designed to assist units of general local government with activities directed toward neighborhood and housing revitalization, economic development, and improved community facilities and services.

Maryland's Program is administered by the Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD), in close cooperation with the Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

The Maryland Program reflects the State's economic and community development priorities and provides public funds for activities which meet the following national objectives, in accordance with the Housing Community Development Act of 1974, as amended.

(1) give maximum feasible priority to activities which will benefit low and moderate income persons and households having an income equal to or less than the Section 8 lower income limits established by HUD;

(2) aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blight;

(3) meet other community development needs of an urgent nature, or that are an immediate threat to community health and welfare.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Garrett County Board of License Commissioners/Liquor Control Board, under the authority of Article 2B, Section 16-301 of the Annotated Code of Maryland, may adopt rules and regulations as they may deem necessary to enable them effectively to discharge the duties imposed upon them.

The Board proposes to adopt the following Rules and Regulations:

(1) The Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County as required by Chapter 712 of the 1998 Legislative session in regard to sales to minors under administrative procedures will impose the following fines and suspensions: 1st Offense - $100 fine and a letter of reprimand. 2nd Offense - $500 fine and up to 10-day suspension of license. 3rd Offense - $1,000 fine and up to 30-day suspension of license. 4th Offense - Maximum fine and up to one-year suspension of license. Along with these fines and suspensions the Board may require additional alcohol awareness training and review and evaluate internal procedures concerning sales to minors at the license establishment. If the licensed establishment goes two years with no additional sales to minors, their record is expunged.

(2) At a new license hearing: at least one of the applicants listed on the application must be present at the hearing for the issuance of the license.

(3) At a Special Class "C" License hearing: at least one of the applicants/officers of the organization must be present at the hearing for the issuance of a Special Class C License.

(4) Under license application fee, the $75.00 (seventy-five dollar) application fee will be waived in the event that the license is being transfered from the licensee(s) operating as individual(s) on the license to the same licensee(s) operating as a Corporation, Partnership, Unincorporated Association, or a Limited Liability Company.

The Board of License Commissioners will conduct a public hearing on December 3, 1998 at 9:30 a.m. in Room 304 of the Old Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland. Written comments should be sent to office of the Board of License Commissioners of Garrett County, Room 105, 313 E. Alder Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, until December 3, 1998.

NO. 17 Route #2, Sky Valley, Swanton

Under and by virtue of the power and authority contained in a certain Deed of Trust from Paul I. Fowler and Donna L. Fowler, to Frederick L. Shreves, II, Trustee(s), dated February 9, 1996, and recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, in Liben 674, Page 0251 , (R. Douglas Jones, Susan S. Flanigan and Mary Jane Fischer, having been appointed as Substituted Trustees therein by Norwest Mortgage, Inc., a California Corporation, formerly known as Norwest Mortgage, Inc., a Minnesota Corporation, by merger and name change, the present holder of the Note secured thereby), the insurer thereof being THE SECRETARY OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT, default having occurred in the payment of the indebtedness thereby secured, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned Substituted Trustees will offer for sale at public auction, on all that land and premises described in said Deed of Trust as follows:

4:15 P.M.

The land referred to in this Commitment is described as follows:

Lot number Nine (9) in block lettered "F", in a plat entitled "SKY VALLEY" as per plat, which plat is filed in Plat Drawer one (1), File Six (6) among the land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, being in the First Election District of said County.

The property will be sold in "AS IS" condition, subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record, if any.

The property is improved by a DWELLING.

TERMS OF SALE: $9,000.00 cash or by certified check will be required of the purchaser, (other than the above named Note holder or THE SECRETARY OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT) at the time and place of sale, balance of the purchase money in cash upon final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County and to bear interest at 10%, per annum from the day of sale to the day of settlement. In the event the above named Note holder purchases the property no deposit will be required and the requirement of interest on the balance of the purchase price shall be waived. All charges for conveyancing, recording, stamp taxes, transfer taxes, certificate of title, etc., to be at the cost of the purchaser. All other expenses, water rent, and real estate taxes and all other assessments and public charges, payable on annual basis including special paving tax, if any, to be adjusted to the date of sale, and assumed thereafter by purchaser.

Time is of the essence and terms of sale are to be complied with within ten days after final ratification thereof by the Court, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. This sale is subject to Ratification by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If the sale is not ratified, or if for any reason the Substituted Trustees are unable to convey clear, marketable title, the sale shall be void and the purchaser's sole remedy shall be the return of the deposit.

Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, and in the westerly margin of Route 42, thence with the lines of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, and said road margin, South 32°, 49' 29" West, 190.26 feet to an iron bar found at the southeasterly corner of the land of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, thence leaving the said road and with the line of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, as corrected, North 63°, 42' 50" West, 217.53 feet to the beginning, containing 1.50 acres, more or less.

Being the same as was conveyed to the herein Mortgagor from Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, by deed dated January 20, 1995, and to be recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

This is a partial purchase money mortgage because the sum received is all or part of the purchase price of the property.

Said property is in fee simple and is improved by a dwelling and is sold in "as is condition" and subject to all superior convenants, conditions, liens, restrictions, easement, rights-of-way, as may affect same, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $6,100.00 cash or certified funds shall be required at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price with interest at 9.5% per annum from the date of sale to the date of payment will be paid with TEN DAYS after the final ratification of the sale. Adjustments on all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. If applicable, condominium and/or homeowners association dues and assessments that may become due after the time of sale will be the responsibility of the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, transfer taxes, title insurance, and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Time is of the essence for the purchaser, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at risk and costs of the defaulting purchaser. If the sale is not ratified or if the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title, the purchaser's only remedy is the return of the deposit. Trustee's File No. 98-43781. GARRETT COUNTY SANITARY COMMISSION
AQUATIC CROSSINGS
A. PROPOSAL SECTIONS
I. INVITATION TO BID

Receipt of Proposals

Sealed bids marked "Bid for the Southeast Conveyance System Aquatic Crossings" will be received by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission (hereinafter referred to as Owner), at 313 East Alder Street, Old Courthouse Room 200, Oakland, Maryland 21550, until 11:00 a.m. on 6th day of November, 1998, and then and there the bids will be publicly opened and read.

General Description of Work

This project will include the following:

1. Approximately 500 LF 8-inch pressure sewer to be hung on the new Glendale Road Bridge, and

2. 1285 LF of twin 6-inch pressure sewer, approximately 700 LF of which will cross under Deep Creek Lake at North Glade Cove.

Pre-Bid Conference

A pre-bid conference will be held on Friday, October 23, 1998, at 2:00 p.m. in the office of the Owner to answer any questions concerning the Bidding Documents. All bidders are invited to attend.

Bidding Documents

Bidding Documents will be available for inspection during regular working hours at the Office of the Owner.

Bidding Documents may be obtained from the Owner upon written request and remittance of full payment of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each set with checks made payable to the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. Payment will not be refunded, said payment being retained by the Owner to cover cost of printing, handling and shipping. Requests for Bidding Documents shall be submitted to:

Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.
313 East Alder Street
Old Courthouse, Room 200
Oakland, Maryland 21550

All bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in in ink or typewritten, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted.

The Owner reserves the right to waive the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, or to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No Bidder may withdraw a Bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the Contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope-of-work by examination of the site and a review of the Bidding Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Bidding Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

Bid Security and Bond Requirements

There are no bid securities or bond requirements for this project. Progress payments will be made for work in place and a ten percent (10%) retainage will be held on all work until the project is completed and the contract requirements are satisfied. Retainage in the amount of five percent (5%) of the final construction cost will be held for a one (1) year warranty period. Bidder may elect to provide a maintenance bond for one hundred percent (100%) of the construction cost in lieu of the five percent (5%) retainage.

The Owner may for any reason whatsoever, determine that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract. In that event, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Owner will not then be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the ninety (90) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

The party to whom the Contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be accompanied by the necessary Agreement and contract forms. In case of failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may, at his option, consider the Bidder in default.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of an acceptable Agreement signed by the party to whom the Contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the Agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

Time For Completion

The successful bidder will be required to fully complete contract work within ninety (90) consecutive calendar days from and including the date of receipt from the Owner of formal notice to proceed.

Award of Contract

The award of any contract will be made by the Owner.

Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalanced may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Bidding Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals, or to award a contract or contracts which in its judgment is in the best interest of the Owner.

Nondiscrimination of Employment

BIDDERS ON THIS WORK WILL BE REQUIRED TO COMPLY WITH THE PRESIDENT'S EXECUTIVE ORDER NO. 11246. THE REQUIREMENTS FOR BIDDERS AND CONTRACTORS UNDER THIS ORDER ARE EXPLAINED IN 41 CFR 60.4.

Notice of Requirement for Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities

Bidders and offerors are cautioned as follows: By signing this bid or offer, the bidder or offeror will be deemed to have signed and agreed to the provisions of the "Certification of Nonsegregated Facilities" in this solicitation. The certification provides that the bidder or offeror does not maintain or provide for his employees facilities which are segregated on a basis of race, creed, color, or national origin, whether such facilities are segregated by directive or on a de facto basis. The certification also provides that he will not maintain such segregated facilities. Failure of a bidder or offeror to agree to the Certification of Nonsegregated facilities will render his bid or offer non-responsive to the terms of solicitations.

Pre-Bid Conference

A pre-bid conference will be held on Friday, October 23, 1998, at 2:00 p.m. in the office of the Owner to answer any questions concerning the bidding documents. All bidders are invited to attend.

Bidding Documents

Bidding Documents will be available for inspection during regular working hours at the office of the Owner.

Bidding Documents may be obtained from the Owner upon written request and remittance of full payment of one hundred dollars ($100.00) for each set with checks made payable to the Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc. Payment will not be refunded, said payment being retained by the Owner to cover cost of printing, handling and shipping. Requests for Bidding Documents shall be submitted to:

Garrett County Sanitary District, Inc.
313 East Alder Street
Old Courthouse, Room 200
Oakland, Maryland 21550

All Bids must be made on the required Bid form. All blank spaces for Bid prices must be filled in in ink or typewritten, and the bid form must be fully completed and executed when submitted.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informalities or minor defects, or to reject any and all Bids. Any Bid may be withdrawn prior to the above scheduled time for the opening of Bids or authorized postponement thereof. Any Bid received after the time and date specified will not be considered. No bidder may withdraw a Bid within 90 days after the actual date of the opening thereof. Should there be reasons why the Contract cannot be awarded within the specified period, the time may be extended by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

Bidders must satisfy themselves of the scope-of-work by examination of the site and a review of the Bidding Documents including Addenda. After Bids have been submitted, the Bidder shall not assert that there was a misunderstanding concerning the quantities of work or of the nature of the work to be done.

The Bidding Documents contain the provisions required for the work included in the Project. Information obtained from an officer, agent or employee of the Owner or any other person shall not affect the risks or obligations assumed by the Contractor or relieve him from fulfilling any of the conditions of the Contract.

Bid Security and Bond Requirements

There are no bid securities or bond requirements for this project. Retainage in the amount of five percent (5%) of the final construction cost will be held for a one (1) year warranty period. Bidder may elect to provide a maintenance bond for one hundred percent (100%) of the construction cost in lieu of the five percent (5%) retainage.

The Owner may for any reason whatsoever, determine that it is not in its best interest to award a Contract. In that event, the Contract award will not be made by the Owner and the Owner will not then be liable for any payments whatsoever to the Bidder. Extension of time beyond the ninety (90) day period of the award may be made only by mutual agreement between the Owner and the Bidder.

The party to whom the Contract is awarded will be required to execute the Agreement within ten (10) calendar days from the date when Notice of Award is delivered to the Bidder. The Notice of Award will be accompanied by the necessary Agreement and contract forms. In case of failure of the Bidder to execute the Agreement, the Owner may, at his option, consider the Bidder in default.

The Owner within ten (10) days of receipt of an acceptable Agreement signed by the party to whom the Contract was awarded, will sign the Agreement and return to such party an executed duplicate of the Agreement. Should the Owner not execute the Agreement within such period, the Bidder may, by Written Notice, withdraw his signed Agreement. Such notice of withdrawal shall be effective upon receipt of notice by the Owner.

A conditional or qualified Bid will not be accepted.

Award will be made by the Owner to the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

All applicable laws, ordinances, and the rules and regulations of all authorities having jurisdiction over the work shall apply to the Contract throughout.

Time For Completion

The successful bidder will be required to fully complete all contract work within one hundred fifty (150) consecutive calendar days from and including the date of receipt from the Owner of formal notice to proceed.

Award of Contract

The award of any contract will be made by the Owner.

Bidders are cautioned that bids that are deemed by the Owner to be obviously unbalanced may be rejected.

The Owner reserves the right to reject any proposal for failure to comply with all requirements of this notice or of any of the Contract Documents; however, it may waive any minor defects or informalities at its discretion.

The Owner further reserves the right to reject all proposals, or to award a contract or contracts which in its judgment is in the best interest of the Owner.

Ward and Alan D. Levenstein, Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the County aforesaid, defult having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the parties secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY, AT THE COURT HOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1998 AT 1:10 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland, and described as follows:

Lot number Nine (9) in block lettered "F", in a plat titled "SKY VALLEY" as per plat, which plat is filed in Plat Drawer One (1), File Six (6), among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, being in the First Election District of said county.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple.

The property will be sold in an "as in" condition and subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any and with no warranty as to the description of the improvements.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $5,000 will be required at time of sale, such deposit to be in cash, certified check, or in other form as the Substitute Trustees may determine acceptable, in their sole discretion. If the noteholder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. Balance to be paid in cash within ten (10) business days of the final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. If payment of the balance does not take place within the specified period stated, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available to them, the Substitute Trustees will declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser. In such event, the defaulting purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of both sales, attorney's fees, and all other charges incurred by the Substitute Trustees. Interest to be paid on unpaid purchase money at the rate pursuant to the deed of trust note from date of sale to the day the funds are received in the office of the Substitute Trustees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason and the property is purchased by someone other than the noteholder, there shall be no abatement of interest caused by the delay. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, Condominium fees and/or Homeowners Association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis, including sanitary and/or metropolitan district charges to be adjusted for the current year to date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. The Substitute Trustees reserve the right to reject any and all bids, withdraw the property from sale, postpone and advertise the property for sale at a later date. Neither the Substitute Trustees nor any other party guarantees or covenants to deliver or to in any way obtain possession of the premises for any purchaser. In the event the property is occupied by tenants, the Substitute Trustees assume no responsibility for security deposits or other monies paid by the tenants to anyone. Cost of all documentary stamps and transfer taxes shall be borne by the purchaser. If the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey good and marketable title, the purchaser's sole remedy in law or equity shall be limited to the refund of the deposit to the purchaser. Upon refund of the deposit, this sale shall be void and of no effect, and the purchaser shall have no further claim against the Substitute Trustees or the noteholder. The purchaser at the foreclosure sale shall assume the risk of loss for the property immediately after the sale. The property is sold in "AS IS" condition without express or implied warranty or representation including, but not limited to description, fitness, use for a particular purpose, construction, environmental condition, zoning, habitability, merchantability, and/or compliance with building codes or other laws. The Substitute Trustees, their attorneys, and/or the noteholder shall not be liable individually or otherwise for any matters relating to this sale or the property.

BALLOT QUESTIONS AND SUMMARIES

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
ANNAPOLIS, MARYLAND

PROCLAMATION OF THE GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND DIRECTING THE PUBLICATION OF BALLOT TITLES AND AMENDMENT SUMMARIES OF BILLS PROPOSING AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND

WHEREAS, at its regular session of 1998, the General Assembly enacted Chapters 322 and 323, proposing amendments to the State Constitution; and

WHEREAS, it is the duty of the Governor, under Section 1 of Article XIV of the State Constitution and Section 23–9(a) of Article 33 of the Annotated Code of Maryland to order the publication of the ballot titles and amendment summaries of any bills proposing amendments to the Constitution of Maryland; and

WHEREAS, the publication of the ballot titles and summaries must take place for two weeks immediately preceding the General Election of November 3, 1998; and

WHEREAS, there will be presented on the ballot at said election the following proposed amendments to the Constitution for adoption or rejection by the voters:

CHAPTER 322
(House Bill 192)

QUESTION NUMBER 1

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Civil Jury Amount

Provides that the right to a jury trial in civil proceedings preserved by Article 23 of the Declaration of Rights applies only when the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000.

(Amending the Declaration of Rights, Article 23)

This constitutional amendment will increase the minimum amount in controversy that must be claimed in order to entitle a party in a civil case to a trial by jury. "Amount in controversy" generally means the amount of monetary damages claimed in a civil case.

Currently, Article 23 of the Declaration of Rights guarantees a jury trial in a civil proceeding where the right to a jury trial is preserved and where the amount in controversy exceeds $5,000. This proposal amends Article 23 to guarantee the right to a jury trial where the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000.

CHAPTER 323
(House Bill 229)

QUESTION NUMBER 2

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Retired Judges – Assignment

Authorizes retired judges of the Circuit Court of Harford County and the Circuit Court of Montgomery County to be assigned, subject to approval by the Court of Appeals, to do an act that a judge of the Orphans' Court of Harford County or the Orphans' Court of Montgomery County may perform.

(Amending the Constitution of Maryland, Article IV, Sections 3A and 18(b))

This constitutional amendment will allow the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, upon approval of a majority of the Court of Appeals, to assign a retired judge of the Circuit Court for Montgomery County or the Circuit Court for Harford County, that sits as the Orphans' Court for Montgomery County or the Orphans' Court for Harford County, respectively, to do an act that a judge of the Orphans' Court for Montgomery County or the Orphans' Court for Harford County, respectively, is authorized to perform.

The Orphans' Court has jurisdiction over estates of deceased persons and certain guardianships of minors. In Baltimore City and each county, except Harford and Montgomery, the Orphans' Court consists of three elected judges, who need not be lawyers. In Harford and Montgomery Counties, the circuit court judges sit alternately and in rotation as the Orphans' Court for the county.

Under current constitutional and statutory provisions, the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, upon approval of a majority of the judges of the Court of Appeals, may assign any former judge, except a former judge of the Orphans' Court, to sit temporarily in any court of this State, except an Orphans' Court. When a retired judge is assigned to sit in the Circuit Court for Montgomery County or the Circuit Court for Harford County, Orphans' Court matters cannot be included in the assignment. The inability to include these matters can cause delays in the settlement of decedents' estates in those counties.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, PARRIS N. GLENDENING, GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND, by virtue of the power and authority conferred upon me by the Constitution and Election Laws of Maryland, do, by this, my proclamation, ORDER that the ballot titles and amendment summaries of the proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be published in at least two newspapers in each county where so many may be published, and where not more than one may be published, then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in Baltimore City, once a week for two weeks immediately preceding the General Election to be held on November 3, 1998, at which election the proposed amendments shall be submitted, in the form prescribed by the General Assembly to the qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection.

GIVEN Under my Hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, at the City of Annapolis, this 17th day of August in the Year of Our Lord, One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Ninety–Eight.

Parris N. Glendening

JOB DESCRIPTION
JOB TITLE: Equipment Maintenance Foreman, Garrett County Government, Department of Solid Waste and Recycling
GENERAL DEFINITION OF WORK: As a working foreman, this is a first line supervisory position with the Solid Waste Department. Under the general supervision of the Manager of Landfill Operations, an employee in this class manages employees in the maintenance and repair of equipment used at the Garrett County Landfill and refuse collection sites.
ESSENTIAL TASKS: Supervise workers by scheduling their assignments, enforcing work and safety rules, and gives on-the-job instructions to subordinates to improve work methods. Implement plans for maintenance of landfill and refuse collection site equipment. Diagnose problems with equipment and perform necessary repairs whenever possible. Update equipment usage maintenance files on a daily basis. Determine when maintenance must be performed on each piece of equipment and assign tasks to appropriate personnel. Analyze the method and manner in which repair and maintenance work is performed and make corrections or changes in assignments as conditions warrant. Provide for stocking and inventory of necessary parts and tools. Operate all equipment as necessary to accomplish daily job tasks. Instruct co-workers in the proper maintenance of assigned equipment. Keep necessary repair and maintenance records as required. Perform other duties as assigned to provide for efficient operation.
KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS, AND ABILITIES: Ability to read and interpret repair and maintenance manuals. Ability to communicate instructions to complete assignment or task. Ability to supervise and train personnel in job-related functions, to communicate effectively both verbally and in writing, and to effectively motivate others. Ability to diagnose problems with equipment and provide for repairs in cost effective and timely manner. Ability to operate all heavy equipment as necessary to provide for efficient operations. Ability to keep complete and accurate records on repair and maintenance of equipment.
EDUCATION AND EXPERIENCE: Applicant must have satisfactorily completed high school education. Minimum five (5) years' experience in heavy equipment repair, including work on diesel and gasoline engines, transmissions, differentials, brakes, and hydraulic systems. Certification of application in any of these areas is highly desired. Minimum three (3) years' experience in the operation of heavy equipment such as dozers, loaders, graders, and compactors. Experience in light to heavy welding procedures.
SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS: Possession of a valid Maryland Class B (Commercial) driver's license.

Project With Sheep to Promote Economic Development

Family farming is in a state of crisis in America! You may have heard that or know it first hand, even before you saw the recent documentary "The Farmer's Wife" on PBS or announcements of the Farm Aid Concert in October.

Faculty members at West Virginia's land-grant university are doing something about it. One of West Virginia's greatest agricultural assets is pasture, best utilized by ruminant livestock. West Virginia University (WVU) has been a long-time leader in beef cattle performance testing and in studies of forage utilization. In the 1970s, WVU's Allegheny Highlands Project, conducted in nine counties, showed that application of a package of new technology could enhance productivity and profit from beef cattle and sheep operations. Now WVU is beginning a new project to utilize a systems-based approach to revitalize and expand the sheep industry in the state.

"WVU faculty see opportunities to apply what we have learned, especially in the areas of reproductive technology, genetics, and forage management," said Dr. Paul Lewis, professor of Animal Science. "West Virginia is ideally located to meet the now increasing demand for lamb from eastern urban centers, both geographically and in relation to climate and ability to produce an abundance of high quality forage," noted Dr. Ed Rayburn, Extension agronomist.

"We initially proposed this idea to the Federal 'Fund for Rural America' in 1996," Lewis noted. "But most of those funds were diverted to flood relief in the upper Midwest. Then Delegate Harold Michael (D-Hardy) suggested the West Virginia Legislature as an alternate source of funding." Legislative support was approved in this year's budget. The project will be led by Lewis, Rayburn, and other WVU faculty in animal and plant sciences, agricultural economics, and extension.

"The decline of sheep production is an example of the crisis in family farming," said Dr. Keith Inskeep, professor of animal science. "In the late 1800s and the first half of this century, a major portion of the U.S. sheep industry was centered in the Appalachian region. The Delaine Merino was developed in the tri-state area of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Ohio. There were nearly 50 million head of sheep in the U.S. and about a million of those were in West Virginia in 1942."

In 1954, Congress declared wool to be a strategic commodity and decreed that tariffs on imported wool be used to provide an incentive payment for wool production. But it was not enough. Demand for wool decreased, costs of land, labor, and fencing increased, and predation became an increasingly negative factor for the industry. Numbers of breeding ewes in West Virginia have declined continuously since 1942, in parallel with the national decline, except for a period in the 1970s, when WVU worked with farmers to increase sheep production in the Allegheny Highlands Project. Today, there are only an estimated 5,850,000 breeding sheep and lambs in the U.S., and only 40,000 of those are in West Virginia.

The national lamb crop averaged only 103 lambs per 100 ewes in 1996, but the average was 130 lambs per 100 ewes in West Virginia and Virginia. "Higher litter size is a positive factor we can build upon," said Lewis. "The decline in total supply of lamb, both domestic and imported, recently has produced high prices," noted Dr. Dennis Smith, professor of agricultural economics and marketing.

"The decline in sheep numbers in West Virginia has been accelerated by increasing losses to predators and a sense of futility on the part of producers relative to their ability to limit losses to predators," said Tom McConnell, WVU Extension Farm Management specialist. In West Virginia, 34 percent of all losses of sheep and lambs in 1994 were attributed to predators, 54 percent of those by dogs, and 41 percent by coyotes. By 1995-1996, the major predator in West Virginia was the coyote, according to a survey of shepherds in 23 counties. That survey was completed in June 1996, by McConnell and Bill Bonwell of the USDA Animal Damage Control Program (ADC), both members of the team for the new project. Coyotes accounted for 83 percent of all losses of lambs and 30 percent of all losses of ewes to predators. Losses totaled 4,048 lambs and 809 ewes and were concentrated in the months of April through June, when lambs were on pasture with their mothers.

Through an initiative of the West Virginia Legislature, a predator control program has been funded through the WV Department of Agriculture, and predation is being reduced. During a 6-month period in 1996, predator management services provided by ADC, including use of guard animals, snares, and M-44 cyanide devices, apparently reduced coyote predation by 45% compared to the previous year, on 40 farms in three counties.

The long-term goal of the new project is to improve the competitive position and income of independent, small livestock producers, and enhance economics of rural communities. To start this process, university faculty and collaborators in the U.S. and West Virginia departments of agriculture will work with farmers to change lambing dates of a portion of the flocks and to improve production, management, and marketing practices in a six-county area.

The system will be tested in ewe flocks on at least 20 cooperating farms in Grant, Hardy, Pendleton, Pocahontas, Preston, and Randolph counties. Data will be collected simultaneously on 20 control flocks to compare systems. As the project progresses, new cooperators and flocks will be added. The project will be headquartered in Pendleton County, which, said county Extension agent David Seymour, "is the center of current sheep production in West Virginia."

Lewis said, "The specific objectives of this project are: 1) to shift lambing dates from March and April to November and December, with a goal of marketing lambs before Easter and reducing losses to parasites and predators; 2) to change production of pasture and harvested feed, reproductive management, breeding and selection, flock health programs, predator control measures, and marketing to maximize efficiency and profitability from the shift in lambing date; 3) to increase utilization of sheep as an enterprise, with attendant increases in: a) quality and productivity of pastures, b) diversity and amount of farm income, and c) contribution of small, independent livestock producers to the rural community; and 4) to evaluate the economic effects of fall lambing compared to the conventional system of spring lambing."

"Producers are anxious for this project," said Bill Shockey, county Extension agent in Preston County. "One of our part-time farmers, Jeff Harsh, called me early in the spring this year for advice on breeding his ewes in May. With help from WVU reproductive physiologists, 73% of his ewes will deliver lambs in October. Now we have to help him with the rest of the system."

"We are excited about the long-term prospects for increasing income to farmers in this project," added Delegate Michael. "This initiative has the potential to contribute as much to our economy as a new industry hiring people to work off the farm."

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

The need is great this year. In Garrett County, Maryland, needy children will go cold this winter without your help.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is neighbors helping neighbors. The Republican is asking readers to donate to the fund, and the proceeds will be used to buy new winter clothing for needy area children. There are no administrative fees; all the money donated is used to buy warm winter clothing.

How are needy children being identified?

Teachers and counselors in the county school system are helping to identify children who need a boost. The staff at the Department of Social Services is helping, too. In the next few months, the families will be contacted and put on the waiting list for shopping trips.

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

The staff at The Republican will be recruiting volunteers to serve as "shoppers" who will accompany selected children and their parents on shopping trips. The kids will be able to select their own coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, boots, or any other needed winter items. The volunteer search has just started, and any person or civic group interested in helping out is welcome to contact Mary McEwen at the newspaper, 301-334-3963.

How can I help?

Either sign up as a volunteer, or complete the coupon below and send it with a donation to the address on the coupon. (All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.) All donations are tax deductible. Please make your donations before December 15, 1998.

Get Your Car Ready For Winter Weather

You may be interested in some cold hard facts about caring for your car in cooler temperatures. One of America's most trusted care car authorities, Lucille Treganowan - who hosts a national television show, oversees two auto mechanic shops and recently published a book on car repair - offers practical tips to help you cruise through the cool weather months:

Step 1: Give Your Car the Once-Over

Even if you've got two left hands when it comes to your car, you can still provide the first line of defense in winterizing: information. Inspect your car for winter well being by examining the basics and if anything's amiss, tell your mechanic.

·Check brake lights, turn signals, the trunk light -- right down to the glove box light.

·Make sure you've got enough antifreeze in your cooling system. Letting it get too low can be a costly mistake.

·Test the horn (but not at midnight).

·Check the trunk for moisture or rust, which can indicate a water leak.

·Examine the car for nicks and chips in the paint.

·Check shocks and struts by pushing down on the hood as hard as you can. If the car bounces like a yoyo, you may have trouble.

·Take a Lincoln-head penny and insert it Lincoln-head first in your tire tread at the most worn part of the tire. If you see the top of Lincoln's head, you may need new tires.

·Look under the car for signs of mud or salt buildup and inspect the garage floor for signs of leaks.

Step 2: Have an Auto Checkup

·Check your vehicle manufacturer's recommendations to see if a different weight oil is required for winter. You should change your car's oil every 3,000 miles or three months, whichever comes first. Shops such as Jiffy Lube can change your car's oil quickly. The service centers all feature Pennzoil brand motor oil.

·Check condition of hoses and belts. Blowing a hose or breaking a belt is bad anytime. In winter, it can be disastrous.

·Inspect, and if needed, fill window washer fluid, radiator fluid, transmission fluid, brake fluid, differential fluid and power steering fluid.

·Change air and oil filters and wiper blades, if necessary.

·Check battery terminals. If you see signs of corrosion (whitish powder), clean them or have them cleaned.

·Check tire pressure.

·Spray graphite lubricant in locks.

·Wash and wax your car to protect it during cold months.

Step 3: Better Safe than Sorry

The best-laid plans don't always yield the best results. Prepare a winter safety kit to keep in your car at all times. An old backpack or duffle bag is a great way to store these supplies so they don't clutter up your trunk or back seat. Be sure to include:

·A small throw rug or towel and an old shower curtain. You can use them when kneeling next to your car or getting under it.

·A set of battery cables

·A large flashlight with extra batteries

·Work gloves

·Tools, including a screwdriver, pliers, rubber hammer, wrench and short-handled shovel

·A wheel chock

·An old scarf and belt for emergency hose repairs

·A roll of mechanic's wire

·A fluorescent safety vest and emergency flares

·A bag of kitty litter

·A cigarette lighter

·A plastic jug of water and a funnel

·A jug of drinking water

·A portable radio with spare batteries

·Basic first-aid supplies

·Non-perishable food and blankets

Step 4: Words to Live By

And finally, a few tips to get you through a rough winter:

·If your door locks have frozen, hold your key carefully over an open flame to heat it. Insert into the frozen lock as needed. Or, many times only one side of the car will be frozen; try going through the passenger side.

·Remember that temperatures of 25 to 30 degrees can often be the most hazardous for driving, as you only get half as much traction on wet snow than you'd get on solidly frozen ground.

·As every driver's education teacher tells you, steer INTO a skid.

·Don't lower the air pressure in your tires thinking you'll get more traction. All you'll get is a too-flat tire.

·If you get stuck in the snow, throw kitty litter, old newspapers or dirt behind the back wheels for additional traction.

·On a cold, windy night, if your car is parked outside, position the front of the vehicle away from the wind.

·Always, always keep your gas tank at least half full.

·In all, remember that winter driving requires extra attention, so brake gently, accelerate gently and steer gently.

Treganowan, owner of two shops called "Transmissions by Lucille," is also the spokeswoman for Jiffy Lube International. The company has sent her all over America to present car care advice to the public.

Jiffy Lube, which began in 1979, now has 1,565 centers in 48 states. For other interesting information about car care, visit the company's Web site at www.jiffylube.com.

Change Clocks, Change Antifreeze

Maybe it's no surprise that busy Americans are neglecting the annual antifreeze/coolant change, but between 1983 and 1997, the number of vehicles getting an antifreeze flush and fill every year to every four years dropped 19 percent.* The result is that cooling system failure is the #1 cause of engine-related breakdowns. Fortunately, Jiffy Lube (R) offers an easy way to remember this essential maintenance.

When you change your clocks, change your antifreeze.

Jiffy Lube spokesperson Lucille Treganowan, host of a national television show and author of a best-selling book on auto repair, suggests a great way to remember to check and change your coolant. "Most people change antifreeze in the fall. A good way to remember is to check and change your antifreeze when you change your clocks back from Daylight Savings Time. This year, that's Saturday, October 25. Jiffy Lube recommends that all drivers get into this important maintenance habit."

For several reasons why this is a valuable safety measure, read on.

Why Change Antifreeze/-Coolant?

The antifreeze/coolant experts at Jiffy Lube have a warning for those neglecting their cooling systems. "Most people have some idea that antifreeze/coolant helps prevent the radiator and cooling system from freezing up or boiling over," says Treganowan. "Few people understand that coolant also contains special chemical additives to prevent serious damage from rust and corrosion. However, over time, the additives wear out. This depleted coolant becomes acidic and can actually corrode the metals in the cooling system. And here's where your trouble often starts."

Change your coolant to avoid trouble like:

Overheating - Old, depleted coolant can't do its job of helping your engine shed heat -- and heat is enemy #1. That's why you have a cooling system in the first place.

Corrosion - More cooling system parts are now made with aluminum. In fact, the tubes in your radiator are only the thickness of a soda can top. Since aluminum is very vulnerable to corrosion, old, depleted coolant can allow pin holes to form in the tubes and lead to leakage an overheating.

Clogging - When aluminum corrodes, the by-products of corrosion deposit in the radiator. The deposits clog the radiator and actually act like insulators so the system can't cool as well. As the cooling system gets hotter, even more deposits form. Finally, the whole engine overheats.

Leaks - As heat builds in a neglected cooling system, the coolant starts to boil more vigorously and can actually blast holes in your water pump or promote seal failure. The result is loss of coolant and ultimately vehicle breakdown.

Neglect is Expensive. Maintenance is easy.

Repairs for water pumps, radiators and other cooling system parts can be costly. The inconvenience of a breakdown is even worse. "Jiffy Lube recognizes that not everyone has time or skill to change antifreeze themselves," continues Treganowan. "Jiffy Lube Prestone Express makes it easy and fast, and we use Prestone (R) antifreeze/-coolant to take care of critical corrosion and heat transfer problems. The change is easy. Now we've made it easy to remember: When you turn your clocks back, it's time to change your antifreeze. Stop in for this vital service."

Car Accidents Happen — Tips For Handling Them

Last February, Gretchen Kraft's commute started off like every other day. Then, while driving to work in rush hour traffic, the 28-year-old Kansas City native rear-ended the car in front of her.

"I was so hysterical, I didn't know what to do," Kraft said. "It's a good thing the other person involved in the accident remained calm and handled the situation."

Is she alone in not knowing what to do after an accident? Surprisingly, the answer is no.

"A driver's reaction immediately after a crash is vital to ensuring the safety of all individuals involved, and to getting your car back on the road in the same condition it was before the accident," said Lirel Holt, founder of CARSTAR, the nation's largest provider of collision repair services.

The importance of knowing what to do in an accident is alarmingly clear. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates 6.7 million police-reported traffic crashes occurred last year in the United States. Of those crashes, more than half (3.45 million) involved injuries.

CARSTAR offers these important safety tips for what to do in case of an accident:

- Remain calm. Panicking will only make matters worse. Take a few deep breaths and relax.
- Assess the situation: Are there any injuries? If so, medical attention should be provided by professionals only. How extensive is the damage? Move the cars only if necessary, and then to the side of the road or to a nearby parking lot.
- Call the police: give all pertinent information (name, location of the crash, make of vehicles involved) to the dispatcher.
- Exchange information with the other person(s) involved in the crash. This includes name, address, license numbers and insurance information.
- Get the names, addresses and even license numbers of any witnesses.
- Do not admit fault in an accident. The police will issue a ticket if blame is warranted.
- Contact a reputable collision repair specialist to have the car towed to a facility and start the insurance process.
- Unfortunately, for many drivers the stress does not end when the accident is cleared. Dealing with the right collision repair specialist is important to getting the car back on the road. But what does one look for when considering collision repair?
- "If you've been in a car crash, you want the repair process to be a hassle-free experience that delivers your car back to you on time and in great condition," Holt said.

Consumers should seek out collision repair specialists that are certified. Two typical certifications are ASE, or Automotive Service Excellence, and I-CAR, the Inter-Industry Conference on Collision Repair, which provides the latest technical training in collision repair.

Some collision repair specialists also offer additional services like claims handling assistance, towing or free pick-up and delivery. Additionally, consumers should check if the facility guarantees its repair work.

In the end, the goal is to get the car on the road again and to get back into the daily routine. Hopefully, a little wiser.

And as for Kraft?

"If I were in an accident today, I believe I would handle it better," she said. "It's unfortunate that I had to learn the hard way."

For more information about what to do in an accident, visit CARSTAR's website at www.carstar.com.

CARSTAR Automotive, Inc., based in Overland Park, Kan., is the nation's largest provider of quality collision repair services with more than 250 locations in the United States and Canada. To locate a dealer near you, call toll-free (800) CAR-STAR (227-7827).

Would you know what to do if you were involved in an auto collision? Staying calm is the first order of business, according to Lirel Holt, founder of CAR-STAR, the nation's largest provider of collision repair services.

Breakdowns Often Result Of Poor Maintenance

A large number of motorists have experienced mechanical or operational breakdowns in the last year, according to a survey recently released by AAA. The survey shows many of these breakdowns could have been prevented if drivers had properly maintained their vehicles.

At least 28 percent of 1,500 motorists surveyed said they had at least one problem in the last year that disabled their vehicle. The survey also found that while 74 percent of vehicle owners said they were familiar or very familiar with the manufacturer's recommended maintenance schedule, only about half of all respondents regularly followed those recommendations.

Those who said they had at least one breakdown in the last 12 months specified the following problem areas:

- Tires — 28 percent of drivers said they had a flat tire, nine percent in the month preceding the July survey.
- Battery — 22 percent reported needing a jump start, six percent in the month preceding the survey.
- Tows — 13 percent revealed that they needed their vehicle towed, 3 percent in the month preceding the survey.

"These findings underscore the importance of following the service schedule in the owner's manual, especially during severe winter weather when a breakdown can be more than just an annoyance," said Elizabeth Valuet, a public affairs specialist for AAA Mid-Atlantic, Maryland Division.

"October is Car Care Month, and motorists who usually skimp on routine maintenance should take this opportunity to get their vehicle checked out to help prevent reliability problems before cold weather arrives. An older battery that barely starts the engine now is almost sure to fail when the temperature dips near zero or below," Valuet added.

The survey, which was conducted for AAA by Westgate Research in St. Louis, Mo., showed that motorists did not know as much about their vehicle's maintenance and operation as they thought.

While 65 percent of respondents said they should have their vehicle's tires rotated every 10,000 miles or less, 67 percent spent nothing on tire rotation in the last year. In addition, 38 percent did not know their vehicle's correct tire pressure. "AAA recommends as a general rule rotating tires every 6,000 to 7,500 miles and using this time to carefully inspect tires to determine how much longer they should last," Valuet said.

More than 43 percent of drivers did not know the recommended gasoline octane level for their cars, and 38 percent most often bought mid-grade or premium gasoline even though only 10 to 15 percent of all vehicles require high-octane fuel.

In addition, 40 percent of motorists felt that to keep a car's warranty in force, maintenance service had to be performed at a new car dealership, and 49 percent said only vehicle manufacturer parts could be used as replacement parts.

"Routine maintenance required by warranty can be performed by a dealer, an independent service shop, or the owner as long as the owner documents the service with appropriate receipts and service records," Valuet explained.

To help motorists better understand how to properly maintain their vehicles, AAA has prepared a pamphlet — "It's Time for a Reality Check" — that is available free at your local AAA branch office.

Serving more than 2.4 million members, AAA Mid-Atlantic provides automotive, insurance, travel and financial services throughout the states of Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, and in Atlantic Cape May counties in New Jersey, the District of Columbia, and southeastern Pennsylvania.

Safety Tips Offered For Parents Of Teenage Drivers

As a parent, it's the day you've both anticipated and dreaded -- your child's sixteenth birthday. Armed with a driver's license, your child is about to experience a new found freedom that can free you up as well, but your excitement is tainted by the knowledge that, statistically, teenage drivers are at a greater risk for motor vehicle crashes.

Indeed, the statistics are alarming. Every year, more than 5,000 teenagers of driving age die in crashes; slightly more than half are drivers. Two-thirds of teen passenger deaths occur in vehicles driven by other teens. According to the National Safety Council, drivers between 16 and 17 are three times more likely to be killed in a traffic crash than people between the ages of 25 and 64.

You can improve your child's odds of staying safe on the road with these tips:

• Make sure your child has plenty of supervised practice before he/she drives solo. Many states issue driving permits that require a minimum of six months of supervised driving before a teen can obtain a driver's license.

• Seat belt use should be mandatory. Actually, the earlier you instill this habit in your children, the better. As soon as they are old enough to ride without a car seat, your children should learn to buckle up every time they ride in a vehicle.

• Whenever possible, have your children drive cars equipped with air bags and anti-lock brakes. Generally, larger cars are also safer than compacts.

• Don't hesitate to enforce strict driving rules that address issues such as speeding and drinking and driving.

Keeping Insurance Costs Down

There's no escaping an increase in car insurance costs when your teenager takes the wheel, but you can limit the increase by adhering to the following:

• Add your teen to your own policy. Purchasing a separate policy for him/her will cost you more.

• Have your teen drive the least expensive car you own, and, if possible, designate him/her as an occasional driver.

• Ask your insurance agent about premium discounts for teens who have completed a driver's education course and/or who earn good grades.

• If your child attends college more than 100 miles from your home, you may be able to remove him/her from your policy.

More Light Trucks And SUVs Signal Change In Winter Driving Techniques

A record number of drivers will be confronting this winter's challenging driving conditions behind the steering wheel of a light truck, according to AAA Mid-Atlantic, since one in three vehicles on the road today is a light truck.

"A revolution has been taking place on Maryland's highways, with more and more motorists driving sport utility vehicles, minivans, and pickups," said Elizabeth Valuet, a public affairs specialist for AAA Mid-Atlantic, Maryland Division. Sport utility vehicles, minivans, and pickups now account for more than half of all new vehicles.

Motorists driving a light truck for the first time this winter need to be mindful that these vehicles have different handling characteristics from cars.

A key advantage of all-wheel-drive is enhanced winter weather mobility, but driving a light truck requires sticking to the same common-sense safety rules as driving a car.

"Above all, drivers need to guard against all-wheel drive overconfidence," said Valuet. "It's easy to succumb to a 'road warrior' mentality, in which a four-wheel drive vehicle is viewed as excusing the driver from the cautions other drivers must abide by.

"But while an SUV's traction and all-wheel drive gets you on your way easier, it does not provide much advantage in stopping. The tell-tale sign of all-wheel drive overconfidence is driving faster than others, particularly when bad weather slows traffic.

"But traveling at radically higher speeds is a proven recipe for crashes, particularly when roads are icy or wet," commented Valuet.

AAA Mid-Atlantic advises motorists that car and light truck brakes function basically the same, but stopping distance can vary for a variety of reasons. Inclement conditions, such as wet or icy pavement and reduced visibility, require drivers of all vehicles to maintain longer following distances.

In addition, the center of gravity for most light trucks is higher than in most cars, making sudden, jerky steering more likely to cause loss of control — especially in slick driving conditions.

Many new cars are front-wheel drive, but most light trucks are rear-wheel drive (when four-wheel drive is not available or engaged) and more prone to skidding be-ause they have less weight over the drive wheels.

During the 1990s, light truck sales increased more than 50 percent, and sport utility vehicle sales has grown from 7 percent of the market in 1990 to 16 percent in 1997, AAA Mid-Atlantic pointed out.

Here are some safe winter driving tips for motorists operating light trucks:

• Know whether your vehicle is equipped with ABS brakes, and learn how to use your brakes properly, especially in slippery driving conditions.

• When the first snow falls, practice driving in an empty parking lot or other open space to get used to the brakes, steering, and overall handling.

• Review your owner's manual regarding handling characteristics and four-wheel drive operation and performance.

• Check the tire tread and make sure air pressure meets recommended PSI.

• Remove snow and ice off your vehicle, particularly your windows and front and back lights, before driving.

• Drive slower during winter storms when visibility is reduced.

• Guard against all-wheel drive overconfidence.

How To Select A Mechanic

Whether your car is brand new or a long-time companion, at some point repair and servicing is required. Unfortunately, selecting a mechanic can be a stressful experience for many motorists. Will he do quality work? Will I be overcharged? How will I know if I'm getting what I've paid for?

The following tips can ease the anxiety of selecting a good mechanic:

·Ask your friends and family members for recommendations. If they've had a good experience with a mechanic, chances are you will too.

·Start out with simple servicing. It's best to have an established relationship with a mechanic before you need a major repair job.

·Check for certification and/or approval ratings from industry associations such as the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence and AAA.

·Don't be afraid to ask questions. A good mechanic will take the time to fully explain any procedures, using layman's terms that you can understand. If he doesn't, it's time to drive elsewhere.

·Confirm that any servicing and repair estimates will be presented in writing and that repairs will not be made without your approval.

·When work is completed, you should be given a detailed printout of the procedures, parts, and labor costs.

·Final costs should come within close range of the estimate. You may want to ask a mechanic if he will guarantee that charges will not exceed the estimate by a specified percentage.

·Be an informed consumer. Read your owner's manual and be familiar with the type of servicing your vehicle requires.

Don't Let Your Car Fall Prey To Theft

As the most mobile society in the world, Americans have paid the price in auto theft. A vehicle is stolen every 20 seconds in this country, at a cost of $8 billion per year. Virtually everyone is susceptible, as the age of your car and its location appear to have little bearing on who will be victimized. In fact, the 10 most stolen vehicles in the country are at least four years old and are snatched from personal driveways, neighborhood streets and shopping mall and city parking lots.

But you can lower your risk of losing your car -- or at least ease the sting -- if you put the following advice into practice:

Before You Leave Home

Make sure you have a record of all pertinent information regarding your vehicle stored safely at home, that includes the make, model, year, a copy of the registration, Vehicle Identification Number (VIN), license plate number, insurance company and policy number. Take a picture of your car periodically, including any specially installed equipment; this will help you to prove current condition/worth in the event that it is stolen. Also save the receipts for all major work done on the car.

The easier your car and its parts are to identify, the better. Have the VIN etched on windows and door panels, radios and other expensive accessories. Drop your business card under floor mats and down through window slots so they rest hidden between the door panels. This makes it easier to identify the car as yours should the police recover it.

Invest in an anti-theft device. They run the gamut in price, so find one that fits your budget. Remember, the theory here is that something is better than nothing. You can choose among alarms, steering wheel and ignition locks, vehicle tracking systems, keyless entries, locking gas caps and fuel "kill" switches.

When Parking

It should go without saying, but never leave a running vehicle unattended. Always lock your car, and take your keys with you -- no matter how quickly you'll return! Close the windows completely (including the sunroof), engage the emergency break and turn your wheels sharply to the curb. This will make it harder for potential thieves to tow your car.

Park in well-lit areas where vehicle and foot traffic will deter theft, and don't leave a key hidden on the vehicle. Carry any spares in your purse or wallet. Likewise, don't leave your registration and/or title in the glove box as this makes it easier for a thief to sell your car.

Place any valuables -- packages, cell phones, radios, purses, briefcases, laptop computers -- out of sight (locked in the trunk is best) or take them with you.

If you're leaving your car for an extended period of time, remove the rotor from the distributor and lock it in the trunk.

If You Should Become an Unfortunate Victim

Contact the police immediately, offering information about the location, the time you left your vehicle and when you returned, and any identifying marks on the car, such as VIN etching on the windows, doors and accessories. Have your vehicle registration handy, as well as the make, model, year, color and license plate number of the car.

Likewise, contact your insurance agent immediately.

Vehicle Theft Prevention Week Proclaimed By Gov. Glendening

Noting a continuing decline in vehicle thefts and carjackings, Governor Parris N. Glendening has designated this week, October 18-24, as Maryland Vehicle Theft Prevention Week, in an effort to remind citizens of simple steps they can take to avoid becoming a victim of these crimes.

Motor vehicle theft in Maryland declined 14 percent during the first three months of this year and declined 15 percent in 1997. A recent State Police Uniform Crime Reporting Section report showed carjackings in Maryland declined 26 percent in 1997.

"Reducing vehicle thefts and carjackings has been part of our overall effort to reduce crime in Maryland," Governor Glendening said. "Through cooperative partnerships between our police and citizens, significant steps have been taken to reduce the opportunity for these crimes and apprehend the criminals who are responsible."

The most important vehicle theft prevention steps are quite simple. By simply locking a vehicle and taking the keys, the chance of theft is greatly reduced. Statistics show more than 60 percent of stolen vehicles were left unlocked and more than 25 percent had the keys in them when stolen.

With funding from the Vehicle Theft Prevention Council, the Maryland Department of Transportation has erected 1,000 signs at state parking facilities to remind motorists to prevent auto theft by locking their vehicles and taking the keys. Use of anti-theft devices is also encouraged and adds an extra layer of protection.

One of the prevention programs under way is "Watch Your Car," announced by Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend earlier this year. Funded by Maryland's Vehicle Theft Prevention Council, through a grant from the U.S. Department of Justice, the statewide Watch Your Car program enables motorists who do not normally drive between 1 a.m. and 5 a.m. to register their vehicles with the Maryland State Police or participating local departments and affix identifying decals to their windshields. By doing so, vehicle owners give the police permission to stop their vehicles between the hours of 1 a.m. and 5 a.m. to ver-

Winter Driving Can Be Tricky

If you live in the northern two-thirds of the country, it's difficult to avoid the tricky driving conditions that arrive with winter. We may not be able to control Mother Nature, but motorists can tame the treacherous roadways a bit by exercising caution and common sense.

Before you pull into traffic, check the following:

• Windshield wipers and fluid. Be sure the wipers are not frozen to the windshield and wipe them clean with a paper towel or soft cloth. Keep your washer fluid filled and carry a reserve supply with you.

• Headlights, brake lights and taillights. Make sure they are working, and that they are not covered with snow or salty grime. When conditions are slippery, you don't want to risk other drivers overlooking your presence.

• Side and Rearview Mirrors. Don't forget to brush snow and ice off your side mirrors as you clean off your car. Likewise, you'll want to be sure that the rear window remains clear, this often means making sure the roof is free of snow as well.

• Your Survival Kit. Your vehicle should be equipped with warm clothes, a blanket, tire chains, a small shovel, a first aid kit, flashlight, unused cat litter (to place under your wheels for traction should you get stuck), and jumper cables -- until spring arrives.

While you are driving in stormy conditions:

• Keep your low beam headlights on, even during the day.

• Do everything more slowly - turning, stopping, accelerating.

• Place a greater distance between your car and the one in front of you. Slippery conditions can triple the distance it takes to come to a complete stop.

• Drive defensively. Keep your eyes open, and anticipate what other drivers may do.

• If your car begins to fishtail, turn in the direction of the skid and keep your foot off the brake. (If the rear of your car veers to the right, turn your steering wheel in the same direction.)

• When braking on a slippery surface, allow plenty of time and pump the brakes gently to avoid skidding. Anti-lock brakes provide the lone exception to this rule. If you have ABS, press on the brake pedal firmly and hold. Expect noise and vibration; this means the ABS is working. Pumping and extreme steering may cause you to lose control.

• Keep in mind that bridges and overpasses freeze more quickly than roadways. Use extra caution while driving on them, and beware of "black ice" when the road appears dry but is darker than usual and very slick.

• Before maneuvering through a turn, brake while the car is still traveling straight. Then, take your foot off the brake as you turn, but don't accelerate until you begin to straighten the steering wheel again.

If you get stuck:

• Rock your car gently back and forth to gain momentum that may free you.

• Do not spin your wheels in one place. This only digs you in deeper.

• Make use of the kitty litter in your survival kit. Toss some under the wheels for traction. Sand, salt, cardboard and/or grocery bags can also be used.

• Shovel snow away from your tires.

Tire Maintenance Vital To Maximize Wear, Safety

A flat tire is inconvenient anytime of the year but it can be a serious problem in the dead of winter, according to AAA Mid-Atlantic.

"Many drivers are not aware that as the temperature drops, tire air pressure drops with it. This explains many of the tire problems that occur during severe winter weather," said Elizabeth Valuet, a public affairs specialist for AAA Mid-Atlantic, Maryland Division.

A new AAA poll of motorists showed that 55 percent said they generally checked tire pressure at least monthly, but only 38 percent knew their tires' proper air pressure requirement. The survey also found that 28 percent said they had experienced a flat tire during the previous year.

"While discovering a flat tire on a frigid morning can be a hassle, tire neglect during winter months can also be a major hazard," said Valuet. "Underinflation and tread-worn tires substantially degrade performance, safety, and efficiency."

Severely under-inflated tires provide less grip surface to the road, compromising steering, maneuvering, and braking — all of which are even more essential during winter driving conditions. Tire neglect can also cause blowouts, resulting in fishtailing, which is particularly hazardous on slick roads. Under-inflated tires also can reduce gas mileage.

As with most auto maintenance, a little prevention can go a long way. AAA estimates that one-third of vehicles on the road have underinflated tires.

Here are some easy tips to avoid tire trouble:

• Check your tires' air pressure at least twice a month. Incorporate the procedure into your routine when getting gasoline.

• Make sure you know your tires' proper air pressure, which is typically specified on a placard on the glovebox door, driver's door pillar, or in the owner's manual.

• Check the tread of your tire in relation to its tread-wear indicator with every oil change; accelerate these checks as the tire ify that the person operating the vehicle is the owner or has permission from the owner.

"Car theft is a crime of opportunity," Lt. Governor Townsend said. "If we eliminate the opportunity, we can eliminate the crime. Our law enforcement and public awareness efforts in Maryland have helped us reduce the opportunity and contributed to the reduction of vehicle theft."

The majority of vehicle thefts and carjackings occur in the Baltimore-Washington Metropolitan area. This is the area that had the largest decreases in vehicle thefts and carjackings in 1997. Carjackings decreased by almost 44 percent in Montgomery County, 33 percent in Baltimore City, and almost 20 percent in Prince George's County. In the Washington, D.C., and Baltimore metropolitan areas, vehicle theft decreased by 16.3 percent and 16 percent, respectively.

Although vehicle theft is primarily a crime of opportunity, criminals often favor particular makes and models. The Maryland State Police Criminal Intelligence Division has ranked the 10 most common vehicles stolen. They are, in order: Honda Accord, Ford Mustang, Jeep Cherokee, Dodge Caravan, Dodge Shadow, Ford F-150, Toyota Camry, Ford Escort, Chevrolet Cavalier, and Honda Civic.

Maryland's Vehicle Theft Prevention Council was established in 1994 to fund theft prevention programs and increase public awareness and education. Since the inception of the council's first program in 1995, vehicle theft has declined 20 percent. This represents a reduction of 7,541 stolen vehicles and a savings of about $49 million in economic costs.

The council is funded by penalties collected for lapsed or terminated insurance coverage and inspection fees collected for salvaged vehicle identification number verification. For more information about the Vehicle Theft Prevention Council and its programs, persons may contact W. Ray Presley, executive director, at 301-729-5274.

Imitation Collision Parts Could Damage Your Car's Resale Value!
Before your body shop installs imitation sheet metal on your GM car or light truck, here's a thought: Stop them!
Many imitation body parts cut corners on corrosion protection. They're often made of non-galvanized steel with just a thin coat of primer. What's more, they may require extra drilling and cutting for mounting — further exposing bare metal to rust. And that could damage a car's resale value down the road!

For your vehicle's body work, replace the original with the original and specify genuine GM Collision Parts. GM sheet metal is galvanized on both sides for corrosion protection. It meets GM's strict standards for fit, finish and structural strength. And it's backed by a Limited Lifetime Warranty (see us for details).

Even Your Windshield Should Be Winterized

If winterizing your car begins and ends with snow tires and antifreeze, you may be overlooking a crucial component -- your windshield.

"Before snow, sleet and freezing temperatures threaten the integrity of your car's windshield, examine it carefully for cracks, dings and 'stars'," advises Leo Cyr, director of marketing of NOVUS Windshield Repair. "Even a small ding, if ignored, can become a big problem, requiring a new windshield costing over $1,000," Cyr warns. "But if caught early enough, the problem can be repaired for as little as $50."

With more than 2,600 trained technicians across the United States and around the world, NOVUS offers these tips on how motorists can avoid unnecessary expenses, inconvenience and frustration this winter.

"It's important to know how to identify windshield problems and to recognize that most can be quickly and easily repaired as a safe and inexpensive option to replacement," Cyr says. He points out that freezing temperatures "can cause the smallest of 'stars' in your windshield to burst into long, irreparable cracks." And many car owners are unaware that heaters and defrosters can accelerate the process of cracking by blowing hot air inside a windshield that is frozen outside. Rapid temperature changes adversely affect glass which is already damaged.

At Novus, technicians replace windshields only if absolutely necessary. "Our policy is to repair damage whenever possible," says Cyr. "This not only saves money for our customers, it also satisfies the interests of car insurers."

He explains, "Because our patented process has proven so successful on windshield dings and cracks and is extremely cost effective when compared with replacement costs of $300 to over $1,000, most insurance companies welcome our money-saving strategies. Many even waive the deductible, so the car owner pays nothing."

The really good part, says Cyr, is that repair does not require the windshield to be removed. The factory seal between auto body and windshield is not broken. In the event of an accident, the windshield remains exactly where the factory intended -- firmly in place. That fact alone makes windshield repair the safest alternative for damaged windshields, says Cyr.

"Winter or summer," he reminds the environmentally-conscious, "windshields cannot be recycled and, instead, end up in valuable landfill space. The NOVUS method of repair has resulted in one cubic foot of space saved for every four windshields repaired."

NOVUS has repaired more than 18 million windshields since the Minneapolis, Minn.-based company was founded in 1972. According to Cyr, all work performed by the factory-trained technicians is guaranteed for as long as you own your car.

NOVUS has more than 500 locations in North America. In the U.S., call 1-800-77-NOVUS for immediate connection to the nearest NOVUS location. In Canada, consult your local telephone directory.

Ding Band-Aids

Place a small piece of clear plastic tape (clear packaging tape works well) -- approximately one-half inch by one-half inch in size -- over the impact point on the exterior of the windshield. Do not place tape that will block or obstruct your vision while driving. The tape will not prevent the damage from spreading, but will keep dirt from getting into the cracks while you await repair. Repairing a ding can cost as little as $50, and most insurance companies will cover the cost regardless of your deductible.

Identifying and treating windshield damage early can save motorists money in the long run, according to the experts at NOVUS.

Ding Don'ts

·Don't use your defroster, the rush of hot or cold air could cause the ding to crack.

·Don't wash your vehicle; the water will contaminate the damaged area and could cause a crack to grow.

·Don't touch the ding with your finger or any tool. You could contaminate or cause the damage to spread.

·Don't slam your doors shut. The excess pressure combined with the impact of the door could cause the ding to continue cracking. Leave a window slightly open when shutting doors.

·Don't dig a surface scratch in the glass over the tip of the crack. This seldom prevents a crack from running and only causes additional surface damage on the windshield that can not be repaired.

Keep Dings Cool

Avoid parking in hot, direct sun. Leave the windows slightly open to reduce temperatures inside the vehicle -- hot windshields are weaker and tend to crack easier.

ages.

• Consult the owner's manual for specific tire rotation information, but for longer wear, tires should be rotated every 6,000-7,500 miles. This is also a good time to check the brakes.

"Replacing tires can be expensive, but that painful experience can be delayed with regular tire inspection and rotation," said Valuet. "The popularity of front-wheel drive vehicles, sport utility vehicles, and light trucks makes rotation even more important since these vehicles tend to wear tires unevenly."

House Of Hope Benefit Slated At Wisp Resort

The second annual Autumn Hopefest, benefiting the House of Hope, has been scheduled for Friday, Nov. 6, from 7 p.m. until midnight at the McHenry House at Wisp Resort.

"This event helps raise awareness for the House of Hope, celebrating its 20th year of service in Garrett County, while also allowing the participants to have a great time for a grand cause," said Hopefest committee chairperson Carol Smith.

A variety of events are on the evening's agenda, including a full dinner buffet from Pizzazz Pizzeria, dancing to music provided by DJ Jonny Rock, door prizes, appearances by local celebrity guest bartenders, and soft drinks, wine, and beer throughout the evening.

Tickets for the Autumn Hopefest require a $25 minimum donation per person, and are on sale now at Cobblestone Alley and Pizzazz Pizzeria in McHenry, Kathy's Furniture in Dry Dock Plaza, Will O' the Wisp along Deep Creek Lake, and Gregg's Pharmacy and Water Street Market Place in Oakland.

Elks Launching "Most Valuable Student" Contest

The BPO Elks of the USA will award nearly $2.1 million in college scholarships to a total of 500 high school seniors through its 1999 "Most Valuable Student" scholarship contest.

The contest is open to students in the graduating class of a high school, or its equivalent, who are citizens of the United States and residents within the jurisdiction of the BPO Elks of the USA. Applications will be available at the Elks' home page, www.elks.org, in mid-October and at either local Elks lodges or local high schools after November 1. Persons may also telephone Oakland Elks Lodge No. 2481 at 301-334-1119 for more information.

The deadline for this year's contest will be January 15, 1999. Completed applications must be turned in to the scholarship chairman, Exalted Ruler, or secretary of the local Elks lodge.

Male and female students will compete separately. Applicants will be judged on financial need, leadership, and scholarship. The Elks National Foundation, the charitable arm of the BPO Elks of the USA, will award scholarships to the top 500 applicants. The top male and female student will receive scholarships of $7,500 a year for four years. The second-place male and female will receive $4,000 a year for four years, and the third-place male and female will receive $3,000 a year for four years. The foundation will also award 494 scholarships of $1,000 a year for four years. The 500 winners will be announced n May 1999.

Through this "Most Valuable Student" competition and its four other scholarship programs, the Elks National Foundation annually awards nearly $3.2 million in college scholarships. In addition, many state Elks associations and local lodges offer scholarships. The Elks National Foundation also funds veterans service, drug education, youth athletic programs, aid for people with disabilities, and other charitable and philanthropic programs. The Elks National Foundation will distribute more than $12.6 million this year in support of these programs.

The BPO Elks of the USA is headquartered at 2750 N. Lakeview Ave., Chicago, IL 60614.

SCOUTING PROGRAM AWARDED FUNDS — The community contributed $72,242 to the Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America through the County United Way in 1998. Brad Burr, left, Potomac Council executive director, is shown with Harry King, CUW executive director. County United Way volunteers are currently working to raise $750,000 to assure the coordination and delivery of human services in 1999 to improve the quality of life in Allegany and Garrett counties, Maryland, and Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Mineral, and Pendleton counties, West Virginia. Over 3,400 young people in the region are involved in Cub Scout, Boy Scout, and Explorer programs.

Shriners To Hold Hospital Screening Clinic Oct. 31

A free screening clinic will be held Saturday, Oct. 31, from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Johnson Heights Medical Building, Kent Avenue, Cumberland. The clinic will be held to identify children in the area who can benefit from the expert orthopaedic care provided at Shriners' hospitals.

This no-cost screening clinic can lead to free care for children with problems of the bones, joints, and/or muscles. Adults who know of children under 18 who might have orthopaedic problems are encouraged to bring them to the free clinic for an evaluation to find out if they may be eligible for free treatment at a Shriners' hospital.

For more information, persons may call the Ali Ghan recorder's office at 301-722-5970.

℞ SAFETY REQUIRES ATTENTION TO DETAILS

Every prescription a pharmacist dispenses is a challenge. From thousands of drugs about us, we must select the exact ones specified.

An error is unthinkable, for a mistake or overdose could cost a life and our career. Each ingredient must be checked and rechecked for accuracy. The directions must be clearly explained. Each prescription must be permanently recorded for future reference. Careful attention to every detail is necessary for a safe prescription compounding.

Pumpkins and Tulips

Autumn is pumpkin time. Seeds planted last spring, which matured in the warm summer soil, have produced these vibrant orange orbs.

In contrast to the pumpkin seed, the tulip bulb was planted much later, in the cool of autumn. It developed during the winter in soil, which was cold, and, at times even frozen. Yet the tulip, too, emerges as a vibrantly colored creation.

There is another seed...the seed of faith...which may be planted at different times, depending upon the condition of the soul. Yet, whether planted early, in the springtime of youth, or later, in the autumn of their years; one truth is constant; God has promised love and mercy to all of His children, regardless of when they accept Him as their Father: "And everyone [who accepts God on faith]...will receive a hundredfold, and inherit eternal life. But many that are first will be last and the last first." (Matt. 19:29-30)

As you worship, plant your seed of faith in the care of the Creator. He tends pumpkins...and tulips.

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE "LITTLE PEOPLE"
October 25, 1998

Background Scripture:
2 Kings 5:1-19
Devotional Reading:
2 Samuel 12:1-15

"He was a mighty man of valor, but he was a leper."

That was what people were saying about the great Syrian general, Na'aman. He was the most famous military figure in Syria and had the full confidence of the Syrian king. But, he had a flaw: he was a leper and leprosy was one of the most feared diseases in the ancient world. He had a promising career ahead of him, but now all that was thrown into doubt.

In the case of Na'aman (NAY-uh-mon) it was a physical affliction, but almost anything can ruin a life, spoil a career, jeopardize a relationship or threaten a faith. "He would have been a great CEO, but he's got that drinking problem!" "She has a great voice, but she's a hypochondriac!" "They'd be a great couple, if only they weren't always putting each other down."

You probably can write some of your own "yes, but's" and "if only's." What is it in your own life that keeps you from being the person God created you to be, that keeps you from fulfilling your God-given potential, that spoils the good life that God gave you? What might people say of you: "He/she is fine, but..."?

END OF A CAREER?

That might have been the end of the great general's career, except for a little nobody who had no reason to help Na'aman, but did anyway. She is one of those little people, who at the right time and place can make an important difference, even if we never learn even their name. All we know of her is that she was an Israelite who had been kidnapped in one of Na'aman's raids and made a slave in his household.

From a strictly human standpoint, she should have hated Na'aman and his wife. But, struck by the plight of her master, she said: "Would that my lord were with the prophet who is in Samaria! He would cure him of his leprosy" (5:3). Something higher than "an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth" was at work in this little nameless Israelite maid.

How often does a prominent persons take advice from one of these "little people"? Not very often, unless... there's nowhere else to go. Na'aman had obviously exhausted all his known alternatives, including the Syrian religion. But he was desperate and when people are desperate they may turn to anyone they can for help. I can't imagine how often I have witnessed that. Sometimes, that is the only way people come to God.

INSECURE & PARANOID

So, Na'aman goes off to Israel hoping for a cure from what otherwise would seem a most unlikely source. The reaction of Samaria's king is human and humorous. Self-centered and extremely insecure, he interprets Na'aman's request a pretext by the Syrian king to cause him trouble: "Only consider, and see how he is seeking a quarrel with me" (5:7). There are some people who are so paranoid that they interpret everything in life as a personal threat.

Na'aman finally arrives at Elisha's home with a grand entourage of horses and chariots. So he is insulted when, instead of coming to meet him, the prophet sends a messenger with a simple prescription: "Go and wash in the Jordan seven times, and your flesh will be restored" (5:10). Na'aman was furious—didn't Elisha know who he was? Did he not realize how important he was? Angry and petulant, he was ready to turn around and go home.

Once again, however, one of those "little people" saved the day for Na'aman. Some nameless servants took considerable courage to say to this angry man: "My father, if the prophet had commanded you to do some great thing, would you not have done it? How much rather, then, when he says to you, 'Wash, and be clean?'" (5:13).

So, because he had nowhere else to go for help, Na'aman overcame his pride and prejudice and let some of the "little people" lead him to the most important healing he would ever experience.

Participates In Special Freshman Program At SSU

Erin Browning, 18, daughter of Bob Browning, McHenry, recently participated in Salisbury State University's award-winning Freshman Orientation in the Wilderness Program.

A 1998 graduate of Northern High School, Browning is a sophomore majoring in biology and environmental/marine science.

All new Salisbury State students are required to attend university orientation. They may choose from a variety of orientation options, including wilderness experiences such as cycling in Maine, canoeing in Ontario, Canada, or sailing on the Chesapeake Bay. Browning opted for the sailing experience.

"These trips foster both a sense of self-reliance and trust among students. Remarkably, participants drop out of college at a lower rate than their classmates, become more involved in student life, and generally do well academically, according to studies," stated a Salisbury spokesperson.

At Northern, Browning was captain of the Color Guard and was twice named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

At Salisbury State some 6,000 students in 29 undergraduate and seven graduate programs pursue liberal arts and professional degrees. For the second straight year, U.S. News and World Report has ranked SSU among the top 10 public regional universities in the North.

Arthur Miller Play Slated This Week At FSU

The Frostburg State University Department of Theatre Arts will present the play The Creation of the World and Other Business by Arthur Miller. The student-directed production is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Oct. 23 and 24, at 8 p.m. in the Studio Theatre of the FSU Performing Arts Center.

Directed by senior Kate Hnatio, Miller's play provides the audience with philosophic insight into the human dilemma through his humorous retelling of Adam, Eve, and God in the Garden of Eden. The couple's inevitable expulsion for eating the forbidden apple results in Lucifer's fall as well. Earth then becomes the battleground between good and evil, heaven and hell, science and the Bible.

The cast includes Shay Mace as God, Sean Cercone as Adam, Christina Treppe as Eve, Jeff Keilholtz as Lucifer, Jason Knox as Cain, Lisa Gordon as Abel, Tim Elliot as Azrael, Erin Keilty as Raphael, and Chris Krysztufiak as Chemuel.

Tickets will be available at the box office before each performance. Admission price is $1. For further information, persons may call the Theatre Department at 301-687-4145.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services, and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. You may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7555.

LEARNING THE ROPES - The phrase took on a whole new meaning as a group of Garrett County high school seniors participated in team-building activities through the Partners in Valuable Ongoing Training (PIVOT) program, a one-semester class which emphasizes developing work readiness skills, interpersonal skills, and customer service. The ropes training is used to build trust among team members and to improve communication skills. Guidance for the training is provided by Dawn Beitzel, Workforce Adventure coordinator at Garrett Community College. In addition to the ropes activities, students in the PIVOT program are placed in intern positions at area businesses. The area employers participating in PIVOT are Recreational Industries, Wisp Resort Hotel and Conference Center, Quality Marine, FCSI, First United Bank, Arnold Phillips, attorney, and Accident Elementary School. In the photos above and below, Kerri Brantner, Troy Buckel, Ian Flockhart, Matt Kauffman, Erika Kahl, Kanya Knox, Shawnda Mayle, and Carleena Sines practice team work and trust skills.

Long & Foster Scholarships Now Available

Long & Foster Real Estate, with 131 sales offices throughout the mid-Atlantic region, is taking the opportunity of its 31st year to once again announce its special scholarship program for deserving high school seniors in this service area. The program is designed to reward "well-rounded" high school seniors entering an accredited four-year college or university who demonstrate financial need. The $1,000 individual, one-time scholarships will be awarded to 60 students beginning May 3, 1999.

The scholarships are the "brainchild" of Long & Foster founder and president Wes Foster. He conceived the idea as a way to give something significant back to the communities that have made his real estate company one of the most successful in America. The entrepreneur also knows the importance of a helping hand. Without the aid of both an academic and athletic scholarship, he would not have had the opportunity to attend Virginia Military Institute (VMI).

"I never had very much growing up so the VMI scholarship gave me the chance I needed," Foster said. "As a result, I feel very committed to helping students get to college. Many times, well-rounded students have special financial needs."

Foster said he believes that education is the key that unlocks a limitless future. Starting from scratch, he produced a real estate company that sells more homes than any other in the five-state mid-Atlantic region. The objective of the Long & Foster Scholarship Program is to help students who show potential for lifelong leadership get started in college. A selection committee made up of local members of academia will select the final scholarship winners by April 15, 1999.

High school seniors eligible to be considered well-rounded applicants must have at least a 3.0 GPA on a 4.0 scale, demonstrate financial need, indicate positions of leadership they held while students, describe in which school groups they have been involved and community organizations in which they have served, and include whether they have held a part-time job while in school.

Foster said he believes it is an important part of a student's education to be involved in the community and that giving of one's time to groups that need help can be excellent training for future leadership. "The fact that they care about the community and the people who live there will help them later in life," Foster said. "Compassion and empathy for others is one of the hallmarks of a successful individual," he concluded.

So that the selection committee can obtain a better picture of each student, applicants will be asked to write a short essay on either their most significant high school experience or their expectations for college.

Applications for the Long & Foster Scholarship Program can be obtained from any of Long & Foster's 131 residential sales offices located throughout the mid-Atlantic region, high school guidance counselors, or via Long & Foster's web site at www.longandfoster.com/scholarship.

A hard copy of the application and the required attachments must be mailed to Long & Foster's corporate headquarters at the following address: Long & Foster Scholarship Program, c/o Corporate Marketing Department, Long & Foster Real Estate Inc., 11351 Random Hills Road, Fairfax, VA 22030-6082. The deadline for applying is March 1, 1999.

Lauder Joins Garrett Rehab Services Staff

Jim Lauder has joined the staff of Garrett Rehab Services (GRS) as a licensed physical therapist, according to GRS board president Dave Saba. GRS is the new joint venture which will be combining the outpatient physical therapy services of Garrett County Memorial Hospital and RehabSolutions.

Lauder is a 1990 graduate of Westmar High School. He completed his undergraduate education at Frostburg State University, and his graduate school training at the University of Maryland at Baltimore, where he received his master's degree.

Lauder returned to Western Maryland after working for RehabXcel in Lafayette, La., where he served as clinic director. He was also the physical therapist for the Louisiana Icegators of the East Coast Hockey League.

"We are very pleased to welcome a quality individual like Jim to our staff. His knowledge and local origins will assist him in providing physical therapy services to the area," said Saba.

Lauder, who is the son of George and Barbara Lauder of Lonaconing, currently resides in Swanton. He enjoys golfing and officiating soccer, and will be the Westmar junior varsity basketball coach this winter.

Northern GOP Women To Meet

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club will meet next Tuesday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. at Hill Top Inn, Grantsville. On the agenda is the club's fall auction, which is a fund-raiser for the organization. Cora Bowser will be the auctioneer. Members are asked to bring items for the auction.

There will be no club meeting in November.

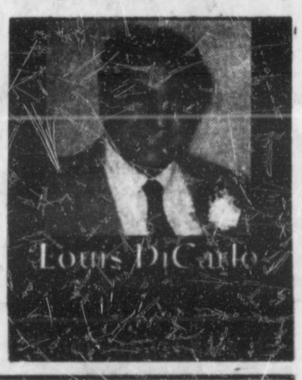
Kristallnacht At FSU Will Host Survivor

Frostburg State University will observe Kristallnacht, or "Night of the Broken Glass," on Wednesday, Nov. 4, at 7 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of the FSU Performing Arts Center.

This is FSU's 10th annual commemoration of the event that recognizes the month of November 1938, when Jews were expelled from their homes in Germany and Jewish businesses, residences, and synagogues were torched.

Led by the university's Hillel organization and enhanced by choral performances of the FSU Collegium Musicum under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg, the university will observe the anniversary of this fateful night.

Holocaust survivor Regina Spiegel will return to FSU for this service to speak about her experience as a prisoner in the death camps. Spiegel lived in Radom, Poland, until 1939, when the Germans invaded her town. Throughout the war years, she suffered inside the Pionki Ghettos, the Pionki Labor Camp (where she met her future husband), and Auschwitz-Birkenau and Bergen-Belson concentration camps.



Following liberation, Spiegel married and immigrated to the United States with her husband Sam. They have both maintained active roles in the United Jewish Appeal, the March of the Living, the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, the Jewish Community Council, and the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum.

Additionally, Spiegel is the past president of the Holocaust Survivors and Friends of Greater Washington. She has been the recipient of the prestigious Leadership Citation from the United Jewish Appeal and the Chaim Solomon Freedom Medal from B'nai B'rith.

She speaks frequently at exhibits and schools to teach future generations about the effects of hate and racism.

The evening's program will also include a candle-lighting ceremony to remember the victims of the Holocaust, as well as the brave "righteous Gentiles" who protected the persecuted by hiding them in their homes or in their barns.

This event is free and open to the public. For information, persons may contact Dr. Ellen Grolman-Schlegel at 301-687-4117.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102.

GCC BENEFITS FROM TOURNEY - Checks totalling $2,250 were presented recently to Garrett Community College representing a portion of the proceeds from the recent Railey Realty Charity Golf Classic, held at the Golf Club at the Wisp in McHenry. A check for $1,750 was presented to the GCC Foundation, and another in the amount of $500 was presented to the GCC Athletic Department. Above, from left, are Terry Boggs, sales associate for Railey Realty and co-chairman of the tournament; Sue Case, manager of the Railey Realty office; Bretta Reinhard, of the GCC Advancement Office; and Bill Weisegerber, a Railey Realty owner, co-chair of the golf tourney, and vice president of the GCC Foundation. Below, GCC basketball coach Dennis Gibson, center, accepts the check from Boggs and Weisegerber for the GCC Athletic Department.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Marine Cpl. Michael W. Duling, son of William G. Duling, Oakland, is currently halfway through a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf with the 22nd Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU), which embarked aboard the ships of the USS Saipan Amphibious Ready Group (ARG).

While deployed, Duling's unit participated in the multinational exercise "Matador Livex '98." The intense exercise tested every mission phase of a combined force, including air, surface, subsurface, noncombatant expeditionary operations, and maritime interdiction operations.

In addition to the exercise, Duling and fellow Marines had the opportunity to visit France, Greece, Spain, and Turkey, where the unit participated in community relations projects in the host countries.

Duling's unit is an expeditionary intervention force with the ability to rapidly organize for combat operations in virtually any environment. MEUs are composed of more than 2,000 personnel, and are divided into an infantry battalion, an aircraft squadron, a support group, and a command element. With the combination of these teams, Duling's unit supplies and sustains itself for either quick mission accomplishment or clearing the way for follow-on forces.

The 1992 graduate of Southern High School joined the Marine Corps in October 1995.

Adventures Of Peter Cottontail To Be Presented

The Frostburg State University's Roundabout Theatre will present The Adventures Of Peter Cottontail on Saturday, Oct. 31, and Sunday, Nov. 1, in the Drama Theatre of the FSU Performing Arts Center. Curtain time is 2 p.m.

Based on the book by Thornton W. Burgess and dramatized by R. Eugene Jackson, the FSU production is being directed by senior theatre major Tony Washington, under the supervision of Linda McCulloch, FSU associate professor of theatre.

Tickets for this event are $1 for children of all ages. For more information, persons may contact the University Theatre, 301-687-4145.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

Mt. Top Assembly Sets House Of Life And Death

The Mt. Top Christian Assembly will present the House of Life and Death on Friday, Oct. 30, and Saturday, Oct. 31, from 7 to 10 p.m. each evening.

"You will witness the wonder of those who experience life after death," a spokesperson for the event said, "and the absolute terror of those who awake only to find death after death."

There will be no admission charge for the event, which the spokesperson said is recommended for persons age 11 and older. The Mt. Top Christian Assembly is located on Maryland Highway in Mtn. Lake Park, next to 84 Lumber.

For the first time ever, get $1000 cash back on the truck that changed the rules.
But hurry. This first won't last.
$1000 cash back on '98 Dodge Rams.
We're currently offering $1000 cash back on all new '98 Dodge Rams in stock. But act soon. The offer ends November 9, and you may never get a second chance with this first.
First Quad Cab.™
Dodge Ram was the first Quad Cab the world had ever seen. With this first, Ram owners were able to get twice the doors. And twice the convenience.
First available V-10.
The 310-horsepower Magnum® V-10 was the first V-10 available in a pickup. And it's just one engine in a lineup that gives us overall the most powerful line of pickups on the planet.
First with a standard driver airbag on every model.*
Not only was Dodge Ram the first full-size pickup with a standard driver airbag on every model. It was the first to offer the safety of anti-lock brakes at all four wheels.

How is Ken Perrin Going to Shape the Future of Education in Garrett County?
1. By developing partnerships with County agencies to prepare our students to meet the challenges of the future of Garrett County.
2. By working to increase technology at all levels throughout the school system. The County's efforts are directed at attracting high-tech businesses to locate in our area, and the school system needs to assist in that effort by providing the graduates that will be able to fill those jobs.
3. By not supporting the voucher system which is designed to divert tax dollars to private education. This could harm our ability to provide an excellent public education without increasing the tax burden on Garrett County residents.

COVER STORY

Brimstone makes light of a bad situation

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Peter Horton

"The truth is, nobody knows. Nobody knows for sure what happens when you die," Peter Horton observes.

To an ordinary mortal those words sound like a profound mystery. But to a television producer, they sound like a series concept.

Case in point: Brimstone, a spooky new cop show debuting Tuesday, Oct. 27, on Fox. Horton stars as Ezekiel Stone, a police officer killed in the line of duty who was brought back from the underworld by his boss and jailer, the Devil (John Glover), to track down 113 escaped souls after a daring breakout from hell.

Stone's mortal sin was murder, which he committed after catching the man who raped his wife. It was a crime of passion in an otherwise honorable life. His incentive now is Satan's teasing suggestion that he may be able to wipe his own slate clean in the process of reclaiming the lost souls. To help Stone keep track of his progress, the Devil has put 113 hieroglyphic tattoos on his body; one of them will fade with each capture.

Brimstone was created by writing partners Cyrus Voris and Ethan Reiff (collaborators on Tales From the Crypt Presents Demon Knight).

The series pilot is dark to look at and darker to contemplate: Stone's first target is a 19th-century priest planning the sacrificial murders of four altar boys. To stop him, Stone must shoot the cleric through not one, but both eyes.

Remarkably, the show's creators see this as a positive message.

As Reiff puts it, "The show, at its heart, at its soul and spine ... says, 'The universe works. If you live a good life, you go to heaven. If you live a bad life, you go to hell.'

"That alone makes it pretty life-affirming, you know. Jesse Helms would be happy with that description of faith, you know."

While the North Carolina senator hasn't actually weighed in with an opinion on the series, Fox executive Peter Roth reportedly has quipped that the show might be titled Touched by a Devil.

Such gallows humor will be a standard element in Brimstone, as a way of "breaking the tension," Voris says.

"There (are) a lot of little one-liners and little things Peter did so well (in the pilot), and we're going to keep pushing that (in future episodes)."

For instance, Stone spots a Reds-Yankees baseball game on TV and assumes it's the World Series. Told that interleague play began two years ago, he's asked, "Where have you been?"

"Out of the country," Stone hedges.

"Where?"

"Down Under."

This and other throw-away moments do not register guffaws on the laugh meter, but the banter plays more to Horton's strength than the brawls. It probably helps get the writers through their day, too.

Asked whether the series will ever take Stone or his quarry back whence they came, Voris rejoins, "I don't think we can afford to go to hell. I'd have to check with our line producer on that one."

TV-PIPELINE

Doug Savant

Q: Is it true that the actor who played Matt Fielding on Melrose Place died in real life? What is his real name? –Heidi via e-mail.

A: Doug Savant, who played Matt, is alive and well.

Q: The recent Planet of the Apes marathon on American Movie Classics made me wonder whatever happened to James Franciscus. Didn't he once star with Dean Jagger in a TV series about a teacher? –Eddie via e-mail.

A: Franciscus, who died of emphysema in 1991, became dissatisfied in the mid-1980s with the kind of roles he was being offered and abandoned acting in favor of writing and producing. He devoted time to his production company, which presented a number of new adaptations of family fare including Kidnapped and The Red Pony.

An avid tennis player, Franciscus also founded the James Franciscus Celebrity Tennis Tournament to raise money for research into multiple sclerosis. His mother, Loraine, had succumbed to the disease.

A highlight of his career was playing the title English teacher in Mr. Novak, a 1963-65 NBC high-school drama that co-starred Jagger as the principal for the first part of the run. Burgess Meredith took over as a new principal for the final half-season.

Q: Did Sam Melville of The Rookies die? The ending of one of his movies contained a note in his memory, which shocked me. He couldn't have been very old. –Fawn Gayle DePriest via e-mail.

A: Melville, who played Officer Mike Danko on The Rookies, was only 52 when he unexpectedly died of heart failure on March 6, 1989.

Q: The last Emmys telecast included a tribute to actress Diana Hyland of Eight Is Enough. How did she die? –Saul via e-mail.

A: The Emmys showed footage of Hyland's young lover John Travolta, who accepted the posthumous Emmy for her performance in the 1976 TV movie The Boy in the Plastic Bubble, in which they had co-starred. Hyland died of cancer on March 27, 1977.

Q: With all the reruns of recent shows turning up in syndication, why doesn't Twin Peaks show up anywhere? –Steve T., Plattsburgh, N.Y.

A: The cable channel Bravo has aired Peaks in heavy rotation, and the series is available on videocassette. When you factor that in, along with the fact that there aren't many episodes to schedule, you can see why David Lynch's critically acclaimed series isn't likely to turn up on a local channel soon.

In Focus

A water filtration engineer (Adam Arkin) searches for the answer to a deadly epidemic in Thirst, airing Sunday, Oct. 25, on NBC.

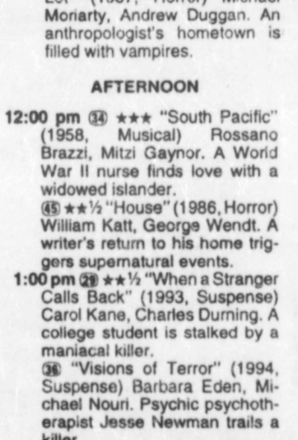
When several senior citizens are hospitalized for poisoning, their food is tested and found to be free of contamination. Bob Miller (Arkin) believes the city's water is to blame. When tests show a new resistant strain of parasite, the water supply is shut down, just as a heat wave hits the city. Joely Fisher and Giancarlo Esposito also star.



Trivia

As a child in Burbank, Calif., filmmaker Tim Burton (The Nightmare Before Christmas) dreamed of playing the monster Godzilla on film.

Trivia

Director Phil Alden Robinson was inspired to write Field of Dreams while living in a house supposedly haunted by the late actor George Reeves.

Rocky Drean Assembly Sets Special Services

Evangelist and gospel music recording artist John Stallings, pictured above with his wife Juda, will be leading services at Rocky Drean Assembly of God Church on Sunday, Oct. 25, at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Composer of over 100 gospel songs, Stallings is best known for writing the song "Learning to Lean," which was awarded the prestigious Dove award from Gospel Music as America's best gospel song of 1977. Music publishers have referred to this song as one of the few songs of hymn quality written in our generation.

Other well-known compositions by Stallings include "Touching Jesus," Jimmy Swaggart's hit of the 1970s; "Blessing after Blessing" and "Love Grew Where the Blood Fell," popularized by the Speer family, and "Jesus Now, More Than Ever."

Called to preach at the age of 15, Stallings has spent nearly 20 years in evangelism and has preached at hundreds of revivals, camp meetings, seminars, and conventions around the world. He has appeared numerous times on The 700 Club TV show and Channel 40 in southern California, and is one of the founders of Family 55, an all-Christian television station in Orlando, Fla., where he served on the station's founders board for eight years.

The Rocky Drean Assembly of God Church is located along Bray School Road, off Mayhew Inn and Oakland Sang Run roads. For further information on these services, interested persons may call Rev. William Skipper at 301-387-8292.

Local Area To Be Featured On History Channel

"Presidential Trains" is the name of a television program that will air tonight on the History Channel, a program that was written, produced, and directed by Edward Mallory, a resident of the Swanton area of Deep Creek Lake. The program will air at 11 p.m.

Mallory, who spent over two decades working in Hollywood but has relocated to Garrett County, said that a segment of the show about President Grover Cleveland's marriage to Frances Folsom in 1886 features Deer Park, Swallow Falls, and other sites in and around Oakland. It details his "escape" from Washington on the B&O Railroad aboard his "honeymoon special," and his stay at Deer Park in what is now famous as the Cleveland Cottage.

Mallory, a native of the Cumberland area, said that information and pictorial material for the production of the show were "generously contributed" by the Garrett County Historical Museum and local historian, Rev. John Grant.

"Presidential Trains," part of the History Channel's series Trains Unlimited, traces the history and uses of trains by presidents of the United States. "Beginning with Andrew Jackson, who rode the B&O in 1833 as the first sitting president to travel by rail, to Bill Clinton, whose 1996 campaign train headed for the 21st Century, presidential trains have blazed a colorful, joyous, and sometimes sad journey into the history of the United States," Mallory said.

Tonight's show features guest appearances by Gerald Ford, 38th president of the United States, and other notables, including author Bob Withers, all of whom are experts on presidential trains.

Motorists Urged To Heed School Bus Stop Lights

As part of National School Bus Safety Week, which continues through Sunday, Oct. 24, the Garrett County Board of Education is urging drivers on local roadways to observe and heed the warning lights that signal when a school bus is preparing to stop at a loading or unloading area.

"Our most common complaint is motorists violating the school bus stop law," said Barbara Shaffer, school bus driver instructor for the board's transportation office. "This is a very dangerous situation for the children."

There is an eight-light warning system mounted on the front and rear of each county school bus near the vehicle's top. These lights are used by the bus driver to warn the public of what the bus is going to do.

When the bus is approaching a loading or unloading area, a series of amber lights will flash, which signals other drivers to take caution as the bus is preparing to slow down and stop. Red lights will commence flashing when the bus has come to a complete stop and the driver has opened the door on the right side of the bus to allow children to load or unload. An arm located on the left side of the bus, near the driver's window, will swing out to display a stop sign when the door opens as well.

Motorists are required to stop at least 20 feet from a stopped school bus that is displaying its flashing red lights and stop arm. Current Maryland motor vehicle law allows a maximum penalty of two points and a $500 fine for passing a stopped school bus which has activated its warning light system.

More than 5,000 Garrett County students are transported to and from school on more than 78 school buses each day. The county's bus drivers log almost a million miles a year, and they "need the cooperation of the motoring public to make their job a little easier," said Shaffer.

Earns National Merit Letter Of Commendation

Lynn H. Bell, principal of Southern Garrett Senior High School, announced this week that John W. Andrews, son of Joe and Darlene Andrews, Mtn. Lake Park, has been named a Commended Student in the 1999 National Merit Scholarship Program. A Letter of Commendation from the school and National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC), which conducts the program, will be presented by the principal to this scholastically talented senior.

Andrews is a three-sport (soccer, basketball, and baseball) standout at Southern and has received numerous honors for both academic and athletic achievements.

Some 34,500 Commended Students throughout the nation are being honored for their exceptional academic promise. Although they will not continue in the competition for Merit Scholarship awards to be offered next spring, Commended Students placed among the top five percent of more than one million students who entered the 1999 Merit Program by taking the 1997 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

A Merit Program spokesperson commented, "Recognition of academically talented students and of the key role played by schools in their development is essential to the pursuit of educational excellence in our nation. The young men and women named Commended Students are honored for their outstanding scholastic potential demonstrated by their high performance in the very competitive Merit Program. We hope the recognition received by these able students will encourage them to take advantage of their opportunities for higher education and to diligently pursue their professional goals. The nation will benefit from the full development of this valuable intellectual resource."

The Homemakers Corner

by Joan Schultz
Public Relations Chairperson

The Garrett County FCE Homemakers will hold their annual Christmas Workshop on Thursday, Oct. 29, in the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service meeting room.

The program will be hosted by the Sunnyside Club, and registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. at a cost of $2 per person. The workshop will begin at 10 a.m. with a brief meeting, followed by group singing, show and tell, then lunch at noon.

Participants are asked to bring a covered dish, place setting, crafts for the show and tell display, a can of food for the House of Hope, and a cleaning product for Community Action. Each club is to furnish a centerpiece for its table, and these centerpieces will be given out as door prizes later. Four hands-on activities will also be taking place after lunch for those wishing to participate.

BUS TRIP REMINDER

Any member wishing to join the Festival of Lights bus trip to Wheeling, W.Va., slated for Thursday, Nov. 12, should call Ellen Shillingburg at 301-334-2985 by Sunday, Oct. 25.

The cost of the trip is $28 per person, and the bus will leave the Oakland town parking lot at 3 p.m. and return at 11 p.m.

Weimer Earns FCSI Promotion

Jeffrey Todd Weimer, Grantsville, recently advanced to quality assurance specialist with Financial Computer Support Inc., an Oakland-based software company.

Weimer joined the FCSI technical support team in 1997, and until this promotion he provided telephone assistance to owners of FCSI's dbCAMS+ software package, which is a client asset management system designed for financial planners.

In his new position, Weimer will assist the company's quality assurance team by coordinating communications between the FCSI technical support and programming teams. He will also aid in the development, testing, and release of enhancements to the dbCAMS+ for Windows software package.

A graduate of Northern High School, Weimer obtained a criminal justice degree from Allegany College of Maryland. He is the son of Thomas F. And Rose Marie Weimer.

W.Va. Man Owes OVFD $304 In Restitution Pay

An Eglon, W.Va., man has been ordered to make a restitution payment to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department for damaging the garage door of the fire hall in a rock-throwing incident.

Robert Lee Frantz, 22, faced several charges during his hearing in Garrett County District Court last week before Judge Ralph M. Burnett: driving under the influence of drugs and/or alcohol, malicious destruction of property, disorderly conduct, and three counts of second-degree assault.

The charges stemmed from Frantz's arrest by the Oakland City Police following an incident that took place in the parking lot of Naylor's Hardware at approximately 10:30 p.m. one night in August. According to the police report, Frantz pulled his pickup truck into the parking lot, got out, and began throwing rocks at the Fisher Auto Parts building next door to Naylor's. When he observed several witnesses standing inside the fire hall watching him (witnesses who had notified the police immediately), he threw a rock at them and damaged the fire hall's garage door.

Frantz then got into his truck and drove off, to be stopped a short time later by police officers who had received a vehicle description provided by the eyewitnesses.

As a result of the court hearing last week, all charges faced by Frantz were stetted with the exception of the DUI charge. His guilty plea to that charge resulted in a probation before judgment (PBJ) ruling, which included a 30-day suspended sentence, a $200 fine, one year of supervised probation, 50 hours of community service, and the restitution payment.

In other district court news, an Oakland man was handed a PBJ after pleading guilty to driving while intoxicated (DWI) as additional charges of second-degree assault and two counts of malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted by the state's attorney's office.

Joseph Roy Welch, 23, had been arrested in July by the Oakland Police for allegedly assaulting a female acquaintance at her Oakland apartment after forcing his way through the door. After the assault he reportedly pulled the spark plug wires off her engine, disabling her vehicle, then drove off in his own truck. He returned to the scene as officers were speaking with the complainant and was arrested there.

Three men who had been arrested in July on charges of marijuana possession were each ordered to complete 40 hours of community service in conjunction with stet rulings handed to each defendant.

James Scott Beall, 18, Mt. Savage, Richard Lee Miller, 22, Ashton, and Donald Lee Saville Jr., 23, Laurel, were arrested in July after a state trooper stopped their vehicle, which was being driven by Beall, for speeding on I-68. A strong odor of burning marijuana was detected by the trooper, who then searched each of the men and discovered that each of them was carrying a small plastic bag of marijuana.

Angie Gutherie, 35, Grantsville, who had entered a not guilty plea to a second-degree assault charge, was handed a PBJ, fined $50, and placed on one day of unsupervised probation. State troopers had arrested her in September for allegedly assaulting another woman outside the Grantsville American Legion.

AWARDS PRESENTED - There were over 135 demonstrators at this year's Springs Folk Festival, which was held recently in neighboring Springs, Pa. From among those offering peeks at the past through historical presentations and displays, two were selected to receive awards for their contributions. In the photo above, festival board member John Hepler, left, awards the first place blue ribbon for most attractive display to Beth Ressler and her son, Ben Ressler, who assisted her. In the photo below, Hepler, left, congratulates Gordon Oester, the first place winner for best demonstration for his discourse on flintlocks, and fur and buckskin costume.

DWI Hearings

In addition to the DWI- and DUI-related cases already mentioned, several other such hearings were held in district court last week.

Timothy Lee Rounds, 21, Swanton, pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 30-day jail sentence.

Donald Elmer Friend, 33, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $200, handed a six-month sentence with all but 30 days suspended, and was placed on two years of supervised probation.

Chad Allen Ward, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DWI and was fined $100, handed a 30-day sentence with all but four days suspended, and was placed on one year of supervised probation.

John Wayne Lewis, 29, Oakland, pleaded guilty to DWI and was handed a PBJ, fined $355, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

James Patrick Bennett, 29, Nottingham, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was fined $255, handed a 30-day suspended sentence, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service.

Ryan Joseph Evans, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, was handed a stet ruling stemming from a DWI charge, and was ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

RED HOUSE
by reporter
Marcella Moreland

The bake sale to be held at the Autumn Glory Parade on Saturday, Oct. 10, was the main topic at the Red House 4-H Club's October meeting. Barb Holler, Danita Rhodes, and Tina Green were to be in charge.

All members were asked to donate baked goods.

Brittany Green and Sara Holler led our 31 members and 27 adults and guests in pledges.

We had a good turnout at the Livestock Association dinner/meeting held at the Garrett County fairgrounds. Those in attendance were the Beckmans, Brennemans, Greens, Hollers, Knepps, Morelands, Sanders, Skippers, Upoles, and Warsaw. Jim Brenneman was elected to a board of directors office and Marcella will be the Southern 4-H representative.

B.J. and Barry Upole, Marcella, Alan Warsaw, and three adults mowed and cleaned the graveyard for October. Marcella, Alan, B.J., Barry, and six adults made and hung a banner for National 4-H Week.

Entries for the fair were totaled and Jr. Leader Marcella returned the computer printout sheets to members.

We were reminded to meet at the November meeting at 6 p.m. to dress bears and to bring summary sheets to fill out.

Zachary Rhodes, Travis Sanders, Frank Andersen, B.J., Daniel Skipper, and Stephanie Brenneman will carry leaves in the Autumn Glory Parade.

Demonstrations were given by Tara Hinebaugh on her Fashion Revue outfit, Levi Green on sheep showing and grooming, and Ashley Rhodes on her kitten.

Cloverbud members made painted pumpkins, donated by Steve and Amy Knepp, for their craft this month. Was there more paint on the pumpkins or on our little "buds"?!

SNOWY CREEK
by reporter
Shelby Glover

The Snowy Creek 4-H Club held a record book workshop on October 4. Leader Wanda Guard demonstrated how to organize and fill out the record books.

The club also held its monthly meeting on October 8. Twenty-one members were present. Lincoln Lowdermilk and Willy Gallagher led the pledges. Shelby Glover gave a demonstration on her rabbit, and Geroge and Drew Glover did a sheep demonstration.

Guests were: Brian Frazee, Keith Artice, Kellin Baumgarden, Randall Frantz, Amanda Frantz, Hannah Sines, Angie Jordan, and Ceselie and Brandon George. There was also a guest speaker, Mr. Ed Snapp, a park ranger from the Department of Natural Resources. He gave a program called "Scales & Tales." He brought along some animals that had been hurt and were not able to survive in the wild on their own. He had a mallard duck, barn owl, red tail hawk, a box turtle, and a bull snake.

The next meeting will be held on November 12 at 7 p.m. At that time we will be electing new officers for 1999 and having a demonstration night.

Antiques

Toys continue to entice collectors of all ages. The most popular and most expensive are those that are made of metal, have colorful decorations and move and make some type of sound.

Toys representing any type of transportation are especially prized. Those that are humorous or related to cartoon characters also are in demand.

One of the best-known makers of tin toys was Ernst Paul Lehmann of Brandenburg, Germany. Lehmann began working in 1881 and died in 1934. His firm continued making toys after his death.

One famous Lehmann toy was called "the balky mule." The toy mule kicks while pulling a decorated cart driven by a clown. The key-wound toy was so popular it was made for more than 40 years. It is claimed that Lehmann saw himself as a balky mule. He felt that he was hard to get along with and was stubborn. He even had a kicking mule pictured on a tile that decorated his factory's front entrance.

Q. Is my pressed-glass platter valuable? There's a man in an overcoat in the center, with his birth and death dates, 1843 and 1901. Printed within a laurel wreath around the edge are the words, "It Is God's Way, His Will Be Done."

A. You have a McKinley memorial platter. It was made to commemorate the assassination of President McKinley.

The words on the plate were McKinley's last.

Your platter, 8 by 10 1/2 inches, sells for about $65.

Home Tips

GLOVE RECYCLING – I wear rubber gloves when I do dishes or clean the stove. When one of them springs a leak, I wear them when I do my yardwork, such as planting, weeding and digging. I find they are much easier to pull on and off than the plastic ones. Also, the gloves get recycled. Jill W., Colorado Springs, Colo.

DECORATIVE TOUCH – I have found a pretty way to display eucalyptus in my home. I bought several bunches and then took dried planter's moss and mixed it with potpourri to give it some color. I loosely filled clear vases with this mixture and arranged different-colored eucalyptus in them. This gives a colorful display with a pleasant blend and scents for every room in your house.

I have had compliments on this and passed the tip on to many of my friends and relatives. Linda C., Abilene, Texas

INNOVATIVE STORAGE – While visiting relatives several years ago, I came upon an idea they had that I have told to my friends in my apartment building.

If you don't have an extra towel bar in your shower or bathtub to hang your rubber shower mat, simply place the mat with suction cups on your wall! Elaine P., Indianapolis, Ind.

DR. CHARLES BERDE: EASING CHILDREN'S PAIN

Dr. Charles Berde is cofounder and director of the Pediatric Pain Center at Boston's Children's Hospital. The first of its kind in the country when established 12 years ago (there are now about a dozen others), the service treats several thousand children a year.

Many travel long distances to consult with Berde and his team after treatments closer to home fail to bring relief.

As described in November's Biography magazine, marathon days are common for this dedicated doctor, who rarely stops working after he leaves the hospital. Sometimes, he'll arise at 3 a.m., heading back to the hospital to check on a child who is dying of cancer or underwent surgery earlier that day.

Planning to specialize in pediatric intensive care medicine, he took a residency at Children's Hospital in 1980. At the time, few studies had been done on children's pain relief so little was offered. Berde became convinced that a more creative approach was needed. In 1986, Berde, who was by then full-time, joined with two colleagues to launch the hospital's pain service. The staff, including doctors, nurses, psychologists, physical therapists and an acupuncturist, tailors treatment plans to the physical and emotional needs of individual patients. Sometimes, Berde can only make them comfortable until they die; other times, he finds the cause when other physicians have given up.

If Berde ever feels burned out from the daily suffering he witnesses, he's reluctant to say. His wife is more forthcoming. "There are times we'll be watching a movie and he'll just start to cry. I know it's not because of the movie – it's that he lost a patient the day before, or he's been with a child all week who is suffering unbelievably, and everything he's done just hasn't been enough. He's not in it for the glory or money. He's in it to make a difference."

Mrs. Glendening To Visit FSU For Arts Event

Frances Hughes Glendening, the first lady of Maryland, will visit Frostburg State University this Sunday, Oct. 25, in celebration of the extensive arts program on campus. Mrs. Glendening presides over the Governor's "Celebration of the Arts in Maryland" initiative, 1997-98.

Mrs. Glendening, a native of western Maryland, will arrive at FSU's Performing Arts Center at 5 p.m. After being welcomed by Dr. Catherine Gira, FSU president, she will attend the junior vocal recital of student Sarah Jester. A mezzo-soprano, Miss Jester will perform works by Donaudy, Schumann, Purcell, Mozart, Thomas, and Barber.

Following the presentation, Mrs. Glendening will participate in a reception, sponsored by Miss Jester's family and the FSU Department of Music, before touring FSU's $20 million Performing Arts Center.

At 6:30 p.m., the first lady will attend a showing of the FSU Centennial Art Exhibition in the Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery, Fine Arts Building. This exhibition is composed of the works of FSU alumni who were chosen by FSU Department of Visual Arts faculty to represent the studio areas of sculpture, ceramics, painting, and graphic design.

The community is invited to attend this "evening of the arts" with Mrs. Glendening. For more information, persons may contact Dr. Philip Allen, dean of the School of Arts and Humanities, at 301-687-4090.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

STUDENTS STUDY THE ART OF DESIGN — Students of Linda Reeves-Cook's spring semester art II class at Southern High School completed a one-week intensive design workshop with visiting resident artist Don Cook. The workshop, titled "Transformer/Transformation," utilized the electrical transformer unit and surrounding chain link fence adjacent to Reeves-Cook's art room as a hypothetical site for student design proposals. Students were challenged to propose basic color and design modifications to the site which would serve to alert viewers to the site's function and safety issues, and also visually enhance and upgrade the current site conditions. Students were familiarized with the transformer function and safety issues, and were provided with an overview of modern and contemporary visual design relative to industrial and architectural sites. They were given basic working guidelines relative to section, plan, elevation, rendering drawings, and model production. Working in teams, the teenagers produced the required drawings and models and formally presented their proposals at the workshop's conclusion. Shown left to right are some participating students: Tonya Sisler, Eban Lynch, Jared Broadwater, David Uphole, Charlie Nolan, Mindy Spano, Andy Zimmerman, Jason Rodeheaver, Megan Mahaffey, Lauren Rudy, Christian Warfield, and Courtney Tressler. Also taking part but not pictured were Aaron Janes, Jennifer Reckart, Jesse James, Sara Sincell, Crystal Lipscomb, Tracy Skiles, Carrie Butcher, Scott Shillingburg, Erica Tinsley, and Nick Wolf. Don Cook is a resident visual artist with Virginia Tech's Urban Studies Program at the Washington-Alexandria Architecture Consortium, Alexandria, Va., where he teaches drawing and develops design-build projects. This project was made possible by grants from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Amber Close Is Treasurer Of Vasser Houses

Amber Close, a senior at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., has been named the treasurer of the Vassar College Town Houses. The daughter of Eugene and Margaret Close, Accident, is a graduate of Northern High School.

The treasurer works closely with the Vassar Student Association, which sponsors approximately 85 student groups. Composed of an executive board, legislative body, and a number of student committees, the VSA represents the concerns of the student body in joint decision-making with the administration, faculty, and the board of trustees.

This year marks the 28th anniversary of coeducation at Vassar College. Nearly 40 percent of the students today are men. Founded in 1861 as a women's college by Matthew Vassar, a successful businessman and brewer of beer, Vassar is a residential, liberal arts college.

Rt. 40 PTA Slates Halloween Social

The Route 40 Elementary School PTA will hold its annual Halloween social on Friday, Oct. 30, between the hours of 7 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend this event and is encouraged to wear costumes. There will be judging of costumes in all age groups, plus door prizes, games, raffles, and a haunted house.

Refreshments will be available, as well as bake sale items.

Grantsville, North East Garrett UM Women Meet

The 42nd annual meeting of the Grantsville and North East Garrett charges of the United Methodist Women was held at the State Line United Methodist Church recently.

Pastor Brenda Shreve of the Grantsville charge opened the program by leading the singing of the hymn "Heavenly Sunlight." The scripture lesson was taken from John 1:1-14. Rev. Steve Lightner from the North Garrett charge led the prayer.

"Turning back to the Bible," a puppet ministry program, was presented by Karin Tyson, children's pastor of the Lakeside Assembly of God Church. The puppets presented the Bible from Genesis to Revelations.

The business meeting, with 25 members in attendance, was then conducted as the minutes were read and approved. The offering of $60 was taken and presented to the puppet ministry, and each president was presented with a gift. The meeting closed with a prayer, and the State Line Church ladies' group served refreshments following the meeting.

St. Paul's United Methodist Church will host the 1999 meeting of the Grantsville and Northeast Garrett charges.

FACES JUST WAITING TO BE BORN — Pumpkin-carving is rampant this week, no doubt, as the Halloween fun takes over and kids get to act sillier than usual. A wide variety of Halloween events are being held this weekend, beginning tonight with at least one parade and party (in downtown Oakland). Almost every Garrett County town will have "trick or treating" on Saturday evening, generally around five-ish to seven-ish. (See advertisements, stories for actual times.) These pumpkins were gathered together (for a meeting of the gourds?) at the Mountain Fresh Produce Pavilion, where the last Saturday market will be held this weekend. The weather continues to be pleasant and cool, and should be perfect this weekend for little ghouls and boos. Photo by John McEwen

Local Officials Studying Taylor's New Proposal

In conjunction with the effort to boost economic development in the poorer jurisdictions in the state, Speaker of the House Casper Taylor has introduced a plan, titled the "One Maryland Strategy," designed for distressed counties. He has published a document on the plan, which will be proposed in the 1999 legislative session.

Local officials have publicly discussed the plan this week and have expressed some concerns about the exclusion of Garrett County in part of the three-tiered proposal. While the county would be eligible for two of the three tiers, it would not be able to pursue the third, which involves the largest amount of funding. According to reports, however, the speaker has agreed to "tweak" the proposal to indeed include Garrett in the third aspect of the plan.

"I told him I wouldn't support it if Garrett County wasn't included," Delegate George Edwards said this week in an interview. "I think the plan could be good in many ways, but I'm not going to sign off on it if the part with all the funding is not going to be available to Garrett — one of the poorest counties in the state."

THE OAKLAND STATION ON A SILVER PLATTER? Well, not quite, but a substantial boost for the long-sought funding came in the form of two grants awarded this week. Close to $400,000 will be available to undertake the renovations that will transform the 19th century station into the centerpiece of the town's visitors' plaza. In the photo above Mayor Asa McCain seems to easily balance the Oakland station project. See story.

Local Officials Join Governor's New Task Force

In a concerted effort to develop a plan to replace jobs to be lost with the pending closing of Kelly-Springfield offices in Cumberland, and to promote economic development throughout western Maryland, the Western Maryland Economic Development Strategies Task Force has been formed.

The group, appointed by Governor Parris Glendening, involves several local officials, as well as Senators Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes. The leaders of six state agencies and the chambers of commerce for both Allegany and Garrett counties are involved in the group as well. Casper Taylor, speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, is serving as the chairman.

"This is a great economic

Oakland Station Awarded Grants Of Nearly $400,000 To Revitalize

The revitalization plans for the Oakland station moved closer to becoming a reality with the announcement of two grants awarded to fund the station project.

Nearly $400,000 in grant monies will be going toward community efforts to renovate Oakland's historic train station. The recently released news comes after years of effort by Oakland mayor Asa McCain Jr., the Oakland town council, and numerous community volunteers to purchase the Victorian structure from the CSX corporation, and to renovate it as the cornerstone of the town's revitalization efforts, Main Street Project manager Glenn Tolbert explained.

"We are of course very pleased to hear that the state recognizes the importance of the train station to the future of our community. This certainly will go a long way toward helping to restore the building," said McCain, after receiving notice that the two grants had been approved. "But we are still counting on local efforts to make sure that we meet the monthly mortgage payments."

The largest of the two grants totals $353,763 and is to come from the Transportation Enhancement Program, a funding mechanism for the Maryland Department of Transportation. The second grant totals $40,000 and is to come from Maryland Historical Trust, a division of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development.

The monies will supplement an additional $226,000 promised by Governor Parris N. Glendening for restoring the slate roof as well as to defray architectural fees.

According to Tolbert, the Oakland train station is regarded as central to the long-term revitalization of Oakland. The historic 1851 building is considered a premiere example of English Queen Anne architecture," he noted.

Northern Band Takes First Place In State Championship

Spirits at Northern High School soared when the news came late Saturday night from Towson State University that the Northern band had won a state title for the first time ever. To capture this musical honor, Northern's band members out-scored 10 other bands in their division. Categorized as a small band, one composed of 35 members of less, Northern vied against other competitors of similar size in Group I.

Music played for the title-winning band show was taken from two movies -- Waterworld, which relates the story of tribal life in a future world, and The Last of the Mohicans, which is set in pre-Revolutionary America. "The music is highly complex and is used as a tool to teach complex rhythm and different key signatures (D flat major). These meters and keys are almost never found in marching band music to the extent they appear in the NHS show," said band director William Robinson.

Music for the band show, "Tribes," was arranged by Robinson, who has directed the band for the four previous seasons, and the percussion music for the presentation was written and arranged by Mark Valko. Robinson and assistant band director Eric Gallagher wrote the drill outline, while parent volunteer Susan Bell, assisted by music teacher Todd Mason, developed the guard work.

Southern Band Takes Second At State Contest

The Southern Garrett Marching Band faced 17 bands in its category at last weekend's Maryland State Marching Band Championship and came home with the second place trophy.

"The band had an excellent performance and certainly deserved a chance at winning the show," said Richard Clever, the group's director.

Southern earned a score of 86.85, which was topped by South Carroll High School's winning score of 90.15. The third place band was Walkersville with 86.05.

There were 48 bands in all at the day-long competition, which was held at Towson State University.

The band will travel this Saturday to Walkersville High School for a Tournament of Bands competition at 4 p.m.

State's Children's Well-Being To Be Roundtable Topic

To determine the impact of programs and services for Maryland's children, youth, and families, state officials are developing standards to measure child well-being. Led by the Maryland Partnership for Children, Youth, and Families, state government and community members have worked together to establish Maryland's Results and Indicators for Child and Family Well-Being. The officials will use these measures to establish a system of accountability for children and family services.

Citizens are invited to attend a series of roundtable meetings to discuss these measures and learn how they will be used to gauge child well-being. The meeting in Garrett County with the state representatives is slated for Thursday, Nov. 5, in the Continuing Education Building of Garrett Community College.

The roundtable series is being driven by Lt. Governor Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, who chairs the Maryland Partnership for Children, Youth, and Families.

"We all want the best for our children," Townsend is

Clergy Seminar To Focus On Abuse Awareness

The Professional Awareness Team of the Family Violence Coalition has announced the scheduling of a seminar for clergy and others of the faith community to address issues connected with domestic violence and abuse. The seminar will be held Wednesday, Nov. 4, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in Room 307 of the Continuing Education Building at Garrett Community College. A fee of $4 is being charged, and participants will receive a certificate for the seminar.

"Members of the clergy have a special and unique relationship with those they serve. We feel it is important for them to have as much information as possible to assist them with their ministering," said State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, who is also the chairperson of the Family Violence Coalition. House Seriously Damaged By Fire Monday Morning

A Grantsville area family was left homeless after an accidental fire caused an estimated $75,000 damage to their one-story wood-frame house Monday morning.

According to Steve Wendling, fire investigator for Garrett County, the 10 a.m. blaze at the residence of Patty Lee Platter and eight other family members was apparently caused by a child playing with a cigarette lighter. Volunteer fire fighters from the Bittinger, Grantsville, Accident, Deep Creek, and Salisbury, Pa., fire departments responded to the house, which is located at 1125 Otto Lane, just off New Germany Road.

According to Wendling, several occupants of the family were at home at the time of the fire. He said that an adult family member came out of the bathroom and found smoke and flames in the main bedroom. All of the occupants fled the house without injury; however, Bittinger fire fighter Darin Yoder, 22, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by a Northern Rescue Squad unit, where he was treated and released for heat exhaustion.

Remaining Political Races To Be Addressed Next Tuesday

While a number of contests among candidates for office were decided during last month's primary elections, Garrett County voters will finalize many others next Tuesday when they respond to the polls on election day. Most of the major local elected positions will be on the ballot, including all three county commissioner seats, as well as the top leadership positions at the state and federal levels, including state delegate, governor, comptroller, attorney general, and two congressional positions.

In the county commissioner races, Ernest J. Gregg is running unopposed in District I. Democrat incumbent Gary E. Fratz will face Republican challenger Frederick A. Holliday in District II, and Democrat George Falter Jr. will oppose Republican Wendell R. Beitzel to determine the District III seat. Mounting a strong write-in campaign for the District II seat is Steve Schlosnagle.

Other county races show Republican incumbent county treasurer Patty L. Glover against Democrat William E. Walters; incumbent Lisa Thayer Welch unopposed for state's attorney; incumbent David K. Martin unopposed for clerk of the circuit court; incumbent Joseph F. DiSimone unopposed for register of wills; incumbent Republican sheriff P. Richard Sanders Jr. being challenged by Democrat David J. Martin; Clifford C. DeWitt, Joseph A.

Red Cross Annual "Home For The Holidays" House Tours Slated

The seventh annual "Home for the Holidays House Tours," sponsored by the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross (ARC), will take place on the first weekend in December. (The Potomac chapter of the Red Cross includes Garrett County.)

Four families and one non-profit organization will open their homes for this year's fund-raiser. The houses on the tour, which range in age from eight months to 104 years, will be those of Jeff and Alma Ryan, Memorial Drive, Oakland; Jon and Barbara Boone, Alder Street, Oakland; Jim and Robin Shepherd, Hill Top Road; and Rob and Sharon Markwood, Herrington Manor Road. The Our Town Theatre in Oakland will also be a part of the lineup.

A raffle will be held at each tour home with gifts donated from local businesses. Each house will be featured in issues of The Republican as the event nears. (See story on the Boone home in today's issue.) The tour will be held on Friday, Dec. 4, 4-9 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 5, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Tickets, which are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, will be available at the following locations: Proudfoot's, Englanders, and Gregg's pharmacies in Oakland; Flowers by Webers on Weber Road; Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry; and Arrowhead Market, Deep Creek Lake.

Guests are asked to refrain from taking pictures or videotaping in the homes.

This fund-raiser is one of the ARC's best sources of income to help meet the immediate needs of the area's disaster victims, a spokesperson noted.

NHS BAND SENIORS ORCHESTRATE A WIN - Northern High School took first place in the state championship contest last Saturday and director William Robinson gave much of the credit for the band's fine performance to the efforts and examples set by the senior class members of the group. These young men and women had many reasons to smile as they gathered behind the display of trophies brought home from the competitions at Towson State University. Among the awards are the trophies for the most creative show, the best music performance, and the state championship. Band members in the photo left to right are Jeremy Green, trumpet; drum captain Shawn Miller; Drum Major Julia Geisler; Jessie Powell, baritone saxophone; Art Winter, trombone; Beverly Sebold, piccolo/flute; Emily Green, clarinet; and Carrie Kelly, clarinet. Of this group Robinson said, "They weren't just my right hand, they were my right and left hand."

$75,000 BLAZE - An accidental fire caused at least that much damage to a house in the Grantsville area Monday morning, and left a family of nine homeless. The cause of the blaze, which was battled by two dozen volunteer fire fighters from several departments, was believed to be a child playing with a lighter. All members of the Patty L. Platter family escaped the one-story structure uninjured, however, one fire fighter was transported to the hospital to be treated for heat exhaustion. See story for details. Tree Planting Honors Late Roger Glotfelty

Family members and friends of the late Garrett County commissioner Roger P. Glotfelty gathered recently in the Courthouse Plaza to honor his service to the community by planting two Bradford pear trees on one of the landscaped islands.

Glotfelty served as county commissioner from December 1994 until his death in December 1997 and as chairman of the Board of Garrett County Commissioners for two of those years. A plaque commemorating his service will be installed near the trees in the near future.

"If Roger gave you his word, you could bet the family farm on it," spoke Commissioner Wayne Wilt at the tree planting ceremony.

In his tribute, Commissioner Wilt detailed the many boards and agencies Glotfelty served with and the many accomplishments that occurred during his tenure. These included the construction of the new Glendale Bridge, the purchase of the building to house the county farming services that now bears his name, the purchase of property and construction of the new Visitors' Center, the purchase of the G.W. Plaza for the new county health department, the expansion of the Garrett County Detention Center, the addition to the Accident branch of the Ruth Enlow Library, and enlarged office space for the Garrett County Economic Development Department.

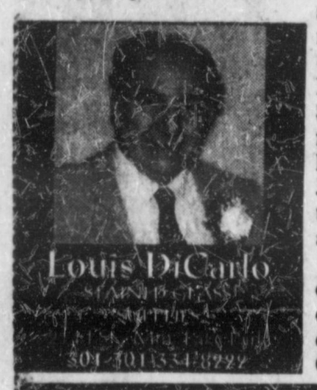
Wilt noted that Glotfelty had supported the first school bonding in the history of Garrett County, which resulted in the construction of the new Yough Glades Elementary School and new classrooms at Northern High School, as well as the [illegible] that helped to rebuild Wilson Road used by Mettiki Coal Company, which subsequently helped to save 260 jobs at Mettiki. He was also credited with being influential in the sale of the Oakland Train Station to the town of Oakland and the construction of the runaway truck ramp on Backbone Mountain.

Commenting on the many admirable qualities of the late commissioner, Wilt said that Glotfelty had worked on days that he was ill. He closed his remarks with the words, "Roger P. Glotfelty, Sr. will always be remembered as a statesman who put service above self."

During the ceremony Glotfelty's wife JoAnne thanked Garrett Countians for their many kindnesses shown to her and her family. Others attending the ceremony included Commissioner Gary Fratz, Commissioner-elect Ernie Gregg, Mayor Asa McCain, Register of Wills Joe DiSimone, and County Administrator Monty Pagenhardt. Commissioner Wayne Johnson was unable to attend because of a medical appointment.

Members of the ad hoc committee who planned the ceremony were Sue Shockey, Bea Crosco and Joan Crawford.

A TREE-PLANTING CEREMONY was held on the Courthouse Plaza in Oakland as the first step in a permanent memorial to the late Roger P. Glotfelty, former chairman of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners. A pair of Bradford pear trees were planted on a landscaped island, and a commemorative plaque will be installed at the location in the near future. Shown from among the participants and guests at the ceremony, from the left, are JoAnne Glotfelty, the late commissioner's widow, Commissioner Gary Fratz, J.R. Glotfelty and Sue Glotfelty, two of the late commissioner's children, and Commissioner Wayne Wilt. (Commissioner Wayne Johnson was unable to attend because of a medical appointment.)



Oakland Police Report Accident With Injuries

Oakland Police reported a two-vehicle accident Tuesday morning that resulted in injuries to one driver and a passenger.

The incident occurred at 11:35 a.m. on Third Street at the intersection with Omar Street. Police said that a vehicle driven by Judith Simpson, 36, Oakland, was northbound of Third Street when Woodrow Durst, 83, Grantsville, pulled out of Omar Street onto Third Street and struck the Simpson vehicle.

Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported Simpson and a juvenile passenger to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released. Oakland VFD also responded to the scene.

Durst was charged with failure to yield right of way and Simpson was charged with a seatbelt violation.

Clarification Noted

In last week's issue of The Republican, a story was published outlining the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce's plan to pursue a new funding formula from the Garrett County commissioners. The members hope to be granted one half of the county's accommodations tax revenue and one half of the amusement tax revenue. The story noted that this combined total would be about $700,000.

It should be noted that the chamber would therefore be requesting half of that total amount, or about $350,000. The group was allotted $245,935 for this fiscal year.

The story also stated that the chamber is "chiefly funded" by the county, which was inaccurate. The chamber receives 43% of its budget from the county and the rest from members' dues, Vacation Guide advertising, and various fund raising activities.

Driver Injured When Vehicle Strikes Deer

Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack reported that a driver was injured in an accident near Swallow Falls State Park last Saturday afternoon.

The police stated that Deborah L. Frye, 41, Jessup, was southbound on Herrington Manor Road south of Cranesville Road around 1:30 p.m. when a deer entered the roadway and struck the left side of Frye's vehicle.

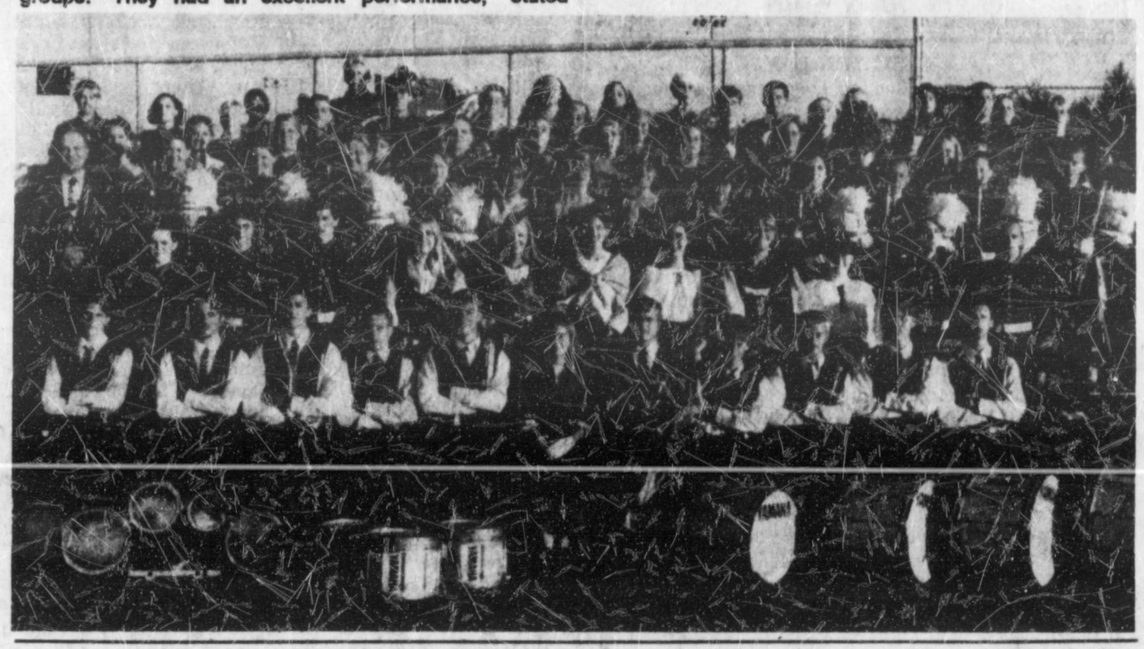
Southern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported Frye to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where she was treated and released.

No charges were filed in the incident.

DWI

Police reported the arrest on Oct. 25 of Robin L. Moyer Jr., 26, Oakland, for driving while intoxicated.

NHS, SHS BANDS SHINE AT STATE EVENT — Garrett County was represented with honor by its high school musicians at the Maryland State Marching Band Championship contest, held at Towson State University last Saturday. For the first time in Northern High School's history, the band earned the state championship trophy in Group I. The 35-member group, pictured above, also garnered specialty awards for Most Creative Band Show and Best Music Performance, among others. Southern High School marchers, shown below, earned the second place trophy in Group II, competing against 17 other groups. "They had an excellent performance," stated Richard Clever, director. Northern's director William Robinson commended each member of his band for dedication and playing ability. Over 1,000 marching steps were choreographed for the band's performance, "Tribes." Southern's show consists of the music from Carmen, involving exceptionally difficult arrangements. Robinson applauded the devoted members of the Northern's instructional staff: Eric Gallagher, John McLaughlin, Sharon McLaughlin, Mark Valko, Susan Bell, Todd Mason, Ralph Miller, Donna Glass, and John Clark. See stories for additional details about both bands' achievements.



"Amazing Barn Maze" Sponsored By GCC Ag Club

The Garrett Community College Agriculture Club has created the "Amazing Barn Maze," a one-acre corn field that has been transformed into a maze in the design of a barn. Persons are invited to enjoy the maze this Saturday, Oct. 31, from 1 to 5 p.m.

Participants will begin their journey by boarding a hayride wagon that will leave from the small parking lot of GCC near the baseball field. Once at the corn field, persons will enter the "barn doors" and work their way through the maze of alleys and rooms. One room will contain a petting zoo of farm animals.

The cost to participate is $2 for adults, $1 for children ages 6-12, and free for those under 6.

Also at GCC on Saturday will be a Cruise In Car Show by the Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club, beginning at 1 p.m. The day will conclude with a concert by the Fabulous Hubcaps at 8 p.m.

Persons desiring more information about these events may telephone 301-387-3021.

OTT Announces Added Daniel Webster Show

Because of the overwhelming audience response to the Our Town Theatre's (OTT) production of The Devil and Daniel Webster, the board of directors has announced that tickets are now available for an additional performance, scheduled for Sunday, Nov. 1, at 3 p.m.

Although the presentations for Oct. 29-31 are sold out, cancellations might make some tickets available for those evenings, according to Jane Avery, artistic director of the theatre. The admission price is $3 per person. Those interested in buying tickets should call the theatre at 301-334-5640.

In other OTT news, Avery noted that the performances of the play The Nerd, originally slated for November, have been postponed indefinitely.

"We were anxious to have a play over the Thanksgiving holiday, but didn't realize that many of our core actors would be going out of town," Avery said. "So we were unable to cast the play."

Other events — including play readings, improvs, and coffee houses — will be scheduled in place of the play.

The Artists' Ball is still on for this Saturday, Oct. 31, after that night's show.

"It will be like a big Halloween party with a theme," Avery said. "We are encouraging guests to come as their favorite works of art, artists, authors, or characters."

Tickets for the ball are $6 at the door.

Grantsville BPW Honors Local Business

Grantsville Foodland was honored recently as Employer of the Year by the Grantsville chapter of Business and Professional Women (BPW). Karen Batie, manager of the store in the Grantsville Plaza, represented Foodland to receive the commendation.

A graduate of Salisbury High School, Salisbury, Pa., Batie is in charge of aspects of business and customer relations for the store. Betty Jo Swauger, co-chair of the committee to select the Business of the Year, applauded Grantsville Foodland for hiring many women, who are placed in all levels of the organization.

She also praised the company's business practices. "They carry top-line produce and are participators in the latest promotions to benefit and encourage their customers," she said.

Foodland's management was also praised for involvement in local issues. "They contribute to the community by supporting many organizations and projects, especially with fund-raisers. We are privileged for their support to our BPW each year. This is a small way of saying thanks," Swauger concluded.

Batie advised young women starting their careers to pursue their goals and to do the best job possible.

They Should Step Down...

A letter to the editor in this issue reminded us of a topic that we had intended to address a few weeks ago, when a majority of our elected Board of Education members voted against supporting an anti-voucher resolution presented by the National School Boards Association. A voucher system, which has been proposed by a number of politicians and elected officials, would allocate tax dollars to parents to enable them to afford to send their children to private schools. Proponents call it "school choice," and suggest that it is the best way to give parents an option for their children if they are currently enrolled in a public school that is sub-par.

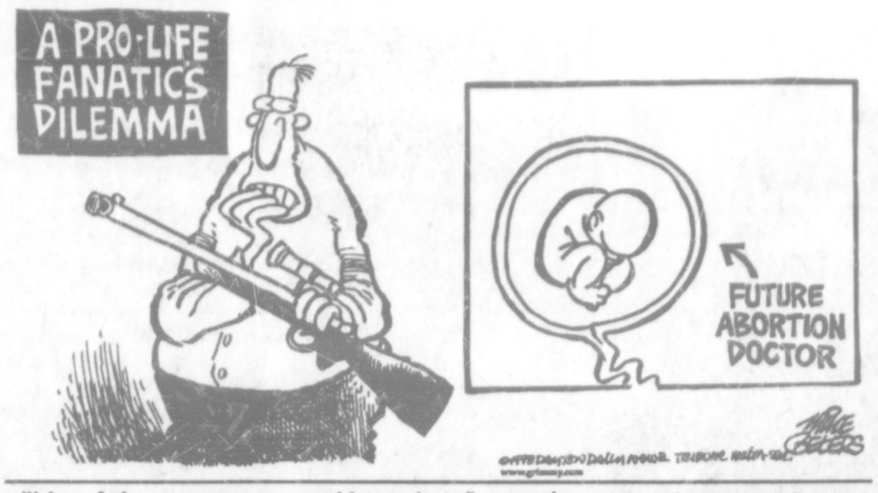
We strongly agree with the points made in the letter written by representatives of three local women's organizations, and would go a step further and suggest that the members of the elected board who voted against this resolution and signed their own counter resolution should either step down from the board or be removed. Their support of a voucher system, as members of a public school system board, is an outright violation of their pledge to work for and support the public system of education. If they personally and privately believe in the voucher system, that's their business, but in their roles as elected members of the board, they are bound to do all they can to protect and improve the public system, not work for the private system.

The members who voted in this manner say that they are concerned about the welfare of children who are currently having to attend certain public schools that are dangerous and inadequate, particularly in the metropolitan areas. That concern is understandable. But, using their logic, if a particular Garrett County school would happen to fail for some reason, the approach by these board members would be to turn their backs on the school and give vouchers so those students could attend a private school, rather than to do their job of correcting the problem at the school in crisis.

A voucher system would weaken, not strengthen, the public school system, because many of the most successful students would abandon it. It would create an elitist situation and increase the chasm between the haves and the have-nots. It fosters segregation, which ultimately would dilute the public system, robbing it of its diversity and its finest students.

Several members of the board often tout their personal convictions to the Christian faith, but we believe that support of a voucher system is, in fact, anti-Christian behavior. Let's save the best, and to hell with the rest of the "great unwashed." Such an attitude is about as anti-Christlike as one could get!

We appreciate and support the stand of school board member Jim Raley, who was the only one who chose to support the anti-voucher resolution, and tried hard to make his co-members understand why they should do the same.



Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I could not believe your editorial about Wal-Mart! Then suddenly it dawned on me: It was written by a man!

Welcome to Garrett County, Wal-Mart. We need you.

Edith Beeman

P.S. Do you dare print this?

To the Editor:

It is my privilege to support Gary Fratz as candidate for County Commissioner for District 2.

I've known Gary since he was a teenager, the youngest of nine children. Gary has always been thoughtful, deliberate, and considerate, but most of all, honest. I feel that Gary is for the working person, having been on the public work force. I do not feel Gary will make any promise of what he alone will do, knowing full well that he is a member of a three-member commission. Instead, Gary states his goals and what he will work for for his constituency.

Secondly, I am in agreement with Gary that the county is best served by having both parties in the commissioner seats. Gary was appointed to fill the vacancy created by Democrat John Braskey.

To every eligible voter, please vote. It's your privilege.

Sincerely,
Anna Mary Fratz

To the Editor:

At a recent meeting of the Greater Grantsville Business Association, the officers and members of the proactive business organization voted to officially endorse and support Frederick Holliday, candidate for Garrett County Commissioner from District 2.

Holliday is past president of the Grantsville Lions Club, of which he has been a member for fifteen years. He is also the charter president of Grantsville Area Jaycees and is an active member of the GGBA, Casselman Valley Sportsmen's Club, Grantsville Cemetery Committee, Garrett County Economic Development Corporation, and a member of the American Legion, Post 214. He also helped found the annual Grantsville Days event, which recently celebrated its 21st year.

As mayor of the town of Grantsville for the last 15 years, Fred Holliday has accomplished much through his public service with the support of a good administration and good townspeople. We as business leaders in our area encourage folks to head to the polls next Tuesday, casting votes for their candidates of choice.

Thank you,
Trish Morgan
GGBA Promotions Chair

To the Editor:

I was "home" for Autumn Glory 98' again this year when I read in The Republican your editorial, "The Festival, The Future."

You talk about short-sighted, narrow-minded individuals; you are king of the group. It is your kind of thinking that has driven graduating students from Garrett County high schools out of Garrett County for decades. We have left our home and our families by the hundreds to get out of the county and be able to get a good job, some culture in our life, and have our families brought up in an area away from narrow-minded people such as yourself. It is the lack of shopping and job opportunity that keeps us from returning home to Garrett County. Oakland needs some competition and a major discount department store is just one of the remedies for what ails the mountaintop.

It's time to bring Oakland into the 21st century and bring back some "baby boomers." There are families who would like to return home, but feel they can't due to the lack of job opportunities, shopping, and specialized medical care. No one wants to travel over 50 miles and 1¼ hours one way to get off a mountaintop to shop or see a cardiologist. You are continuing to drive our best resource off the mountaintop — your young people.

You say you want people to come back. I say, "Prove it!" Some of Southern and Northern alumni would like to come back. We're not just Autumn Glory visitors. This was our home.

Louise Cannon
Kentwood, Mich.

To the Editor:

As we approach the general election on Tuesday, Nov. 3, I would like to encourage all voting citizens of Garrett County to vote. The future of our county, state, and nation will reflect on everyone voting.

An important election will be of the county commissioners. Wendell Beitzel, a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident, has been a faithful member and servant to the church. Wendell is a lifelong active member of St. Paul's. As his current pastor, I can say that he has been very supportive of the church by singing in the choir, administering Holy Communion, supporting our youth going to church camp, and serving as an officer of the church council. He has been vice president and is currently treasurer. He makes sure that the church is financially sound, and he assists with the budgeting process for the church and the Accident Lutheran Parish. I feel Wendell will display similar characteristics with the county financial concerns and budgets.

Having a balanced budget is not only important to our church, but also to our county government. Wendell will hold the line on county taxes, yet will make sure that Garrett County citizens are supported. He will use common sense leadership as he has done with the county sanitary commission to create a positive vision for the future of all the residents of Garrett County.

I strongly endorse his election as a Garrett County commissioner on November 3. He would make an excellent chairperson for the commissioners. The more votes he receives, the better the chance this will happen.

Thank you for your time. God bless all our citizens and elected officials.

The Reverend Roland E. Nairn III
Pastor, Accident Lutheran Parish
Accident Town Council member

To the Editor:

Thank you for allowing me this forum to express my strongest support for Mr. John Richards in his quest to fill my seat on the Board of Education. While I believe his opponent is admirable, I believe John Richards with his 20+ years of experience as both a private and a public school teacher is the candidate of choice.

During my service on the Board of Education I have had the solemn responsibility to represent you, the good people of Garrett County. Thank you for the confidence you placed in me. I have had the opportunity to participate in a number of decisions that are serving to advance the quality of education in the Garrett County Public Schools.

A number of reforms, including the tape recording of all Board meetings and the wider distribution of meeting agenda and background information, were implemented to encourage greater public involvement in the policy making process. In the near future the entire Board of Education Policy Manual, along with minutes, meeting notices and agenda, will be placed on our web site at www.ga.k12.md.us/policies/t-oc_00.htm.

In keeping with the American tradition of opening meetings with prayer, area ministers in coordination with the Mt. Top Ministerial Association are now invited to open our meetings.

New policy has been adopted which mandates drug testing of all new Board of Education employees as well as testing of existing employees if reasonable cause exists.

The policy that governs the selection of textbooks and other instructional materials was revised to enable public input by placing materials under consideration on public display prior to final approval. This policy also requires the selection of materials that enable teachers "... to reinforce the benefits of fundamental American principles such as: That we hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; United States constitutional form of republican government; freedom of religion, speech, press, assembly, and petition; the role of the family as the primary unit of social structure; the right of parents to direct the education and upbringing of their children; the right of private property; the right to due process of law; and capitalism and the free market economic system."

In November 1995 all new Goals for the Board of Education were adopted which I believe represent our mainstream Garrett County concerns for getting back to the basics while respecting traditional family values.

I know that John Richards, with his 10 years' experience as a teacher and administrator in private Christian Education and 11 years experience as a public school teacher, is committed to continued progress. Please join me in electing John Richards and re-electing Rodney Durst to carry forward this common sense

ELECTION DAY

Memories of past Election Days spur my imagination as I think about next Tuesday. Election Day is about many things: party politics, public policy issues, character of candidates, interest groups rivalries. For me, though, Election Day is about community.

I can recall the first time I participated personally in an election. I was 13 years old. Mom and I went to the county seat, and met with the woman who was chairing the county Republican party at that time. We took home some signs and some boxes of envelopes to stuff.

Throughout my teen years I went door to door for candidates, rode in campaign caravans, and waved to voters at polling places. As time went on I became more and more involved. At one point a few years ago the whole thing became a burden for me. The joy and excitement of participatory citizenship left me.

Six weeks ago on the Primary Election Day, I recovered some of that excitement. I had promised a young man running for office that I would man my precinct for him. I had his signs, fastened one of his bumper stickers onto my broad-brimmed straw hat, and headed for the polls at quarter 'til seven in the morning.

The turn-out was light. In fact, the early turn-out was virtually nonexistent. I chatted with the other poll workers without regard to party or candidate. These were neighbors and friends. After a while one of my favorite cousins pulled in with her husband. I had expected to see them because they were strongly supporting the opposition candidate in the race in which I was involved.

They went inside to vote, and then came out to take up their signs to support their man. So there we stood, side by side, cousins in friendly opposition. While waving and smiling to incoming voters, we caught up on each others' lives and shared our views with each other on a variety of subjects.

Between the two of us, we could name just about everyone who came to the polls. Of course, in the friendly gossipy way of country places, we discussed many of those whom we recognized. Given how much the world has changed in recent years, this ability comforted me. It points to the reason why for me Election Day means community.

Later, when I went inside to cast my vote, I could name almost every person working the polling place. Most of them I had known all my life. We took time to speak to each other, commenting on the poor turnout, asking about each others' families, exchanging pleasantries, and speculating about the weather.

I have often said that all the people involved in the political process are bound together no matter how much we disagree with each other, even no matter how much we may dislike each other. The bond is a simple one: we care.

There are lots of people who complain from one election to another, but often the people who complain do not vote. In my book, not to vote is to forfeit one's complaining rights. Election Day is the principal opportunity most of us have to put our complaints into action. If we do not vote, our complaints are only wind.

Two years ago I had a conversation with two officers of the local American Legion. The topic under discussion was amending the Constitution to ban flag-burning. I told them I opposed such an amendment because it violated the very freedom of free speech for which those veterans had fought and further that it put the symbol (the flag) above the substance (the Constitution).

They replied by saying they would never support me if I chose to run for public office. I said, in my turn, "The flag-burners are not the problem, because they care enough to burn the flag. The problem in this country are the apathetic majority who do not care enough to take one-half hour twice every other year to vote. And you can't pass a Constitutional amendment against apathy." So go out and vote next Tuesday. In fact, there is time between now and then to phone your favorite candidate, and offer your help this weekend or on Election Day. Not only will you be promoting grass-roots democracy and community, you are very likely to have some fun.

Three Persons Sentenced In Circuit Court

Three criminal cases were heard in Garrett County Circuit Court last week and three defendants were sentenced.

A Manassas, Va., woman received a suspended prison sentence from Judge James Sherbin. Tera Ann Orey, 19, had been found guilty in August of disorderly conduct in a public place, second degree assault, and resisting arrest. At that time, her bail was revoked and she was sent to the local jail pending sentencing.

For the resisting arrest, Sherbin sentenced Orey to one year in jail and fined her $1,000. For disorderly conduct, she was sentenced to jail for 30 days, concurrent to the year term; and for assault, she received another concurrent 30 days. Sherbin then suspended all but time served, which had been 65 days, and placed her on one year of supervised probation.

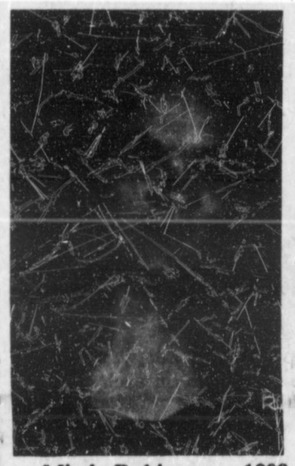
Orey had been involved in a public disturbance at the McHenry Comfort Inn in February. A Maryland State Police trooper had been called to quiet the guests, and he apparently found that Orey and several others were possibly smoking marijuana. When he tried to proceed with his investigation, the individuals reportedly became combative. Orey was accused of shouting obscenities and assaulting the officer.

A Mountain Lake Park man entered a guilty plea to the charge of driving while intoxicated (DWI) and was sentenced by Sherbin. Timothy Allen Welch, 33, had been charged with the offense on July 1 of this year on Rt. 39 in Oakland. The judge sentenced him to 18 months in jail and fined him $1,000, according to the court report.

A Boynton, Pa., man pleaded guilty to violation of probation and was sentenced by Judge Fred Thayer. Robert E. Getty Jr., 25, had originally been convicted of driving a vehicle with a revoked license. For the violation of probation, Thayer sentenced him to 10 days in jail, to be served on weekends. The judge terminated the probation, according to the report.

208 PINTS OF BLOOD is how much Arleigh Hauser of Oakland has donated during his life, which translates into 26 gallons, certainly a record level for Garrett County. Hauser reached the 26-gallon mark last Friday during a visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile to Oakland. A special plaque was presented to him by Elizabeth Huxford, Oakland bloodmobile volunteer coordinator, pictured above left. Also in the photo is Diane Bolt, blood services director for the Western Potomac Chapter of the ARC. There will be another visit of the bloodmobile to the county this Friday, as donors will be welcomed at the Kitzmiller fire hall.

NHS Graduate Witnesses Space Shuttle Launch



Mindy Robinson, a 1998 graduate of Northern High School and a freshman at the Florida Institute of Technology in Melbourne, Fla., was among the crowd that gathered this afternoon at Cape Canaveral to witness John Glenn and his fellow crew members of the NASA space shuttle Discovery lift off into orbit.

An astrophysics major who is attending FIT with the help of a scholarship she earned because of outstanding academic achievement at Northern, Robinson was chosen along with 14 classmates from the institute's student body to attend the launch.

The Friendsville native is the daughter of Randy and Linda Robinson. Her paternal grandparents are Leroy and Jo Ann Fisher of Friendsville, and her maternal grandparents are Edwin and Mary Hollada of Grantsville.

Burglary Story Correction Noted

Last week's reporting of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office activities over the previous week contained an error in the lead story regarding an $8,000 burglary of tools and other equipment from a trailer located at 17841 Garrett Highway.

The story incorrectly identified burglarized trailer as belonging to Delano's Carpet and Furniture Store, which had previously moved from its former location at the above address to a new location just north along Garrett Highway. While the trailer is on the premises adjacent to where the Delano's store used to stand, neither it nor the property at 17841 Garrett Highway belongs to the store. Railey Realty is the owner and manager of the property where the burglary occurred. Furthermore, no employees of Delano's were involved in the reporting of the crime to the sheriff's office.

The Republican regrets the error.

ALVA H. BROADWATER

Alva H. Broadwater, 81, Swanton, died Tuesday, Oct. 27, 1998, at the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home, Grantsville, where he had been a resident.

Born Nov. 12, 1916, at Savage River, he was a son of the late Jonas and Edith Broadwater. He was also preceded in death by his first wife, Ethel (Rounds) Broadwater; one brother; and three sisters.

He was retired from the B&O Railroad, and was a farmer. He was a member of the Dunkard Brethren Church, Broadwater Chapel, Savage River Road.

Surviving are his wife, Olive (Mayhew) Miller Broadwater; one stepson, Donald Miller, Keyser, W.Va.; four stepdaughters, Delores Custer, Barton, Marion Hanlin, Westernport, Darla Walters, Baltimore, and Sharon Wilhelm, Avilton; two sisters, Sadie Wilt, Loch Lynn, and Lavada Bittinger, Rawlings; 15 step-grandchildren; and 17 step-great-grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. today, Thursday. A service will be conducted at the funeral home on Friday, Oct. 30, at 1 p.m., with Elder Virgil Leatherman and Elder Gene Kauffman officiating. Interment will be in Rest Lawn Memorial Gardens, LaVale.

MAMIE H. BROADWATER

Mamie H. Broadwater, 94, Swanton, and most recently a resident of the Frostburg Village Nursing Home, died Saturday, Oct. 24, 1998, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Born July 4, 1904, at Bond, she was a daughter of the late Jonas and Edith Broadwater.

She was a homemaker and a member of the Dunkard Brethren Church, Broadwater Chapel, Savage River Road.

Survivors include her husband, Ellsworth Broadwater, who is also a resident of the Frostburg Village Nursing Home; one brother, Alva Broadwater, Goodwill Mennonite Home; and two sisters, Sadie Wilt, Loch Lynn, and Lavada Bittinger, Rawlings.

Friends were received at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport, where a service was conducted Tuesday, Oct. 27, with Elder Virgil Leatherman and Elder Gene Kauffman officiating. Interment was in Rest Lawn Memorial Gardens, LaVale.

VERNA E. JUNKINS

Verna Elizabeth Junkins, 79, Lincoln, Maine, formerly of Deer Park, died Monday, Oct. 26, 1998, at the home of her son in Lincoln.

Born Aug. 17, 1919, in Altamont, she was the daughter of the late George F. and Martha (Jackson) Comp. She was also preceded in death by her husband, James W. Junkins, in 1985.

Survivors include two sons, Bill Junkins, with whom she resided, and James Junkins, Monterey, Calif.; one daughter, Tammy Dixon, Akron, Ohio; one brother, George F. Comp Jr., Deer Park; and seven grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. today, Thursday.

A service will be conducted at the funeral home on Friday, Oct. 30, at 11 a.m. with the Rev. Fr. Chip Lee officiating. Interment will be in the Deer Park Cemetery.

The family suggests memorials take the form of contributions to the American Cancer Society.

JOHN M. PATTERSON

John Milton Patterson, 83, Troutville, Va., formerly of Cumberland, died Monday, Oct. 26, 1998.

He was the founder of Patterson Boat Company of Deep Creek Lake.

He is survived by his wife, Rae Anna Patterson; one son, Thomas M. Patterson, Cumberland; one stepdaughter, Sandra Thompson, Troutville; and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be private.

conservative reform for making our good schools the best in the Nation!

Goodspeed,
Patrick William Riley
President, Garrett County
Board of Education

To the Editor:

With November comes the beginning of America's long holiday season, and there is always much good cheer and charity to go around. As Americans we traditionally respond during this season by sharing our wealth with the needy and expressing our good will to all.

But before the arrival of the Thanksgiving, Chanukah, Christmas, Kwanzaa, and Ramadan come two other events of great importance to this nation, the leader of the free world. Tuesday, November 3, is Election Day and Wednesday, November 11, is Veterans Day.

In Maryland's elections we will be selecting a U.S. senator and congressional representatives across the state. We will also be sending a governor to the State House and senators and delegates to the 1999 session of our State Legislature, and choosing many local leaders, all of whom will take us into the new millennium.

What better way to honor our veterans than to exercise the rights they preserved for us and fulfill our constitutional responsibility to vote? So many valiant military service personnel have given so much to defend our free and open democracy that is driven by this election process.

We owe them this response, much like saluting the flag. It takes such a short time to vote, but it represents so much toward the continued preservation of our great nation. And, please don't let jury service, another important American duty, keep your name off the voting rolls for one more day. If each of us serves on a jury, together we can preserve every citizen's right to a fair and timely trial by a jury of their peers. Our system of government was created to serve all people. But this cannot happen unless we all take part in the governing process.

To the Editor:

I have been involved in Garrett County law enforcement for eight years now, and I really believe that the current system in the sheriff's office does not work. In saying that, I hope that the citizens of Garrett County will join me in supporting David Martin for sheriff of Garrett County. Dave is a man of high moral values and integrity. He has shown great passion and sincerity in his quest to be the county's chief law enforcement officer, something that you don't often find in today's politics.

I have heard that many people say Dave lacks the experience to be sheriff. I believe that with 15 deputies having over 200 years of law enforcement experience under their belts, the type of experience that Dave brings to the table is what the Sheriff's Office really needs. With more than 25 years as a business man, Dave has what all the other candidates lack: sound business administrative and management experience.

It is apparent that in the past this type of experience would have saved the county a great deal of money. A sheriff must be able to organize and prepare a budget that makes the best use of the citizen's tax dollar. He must be able to recognize existing problems and handle them accordingly. Above all, a sheriff must be able to administer law enforcement to all citizens fairly and impartially. He cannot place his friends or his own personal agenda above his promise that he makes when sworn into office: to uphold the laws and constitution of the State of Maryland. A sheriff nor any other law enforcement officer cannot turn his back on his duty.

There is very little being done to combat drugs in Garrett County by the current sheriff. This is very evident by the lack of drug arrests being made. As a former narcotics investigator with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, I know what illegal drugs do to our families and, most tragically, to our children. Dave has told me that he will be committed to both drug enforcement and drug education. This is the type of commitment that this county needs to ensure a healthy, drug-free environment for its citizens.

As a mentor, Dave has shown a commitment to our children that no other candidate has. His longtime involvement in local sports programs has taught our children the meaning of good sportsmanship and fair play. When he becomes involved in these types of programs, it's with the commitment that he is going to put every effort into it. He does not join programs in an effort to gain support from others, or to feather his own nest, but to give a little bit of himself to others in hopes that they can somehow benefit from his experience.

Our Sheriff's Office can truly be great again, but it will require a great man to make this happen. I hope that you will give Dave your consideration at election time for sheriff of Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Mark P. Proulx

To the Editor:

Improving academic achievement, especially in economically depressed communities, is a high national priority. The 106th Congress as well as our local representatives will be looking closely at what approaches will work best.

It is imperative, given limited resources, that policy-makers make wise choices. Citizens are encouraged to stay involved by remaining in touch with legislative agendas. Local school boards will play an integral role in the future of public education.

Vouchers, ironically referred to as school-choice, have been touted as a solution to the "troubles" experienced in our nation's public schools. Currently, the nation has two publicly funded voucher programs: one in Milwaukee and the other in Cleveland. Both are under litigation.

In a recent paper by Stanford University Professor Henry Levin (1998), substantive evidence comes from "choice" programs from here and abroad and from reviews of theory and practice. Levin writes, "contrary to some claims, much is known about how vouchers and related policies would work — and the weight of evidence is against them."

According to Goldhaber (1996), Cookson (1997), and Molnar (1998), inequalities in educational outcomes are likely to be exacerbated by vouchers. In recent statistical studies, researchers have uncovered no significant differences in student achievement. Additionally, these studies conclude that once the finance and service (donations, fund-raising, in-kind contributions) mix of public and private schools are taken into account, there are no financial savings. To the contrary, it is estimated that a full, national voucher system will add $73 billion to the educational bill passed on to American taxpayers.

It's not mere coincidence that the term "private" is so often followed by the phrase, "Keep Out." Private implies that there is no public. In the current publicly funded voucher models, private voucher recipients are not accountable to the public. For instance, they do not have to obey the state's open meetings and records laws, do not have to hire certified teachers or require college degrees, do not release information on employee wages or benefits, do not release data such as test scores, attendance figures or suspension and drop-out rates, and do not undergo annual performance evaluations.

Regrettably, our elected board of education recently failed to support an anti-voucher call to action presented to them by the Garrett County Education Association. Before November 3, we encourage voters to carefully examine the position of board of education candidates. A clear, pro-public education platform with cited examples of personal involvement, with our county schools are characteristics of the most suitable candidates.

Halloween is a time for kids to dress up in their costumes and parade through school and town. Halloween is also a time for trick or treating which means lots of candy. To help children during this time of year when there is an abundance of candy, we suggest the following:

Encourage your child to brush 3 to 4 times daily during this time of increased exposure to cavity-causing treats (Morning, after school, after dinner and at bedtime).

Encourage your child to chew sugarless gum.

Offer fresh fruits and vegetables.

Use fluoride and supplements.

Be sure your child has regularly scheduled dental examinations and cleanings.

Halloween is a time for fun and make believe. Don't give those cavity goons, ghosts and ghoulies a chance to turn your child's mouth into a nightmare.

Our office wishes you a safe and cavity-free Halloween!

Aid With County Services Offered In Grantsville

Residents of Grantsville in need of information or assistance from state and county agencies may be able to take care of part of their business by stopping in the office at town hall along Miller Street.

Thursday afternoon and evening, Bill Ferry, an investigator with the State's Attorney's Office, is available to meet with area residents who have questions concerning various services. Ferry spoke at the meeting of the Greater Grantsville Business Association this week to outline some of the assistance he could provide.

Ferry explained that as an investigator he is able to discuss issues related to crimes ranging from check fraud to neglect and abuse. He emphasized that he is always willing to talk with anyone about criminal issues but that he does not limit the type of help he offers to problems of this type. "It's not just about crime. You don't need to be a victim to come over and talk to me," he stated.

Listing types of assistance he can provide, Ferry said he can explain what to expect from the legal system, how to fill out forms for the court system, and to whom one should talk about particular legal problems. "I am also linked with all the other county services. I can help put you in touch with people who can help you with housing issues, and many other matters," Ferry said.

He stated that while people may still need to travel to Oakland for court business, he can at least save them from making two separate trips in many cases by providing forms or information while at the Grantsville office.

Ferry is in the Grantsville town hall Thursdays 1-4 p.m. and 5:30-7 p.m. To arrange a meeting in advance, persons may contact him at 301-334-1974, or through the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301-895-3188, or in Grantsville at 301-746-7407. He said he always welcomes drop-in visits.

JWCC To Host Hospice, Rotary Benefit Dinner

The Garrett County Chapter of the Junior Woman's Civic Club will host a spaghetti dinner at the Oakland fire hall to benefit Hospice of Garrett County and the Oakland Rotary Christmas Project on Friday, Nov. 13, from 4 to 8 p.m.

Dinners will cost $5 for adults and $3.50 for children age 12 and under and will include spaghetti, salad, bread, drinks, and dessert. Take-out meals will also be available.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from any club member. For more information, persons may call Elizabeth Huxford at 301-387-2280 or Kim Bevan at 301-334-4217.

Lutherans Again Working To Make Braille Bibles

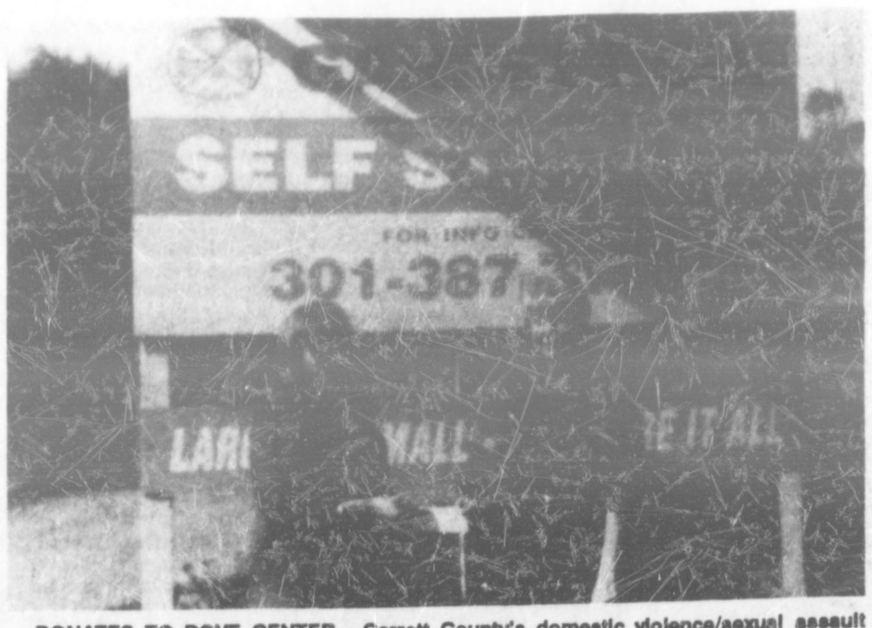
Volunteers from five area Lutheran churches are gathering together again this year to produce Braille versions of three books of the Bible. In order to obtain materials to make the books, the Lutheran Braille Workers Inc. #173 will host a benefit turkey dinner on Saturday, Nov. 7, 4:30-7 p.m., at the Northern High School cafeteria.

The cost of the meal will be $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12. Take-out meals will be available, as well as baked goods and crafts. The dinner is open to the public.

An estimated 58 million individuals in the world are blind, including about 1,225,000 in the United States, according to Carl Haenftling, leader of the Accident work center. Millions more are vision-impaired, he said. Lutheran Braille Workers Inc. is involved in preparing Braille and large print volumes of Bible books and Christian devotional materials every year to meet the spiritual needs of those persons. Materials are produced in over 40 languages and sent free of charge to blind people in 127 countries. There are 201 work centers in the country, with over 7,000 volunteers engaged in this work.

The local center, #173, is located at the Zion Lutheran Church in Accident, where volunteers produce three books of the Bible — the Gospel of St. John in Swahili, the Gospel of St. Luke in Burmese, and I Samuel in English. These books are sent to persons requesting them, Haenftling said.

Each fall the work center works to raise funds to purchase the needed supplies, and this turkey dinner (the 16th annual) is a key fund-raising event held by the volunteers.



DONATES TO DOVE CENTER - Garrett County's domestic violence/sexual assault resource center, the Dove Center, has benefitted from the generosity of local business owners Frank and Linda Lancelotta of Garrett County Self-Storage. Responding to the needs of the Dove Center to expand its library of educational materials, the Lancelottas contributed $500. In the photo above, Linda Spasell, executive director of the Dove Center, left, accepts the donation from Linda Lancelotta.

Steve, Lucinda and Amber Davis returned to their home in Augusta, W.Va., on Sunday, after visiting Linda, John, and A.J. Fleming for several days.

Orval and Mareva Teets visited last Wednesday with Arthur and Edna Teets in Hazelton, W.Va. They also visited Jim Teets, Bear Creek Road, as they returned home. They also stopped by Mark and Chloie Holtschneiders' near Accident to visit Caroline and Dan (Charles) Hutson in their new motor home, parked there. The Hutsons will be leaving Garrett County this week for the Dallas, Texas, area, where they will spend the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays with their son Craig and his family. Dan is a retired Garrett County school teacher, and Caroline recently retired from the postal service. They plan to travel, visiting different areas of the United States.

Bob, Delores, and Debbie Baker returned to Canton, Ohio, on Sunday evening after a weekend visit with Orval and Ruth Rounds and Jim and Luella Baker.

Helen and Junior Harvey of Kitzmiller visited Mary June Harvey on Monday afternoon.

Mike Ball, his wife and son, Frederick, visited his parents, Maxine and Meredith Ball, over the weekend. On Saturday Meredith and Mike attended a football game at West Virginia University, Morgantown, W.Va.

OTTERBEIN UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

The administrative board of Otterbein United Methodist Church met last Tuesday evening. Announcements were made of activities for November and December. November 1 is All Saints Day. A Thank Offering service is set for Nov. 24 at 7 p.m., followed by a "pound" party for the pastor and his wife. A family Christmas dinner will be Dec. 13 and the Christmas program is December 20. Revival services will begin Nov. 8 at 7 p.m. and continue thru Nov. 14. Rev. Roger Harrison of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, will be the evangelist. Everyone is welcome.

Last Saturday morning Ray and Carol Sweitzer, Connie and Dave Coleman, Rev. Meredith Ball, Harley Wildesen, Richard Gerlach, Sandy, Brian, Richard and Renee Schofield, Mary June Harvey, and Mareva and Orval Teets attended the Brotherhood breakfast at Casselman Restaurant, Grantsville. Rev. Stephen Lightner was the speaker.

Charles Muller, Hyndman, Pa., made a Gideon presentation at the Sunday morning worship service, Oct. 25.

The South Garrett Parish met here for its Day Apart, Sunday afternoon. Those representing Otterbein were Barbara Rexroad, Mary June Harvey, and Rev. and Mrs. Ball.

Mt. Top Gospelaires presented a musical program at the Gorman-Oak Grove Church on Sunday evening.

"Get Acquainted With Jesus," a Bible study, is being taught by Pastor Ball every Wednesday at 7 p.m. The class is open to everyone.

GOV'T EXPOSED!

Who's Qualified?

Wanted: Administrative officers; M/F, EOE, BOE. Values a plus.

The main job of the Commissioners up at the Courthouse is deciding how to spend our money. They do this by developing and implementing the county budget.

There's nothing mysterious about the process. Any housewife successfully operating a family household on a minimum-wage income could do it.

It takes priorities and a sense of values along with some understanding of the workings of government agencies and bureaucracies.

A smart housewife understands that money should be used to pay outstanding bills during prosperous times--or set aside for unexpected emergencies. An effective housewife intelligently distinguishes between needs and wants, prioritizes the wants, and budgets accordingly. A conservative housewife does more with less and makes a little go a long way. All housewives accept the fact that it tends to get a bit hot in the kitchen around canning time in preparation for winter.

In addition to dealing with the budget, the Commissioners attend meetings and listen to lots of complaints. The good ones listen very well. Like good parents, they demonstrate patience and understanding...

Good commissioners develop a public agenda based on true community value consensus. They care about the people who live here and about the environment we inhabit.

At the polls, we the people do the hiring. In adopting the county budget, the Commissioners do the firing.

The process is democratic. It ensures (most of the time) that all of us get the government we deserve--whether or not we decide to participate.

Sadly, government suffers because most housewives are too busy holding jobs and raising families to run for public office. It's a tragedy that some can't even find time to get to the polls on election day....

Boone Home To Be Among Those On Holiday Tour

The seventh annual "Home for the Holidays House Tours," sponsored by the Western Potomac Chapter of the American Red Cross (ARC), will take place on the first weekend in December. Among the houses slated for the event is the Jon and Barbara Boone home, located at 503 East Alder Street in Oakland.

ARC HOLIDAY TOUR HOME OF JON AND BARBARA BOONE

Captain John M. Jarboe, a retired Union Army officer, built this Queen Anne style house around 1894, according to the Boones, who added that the Jarboe family was a prominent one in Victorian Oakland. Captain Jarboe constructed many homes and some of the resort hotels in the area, including the Mountain Lake Park Hotel and what is now the Cornish Manor Restaurant.

Jarboe also served on the commission charged with the construction of the Garrett County Courthouse. Captain Jarboe died in 1912 and his widow, Virginia Baker Jarboe, purchased the house in 1919. It remained in the Jarboe family until the death of their son, John M. "Max" Jarboe in 1974. In that same year, Robert and Leanna Boal assumed ownership and carefully guarded the Jarboe legacy until 1996.

The house retains its original stained glass, pine floors, oak woodwork, and a magnificent curved staircase, the Boones said. The walnut sofa in the parlor belonged to the parents of Virginia Baker Jarboe and was in their home when the Confederate Jones' Raiders scavenged through Oakland and entered the Baker home. The marble-based kerosene lamp and pink teapot on the dining room mantel also belonged to the Baker/Jarboe family. An 1898 photograph of Gordon Mealy, the owner prior to the Jarboes, is displayed in the entrance hall, along with photographs of Captain Jarboe and historic scenes of early Oakland.

The current owners are Jon and Barbara Boone. Jon's original watercolor paintings and Barbara's handmade quilts are displayed throughout the house. They plan to revive some of Max Jarboe's splendid gardens and ponds around the grounds.

Tickets for the holiday tours, which are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, will be available at the following locations: Proudfoot's, Englander's, and Gregg's pharmacies in Oakland; Flowers by Webers on Weber Road; Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry; and Arrowhead Market, Deep Creek Lake.

Guests are asked to refrain from taking pictures or videotaping in the homes.

This fund-raiser is one of the ARC's best sources of income to help meet the immediate needs of the area's disaster victims, a spokesperson noted.

House Damaged

The roof of the house was totally consumed by the fire, as was the bedroom in which the fire started. Most of the household contents were damaged by smoke, fire, and water. The owner did have insurance.

Wendling said that the house did have a smoke detector, but it was inoperable. He added that the family was unable to remain in the house and received initial aid from the Red Cross.

Some 25 fire fighters brought the fire under control in about 35 minutes, but remained on the scene for about two hours.

Taylor Proposal

nomic development director for Garrett County, discussed the One Maryland Strategy with the Garrett County commissioners this week, after having talked about the plan at the first meeting of the Western Maryland Economic Development Strategies Task Force.

"We were obviously not very happy about being excluded [from the third tier], but I think we made some definite headway in discussions about it with the speaker. The plan could actually be very good for us," Hinebaugh said.

David Moe, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, reported yesterday that Taylor has agreed to include Garrett in the third tier.

In his plan, Taylor has listed the following counties as distressed: Garrett, Allegany, Dorchester, Somerset, and Worcester. The three-tiered strategy involves tax benefits for job expansion and temporary support to depressed economies. It is designed, Taylor has stated, to "spur economic activity in those areas disproportionately suffering from high unemployment, limited tax capacity, and maximized tax effort."

The first tier of the initiative would address the dilemma through a payroll tax credit triggered in areas with unemployment levels at 150% of the state average (which includes Garrett). Employers in these counties who create at least 25 new jobs would be eligible to receive the proceeds of the state share of employee payroll taxes for 15 years, in lieu of paying those taxes to the state. The credit would apply only to the new jobs created so that current state tax revenues would be unaffected.

The second tier of the program would offer a 15-year benefit to businesses in the form of a 100% tax credit on corporate income taxes up to the amount of the company's total capital investment in its facility. The credit would only apply to income attributable to the project in that county.

The third tier would be a county's participation in the Smart Growth Economic Development Infrastructure Fund. Counties could qualify, Taylor's plan states, for an infrastructure development loan for water, sewage, or shell building. According to his original proposal, these counties must meet two criteria: they must have high unemployment levels (which Garrett has) and must be approaching maximum tax capacity (which excludes Garrett).

His original plan indicates that the counties qualified for this third tier are Allegany, Baltimore City, Dorchester, and Somerset.

"Although two additional counties [including Garrett] have high unemployment, they also have additional local tax capacity to fund infrastructure needs," the document states.

Edwards disagreed with this, as did other local officials, which led to the further discussion on the matter, which has reportedly resulted in the inclusion of Garrett in the third portion of the plan.

Shown from the left are freshman Tani Peelgrane, an Adventure Sports major who was raised in Denver, Colo., and more recently lived with her family in Australia, and who was nominated by professors Steve Tomb and Steve Storck; sophomore Chris Sanner of Mill Run, Pa., a Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology major nominated by NRWT program director Kevin Dodge; and Andrea Barrick of Keyser, W.Va., a behavioral science major who was nominated as the school's student-athlete of the month by Laker volleyball coach Marg Quinn.

opportunity for us," said David Moe, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. "And it's something that may never come our way again."

While the task force was formed chiefly in response to the Kelly-Springfield closing, its tasks have grown to include total economic development and marketing of western Maryland.

James Hinebaugh, Garrett's economic development director, is among the group's members, as are Delegate George Edwards, Senator John Hafer, Commissioner Gary Fratz, local businesswoman Elaine Lascaris McDonald, and Moe. A wide range of state agencies are also being represented, including the Maryland Office of Planning, Department of Business and Economic Development, Housing and Community Development, Higher Education Commission, Economic Development Corporation, and Labor, Licensing, and Regulation.

The 42-member force also includes persons such as Beverly Byron, William Donald Schaefer, and a myriad of persons representing businesses, unions, and organizations.

"You wouldn't believe the power in the room at that first meeting," Hinebaugh told the commissioners at this week's public session. "This is a powerful group of people, and I feel sure we're going to see some real strides made in solving the chronic economic problems we all have."

On November 3, 1998, the citizens of Garrett County must make an important and crucial decision when selecting a Sheriff.

As retired members of the Maryland State Police we represent over 959 years of law enforcement service and experience. We well realize the importance of honesty, integrity and professionalism in law enforcement; however, also of utmost importance is the need for an "experienced" police administrator. Policing in today's "high tech" fast paced society is complex and requires a great deal of knowledge about modern law enforcement principles. Good police administration can only be acquired through past experience in supervising and managing daily law enforcement operations.

We have all known Sheriff Dick Sanders for more than 25 years. He is the only candidate that possesses the necessary attributes, ability and experience to administer and lead a modern law enforcement agency into the next century. To that end, we strongly urge you to cast your vote to keep Dick Sanders as your Sheriff.

Northern Netters Perfect In Wins Over Preston, Southern

The Northern High School volleyball team closed out its regular season with a bang this week as the Huskies swept both Preston and Southern by 3-0 margins.

Boasting an 11-4 record, NHS heads into the Maryland Class 1A West Region playoffs, opening with a home match against Mt. Savage on Friday, Nov. 6, at 7 p.m. The winner of that contest will advance to play Westmar on Monday, Nov. 9, in Lonaconing.

The 3-10 Southern Rams will host Flintstone in their opening playoff appearance on Monday evening in Oakland at 7 p.m., after first taking on Preston at home tonight for a 7 p.m. contest.

Northern opened the week by blasting Preston by scores of 15-8, 15-6, and 15-10. Mimi Harvey led the Huskies with 17 points, while Rebekah Hinebaugh added 13 points.

The Huskies' junior varsity swept their match as well, 15-9, 15-12, behind Karla Buckel's six points.

Last night in Oakland the Huskies demolished the Rams 15-5, 15-6, and 15-10. Heidi Frazee led NHS with 11 points, including a pair of aces, and two kills. Melissa McKeever had four aces, Hinebaugh tallied three aces and two kills, and Harvey added three blocks.

Jessica Saturday had nine kills for the Rams, Laura Johnson had four kills, and Erica Wilt had five assists.

Northern took the junior varsity match 18-16 and 15-9 as Jolene Brenneman tallied 11 points, including three aces. Nikki Ravenscroft led Southern with nine points.

THE BALL WASN'T IN THE AIR TOO LONG on the Huskies' side of the net in last night's 3-0 sweep of Southern High by Northern High's volleyball team. In downing the Rams by scores of 15-5, 15-6, and 15-10, the Huskies ended their season with a 11-4 record on the way into Tuesday's opening round of the Maryland Class 1A West Region playoffs. Shown above, from the left, Southern's Jodi Bowser (#23), Jennifer Teagarden (#10), and Brittany Slider (#21) await the return by the Huskies, led by Mimi Harvey (#27), Melissa McKeever (#18) and Heidi Frazee (#13). In the photo at the right, Slider prepares to serve with a basketball backboard decorated with her name and number in the background. Backboards throughout the Southern gymnasium were decorated to honor the Rams' departing seniors, Slider, Jodi Bowser, Jessica Saturday, and Sarah Thomas. Southern's regular season comes to a close as the Rams host Preston tonight, followed by a playoff appearance at home against Flintstone, set for Monday, Nov. 9, at 7 p.m.

He is the son of William and Sandra Carlson.

Northern Girls Drop Final Match To Mountaineers, 1-0

A goal by Angel Spataro of Beall was the only score of the evening in a match between the Northern High School girls' soccer team and the host Mountaineers last Thursday night. It was the final regular season match for both teams.

The Huskies, who had defeated Beall earlier in the season, dropped to 6-5-1 overall and 6-3-1 in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League with the loss, while Beall improved to 4-8 overall and 4-6 in the WMIL.

Northern out-shot the Mountaineers by a 14-10 advantage, and also finished with a 5-0 lead in corner kicks, but Spataro's shot got by Northern keeper Ashley Warnick at the 28-minute mark of the second half. Warnick had five saves for the evening, while Shari Simmons recorded eight stops in goal for Beall.

Spataro's goal was scored off an assist by Jackie Wilkes.

The Huskies will get another shot at the Mountaineers this Friday at home in an opening round of the Maryland Class 1A West playoffs. If the Huskies are successful in that match, they will then play cross-county rival Southern either Nov. 3 or 4.

Southern Girls Whipped By Spartans; Prepare For Playoffs

In probably their flattest performance of the 1998 season, the members of the Southern High School girls' soccer team concluded their regular season Saturday night by dropping a 5-1 decision to visiting Bishop Walsh. The Rams were ranked second, while the Spartans were the top-rated team in the area. The loss dropped Southern's overall record to 9-2-1 and improved the Spartans' mark to 16-4-1.

Lauren Zapf, the area's leading scorer, recorded four of the Spartans' five goals. She gave her team a 1-0 lead with 20:39 left in the first half with a shot off a feed by Shera Rowan. She doubled that score just 50 seconds later when she scored off an assist by Allison Earnest.

Gina Reeves cut the Spartans' lead in half for the Rams at the 8:40 mark of the first half when she scored off an assist by Jennifer Hickman, to make it 2-1 at halftime.

The second half, however, was all BW's, as Zapf scored two more goals off assists by Earnest and Rowan at the 31:22 and 19:29 marks, respectively. She then earned an assist when Kaitlin Sweeney put an insurance goal on the board for the Spartans with 16:25 remaining in the match.

Bishop Walsh finished with a commanding 24-9 lead in shots on goal and had a 6-3 advantage in corner kicks. Becky Martin was credited with a dozen saves in goal for the Rams, and Tiffini Wagner had six stops for the Spartans.

The Rams, who drew a bye in the first round of the Maryland Class 1A West Region playoffs, will face the winner of the Beall-Northern match either Nov. 3 or 4.

Laker Netters Split In Final Week Of Regular Play; Tourney Ahead

Although Garrett Community College women's volleyball team got off to a slow start in the final week of regular season play by losing to Potomac State, 3-1, and Catonsville, 3-0, the Lakers bounded back by downing Allegany in a three-game sweep and defeating Montgomery-Rockville, 3-2. The action brought the Lakers regular season to a close with a 19-10 overall record and a 7-4 mark in the JUCO conference as they head into this weekend's Region XX Tournament at Hagerstown as the fourth seed. They will open tourney play by taking on Charles at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Last Thursday at Keyser, W.Va., the Lakers led off by taking the first match from the Catamounts 15-1, but fell in the next three 15-10, 15-7, and 15-11.

Erica McBride served for a perfect 11 of 11 with two aces, Crystal Kimble was 12 for 13 with three aces, and Mindy McCarty was 12 for 15 with a pair of aces, as each of those three players tallied eight service points.

McBride led the Lakers attack by going 12 for 25 with 10 kills, McCarty went 21 for 24 with eight kills, and Barrick was 16 for 21 with nine kills. Barrick was also seven for eight on solo blocks, while McCarty was 37 for 45 on sets with 13 assists, and McBride was 48 for 63 on sets with 19 assists.

A Saturday road trip to Catonsville resulted in three straight Laker losses by scores of 15-12, 15-5, and 18-16.

A strong all-around performance by McCarty led GCC by going 10 for 13 on serve with three aces and six points. She also went 13 for 18 on attack with three kills and had five solo blocks, two of which netted points for the Lakers. She also converted 29 of 32 setting opportunities and had 11 assists.

McBride was 17 for 22 on the attack with three kills, and went 6 for 8 in solo blocks, scoring three times on her blocks. Barrick went 15 for 23 on the attack with a team-leading six kills.

Sindy Niner accumulated a team-high 12 service points as she went 19 for 20 from the line. Crystal Kimble was 12 for 13 with one ace and six points, and was 41 for 51 in sets with seven assists. Laurel Wolf was 10 for 11 with five points.

Energized by a return to their home court on Monday, the Lakers sent the Trojans of Allegany packing in short order after three straight 15-6 victories by GCC.

McBride was 16 for 17 on service with a team-leading 14 points and seven aces, and also went 12 for 17 on the attack with eight kills. McCarty went 10 for 10 on serves with six points and a pair of aces, and converted 12 of 14 attacks with three kills.

Niner was 14 for 20 on the attack with eight kills and Barrick was 12 for 14 on the attack with eight kills of her own. Wolf had two aces and Kerri Sines one ace from the service line as each player tallied eight service points.

Last night in McHenry the Lakers and Montgomery-Rockville went the distance in a five-game match with the hosts eventually triumphing. The Lakers won the first two contests 15-5 and 15-8, fell in the next two 15-13 and 15-11 before finally prevailing 15-7 in the finale.

McBride was 23 for 24 from the service line with 17 points and one ace, Niner accumulated 16 service points and two aces, and added eight kills. Kimble had 13 points and three aces in addition to a team-high 22 assists. Sines had nine points and one ace.

Barrick was 26 for 32 on the attack with 18 kills and also had four blocks, while McCarty had 10 kills and 20 assists.

DNR Slates Youth Deer Hunt Day

Maryland's fourth annual Youth Deer Hunt Day will be held on Saturday, Nov. 14. This popular one-day deer hunting season was initiated by DNR in 1995. On this day, properly licensed hunters, under age 16, may hunt deer throughout the state. Young hunters must be accompanied in the field by a person at least 21 years of age who possesses a valid Maryland hunting license, or is exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements. The adult may not possess a firearm, bow or any other hunting device while accompanying a youth afield on this day.

"Most people that become hunters begin hunting as a youth and learn to hunt from a family member," said John R. Griffin, secretary of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR). "This special deer hunting season provides an opportunity for young people to receive the undivided attention of an adult willing to pass on hunting techniques, safe firearm handling, and the enjoyment of hunting. Knowledge learned in Maryland's Hunter Education Program is enhanced through the assistance of experienced deer hunters. Perhaps most importantly, this day provides a formal invitation for an adult to pass on the tradition of hunting."

In recent years, fish and wildlife agencies have gathered a great deal of information on what factors affect participation in hunting. The most important factor affecting whether people take part in hunting is their family. Most hunters begin to hunt before age 20, and it is usually a family member, typically a father or father-figure, that serves as the teacher. Hunters exposed by a family member at a young age tend to hunt more frequently and are more likely to continue to hunt throughout their lifetime. The message here is that taking a young person

Runnin' Rams Sweep WMIL Championships; Regional Next

The Runnin' Rams of Southern High School continued their winning ways this past week, as both the defending state champion boys' team and the state runner-up girls' team swept the Western Maryland Interscholastic League Championships, held last Thursday at Allegany College in Cumberland.

The Southern boys finished with 32 points to defeat Westmar with 56, Fort Hill with 76, Allegany with 80, and Beall with 110, while the Southern girls squeaked by Allegany to claim the title. Both Southern and the Allegany girls finished with 35 points, but Southern's sixth runner finished higher than the Campers' sixth runner, which gave the win to Southern. Only the top five finishers for each team determine the team winner, except in the event of a tie. Southern's sixth runner placed 12th, while Allegany's sixth finisher was 17th.

Westmar finished third as a team with 60 points, Fort Hill was fourth with 99, and Beall was fifth with an incomplete score.

Leading the Southern boys, coached by Carl Booth, were Beau Gibson and Casey McBee, who placed second and third, respectively, with times of 16:46 and 17:16. Westmar's Zach Bittinger, who has won nearly every race this season, finished first in 16:18.

Eric Rexrode placed seventh for the Rams, while Ted Wolf also made the top 10 with a ninth place.

Pacing Southern's girls, coached by Louis Newcomb, was senior Amy Snyder, who finished third with a time of 20:33. Angie Sincell and Beth Sauder were fifth and sixth, respectively, and Katelyn McBee was 10th. Nory Sams and Erin Davis of Allegany placed first and second with identical times of 19:47.

The Rams will compete in the 1A West Regional Championships this Saturday.

Huskies Nipped By A Single Point In Petersburg Contest

"We moved the ball but we couldn't score," was Northern High School head football coach Phil Carr's succinct wrap-up of the Huskies 7-6 defeat at the hands of Petersburg Friday night. "We dominated everything but the scoreboard, and that's what counts."

The visitors put the first points on the board when Josh Wratchford plunged into the end zone from the two yard line in the first quarter. Kelly Rumer's successful point after kick put Petersburg up 7-0. Northern replied when halfback Mark Wolf scampered 30 yards to score with just under four minutes remaining in the second quarter. The conversion kick attempt failed, and the two teams hunkered down and didn't allow a point the rest of the way.

Northern missed a scoring opportunity at the end of the first half when a gamble for the end zone failed. "They hadn't been stopping us on our last drive downfield," recalled Carr, "so we spiked the ball with 11 seconds remaining to make it fourth down and one at the seven yard line. We picked up the first down and nearly scored on the next play when Wolf carried the ball to about the one-inch line, but with three seconds remaining a quarterback sneak failed, and time ran out on us.

"Our defense played great, as it usually does, and our offense moved the ball as well as it has all year. That makes the loss even more disappointing."

The Huskies racked up 269 yards on total offense, nearly half of that supplied by Wolf's outstanding first half rushing performance of 139 yards in 15 carries. Wolf, who twisted his knee on the next-to-last play that nearly resulted in a touchdown just before halftime, was forced to sit out the remainder of the contest. "It was Mark's kind of game," Carr commented. "Straight ahead power running and hitting the holes quickly. It's too bad he was injured, he was having a great night."

Wolf was helped as he ran behind some of the best blocking the NHS offensive line had mounted all season. Center Dan Rounds, tackle John Carey, and guard Casey Casteel, who came out of a back-up role to start for the first time this year, consistently pushed their opponents off the line of scrimmage.

The Huskies, holders of a 4-4 record, have a bye this week, and will close their regular season with a visit to Southern High School for a 7 p.m. contest with the Rams on Friday, Nov. 6.

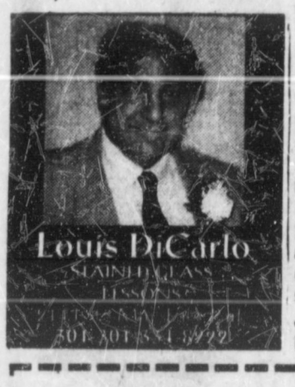
SERVICE CLUB B-BALL TRYOUTS SET - Tryouts for the Service Club Basketball League are slated for this coming week at the gymnasium of Southern High School. Tryouts for fifth through eighth grade girls are set for Monday, Nov. 2, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Tryouts for fifth and sixth grade boys will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 3, from 5:30 to 7 p.m., and tryouts for seventh and eighth grade boys will be held that same evening from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Any boy or girl who was absent for his or her age group's tryouts may attend a make-up tryout on Wednesday, Nov. 4., from 5:30 to 6 p.m. For further information interested persons may contact Dave Bender at 301-334-4390 or Fred Greg at 301-334-8416. Shown above is some of the play from a Service Club League contest of last year: from the left, Johnathan Sypolt (#52) and Joel Heibig (#40) follow the action as Joe Davis (#50) and Stephen Teagarden (#43) reach for a loose ball.



Four Former Rams Inducted Into Southern Hall Of Fame

Four former football standouts for Southern High School were recently inducted into the SHS Football Hall of Fame during special pre-game ceremonies at the athletic field. The inductees were Mike Bittinger, J.R. Gibson, Al Marucci, and David Terrant.

Bittinger was a three-year starter for the Rams and a two-time All-Area selection, on both offense and defense, as he excelled as a fullback and as a defensive tackle. He anchored the defensive line that was instrumental in the Rams' being undefeated in the regular season two consecutive years. During the three years that Bittinger started (1986-88), the Rams won 29 games while losing only five. No other teams in the history of the school have ever won more games during a three-year span.

Bittinger's numerous awards included: Outstanding Freshman in 1985, Best Defensive Lineman in 1987, and Best Defensive Player in 1988. He was selected to the All-Highland Football Conference in 1987 and 1988. He was a second-team Times News All-Area selection as a running back and a first-team pick as a defensive lineman in both his junior and senior years. Bittinger is regarded as one of the most versatile players ever to play the game at Southern High School.

After graduating from high school in 1989, Bittinger enlisted in the United States Army and served as a paratrooper in the 82nd Airborne Division. He served in the 1991 Persian Gulf War. After attending Fairmont State College, he was hired by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office as a deputy, where he now serves as the K-9 handler. Bittinger coaches both youth league football and baseball. He is the current president of Lodge #99 Fraternal Order of Police and was recently elected to the Republican State Central Committee.

Bittinger is the son of Faye Bittinger and the late Bill Bittinger and is married to Rebecca Finch Bittinger.

J.R. Gibson, an outstanding quarterback at Southern, was a three-year starter who led the Rams to back to back play-off appearances in his junior and senior years. He led Southern against James M. Bennett in Southern's first home playoff game on a sub-freezing afternoon. He holds the single-season record for most rushing two-point conversions, and was voted the team's MVP in 1983.

After graduating from Southern in 1984 he attended Catholic University where he quarterbacked the football team for four years. During his senior year he passed for over 1,600 yards while leading his team to a record of 8-2, Catholic's finest record in the past 50 years. He set a record single-game completion percentage of 78% against Duquesne University.

Gibson enlisted in the U.S. Navy in 1992 where he served as a Machinist Mate 2nd Class on the USS Newport News submarine until January of this year. In 1996, he was chosen as the Junior Sailor of the Year and received the first Navy achievement medal. He currently lives in Yorktown, Va., where he is employed by Siemens Automotive in Newport News as a production machinist while he is completing a degree in mechanical engineering.

Gibson joins his brother, Zack, a 1994 inductee, as the first brother combination in the Hall of Fame. He is the son of Richard and Yascho Gibson of Oakland.

Al Marucci played for the Rams from 1966 to 1969. Although he played offense, his forte was as a linebacker. As a three-year starter on defense, he recorded over 100 individual tackles. He was the defensive captain his junior year and the team captain his senior year. His knowledge of the game and intensity enabled him to call all of the defensive signals on the field his junior and senior years. He was selected second-team All-Area his junior year and first-team All-Area his senior year. He was also named to the Tri-Valley All-Star team his senior year. Former coach Bill Frost said he regarded Marucci as one of his best linebackers during his 24 years as a head coach.

Marucci, who resides in the Oakland area with his son A.T., is the son of Margaret and Alfred "Blue" Marucci, who is also a member of the SHS Football Hall of Fame.

David Terrant, an outstanding tailback, led the area in rushing and scoring his senior year, while leading the Rams to a playoff berth. He was named as a first-team member of both the All-Highland Football Conference and the Potomac Valley Football Conference. He was the first recipient of the Most Valuable Player award of the Northern-Southern football game. He was selected to play in the second annual Maryland-West Virginia Coaches Football Classic, where he was honored as the Most Outstanding Offensive Player. His 1,312 yards gained in 1983 are the second most ever gained by a Southern player in one season.

Terrant is the son of Tony and Isabelle Terrant and currently resides in Falling Waters, W.Va., with his wife Cynthia and daughter Megan. He is employed as a tractor trailer driver by D. M. Bowman Inc., Williamsport.

Parks Steps Up To Pace Rams Over Trojans, 46-14

With one's first-team quarterback and leading tackler both sitting on the bench with injuries, and playing on the field of an opponent that features one of the area's most outstanding running backs, any football coach would have great concerns about his team's success. However, the Southern Rams saw a couple of younger players step up to the task last Friday night at Hampshire, and they not only won the contest, but won it easily.

Another plus for the Rams was that they did not have to deal with Hampshire's top performer Matt Meadows, who was sidelined with an ankle injury.

Under the leadership of second-team quarterback Keith Parks, the Rams rolled over their West Virginia opponents, 46-14, to up their season record to 5-3 and keep their playoff hopes alive for the 1998 campaign. Parks, a junior, not only led his team in rushing with 114 yards on just six carries, but he also completed six of seven passes for 84 more yards and scored two touchdowns.

The Rams wasted little time putting their first points on the board, as Parks engineered a six-play, 83-yard drive on their first possession that was capped with a three-yard touchdown run by Jason Weaver. Nick Dolan ran successfully for the two-point conversion.

Parks concluded the Rams' next offensive drive with a 13-yard touchdown run, which completed a drive that began inside their own one-yard line after an outstanding punt by the Trojan punter. Parks passed to Dolan for the extra two points to give Southern a 16-0 lead, still in the first quarter.

It was another 13-yard touchdown run, this time by Josh Bosley, which concluded the next Ram drive. The pass for the two-point conversion was no good and Southern led 22-0.

Fourth Quarter

H - Steve Dunham 6 run (Chuck Braithwaite to J.R. Carte pass).

The Trojans finally put their first points on the board late in the second quarter when Joe Davis connected with Logan Haines on a 14-yard touchdown pass. A highlight of the drive was a 49-yard pass from Davis to Haines. The pass for the extra two points failed and the Rams had a 22-6 halftime lead.

The third quarter was all Southern's, as the Rams scored three more touchdowns and three two-point conversions. The first TD was scored on a 56-yard run by Parks, followed by a two-point run by Weaver to make it 30-6.

Weaver then scored on a six-yard run and Bosley ran for the conversion to give the Rams a 38-6 advantage. The final Southern touchdown was recorded by Jeremy Hayhurst on a one-yard run late in the quarter and Jordan Uphold ran for the two-pointer.

Hampshire was able to score again late in the fourth quarter on a six-yard run by Steve Dunham. Chuck Brathwaite passed to J.R. Carte for the two-point conversion.

The Rams amassed a total of 511 yards, with 445 of them being recorded on the ground. Bosley and Weaver joined Parks with over 100 yards each.

Hampshire (2-7) was limited to 190 yards, 95 on the ground and 95 through the air.

"We were elated with our performance," stated Coach Tom Woods. "Keith (Parks) just played a tremendous game for us, and our offense executed very well for about the fifth game in a row.

"Mike Lantz stepped into Billy Stoner's spot on the offensive line and did a great job, and Mickey Chapman took Billy's place at middle linebacker and also had a very good game," he said. Stoner was out of the line-up with a deep contusion of the calf, while starting quarterback Justin Liller has been lost for the season with an arm fracture.

"Defensively, we were very unemotional in the first half," Woods said, "and we gave up a lot of yardage. But we focused on that problem at halftime and the kids played an outstanding second half."

Woods said that two other starters, lineman Tommy Diehl and receiver Jason Rohrbaugh, were also hobbled with hamstring and ankle injuries, respectively.

"But Tommy and Jason should be 100% this week, and Billy will at least be back in the line-up, but he hasn't played for two weeks," Woods said.

The Rams' season will literally hang in the balance this Friday night at home, at least in terms of whether or not the Southern team will play in the post-season. Their opponent will be the Allegany Campers, a squad that has lost only once this season (to Musselman).

"We simply have to win this game in order to make the playoffs," Woods said. "We jumped from 14th in the state to ninth this week, and a win over Allegany would catapult us into the top eight."

The Campers have lost only to Musselman, but dodged two big bullets the past two weeks in squeaking out last-minute victories over both Hedgesville and Keyser.

"Keyser really should have won the game last week, but a touchdown that was called back and an interception with less than two minutes set up a winning touchdown for Allegany," he said.

"Allegany plays really well at times, and they have played pretty poorly at other times this year," he continued, "so we believe we have a real chance."

The Camper offense utilizes the wing-T, but is quite diversified, using the veer and option. "They are predominantly a run-oriented team, but also have a potent passing attack when they need it," Woods said.

The running game is led by junior fullback Dave Aydelotte (6-2, 220), who is averaging about 125 yards per game, and is described by Woods as "absolutely the most physical" fullback the Rams will have faced this year. Other standouts include junior halfback Naaem Page (5-10, 190), senior quarterback Jeremy Strother (5-8, 160), senior tackle Jimmy Hilton (6-1, 265), and junior split end Dan Shanholtz (6-4, 185).

"Shanholtz is Strother's favorite target, and he is without question one of the most outstanding athletes in the area," Woods said. "He will play some kind of major college athletics, I'm sure."

The Campers' 6-2 defensive unit is anchored by senior defensive ends Damian DuVall (6-4, 210) and Ian Iliff (6-3, 205), as well as junior linebacker Andy Wilson (6-1, 185) and senior defensive back Adam Schmidt (5-10, 170).

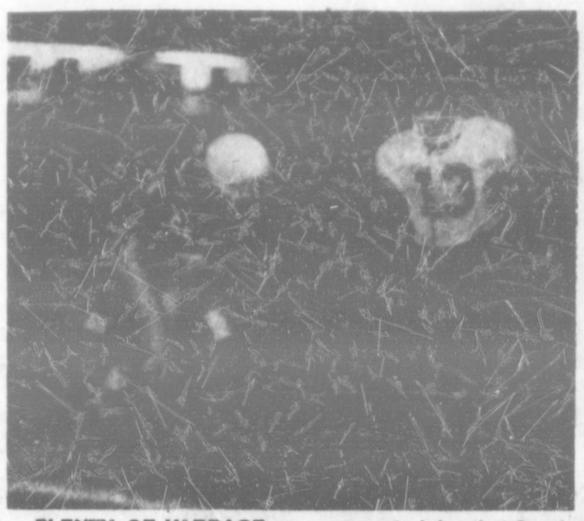
"It's the typical Allegany defense, with most of its strength on the line, which makes it very difficult to run against them," Woods said.

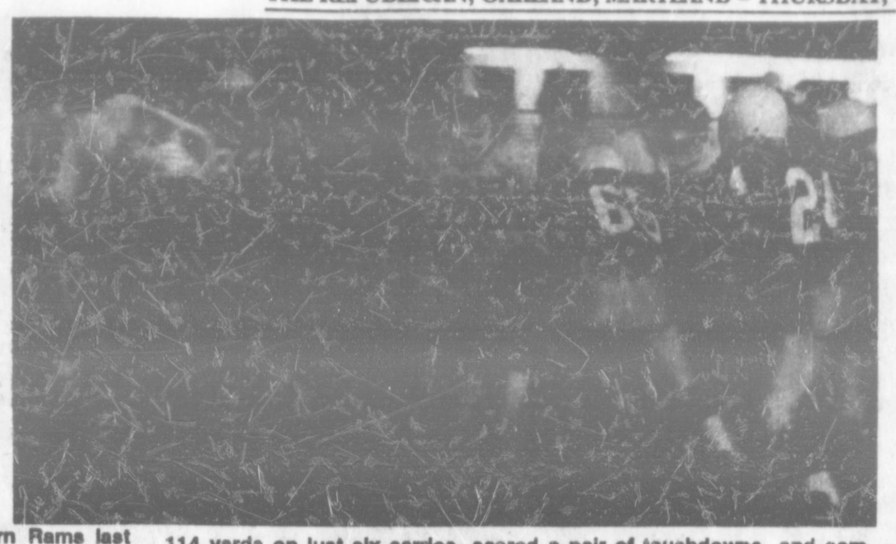
"Offensively, we will try to keep doing what we have been doing: establish our running game with our off-tackle trap," he said. "Defensively, we believe we match up well in team quickness, but we will have to be quick and hit hard to contain a runner like Aydelotte."

Woods said he is pleased that the game will be in Oakland, and he hopes a large crowd will be out to support the Rams. "The weather is going to be perfect, and it really makes a difference for our kids when there are a lot of loud fans in the stands."

Woods also noted his pride in his '98 squad. "When we were 1-3 it would have been so easy for these kids to throw in the towel," he said. "But they didn't, and they deserve all the credit for coming back and making themselves a playoff contender. We haven't had to urge them to do this."

Friday's kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.





PLENTY OF YARDAGE was generated by the Southern Rams last Friday night at Hampshire, as the local team rolled to a 46-14 victory with a 445-yard rushing effort. It was the fourth straight win for the Rams, who are two victories away from a playoff bid. Pushing a defender out of his way in the above left photo is back-up quarterback Keith Parks, who had an outstanding game in his first start. Parks gained 114 yards on just six carries, scored a pair of touchdowns, and completed six of seven passes. Above right, recording still more yardage through the inside of the Trojans' line, is Southern's Nick Dolan, who has been a key player on offense all year for the Rams. Southern will face a major test this Friday at home when they host once-beaten Allegany.

Long-Time Ram Supporters To Receive Passes

A special ceremony will be held this Friday evening at the Southern High School athletic field just prior to the 7:30 p.m. kickoff of the Southern-Allegany football game.

At least a dozen longtime supporters of athletics at Southern, including retired coaches, administrators, and other board of education personnel, who had at least eight years of service in some capacity, will be awarded lifetime athletic passes that will be good for all athletic events at the school.

According to Tom Woods, athletic director, such a presentation will be made twice each school year, beginning this year, with the second presentation to take place sometime this winter during basketball season.

"There are a number of people who have done so much for Southern High School athletics, and we believe this is a great way for us to recognize that service," Woods said, adding that the presentation would take place at about 7:10 p.m. Friday.

Tailgate Party Slated Before Allegany Game

A tailgate party has been planned for the Southern High School athletic field this Friday evening prior to the football game between the Rams and Allegany.

Fans are invited to bring a covered dish and eating utensils, and plan to arrive at the parking lot at 5:30. All other items for the meal will be furnished.

A Southern victory over the Campers, and a defeat of Northern in the final game the following Friday, would virtually assure the Rams a playoff berth in the Maryland Class 1A championships.

"The weather and the game are both predicted to be great that evening, so we hope a lot of fans come out to support the Rams," stated a party organizer.

hunting, especially a son or daughter, is vital for instilling a hunting tradition that will last a lifetime.

Youth hunters harvested 1,665 deer during the 1997 Youth Deer Hunt, a 19 percent increase over the previous year. The three leading counties were Garrett with 307, Allegany with 207, and Washington with 188.

Young hunters who wish to participate in the November 14 deer hunt must possess a Maryland resident junior hunting license; or be younger than 16 years of age and be exempt from Maryland hunting license requirements; or be younger than 16 years of age and possess a Maryland nonresident hunting license.

Each young hunter who deer hunts on November 14 is entitled to receive a specially designed arm patch. These attractive iron-on patches, are available on Nov. 14 at all Maryland Official Deer Checking Stations throughout the state. The Chesapeake Chapter of the Safari Club International donates the funds to purchase these blaze orange and black patches.

The Chesapeake Chapter of the Safari Club International is also sponsoring an all expenses paid eight-day trip to Texas in July, 1999, for two young Maryland hunters. The two youngsters will learn about wildlife conservation and its relationship to game management. Interested youngsters should apply by following the instructions on page 16 of the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping In Maryland 1998-99. This publication is available from all DNR Sport License Agents and DNR Regional Service Centers.

On November 14, youth deer hunters may take one antlered or antlerless deer. Bonus Deer Stamps are not valid in Region A or B for this one day hunt. The second deer must be antlerless if the first deer taken was antlered. The second deer may be either sex if the first deer taken was antlerless.

For additional information regarding Maryland's deer hunting regulations or for information about hunting on more than 250,000 acres of public land, interested persons may consult the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1998-99.

HITTING THE MARK - Marksmanship winners have been announced for the summer muzzleloader and bow tournaments sponsored by the Farmers' Wildlife Association of Asher Glade. The club, which promotes conservation of wildlife and hunter safety, recently presented awards to the winners in each category. In the photo above, the winners of the youth bow competition in row one are Matthew Artice, first; Arron Warnick, second, Richard Warnick, third, and Bugs Massey, fourth. In row two are Jeremy Paugh, seventh, men; Stacy Paugh, first, women, Ice Massey, second, women; and David Hook, eighth, men. In row three winners in the men's category are Lonnie Artice, first; Don McKenzie, second; Jon Sines, third; Wes Massey, fourth; Jerry Sines, fifth; and Mike Yoder, sixth. In the photo below muzzleloader award winners in row one are youth category winners Natalie Durst, first; Ben Sweitzer, second; Arron Warnick, third, and Richard Warnick, fourth. In the back row are Dee Durst, first, women; men's winners Eugene Durst, first, Ervin Sweitzer, second, Donald McKenzie, third, Phil Smith, fifth, and Jon Garner, sixth; and Cheryl Sweitzer, second, women. Winners not pictured were Jon Knox, fourth, men, and Lori Knox, third, women.

RAM Notes

by SGHS Staff Members

• The SGHS computer lab will be open every Wednesday evening from 5:30 until 8 p.m. for students and members of the community. This is an open lab in which parents, students, and community members are invited to use the lab independently or with the help of the proctor on duty. Please contact Mr. Csonka if you have questions.

• Harvest for the Hungry is a campaign designed to raise canned food for disadvantaged families in Maryland. This year, the Maryland's Tomorrow Program at SGHS and the Garrett 8 Cinema are cosponsoring this year's canned food drive. On Nov. 5, 6, and 8, any movie goer who brings in a canned food to Garrett 8 Cinema will get a free small popcorn. Everyone in the community is invited to participate in this very worthwhile cause. Anyone with questions can call Holly Janoska at SGHS at 301-334-1310.

• There will be no school on Tuesday, Nov. 2, because of the General Election. The staff and student body encourage all eligible voters to be responsible citizens and exercise their Constitutional rights and go to the polls and vote.

• SGHS Parent Conference Night is scheduled for Thursday evening, Nov. 12, from 5:30 until 8:30 p.m. Teachers will be available during those times to discuss individual student progress with parents. The Guidance Department will also be conducting a financial aide workshop during the evening for interested parents and students. Please contact the Guidance Office at the school if you have questions. Fred Gregg will also be sponsoring a motivational speaker in the school cafeteria that evening.

• On Wednesday, Dec. 2, the SGHS Success Team will be taking 250 students to Ford's Theatre in Washington, D.C., to see A Christmas Carol. Students are being invited to participate if they have earned at least one PR coupon as a result of ten consecutive days of good attendance and behavior.

Currently, the cost of the trip for each student is $38. As you might guess this may not be affordable to many of our students and we do not want to exclude anyone as a result of the economic status of their family. On Saturday, Oct. 31, we are sponsoring a dance for students in the school cafeteria to raise money in an effort to reduce the cost per student. All money collected will be used for that purpose. Any parent or community member interested in sponsoring a student for the trip should contact the school. Any monies donated would be appreciated. Please feel free to contact Lynn Bell, principal, if you have additional questions or concerns.

• In recognition of Red Ribbon Week, SGHS hosted two assemblies on Oct. 27, for all students. Corporal Daryl Llewellyn, from the Maryland State Police, presented "Zero Tolerance."

This presentation included the legal ramifications of underage drinking. The students were also informed that one does not have to be drinking in order to be cited for possession of alcohol. All that the police have to show is that an underage person is in the immediate proximity and could access the alcohol. Mike Paesani, John Andrews, Chris Ewing, and Mike Pamepinto assisted Cpl. Llewellyn. These varsity basketball players demonstrated their talents of the court wearing fatal vision goggles. These goggles mimic some of the physical effects of alcohol including balance, coordination, and depth perception — all things needed to drive a car safely and play basketball.

The other assembly attended was Trauma Nurses Talk Tough. These nurses from Ruby Memorial Hospital presented a slide show of real life situations that have been brought into the Emergency Room and Intensive Care Unit. Regardless of speeding, Driving While Intoxicated, or violation of seatbelt compliance, this presentation reinforced the need for students to make wise choices and use common sense.

• Earlier this year, SGHS submitted a grant proposal to the Maryland State Department of Education for almost $100,000. These funds are Comprehensive School Reform monies, awarded to individual states from the federal government, and given to schools which have demonstrated a deep commitment to improving student achievement.

On Tuesday, SGHS was visited by two representatives from the Department of Education which met with approximately 20 members of the SGHS School Improvement Team and representatives of the Garrett County Board of Education. During that meeting, SGHS was informed that of the 32 applications filed from across the state, we were one of 11 finalists which warranted an official visit.

The visit involved an extensive question and answer period during which time the state representatives commented about how impressed they were with the level of dedication and commitment by the faculty, staff, and student body towards the effective implementation of Comprehensive School Reform. Official notification of awards will be announced within the next two weeks.

• For further information on news and events at SGHS, interested persons may call the school at 301-334-1535 or 301-334-9447.

"The students themselves added most of the fun and showy items, including war whoops, fancy footwork, and spins," Robinson pointed out.

Playing in a small band, the Northern students face challenges different than those confronted by members of larger groups. "When most people think of a band, they think of six or eight trumpets — NHS has two; four to six mellophones — NHS has two; three or four tubas — NHS has one; 15 or more percussion — NHS has 6; and 30 flutes and clarinets — NHS has 12. When a member of the Northern band has a note to play, he or she must play it. If the individual doesn't play it, it doesn't get played. If the note is wrong, there is nobody to hide behind," Robinson said.

The small size of the group also affects the judge-to-member ratio. With approximately one judge for every three players, not much is missed, he emphasized.

The director applauded the dedication of each student and the leadership provided by senior members. On the field, the drum major, senior Julia Geisler, is in command. A flautist and piccolo player, Geisler was recognized by many of the judges as having one of the most difficult scores to conduct on the field, Robinson said. The score contained over 40 meter and tempo changes.

Members of the woodwind, brass, and percussion sections received accolades from director Robinson for their accomplishments. "Each person worked hard, and winning this title is exciting for everyone," he concluded.

Children and Families in Your Community: A Roundtable Discussion on Results and Indicators

The Maryland Partnership for Children, Youth and Families invites you to attend a roundtable in your local area to discuss the results with other members of your community. The roundtable will offer you an opportunity to learn more about Maryland's Child and Family Well-Being Indicators and ask questions about our exciting new strategy. Please contact your Local Management Board (LMB) to register. If you cannot participate in your local roundtable, we have planned a public hearing in Annapolis on November 12, 1998, at the Legislative Services Building on Rowe Boulevard.

The Partnership looks forward to your participation.

Guest Fitness Instructors Will Help Raise Heart Rates, Funds At Workout

Guest fitness instructors from the tri-state area will present their unique style of exercise and energy at the upcoming Workout for Hope, a fund-raising event scheduled for Nov. 15, 2-5 pm, at Southern High School. The workout will benefit the House of Hope and is being coordinated by Brenda's Body Shop and Premier Physical Therapy.

"The Workout for Hope is really coming together and we are so pleased to have such experienced, entertaining, and knowledgeable guest instructors coming to lead a segment of our workout. I'm sure our participants will love the energy and enthusiasm these instructors will provide," stated Brenda Brosnihan, event coordinator.

Guest instructor Sarah Farmer has taught aerobic classes for 11 years and has been a competitive athlete in "sportaerobics" for the past four years. She has won numerous regional medals and recently qualified for the Nationals in the Women's Class I Individual category. She is coached by past national champion and repeat national medalist Dale Duncan, as well as by national champ and 1996 World Aerobic champion Elaine Alfano. Farmer is married and is a high school English teacher at the Milton Hershey School in Hershey, Pa. She will lead a segment of the Workout for Hope as well as perform her award-winning sportaerobic routine, Brosnihan said.

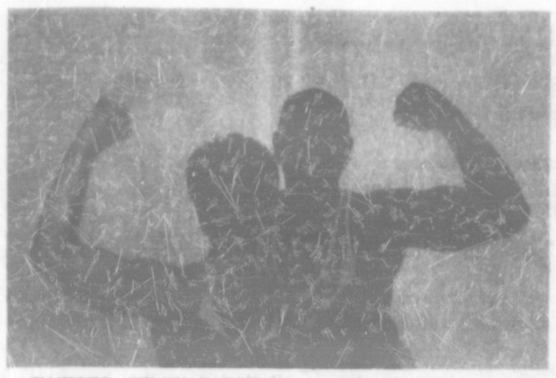
Guest instructors Mary Beth and Stan Stewart of YODAPOD Personal Fitness Group have been teaching aerobic classes and personal training in Northern Virginia for 15 years. The pair have been involved in sportaerobics since the mid-1980s, and have won numerous medals in the event. The team will be introduced at a medal ceremony at the Workout for Hope Event.

In addition to instructing at the Workout for Hope, the Stewarts will serve as judges for a sportaerobics competition, "Challenge for Hope," slated for Saturday, Nov. 14, at the Friendsville Elementary School. The local contest is being held to choose a team of youth to represent Garrett County and Brenda's Body Shop at the U.S. National Aerobic Championships this April.

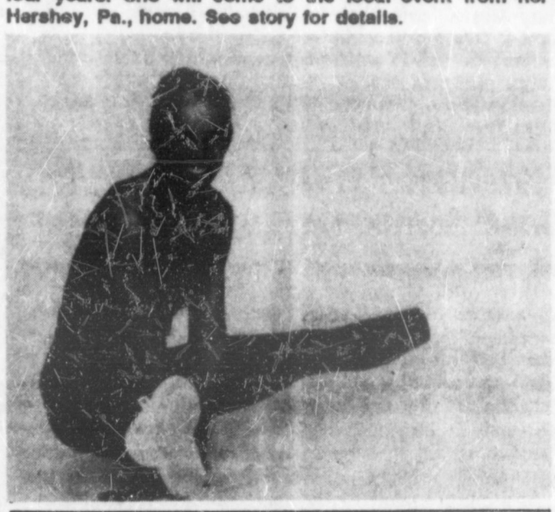
Workout for Hope participants are to seek pledges from friends and family and agree to participate in at least one segment of the workout. Participants will be awarded prizes for their efforts. All the money will be donated to the House of Hope. The public is welcome to attend as a spectator or a workout participant. Spectators will be asked to give an open donation at the door or to donate a non-perishable food item for the House of Hope's food pantry.

"The Workout for Hope is a family event and children ages 3 and up are welcome to participate," Brosnihan said, adding that the Pittsburgh Pirate Parrot will be sharing his antics during the children's "Weird and Wacky Workout."

There will be refreshments, entertainment, and door prizes.



GUESTS HELPING OUT AT HOPE WORKOUT — The annual Workout for Hope, a fund-raiser for the local House of Hope, will feature the talents of three guest instructors, each of whom is accomplished in the world of aerobics. Mary Beth and Stan Stewart, shown above, are "sport-aerobic" specialists. They will travel to the Southern High School event from their home in northern Virginia, where they have taught aerobic classes for 15 years. Sarah Farmer, shown below, has taught in the fitness arena for 11 years and has been a competitive athlete for the past four years. She will come to the local event from her Hershey, Pa., home. See story for details.



TWIRLERS INVITED TO DISNEY WORLD — The Crissettes Twirling Team, pictured, has been invited to perform at Walt Disney World in Florida next March. The members will compete in three categories and will perform a dance routine with Disney characters. They will also participate in a Contest of Champions Parade, which will be televised on ESPN, according to a spokesperson. Solo competitors will include Angela Laffey, Kristen Gough, and Katelyn Price. Various fund-raisers are being planned to assist with air fare and accommodations for the girls, who are all from the Oakland, Friendsville, and Tri-Towns areas. The twirlers are under the direction of Crissie Maynard-Wildman, USTA coach and judge, assisted by Holly Price and Angela Laffey. The Crissette Twirlers pictured above in the front row, left to right, are Brittney Upperman, Angela Laffey, and Ashley Rohrbaugh (Deer Park). In the second row, same order, are Amber Plank, Bree Turgeon, Tracy Rush (all of Oakland), and Katelyn Price. Back row: Holly Wampler, Christi Benedict (both of Friendsville), Jessica Wilson (Swanton), Melissa Rohrbaugh (Deer Park), Christa Uphold (Friendsville), Michelle Holler (Oakland), and Kristen Gough.

Pa. Man Faces Charges After ATV Theft

A Pennsylvania man has been charged with felony theft in connection with a September theft of a four-wheeler from a residence in the 5400 block of Avilton Road, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Harry Edward Parker, 18, Smithfield, Pa., was taken into custody by Pennsylvania state troopers this week as a result of their investigation of how the 1997 Honda four-wheeler, valued at $3,000 and recovered recently near Uniontown, Pa., passed through the hands of several buyers in the weeks since the theft was reported. Parker was eventually identified as the primary suspect in the actual theft.

Parker is currently being held in the Garrett County Detention Center on a $500 bond.

In other sheriff's news, a Tuesday domestic assault in Deer Park resulted in the arrest of William Thomas Sachs II, 38, Deer Park, after he allegedly grabbed his 19-year-old son, William Thomas Sachs III, during an argument. After his arrest on a charge of second-degree assault, Sachs was released on his own recognizance.

A $500 car stereo amplifier was stolen from a pick-up truck parked on Gorman Road near Hershman Welding. Taken from the truck between Oct. 18-22 was a black Rockford Fosgate brand amplifier, model 4080.

DWIs

William Gary Riggleman Jr., 27, Kitzmiller, and Harold Dean Michaels, 46, Swanton, were each arrested by sheriff's deputies and charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI) recently.

GARRETT COUNTY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Editor's note: This column will appear once or twice per month over the next several months to help keep persons informed on the progress of affiliation negotiations between Garrett County Memorial Hospital and West Virginia United Health System. The first article, written by Leonard Eiswert, counsel for the hospital's Board of Governors, is about the founding, history, and governance of the hospital.

THE HISTORY AND STRUCTURE OF GARRETT COUNTY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

There was a time in Garrett County's history that obtaining health care was not as simple as driving to a hospital in town or picking up the phone and calling 911 for help. The closest hospital available to the citizens of Garrett County was in Cumberland. If you had an emergency you were treated by local physicians and surgeons as best they could in their offices or at the scene. In the event that you needed to be hospitalized, transportation to the hospital was by private automobile, by train, or, according to a long-time resident, in one of the local mortuary's hearses. If you were expectant parents, most likely your child would have been born at home. You had the option of going to the hospital in Cumberland or another hospital out of the county. This scenario changed on April 2, 1950, when the Garrett County Memorial Hospital officially opened its doors as the first and only hospital in the history of the county.

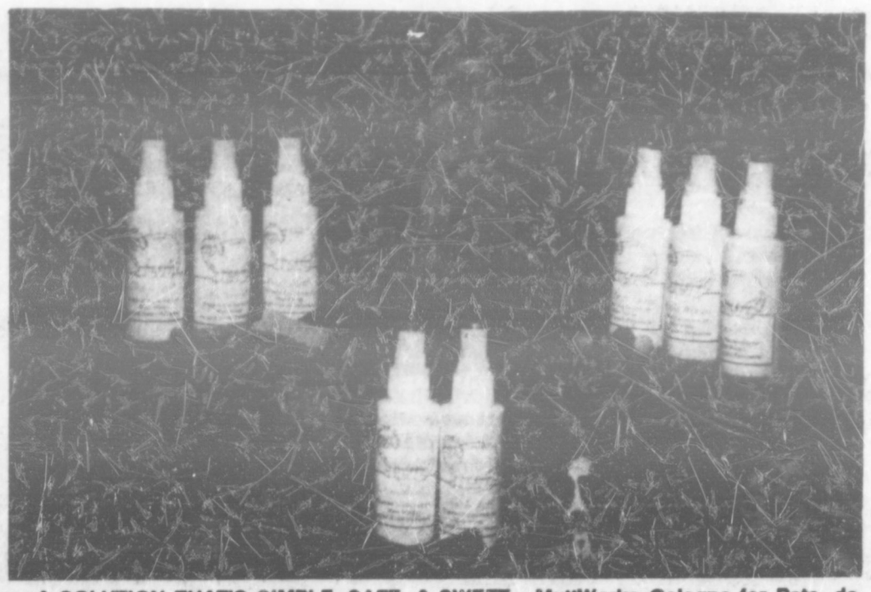
George W. Loar, a local business man, wanted a hospital in Oakland. In his will he gave a total of $170,000 "for the construction and equipping of a hospital building in Oakland, Maryland, of a size, design, and type suitable and appropriate to the needs of the community and its ability to support and maintain the same."

He requested that the hospital be built on what was known as the Helbig land then owned by the town of Oakland and used as the city park. He provided that the hospital would be operated by a board consisting of the three county commissioners, the president of the Town Council of the town of Oakland, the president of the Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross, a physician, and two persons selected by the two local banks, the First National Bank of Oakland and the Garrett National Bank. Mr. Loar requested that the hospital be called the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Mr. Loar died on January 27, 1946.

On February 24, 1946, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland agreed to convey the Helbig land to the county to be used as a location of the hospital. On April 2, 1946, the Board of County Commissioners adopted a resolution agreeing to accept, maintain, and support the hospital. Because of the structure of county government it was necessary for the Legislature in Annapolis to approve the county's acceptance of the property and its agent to support the hospital. In Chapter 25 of the Laws of Maryland, 1950, the General Assembly approved the actions of the county commissioners. It also officially established the Board of Governors of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. In 1953 the General Assembly by statute expanded the size of the Board of Governors from 8 to 11 by giving each of the county commissioners the right to appoint an additional board member. The Hospital Statute was again amended in 1959, making it clear that the Board of Governors was the governing body of the hospital, designating it as a "body corporate and politic," and that it, as such, had all powers "proper and necessary" to operate and manage the hospital. In 1978 the size of the board was expanded from 11 to 16 by adding four at-large members to be appointed by the Board of Governors, changing the position of hospital administrator to president of the hospital and making the president a voting member of the board. The most recent change in the composition of the Board of Governors was made in 1993. At present, the county commissioners and the president of the Town Council of Oakland may either personally serve on the board or they may designate a person to serve in their place. In addition, each of the county commissioners has the right to appoint an additional member to the Board of Governors. The medical staff of the hospital may appoint one of its members to serve on the board. There are seven at-large seats on the board. The total membership is now 15.

In 1983 the Board of Governors of the hospital and the Board of County Commissioners asked the attorney general of Maryland to clarify the relationship between them with respect to the operation of the hospital. They also wanted to know whether or not the provisions of the Loar will continued to apply to the operation of the hospital. The attorney general replied that once the purposes of the Loar will were accomplished, it no longer had any operational effect on the operation of the hospital. The attorney general also stated that the hospital was to be operated under the control of the Board of Governors in accordance with the current version of the Hospital Statute. This statute is codified in Chapter 71 of the Code of Garrett County.

When the hospital was first built, the Garrett County Health Department occupied a small suite in the hospital building and the county commissioners paid rent to the hospital for that space. Over the years the health department needed far more space than was available in the hospital. Consequently, it acquired space in various locations throughout the county. In the early 1980s the hospital renovated and expanded its facilities. As a result of this expansion, a portion of the original hospital building did not meet hospital clinical code and was made available to the health department in 1982 on a rent-free basis. By 1994, increased demand for ancillary and outpatient services resulted in the need for more space. The space then being occupied by the health department was the most economical source of space that was needed for administrative and non-clerical use. At the same time, increasing space needs of the health department required more space than was available at the hospital. In 1995, the Board of Governors of the hospital and the Board of County Commissioners agreed to seek a declaration from the Circuit Court of Garrett County with respect to the Board of Governor's right to control the allocation of space on the hospital property. In July of 1995, Judge Fred A. Thayer determined that the Board of Governors of the hospital had sole authority to determine if any space on the hospital property could be used for non-hospital purposes. With the cooperation of the Board of Governors, the health department's move out of the hospital building was phased over a two-year period and was completed in October of 1997.



A SOLUTION THAT'S SIMPLE, SAFE, & SWEET - MuttWorks Cologne for Pets, developed by perfume professional Jeanie Wilt and marketed by Grantsville groomer, Lindy Moebs, can replace that well-known doggie odor with a touch of natural fragrance. This product was not created to appeal to the fur-bearing wearer, but to those owners who live in close contact with their pets. In the photo on the left, Moebs gives a light spritz of Macho Mutt to her pup Mitzie as Beanie waits patiently for her attention and a curious calico cat named Kelly looks on from a distance. In the photo above the eight fragrances available are displayed.

MuttWorks Pet Colognes Bring Good Scents To Furry Friends

by Peggy Santamaria

Those who at one time or another have found themselves edging away from their canine companions because of, shall we say, a slightly offensive body odor, may find a remedy in a unique, locally developed product.

As a pet groomer, Lindy Moebs, owner and operator of MuttWorks in Grantsville, is often in the most intimate contact with other people's dogs and is well aware that the natural fragrance of the shaggy beast can offend even the professional's olfactory sense. "The most frequent complaint I hear from customers is: 'This dog smells," she said.

Moebs linked up with another local business woman to resolve this murky problem of how to make man's best friend nicer to be near. Because she keeps up-to-date on what is current in the pet care industry, Moebs was familiar with some products on the market that address the delicate personal problem for pets — smelling bad. "I had seen pet colognes at grooming shows. Some with names like Unleashed. But I had never really been interested in that sort of thing. I don't paint dogs' nails," she explained.

Though not inclined toward animal cosmetics, Moebs did believe there could be merit is some kind of product that might lessen the doggie odor of dogs. "I took some of the information I had on pet colognes and went to see Jeanie Wilt, who owned the Good Scents Parfumerie (Grantsville). I knew her from the GGBA (Greater Grantsville Business Association)," she recalled.

Wilt, who is the east coast distributor for Good Scents Parfumiers, did more than look over the information. She exercised her knowledge of colognes and perfumes. Wilt mixed and blended oils and surprised Moebs with the outcome. "Jeanie had developed eight fragrances for me. She had even created the names for these products," she reflected with amazement.

The MuttWorks cologne line includes: Coco Mutt — the clean sent of coconut; Goochi Poochi — a sweet sophisticated scent based on Georgio; Macho Mutt — for the manly mutt, based on the men's cologne, Aramis; Mango Mutt — the fruity scent of mango and kiwi; Muttnilla — vanilla fragrance; No Fleas Please — the fresh minty scent of vanilla and pennyroyal; Poochouli — Patchouli; and China Kitty — the China Rain fragrance, soft and diluted for cats.

Having recently read about the toxicity of certain pet products, Moebs had been somewhat leery of the colognes, she explained. "People do have these concerns about the safety of the products. I feel good about products because they are made from all natural ingredients. They are designed to be safe," she emphasized.

The ingredients combined in Pet Colognes by MuttWorks are distilled water, glycerin, essential oil, and enough alcohol to disperse the fragrance when sprayed. "These colognes are for our benefit and should be sprayed lightly on the hindquarters of the dog, not up under the nose," Moebs said.

Introducing the canine fragrances at her shop in Grantsville, she had no idea if they would be appreciated by her local customers. "I have really been surprised at how well they have sold," she commented.

Once the product was developed, marketing could begin. And so Moebs, a graduate of West Virginia University and former social worker, embarked on yet another phase of her career. Assistance in marketing the cologne was offered by Moebs's former pet grooming instructor.

When relocation resulted in a career change, Moebs had elected to become self-employed in pet care. "I went to grooming school in Indiana, Pa. My instructor was Marlene Romani, who also designs pet products and travels to shows," she noted.

Romani has offered to display and demonstrate Pet Colognes by MuttWorks. "I was really excited about this. I am also advertizing on the Internet and I can be reached by e-mail," she said.

Though 85% of her business is in grooming, Moebs also offers training at MuttWorks. "That is really what I find to be most satisfying," she commented. She will also be offering professional pet portraits as a one-day special on Nov. 11.

MuttWorks is located at 134 Salt Block Mountain Road, Grantsville, MD 21536 and can be reached by phone at 301-895-5510; through email at lindy-@gcnet.net; or via the home page address: www.-gcnet.net/ggba/muttworks.

SOLDIER

Rated R - Running time: 1:40

Wow. What a terrible movie. I have abolutely no clue what would persuade someone to take part in such a lame, insipid testosterone-fest as this, especially an established actor like Kurt Russell. Oh, of course--(head slap here)--it's the $20 million. He and Goldie must want a new house. This film features a triple threat: bad writing (by David Webb Peoples), bad directing (by Paul Anderson), and bad acting (or no acting) by Russell et al. And it doesn't even sport the cool effects associated with such recent techno-flops as Starship Troopers, Armageddon, and Lost In Space.

Peoples's screenplay is half Gattaca, with its vision of the future as devoid of character, and half The Postman, with a society of pathetic dolts who can't fight their way out of a wet paper bag. Luckily, Russell's character, Sergeant Todd, fits right in: He isn't equipped to do anything but fight. In fact, I didn't think he could even speak until he finally uttered his first (of very few) words, over one half hour into the film: And then I wished he hadn't.

Todd is a trained soldier who has been rendered obsolete by a new breed of warrior--genetically engineered to be faster, stronger, and more efficient (less space wasted on gray matter) than Todd and his gang. A specimen of this new order is Caine (Jason Scott Lee), who is put to the test against Todd and two other of his old-school bully boys. Todd and his friends are beaten to a pulp, thought to be dead, and thrown out with the trash on a planet used solely for a waste receptacle. When he wakes up, Todd has already missed the bus back home, so he's got to make his way among the peaceful folk that live on Planet Dump.

Though a community of Oscar the Grouches would not be at all out of place among the ridiculous pretexts ever present in this script, the people of this literal wasteland aren't just living there because they happen to like trash. As Todd learns from his hosts, Sandra (Connie Nielsen) and her husband Mace (Sean Pertwee), they too were abandoned and forgotten, and have long since given up trying to flag down the dump ships. So they have fashioned a whole town, complete with a meeting hall, apartments, and a bar, all made out of garbage (mostly airplane parts).

Todd gets kicked out of town for looking at Sandra's boobs, but then he's re-accepted when they learn he has taught a little kid how to kill a snake. (Yay--another anti-snake message from Hollywood.) And his reintroduction into Garbageville society is not a minute too soon, because nasty Colonel Mekum (Jason Isaacs), who developed Caine and his master race, plans to invade the planet, using Caine as the leader of the hostile takeover. So now wordless Todd must single-handedly do battle with his wordless old nemesis and 17 other well-armed, wordless baddies.

Such an astoundingly bad film is no real surprise from director Anderson, whose short resume includes such classics as Event Horizon (1997) and Mortal Kombat (1995). And Russell, I guess, just needed the dough. What really surprises me is that writer Peoples, who has turned out such masterful screenplays as 12 Monkeys (1995), Unforgiven (1992), and Bladerunner (1982), would sink to such depths. Kurt Russell's career has had its ups and downs ever since he starred as Dexter Riley in Disney's The Computer Wore Tennis Shoes (1970). But take it from me, folks: Dexter's been unplugged. ★

Awarded Grants

Future use of the facility includes space for a visitor center and possible retail areas. The building is to become the focal point of the revitalization plan with many activities to be centered around the structure, after input from citizens' groups suggesting uses of the building.

"We're planning on beginning construction work in the spring, which works out great since it coincides with Oakland's 150th anniversary," said McCain.

The possibility of the train station becoming the central point of Oakland has a historical precedent. "Once B&O established passenger service in the area, the station was a beehive of activity with swarms of arriving and departing passengers and their friends keeping the area around the building humming with activity," Tolbert explained.

Under current planning, the train station would become the backdrop for a Town Square.

While the possibility of these plans look much more favorable following the announcement of the most recent grants applied for by McCain, there are still many reasons stated by town officials to continue with local fund-raising efforts. "Our goal through fund-raising efforts by the Save Our Station (SOS) committee is to raise $50,000. So far we've raised $40,000. So we have to continue our efforts locally," McCain said.

Ongoing efforts include the sales of ornaments and prints in Oakland City Hall, as well as in local retail outlets, including the Water Street Market, the Book Mark'et, Grand Central Station, and the Christmas Chalet.

Regarding the grants, McCain said he wished to thank Gov. Glendening, Senators Paul Sarbanes, Barbara Mikulski, Roscoe Bartlett, and John Hafer, and Del. George Edwards, as well as those who have worked as volunteers with the Save Our Station Committee.

Political Races

Peck, and George R. Zimmerman unopposed for three seats as judges of the orphans' court; and incumbent James L. Sherbin unopposed for judge of the circuit court.

There are three seats up for grabs on the Garrett County Board of Education, with incumbent Rodney Durst facing Kenneth Perrin in District I, Camilla Rawe against John W. Richards in District II, and Madeleine Collins unopposed for the District III seat.

District races show Republican Delegate George C. Edwards being challenged by Lawson L. Duckworth, and Republican State Senator John J. Hafer unopposed. Republican incumbent Representative Roscoe Bartlett is being challenged by Democrat Timothy D. McCown.

In state races, voters will select between Democrat incumbent Parris N. Glendening and Republican challenger Ellen R. Sauerbrey for governor, with Kathleen Kennedy Townsend and Richard D. Bennett being the respective lieutenant governor candidates. That race is deemed a virtual dead heat as of this printing.

Other state races are: Democrat and former governor William D. Schaefer against Republican Larry M. Epstein for comptroller; Democrat incumbent J. Joseph Curran Jr. against Republican Paul H. Rappaport for attorney general; and for continuance in office on the Court of Special Appeals are Deborah S. Byrnes, James A. Kenney, and Charles E. Moylan Jr.

In a federal government race, incumbent U.S. Senator Barbara A. Mikulski, Democrat, will face Republican Ross Z. Pierpont.

Two state constitutional amendment questions are also on the ballot (see page C-4 for a complete description).

The polls will open at 7 a.m. Tuesday and remain open until 8 p.m. Voters can find a sample ballot on page C-4 of this newspaper to help them prepare for their visit to the polls.

Roundtable

quoted in the roundtable brochure. "Maryland is one of many states that has realized how crucial specific goals and measures are in gauging the progress of our children and their quality of life. We look for results that indicate our children are healthy, well-educated, and safe. Each of us needs to be certain that our programs and services are making a real impact on the lives of our children."

The nine "results" to be measured by the partnership are as follows: babies born healthy, healthy children, children ready to enter school, children successful in school, children completing school, healthy adults, children are safe in their families and communities, families are stable and economically independent, and communities support family life.

Each category is to be measured by various "indicators," such as low birth rate percentages for the "babies born healthy" result; or the high school drop-out rate for the "children completing school" result; or rates of child abuse or neglect investigations for the "children safe in their families and communities" result.

"I invite you to attend the roundtable in your local area to discuss these results with other members of your community," Townsend said. "The roundtable will offer you an opportunity to learn more about Maryland's Child and Family Well-Being Indicators and ask questions about our exciting new strategy."

A Message from the Employees of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Garrett County Detention Center

We, the employees of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the Garrett County Detention Center, endorse P.R. "Dick" Sanders for the office of Sheriff of Garrett County.

As we have all worked closely with Sheriff Sanders in the past, we can attest to his ability to lead this department with honesty and integrity into the future. During the period of time that he has served as sheriff, he has made many improvements for the employees and citizens alike.

Sheriff Sanders has restored the respect to this office, and he has the confidence and trust of us all and many of our citizens. It is our belief that any other such leadership at this time would be detrimental to this office and the services we provide to our citizens. We fully support Sheriff Sanders and we urge all citizens to exercise their right to vote.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

FALL FESTIVAL

The annual Fall Festival, sponsored by the Aurora PTO, is being held this Friday, Oct. 30, at the Aurora School from 6:30 until 9 p.m. There will be costume parades, games, food, lots of door prizes and drawing for the items for which raffle tickets have been sold. Everyone is asked to attend and support the local school.

TRICK-OR-TREAT

Trick-or-treat in Union District is set for Halloween evening, Oct. 31, from 5:30 until 7:30 p.m. Those who plan to participate are asked to leave an outside light turned on.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES AT MAPLE SPRING

An annual buckwheat cake and sausage dinner will be held at Maple Spring Church, near Eglon, on Nov. 7. Serving hours are 4 until 8 p.m., and donations for adults is $5, for children 3-12, $3, and those 2 years and younger may eat free.

The Maple Spring Youth group sponsors this annual dinner to fund its trip to National Youth Conference in Colorado.

AYL SIGN-UPS

The Aurora Youth League will hold sign-ups for basketball and cheerleading on Monday, Nov. 2, from 6 until 8 p.m. at the Aurora School. This is the last sign-up date for this season. There is a $5 fee and the participating Kindergarten through 12th graders must have a parent's or guardian's signature. Those who have uniforms from last year are asked to return them.

HOME BURNS

The home of Guy Wayne and Faith Shaffer and their two sons, Justin and Daniel, Horse Shoe Run, burned in an Oct. 23 blaze which apparently started in the basement area of the home. Mr. Shaffer and Daniel were home at the time and used a fire extinguisher to battle the blaze. Fire companies from Mt. Grove, Aurora, Gorman, and Oakland answered the call and extinguished the blaze. Smoke and water damage destroyed much of the contents of the home. The family is presently staying with Faith's parents, George and Donna Steele, at Horse Shoe Run.

GOSPEL SING

There will be a gospel sing at the Brookside Church of the Brethren along U.S. 50, adjacent to the Aurora fire hall this Saturday, Oct. 31, at 7 p.m. An "open mike" sing is planned and a freewill offering will go toward the transplant fund for the Rev. Don Knotts. Pastor Knotts has returned to his home at New Creek and is reportedly doing well since his liver transplant.

Other sings are planned for Nov. 14 and 28 and Dec. 5.

CWU NOV. 6

Maple Spring Church of the Brethren will host the Nov. 6 meeting of Church Women United under the theme "The World Within Our Neighborhoods," which will begin with a covered dish luncheon at noon. The host church provides table service, bread, and beverages. Linn Crowe will be guest speaker for the afternoon meeting, which will begin at 1 p.m. Everyone is welcome. Maple Spring is located on W.V. 24 between Brookside and Silver Lake.

AURORA HOMEMAKERS

The county Continuing Education Committee of the Aurora Homemakers sponsored an International event during the Sept. 12 meeting, held in the Union Ambulance Service squad hall. Dorothy Spaid provided the devotions using a meditation, "I Am A Promise," along with scripture and prayer.

Ressie Conrad, co-chair of the committee, introduced George Alan and Helen Lipscomb, who provided the evenings program about Mexico. They showed wedding shirts, dresses, blankets, a hammock, toy box, wood carvings, and jewelry which they had purchased while there. A video was also shown.

There were 14 members from the local club and 16 visitors from other county clubs present for the program and the refreshments served by the Aurora club.

The Aurora Homemakers met again on Oct. 20 at the squad hall for a regular meeting, with Ressie Conrad reading a meditation from the Upper Room.

"Caring for you, the caregiver," was the subject discussed by Dean Sisler. Ressie Conrad reported doing training for the "Read Aloud" program. Martha Bolyard stated that the family goals had been completed, and distributed Breast Cancer Awareness kits. Her committee had also displayed blue or gold ribbons for National Homemakers' Week, and the pictures from Aurora's activities had been included in the Preston County National Homemakers' Week section of The Preston County Journal.

A book, Best Loved Poems of the American People, has been placed in the Aurora School library in memory of Ernestine Sisler. Appreciation to Alan Lipscomb for the program on Mexico and to Betty Moore for writing the names on the Mother's quilt was expressed in the form of gift certificates to Melanie's Restaurant. Of the $309 collected from the quilt names, one half will go to Union Ambulance Service and half to the Aurora Community Building Association.

The club is planning on Monday afternoon quilting at the squad hall, beginning at 1 p.m. Other quilters are also welcome at this time. New lessons were selected, along with hostesses and lesson leaders, for the new year. Ressie Conrad will chair the Continuing Education Committee, Opal Myers, the Family Relations committee, and Jean Starr chairs Marketing and Membership. Chosen Homemaker of the Year was Ressie Conrad. Officers elected are Delores Douglas, president; Ressie Conrad, vice president; Opal Myers, secretary; Dorothy Spaid, treasurer; and Virginia Martin, historian.

The club will prepare candy and baked items for a table at the Nov. 7 Craft Bazaar at the United Methodist Memorial Building, sponsored by the Rebekah Lodge. Preston County Homemakers will have their achievement event on Nov. 17.

Opal Myers attended the fall conference held at Jackson's Mill, Oct. 6-8, where she taught a class on making ice cream buckets into covered coatainers. The new name for the state organization is West Virginia Community Educational Outreach Service. There will be no further connection with the name "extension" or "homemaker" involved.

The vice president's special feature was provided by Ressie Conrad, with information on colds and flu. Elsie Stemple was winner of the pig-in-the-poke. The hostess displayed a satin purse tissue cover made by Maxine Hauser. The next meeting will be at 1 p.m., Nov. 17.

CRAFT BAZAAR

An annual display and sale of crafts, sponsored by the Mt. View Rebekah Lodge of Aurora, will be held Nov. 7 at the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. There will also be soup, sandwiches, and other foods for sale.

FLU SHOTS, NOV. 2

Flu shots will be available through the Preston County Health Department on Nov. 2, a Monday evening, from 5 until 7 p.m. Cost for the flu shots is $7, and for pneumonia shots, $12. These costs are covered both under Medicare and Medicaid, and the clinic will take place in the basement of the Union Ambulance Service squad hall.

BOOK SALE

A book sale is set for Saturday, Nov. 7, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Aurora Community Building. The sale is a fund-raiser for the Aurora Community Library. Books will be available at a cost of 10 cents to 50 cents each.

FOOD DRIVE

St. Paul's Lutheran youth group is conducting a holiday food drive beginning on Saturday, Nov. 7. The youth will be leaving plastic bags on door knobs throughout the Aurora community. Persons who wish to donate are asked to place the nonperishable food items in the bag and put them on the front porch for pick-up the following Saturday, Nov. 14. Persons may also stop by Deerwood Service Center and leave contributions there.

Those who know of someone who is in need of food may contact Cara Radford at 735-3407 or Tamara Fauber at 735-5730. If there is no local need, the food will be given to the Preston County Food Pantry.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER

The Mountain Lions Club will sponsor its annual buckwheat cake and sausage dinner on Saturday, Nov. 21, from noon until 7 p.m. at the Mt. Grove Community Bldg. They are offering bulk sausage in five- or 10-pound packages at $1.75 per pound. To make an order for sausage, persons may contact John Calcamp at 735-3144 or another club member. Delivery will be made at the dinner unless otherwise arranged.

PERSONAL MENTION

Vada Fusselman of Sebring, Fla. spent two weeks at Aurora visiting her mother, Leota Elsey, and returned last Thursday to her home. While she was in Aurora, her sister and brother-in-law, Delores and Keith Douglas, visited in Ohio with their children and their families and returned last Monday to Aurora.

Steve and Pam Kernn of Newark, Ohio, visited last week with her aunt, Mrs. Jessie Winters, Eglon. Pam is the daughter of Jim Moore of Newark and the late Alberta Moore. Also visiting recently here were Mr. Moore and his friend, Annette.

David and Wilma Mae Teets of Horse Shoe Run visited Oct. 18 in Franklin with the Rev. Harding Nelson.

Iris (Mrs. Chester) Whitehair of Silver Lake was taken Friday to Ruby Memorial Hospital for surgical repair of a bone injury resulting from a Thursday morning fall at her home.

Patty Stieringer-Arbogast is recovering at her Brookside home from recent surgery at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Stanley J. Harsh of Eglon remains a patient in Garrett Memorial Hospital at this time.

Visitors last week with Bessie and Barbara Heckert in Eglon were Jesse and Virginia Vanderpool of Baltimore.

Sunday visitors in Pittsburgh with Mrs. Eileen Rembold were her son and family, Bruce, Mary, Shawn, and Craig Rembold, Eglon. Her daughter and son-in-law, Sandy and Ken Mincer, Ona, were also visitors there.

Shirley Harsh of Stemple Ridge was admitted Monday to Garrett Memorial for treatment.

Helen Strawser of Eglon has been undergoing tests and treatment for an eye ailment.

Viola Harsh of Stemple Ridge spent a week visiting her sister, Alma Harsh, in Akron. She returned home this weekend.

Jeff Wilson was injured in a two-vehicle accident at the Aurora Post Office on Friday evening. He was taken by Union Ambulance to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for facial lacerations. He has since returned to his home.

Bernard and Clara Rembold of Montana are visiting here with their daughter and family, Diane, Steve, and Beth Evans, and were here for Beth's Oct. 24 marriage to David "Chopper" Shahan Jr.

Another event taking place on Oct. 24 was the double wedding at Maple Spring Church when Annette Sisler and Parker Moats, and Diana Sisler and Michale Shaffer were united in marriage.

On Saturday evening, Oct. 24, members of the Preston County Farm Bureau met for dinner and a business session at the Union Ambulance squad hall. There were 18 in attendance, with guests Larry William, member of the W.Va. Legislature, Brian Chesiock of Farm Family Insurance, and Bill Aiken, guest speaker and regional Farm Bureau representative, included in that number. Becky Montgomery, county secretary, presided at the meeting and is the organization's only functioning officer.

An appreciation dinner was held Sunday at the Stemple Ridge United Methodist Church with 35 in attendance to honor those men who had worked on the remodeling of the church basement. The donation of time went into tearing out the former interior, fixing the outside drainage so that the wall could be waterproofed, and replacing the interior.

Jim Bolyard of Amboy underwent hip replacement surgery at Garrett Memorial Hospital October 20 and returned October 25 to his home.

GCC Computer Faculty Member Earns Promotion

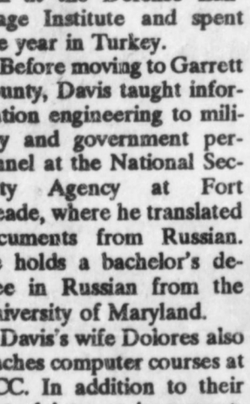
Jim Davis, an adjunct instructor at Garrett Community College, has been appointed the college's instructor of computer applications. Davis has been noted for bringing his experience in information technology to his teaching.

A native of Philippi, W.Va., he graduated from high school in Houston, Tex., and studied geography at the University of Texas. For four years he served as communication technician in the U.S. Navy, during which time he studied Russian at the Defense Language Institute and spent one year in Turkey.

Before moving to Garrett County, Davis taught information engineering to military and government personnel at the National Security Agency at Fort Meade, where he translated documents from Russian. He holds a bachelor's degree in Russian from the University of Maryland.

Davis's wife Dolores also teaches computer courses at GCC. In addition to their mutual interest in computers and bridge, they both like to sail. After settling in in Garrett County, the Davises are now busy finishing the interior of their new log house. Jim Davis is also attending Frostburg State University, working on a degree in educational technology.

"I love to teach," Davis commented on his new GCC position, "and have always wanted to find a small college. I especially enjoy the non-traditional students because I have been one. The greatest thrill to me is seeing the light come on for these students." He said he is excited about the college's new Computer Information Technology program, and he plans to start up the Computer Club again.



Town Hall

KITZMILLER

The town meeting was held on Monday, Oct. 26.

- There will be a meeting Thursday evening between the council members and a representative from the Institute for Local Government Studies to work on rewriting the charter.
- Nancy Brady has met again with Mikal McCartney. As a result of that meeting, Brady has started working with Circuit Rider Wendell Keaton to fill out applications to the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development requesting designation as a revitalization neighborhood. The council passed the resolution to list the town as a revitalization area.
- The local flood wall was inspected by the Army Corps of Engineers. No problems were noted.
- The council has agreed to obtain bids to purchase a commercial stove for the community building. The council will also look at tile samples for the kitchen of that facility.
- Fall clean-up day in Kitzmiller has been scheduled on Monday, Nov. 16.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 23.

Clergy Seminar

seminar is designed to address all aspects of the problem from identifying relationships in which there is domestic violence to referring victims and abusers for various forms of assistance or treatment. Because others within a church family may work extensively with those affected by domestic violence, we hope lay leaders, youth ministers, youth group leaders, Sunday School teachers, and others will also plan to attend."

Gene Gall, director of Western Maryland Health System Center for Counseling Services and Pastoral Care, will address the group to share his experiences and insights on the problem of domestic violence from the faith community perspective. With his many years of hospital work, Gall has seen a wide variety of domestic abuse cases.

Jodi Finkelstein of the Maryland Network Against Domestic Violence will explain the "cycle of violence" dynamics within an abusive relationship. Finkelstein most recently was assigned to the Pro-Prosecution Project. In that capacity, she traveled across the state assisting with training law enforcement officers and prosecutors in gathering evidence and to preparing court cases against abusers, even when a victim fails to cooperate.

The seminar will include a panel of local law enforcement and social agency representatives. Each will discuss his or her work with victims and/or perpetrators of abuse and the resources available at each agency. The panel will include: Linda Spassil (Domestic Violence Sexual Assault Resource Center/"Dove Center"), Lisa Thayer Welch (state's attorney), Tom Rosser (Garrett County Department of Social Services, Family Investment Program), Mary VanSickle (Garrett Memorial Hospital social worker), and Pam Nelson (Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc.).

Information and brochures have been mailed to as many potentially interested persons as could be identified. Others may get more information or register for the seminar by contacting the state's attorney's office at 301-334-1974 or the Dove Center at 301-334-9000.

Learn To Swim Course Offered By Red Cross

The American Red Cross has announced it will offer a special Learn To Swim program in Garrett County. Classes will begin on Monday, Nov. 2, and run for eight classes over five weeks. All classes will be held at the Wisp Resort Hotel pool and will be taught by qualified Red Cross instructors and lifeguards.

The first class will consist of registration, beginning at 4:30 p.m., followed by an orientation, evaluation of swimming skills, and a safety lesson. Students will then be assigned to either 5 p.m. or 6 p.m. class slots, depending on their swimming abilities.

Classes will be held on Mondays and Wednesdays on Nov. 2, 4, 9, 11, 16, 18, 23, and December 2. Classes will not be held on either November 25 or 30. The cost of the course is $40 per student, and registration will be held on a first-come, first-served basis.

To register, persons may call the Garrett County office of the Red Cross at 301-387-2570 on Mondays, Wednesdays or Fridays between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. At all other times, registrants are asked to call the chapter headquarters at 1-800-361-9481, extension 302. To register by mail, persons may send checks payable to American Red Cross to P.O. Box 216, McHenry, MD 21541, postmarked no later than October 31.

The American Red Cross has been training area residents in swimming and life saving water skills for more than 20 years, and is the only acceptable certification for employees of state parks and recreation areas. In addition to the "learn to swim" series, the chapter also offers various water safety courses throughout the year, including "Whales Tales" for elementary school children, an infant to pre-school program, and four different lifeguard courses.

The American Red Cross is a member-agency of the County United Way.

McIntyre Earns Service Award

Senior Master Sgt. Paul D. McIntyre, Mtn. Lake Park, has received an Air Force Commendation Medal, a second oak leaf cluster, for meritorious service.

A member of the Air National Guard, McIntyre served as an engineering technician and training manager for the 167th Civil Engineering Squadron, Eastern West Virginia Regional Airport, Shepherd Field, Martinsburg, W.Va.

McIntyre implemented a mandatory multiskilling-training program for Civil Engineering members to assist them in remaining skill qualified and mobility ready. He has participated in numerous readiness exercises and served in many positions.

The citation that accompanied the award praised McIntyre for his abilities. "The professional skill, leadership, and ceaseless efforts of Sgt. McIntyre resulted in major contributions to the effectiveness and success of the West Virginia Air National Guard Civil Engineering," the tribute stated.

McIntyre, a 31-year military veteran, is currently serving the Air National Guard 167th as a training manager in the medical squadron.

Goldie,

Evette and I want you to know how pleased we were with your service in helping us purchase our condominium at Ski Harbor in Deep Creek Lake. You worked very hard and long to insure we found what we were looking for and you provided us with unfailingly correct and timely information.

Evette, myself, and our girls . . . very much enjoyed the summer. Our friends Gene and Diane Foster, were very helpful when they recommended you. We will recommend you highly to anyone looking for a Realtor in the Deep Creek area.

Thanks for a great job.

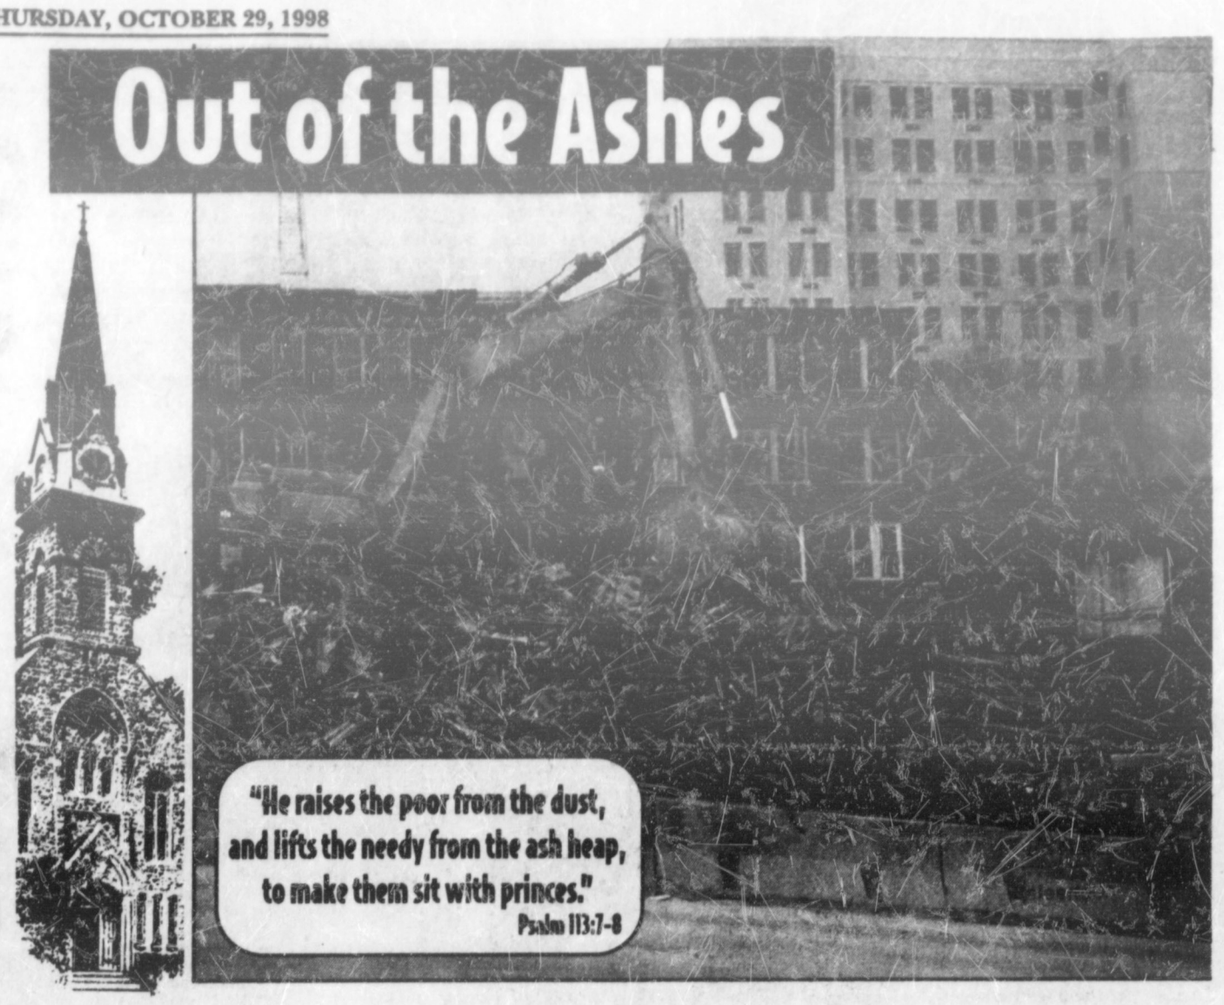
Out of the Ashes



There is little left here to retrieve from these skeletal ruins of a once proud city landmark. After the fire, however, some long time residents viewed forgotten architectural elements and decorative features which had been covered during various remodelings. Out of the ashes, the stately and elegant era of a bygone time was memorialized.

Do you ever feel that perhaps your life is a shambles...that there is little left that is beautiful? Ask God to reveal the beauty of the spirit that is within you which has been covered with pain and sin. Your Heavenly Father has not forgotten the quality within you, after all, He created you.

Visit God's House this week and worship Him. He is waiting to lift you from the ashes.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ONE WAY TO BE #1!
November 1, 1998

Background Scripture:
Amos 6 through 7
Devotional Reading:
Acts 4:13-22

Recently, watching the Stanley Cup play-offs in the National Hockey League, I was appalled at the assumption that gratuitous violence was simply part of being a champion team, no matter who was hurt and maimed. Being number one has become an obsession in our country today in virtually every department of life.

I have no problem with people striving for excellence. But I do with the belief that being "king of the hill" is the only thing important and, that to achieve it and keep it, anything goes..

Well, for those of us who cannot live without being number one in at least something, Amos has found a way that is guaranteed to put your name at the very top of the pile: "Therefore they shall now be the first of those who go into exile..." (6:7). This is a guarantee made, not by Amos himself, but by the God of Israel.

AT EASE IN ZION

So, to be first on the calamity list, all you have to do is to follow Amos' prescription. And to whom will this top listing come?— "...those who are at ease in Zion... who feel secure on the mountain of Samaria... who lie upon beds of ivory, and stretch themselves upon their couches, and eat lambs from the flock..., who sing idle songs to the sound of the harp, and like David invent for themselves instruments of music; who drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the finest oils, but are not grieved over the ruin of Jacob" (6:1-7).

He is not saying they will be first in line because of any of these activities in themselves. Lying on a bed of ivory per se is not evil, nor is eating lambs from the flock. Rather, in these verses Amos has painted a picture of luxurious self-indulgence, an arrogance of the spirit that persuades people to feel secure, not in the Lord, but in the multitude of their comforts, privileges and powers.

They are "at ease in Zion" but they ought to be uneasy. They "feel secure on the mountain of Samaria" (the focus of worship for the Northern Kingdom, as opposed to Jerusalem in the South) but they really have no security because they have turned their backs to the Lord. When he says that they are "not grieved over the ruin of Joseph," he is saying that they have turned a blind eye to the moral and spiritual decay of their kingdom. The result: terrible death and desolation and God will not intervene to prevent it this time.

THE WEIGHT OF WORDS

COVER STORY

On Hughleys, family trumps the race card

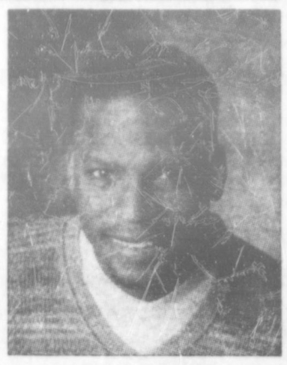
By John Crook
©TVData Features Syndicate



D.L. Hughley

More than two decades after TV icon George Jefferson started barking at his white neighbors, ABC turns to another fish-out-of-water black father in the new Tuesday sitcom The Hughleys.

While Norman Lear's The Jeffersons used its central characters to make pointed statements about racism in the United States, The Hughleys is casting its lot with a more traditional topic: family.

D.L. Hughley stars as Darryl Hughley, a successful businessman who moves his family from central Los Angeles to a predominantly white suburb. His wife, Yvonne (Elise Neal), and their two young children (Ashley Monique Clark, Dee Jay Daniels) instantly make themselves comfortable in their new home, but Darryl's initial pride is diminished after his lifelong friend Milsap (John Henton) plants a dreadful notion in his mind: Darryl is "on the slippery slope to losing his blackness."

Viewed from this perspective, Darryl becomes almost comically paranoid, especially after he meets his almost impossibly white neighbors, Dave and Sally Rogers (Eric Allan Kramer, Marietta DePrima). It falls to sensible Yvonne to rescue her thin-skinned husband from his ongoing battle with foot-in-mouth disease.

"Because he's coming into the neighborhood, (Darryl) has to confront race first," executive producer Matt Wickline acknowledges. "(But) it's not going to be (in) every show. What we want to do is a show that's true to (D.L.'s) life, a really funny family show."

As the shared last names suggest, The Hughleys is directly based on the actual experiences of its leading man, a stand-up comic who recently moved his family from south central Los Angeles to the suburb of West Hills. Kramer's character, Dave, is based on Hughley's real-life neighbor, Jim.

Hughley says he actually lived through the same kind of disorientation that his character faces.

"I grew up on 135th and Avalon," Hughley says of his old neighborhood, "and I never even knew white people lived in Los Angeles. ...When Jim tried to come over (after we moved), this big white guy, I had never had a white friend that wasn't an agent."

Comic Chris Rock, whose award-winning HBO show is often singled out for its stinging but genuinely witty comments on race relations, signed on as an executive producer to help get Hughley's project the green light. Rock has acknowledged that the series is finding its way creatively, but there already are signs that it is moving from its initial broad comedy into a more subtle show.

Dave and Sally, for example, were almost saintly in the pilot, but a recent episode had Dave bonding over football with Darryl and Milsap, only to quickly pull out of a dinner trip with the two when he found out the restaurant was in the heart of the 'hood.

"We don't wrap it up with a neat bow, have them shake hands and be pals," Wickline says of Dave and Darryl. "We're going to take our time getting that relationship started."

TV-PIPELINE

Roma Downey

Q: Are the producers of Touched by an Angel concerned that their lead character, Monica (Roma Downey), has the same first name as the former White House intern who is currently all over the news? Your thoughts, please. –Stephen V. Gilmore, Charlotte, N.C.

A: "Gee, I doubt they've even made that correlation," CBS Angel publicist Pam Gorode says. "Our Monica is just Monica, and there are a lot of very nice Monicas in the world."

My thought, after thanking you for giving me a big laugh, is that the Angel producers aren't losing any sleep over the current reluctant "heroine" of Zippergate.

Q: On Frasier, I have noticed a framed poster in the back hall of the set with the word "Schoenberg" on it. What is its significance? –Chuck in Port Charlotte, Fla.

A: It's a nice character touch on the part of the show's set decorators. Arnold Schoenberg was an Austrian composer who created a school of composition called "twelve tone," in which melodies were structured according to a complex formula. Many of his works are dissonant and demanding – in short, exactly the kind of music an intellectual snob like Dr. Frasier Crane would enjoy.

Q: The new Mr. Roarke on Fantasy Island looks very familiar, but I can't place him. Is he just a busy actor who does a lot of things, or was he in a series? –Joan Lindsay via e-mail.

A: Yes to both questions, Joan. Malcolm McDowell, 55, is an internationally known actor whose work includes Stanley Kubrick's disturbing 1971 classic A Clockwork Orange. Oddly, however, everyone who has asked me this question since the new Fantasy Island premiered has recalled McDowell from his recent series role as Rhea Perlman's cantankerous college professor in the CBS sitcom Pearl.

Q: Whatever happened to the Dark Shadows that was on TV in the early '90s? It was excellent. –Andrea Lair-Kirby, Trumbull, Conn.

A: Despite an excellent cast that included Ben Cross and Jean Simmons, NBC's 1991 revival of the campy daytime serial pulled anemic ratings that would have starved its chief vampire, Barnabas Collins. The show premiered on Jan. 13 and was canceled two months later, on March 22.

Q: What happened to Whose Line Is It Anyway? –Heather via e-mail.

A: Line was scheduled for only a trial run last summer but pulled strong ratings.

It probably will return later to ABC as a midseason replacement.

Earn GCC Foundation Scholarships

SARA ANN FRATZ

EMILY CAREY

Four women have been awarded Garrett Community College General Scholarships by the GCC Foundation to attend college this year, according to advancement officer Bretta Reinhard.

Sara Ann Fratz, daughter of William and Barbara Fratz of Lonaconing and a 1997 graduate of Northern High School, is enrolled in the agriculture management program and plans a career as an agriculture salesperson.

Currently vice president of GCC's Agriculture Club, Fratz served as FFA chapter president, secretary, and reporter while at Northern. Her hobby is raising animals.

Emily Carey, daughter of John and Sherry Carey of Grantsville, is also a 1997 NHS graduate. An elementary education major, she plans to transfer to Frostburg State University after completing her A.A. degree at GCC.

At Northern, Carey was a member of the athletic trainers club, history club, fantasy baseball club, honors chorus, and yearbook club, and served as a student assistant in the school's main office. She was also a member of the God's Ark of Safety youth group. Her interests include music, singing, camping, and swimming. Two of her great-grandfathers played a part in the founding of Northern High School.

NICOLA SWIGER

Nicola Swiger, daughter of Wayne and Fran Swiger of McHenry, is enrolled in GCC's business management program and plans to become a business manager. Last semester she served as vice president of the GCC Student Government Association.

Swiger graduated in 1989 from Notre Dame des Missions, Dublin, Ireland, where she lived for seven years. In 1991 she graduated from Galligan's College of Beauty with a degree in beauty and massage therapy. Her hobbies are swimming, snow skiing, dancing, and crafts, and she is interested in all types of birds.

LAURA LIVENGOOD

Laura Livengood, a 1996 graduate of Southern High School and daughter of Nancy Livengood of Kitzmiller, has received the Student Government Association and the Oakland Rotary Club scholarships in addition to the GCC General Scholarship. She is enrolled in the elementary education program and plans to become an elementary school teacher.

UMW Plans Sale Of Soup, Rolls

The United Methodist Women of the Chestnut Grove United Methodist Church will hold a homemade vegetable soup and roll sale on Tuesday, Nov. 3. The sale will take place in the basement of the church, which is located at 8 Virts Road.

The event will begin at 8 a.m. and continue until everything is sold. The price of the soup will be $2.50 per quart or $8 per gallon. The rolls will cost $3 per dozen or $1.75 per half-dozen.

Swanton Center Slates Fund-Raising Dinner

The Swanton Community Center will host a buckwheat cake and sausage dinner Saturday, Nov. 14, beginning at 4 p.m. Pancakes and carryout will also be available. The cost for the dinner is $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12.

Proceeds from this event will go to various community activities and programs supported by the Swanton Community Center, including a scholarship fund for Swanton-area recipients. Persons interested in further information on the dinner may call the community center at 301-387-9191.

"Christmas At Yough Glades" Bazaar Planned

A pre-holiday shopping event titled "Christmas At Yough Glades" will be held at the elementary school on Saturday, Nov. 7. The doors will be open to visitors from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The bazaar will feature local vendors, local crafters, Longaberger baskets, and products from Mary Kay, Avon, Watkins, Christmas Around the World, Discovery Toys, Candle-lite and Dots cardmaking.

Baked goods will be sold and "Santa" will visit.

The public is invited to attend the event. Yough Glades Elementary School is located at 70 Wolf Acres Drive, Oakland.

Crellin Assembly Of God Schedules Family Day Event

The Crellin Assembly of God, located at 2254 Hutton Road, four miles west of Oakland, will host a Family Day on Sunday Nov. 1. The public is invited to join the congregation for the day's activities to worship and learn more about the church's ministry programs.

The Family Day event gets underway with the 10:45 a.m. worship service, during which the Singing Couriers music group will minister through its music. An open house will be held from noon to 2 p.m., during which a covered dish meal will be offered beginning at 12:30 p.m. The church's orchestra and choir will be featured in the evening worship service which will begin at 6 p.m., with Pastor David Snodgrass delivering the message.

The Crellin Assembly of God presently offers Sunday school classes for all ages, three youth programs for ages 5-19, men and women's group ministries, three choirs, an orchestra, and home and foreign mission outreach programs.

For further information about the Crellin Assembly of God and the Family Day activities, interested persons may call Pastor David Snodgrass at 301-334-3867.

Bill To Fund More Teachers, Smaller Classes

Garrett County schools will receive additional funds to decrease the student-teacher ratio by hiring more teachers. Money was earmarked for this purpose in the Omnibus Appropriations Bill which was approved last week in Congress.

Senators Barbara Mikulski (D-Md.) and Paul S. Sarbanes (D-Md.) announced that the bill includes $17.5 million to reduce class size in Maryland. The initiative is aimed at reducing class size in grades 1-3 by recruiting, training, and hiring new teachers.

The funding will go directly to local Maryland school jurisdictions. Garrett County will receive $166,065 of the $1.4 million allocated to Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington counties. The program will provide for approximately 425 new teachers across state.

"This funding provides the resources needed to get behind our kids and teachers," said Sen. Mikulski. "Ask any of the teachers in Maryland and they will tell you smaller class size is one of the most important keys to quality education. With this initiative, every Maryland school jurisdiction will receive funding to hire new teachers and to reduce class size. I am happy this program was included in the final Omnibus Appropriations Bill," she stated.

Sen. Sarbanes also commented on the benefits of funding this initiative. "This funding, plus the commitment by the Glendening administration to provide funds for new school construction, helps to pave the way for smaller classes and, in turn, leads to an improved environment to learn and excel. Our children deserve no less," he said.

Moore Retires After 37 Years In Ministry

Rev. Sam Moore, a Deer Park resident with his wife Mary Lee, has retired after serving in ministry in the United Methodist Church in the West Virginia Annual Conference for 37 years. Moore's final church was Wesley Church, Kingwood, W.Va., where he served for eight years.

While in Kingwood Moore was a member of the Central Preston Ministerial Association for eight years and served as past president, vice president, and secretary. He was a member of the Preston County Caring Council Inc. Family Resource Network from 1992 to 1997, serving as president and treasurer. He co-chaired Food for Preston in 1994. He was also a member of the Kingwood Rotary Club, 1991 to 1998, and served as Rotary president in 1995-96.

While he served at Wesley Church, the church was able to install an elevator, making the entire building handicapped accessible. The church was also able to purchase property adjacent to the parsonage for future development or additional parking.

A graduate of Southern High School class of 1956, Moore received his B.A. degree from West Virginia Wesleyan College, Buckhannon, W.Va., and his master of divinity degree from Drew Theological Seminary in Madison, N.J. While at Drew he was a two-year intern at Fordham Methodist Church, Bronx, N.Y.

Moore has served in a number of West Virginia churches: Gormania, Bayard, and Mt. Storm from 1963 to 1969; Franklin-Mt. Zion, Pendleton County from 1969 to 1977; Lubeck, South Parkersburg, from 1977 to 1983; First, New Martinsville, from 1983 to 1990; and Wesley, Kingwood, from 1990 to 1998.

Rev. Moore and his wife have two children, Beth Mankin and John Moore, both of Lexington, Ky. He is the son of Elogeanne Moore, Oakland, and the late John W. Moore.

Quality Employee of the Quarter

Billy Foster, Keyser, has received the Luke mill's Quality Employee of the Quarter Award for 3rd Quarter 1998.

Billy Foster

Billy currently works in the Nos. 8 and 9 Paper Machines Calender Room. He has been a member of several Corrective Action Teams (CATs), including the Core CAT, Winder Safety CAT, and Winder Helper Training CAT.

His enthusiasm and dedication contributed to the successful completion of all of these CATs, but Billy's contribution to the Winder Helper Training CAT was particularly significant because of his profound understanding of the Winder Helper's job. He volunteers to train Winder Helpers, reviews training manuals, and reviews safety hazards with new Winder Helpers.

Billy, who has missed just two days' work since being employed by the Luke mill eight years ago, is a leader on his shift who constantly strives to improve the efficiency of the department.

Congratulations, Billy!

Southern High School Students Of The Month Selected

Mary Evans, a junior, is the daughter of William and Linda Evans of Kitzmiller. She is an honor roll student and attends sci-fi study hall. She attends Hi-way Assembly of God Church. After high school, Mary plans to attend college and major in psychology.

Daniel Shafer, son of Gary and Jan Shafer of Oakland, is a senior. He plays trumpet in the stage band and concert band, and is a soloist in the marching band's field show. Daniel is a member of the cross country team and runs track in the spring. He is also a student council representative, student member on the School Improvement Team, and vice president of the National Honor Society. He has received the Minds in Motion award, has been nominated to Who's Who Among American High School Students, and is an honor roll student. He attends St. Peter's Catholic Church. In the future, Daniel plans to attend the University of Maryland at College Park and major in aerospace engineering.

The social studies winner is sophomore Lacey Holtschneider, daughter of Dale and Jenny Holtschneider of Oakland. Lacey plays timpani in the marching band and also plays in the stage band and concert band. She was nominated for Who's Who in Civics last year and is an honor roll student. She attends Underwood United Brethren in Christ Church. Upon graduating, she wants to attend college and become either a civics or social studies teacher or major in advertising.

Annie Neville, daughter of Jim and Jenny Neville of Mtn. Lake Park, is a senior. She is on the soccer team, basketball team, and track team. She is the secretary and treasurer of the National Honor Society and was Chemistry Student of the Year last year. She has been nominated three consecutive years to Who's Who Among American High School Students, received honorable mention for Maryland Distinguished Scholar, and received the United States Achievement Academy awards in Social Studies, Science, and Math.

Annie has played the violin for 11 years and takes lessons at West Virginia University. She played in the Frostburg University String Ensemble in 1996 and attended Maryland Summer Centers for the Gifted and Talented in Chamber Music. She has acted with Our Town Theatre and the Ecumenical Youth Ministry. She is a part of the EYM and has acted in Godspell, Joseph, Charlie Brown, and Runaways. She attends St. Peter's Catholic Church. In the future, Annie plans to become an orthodontist.

The winner for the science student of the month is sophomore Keith Steyer, son of Stan and Sarah Steyer of Oakland. Keith was a member of the freshman basketball team and won the outstanding player award at the Westmar freshman basketball tournament. He won the award for best free throw percentage on the freshman team. Keith is currently a member of the varsity soccer team. Among his awards in school are distinguished honor roll, Who's Who Among American High School Students, and Minds in Motion awards. He plays senior league baseball and attends Loch Lynn Church of God. He has held a leadership role at Western Maryland 4-H camp and helped out with the service club basketball league tournament games. After graduating high school, Keith plans to attend a four-year college and major in either math or science.

Mike Ritchey, a senior, is the auto mechanics winner. He is the son of Don and Linda Bittinger of Oakland. He is a mechanic's apprentice at Patterson's Boat Company and cuts wood to sell to customers. He plans to attend the Nashville Auto Diesel College after graduation and eventually own an auto mechanic shop.

GCC Sets Class In Accounting For Small Businesses

A class designed to help small business owners understand their financial position will be offered over five consecutive Wednesday evenings from Nov. 4 through Dec. 2, from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. at the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College. The instructor will be Clay Garland, a certified public accountant.

The class is designed for those who do the bookkeeping and accounting for small businesses. It will start with very basic material. Participants in the class will learn about the fundamentals of accounting, effective problem-solving techniques for accounting, and ways to develop and use financial statements. It will also cover various aspects of analyzing, classifying, and recording transactions and payroll, and depreciation.

Persons wishing to register for this class or obtain additional information should call Cathy Fazenbaker, Julie Yoder, or Alyce McDowell in the Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080. Registration may be made through the Continuing Education Division by calling 301-387-3069.

GCC Sets Sales, Marketing, And Advertising Class

A class titled "New Sales, Marketing and Advertising Basics" will be offered at Garrett Community College's McHenry campus on three consecutive Thursdays, Nov. 5, 12, and 19, from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. Tom Durney will be the instructor.

This course will take business owners and marketers through three distinct steps that will help them develop a marketing and advertising strategy for their business, construct a media plan that will support the marketing strategy, and create a message design that will serve as the "recipe" for their advertising copy. In this class, participants should learn how to identify the marketing objectives of the business, how to convert product features of product benefits, write a strategic marketing plan, construct a media plan, and learn more about selling their product to the customer.

Persons wishing to register for this class or obtain additional information may call Cathy Fazenbaker, Julie Yoder, or Alyce McDowell in the Small Business Development Center al 301-387-3080. Registration can also be made through the Continuing Education Division by calling 301-387-3069.

PAST DISTRICT GOVERNOR VISITS - The Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club recently hosted Robert Miller, past governor of Lions' District 22-W and current chairman of the Lions' Vision 2000 project. The goal of the project is to establish a $4 million endowment fund for the Wilmer Eye Institute Research Project in Baltimore (see story for details). Miller is pictured above left with Greg Shockey, current president of the local club.

Past District Governor Hosted By Lions Club

Robert Miller, past district governor and current Lions' Vision 2000 chairman for Lions' District 22-W, was a guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. Miller's task as chairman of the Vision 2000 effort is to inform Lions, Lioness, and Leo clubs in the district of the plans by Lions Multiple District 22, which includes Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia about the program.

The various clubs currently support the Wilmer Eye Institute Research Center at Johns Hopkins Hospital with donations of at least $250,000 per year to help researchers continue to pursue ways to prevent blindness around the world. The objective of Lions' Vision 2000 is to create an endowment fund of approximately $4 million by the year 2000. The proceeds from this fund should meet Multiple District 22's obligation for support of the Wilmer Eye Institute Research Project. The institute is regarded as the top eye center in the world, according to a Lions spokesperson.

The funds will be raised by the club members in a variety of ways, including: planned giving by club members and their families; corporate donations; and club and individual donations and pledges. The average amount per member in the district in order to achieve the $4 million goal is $84. Eleven clubs in District 22-W have already made the commitment for their respective shares ($84 per member), the spokesperson said.

"The motto of Lions, Lionesses, and Leos is 'We Serve,' and we continue to serve in many ways, such as purchasing eye glasses, financing eye exams, and raising money for eye research," stated Greg Shockey, president of the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park club.

According to Wayne Johnson, publicity chairman, others wishing to participate in any of the above-mentioned methods of giving are invited to contact the local club at P.O. Box 38, Oakland, or Past District Miller at 1500 Springlake Way South, Sykesville, MD 21784.

GCC To Hold Estimating And Bidding Class

Knowing the proper techniques for preparing bids and estimates is critical to maintaining a profitable business. A class covering new bidding and estimating techniques will be offered at Garrett Community College over three consecutive Monday evenings, Nov. 9, 16, and 23, from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. Roger Skipper will be the instructor.

The focus of this class will be on preparing individuals to successfully bid and estimate jobs and projects. Topics that will be covered in the course include: taking off materials, arriving at material prices, determining labor costs, and writing proposals and contracts.

Persons wishing to register for this class or obtain additional information may call Cathy Fazenbaker, Julie Yoder, or Alyce McDowell in GCC's Small Business Development Center at 301-387-3080. Registration may also be made through Continuing Education & Training by calling 301-387-3069.

Q. My "Dick Nixon" wall clock has a kitschy '70s look, but it's so strange I like it. on the clock face, there's a caricature of President Nixon wearing a Superman costume.

Are other presidents and politicians pictured on clocks? I might start a collection.

A. U.S. presidents have shown up on clock faces since the turn of the century, when the likeness of President McKinley was featured on several different clocks.

The Ingraham Clock Co. of Bristol, Conn., offered six different patriotic oak kitchen clocks, including a McKinley clock, in its 1901 catalog.

Teddy Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt were featured on several metal mantel clocks.

The faces or names of all the presidents since Dwight Eisenhower have made it onto a wide variety of clocks, from tasteful gift items to gaudy alarm clocks.

All such clocks are popular with collectors.

Q. I just bought a vintage Western-style Stetson hat. It's made out of soft felt. How do I clean it so I can wear it?

A. If you wear your hat, make sure your hair is clean and dry.

Serious collectors, fearing perspiration and rain, never wear their hats.

Dust your hat daily with a soft-bristled brush – light bristles for a light hat, dark bristles for a dark one.

You can use a damp bath towel to remove any dust that remains. Rub the towel on the hat in a counter-clockwise motion.

Gently rub non-oil stains counter-clockwise using a soft, small-pored sponge, an art-gum eraser or – for deep stains – very fine sandpaper.

For oily stains, brush first, then use Fuller's Earth, a cleaning powder available at hardware stores. Let a one-eighth-inch layer of the powder sit on the stain for two to three hours, then brush it off.

Perspiration stains penetrate the felt and require. professional attention.

Home Tips

HAIR CONDITIONING – If you have dry or damaged hair that needs a lot of conditioning, wash your hair and put on the conditioner at the start of your shower. This way, the conditioner gets to stay on longer and the heat created by the shower will help it penetrate more thoroughly.

Don't forget to rinse thoroughly before getting out of the shower. Eileen G., Atwater, Ohio

FREEZER ORGANIZING – I have always hated trying to find food stored in the freezer part of my refrigerator. Things in the back are so hard to find and the front items must all be removed before reaching the back.

Then I got the idea to buy two plastic baskets that would fit side by side in my freezer. The ones I use are about 10-by-14 and about 6 inches tall.

Now when I need something from the freezer, I just remove the basket, find what I need and replace the basket! No more searching! It works so well that I now have another on the top shelf next to the ice cube trays. Eleanor V., San Antonio, Texas

JOHN F. KENNEDY: TARNISHED ICON?

On November 22, 1963, JFK was shot. Other political assassinations would follow in the troubled '60s, but this was many Americans' first encounter with such an unthinkable act. For many, it became a benchmark.

Kennedy was born in 1917, the second son of Joseph and Rose's nine children. Joe, the eldest, was deemed the future president. Jack just struggled to stay alive. The sickly child had an unstable back and Addison's disease. During his life, he was given the Church's last rites five times.

Jack spent much of boarding school in the infirmary. After graduating mid-class, he entered Princeton, dropping out when diagnosed with leukemia. He recovered enough to enter Harvard. Upon graduating with honors, Jack registered for the draft but failed his physical. He set about improving his health and was finally commissioned a Navy ensign, heading a Pacific PT boat. When the craft was destroyed, he became a hero, saving many crewmen, further injuring his back. The Navy sent him home. Joe was not so fortunate. Jack became the Kennedy heir and entered politics, marrying the glamorous Jacqueline Lee Bouvier. The next year, he needed spinal fusion surgery.

In 1960, Jack ran for president against Richard Nixon and won by a razor-thin margin. Later, there were allegations that his father bought votes. In Kennedy's short-lived administration, he had high points, such as the Cuban Missile Crisis, and low points, like the failed Bay of Pigs. He committed to sending a man to the moon, but also sent 15,000 troops to Vietnam. His charm and wit are still legendary but the later revelations of secret dalliances and possible Mob ties tarnish the luster. While those shots in Dallas cut short Kennedy's Camelot, the assessment of his legacy – of the good and the bad, the promise and the fulfillment – may never be completed.

First United Notes Growth In Earnings

First United Corporation (Nasdaq: FUNC) has announced growth in earnings for the third quarter of 1998. Income for the third quarter was $1.89 million, or $.30 per share, as compared to $1.65 million, or $.26 per share experienced during the third quarter of 1997.

Year-to-date 1998 income was $5.31 million versus $4.72 million for 1997, an increase of 12.50%.

"Throughout 1998, we continue to implement efficiencies in our operations and identify opportunities for increases in non-interest income," stated William B. Grant, chairman and chief executive officer.

With a continued strategy of analyzing all of its retail outlets, the decision was made to close three of the company's supermarket branches during the third quarter of 1998 due to their inability to meet corporate expectations. Following precedent, no employees were laid off but were given opportunities to staff other existing branch offices.

Fee income from Business Manager, Primevest, and Trust Services has increased 10.66%, or $.14 million, compared to the same period in 1997. "Our year to date efficiency ratio is 60.46%, as compared to 65.04% for the same time period last year. Although non-interest expense is only down slightly from the same period last year, the $.60 million, or 4.00% decrease, shows that the programs which First United has implemented to control the growth of these expenses are working," Grant said.

A key performance ratio, Return on Equity (ROE), which assesses the overall return to First United shareholders, has been trending positively over the past year. Year-to-date numbers show an ROE of 12.38%, as compared to last year's ra-tio of 11.07% for the same time period.

Additionally, Earnings Per Share (EPS) has trended positively during 1998, being $.27, $.28, and $.30, respectively, for the first three quarters of the year, totaling $.85 per share versus $.74 per share for the first three quarters of 1997, representing a 15% increase. First United's net interest margin is at 4.59%, which is slightly better than budget projections.

First United exceeded projected loan growth during the third quarter, with growth of $16.85 million to a total of $483.76 million. Year-to-date loan growth has been $42.37 million, representing a 9.60% increase over year-end 1997.

Despite a significant increase in deposits of $14.52 million during the third quarter of 1998, the company's deposits have grown just $7.64 million, or 2.00%, in 1998. As of September 30, 1998, deposits total $507.70 million. To better serve its loan customers, First United Financial Center was opened on Edwin Miller Boulevard, Martinsburg, W.Va., during the third quarter of 1998.

First United Corporation offers full-service banking through its banking subsidiary, First United Bank & Trust. The bank operates a traditional network of offices through Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties in Maryland, as well as Mineral, Hardy, Hampshire, and Berkeley counties in West Virginia. As of September 30, 1998, the Corporation posted assets of $617.03 million and had 6,174,811 shares outstanding.

Gormania Church Plans Bean Supper

In an effort to keep their church open, the members of Gormania United Methodist Church have planned a fund-raising supper, which will be held at the Gorman fire hall on Saturday, Oct. 14, from 1 to 6 p.m.

The menu to be offered will include soup beans, parsleyed potatoes, corn bread or roll, applesauce, dessert, and a drink. Donations are requested in the amounts of $5 for an adult meal and $2 per meal for children under age 10.

Friends Of Ruth Enlow Library Elect Director

The directors of the Friends of Ruth Enlow Library recently elected Jon Boone, Oakland, as the new president during their October meeting.

The Friends' annual membership drive is still in progress, and membership applications may be obtained at the main library in Oakland and at branch libraries in Kitzmiller, Accident, Grantsville, and Friendsville.

THE LATE JOANNE HENRY'S EFFORTS CONTINUED — Fifth grade students at Dennett Road Elementary School are pictured as they tend the butterfly and flag pole gardens at their school. Joanne Henry, who died suddenly last Wednesday, served on the conservation committee of the Mountain Laurel Garden Club and had faithfully made arrangements to work in the gardens with the student volunteers every spring and fall. Pictured above are Mike Shaffer (left) and Michael Manning as they shovel chipped wood mulch around shrubs. Below, Lori Shuttleworth (left) and Courtney DiSimone are pictured spreading fine mulch around perennials. As the students worked, conservation committee members explained the advantages of mulching gardens. Louise Wilson, chair of the committee, expressed her group's gratitude to the Garrett County landfill staff for donating the wood mulch and to Garrett's Eden for discounting the bagged mulch.

France Honored By Republicans

Congressman John Linder has announced that Morgan France of Oakland has been selected to receive the National Leadership Award presented by the National Republican Congressional Committee.

France received the award for serving as a co-chairman of the committee's Business Advisory Council, which was founded by House Speaker Newt Gingrich. The Advisory Council was instrumental in shaping the Republican's Balanced Budget Plan.

In making the announcement, Congressman Linder, who heads the Congressional Committee, said, "We are grateful for all of Mr. France's support of Republican ideals, particularly for his commitment to tax reform and spending cuts."

A Total Of 203 Animals Sold At Preston Co. Junior Livestock Sale

The Preston County Junior Livestock Sale held at the Preston County Buckwheat Festival saw over 100 businesses and individuals purchasing a total of 203 animals at the sale this year. The Preston County Livestock Association said that by doing so, these buyers are supporting the productive enterprises of the youth and their future. The total gross sales was $150,456.41.

Heather Light showed the Grand Champion Market Steer, which sold for $3.20 per pound and was purchased by the Miller family from Kingwood. The Reserve Grand Champion Market Steer was sold by Adam Foley for $2.50 per pound. It was purchased by Greer Industries from Morgantown. These two young people competed with 47 youths.

Tracy Teets showed the Grand Champion Market Hog, which sold for $4 per pound to WesBanco, and Misty Snider showed the Reserve Grand Champion Market Hog for $2.60 per pound to Jenkins Trucking & Sons Inc. These young people competed with 75 youths.

Andrew Cary showed the Grand Champion Market Lamb for $7 per pound to Charles Bolyard & Sons, and Megan Clark showed the Reserve Grand Champion Market Lamb for $4.50 per pound to Bruceton Bank. These young people competed with 72 youths.

Brandy Schaeffer showed and sold the Grand Champion Market Goat for $4 per pound to Gandee & Partners, and Kristina Lewis sold her Reserve Grand Champion Market Goat for $5.50 per pound to East View Group Home. These young people competed with nine youths.

The 4-H and FFA programs have a long history of developing and providing training that will build tomorrow's leaders.

For more information about the Preston County Junior Livestock Sale that is held during the Preston County Buckwheat Festival, interested persons may contact the Extension Office at 304-329-1391, or write to the Preston County Livestock Association, PO Box 286, Kingwood, WV 26537.

Farm Service Agency Slates CRP Sign-Up

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up will be held during a 7-week period from Oct. 26 through Dec. 11, according to Michael R. Kozier, executive director of the Garrett/Allegany County Farm Service Agency office.

"This will be another opportunity for landowners to sign up for a voluntary program to get financial and technical aasistance for improving their land, water, and wildlife resources," Kozier said. "If you haven't tried to get into the program, if your CRP contract offers were not accepted in Sign-up 16 last fall, or if you have contracts expiring, this is the time to make new contract offers."

The new, environmentally focused CRP provides immediate benefits to producers and taxpayers through reduced soil erosion, improved water quality, and expanded wildlife habitat. Under this voluntary program, landowners enter into contracts with USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) to place erodible and other environentally sensitive cropland in conservation practices for 10 to 15 years. In exchange, landowners receive annual rental payments for the land and cost-share assistance for establishing those practices.

The CCC will continue to evaluate and rank all eligible CRP offers using an Environmental Benefits Index (EBI), which is based on the potential environmental benefits from enrolling the land in the CRP. The EBI is composed of six environmental factors — wild-life habitat cover benefits, water quality benefits, on-farm benefits of reduced erosion, benefits enduring beyond the contract period, air quality benefits, and conservation priority areas — plus a cost factor.

Maximum CRP payments will be determined based on county average dryland cash or cash rent equivalent rental rates adjusted for site-specific, soil-based productivity factors. CRP payments can include an additional amount, not to exceed $5 per acre per year, as an incentive to perform certain maintenance obligations. Cost-share assistance will be provided to establish approved cover on land enrolled in the CRP.

Interested producers and landowners should contact the Farm Service Agency office at Garrett County FSA at 301-334-6954 or Allegany County at FSA 301-777-1536.

Garrett Co. Farm Bureau Holds Annual Membership Meeting

The 61st Annual Garrett County Farm Bureau Banquet was held last Thursday, Oct. 22, at the Bittinger fire hall. President Paul D. Miller welcomed all those attending, and the Rev. Alan Birkby gave the invocation. After the turkey dinner, Miller introduced all the special guests, and guest speaker Wayne Harman took the podium. Debbie Barnard, Women's Committee co-chairperson, gave her report and introduced 1998 Garrett County Farm Queen Jennifer Barnard. Remarks were also given by April Enlow, the 1998 Allegany/Garrett County Dairy Princess.

Election of officers and a vote on resolutions was chaired by W. Brooks Hamilton. Directors going off the board are Elmer Maust, Dorsey R. Guard, Merrill Wilburn, Lowell Merrill, and Arthur Lake. Voted into office were Paul D. Miller, chairman; W. Brooks Hamilton, vice chairman; Donald Ringer, director from the Accident district; William Bishoff, director from the Friendsville-McHenry district; James Carey, director from the Grantsville-Bittinger district; Daniel Yoder, director from the Oakland-Red House district; and Hoover Meyers, director from the Swanton-Deer Park district. The four delegates to the state convention who were elected are: Ralph Lichty, William Enlow, Don Ringer, and Clark Kolb.

Directors going off the Women's Committee are: Anita Brobst, Elsie Green, Hazel O'Brien, Carla Miller, and Lorraine Mason. Retaining their position as co-chairpersons are Debbie Barnard and Rebecca DeBerry. Directors elected are: Debbie Mayfield, Oakland-Red House; JoAnn Meyers, Friendsville-McHenry; Martha Bender, Accident; Ellen Yoder, Grantsville-Bittinger; and Janet Custer, Swanton-Deer Park.

The 1998 Garrett County Farm Bureau resolutions are:

I. Be It Resolved: That we exercise our right and responsibility to vote.

II. Be It Resolved: That we support the planned improvement to Rt. 219 and other state highways in Garrett County, but we are opposed to making Rt. 219 a four-lane limited access highway through Garrett County.

III. Be It Resolved: That we urge the Department of Natural Resources to institute a black bear hunting season to control the problems associated with the numerous bears in the county.

IV. Be It Resolved: That we urge landowners to start working on implementing nutrient management plans for their property. Nutrient management plans are mandated by Maryland's passage of the Clean Water Act of 1998.

Clark Kolb reported on Garrett County Farm Bureau's dairy booth at the Garrett County Fair, saying it was a good year. Farm Bureau netted $3,123.08 by selling 510 gallons of ice cream in 1,600 cones and milk shakes. This money will be deposited into the organization's scholarship fund.

The group is holding its annual citrus fruit sale, with the delivery of the fruit to be between Dec. 9 and 18. Anyone wishing information on the fruit and nuts being sold, the prices, and how to order may contact Paul D. Miller at 301-746-8616.

Broadwater Earns American FFA Degree

Laah Broadwater, daughter of Willard and Hazel Broadwater of Swanton, will receive the American FFA degree at the 71st annual National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo., slated for Nov. 12-14. The American FFA degree is the highest award offered through the FFA and is only given to approximately 1,700 members each year.

Broadwater's supervised experience program consisted of beef and swine production, placement in nursery and landscape, and placement in dairy production.

A 1998 graduate of Garrett Community College with an associate in applied science degree in agriculture management, Broadwater now attends West Virginia University in Morgantown, W.Va., where she is majoring in agriculture and environmental education.

The FFA is a national organization of over 444,000 members who strive for premier leadership, personal growth, and career development.

Md. Small Grain Seeding Continues

Small grain seedings continued to make major advances during last week. Despite the dry weather, barley planting was at 83%, a 14-point advancement from the week before. Rye planting moved to 68% complete, an 18-point increase from the previous week, and winter wheat stands at 45% complete. Winter wheat continued to have the smallest increase, which was a 7-point move. The dry weather appeared to be playing a significant role in sowing the fields in that there are some reports of spotty fields due to lack of germination.

Corn and soybean harvesting continued once again for another week. Corn harvested for grain jumped to 81% during last week and is ahead of the previous and five-year averages. The soybean harvest gained 15 points like last week and stands at 50%, 13 points ahead of the last-year and five-year averages. Soybeans shedding leaves stage was finally complete for the state. Sorghum harvesting had a 17-point increase and is at 55%, ahead of the previous year and five-year averages.

There were 6.6 days suitable for fieldwork. Topsoil moisture condition was 18% very short, 47% short, and 35% adequate. Subsoil moisture condition was 25% very short, 44% short and 31% adequate.

Maryland's crop progress for the week which ended Oct. 25, listing the item, and the percentages for this week, last week, last year, and the five-year average, in that order, follows:

Development: barley, seeded 83, 69, 82, 83; rye, seeded 68, 50, 66, 65; winter wheat, seeded 45, 38, 41, 49.

Harvesting progress: apples 90, 79, 86, 85; corn, grain 81, 75, 59, 75; soybeans 50, 35, 37, 37; sorghum 55, 38, 44, 43; other hay, 4th cutting 93, 90, 79, 70; alfalfa hay, 5th cutting 40, 38, 39, 46.

Please don't feed the bears!

The Oakland Office Of West Virginia Farm Credit will be CLOSED Friday, Oct. 30 for a staff meeting.

Legion Roast To Feature Past Nat'l Commander

Anthony G. Jordan, past national commander of the American Legion, will be the guest speaker at the 67th annual membership feed (pig roast) of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, Oakland, slated for Friday, Nov. 6.

Jordan, 58, is a native of Portland, Maine, and now resides in Augusta, Maine, with his wife Claudette. They are the parents of six adult children.

Following his U.S. Army service from 1963 to 1965, Jordan returned to Wiscasset, Me., and joined Bradford-Sortwell-Wright Post 54 of the American Legion. He is a 30-year life member of the Legion, having served two terms as post commander, one of which was simultaneous to his service as county, district, and department commander.

Among the national Legion offices he has held are: chairman of the National Security Commission, chairman of the Membership and Post Activities Committee, chairman of the National Foreign Relations Council, and National Executive Committeeman. He also served as a member of the National Sub-Committee on Committees and was liaison to the National Finance Commission.

Jordan is also a member of Elks Lodge #964 and ANAVICUS (Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada and the United States).

Professionally, Jordan is senior technical buyer for the Maine Yankee Atomic Power Company, where he has been employed for over 25 years. He is a member of the Governor's Board of Registration for Professional Engineers in the state of Maine.

Basketball, baseball, and golf are among Jordan's favorite pastimes.

Various other department and district Legion officers are expected to be in attendance at the Nov. 6 dinner, which will get under way at 6 p.m. Admission to the event is a paid membership card for members of Proctor Kildow Post 71 only, according to Moses Miller, dinner chairman.

Herrington Manor SP Sets Hayrides For Halloween

The Department of Natural Resources will offer free halloween hayrides at Herrington Manor State Park on Saturday, Oct. 31, from 7 to 9 p.m. Participants in this family-oriented event are encouraged to wear costumes, and candy will be distributed while the supply lasts.

Pre-registration is required and can be made by calling the park at 301-334-9180. The rides will be canceled in the case of inclement weather.

$1,000 RICHER is the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, thanks to a donation of that amount from the Railey Realty Charity Golf Classic, held recently at the Golf Club at the Wisp in McHenry. Accepting the check in the above photo from Terry Bogge, sales associate for Railey Realty and co-chair of the tournament, was Rayma Weeks, representing the rescue squad. Local Child's Art Chosen For Cards Of Hope

Steven Diller, 8, of Swanton, has been selected as one of the featured artists for this year's Cards of Hope, the holiday greeting cards that are marketed each year as a joint project of the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center and West Virginia University Children's Hospital, Morgantown, W.Va. The project raises money for comprehensive children's cancer therapies.

Steven is the son of John and Marilyn Diller. His sister Rebecca, 5, is a patient at WVU Children's Hospital. His card design is called "Night Before Christmas."

At a holiday party this summer, current and former cancer patients and their families designed 75 works of art. From these, 10 prints were selected to be part of the 1998 Cards of Hope collection.

The cards will be sold at United States Cellular locations throughout West Virginia and in Cumberland and Hagerstown, beginning this week. United States Cellular is the primary sponsor of this year's Cards of Hope project.

All of the original prints, including those not chosen for the card collection, will be displayed and auctioned off Nov. 20, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the Ramada Inn, U.S. 119 South at I-68 and I-79 in Morgantown during the fifth annual Cards of Hope Art Auction. Proceeds from the card and auction sales benefit the Children's Cancer Care and Research Fund, a joint project of the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center and WVU Children's Hospitals.

Packages of cards are available for $12.50, which includes tax, shipping, and handling. Each package contains 20 cards and 21 envelopes. Those ordering may choose their favorite artist or the Collector's Edition.

To order by phone, or for more information, persons may call 304-293-3711, or send a check payable to Children's Cancer Care and Research Fund to the Mary Babb Randolph Cancer Center, Development Office, Robert C. Byrd HSC, P.O. Box 9300, Morgantown, WV 26506-9300.

Amber Liller, daughter of John Liller, Oakland, and stepdaughter of Nola Myer, will complete her studies today at the Pittsburgh Culinary Academy and will graduate with a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

Ms. Liller, who is a 1996 graduate of Southern High School, has accepted employment with the Duquesne Club in Pittsburgh.

McCartney Earns Scholarship To Education Forum

Mikal McCartney, director of Garrett County Community Action Committee Inc.'s Microworks program, was named as a recipient of an Entrepreneurship Education scholarship.

The grant, sponsored by the Appalachian Regional Commission and Corporation for Enterprise Development, will permit McCartney to attend the 16th annual Entrepreneurship Education Forum which will be held in Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 31-Nov. 3.

Thirty-nine educators, community development professionals, nonprofit association representatives, and local business leaders from all 13 Appalachian states will meet with many of the nation's leading practitioners in the field of entrepreneurial training and education. Upon their return from the conference, the attendees will lead sessions in their communities to help disseminate information on entrepreneurial education practices and activities.

The ARC participated in supporting this scholarship opportunity as one element of its region-wide, multi-year, Entrepreneurship Initiative, which seeks to strengthen local economies in the 13-state Appalachian region through the creation and growth of "home-grown" businesses and jobs.

Jesse L. White Jr., federal co-chairman of the ARC, will be keynote speaker at the conference. The title of his address will be "Building Entrepreneurial Economies: Appalachia as a Model for Rural America."

Harvest For Hungry Seeks Canned Goods

Harvest for the Hungry, a campaign which collects canned food items for disadvantaged families in Maryland, will be collecting canned goods from movie goers at the Garrett 8 Cinemas next week for distribution to families in Garrett County.

The Garrett 8 Cinemas canned food collection, held in conjunction with Maryland's Tomorrow Program at Southern High School and the movie theater, will take place on Thursday, Nov. 5, Friday, Nov. 6, and Sunday, Nov. 8. Any movie goer who brings in an item of canned food will receive a free small bag of popcorn. All collected food will be donated to local food pantries and distributed to families most in need.

Over 700,000 individuals in Maryland are going hungry or are at a risk of hunger, a Harvest for the Hungry spokesperson said. Children under the age of 12 account for 112,000 of that number.

For further information on this canned food collection or Harvest for the Hungry, call Holly Janoska of SHS at 301-334-1310.

All Citizens Urged To Change Smoke Alarm Batteries

Home and apartment dwellers were urged to change the batteries in their smoke alarms and ensure their proper operation by State Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele recently. "The advent of Standard time is the perfect opportunity for citizens to take this important step for fire safety," Gabriele said.

Monday's fire at a Grantsville residence is a recent example of the importance of maintaining smoke alarms. The fire, which left a family of nine homeless and caused approximately $75,000 in property losses, occurred in a home where a smoke detector was present but not operable, according the fire marshal's office.

Maryland has experienced a significant drop in fire fatalities in the past two years and Gabriele credits properly maintained smoke alarms as playing a big factor. "In addition to public fire safety education, keeping fresh batteries in smoke alarms is one of the best ways to reduce death and injury from fire," he said.

Maryland Mountain Trust Promotes Balanced Use Of Resources, Preservation Of Heritage

HELPING PERSERVE A WAY OF LIFE - Maryland Mountain Trust (MMT), the first such organization in Garrett County, was recently formed by concerned residents and environmentalists to help landowners' preserve their heritage and conserve the resources of the region for children and grandchildren. On the MMT demonstration farm in the Lonaconing area MMT board member Jeff Conner, left, meets with MMT field project director Mick Womersley to check on the progress of a reforestation project.

by Peggy Santamaria

"This land is your land, this land is my land...this land was made for you and me." Woody Guthrie

The forests and mountains of western Maryland have significantly affected the culture and history of the people who have lived here. There are many who would protect and conserve the land that has provided a way of life rich in its heritage, bountiful in its gifts.

For some landowners financial shortfalls or reduced physical ability have cast a gloomy prospect for retaining land, long-owned and worked by families. Parcelling off or selling to land developers may be viewed as the only alternative to some who regret deeply the loss of the way of life afforded by their farms and forests.

To help find other solutions to these types of problems, a group of concerned residents and conservationists in western Maryland have come together to combine resources and knowledge to share with others. They have formed Maryland Mountain Trust, a land trust and conservation group working to promote preservation, protection, and balanced use of natural resources in the mountainous region of western Maryland.

"Because there are so many programs that can help people to preserve their land for their children, it can be difficult to know what to do. We wanted to form an honest brokerage for information," said Mick Womersley, program field director for MMT.

Preservation programs have been highly successful in other areas, Womersley explained as he spread out maps of Maryland counties with splotches of color coding the types of land uses in each area. Blue, indicating preserved land, spreads over rather surprisingly large areas in some counties, such as Montgomery.

People who select from what Womersley referred to as "an alphabet soup" of conservation or preservation programs may enjoy a tax or direct cash benefit for putting land in a trust. MMT offers to help people sort through the reams of information and determine a suitable plan.

"My goal is to help local people who once had no choice but to subdivide their land to keep it intact for future generations," he said.

Womersley, originally from Yorkshire, England, came to western Maryland by way of the University of Maryland, where he is a Ph.D. candidate in environmental policy. For the last two years he has lived on a Garrett County farm belonging to his thesis advisor, Dr. Peter Brown.

A neighbor shared Womersley's interest in and concern about the future of agriculture in the region. For generations his family has depended on farming. But can that way of life become his legacy as well as his history, he wondered?

His concern for the future of farming in Garrett County brought Jeff Conner onto the board of directors of MMT. Besides experience of an agrarian lifestyle, Conner, a certified public accountant, brought with him to the organization a knowledge of estate planning and tax benefits.

"Even as a kid I dreamed of living on my grandparents' farm. I wanted to see that it always stayed a farm, too," he said. Today Jeff does live on that farm, and he well understands why some people decide to put their family farm land into trusts.

Both Womersley and Conner note that what were traditional farms are now being split up into smaller and smaller fragments. Often parcels of farm land will be sold to produce needed income. The face of the countryside changes as subdivision occurs.

But some of the changes that occur do benefit the economy of the region. An avid hunter, woodsman, and farmer, Conner agrees with Womersley that development needs to take place, and it will take place. "If there weren't development in Garrett County we would be at a stand-still. There wouldn't be any economic growth," he acknowledged.

Sound reason needs to guide the development and growth in a region of expansive woodlands and rolling farms, both men agree. "People want to know about ways to preserve land, and there were no land trusts in western Maryland," Conner pointed out. MMT now fills that void.

"I'm not going to push it, but if people do want to preserve their land, there are many ways to do it. It can take on so many different aspects," he said.

To take their information to the people of Garrett and Allegany counties and western Washington county, the principals of MMT have put together an educational program — Land Trust Chautauqua. This informational forum combines a slideshow and discussion and can be taken to schools, universities, and community groups. The program lasts about an hour and a half and is highly interactive. We organize regular landowner seminars at our demonstration farm on Pea Ridge, and we are always willing to come to your church group or public meeting to discuss our work," Womersley explained.

The founders of Maryland Mountain Trust hope to reach people of different walks of life who share an interest in preserving the heritage and the resources of these western mountains. It is not only farm land that can be protected, they have pointed out, but also forests, woods, and swamps.

Land may be preserved for agriculture, recreation, timbering, or simply for the beauty, grandour, and spiritual renewal that it offers to those who have the privilege of its stewardship.

For further information persons may contact MMT at 301-609-8164.

Cool Weather Increases Risks Of Carbon Monoxide Dangers

by Walter Haydel, R.S.
Garrett County Health Dept.

With the cool weather setting in, the Environmental Health Section of the Garrett County Health Department reminds county residents that home heating appliances could be a source of poisonous carbon monoxide gas.

Carbon monoxide, or CO, is an odorless, tasteless, colorless gas that can be fatal when inhaled. It is sometimes difficult to determine if carbon monoxide is the culprit because its symptoms are similar to the flu and allergies. Low levels can cause nausea, dizziness, weakness, and muscle aches. Higher doses can impair judgment, cause paralysis or coma, and potentially death. Carbon monoxide exposures especially affect unborn babies, infants, and people with anemia or a history of heart disease.

According to the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission, there are more than 250 carbon monoxide deaths every year associated with the use of combustion appliances in the home. Each year nearly 5,000 people in the United States are treated in hospital emergency rooms for carbon monoxide poisoning.

Any fuel-burning appliance in the home is a potential source of carbon monoxide. When appliances are kept in good working condition, they produce little carbon monoxide. Problems arise when fuel-burning appliances are inadequately maintained, improperly operated or improperly vented.

Common sources of carbon monoxide include gas-, oil-, or wood-fueled appliances, including gas furnaces, wood stoves, fireplaces, coal stoves, charcoal grills, cooking ranges, water heaters, kerosene heaters, portable generators, and automobiles left running in closed garages.

Kerosene space heaters are of particular concern in our county since many residents use this type of auxiliary heat during power outages caused by adverse weather and winter storms. Kerosene heaters should be used with extreme caution; they are not meant to be a primary source of heat. Make sure these heaters are vented to the outdoors and are equipped with oxygen depletion sensors.

If a gas or kerosene heater must be used in the event of an emergency, keep doors opened to adjacent rooms of the house and crack open a few windows. This allows enough air for proper combustion and reduces deadly carbon monoxide levels. Gas powered portable generators should never be operated indoors for obvious reasons.

The most important way to reduce the risk from carbon monoxide is to keep all fuel-burning devices well-maintained and inspected for safely. Experts recommend having fuel-burning systems inspected by a trained professional every year. Always operate a fuel-burning device for its intended purpose, make sure it has been installed correctly, and remember to vent these devices to the outdoors.

There are carbon monoxide detectors that can be installed in the home for continuous monitoring of dangerous CO levels. These devices are similar in appearance to smoke detectors and are powered with household electrical current or self-contained batteries. They are available at most hardware or department stores, averaging in price from $25 to $50.

For more information concerning carbon monoxide safety tips or other indoor air quality concerns, call Garrett County Health Department, Environmental Health Services at 301-334-8980.

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

The need is great this year. In Garrett County, Maryland, needy children will go cold this winter without your help.

Just what is The Republican Newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN FUND is neighbors helping neighbors. The Republican is asking readers to donate to the fund, and the proceeds will be used to buy new winter clothing for needy area children. There are no administrative fees; all the money donated is used to buy warm winter clothing.

How are needy children being identified?

Teachers and counselors in the county school system are helping to identify children who need a boost. The staff at the Department of Social Services is helping, too. In the next few months, the families will be contacted and put on the waiting list for shopping trips.

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

The staff at The Republican will be recruiting volunteers to serve as "shoppers" who will accompany selected children and their parents on shopping trips. The kids will be able to select their own coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, boots, or any other needed winter items. The volunteer search has just started, and any person or civic group interested in helping out is welcome to contact Mary McEwen at the newspaper, 301-334-3963.

How can I help?

Either sign up as a volunteer, or complete the coupon below and send it with a donation to the address on the coupon. (All checks should be made out to Warm the Children Fund.) All donations are tax deductible. Please make your donations before December 15, 1998.

Durst Hopes To Retain Seat On Education Board

Rodney Durst, an incumbent member of the Garrett County Board of Education, has filed for re-election for another four-year term on the board. Durst, a resident of Swanton, represents voter district 1. He released the following statement concerning his candidacy:

"In 1994 over 5,000 Garrett County voters put their trust in me and elected me to a second term on the Garrett County Board of Education.

"I believe, with the help of my colleagues, we delivered one of the best school systems in the nation. Test scores, parental satisfaction, employee confidence, and other indicators are at an all-time high.

"As far as school boards go, the board of 1996-98 was one of the best, if not the best elected school board. From hiring and keeping the new superintendent to establishing new policies and procedures, we are certainly on the right track to educational excellence.

"A few of my personal highlights from my second term are: the rotating chairmanship, which takes the inner politics out of the board and allows us to concentrate on the job at hand and not on personal agendas. As president of the board, I fought for and got the money to start the S.T.A.R. discipline program. I have spent many hours in Annapolis as a member of the legislative committee, making sure Garrett County's views are heard. I was elected to the MABE Executive Committee in 1997 and again in 1998. This past summer I was the only board member in the state appointed to the Maryland State Dept. of Education's K-12 Intervention Task Force.

"I believe it is good for a board member to get involved with the youth, so I coach youth basketball and softball. Believe me, we have some gifted students. I see more state titles in the future for our local student athletes.

"I am seeking a third term because I believe there is more work to be done. I have the experience and I pray for the wisdom to do what's best for the children and the people of Garrett County.

"Thank you for your support on Tuesday, November 3."

Lions Members Honored With Jones Fellowships

The Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions club honored three of its members for their long-time service at a recent Ladies Night meeting attended by district governor Al Ward, past district governor Robert Miller, region chairman Paul Shockey, and zone chairman Bill Ferry.

Richard Davis, Judge Lewis Jones, and Alfred T. "Blue" Marucci were recognized and honored by the club for their long-time, dedicated service to the community and the world-wide humanitarian efforts of Lions International. Each individual was recognized as a Melvin Jones Fellow, Lionism's highest honor. This was the first time the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club has bestowed this honor on any of its members.

After a surprise announcement by club president Greg Shockey that "some awards were to be given out," immediate past president Jay Bateson came forward and gave a brief narrative on the long-time contribution of each of the honorees and offered some humorous sidelights to their many years of participation in club events. Davis joined the club in 1948, Jones in 1946, and Marucci in 1949, collectively representing over 150 years of continuous active service.

Bateson pointed out that all three not only serve the club as active members, but each has been club president, as well as having held numerous other club offices and chairmanships. He also noted that each of them continue to remain active in club affairs, with Marucci just completing 41 consecutive years as chairman of the Lions chicken barbecue at the Garrett County Fair, one of the club's largest fund-raising events.

In explaining the meaning of a Melvin Jones Fellowship, past district governor Robert Miller said that the award, named after the founder of Lions International, represents one's commitment to humanitarian service and accomplishments in the community, the nation, and throughout the world. Its recipients must demonstrate these principles to their fellowmen through acts of generosity, compassion, and concern for others. Miller stated that the long-time outstanding service of Dick, Lew, and Blue exemplify the criteria for the award.

Plaques were presented to the three honorees by Ward as the district governor expressed his congratulations and pride in their accomplishments and long-time dedication to the principles of Lionism. President Shockey presented a large beautifully arranged hanging floral basket to each of the honored members' wives, Eva Davis, Mary Jones, and Margaret Marucci.

In concluding the meeting, Shockey stated that the evening represented one of the highlights of the club's 58-year history.

New Horizons Slates Career Planning Class

The New Horizons Program, the New Dimensions Program, and The Caring Connection, three grant-funded programs sponsored by Garrett Community College which provide services for single parents, homemakers, displaced homemakers, and single pregnant and parenting adolescents, has scheduled another Career Planning class beginning Monday, Nov. 9. The class is offered over a five-week period, meeting twice weekly on Monday and Wednesday, from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. at the McHenry Campus of GCC.

This career assessment course is designed for individuals to identify their training needs and to prepare for employment. Topics to be covered during the five-week course include: personal assessment complete with interest, skills, and career testing; learning style evaluation; career information; training or retraining opportunities; résumé writing; job applications; job search strategies; and interviewing techniques.

Participants of the three grant programs, as well as the public in general, are encouraged to take this class before pursuing other vocational training. Tuition assistance is available to those qualifying for any of the three grant programs. Transportation/child care assistance may also be available to income-eligible single parents, displaced homemakers, and pregnant and parenting teens through the three grant programs.

Interested persons may register for the Career Planning class through the New Horizons office. Information on eligibility for the three programs and their services, as well as tuition availability, may be obtained by calling New Horizons at 301-387-3071 or 301-387-3102, or New Dimensions or The Caring Connection at 301-387-3103 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The three grant programs are located at the McHenry campus of GCC in the Center for Community and Continuing Education in Room 302.

The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds made available to the program through Career and Technology Education comprise 89% of the total program budget, with GCC contributing 11% of the total program budget. The Caring Connection is 100% funded by the Maryland State Department of Education. The New Dimensions Program is 100% funded by the Department of Human Resources, Women's Services Division.

It's Been 20 Years Since You Have Had A Choice!
NOW YOU HAVE A CHOICE!

A vote for DUCKWORTH is a vote to stop these "Sweetheart Deals"

First of all I know that we are not being represented by those we have elected. I feel that there are too many "Sweetheart Deals" that we and our children will be paying for these "Deals" the rest of our lives which benefit only special people.

These "Sweetheart Deals" paid for by our taxes must be stopped and the money and the benefits of those taxes must be brought back to District 1-A, which is Garrett County and George's Creek, to benefit all of our citizens. There will never be behind closed door "Sweetheart Deals" if I am elected.

I believe in free open public hearings on all issues of public concern. I do not believe in the "States Condemnation Powers" being used against private property and property owners. The state works on 20 year and 50 year plans. Rocky Gap is an example of abuse of "Condemnation Powers", the State condemned the property around Rocky Gap stating that they did not want development within view of the Park. This property grab by the state cost the property owners thousands of dollars to fight a losing battle. LOOK WHAT WE GOT!!

Deep Creek Lake will never be the same. Maryland's Regulatory Agencies, which was created by our elected Representatives to take the heat off their backs on election year, will regulate the Lake and have secret meetings for their desires. If Maryland believes in Private Partnerships, then allow private companies to purchase the Lake and request that it remains as it has been, for the good of the people and the property owners.

The state of Maryland can do a lot of property grabs by going through the General Services which do not require public hearing, such is the case with the "Youghiogheny Corridor". The State of Maryland has wanted it and this has been an ongoing plan and the public has not been kept informed about it. This cannot be allowed to continue.

The State of Maryland entered into a "Sweetheart Deal" trading for 200 acres of rocks and brush for 600 Acres of Coal under Potomac State Forest and then gave the same individual $600,000.00 for the Depot in Frostburg and now finds out that the Tunnel which was part of the "Sweetheart deal" is deteriorating (NO KIDDING???). It has not been used in over 50 years. The reports about this tunnel is so that you the Taxpayers are on notice that there will be more monies needed to repair this error. This is why I am opposed to Public and Private Partnerships with the State. There are only certain people who benefits at our expense.

THESE KINDS OF "DEALS" COULD FUND A LOT OF LOCAL PROGRAMS FOR THE CITIZENS.

WHAT AM I FOR?

1. We need more of the Home Health Care and Nurses, not the cutting of staff. There are a lot of Citizens who wish to stay at home instead of being forced into Nursing Homes. They wish to remain in their own homes and around their families, but need some help to accomplish this. Think about it, this is also more cost effective for the County.

2. Senior Citizens should have their basic phone bill paid for in case of Emergencies and that allows them a few extra dollars for their needs. Coal royalties from under Potomac Garrett State Forest could pay for this program.

3. Seniors who elect to discontinue driving, should have services for their needed transportation, that way they still have their independence. This is also much safer and less costly than having accidents.

4. Our Hospitals, never refuse to treat citizens, but they should be compensated for those services. I believe $600,000.00 that went to the purchase of the Frostburg Depot would have better served the citizens if it went to this type of program instead of one "Special Individual".

5. We need to support local small businesses, and when it comes to new Regulations, those businesses must have a "Grandfather Clause" imposed, which would exempt them from those new Regulations.

6. When it comes to State Money being given for any reason then use of that money would be better spent by the local government without strings attached. The Flood Recovery money that was given to George's Creek was given to repair, and not to improve. That is wrong because sometimes improvements will also be the repair needed.

7. I am in favor of "Free Open Public Hearings". I am opposed to Advisory Boards and Commissions that have desired outcomes and those individuals selected, are appointed for that purpose, that is why we are stuck with them. The state says that they represent the wishes of the people.

8. I am in favor of "Local Government Rights", "County Rights" and "Private Property Rights".

9. I am in favor of "Jobs for our Youth" so they can stay in this environment and raise their families. Don't say you cannot create Jobs because we can, the state does it all the time. So can I, because I have. There are a lot of people in business now that learned their trades from me and now employ others. In Frederick I helped save 100 jobs (as a private citizen) and the Company stayed in Maryland and expanded and hired more employees.

10. I am in favor of Residents before Tourist. We have what the Tourist want up here, but we must not allow those changes that hurt our families' values and the morals that we hold dear. We must first take care of our own Citizens.

Christina Kasecamp United With Daniel Knight In August Ceremony

Christina L. Kasecamp and Daniel C. Knight were united in marriage on Aug. 29, 1998, in a double-ring ceremony, which took place at the First Congregational Church in Frostburg, with the Rev. Joe Penick officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Michael and Patricia Guthrie of Oakland and Richard and Colleen Kasecamp of Frostburg. The groom is the son of the late Joseph and Mabel Knight, formerly of Cumberland.

The bride wore a full-length gown of Italian white satin and a fitted bodice with a princess waistline sewn with baby pearls. The gown's hemline and the cathedral-length train were trimmed with English lace. A fingertip-length veil was complemented by a headpiece of white silk roses and sequins, and bead spray, and the bride's cascading bouquet, designed by Cindy Duggan of Frostburg, consisted of white roses accented with peach and teal rosebuds.

Serving as the matron of honor was Danielle Uphole of Oakland, friend of the bride, who wore a teal green tea-length satin dress and carried a round bouquet of matching white roses and teal and peach rosebuds.

The groom and best man wore black tuxedos with tails. The best man was Dave Kimble of Cumberland, long-time friend of the groom.

Soloist Caroline Penick sang "Through Your Eyes" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Melissa Guthrie, step-sister of the bride, handed out peach birdseed rosebuds to the adults and bubbles to the children at the wedding ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding party was chauffeured from the church to the reception at the Frostburg Moose lodge, which was coordinated by Debbie DelSignore, a close friend of the family. Each table was adorned with baskets of peach and teal rosebuds and balloons, designed by Debbie Duggan. Catering was provided by Ken O'Rourke, and music was provided by disc jockey Dan Daniels. The video of the wedding was filmed by John Ruff, cousin of the bride, and photographs were taken by Ron Brown, uncle of the bride.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Aruba for 10 days and now reside in Cumberland.

Kelley Couple To Celebrate 50th

Oliver and Flo Kelley, Terra Alta, W.Va., will soon celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. They were married on Nov. 6, 1948, in Oakland.

Mrs. Kelley is the daughter of Ellen Atkinson and the late Clarence Russell Atkinson. Mr. Kelley is the son of the late Artie E. and Mary D. Kelley. Oliver and Flo continue to live and work on the farm they moved to shortly after their wedding.

The couple has three daughters: Mary Ellen Sanders, Jean Kelley, and Helen Funk, all of Terra Alta.

A celebration party will be held on Nov. 8, 3-8 p.m., at the Terra Alta fire hall. All friends, neighbors, and relatives are welcome to attend. The family has requested no gifts, although cards will be appreciated.

Bowen-Waggoner Couple Planning April Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Tichnell, Falling Waters, W.Va., announce the engagement of her daughter, Kimberly Jean Bowen, Arlington, Va., to Jeffrey Keith Waggoner, also of Arlington.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of the late Marvin A. Bowen and the stepdaughter of Garrett County native Frederick Tichnell. She is a graduate of St. Mary's College of Maryland, with a bachelor's degree in psychology, and Central Michigan University, with a master's degree in administration/human resources. She is currently working as a management analyst with the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The groom-to-be is attending National-Lewis University, pursuing a degree in management. He is currently working as a management analyst with the U.S. Department of the Navy.

An April 24, 1999, wedding in Alexandria, Va., is planned.

Wolfs Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Ernest (Bud) and Rachel Wolf, Mtn. Lake Park, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Oct. 15, 1998.

The couple was married on Oct. 15, 1948. The service performed by the late Rev. H.O. Teagarden at his residence in Mtn. Lake Park.

Mr. Wolf is the son of the late Ernest J. and Blanche (Muff) Wolf, Oakland. He retired as a supervisor of road maintenance for the state of Maryland.

Mrs. Wolf is the daughter of the late Ralph J. Gettings, Mentor, Ohio, and Josephine Wickham, Grafton, W.Va. She is a homemaker.

The Wolfs have three children: Ernie Wolf, husband of Elaine (Walden), of Oviedo, Fla., with son Brian; Anthony Wolf, husband of Donna (McKinley), of Cumberland, with son Jason; and Karen Wolf of Morgantown, W.Va.

The Wolfs celebrated their anniversary on July 17 at Will O' the Wisp restaurant, when all of their children were able to be together. A special treat of the Wolfs was having their grandson Brian join them after 20 years of being apart.

Marriage Permits Recently Issued

Thirteen couples applied for their marriage licenses this week, according to David Martin, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court. One couple requested that their names not be published.

John Joseph McKinney, 65, and Mary Ingabee McKinney, 62, both of Jane Lew, W.Va., former husband and wife.

John Davis McDonald, 42, and Joyce Lynn Colbert, 39, both of Oakland.

Philip Allen Hebb, 38, and Rhonda Lea Moreland, 17, both of Deer Park.

Jimmy Junior Lipscomb, 31, and Rebecca Dawn DeWitt, 25, both of Kitzmiller.

Mark Anthony Pedar, 39, Dilliner, Pa., and Kathy Jo Mary, 43, Point Marion, Pa.

Russel William Slagle, 25, Friendsville, and Angela Lynn Lantz, 17, Oakland.

Arnold David Tichnell, 49, and Betty Mae Sheets, 53, both of Tunnelton, W.Va.

Arthur Theodore Evans, 61, and Mary Lee Ashby, 56, both of Mtn. Lake Park.

David Wayne Shahan, 28, and Beth Lynn Evans, 19, both of Uniontown, Pa.

Carlton Ray Metheny, 55, Reedsville, W.Va., and Carolyn Jean Stone, 57, Masontown, W.Va.

John Howard McClead, 51, and Debra Ann Conard, 44, both of Morgantown, W.Va.

Richard Nathanael Folden, 30, and Lynette Margaret Jones, 22, both of University Place, Wash.

Santa Seeking Gifts For Area Teenaged Youth

Lou Stouffer, Terra Alta, known better in this area as Santa Claus, continues to collect new and used toys, games, clothing, and various gift items that he delivers to local homes over the Christmas holidays. Stouffer, who was named the 70th of President George Bush's 1,000 Points of Light for his outstanding humanitarian efforts for over 20 years, travels thousands of miles every holiday season and makes deliveries to hundreds of families in need.

Stouffer said that he always needs gift items for teenaged youth, and is asking persons to make donations of such gifts by dropping them off at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, located at the corner of Center and Second streets in Oakland. Persons may also contact him directly at telephone 304-789-6743.

He suggested such items as perfume, jewelry, compact discs, and clothing for this particular age group.

Mastej, Pletta Couple United

Jennifer Lynne Mastej and Robert Pletta exchanged wedding vows on Saturday, Oct. 17, on the banks of Bear Creek at Kettle Hole. The ceremony was performed by Pastor Phil Smith of Friendsville.

Attending the ceremony were the bride's children, Valerie, Margaret, and Sean Mastej. Witnesses were Freda and Vernon Sines, and Rebecca Patton of Friendsville took photos.

The couple celebrated at Cornish Manor, Oakland, following the ceremony. They reside in Friendsville.

Re-Elect
Patty L.
GLOVER
Republican Candidate for Garrett County Treasurer

"There is no substitute for experience!"

- More than 22 years working in Treasurer's Office
- Serving as County Treasurer for 12 years
- Experienced in banking procedures, bookkeeping, billing, collection, etc.
- Experienced in public relations
- Supervisory experience
- Honest, trustworthy & dedicated

I was so gratified by your tremendous vote of support in the Primary election. Again, I am asking for your vote and trust. Please go to the polls on November 3rd and cast your vote for Patty L. Glover, Republican candidate for County Treasurer.

I will continue to serve you to the very best of my abilities.

Authority: "Jan" Bernard, campaign treasurer

ELECT George FALTER, JR.
Commissioner

He is the only candidate on the ballot who:

Opposes the 219 Superhighway which is being funded in part with money being taken from the Veterans Trust Fund, and it will be used to export jobs out of the country. His opponent, Wendell Beitzel, has publicly stated: "The proposed route is essentially aligned with Route 219, which passes through Garrett County. If all of the states between Canada and Florida support the concept then Garrett County should not block its progress."

Has worked to help people to defend their farmland from state takeover.

As a citizen activist, has worked against waste of taxpayers' money at all levels of government.

Actually has a plan for economic development, better education and improved roads. The plan was made available for all to see at the Candidates' Forum at GCC. It is priorities based, and the focus is on cost effective ways of getting the job done.

Is not part of the political establishment and will bring NEW IDEAS and the people's point of view into the process. He has no business interests to distract him. As a retired small business owner, he will be a FULL TIME COMMISSIONER.

NOTE: "Whether you vote for me or Wendell Beitzel in District 3, I am still a winner because of all of the nice people I have met during this campaign. Thanks for giving me the opportunity to talk with you."

Carry-out meals will be available as well as baked goods and crafts. The dinner is open to the public. It is being sponsored by Lutheran Braille Work Center #173 and AAL Branches #375 and #5821.

SURPRISE VISIT

Ida Reckner received a surprise visit over the weekend from a former classmate from Frostburg College in 1927. A fellow teacher, Ruth Reader resides at the Lutheran Home in Hagerstown. Ruth was accompanied by her two nephews, Tyler and Craig Shoemaker, and her niece, Roxanne Shoemaker. They had a great time talking about the "good old days" and enjoyed the perfect autumn weather and sights. This week, Ida is no doubt busy baking cookies for all those little "Cookie Monsters" who will visit her over the weekend for their annual "Trick or Treat" night. She is one of the essential stops on the Halloween tour, as it was when I was a little girl. Think how many cookies that gifted lady has baked for our Halloween treats. I know I stopped there in the 1950s as many as at least five times. And now my three little "Cookie Monsters" go up there and have been going there for at least seven times. She is a great cookie baker and a wonderful neighbor.

MY HALLOWEEN THOUGHTS

The howling of a pack of coyotes around the peat bog have some new competition since, according to Sheila Southerly, some signs of the awakening of the "Bog Monster," a regular appearance around the end of October around the Glade region near Bittinger. The "Bog Monster" has been sighted down Peat Bog Road around the homes of Denny Buckel, the Ramseys, and the Southerlys. Ruth DiPaolo up at the corner has also seen and heard some strange sounds and shadows.

I recently talked with some of my neighbors and like-minded parents around this "neck of the woods," and we all agreed that it is a shame that some different points of view ruin Halloween. We do not consider this holiday as devil worship, but it is simply a wonderful community and family holiday. Of course, this is just our view and we don't want to be judgmental. Children do love to plan their costumes, and some are quite creative.

Decorations around the homes with pumpkins, corn, and goblins are so classy. My three daughters were very busy this last week arranging their lawn display with corn stalks, gourds, pumpkins, and a plywood "scarecrow." They just love to get all dressed up and tour other local friends' houses, even when they are sometimes teased or scared by young-hearted parents. And in one way, that's what's good about Halloween: allowing kids to be scared in a perfectly safe manner.

Who's really scared of the "Bog Monster" anyway? My kids are filled with theory about who exactly is pretending to be the "Bog Monster." No one really knows. No one is too scared as they all have their own dads in their car, who would protect them from anything!

We may want to plan in a few years a full-scale Halloween party in our community. It will be tough to plan it, as to arranging how the kids can go trick-or-treating, at the same time hanging around their homes waiting for their friends to come to their home. It needs some thought, but with the brilliant minds of Sally, Sheila, Marci, Carol, Lesa, and Ellen, they maybe can come up with a workable plan — maybe even including a hay ride between stops, or car pools, scheduling times, and a final stop with a hot dog roast. We will take back Halloween for our kids. I don't believe there is anyone in our area who would give poison or put razor blades in their treats. Also, the kids around here would not do any tricking at homes.

If we are lucky and have the nice weather predicted for this week, hopefully we may see some shooting stars. Since the peak of the October meteor showers was just last Thursday, it may not be too late for some to still make their apprearance. One sure nice sight is a clear bright Jupiter in the south east sky. From my home, that is over Meadow Mountain on the left.

The Bittinger 4-H highway clean-up on Saturday evening was hurt, as many of the kids were involved with both 4-H and soccer. However, Robbie Glotfelty and Andrew Hady did a great job on Route 495. I can remember when Cindy and Sally Beachy and I combed the sides of the road for returnable bottles to collect the deposit for our "Nightmare Club" treasury. One of our harrowing moments was when someone threw bottles into the pasture and it broke and almost cut one of our pony's feet off. It was the ugliest injury that I have ever seen in the near 40 years of caring for horses.

Monday night was the first game of the playoff season for the Mt. Top Soccer League. Claire Sussman, Torrey Poholsky, and Brent Housley of the Breakers took on the Blazers and were victorious in the game played at Southern High under the lights. This was something different for the kids, but they played against a bigger and older team using their skill, guts, and teamwork to win. Who knows, they just might be in the running for the under 15 championship. I am sure this year will not be a "cake walk" for them like last year when they crushed all the teams. They will have to learn that sometimes a win is hard to come up with.

Many of Lea Stanton's fans, especially the Sussman, Bass, and Glotfelty kids, were present when she played with the Allegany College volleyball team against Garrett Community College girls on Monday evening. Despite Lea's effort, the GCC team defeated the AC team soundly, 3-O.

HEAD START GETS FIREFIGHTERS-EYE VIEW - Oakland-area Head Start participants from the Southern Home Base and the Home Base III programs recently took a field trip to the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department. There they saw how a firefighter suited up for a fire call, and were reminded of the importance of the 911 emergency number and a home fire safety plan, including the "drop and roll" manuever. Shown from the left are Lorena Rodeheaver and her son Ben; firefighter Andy Andersen; Kenneth Dawson and his daughter Trixie; Bradley Clary and his father Jason and sister Melissa; Sara Sweitzer and her mother Barbara; Beth Morehead (with her mother Becky obscured behind her); and Richard and Shannon Harvey and their mother, Bobbi Cline. Not available for the photo was firefighter Richard Wildeson, who along with firefighter Andersen led the kids on the tour and in their educational activities.

On Sunday, Oct. 24, several ranger members traveled to Cumberland to attend the Cumberland ranger lodge Halloween party.

The next meeting of Rangers Lodge #136 will be on Thursday, Nov. 19, at the home of Mary Frantz. The meeting will include making fruit baskets for the shut-ins.

FRIEND FAMILY ASSOCIATION

A meeting of the board of trustees for the Friend Family Association met at the museum on Friday and Saturday. Topics of discussion were funds and new ideas for the museum/library. Plans were also discussed for the possibility of the annual reunion/seminar to be held in Friendsville next year.

Grace Lutheran Church provided a Saturday evening meal for the group at the church's social room.

The last regular day for the museum to be open will be on Saturday, Oct. 31. With weather permitting, plans are being made to have the library open on Wednesday afternoons during the winter months, and persons interested in visiting the library on those days may call Ina Hicks, librarian, at 301-746-5615.

Board of Education
November 3, 1998
Authority, Marcie L. Beiler, Treasurer

We, the undersigned, write this letter in support of David J. Martin, candidate for Sheriff of Garrett County.

We wholeheartedly support Dave in this pursuit. We have known Dave for years and have personal knowledge of his community involvement and ethical standards. We feel that the sheriff's office has enough law enforcement experience represented in the trained deputies, which are employed by the county. What is needed at this point in time is accountable management for this department. Dave has not been involved in any way with any of the previous administrations or their problems. He has many years of experience in business administration and has the skills required to lead the sheriff's office in the direction it needs to go.

We wish to see the sheriff's office remain a community oriented, full service, local police department. Dave has pledged to have more marked units patrolling the outlying communities and to have community youth programs. He feels that these programs will go far in crime prevention, using a proactive approach instead of just reacting to crimes that have been committed. Since Dave does not have a law enforcement background, he is not bound by "This is the way we have always done it." He has not been trained to act in the best interest of the state, but wishes to act in the best interest of the citizens of Garrett County. He has assured us that his door will always be open to the public and his employees. New ideas and suggestions will be carefully considered to see if there would be benefit to the community or the department. Employee needs and concerns will be promptly addressed to promote high morale within the department.

Dave is excited about this position and is ready to bring new energy and ideas into local law enforcement. He is looking forward to working together with the sheriff's office employees, other law enforcement agencies and the community to create the highest quality law enforcement and crime prevention programs possible. We will be voting for David J. Martin for Sheriff of Garrett County and ask that you consider doing the same.

Maryland Department of the Environment Waste Management Administration 2500 Broening Highway, Baltimore MD 21224

Notice of Application Received and Opportunity for Informational Meeting

In accordance with Sections 1-601, 1-602, and 1-603 of the Environmental Article, Annotated Code of Maryland, the Waste Management Administration ("Administration") is presently reviewing an application for a state groundwater discharge permit submitted by the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling. The application is for the continued discharge of the wastewater generated by rainwater percolating through the existing rubble cell at the Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Facility into groundwater via infiltration/percolation. The landfill is located approximately 3.5 miles north of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland.

An Informational Meeting will be held if a written request is received by the Administration on or before November 6, 1998. The request should indicate the name, address, and daytime telephone number of the person making the request, the name of any party whom the person making the request may represent, and the name of the facility. Upon request, this Administration will provide an interpreter for the deaf or hearing impaired persons. The application and supporting documents will be available for public review after October 22, 1998, at the Garrett County Public Library located at 6 North Second Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550 and at the Administration's offices in Baltimore by appointment.

For further information regarding this notice, or to schedule an appointment to review this permit application and supporting documents at the Administration's office in Baltimore, please contact Ms. Gail Castleman, Hearings Coordinator, at 410-631-3441.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Trustee's Sale of valuable fee simple property improved by premises known as ROUTE 42, FRIENDSVILLE, MARYLAND 21531. By virtue of the power and authority contained in a Deed of Trust from ERIC ANDREW GRACE AND JENNIFER LYNN MATTHEU, dated JANUARY 27, 1995, and recorded in Liber 646, PAGE 452, among the land records of the COUNTY OF GARRETT, in the original principal amount of $61,700.00 with an interest rate of 9.5%, upon default and request for sale, the undersigned trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the front of the Courthouse for the COUNTY OF GARRETT, 204 S. 4TH STREET, OAKLAND, MARYLAND, on OCTOBER 30, 1998, AT 1:30 P.M., all that property described in said Deed of Trust as follows:

EXHIBIT A

All that parcel of land lying along Elder Hill, situate in Election District No. 2, Garrett County, Maryland, which is described as follows:

Beginning at an iron bar found at the southwesterly corner of the lands of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, in the westerly line of Military Lot No. 4126 and thence with a portion of the lands of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, and the said lot line, North 10°, West, 293.96 feet to an iron pin set, thence by a new line of division, South 57° 05' 48" 410.94 feet to an iron pin set and continuing 5 feet, or 415.94 feet total, to a point in the line of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, and in the westerly margin of Route 42, thence with the lines of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, and said road margin, South 32°, 49' 29" West, 190.26 feet to an iron bar found at the southeasterly corner of the land of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, thence leaving the said road and with the line of Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, as corrected, North 63°, 42' 50" West, 217.53 feet to the beginning, containing 1.50 acres, more or less.

Being the same as was conveyed to the herein Mortgagor from Larry E. Kisner and Robyn R. Kisner, husband and wife, by deed dated January 20, 1995, and to be recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

This is a partial purchase money mortgage because the sum received is all or part of the purchase price of the property.

Said property is in fee simple and is improved by a dwelling and is sold in "as is condition" and subject to all superior convenants, conditions, liens, restrictions, easement, rights-of-way, as may affect same, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $6,100.00 cash or certified funds shall be required at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price with interest at 9.5% per annum from the date of sale to the date of payment will be paid with TEN DAYS after the final ratification of the sale. Adjustments on all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. If applicable, condominium and/or homeowners association dues and assessments that may become due after the time of sale will be the responsibility of the purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, transfer taxes, title insurance, and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Time is of the essence for the purchaser, otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at risk and costs of the defaulting purchaser. If the sale is not ratified or if the Substitute Trustees are unable to convey marketable title, the purchaser's only remedy is the return of the deposit. Trustee's File No. 98-43781. BALLOT QUESTIONS AND SUMMARIES

ANNAPOLIS, MARYLAND

PROCLAMATION OF THE GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND DIRECTING THE PUBLICATION OF BALLOT TITLES AND AMENDMENT SUMMARIES OF BILLS PROPOSING AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF MARYLAND

WHEREAS, at its regular session of 1998, the General Assembly enacted Chapters 322 and 323, proposing amendments to the State Constitution; and

WHEREAS, it is the duty of the Governor, under Section 1 of Article XIV of the State Constitution and Section 23–9(a) of Article 33 of the Annotated Code of Maryland to order the publication of the ballot titles and amendment summaries of any bills proposing amendments to the Constitution of Maryland; and

WHEREAS, the publication of the ballot titles and summaries must take place for two weeks immediately preceding the General Election of November 3, 1998; and

WHEREAS, there will be presented on the ballot at said election the following proposed amendments to the Constitution for adoption or rejection by the voters:

CHAPTER 322
(House Bill 192)

QUESTION NUMBER 1

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Civil Jury Amount

Provides that the right to a jury trial in civil proceedings preserved by Article 23 of the Declaration of Rights applies only when the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000.

(Amending the Declaration of Rights, Article 23)

This constitutional amendment will increase the minimum amount in controversy that must be claimed in order to entitle a party in a civil case to a trial by jury. "Amount in controversy" generally means the amount of monetary damages claimed in a civil case.

Currently, Article 23 of the Declaration of Rights guarantees a jury trial in a civil proceeding where the right to a jury trial is preserved and where the amount in controversy exceeds $5,000. This proposal amends Article 23 to guarantee the right to a jury trial where the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000.

CHAPTER 323
(House Bill 229)

QUESTION NUMBER 2

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT
Retired Judges – Assignment

Authorizes retired judges of the Circuit Court of Harford County and the Circuit Court of Montgomery County to be assigned, subject to approval by the Court of Appeals, to do an act that a judge of the Orphans' Court of Harford County or the Orphans' Court of Montgomery County may perform.

(Amending the Constitution of Maryland, Article IV, Sections 3A and 18(b))

This constitutional amendment will allow the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, upon approval of a majority of the Court of Appeals, to assign a retired judge of the Circuit Court for Montgomery County or the Circuit Court for Harford County, that sits as the Orphans' Court for Montgomery County or the Orphans' Court for Harford County, respectively, to do an act that a judge of the Orphans' Court for Montgomery County or the Orphans' Court for Harford County, respectively, is authorized to perform.

The Orphans' Court has jurisdiction over estates of deceased persons and certain guardianships of minors. In Baltimore City and each county, except Harford and Montgomery, the Orphans' Court consists of three elected judges, who need not be lawyers. In Harford and Montgomery Counties, the circuit court judges sit alternately and in rotation as the Orphans' Court for the county.

Under current constitutional and statutory provisions, the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, upon approval of a majority of the judges of the Court of Appeals, may assign any former judge, except a former judge of the Orphans' Court, to sit temporarily in any court of this State, except an Orphans' Court. When a retired judge is assigned to sit in the Circuit Court for Montgomery County or the Circuit Court for Harford County, Orphans' Court matters cannot be included in the assignment. The inability to include these matters can cause delays in the settlement of decedents' estates in those counties.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, PARRIS N. GLENDENING, GOVERNOR OF MARYLAND, by virtue of the power and authority conferred upon me by the Constitution and Election Laws of Maryland, do, by this, my proclamation, ORDER that the ballot titles and amendment summaries of the proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be published in at least two newspapers in each county where so many may be published, and where not more than one may be published, then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in Baltimore City, once a week for two weeks immediately preceding the General Election to be held on November 3, 1998, at which election the proposed amendments shall be submitted, in the form prescribed by the General Assembly to the qualified voters of the State for adoption or rejection.

GIVEN Under my Hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, at the City of Annapolis, this 17th day of August in the Year of Our Lord, One Thousand, Nine Hundred and Ninety-Eight.

ASSIGNEES' SALE OF VALUABLE FEE-SIMPLE DWELLING

14 E. CENTER STREET
OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND 21550-1207

Pursuant to the power of sale contained in a Mortgage from Emma Catherine Glotfelty, dated May 6, 1997 and recorded in Liber 707 folio 409 among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, default having occurred thereunder, the undersigned duly appointed Assignees will offer for sale at public auction

AT THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR GARRETT COUNTY AT THE COURTHOUSE DOOR, OAKLAND, ON WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 18,1998
AT 1:03 O'CLOCK P.M.

ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Garrett County, Maryland and described as follows:

All that lot or parcel of land situate on the north side of Center Street, in the town of Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland, in Election District No. 14, which is known and designated as Lot No. 34 on the Plat of Wilson's Addition to said town.

The property is improved by a dwelling and is in fee-simple.

The property will be sold subject to conditions, restrictions and agreements of record affecting the same, if any.

Terms of Sale: A deposit of $3,500 will be required at the time of sale in the form of cash, certified check or other form as the Assignees determine acceptable. If the mortgage holder and/or servicer is the successful bidder, the deposit requirement is waived. The Assignees reserve the right to reject any and all bids. Balance of the purchase price to be paid in cash within ten (10) days of final ratification of sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County. Time is of the essence as to the purchaser. If the purchaser defaults, the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. Interest to be paid on the unpaid purchase price at the rate of the Mortgage from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Assignees. In the event settlement is delayed for any reason (and the property is purchased by someone other than the mortgage holder), there shall be no abatement of interest. Taxes, ground rent, water rent, condominium fees, public charges, assessments and/or homeowner association dues, if applicable, shall be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by the purchaser. Purchaser shall pay for all documentary stamps, transfer taxes and settlement expenses. Purchaser shall be solely responsible for obtaining physical possession of the property. Purchaser assumes the risk of loss or damage to the property from the date of sale forward. If the Assignees are unable to convey marketable title, purchaser's sole remedy shall be limited to a refund of the deposit, after which, the sale shall be deemed void and the purchaser shall have no further claims against the Assignees or the mortgage holder. The property will be sold in an "AS IS" condition without either express or implied warranty, including, but not limited to, the description, structural integrity, physical condition, habitability, zoning, subdivision, environmental condition, merchantability, compliance with building codes, ordinances, regulations, or other similar matters. The Assignees, their attorneys and/or the mortgage holder shall not be liable individually or otherwise for any matters relating to this sale and/or the property. (Matter #42002)(Case #11-C-98-5541)

JOB DESCRIPTION

JOB TITLE: Equipment Maintenance Foreman, Garrett County Government, Department of Solid Waste and Recycling

GENERAL DEFINITION OF WORK: As a working foreman, this is a first line supervisory position with the Solid Waste Department. Under the general supervision of the Manager of Landfill Operations, an employee in this class manages employees in the maintenance and repair of equipment used at the Garrett County Landfill and refuse collection sites.

ESSENTIAL TASKS: Supervise workers by scheduling their assignments, enforcing work and safety rules, and gives on-the-job instructions to subordinates to improve work methods. Implement plans for maintenance of landfill and refuse collection site equipment. Diagnose problems with equipment and perform necessary repairs whenever possible. Update equipment usage maintenance files on a daily basis. Determine when maintenance must be performed on each piece of equipment and assign tasks to appropriate personnel. Analyze the method and manner in which repair and maintenance work is performed and make corrections or changes in assignments as conditions warrant. Provide for stocking and inventory of necessary parts and tools. Operate all equipment as necessary to accomplish daily job tasks. Instruct co-workers in the proper maintenance of assigned equipment. Keep necessary repair and maintenance records as required. Perform other duties as assigned to provide for efficient operation.

KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS, AND ABILITIES: Ability to read and interpret repair and maintenance manuals. Ability to communicate instructions to complete assignment or task. Ability to supervise and train personnel in job-related functions, to communicate effectively both verbally and in writing, and to effectively motivate others. Ability to diagnose problems with equipment and provide for repairs in cost effective and timely manner. Ability to operate all heavy equipment as necessary to provide for efficient operations. Ability to keep complete and accurate records on repair and maintenance of equipment.

EDUCATION AND EXPERIENCE: Applicant must have satisfactorily completed high school education. Minimum five (5) years' experience in heavy equipment repair, including work on diesel and gasoline engines, transmissions, differentials, brakes, and hydraulic systems. Certification of application in any of these areas is highly desired. Minimum three (3) years' experience in the operation of heavy equipment such as dozers, loaders, graders, and compactors. Experience in light to heavy welding procedures.

SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS: Possession of a valid Maryland Class B (Commercial) driver's license.

SALARY: This is a non-exempt Classified Service employment with a competitive salary and traditional County benefit package.

APPLICATION PROCESS: A Garrett County Government application required. Qualified individuals may apply by forwarding application to R. Lamont Pagenhardt, County Administrator, Garrett County Government, 203 South 4th Street, Room 208, Courthouse, Oakland, MD 21550. Applications are available at this address or will be mailed by calling 301-334-8975. Deadline for applications is November 6, 1998.

Garrett County Government is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Qualified applicants are considered without regard to race, color, creed, religion, gender, national origin, age, marital status, or the presence of a non-job-related medical condition or handicap. 32-2t

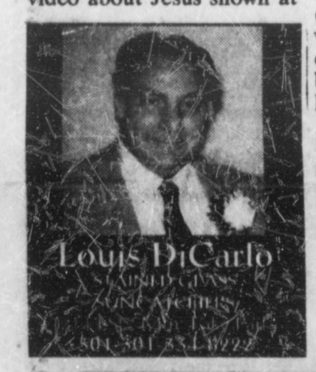
LEARNING ABOUT THE COUNTY - Third grade students from Grantsville Elementary School spent a day learning about Garrett County and having fun while they were doing it. Through a series of activities at the Spruce Forest Artisan Village, the children learned about the history and geography of the area. They decorated T-shirts with maps of the county and went on a scavenger hunt around the village to find special, historic items and landmarks. Favored with a warm colorful autumn day, the children pursued their studies with uncommon vigor, it was reported. In the photo above are students from Marlene Perkins' class and below are the members of Carol Warnick's class.



Gordon Bender was a speaker on Sunday morning at the Meadow Mountain Church, Swanton, for the Gideons. Mr. and Mrs. Bender attended the Gideon Pastor Banquet that was held at the Holiday Inn on Saturday night. This banquet was given by the local Gideon camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Schmidt traveled to Jacksonville, Fla., on Thursday and stayed in Florida until Monday. The Schmidts took this trip for Driver's Appreciation Days. While the Schmidts were in Jacksonville, they stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tweedale. They also spent time with Mrs. Nancy Schmidt's two sisters and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McFann, LeSage, W.Va., and Mrs. Joan Bryan, Huntington, W.Va., for the weekend. On the way to Florida, the Schmidts visited with relatives.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kreiger were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Freeland, Wiley Ford, W.Va.

Weekend visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Deniker were Glen and Michael Krause, Hagerstown. Sunday evening visitors of the Denikers were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Corbet, Westminster. A Sunday evening visitor was Roy Deniker.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Robinson and Kristin Hitchinns were Friday evening supper guests of Mrs. Alfreda Friend. Mrs. Friend was a Sunday evening supper guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Fint, Aurora, W.Va. Other Sunday supper guests of the Fints were Mr. and Mrs. Scott Bittinger and Stephanie, Horse Shoe Run, W. Va.

Marcia Simmers traveled to Baltimore last Thursday and stayed with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Starchak. Marcia was a Friday visitor of Joan Tyson and had lunch while in Baltimore. Marcia also visited with Ernie Simmers and his brother Earl before returning to her home.

Beth Long attended the Captive Free concert on Friday evening at St. John's Lutheran Church. Tuesday evening visitors of the Longs were Linda Thomas and son Keaton.

Mrs. Helen Harman had many friends and relatives visit her this week after she returned home after being a patient in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Daymond Schmuck traveled to Ohio on Thursday to pick up their daughter Hannah, who will be home for a week during the term break from Rosedale Bible Institute, Irwin, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bender were Sunday luncheon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Brenneman.

GRANTSVILLE

The Woodmen of the World Lodge 41, Grantsville, held its awards banquet on October 17 at the Bittinger fire hall. A turkey meal was served to 97 members.

Opening and welcome were given by Patsy Pope. The Fraternal Spirit Award was given to Jonas "Mike" Walker and the Honor Plaque to Rosie Cupler. The Fraternalists of the Year for the State of Maryland honor went to Lillian Guthrie. Lillian is also jurisdictional president of Maryland, Delaware, Washington, D.C., and New Jersey.

Several 10-, 25-, and 50-year pins were given. Sara Ruth Butler and William "Bill" Klotz are 50-year members.

Entertainment was provided by Judy Lightener and Diona Broadwater. Randy Conner, state manager of Woodmen of the World, gave out the awards.

The fruit basket was won by Lois Butler, and other door prizes were given out.

The regular meeting of the Woodmen of the World was held on October 26, at the hall on Miller Street.

Opening was by Patsy Pope. Pledge to the flag and opening ode followed.

Roll was called, and seven officers answered roll.

The business meeting was held, and correspondence was read.

Other business was taken care of, and the closing ode was sung.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be November 23 at 6:30 p.m. This will be the covered dish turkey dinner.

Oakland Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 151 Units

A total of 151 units of blood were collected at last Friday's visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile to Oakland, as 157 potential donors responded to St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall. Among those donors was Arleigh Hauser of Oakland, who completed his 26th gallon of blood by giving his 208th pint.

Local volunteers who assisted with the visit included: Junior Ferguson, Barb Sweitzer, Rosalie Baker, Mary Rodeheaver, Artie Dixon, Elizabeth Huxford, Twila Metz, Roger Uber, Anne Forrester, Jackie Johnson, Linda Wieland, Dave Beard, and Beverly Beard. Elizabeth Huxford serves as blood chair for the Oakland community visits.

Other donors, besides Hauser, reaching gallon levels at the visit were: Paul Kinsinger, Oakland, 10 gallons; Manning L. Smith, Mtn. Lake Park, Eugene J. Wilt, Swanton, and Dessie Bowman and Clayton Miller, both of Oakland, all reaching nine gallons; Paul Shogren, Oakland, eight gallons; Ron Gnegy, Mtn. Lake Park, five gallons; Wayne Scott, Oakland, and Susan Evans, Corinth, W.Va., four gallons; David Beltsch, Oakland, two gallons; and Marie Kinsinger, Naamon Miller, Ben Thorn, and Sylvia Slabaugh, all Oakland, Fred Gero, Swanton, and Mildred Harvey, Deer Park, all one gallon.

Canteen donations were provided by Junior Ferguson and Cumberland Coca Cola Company. A cash donation to defray additional canteen costs was made by the Junior Woman's Civic Club.

The next bloodmobile visit in Oakland is scheduled for Friday, Nov. 13, at the American Legion hall along Memorial Drive. Donors will be welcomed from noon to 6 p.m. Because donors must wait at least 56 days before giving again, those who donated on Oct. 23 will not be eligible to give on Nov. 13.

Frostburg State Will Host Poet

Frostburg State University will host Mark Doty, one of the major figures in contemporary poetry, for a reading on Sunday, Nov. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the FSU Lane Center Multi-Use Room. In addition, he will offer a workshop on Monday, Nov. 9, at 9 a.m. in the FSU Ort Library, Room 237.

Doty is the author of five books of poetry, including My Alexandria, which was chosen for the National Poetry Series, and was a finalist for the National Book Award. My Alexandria also won the National Book Critics Circle Award, Britain's T.S. Eliot Prize, and The Los Angeles Times Book Prize.

His memoir, Heaven's Coast, won the PEN Martha Albrand Award for Non-fiction and was named a Notable Book of the Year by The New York Times Book Review. According to the Times, "[Coast] is a terrifying and elegant document of the age of AIDS.

Doty's poems have appeared in numerous publications, including The New Yorker, The Atlantic Monthly, The Paris Review, and The Nation. His latest collection of poetry, Sweet Machine, was recently released.

He has taught at Brandeis, Columbia, and Sarah Lawrence universities and at the University of Iowa Writer's Workshop. Doty currently teaches in the graduate program at the University of Houston.

Both FSU events are free and open to the public. A book signing and reception will follow the Sunday evening reading.

These events are sponsored by the FSU Department of English and the Western Maryland Writer's Workshop. They are funded, in part, by the Allegany Arts Council.

Senior Center Sets November Activity Slate

The activities of the Mary Browning Senior Center for November will include tole painting classes every Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon, instructed by Louise Kitzmiller. Craft classes will be held every Wednesday and Friday from 9 to 11 a.m. Exercises will be held every Wednesday and Friday from 11 to 11:30 a.m.

Every Monday evening at the center there will be line dancing from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m. The instructor will be Anne Morris, and the cost is $2 per session. Water aerobics will be held each Monday and Wednesday evening from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the B&R Resort on Rock Lodge Road in McHenry. The instructor will be Deb Clatterbuck, and the cost is $4 per session.

Dr. J.V. Jones of Jones Oakland Vision Group will speak on diabetic diseases of the eye on Wednesday, Nov. 4, from 11 a.m. to noon. This will be an informative topic that will benefit diabetics and non-diabetics alike.

On Friday, Nov. 6, from 11:30 a.m. to noon, Joanne Harsh of Mt. Glade Adult Day Care Center will host a doll collection show. Seniors are encouraged to participate by bringing some of their own collections (any kind) to show.

Wednesday, Nov. 11, from 11:30 a.m. to noon, Martha Leighton, RN, will demonstrate the glucometer (blood sugar) machine and perform blood sugar testing.

There will be a card party on Thursday, Nov. 12, from 5:30 to 9 p.m. The $2.50 fee includes a light dinner.

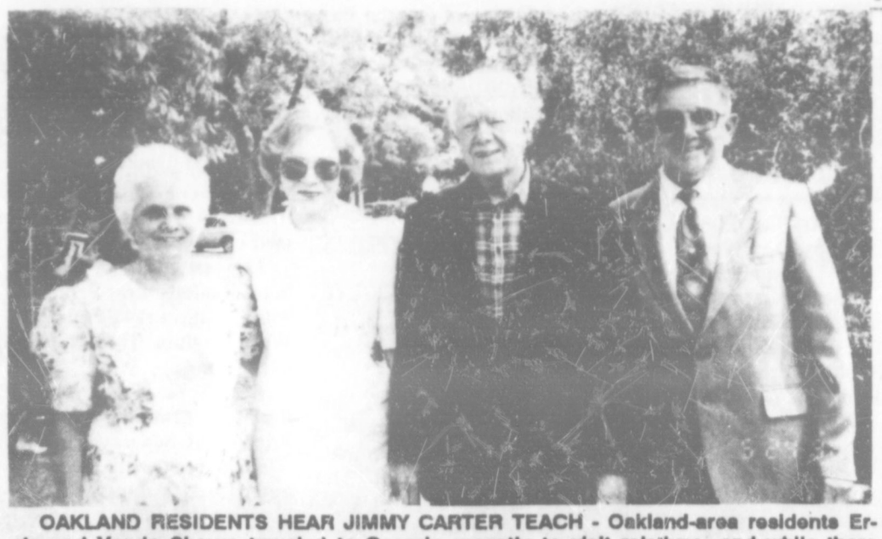
Friday, Nov. 13, Gail Dever of the Garrett County Health Department Outreach Services will speak on cardiovascular care. This event will begin at 11:15 a.m. and continue until noon.

For Wednesday, Nov. 18, from 11 a.m. to noon, there will be a special presentation on "How to Improve Your Memory." This is an opportunity to meet the center's new coordinator of the Older Americans Act, Veronica "Ronnie" Padmos. There will also be a pharmacist present to explain how different medications may cause short-term memory loss.

On Friday, Nov. 20, from 10:30 a.m. to noon, Gail Dever will conduct blood pressure screenings and give a talk on nutrition.

Wednesday, Nov. 25, from 11 a.m. to noon, will be the Thanksgiving program with special music by Joe DiSimone, Clifford DeWitt, David Martin, and Timothy Miller. At noon a traditional Thanksgiving dinner will be served. Participants are urged to bring a friend and enjoy the music, food, and camaraderie.

The Mary Browning Senior Center will be closed on Thursday, Nov. 26, and Friday, Nov. 27, for the holiday.



OAKLAND RESIDENTS HEAR JIMMY CARTER TEACH - Oakland-area residents Ervin and Vonda Shreve traveled to Georgia recently to visit relatives, and while there they partook in worship services at the Maranatha Baptist Church in Plains, Ga., home church of Jimmy and Rosalynn Carter. The Shreves also attended a Sunday school session taught by the former president, who teaches at the church an average of 48 weekends a year in addition to his world travels as an unofficial diplomat and a representative and carpenter with Habitat for Humanity. The Shreves are shown above flanking the former first couple.

Demo Committee Elects Officers

The Garrett County Democratic Central Committee recently elected officers to serve for the coming year. Thomas E. Bratten Jr. was elected chair; Rosalie Finch, vice chair; Doris J. Goldsborough, secretary; Mary Ann Fink, assistant secretary; Thomas J. Pratt, treasurer; and Bruce B. Opel, assistant treasurer.

The next meeting of the committee will be held next Wednesday, Nov. 4, in the Continuing Education Building at Garrett Community College, McHenry, following the regular meeting of the Garrett County Democratic Club. The club meeting will get under way at 7:30 p.m.

Let's Get Down To Business!

This is a feature of The Republican to better acquaint our readers with various area business establishments.

Unfinished Business

Owner Bryan Paugh has opened Unfinished Business, a retail outlet for quality unfinished wood furniture, at 114 South Second Street in Oakland. Paugh brings his previous business experience as the owner of Fox's Pizza in Kingwood, W.Va., to his new venture, and employs his parents, Robert and Carole Paugh, at the new Oakland retail outlet.

Unfinished Business is unique in that customers can purchase the furniture they have chosen unfinished or finished as they like. Conveniently located in downtown Oakland, Unfinished Business should continue to grow, and Paugh intends it to become an asset to the community, employing additional workers both short and long term.

Unfinished Business can be reached by calling 301-533-4495.

GCC Sets Free Workshop In Career Exploration

A free workshop titled "Keys to Start Your Career" will be presented on Thursday, Nov. 5, at 1 p.m. in Room 305 of the Continuing Education Building at Garrett Community College. The facilitator will be Stacie Haskiell, GCC's coordinator of career pPlacement.

Haskiell will explore the differences between a job, a profession, and a career, and the steps needed to develop each. She will acquaint participants with such techniques as the use of career folders and documentation, Internet employment information, and individualization of applications and résumés. There will be a discussion period following her presentation.

Haskiell, a recent graduate of Fairmont State College, brings her expertise developed during three years of work in Fairmont's Career Placement Center to her present position. In recent months she has presented a variety of workshops on identification of career potential and job market analysis.

The workshop is sponsored by the New Dimensions, the New Horizons, and the Caring Connection programs of GCC under the direction of Barbara Frey. For additional information or to register, interested persons may contact Frey at 301-387-3071 or Virginia Jeffrey, intake/counselor specialist for the New Dimensions and the Caring Connection programs, at 301-387-3103.

NORTH GLADE
by Lori Woods
reporter

The regular meeting was called to order by Allison. The club took a hike on Debbie Friend's ground. Members attending totaled 18, including our Clovers.

New business included the Fall Social, which will be held at the North Glade building. The members were asked to bring a decorated cake and a baked item. Members were to report at 5 p.m. to set up. Please try to attend and plan on having a good time.

Our next meeting is November 19. All new members are invited to attend.

TRAILBLAZERS
by Emily Cosner

The October meeting of the Trailblazers 4-H Club was held at the Garrett County Extension Office on Thursday, Oct. 15. The pledges were led by Jenna Rush. We discussed the beef raffle tickets, which were due October 23. The Grand Opening of the Terra Alta Bank was also discussed. We received a donation after serving food and drinks at its open house. The scholarship fund-raiser was discussed and our club was asked to bring drinks.

We discussed our next meeting, which will be held at the Extension office on November 19 at 7:30. We will also have a record book workshop after the meeting. Our December meeting will be held on December 4 and it will be a Christmas Party. We will have a covered dish dinner and gift exchange. Travis Sines discussed the Mt. Fresh Pumpkin Fair. He won the Biggest Pumpkin Contest and received $25.

After the meeting, we painted pumpkins for the Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home. Erin Rush and Susan Mayfield will help deliver them.

Maryland Arts Program Seeks Works For Exhibit

The "Celebration of the Arts in Maryland" arts initiative is currently seeking visual art entries for its 1999 Works by Contemporary Maryland Artists exhibition at Government House in Annapolis. The series of three juried exhibitions is designed to recognize and celebrate Maryland artists from across the state.

"In Maryland, we are fortunate to have a great many gifted and talented artists," said First Lady Frances Hughes Glendening. "By recognizing and supporting the work of these artists, we are ensuring the arts continue to play an essential role in the quality of life our state has to offer future generations."

Artists interested in submitting their work must be Maryland residents, 18 years old or older. Work submitted must be two-dimensional work in any media; however, the work must be no larger than 60" high by 40" wide. Artists will be required to submit slides of their work for review.

The jurors chosen to select the artworks for inclusion in the 1999 Maryland Artists exhibits are Doreen Bolger, director of the Baltimore Museum of Art; Dustin Davis, chair, Department of Visual Arts, Frostburg State University; Denise Kayser, executive director, Gaithersburg Council for the Arts; Martha Macks, executive director of Goya Girl Press; Valerie Wilson, exhibition specialist for the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission.; and Coleen West, executive director, Howard County Arts Council.

Artists interested in receiving an entry form for the exhibitions should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Maryland Artists, Office of Special Projects, 300 West Preston Street, Suite 400, Baltimore, MD 21201. The deadline for submissions is Friday, Dec. 4, 1998.

Board of Education Candidates Respond To League Questionnaire

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County, in cooperation with The Republican, published a Voters Guide just prior to the 1998 primary elections, held last month. Because candidates for Garrett County Board of Education seats were not on the primary ballots, their responses to a questionnaire prepared by the league were not published at that time. They appear in this, the final issue of The Republican prior to next Tuesday's general election.

DISTRICT I

RODNEY DURST
SWANTON

Bio - Lifelong resident of Garrett County. Eight years experience as a Board member. Elected to Maryland Association of Boards of Education Executive Committee and the only Board member in the entire state appointed to the K-12 Academic Intervention Task Force to the Maryland State Dept. of Education.

A - Throughout the past eight years, my fellow board members and I, along with our excellent teachers, staff, concerned parents, and community groups, have built one of the best school systems in the nation. However, there are those who want to control our school system from Annapolis and Washington. I've always been a strong voice for local control and will continue to fight to educate our children in the way that we see fit.

KEN PERRIN
SWANTON

Bio - Occupation: Postmaster, Oakland. Education: BS, Business from the University of Richmond. Experience: Negotiations Instructor, GCC: 20+ years in Management; Community Activities: vestry, St. Matthew's Church; Vice-President, Oakland Rotary; Chairman, GOBA Revitalization Committee; Member, GC Economic Development Corp. Family: Wife of 29 years, Nancy; 3 children.

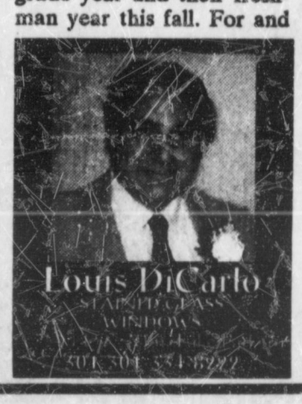
A - In my previous positions with the Postal Service in the real estate development & technology areas, I gained a tremendous amount of experience in developing & managing large budgets and conducting complex negotiations. With that background I can encourage the Board to "partner" with other county organizations to assure that we are indeed "Preparing our students for Garrett County's Future." I would also be valuable in working with the teacher associations in upcoming negotiations.

DISTRICT II

CAMILLA RAWE
GRANTSVILLE

Bio - I have a B.S. in Education from Auburn University. For 16 years my husband and I have operated a successful veterinary clinic in Grantsville. I have been involved with many of my children's school activities. I have served on the following committees, 1) fine arts 2) athletic review committee 3)

A - I would be the best candidate for the School Board position because of the following reasons: Maggie, Noah, Nathan, Zachary, Emily and Aaron. These are my six children. Four of them have already completed their education in Garrett County. The two youngest will begin their sixth grade year and their freshman year this fall. For and because of these children I know that I will be able to be a dedicated Board of Education member.



JOHN W. RICHARDS
GRANTSVILLE

Bio - I have a master's degree in education and have served over 20 years as a classroom teacher from elementary to college, at levels from substitute teacher to head teacher/administrator. My experience has also included writing, curriculum, selecting textbooks, evaluating personnel and drafting behavioral management plans, all relevant to board

A - Please consider my educational experience and my strong stand for family and moral values. I will continue the goals of our current board to adopt objective and measurable standards of learning, teach phonics as the basis of reading, set a clear mission. Supporting the superintendent's funding of alternative classrooms for disruptive students, promoting strong business and academic partnerships, and working for full parental involvement in all facets of school life will be priorities with me.

DISTRICT III

MADELEINE COLLINS
McHENRY

Bio - 24 year resident of McHenry, 3 children in or graduated from Garrett County School system, B.S. degree from College of William and Mary, co-owner of 3 small businesses, teaches Small Business Management at Garrett Community College, member or officer of: Library Board, Advisory Committee on Education, Athletic Boosters, School Improvement

A - Having been interested and active in our school system for the last fifteen years, I feel I have a good idea of its strengths and weaknesses. I have an open-mind and am willing to research and listen to all sides of an issue. My decisions would be based solely on what is best for the quality of education of our students.

Proposed State Constitutional Amendments Are Explained

Question Number One: "Civil Jury Amount — Provides that the right to a jury trial in civil proceedings preserved by Article 23 of the Declaration of Rights applies only when the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000."

Explanation: Article 23 currently guarantees a jury trial in a civil proceeding only where the amount in controversy (generally, the amount of monetary damages) exceeds $5,000. The proposed Amendment would increase that threshold to $10,000.

A Vote FOR means: Jury trials in civil cases may be requested where the amount in controversy exceeds $10,000, rather than the current threshold of $5,000.

A Vote AGAINST means: The threshold for requesting a jury trial in a civil case would remain at $5,000.

Question Number Two: "Montgomery and Harford counties - Retired Judges - Assignment to Orphans' Court — Authorizes retired judges of the Circuit Court of Harford County and the Circuit Court of Montgomery County to be assigned, subject to approval by the Court of Appeals, to do an act that a judge of the Orphans' Court of Harford or the Orphans' Court of Montgomery County may perform."

Explanation: Currently, Orphans' Court matters cannot be included in duties when a retired judge is temporarily assigned to sit in the Circuit Court for Harford or Montgomery counties. The inability to include Orphans' Court matters in the retired judge's assignment can cause delays in the settlement of estates.

A Vote FOR means: Retired judges may be assigned in Harford and Montgomery counties to perform the duties of an Orphans' Court.

A Vote AGAINST means: As now, only sitting Circuit Court judges in Harford and Montgomery counties may perform the duties of an Orphans' Court.

Infants Eligible For Prepaid College Trust

Governor Parris N. Glendening and the board of the Maryland Higher Education Investment Program recently announced a new year-round enrollment program for newborn babies. Parents of infants will now have the opportunity to apply throughout the year for a Maryland Prepaid College Trust contract, from the day the baby is born up to its first birthday.

Each year there are more than 70,000 babies born in Maryland. By offering parents of newborns the opportunity to apply year-round, the Maryland Prepaid College Trust is offering the parents the best opportunity to save for the infant's future college education under the program. For example, by prepaying tuition and mandatory fees for a child born today, a four-year university tuition plan would cost $15,712 paid in a lump sum, $313 per month for 60 months under the five-year payment option, or $131 a month for 216 months under the exploded monthly payment option.

"Now parents can get a head start in saving for their children's education," said Glendening. "Year-round enrollment for newborns is part or our continuing effort to make a college education more affordable and accessible to more families across the state."

"The Maryland Prepaid College Trust offers parents of newborns a tremendous savings opportunity," said Edwin S. Crawford, acting executive director. "Tuition and mandatory fees at the University of Maryland at College Park are $4,699. Even if tuition costs were frozen, College Park would cost more than $18,700 for the next four years. But tuition costs aren't frozen. We anticipate tuition costs going up each year an average of 5 percent and mandatory fees increasing about 10 percent each year.

"It is easy to see how this program could easily save the parents or grandparents of a newborn more than 50 percent of what college might cost 17 to 18 years from now." Crawford commented, adding that college tuition has doubled about every 10 years, and over the past decade, tuition increases at public colleges have ranged from as low as 4 percent to as high as 12 percent.

Parents interested in taking advantage of the newborn enrollment should call 1-888-4MD-GRAD (1-888-463-4723), select option 1, and tell the operator that they are interested in the Newborn Enrollment Plan. They will then receive, by mail, an application booklet and newborn application form.

To be eligible, the child has to have been born and have not yet celebrated its first birthday. The pricing of the contracts will be from the last offering by the program and subject to change on the first day of the next enrollment period. Once the child reaches the first birthday, the parents will have to wait until the next open enrollment period to apply (unless the birthday occurs during an enrollment period). The program's next open enrollment period is expected to begin in February 1999.

The Maryland Prepaid College Trust contracts cover tuition and mandatory fee costs; they do not cover the cost of room and board or other dormitory fees. Contracts also do not cover many other college-related expenses such as the cost of books, transportation, health insurance, or class specific fees (i.e., non mandatory fees) like lab fees, among others.

Music By Women Concert Set At Frostburg State

The Frostburg State University Department of Music will present "Nine Centuries of Music by Women," in a gala concert on Sunday, Nov. 8, at 3 p.m. in the Pealer Recital Hall of the FSU Performing Arts Center.

According to concert coordinator Dr. Ellen Grolman Schlegel, FSU associate professor of music, the concert will feature composers and performers from around the country and will offer a diverse selection of musical styles and instrumentation.

Nanette Kaplan Solomon, an internationally recognized pianist on the faculty at Slippery Rock University, will perform works by Vivian Adelberg Rudow and Stefania de Kenessy. Solomon has performed extensively, both in the United States and abroad, including performances at the Lincoln Center Library in New York, the Phillips Collection in Washington, D.C., the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria, and Wigmore Hall in London, England. She has participated in both the 1994 and 1997 French Piano Institutes in Paris, France, and as a result of her performance there, was awarded a recital at the French Embassy in Washington, D.C.

Joyce Catalfano, flute, will present a solo work for piccolo and will perform compositions for flute and piano, accompanied by Wendy Quarve. Catalfano is an associate professor of music at West Virginia University, where she teaches flute, coaches chamber music, and performs with her faculty colleagues in the Laureate Wind Quintet. She has performed as principal flutist of the Mobile Symphony Orchestra and the Cayuga Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Karel Husa and has been heard on National Public Radio's "Performance Today," featuring the music of women composers.

Elizabeth Hinkle-Turner, composer of electro-acoustic works, currently teaches multimedia technology at Richland College and serves as computer operations manager of the College of Music at the University of North Texas. She will present her composition "An Object Of...," which features electric violin, visuals, and computer-generated music.

Gloria Stearns, violin, recently moved to the local area after living for 13 years in Washington, D.C., where she played with the Kennedy Center Orchestra, Amadeus Chamber Orchestra, Annapolis, and other area symphonies and chamber groups. Stearns now plays with the Johnstown and Altoona symphonies and is director of Allegheny Artists, a music agency. She and Wendy Quarve will perform a work by Margarethe Danzi.

Faculty performers from the FSU Department of Music include Ellen Grolman-Schlegel, cello, and Karen Soderberg, mezzo-soprano, who will join pianist/harpsichordist Quarve to present a short cantata for voice, cello, and harpsichord by French Baroque composer Elizabeth Calude Jacquet de la Guerre.

The public is invited to attend this free concert. All performers and composers will be available to visit with the audience at a reception following the concert.

Persons with disabilities may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, 301-687-4102, TDD 301-687-7955.

BENEFIT DANCE SLATED - Back Up and Push will provide the music at the fund-raising dance planned for Saturday, Oct. 31, from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the Avilton Community Building (the old St. Ann's hall). The proceeds from the event will be contributed to the community building maintenance fund. Everyone is invited to attend and encouraged to wear costumes. Door prizes will be given and refreshments will be available. The cost of admission will be $3 per person or $5 per couple.

LITTLE PEOPLE VISIT LITTLE TREES - The two kindergarten classes of Yough Glades Elementary School recently visited the Mt. Top Tree Farm, located along Garrett Highway north of Oakland. There the students learned how Christmas trees are raised and harvested, and how to properly dispose of a Christmas tree after the holidays by recycling it as a small animal habitat. Teacher Mary Ann Friend's class is shown above: from the left in the front row are Samantha Johnson, Ryan Ratliff, Tyler Gregory, Holly Sanders, Katelyn Gnegy, Katilyn Flynn, Jack Paugh, Michelle Moats, Dale Marple, Nathan Tichnell, and Sarah Upold. In the second row are Jonathan Cumminga, Cody Upole, Amber Sheally, Alyssa Beckman, Cain Sturm, Tiffany Brenneman, Joshua Beckman, Cheyne Sharpless, and Sammy Thayer. In the third row are Friend, Kenneth Hardesty, Annie Graham, Rachael Beeman, Ashley Crosby, Woody Knotts, Kendra Hardesty, Jacob Stahl, Tyler Sweitzer, Matthew Warnick, Tara Marple, and teacher assistant Eleanor Moon. Shown below is teacher Anna Buckingham's class: in the front row are Destany Friend, Tiffany Beeman, Casey Weeks, Brooke Winning, Sara King, Alexis Arbogast, Kristie Wagner, Randy DeWitt, Kateleen Friend, Johnathan James, and Nathan Patton. In the second row are Nathan Cussins, Shaun Hartin, Megan Ashby, Anthony Clary, Brian Bucklew, Tyler Fink, Gary Pritts, James Rolf, Jared Arnold, and Danielle Patton. In the third row are Shane Knox, Alisha Piesslnger, Kassy Mongold, Ben Egan, Barry Uphole, Ryan Ford, Daniel Lewis, Cameron Crawford, Shelly Moreland, Blaine Stemple, Brittney Ashby, teacher assistant Amy Rolf, and Buckingham.

Governor Plans Department Of Veterans Affairs

In an effort to assist Marylanders who served the nation and the state, Governor Parris N. Glendening has announced plans to create a Maryland Department of Veterans Affairs. The governor also pledged to take action to ensure funds are available for any additions or corrections to the World War II Memorial in Annapolis.

"I will work with the legislature to create a new, cabinet-level Department of Veterans Affairs," said Glendening. "It is time for us to serve the state's 530,000 veterans who have served us so courageously. This department will give veterans better access to the services and benefits they have earned."

The Baltimore regional office of the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs has offered to provide office space for the new department, which will consolidate the agencies and services currently under the Maryland Veterans Commission, Maryland Veterans Home Commission, and Maryland Military Monuments Commission.

"There are large numbers of veterans in Maryland who, when asked by their country, gave everything they could," said Senator John Astle, retired colonel with the Marine Corps Reserve. "It is our turn now to repay them for their commitment and valor. I am pleased Governor Glendening recognizes the contribution of veterans and is willing to focus on their needs by creating a cabinet-level position."

If the General Assembly approves the governor's proposal to create the Department of Veterans Affairs, Maryland would become the 24th state to establish one.

The governor directed the secretary of the Department of General Services to work closely with the World War II Commission and the Maryland Veterans Commission to ensure that all Marylanders who made the "ultimate sacrifice" during World War II are recognized on the state's memorial. Some errors and omissions were discovered after the memorial was dedicated this summer.

"We will commit whatever funds are necessary to fix these problems," said Glendening. "Every correction and every addition will be made."

A hotline is available through the Maryland Veterans Commission to report any inaccurate information or names missing from the memorial. That number is 800-446-4926.

MAKING A DIFFERENCE - Students from Salisbury-Elk Lick Elementary School in neighboring Salisbury, Pa., joined hundreds of their peers to take part in the town's Make a Difference Day. Sixth grade students visited the Devine Personal Care Home. Homer Rembold, a 99-year-old resident, challenged all on-comers to match wits over the checkers board. Of the seven students to respond to the invitation, only one could stop the indomitable checkers master. In the photo above seated with Rembold is the worthy opponent, Charlie Yoder, to whom he admitted a one-time defeat. Standing behind are those unable to match Rembold's moves on the board. Left to right they are Jamie Doyle, Katie Johnson, Randy Overly, Mark Mast, Josh Pitts, and Eddie Meyers.

Recruitment For Head Start Is Now Under Way

Recruitment for the Evening Head Start program is under way. The program, which will serve 20 children ages 3-5 at the Center Street location in Oakland, is scheduled to begin December 1, 1998. Days and hours of operation will be Monday through Friday, 3 to 9 p.m.

In addition, Wrap-Around Child Care will be available for school-age siblings (up to age 13) and Head Start children. Child Care will operate Monday through Friday, 2:30 to 11:30 p.m.

For more information, persons may call Community Action/Head Start at 301-334-9431, ext. 123.

Boat Ramps At Randolph Lake To Be Closed

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources has announced the winter closing of the boat ramps at Jennings Randolph Lake. Both ramps will still be open for hand-carried launches during this coming weekend, Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, but will close to all traffic on Monday, Nov. 2.

Because of low water levels, the entire shoreline is now accessible to walking for those interested in moderate exercise and potentially excellent walleye fishing.

For further information concerning Jennings Randolph Lake, persons may call 304-355-2346 or 301-359-3861 Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. For information on the Maryland DNR boat launch, persons may call the Potomac-Garrett State Forest at 301-334-2038 Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Garrett Recycling At 41%; State Average Is 32%

The Maryland Department of the Environment recently approved a report from the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling that stated the county is recycling 41% of its garbage. This is an increase over the county's 1996 rate of 40%. Statewide, counties' average rate is 32%, according to Nikki Brown, local office spokesperson.

The recycling program at a rendering plant in Grantsville helps to boost the local percentage, having recycled 11,459 tons of waste last year. Brown said the plant sends animal waste to a facility elsewhere in the state, where it is processed into various products such as feed and fertilizer.

Even though the plant's recycling efforts make up the largest portion of Garrett's total percentage, Brown said the efforts of citizens and businesses are to be commended. Materials recycled last year included 1,240 tons of compostables, 1,017 tons of paper, 420 tons of metals, 102 tons of glass, and three tons of plastic.

"In a county where recycling is voluntary, this is really very good," Brown said. "Our office would like to thank all of the citizens

"DIG IT" is the name of a hands-on science program for students designed by Robert L. Pyle, Morgantown, W.Va., who is the former state archeologist for West Virginia. Pyle was a guest at Kitzmiller Elementary School on Monday, where he helped students dig for fossils in a special location in the arboretum area of the town park. Tibetan Kayak Expedition Ends In Tragedy

Friendsville resident Roger Zbel is expected to return home next week after a kayaking expedition ended in tragedy when one of his fellow paddlers drowned in Class 6 rapids on Tibet's Tsang Po River recently.

Doug Gordon of Utah, who had joined Zbel and brothers Tom McEwan of Washington, D.C., and Jamie McEwan of Connecticut for the National Geographic-funded expedition into the heart of an heretofore unexplored region of Tibet. Gordon was "swept out into the middle of the river and down a very difficult and huge rapid," Tom McEwan said in an interview aired Monday on National Public Radio's Morning Edition program.

"We had paddled down between two 25,000 foot peaks, which form the deepest river gorge in the world. After about eight days on the river, we came upon a succession of six enormous 'keeper' holes, which occur when there's a depression in a river that's lower than the surrounding area.

"An object or a person that gets caught in one of those holes actually gets recycled. They are very turbulent, and are sometimes called 'vertical eddies' because the water gets pushed down with a great deal of force and then explodes up very violently. "The magnitude of these holes is just so enormous that there's no resisting them if you get caught in the middle of the river," McEwan told NPR's Bob Edwards. "We had been working our way down the river's edges [for that reason]; very seldom did we get out into the middle of the river."

There will likely be another attempt to run the river in the future, McEwan speculated. He had men-

FREDERICK HOLLIDAY

Over half of Garrett County's registered voters came out to the polls Tuesday for the 1998 General Election, with the majority opting for three new men as Garrett County commissioners. The citizens also voted to retain an incumbent education board member, the sheriff, and the county's representative to the Maryland House of Delegates.

According to information from the Garrett County Supervisors of Elections Office, a total of 8,070 ballots were cast Tuesday. (There are 14,977 registered voters in the county.) All vote totals in the following story are unofficial, as the official count was not completed by press time today.

As of yesterday morning, the elections office had received approximately 420 absentee ballots, which are to be counted today. A spokesperson in the office noted that a change in the outcome as a result of the absentee ballots would be "highly unlikely."

Board of Commissioners

Ernest J. Gregg (R) will return to the office of county commissioner, having left that position eight years ago after serving three consecutive terms. Gregg, having ousted incumbent Wayne Wilt in the primary election, ran unopposed in Tuesday's contest in District I. He received an unofficial 6,303 votes. There were 104 write-in votes cast in this district.

In District II, incumbent commissioner Gary Fratz (D) was bested by Frederick A. Holliday (R), who earned 4,246 votes to Fratz's 3,380. Fratz was appointed to the commissioner seat upon the 1997 resignation of John Braskey (D). Holliday has been the mayor of Grantsville for several years and is a businessman in that community.

There were 81 write-in votes in District II, according to the elections office's a

Wendell R. Beitzel (R) will take the county commissioner post for District III, having beaten competitor George Falter Jr. (D) with 4,922 votes to 2,544. Beitzel, who narrowly edged out incumbent commissioner Wayne Johnson in the primary election, has served for nearly two decades as the county's administrator of the Sanitary District. He will move into the commis-

The Republican Officially Launches 1998 Warm The Children Project

In an effort to help local children in need this winter, the staff at The Republican newspaper has initiated the 1998 Warm the Children campaign. This is the second year for the project at the paper, where last year over $9,000 was donated by hundreds of individuals and businesses, and 124 local children were taken shopping for new winter clothing.

"Last year's effort worked out far better than we could have imagined," said Mary McEwen, a reporter for the paper and the coordinator of Warm the Children. "We were amazed at the level of giving and with the number of people who offered to go shopping with the kids."

The program is unique in that every dime raised is used to purchase new winter clothing for children (from infants to teenagers). The advertising staff at the newspaper designs and places the advertising for the campaign, and the newsroom staff writes the stories. Thus little overhead money is needed, and the newspaper covers any extra costs that arise. This insures that all donations are used solely to buy the winter items for the children.

Volunteers are recruited to go with families on shopping trips, where up to $80 can be spent on each child for the purchase of boots, coats, hats, sweaters, jeans, mittens, and any other warm item. Last year, the participating store in the campaign was Treasure Island, located between Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park along Rt. 135. The store manager, Kenny Schmidt, has again agreed to take part in the program and has offered a 15% discount on all Warm the Children purchases.

"We can't thank Treasure Island staff members enough for how they have responded to the effort," McEwen said. "They went out of their way last year to help, and are eager to do it all again."

While Treasure Island was the only participating store last year, inquiries by The Republican staff are being made to other local

Local, State Leaders Put Heads Together At Garrett Co. Summit

A diverse group of county and state leaders gathered together two weeks ago to formulate definite plans of action in the areas of the county's economic development and family and child wellness. The Garrett County Summit '98 was attended by about 110 individuals representing a wide range of local and state departments, agencies, and population groups who spent the day at the Wisp Resort Hotel discussing the status of Garrett County.

The purpose of Summit '98 was to bring together this diverse group of individuals to learn, to make well-reasoned decisions about the community's present and future, and to work together to carry out those decisions. This weaving together of the variety of resources and people was described as "building community capacity."

The summit was sponsored by several agencies: the Appalachian Regional Commission, Garrett County Community Action, G.C. Local Management Board, Governor's Office of Children, Youth, and Families (OCYF), G.C. Chamber of Commerce, Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, Maryland Office of Planning, and Partners in Valuable Ongoing Training (PIVOT). Representatives from each of these sponsors were present for the summit.

Other local entities represented included the health department, education board, OCYF, Community Action, Appalachian Crossroads, Garrett Community College, the department of economic development, several towns, Micro-Works, the Dove Center, various civic and service groups, and others.

"The real energy behind this summit is Bob Stephens [director of the Garrett County OCYF]," said Duane Yoder, executive director of the Community Action Committee Inc. "He's the one who wanted us all to put our heads together and to move in a positive direction."

Yoder was one of several key speakers at the event. Also giving remarks were Delegate George Edwards

104-Year-Old Laura Flanigan Votes At Polls

Many Americans may complain about the state of affairs in contemporary politics, but when given the chance to take action that could alter the situation, they opt to do nothing — they don't vote.

In stark contrast to voter apathy is the spirit of Deer Park resident Laura Mae Flanigan, who actively participates in the democratic process. At 104 years old, Mrs. Flanigan exercised her responsibility and freedom as a citizen of the United States and went to the polls on Tuesday to cast her vote.

It wasn't until Mrs. Flanigan was 26 years old that women won the right to vote. Her actions since that time underscore her appreciation of the privilege. "Since then she has voted all of her life," said her daughter, Betty Beckman.

On Tuesday morning Mrs. Beckman had gone to her mother's home to do some cleaning. "When I got there, Mom said 'Betty, I want to go vote,'" she said. So off they went to the polls.

Needing some assistance with helping her mother out of the car and into the voting booth, Mrs. Beckman said she was delighted to find Mason Madigan, local businessman and friend. "He helped Mom in and waited for her," she explained.

Mrs. Beckman described her mother as a very patriotic woman. "Mom gets really mad if the flag on her porch isn't flying," she noted.

Johnson Chosen As New GLAF Executive Dir.

A woman who has had extensive experience managing performing arts facilities has been selected by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) board of directors to be the organization's new executive director. Beth Johnson, who first joined the board in 1996, will fill the position recently left by long-time executive director Fred Stemple.

Upon notification of Stemple's pending exit, the GLAF board appointed a special committee to search for candidates for the position, and Johnson was chosen above several applicants.

For seven years before moving to Garrett County, Johnson was a recreation supervisor in Peters Township, Pa., and the manager of an outdoor amphitheatre in McMurray, Pa. In this capacity she planned and supervised concerts and chaired Community Day.

Johnson was a member of the board of directors of Lively Arts, Unlimited, from 1981 to 1985, serving in that time as president, vice president, and chairperson of the grants and program committees. Prior

Wisp Turns On Snow Guns For '98-99 Season

With temperatures dropping below 20 degrees last night, and a five-day forecast of continued cold conditions, the management of the Wisp Ski Area began making snow late last evening. The guns were still in operation at presstime, as the daytime temperature was hovering around the 32-degree mark.

Derek Versteegen, communications manager for the Wisp Four Seasons Resort, released the information this morning, and also noted a couple of changes on Marsh Mountain for the coming season.

The tree area between The Face and Devil's Drop has been thinned out and snowmaking capacity has been added to that area to provide some "tree skiing" this year. Other trails have been widened, and a new trail from the top of Chair 3 to Possum Trail has been added to make access to that trail easier for beginners.

Persons may get current conditions and more information about the 1998-99 season at the Wisp by visiting their website at http://www.gcnet.net/wisp, or by telephoning 301-387-4911.

Garrett Arts Council To Present Garrett Galaxy November 13, 14

The Garrett County Arts Council will showcase the outstanding talents of local performing artists on two consecutive nights, November 13 and 14, in the Fine Arts Auditorium at Garrett Community College. Both shows will begin at 7:30 p.m., and admission is $2 per person at the door.

Richard Hill, president of Our Town Theatre, will serve as master of ceremonies on Friday the 13th. Scheduled Friday evening performers include Oakland's Andrews Sisters, Elinor Benedict, the Jeff Gilbert Garage Band, Hammers & Strings, Pandora's Box Teen Theatre, the Petersheim Family Singers, magician Ben Sincell, poet Barbara Hurd, Jane Avery, and the Aerobic TryhardsJr. Jazz under the direction of Brenda Brosnihan.

On Saturday, Nov. 14, Howard Payne, winner of this year's Autumn Glory Tall Tale Festival, will host a second Galaxy program of performing arts. Scheduled performers for the Saturday presentation include Sue Peterson, Larry Smith, storyteller Doc Savage, the Keith Roberts Family Trio, Sang Run, Monty Pagenhardt, Josh Elmlinger, Richard Hill and Sue Harkins from Our Town Theatre, Hammers & Strings, the Jeff Gilbert Garage Band, and the Allegheny duet.

Free transportation to both programs is available by special arrangement with Community Action. Individuals in need of a ride are asked to call People Movers by November 11 to reserve a seat on the shuttle. Persons should phone 301-334-9431, ext. 109, and ask for Barbara Collins.

FIRST UNITED HELPS SAVE OAKLAND STATION — In conjunction with the recent Autumn Glory festivities, the First United Bank & Trust promoted a special certificate of deposit (CD) to benefit the Save Oakland Station campaign. The donation from the bank was based on the total dollar amount its customers invested into the CDs, and totaled to just over $3,000. The money will go toward the town's continuing effort to restore and preserve the landmark train station. Presenting the check to Ase McCain, mayor of Oakland, was Kathy Knotts, community office manager of the Oakland First United office. Shown to the left of McCain is Judi Pownall, customer service officer. At the right of Ms. Knotts are customer service officers Shannon Bittinger and William Bittinger. "We're overwhelmed by this," McCain said to the donors. "We truly appreciate it."

Man Dragged Into Roadway By Own Vehicle

A McHenry resident was injured Saturday when he was dragged by his own vehicle into Sang Run Road.

Maryland State Police at the McHenry barrack reported that, according to a witness, Chester Sisler, 95, was seen backing his car into the driveway of his Sang Run Road residence. Sisler apparently did not place the transmission of the car in "park" before trying to get out, police said. The vehicle, moving in reverse, dragged Sisler out and onto Sang Run Road. The car continued to roll backward and struck an embankment.

Northern Rescue Squad responded to the scene and transported Sisler to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where he was reportedly treated prior to being transferred to another medical facility.

Attempted Burglary

A state police officer responded to a report of a burglary in progress along National Pike, Frostburg, (G.C.). The homeowner, James Williams, told police he had caught Galen Garrison trying to force open the back door of Williams' residence.

The officer reported that a search of Garrison prior to his arrest revealed suspected drug paraphernalia.

DWI

Police reported the arrest for driving while intoxicated of Bruce D. Messenger, 41, Pittsburgh, Pa., on Oct. 26 and Oct. 28.

Day Care Center At Cherry Glade Church To Close

The day care center at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, near Accident, is closing its doors after almost 10 years of serving parents and children of Garrett County. The announcement made last month stated that the center would remain open until the end of December, or until all children have been placed with alternative caregivers. "We'll stay open through December even if there is only one child who needs our services," said Richard Bender, member of the center's board of directors.

During its near-decade of service, the center provided care for infants as well as other pre-schoolers. Open about 10 hours each day, the center also offered some after-school care. Bender said that the top enrollment at the center was about 75, but that even at its busiest the daily attendance was about 40-50 children.

The decision to end child care services at Cherry Glade was based on more than one issue, Bender explained. "We felt we had an excellent day care center, but when we needed to find a new director, we were unable to find one who matched the qualifications of the previous director," he said.

Bender stated that a number of good candidates for the position had applied. "There were some excellent young people interviewed. We could have continued and provided a quality center, but it would not have been at the level of staffing we were accustomed to," he said.

A second factor mentioned by Bender was the impact on Cherry Glade of the opening of Pre-K and Head Start centers. Though these programs accepted only the older children served by Cherry Glade, there was an economic impact that affected the center's ability to provide infant care. "With the opening of Pre-Ks, our staffing ratios became difficult to maintain. We lost 20 children as soon as the Pre-K opened," he said.

Because a very modest rate was charged for infant care at Cherry Glade, the older students' fees helped to equalize the budget. "The infant part of the program was never profitable. We started that as a mission because there was a need in the community for infant care," he said.

Bender noted regret on the part of the members of the board of directors at Cherry Glade for the decision to close, and realization that other alternatives were not tenable.

Parents in the county had relied on Cherry Glade Day Care to provide a caring environment for their young children, a former staff person stated.

Pastor Randy Nairn of Accident expressed his dismay at the news of the closing. "We're greatly saddened by this. It was the first daycare experience our son had, and he was doing very well," he stated.

Pastor Nairn said that others he had spoken with had reflected the same sentiments. "People are shocked. It had become an institution of sorts. Parents have been scrambling around to find other places for their children. Hopefully something else will open up in the area before too long," he said.

Ann Sherrard and her husband have entrusted the care of their four children to Cherry Glade's services. "We've had kids there since the time it opened. The staff there had that extra spark. It made your child want to be there," she said.

Sherrard noted that the facility was spacious and comfortable. "I felt good about the children being at Cherry Glade," she concluded.

"A REALLY SIGNIFICANT FIND" is how archeologist Robert Pyle described the rock in the above photo, found in the fossil bed in the Kitzmiller town park by students at Kitzmiller School. The fossil is of the tree lepidodendron, which lived in the area an estimated 300 million years ago. Another tree fossil which as been found in the same area is that of the calamites tree, which is from the same archaeologic era. Below, Pyle helps students identify various individual fossils from material that he gathered in the Chesapeake Bay area. Each student took a handful of the material, located the fossils, and then displayed them for identification. Pyle, who is the creator of a school archeology program called "Dig It," was a guest at the school Monday. Pyle also studies petroglyphs, which are stones with ancient markings and about which he produced the video, "Brendan the Navigator — Footsteps in America." (See front-page photo.)

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland Friday, Nov. 13

An American Red Cross bloodmobile visit has been scheduled at the Oakland American Legion hall, located along Memorial Drive, for Friday, Nov. 13, from noon to 6 p.m.

To donate blood, individuals must be at least 17 years of age, weigh a minimum of 105 pounds, and be in generally good health. Donors may donate blood as often as every 56 days. Individuals with questions about donor eligibility should call the Johnstown Regional Blood Services Center at 1-800-542-5663.

With the approaching Thanksgiving holiday, to ensure that area hospitals have adequate inventory levels of all blood types, all eligible donors are urged by the American Red Cross to support this bloodmobile. Individuals who donated blood at the October 23 bloodmobile at St. Peter's Catholic Church will not be eligible to donate on November 13 because of the 56-day deferral.

Registration For Classes Slated By Garrett CC

Registration for upcoming Intersession and Spring Semester classes at Garrett Community College will begin next week on Monday, Nov. 9. Persons may register at the GCC Student Assistance Center Mondays through Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Course schedules are available at the college.

The Intersession is scheduled to run from Jan. 4 to 15. The Spring Semester will begin Jan. 19 and end May 3.

Hours Expanded At Thrift Shop

Beginning today, November 5, Christian Crossing Thrift Shop in Loch Lynn will be open every Thursday evening from 5 to 7 p.m. in addition to its other hours, which are every Tuesday and Thursday morning from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and the first and third Saturdays of the month from 9 a.m. to noon.

Volunteers are needed for many tasks: sorting, shelving, pricing, arranging, selling, helping customers, picking up donated merchandise, etc. Those interested are asked to stop in at the thrift shop during open hours or call the store at 301-387-6339.

Donations of furniture, appliances, household items, toys, sporting equipment, clothing, and money are always welcome. Donations may be made at the store during open hours. To arrange for pickups of large items, persons may call the store during open hours at 301-334-3996 or call Robert Huebner at 301-387-5303 or Dr. David Bolinger at 301-334-1122.

Christian Crossing Thrift Shop is operated by the Garrett Cooperative Ministry Inc. as a 501 (c)(3) organization dedicated to making merchandise available at low prices for those who can afford to pay something and free of charge to qualified people in critical need.

Our Town Theatre Releases Revised November Line-Up

The Our Town Theatre (OTT) Board of Directors has announced the following revised schedule of activities for the month of November:

An Evening of Monologues

The theatre will sponsor an event titled "Monologues You've Always Wanted To Do" on Friday, Nov. 6. Participants should come prepared to read or recite a monologue, reading, or speech (of not more than five minutes in length). The program will begin at 8 p.m., and the cost will be a modest donation to the theatre, a spokesperson said. The public is invited to participate and/or listen.

Classes for Kids

Because of conflicts with other activities, Our Town Theatre discontinued theatre classes for children for a few months. This month, the theatre will try to hold classes for children on two Saturdays: Nov. 7 and Nov. 21, 1-2 p.m. for children ages 5-8, and 2-3 for children ages 9-12.

The parents of interested children must reserve a space for each child participating in the classes. At least six children must be registered for a class or it will be canceled. Parents may reserve spots for their children by calling 301-334-5640 and leaving a message no later than noon on the day of the class. The cost for participation is a modest donation to the theatre.

Teen Coffee Houses

Teen Coffee Houses are scheduled for Nov. 7 and Nov. 28 from 7-11 p.m. Live music, play readings, poetry discussions, improvisations, and theatre games are just some of the entertainment planned for these evenings, the spokesperson said. The cover charge will be $2 per person. Coffee and pretzels will be given away free, and other refreshments will be sold.

Improvs For Kids

Improvisation workshops for children will be offered on Nov. 14 and Nov. 28 from 1-2:30 p.m. Parents must register their children for these events. At least 10 participants must be registered by noon on the day of the workshop, or it will be canceled. The cost will be a modest donation to the theatre.

An Evening of Improvs (For Teens and Adults)

Theatre guests will be given the opportunity for some "off the cuff" acting on Nov. 14. From 8-11 p.m., audience members may participate in skits or sit back and listen. There will be a $2 cover charge, and refreshments will be sold.

Adult Play Reading

Andrew Bergman's comedy Social Security will be performed via a play reading at Our Town Theatre on Friday, Nov. 20, at 8 p.m. Guests will be asked for a modest donation to the theatre for entry, and refreshments will be served. Audience members may participate in the reading or sit in the variety of easy chairs at the theatre and listen to the play.

In the interest of serving the community, the OTT board is constantly looking for plays that will entertain as well as enlighten, said Jane Avery, artistic director.

Teen Play Reading

Phillip King's See How They Run is the choice for the school play at Southern High School, Avery said. Auditions will be in December and the show will be presented in March. The theatre will offer a preview of the script on Saturday, Nov. 21, at 8 p.m., with a reading of this "hysterical British farce," Avery said. Interested audience members as well as Southern students who are thinking of auditioning for the play are welcome. Refreshments will be sold.

Adult Coffee House

An Adult Coffee House is scheduled for Nov. 28, 7-11 p.m. Avery said live music, play readings, and numerous other entertainments are in the works. The cost will be $2 per person.

Southern Garrett Band Wins Again With Best Score Yet

The members of the Southern Garrett Marching Band of Southern High School recorded another big first-place finish and their highest score so far this season on Saturday when they competed in the Battle of the Bands at Walkersville.

The band, directed by Richard Clever, finished with a score of 89.55 with their music-from-Carmen show to top six other bands in Group II competition. Northern Patriot placed second with a score of 88.25, while Greencastle finished third with a mark of 87.50. Southern also won the Best Marching and Maneuvering, Best Music, Best Drum Line, and Best Front (colorguard) awards, and just missed capturing the fifth and final specialty award, Best Drum Major, by two tenths of a point.

There were 19 bands in the entire competition, and Allegany High School won first overall.

"This win makes this the first undefeated regular season of competition for us since 1983," Clever said. "This group continues to get better each week, which is hard to do."

Clever had to be hospitalized Friday night and missed going to the competition, but he has since been released and is reportedly "doing fine."

"The band really performed well and wanted to 'win it all' for Mr. Clever," said a spokesperson for the band, "and they almost did, with the drum major award being the only exception by .2 point."

Southern will compete again this Saturday, Nov. 7, in the Tournament of Bands Chapter 13 Championships, which will be hosted by Frankfort High School in Short Gap, W.Va. The competition will begin at 1:30 p.m. and Southern will perform at 2:50 p.m. Tickets and directions to Frankfort are available at Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland.

PLAYING AND MARCHING their way to another first-place finish on Saturday was the Southern Garrett Band as a participant in the Walkersville Battle of the Bands. The local band not only won the Group II division title, but recorded its best score of the season (89.55) and won four of five specialty awards. Pictured below are members of the pit, from left: Rachel Sincell, Molly McGowan, Amy Suess, Gina Powell, and Carrie Carpenter. GCC Schedules Fall Open House

Garrett Community College's annual Fall Open House is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 14, from 10 a.m. to noon in the Lakers' Cafe. All prospective students and their families are invited to attend.

Persons who attend the Open House will receive information about college programs, including the new one-year computer information technology program and new options in the agricultural management program, said Darlene Reed, administrative assistant for admissions. Information will be given about ways to pay for college, financial aid services, and college work programs available, and GCC's new career planning and job placement service will be explained. Tours of the campus and residence hall will also be available.

Further information on the Fall Open House is available at the GCC Admissions Office, which may be reached at 301-387-3010.

Dry Conditions Increase Forest Fire Danger

Dry conditions throughout most of Maryland have significantly increased the danger of forest fires. Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service remote weather stations show the drought index is averaging more than 600 out of a possible 800, indicating extremely dry conditions.

"As trees lose their leaves this fall, providing additional fuel for forest fires, the dangers will increase," said Alan Zentz, the DNR Forest Service fire supervisor. "Over the last week, while we have not had any major fires, we have seen an increase in the number of small fires in southern Maryland and on the lower Eastern Shore. Citizens in areas of the state which allow open air burning are encouraged to be extremely careful."

Weather predictions for the next few weeks show little hope of significant rain, which means the risk of forest fires will only increase.

Board of Ed. Notes Agenda For Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education has released the agenda for the regular meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 10, at the board of education meeting room.

At 3 p.m. a brief public session will open the meeting to be followed by executive session. The public portion of the meeting will resume at 5 p.m.

Among the instructional concerns slated are a vote to approve wire contracts for both high schools and Northern Middle School.

Administrative concerns will include information of procedures involving substitute teachers and an enrollment report.

Under the heading of board concerns are information on the Teacher of the Year program and a report from the Advisory Committee on Education.

Personnel matters will be presented for approval and NHS band will be recognized for winning the state championship.

A public comment session is scheduled at 7 p.m.

Jail Expansion To Be Finished By December 31

The Garrett County commissioners last week received word that the expansion project at the Garrett County jail is to be finished by Dec. 31. The final work schedule was given to the fiscal authority by Naylor's Contracting, which was hired to do the project.

The original finishing time of late April passed with the project not nearly complete, as a result of a variety of factors, including unavailable materials, change orders, some controversial plan alterations.

However, the obstacles have apparently been overcome, and the workers are currently working to finish hanging the gypsum walls and ceiling next week, install the shower coating, and continue installing the electric and air systems. The flooring is to be put in place in mid-December, and the plumbing and wiring will be finished near Christmas, according to the schedule.

KDKA-TV Turkey Fund Drive Assists Local Residents

Television station KDKA-TV of Pittsburgh, Pa., kicked off its annual KD Turkey Fund Drive on Monday. The Turkey Fund Drive assists the Greater Pittsburgh Community Food Bank, in connection with nonprofit agencies, in distributing turkey certificates to agency clients in 20 counties located in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, and Maryland. Since 1982 the drive has helped raise ahnost $7 million to provide Thanksgiving turkeys to needy families.

"Over the past four years, the Rotary Christmas Project has received approximately $16,000 worth of turkey certificates that were distributed to local needy families," Dr. David Bolinger, founder and chairman of the Rotary Christmas Project, stated.

"Every penny that is raised goes to help feed someone in our hometowns who is hungry, since all administrative costs are donated by Mellon Bank, Giant Eagle, Shop 'n Save, and Foodland," said Howard Affinito, a spokesperson for the TV station. "Once again, KDKA-TV will donate all the commercial airtime to promote this initiative."

For the eighth year, KDKA-TV's Wayne Van Dine will serve as spokesperson to lead the campaign, and as an added incentive he has issued a special challenge to schools interested in raising funds for this year's drive. The school that raises the most money will win the first annual "Turkey Cup" to display in their trophy case until next year. Any school planning to accept the Turkey Cup challenge should send a letter on school letterhead describing its event to Wayne Van Dine, KD Turkey Fund School Challenge, KDKA-TV, One Gateway Center, Pittsburgh PA 15222.

Individuals, businesses, and other organizations may contribute as well, and every $10 received will buy a Thanksgiving turkey for a needy family. Contributions may be mailed to the KD Turkey Fund, P.O. Box Thanks, Pittsburgh PA 15230. Donations can also be charged on VISA, Mastercard, or American Express by calling 412-672-4949, or through the Greater Pittsburgh Community Food Bank internet link at <www.kdka.com>.

The KD Turkey Fund began 17 years ago when an anonymous Washington County, Pa., viewer sent $20 to a KDKA-TV commentator and asked him to find a way to buy a Thanksgiving turkey for a needy or unemployed family. At the time many Pittsburgh-area steel mills were closing and downsizing, and many families found themselves newly in need and hungry. When the station subsequently aired public service announcements soliciting additional donations it received $90,000 in just a few days, enough to money to buy 9,000 turkeys.

The Greater Pittsburgh Community Food Bank is a nonprofit organization committed to eliminating hunger and developing collaborative strategies that encourage self-reliance in the areas they serve. The Food Bank distributes over one million pounds of food and grocery products each month.

A Shining Example...

In looking at the voter turnout at the local polls Tuesday, we note that over half of Garrett County's registered voters exercised this valuable right/responsibility (55%), which was an improvement over the primary election turnout of less than half. And if one compares Garrett County's figures to the national turnout, we can almost feel good about our 55%, as only 37% of all registered voters across the nation responded to the polls Tuesday. That's 37% of the registered voters; in other words, that does not include all of those citizens eligible to vote but who have not even bothered to register.

Garrett County has a shining example of how one should value this special right guaranteed by our constitution. Laura Mae Flanigan of Deer Park was among those who took the time and, in her case, made extra special effort to go cast her ballot this week. The characteristic of this fine lady that makes her action so distinctive is her age — 104.

Laura Mae has not always voted in her adult life, because when she turned 18 women did not even have the right to vote in this country. In fact, she was 26 years of age before our government finally realized that women deserved the same opportunity afforded men since the founding of our nation, and passed a constitutional amendment making such legal. She has not missed voting in an election since.

Laura Mae has done her part, faithfully and without a miss for the past 78 years. It's obvious from the above numbers that many people, of all ages, do not have this same level of commitment and sense of responsibility. Some elderly citizens, who voted consistently for many years, stop voting because they know that their lives are nearly over and it won't really matter to them who is elected. Laura Mae does not, however, consider her incredibly advanced age a factor in whether or not she should vote. After all, any one of us, regardless of our age, could die tomorrow, but each of us should always be concerned about the future for the sake of our children and grandchildren.

Thank you, Laura Mae, for setting such a wonderful example for the rest of us.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I would like to convey my sincerest appreciation to all of Garrett County's voters who took the time to participate in Tuesday's General Election. I am especially thankful grateful to those who supported me in my bid for District 3 commissioner.

This election year provided one of the largest numbers of candidates ever seeking the office of commissioner. Garrett County enjoys many of the benefits it does today because of people like these candidates who are continually striving for positive change in their communities and in their local government.

It is an honor and a privilege to be able to serve as commissioner, and I look forward to fulfilling this great responsibility during the next four years in the way that will best serve the interests of the people of Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Wendell R. Beitzel

To the Editor:

I would like to answer the lady's reply to the inmate. She is so wrong! That boy was not thinking of himself. He has a family that loves him and takes care of him, but some do not.

Ninety-nine percent of the the people of this county have done some of the things these people have done, but they haven't been caught or they have a lot of money.

If the inmates have to buy their things, then that part of our taxes should be cut. That inmate has a good way of thinking. He is a very bright, caring person and he thinks of others. While he has been in there, he has shared his clothes and other things. He has gotten some other inmates to take GED and Bible study classes. God has blessed him with a caring heart.

In Garrett County you are guilty until proven otherwise.

I am very proud of that inmate and I love him. He is my son! You never know when a loved one of yours or even you may end up in there. We don't know what tomorrow will bring.

Sincerely,
Jo-An Duckworth

To the Editor:

I respect your right to state your opinion on the subject of school vouchers. I also respect your right to voice your disagreement with the decisions made by certain school board members. However, I believe that in your recent editorial on this topic you went beyond criticizing and judging the decisions of these individuals. I read your words as a criticism and judgment on the integrity of their personal Christian character. As the pastor of one of the school board members to whom you refer, I can testify that this person is indeed a conscientious and dedicated Christian. Please keep public debates focused on issues, not individuals.

Thank you,
The Rev. Dr. Wilfred L. Karsten
Pastor, Zion Lutheran Church, Accident

To the Editor:

I try very hard to be a responsible citizen; however, no longer having children of school age, I confess that I have been somewhat apathetic concerning problems in our public school system. Your editorial of October 29, advocating that some members of the school board should step down because of their support of a proposed voucher system, has forced me to confront the issues at hand. The editorial raised questions to which I have been compelled to seek answers; for this I thank you.

The first unanswered question is that of the accountability of the Board of Education. Do elected members of this board owe allegiance to the system, or is their duty to the education of our children? You insist that members must abandon personal opinions and serve the system. If my memory serves me correctly, the members in question made no secret of their personal views before they were elected; in fact, some were elected because of those views. Should these views now be abandoned? I often do not agree with the agenda of our elected officials; I do respect, however, the officials who carry into office the agenda of the campaign.

The second question that pops into my head, unbidden, addresses redirecting tax dollars into a "private" system. Does not this system now become a public system, even though it is not the system we are familiar and comfortable with?

Also, in paragraph one you explain that a voucher system "would allocate tax dollars to parents to enable them to afford to send their children to private schools." In paragraph four you state that this would "increase the chasm between the haves and the have-nots." It seems to me that the "haves" already enjoy this option; would not the "have-nots" gain a measure of the same? Am I missing something?

You further raise the hypothetical situation in which "the Garrett County school should happen to fail for some reason." Are the possible reasons for failure within our control, or is failure determined by lottery, or perhaps some cosmic event? If the reasons are within our control, as I suspect, and if the existing system works, as you insist, why am I unable to find cause for alarm? In fact, I feel quite comforted knowing that our school system would have an added incentive to excel.

Finally, I notice that you demand that the members are "bound" to do all they can to protect and improve the public system. Whether for or against school vouchers, I am sure that every member of this board feels that they are doing exactly that. I commend them all.

Looking back over this letter, I find that I sound like a devout pro-voucher advocate. I honestly have never before seriously considered the issue, and will require further study before forming a concrete opinion; I have simply answered from my own logic the questions your editorial raised. If the purpose of your editorial was to raise public consciousness of this issue, you have, in my opinion, written a masterpiece. If it was intended to motivate me to fight against the proposed school voucher system, please try again.

Sincerely,
Roger Skipper

To the Editor:

Reading Melissa Davis-Clark's letter to the editor regarding the benefits given to Wal-Mart's associates and all they sponsor and grants given to schools, etc., certainly makes me wonder where the editor got all his negative facts.

Personally, I can't wait until Wal-Mart comes to Oakland and gives some of these business owners with their inflated prices some competition. I drive to Keyser, W.Va., and Cumberland and still save money. If I can even find what I need in Oakland, I can expect to pay a much larger price for it. If Wal-Mart comes to Oakland (I hope it does) I don't believe there is any need for it to become a ghost county, simply lower their prices. Wal-Mart doesn't need to worry about closing due to lack of business. Most people in Garrett County and W.Va. will gladly shop there. After all who doesn't try to save money?

Most people who want to work and can't find work in Garrett County will welcome the chance to get a job with the Wal-Mart in view of their excellent benefits. Where in Oakland can one find a job with even half of these benefits? Most of the Oakland jobs (if you are lucky enough to get one) are part-time with little or no benefits.

Dorothy Glotfelty

P.S. I don't only save money at Wal-Mart, but at Martin's grocery store as well. One particular item I buy, 2 cans for $1.09 at Foodland and Food Lion, at Martin's is 36¢ a can. You do the math!

Dear Ms. Glotfelty:

I got my "negative facts" from articles in Forbes Magazine, the Christian Science Monitor, and the Baltimore Sun; from various writers over the Internet; from a study conducted by the University of Pennsylvania titled "Measuring the Economic and Sociological Impact of the Mega-Retail Discount Chains on Small Enterprise in Urban, Suburban, and Rural Communities"; from a study of a similar nature conducted by the Department of Housing and Community Development, Division of Historical and Cultural Programs, Maryland Historical Trust; and still other sources.

It's easy for you to say to local, privately owned businesses, "Simply lower your prices." But it is impossible for small businesses to ever compete with the mega-stores when it comes to pricing. A mega-store, which is part of a chain that purchases 30 million Beanie Babies, for example, gets a huge price break, while a solitary, small store that can buy only 30 Beanie Babies must pay a considerably higher price. A portion of that huge price break can always be passed on to the customer.

Editor

To the Editor:

It seems that the residents of Garrett County have yet another debate on their hands: Wal-Mart Inc.; is it a positive move for the economy, or another thorn in the side of society?

A person had written a letter stating that it would hurt the local businesses in the greater Oakland area. While this person may have made some valid points in the relation to the local business trade, they really missed the point why you, the residents, need a company of this size in Oakland.

So many of us, the younger generation, have had to relocate away from our native county to find employment that is above the poverty wage. Why do you, the residents of Garrett County, want to see your children and/or grandchildren move out of state to provide for themselves and their families? Why do you want to continue the "Mayberry" way of life? Do you enjoy reading The Republican each week and see the amount of young people that are committing crimes in your county? Are you happy that drug and alcohol abuse are on the rise? You, as elders and respected citizens of Garrett County, should be happy that trade is wanting to come to Oakland, and something positive is happening that doesn't involve Deep Creek Lake for a change.

It saddens me deeply that you are more upset that Wal-Mart Inc. may be coming to the county than you were when Bausch and Lomb closed their doors and laid off more than 600 people.

It is time that you accept change in your community, so that your children and grandchildren have somewhere to live, and be gainfully employed, somewhere that they will be glad to call home!

Leslie Beckman
(forced to relocate)

Dear Ms. Beckman:

Since I am a resident of Garrett County, I thought I would take the liberty of responding to your questions.

1. I certainly don't want to see my children and/or grandchildren have to move away to provide for themselves and families, although many times this is not a "bad" thing, and many times it is necessary in order for them to pursue their own dreams. No area, including New York City, provides opportunity for every single career choice. But the opening of a Wal-Mart is certainly not going to change the situation, except for those few who aspire to be Wal-Mart employees.

2. Have you ever wondered why, out of all of the situation comedies in television history, the only one from the early 1960s that is still airing reruns seven days a week is The Andy Griffith Show? The only reason it is still airing is because a lot of people enjoy watching it. Why is that? Because the down-home, small-town, close-knit, simplistic way of life portrayed in the program is craved — craved — by the majority of our society. The "Mayberry" way of life is darned attractive, and it's being destroyed by what too many people believe is progress.

3. Garrett County continues to have one of the lowest crime rates in the state of Maryland and is therefore one of the absolute safest areas in which to live and work in the nation. The young people who decide to commit crimes aren't going to be the least bit dissuaded by the opening of a Wal-Mart.

4. No, we're not happy that the use of drugs and alcohol is on the rise (if it really is). But a Wal-Mart coming to town will not make a dent in that situation either.

Finally, a few thoughts on jobs/employment. First, there is little comparison between jobs at Bausch & Lomb and jobs at Wal-Mart in terms of salary level, benefits, retirement, etc. Secondly, Garrett County's unemployment rate today is four percentage points lower than it was when B&L closed. Thirdly, look at our classified pages and see how many businesses are desperate to hire people; and no, they are not all minimum wage jobs with no benefits. Fourthly, you fail to realize the number of jobs that will most likely be lost when Wal-Mart comes to town, as local, privately owned businesses, which cannot compete with the mega-store, will close their doors forever. Further, perhaps some of those who lose their jobs thanks to Wal-Mart will decide to take up crime and drug/alcohol abuse.

Editor

To the Editor:

The euphoric support for Wal-Mart in the last "letters" column seemed to border on hysteria. Perhaps the people who are experiencing such glee might wish to get an early start on their pleasure by preparing big bags of money and sending them to Arkansas, the corporate home of the mega-giant department store.

I am less happy with the prospect of the Wal-Mart moving into the community, not from an economic standpoint, but from an emotional one. I hate to see Garrett County become like every place else. I freely admit that I am not a native to Garrett County and have therefore no room to talk, but frankly, I moved here because it was so wonderful and different. National chains had not yet discovered the mountaintop and most businesses were family-owned and had been here for decades.

I grew up around Baltimore in the late '50s and early '60s, and my family didn't frequent many national chains. When we

APPLE SEASON

The little orchard beyond the lane has grown during the past year. A dozen apple trees stand there now, some for 13 years, others for one year, and not a Red or Yellow Delicious among them. Mind you, they are all delicious, though not Delicious. Shakespeare was born before the days of modern marketing. There are big sales in the right name.

Over half of all the apples eaten in the U.S.A. are some variety of Red or Golden Delicious. Add to that the substantial market share of apple varieties like Gala and Granny Smith, it does not leave much room for the couple hundred of other varieties, most of which are marketable only on the smallest scale.

There is Granny Smith — itself 130 years old and still a popular market apple — which is fine for eating as well as making excellent pie timber. Jonathan is the most prolific tree in my little orchard. It has produced seven to eight bushels of apples each of the past two years. That bounty came from a tree the top of which I can reach.

Jonathan is also my favorite as an all-round apple. In its earliest stage of ripeness it makes excellent pies. Cider from it is pretty good. For eating out of hand, it is crisp and rich in apple flavor. About this time of year the Jonathans begin to soften a bit, and then they make wonderful sauce, a creamy apple sauce.

Though October and November are prime apple season, I have had apples ripening since the end of July. In fact, by Labor Day the Calvin apples were finished. That is an old southern brandy apple, to which purpose I have not yet had occasion to put it. It has a bite to the finish which would make it good in a brandy.

The Jonathans were coming on strong by Labor Day, and we are still enjoying them. The Limbertwig apples have been harvestable for a couple of weeks, but there is no hurry to eat them. Last winter they kept in an old well-shaft until spring time. It is a hard, dry-fleshed apple which is good for everything but sauce.

Granny Smith everyone knows and Roxbury Russets nearly nobody knows. Until the beginning of this century Americans drank their apples in the shape of hard cider much more than they ate them. Roxbury Russet was a premier Massachusetts cider apple. It is the sweetest of apples with great flavor too. Its one fault is that it goes soft and mealy all too quickly, but for cider pressing that is not a fault at all. I enjoy the flavor, notwithstanding the texture.

For the first time this year the Lady apple has produced a small crop of fruit. I have not tasted it yet because this apple has many names, one of which is Christmas apple. It has been documented back to the orchards of Louis XIII of France in 1628, but is reputed to date from Roman times. Perhaps we shall enjoy this apple on Thanksgiving Day. My patience may not last until Christmas.

We have pressed cider once this fall, and we are looking for a good day to do it again. I just used up the last of my homemade vinegar, so it is time for more of that too. There are a few pints of apple jelly on the shelf made this fall, but there is space for more. Mom and Grandma and I are also thinking about a good day to make a big mess of apple sauce.

The economy of the apple tree is a lovely thing. By planting various varieties, a family can eat fresh apples from July to Christmas and stored apples well into spring. Apple products can be eaten (and drunk) all year 'round.

These are mundane musings, but musings about the world at its simple best. Apples are plump and solid, yet tender, too. They delight the eye and ask to be eaten. When that invitation is accepted, it is with comforting pleasure.

Unsecured Juveniles Injured In Md. Highway Accident

An Oakland woman faces three traffic charges after her vehicle was in was struck by another car on Maryland Highway Friday evening. Two juveniles riding the open hatchback of her car without wearing their safety belts were injured as a result of the 7:20 p.m. collision, according to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

Shelia Lynn Williams, 31, was attempting to cross Maryland Highway at its intersection with Youghiogeny Drive in Mtn. Lake Park when her Ford Festiva was struck in the rear by a Geo Tracker operated by Tammy Jo Helms, 29, Mtn. Lake Park, which was traveling westbound on Maryland Highway.

The Festiva, which contained Williams and three male juvenile passengers, came to rest on the side of Allegany Drive. Two of the juveniles were seated in the trunk portion of the vehicle with the hatchback raised, and both of the juveniles, who were not secured within the vehicle, were injured as they were both ejected from the car. Both juveniles were transported by Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital, where they were treated and released.

After completing their investigation, sheriff's deputies cited Williams for transporting juveniles without the use of safety belts, failure to stop and yield, and negligent driving.

In other sheriff's news, a Friendsville man faces charges of second-degree assault and child abuse after his arrest yesterday in Friendsville.

Michael Joseph Lundis, 21, is accused of kicking a juvenile out of anger during a wrestling match. The incident allegedly occurred over the past weekend. Lundis was released from jail after posting a $10,000 bond.

A Net brand computer modem was stolen from the Garrett County Community Action building recently. Tan in color and valued at $500, the computer modem was taken while it was being stored overnight in a hallway.

An attempted burglary of a mobile home trailer in the 3700 block of Gorman Road reportedly took place during the daylight hours of Thursday, Oct. 29. The glass was shattered in the trailer's back door, but entry was not gained.

Michael Wayne Rodeheaver, 28, Oakland, was arrested by sheriff's deputies recently and charged with driving while intoxicated.

FORMER WELSH EXCHANGE STUDENT VISITS HOSTS - Kathy and Gary DeBerry are currently having a reunion with a former exchange student, Rhian Williams, who stayed with the Oakland-area farm family two years ago as part of a Cooperative Extension Service Student Exchange program. Recently married, Williams hails from Bala, Wales, in County Gwnedd, where she and her husband Arfon raise sheep and beef, and she has maintained a relationship with the DeBerrys via letters and phone calls every couple of months since her initial stay. "She fit right in like one of our own daughters," Gary DeBerry commented. Williams is pictured at the left in the front row standing next to Kathy DeBerry, while in the back row are her husband Arfon Williams, Gary DeBerry, and Jamie and Danielle DeBerry, children of Kathy and Gary. The honeymooning Williams couple will visit two other Maryland families that hosted Rhian during the 1996 program, and then they will head south for a week's stay at Florida's Disney World.

Explosion, Structure Fire, Brush Fires Keep Local Volunteers Busy

Volunteer fire fighters from a number of Garrett County departments were kept busy with a variety of incidents this past week, including several brush and woods fires and another involving an explosion that injured a Deep Creek Lake area man.

Deep Creek, Oakland, and Accident fire fighters, along with the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, were called to 18546 Garrett Highway at Mayhew Inn Road at 2:29 a.m. Saturday for what was believed to be a structure fire. According to Mike Phillippi, chief of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, Dwayne Garlitz sustained minor burns when he mistakenly placed a jug of gasoline-oil mixture in a wood-burning furnace and it exploded.

Phillippi said that the fire was extinguished quickly and left only minor damage to a rug, curtain, and some clothing. Garlitz was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue, where he was treated for minor burns on his hands and face, and then released.

Fire units remained on the scene for about one hour ventilating smoke from the house.

Quick action by a Bittinger volunteer fire fighter, who arrived first on the scene of another structure fire Friday evening, resulted in the saving of a house located at 13511 Bittinger Road.

According to Bittinger VFD chief Pete Buckel, fire fighter Jim Brenneman responded to the 9:23 p.m. alarm and quickly removed a burning jacket from the single-story house that had ignited when a kerosene lantern overturned. Residents of the house were using the jacket to try to put out the fire.

Brenneman also removed the lantern from the house, which kept fire damage to a minimum. Volunteers from Bittinger, Grantsville, Accident, and Deep Creek spent about an hour ventilating smoke from the house. The Northern Rescue Squad also sent a unit to the scene. There were no injuries reported.

The other work by local fire fighters involved suppression of brush fires, one Friday afternoon in Savage River State Forest and another Sunday afternoon near Westernport Road.

The Friday blaze, which was off Lower New Germany Road, consumed about 10 acres, according to a Department of Natural Resources spokesperson, who said hunters were believed to be responsible for the cause of the fire. Grantsville, Eastern Garrett, and Bittinger VFDs assisted DNR personnel in extinguishing the fire, which was reported at 12:30 p.m.

The same three fire departments were called to help DNR units extinguish the Sunday fire in the Westernport Road area, which was reported at 2:04 p.m. DNR forester Ernie Metz said that 15 to 20 acres of property were involved.

Firewood Permits Available At DCL Rec. Area

Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area is issuing a limited number of firewood permits for persons wishing to cut firewood at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Permits are available at the park's headquarters for $8 a cord, with a limit of two cords of wood per permit.

Approximately 25 cords of firewood will available at the park this fall. Firewood cutting will be permitted from now through Friday, Nov. 27. Permit holders may cut firewood seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to one-half hour before sunset.

Certain restrictions will apply: Only downed or marked standing timber may be harvested. Standing timber is marked with orange paint at 4½ feet from ground level and at the tree's base.

For more information interested persons may contact the Deep Creek Lake Recreation Area at 301-387-4111, Monday through Friday during normal business hours.

Graduate Of Area Schools Exhibits Artworks At GCC

Works of local artist Greg Carrico will be on display through Tuesday, Nov. 24, in the B&L Art Gallery of Garrett Community College. Carrico is a graduate of Southern High School and GCC, as well as Green Opal Academy, Ohio.

The GCC exhibition includes Carrico's drawings, paintings, and photographs. His photo images, the primary feature of the show, record landscapes and nature scenes in what he regards as the true essence of Garrett County. Time exposures, still life, and action photos are but a few approaches he explores within his realm of subjects.

Pen and ink drawing is also one of Carrico's favorite mediums, and the exhibit includes a drawing titled "The Relatives," in which he examines the tale of three apes symbolizing his family tree. Another piece on display is an oil painting titled "The Teaching Pond," where the residents of the pond symbolize one of life's lessons.

"Without a doubt, my photos [are my favorite field of study]," Carrico said. "I see pictures in everything. I always carry a camera with me. When I take a picture I try to capture a moment in time. The moment will never happen again, so I try to make it one for a lifetime."

Born in 1961 in Morgantown, W.Va., Carrico moved to Garrett County 10 years later and eventually attended GCC, where he studied many art forms in several classes. "I used the art classes to both learn and to fine-tune my art skills. I found that the instruction was both knowledgeable and helpful without restricting my goals," he commented.

"I like to try many different things when it comes to life's lessons. I see people every day [who] say that they would like to try this or that—but if they never try, they will never know what they can do."

Carrico, who resides in McHenry with his wife Camille and their daughter, is currently employed by the Garrett County Board of Education as a VSST assistant and is a business associate of Dr. Willy's Seafood, located near Deep Creek Lake. He also has a newspaper publication titled "The Garrett County Farmer," and is a drummer with the GCC Pipes and Drums.

The public is invited to an artist's reception set for Friday, Nov. 13, from 8 to 10 p.m. in the GCC Art Gallery. The reception will be held the same night as the Garrett Galaxy program sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council, which will get underway at 7:30 p.m. in the GCC Theater.

The GCC Art Gallery is open Mondays through Fridays, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and on weekends during special events. For more information interested persons may call the GCC Art Department at 301-3873024. This exhibition is funded in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

Thank You

The family of

would like to extend our sincere appreciation to everyone for the food, flowers, cards and many prayers during her illness and death.

A special thank you to Dr. Miller, the many nurses at Garrett County Memorial Hospital who treated her with kindness during her final days, Garrett County Home Health, Hospice of Garrett County, Revs. Hixon, Preston & Matthews, the Pine Grove Ladies Aid for the delicious meal after the funeral, and Stewart Funeral Home.

Your many acts of kindness are deeply appreciated.

Town Hall

ACCIDENT

The town meeting was held Monday, Nov. 2.

•The council again discussed the problems posed by vehicles parking along Route 219 near Accident-Friendsville Road. They will ask county authorities for suggestions on resolving the issue.

•The council was advised that the Accident VFD had installed a dry hydrant at the town pond to be used as a back-up water source.

•Garrett Sanitary District will flush the hydrants in town some time in November. The date will be announced in the near future.

•The town is applying for a safety grant to purchase breathing apparatus for employees to use in the treatment plant while working with chlorine.

•Because there has been a steady increase in the cost of providing water and sewer service in the town, the billing rates for these services will increase by 10 percent effective January 1999.

The next n.eeting will be held Monday, Dec. 7.

FRIENDSVILLE

The town meeting was held Monday, Nov. 2.

•The Christmas decoration light-up celebration will be held on Friday, Dec. 4.

•Donations are still being accepted for the town decoration fund. Co-chairs for the fund are Shirley Metheney, 301-746-5207, and Frani King, 301-746-4441.

•Residents are asked to rake leaves into piles near the street to be vacuumed up by town employees. No garden or yard debris can be included because it clogs the vacuum. The leaf clean-up will continue through November as time and weather permit.

•Leaf burning is strictly prohibited within the town limits.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 17.

LOCH LYNN

The town meeting was not held on its regular date, the first Monday of the month. Town elections were held on Tuesday, Nov. 3. The results of the municipal elections were as follows:

•Charles Tressler was elected mayor.

•Arthur Beckman and Thomas Tressler were elected to the town council.

•Robin Tressler was elected treasurer.

New town officials will take office in January.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 7.

OAKLAND

The town meeting was held on Monday, Nov. 2.

•The public hearing scheduled to take place prior to the meeting will be rescheduled next month.

•Clarissa Rodeheaver of First United Bank met with the council to review the status of the cemetery trust fund.

•A report on the Main Street Project was given. An Oakland website will be created as a facet of the project.

•There was some discussion about the property formerly known as the Fireside Restaurant. The town may spruce up the property prior to the holidays and the Fresh Air Christmas event, which will take place at the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion.

The next town meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 7.

Sundae Eating Contest Winners Are Announced

The winners in the second annual No-Hands Sundae Eating Contest, held during the recent Autumn Glory Festival, were announced this week by event organizers. They included: Adam Roy, Josh Borowy, Katherine Schaus, Logan Craig, Emma Bass, Chris Lantz, Adam Flynn, David Peterson, Michael Paesani, and Dusty Huxford.

The corporate team trophy was awarded to Jerry Herpel of Deep Creek Pharmacy. Other sponsors of the event were: Cogley's Barber Shop, Glass Unlimited, NAPA Auto Parts, Southern Auto Supply, and McHenry Beverage Shoppe. Prizes were donated by Water Street Market, High Mountain Sports, and Deep Creek Outfitters.

Proceeds from the contest, which totaled $500, were donated to the Garrett County Branch of Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Alleghenies, a non-profit organization that provides services for children of single-parent homes.

Judges for the contest were Garrett County Circuit Court Judge Jim Sherbin, District Court Judge Ralph Burnett, retired District Court Judge Lewis Jones, and State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

Karen Johnson, executive director of the local branch of BBBS, said the organization is currently looking for women, men, and couples to volunteer to spend time with a child, as 23 boys and nine girls are waiting to have such a mentor(s). "As a mentor, you would spend 3-5 hours per week with a child," Johnson said. "We encourage each mentor to do things they already have planned, but to include one of these children. Raking leaves, washing the car, and going to church would be some examples.

"Helping the youth in the community is a good way for adults to give something back to the next generation," she said.

For information about BBBS, persons may telephone 301-334-3591.

Oak Park Church Of Brethren Sets Craft Sale Benefit

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren is sponsoring a SERRV sale of handmade crafts this Friday, Nov. 6, from 1 to 5:30 p.m., and Saturday, Nov. 6, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the fellowship hall located in the lower level of the church. The sale will continue the following weekend, Friday, Nov. 13, and Saturday, Nov. 14, at the same times.

The articles for sale will include handmade jewelry, brass items, toys, candles, baskets, and other gift items. When a handcraft is purchased from SERRV International, the buyer becomes part of a global relationship of justice and hope, said a spokesperson for SERRV. The purchase brings dignity and needed income to people in 40 developing regions of the world, including parts of the United States, in exchange for a handmade, high-quality product at an affordable price.

SERRV is a nonprofit program of the Church of the Brethren General Board. SERRV International is a nonprofit program promoting the social and economic progress of people in developing regions of the world by purchasing and marketing their crafts in a just and direct manner. SERRV has been creating a marketplace for low-income craftspeople for almost 50 years.

The Oak Park Church of the Brethren is located along Church Lane across from Southern High School. Free parking is available. For more information interested persons may call 301-334-9521 or 301-334-3613.

Forest Seminar Offers Array Of Timely Topics

From taxes to wild turkeys, the Mid-Atlantic Forest Stewardship Seminar will offer woodland owners valuable and practical information on a wide variety of timely topics. The seminar, which is sponsored by Maryland Cooperative Extension in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, will be held Saturday, Nov. 7, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Frederick Community College in Frederick.

Participants will choose to attend four of twelve concurrent workshop sessions on such subjects as Maryland's Stream Re-Leaf program, principles of wildlife management, alternative income opportunities, woodland weed control, and the impact of the 1997 Taxpayer Relief Act on woodland owners.

The $21 registration fee covers the cost of lunch, snacks, and educational materials. For more information or to register, those interested may call Terry Poole, Maryland Cooperative Extension, at 301-694-1594, X3576.

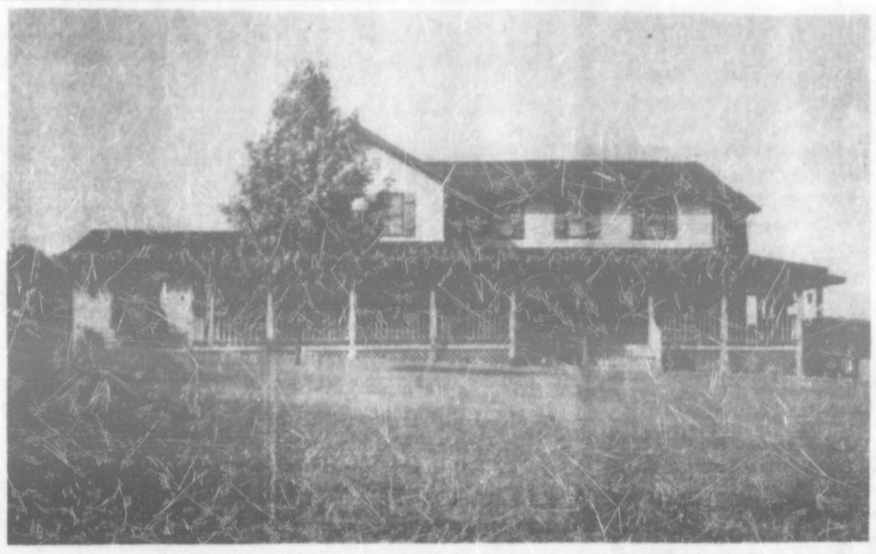
Ryan House To Be On ARC's Holiday Tour

The annual American Red Cross Home for the Holidays House Tours, slated for the first weekend in December, will feature the home of Jeff and Alma Ryan (and daughter Andrea), located at 24 Windy Lane, Oakland. The event will include three other local homes, as well as Our Town Theatre.

The Ryans moved to their two-story home in December 1991, having moved to the area after an employment transfer from Kentucky. Construction on this 3,500 square foot home was started in 1989, and the house was not finished when the Ryans purchased it. They have since built a 120-foot wrap-around porch, placed flower boxes along the driveway, and landscaped the property.

Inside the house, the Ryans built a red oak stairway, added red oak hardwood flooring in the foyer and dining room, and hung all of the interior doors. They have worked for six and a half years to finish these tasks.



ARC HOLIDAY HOME OF JEFF AND ALMA RYAN

The family is planning a traditional Christmas at the home and hope to have all three floors open for the guests.

"We feel honored to have our home on the tour and hope you will feel 'at home at our home,'" the Ryans said.

To get to the Ryan house, persons should turn onto Memorial Drive from Rt. 219, travel for one mile, and turn left onto Windy Lane. The house's driveway is the first on the right.

This Red Cross fundraiser is one of the local organization's best sources of income to help meet the immediate needs of the area's disaster victims, a spokesperson said. Tickets are $5 in advance or $7 at the door, and will be available at the following locations: Proudfoot's, Englanders, and Gregg's pharmacies in Oakland; Flowers by Webers on Weber Road; Deep Creek Pharmacy, McHenry; and Arrowhead Market, Deep Creek Lake.

A raffle will be held at each tour home with gifts donated from the following local businesses: Naylor's Hardware, Flowers by Webers, Cobblestone Alley, Betty's Doll House, Louis DiCarlo Stained Glass Gallery, and an anonymous donation of Ty Beanie Babies™.

The tour will be held on Friday, Dec. 4, 4-9 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 5, 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Voters Choose

sioner office in December, along with colleagues Gregg and Holliday.

Education Board

The closest local race of the day was that for board of education District II, with John Richards and Camilla Rawe "neck and neck" for at least the first half of the precinct returns Tuesday evening. Rawe came out the winner, with 3,389 votes to Richards's 2,983. Richards had campaigned as a staunch conservative, while Rawe's platform avowed a more moderate stance on the issues.

In a more lopsided education board race, incumbent board member Rodney Durst earned another four-year term, soundly defeating challenger Kenneth Perrin. Durst garnered just over 65% of the vote (4,640), while Perrin earned 34.2% (2,420), according to the unofficial tally. This will be Durst's third term as a board member.

Madeleine Collins ran unopposed in District III and earned 5,249 votes. The three new members will join Charlotte Sebold and James Raley, who are both finishing their second year of the four-year stint. Exiting from the board will be Patrick Riley and Dale Carpenter.

Sheriff

P. Richard (Dick) Sanders Jr. (R), the incumbent sheriff of Garrett County, will retain his position for another four years, as per the wishes of the voting majority. Sanders earned 5,071 votes to challenger David J. Martin's 2,664. Martin, a Democrat, was one of four challengers of Sanders, three of whom were defeated in the primary.

Sanders was appointed to the position of sheriff by Governor Parris Glendening in 1997, upon the resignation of former sheriff Randy Sines, who left after a scandal involving alleged credit card misuse, among other reported violations. Sanders, who had the endorsement of nearly all of the sheriff's staff, has focused his attention on such issues as domestic violence prevention, efficient office and jail operations, and budget management.

Delegate IA

George Edwards (R), the county's District 1-A delegate, was re-elected to that post with an overpowering 82% of the vote. The unofficial count for Edwards was 6,397, in comparison to his Democrat challenger Lawson L. Duckworth's 1,392.

With this re-election, Edwards will begin his fifth four-year term in office. He is known in Annapolis as the champion of the rural areas in Maryland, having created a rural caucus among his colleagues at the capital. He is also a long-time member of the House Appropriations Committee.

County Treasurer

Patty Lou Glover (R), the treasurer for Garrett County, was re-elected to that position with nearly 85% of the vote. Her challenger, William E. Walters (D), earned 1,152 nods, while she garnered 6,544.

Notable Unopposed

Several county individuals ran unopposed in the election Tuesday, including the circuit court judge, state's attorney, and the state senator. Those unopposed candidates and their unofficial votes totals are as follows:

John J. Hafer, state senator (re-election), 6,420 local votes; James Sherbin, circuit court judge, 6,412 votes; Lisa Thayer Welch, state's attorney (re-election), 6,254 votes; David K. Martin, clerk of circuit court (re-election), 6,754; Joseph F. DiSimone, register of wills (re-election), 6,873; and judges of the orphans' court Clifford C. DeWitt (re-election), 5,801; Joseph A. Peck (re-election) 4,771; and George Zimmerman, 4,680.

State's Results Do Not Reflect Locals' Wishes

The majority of Garrett County voters in Tuesday's General Election wished for different outcomes in several statewide political races, as is often the case on Election Day. The majority of the 8,070 local voters opted for a new governor and a new senator, and were not supportive of the public arena return of William Donald Schaefer. However, voters across the state took control of the decisions, with the majority opting for the incumbents and for the former governor.

Governor Parris Glendening (D) won his re-election bid to the state's highest post with 55% of the vote. Republican challenger Ellen Sauerbrey finished with 45%, losing by a larger margin than in the contest between the same two figures four years ago. In Garrett County, Glendening received just 36.22% of the vote, compared to Sauerbrey's 63.68%.

Garrett Countians gave attorney general candidate Larry M. Epstein (R) 60.5% of their vote, with Democrat William Donald Schaefer trailing at 39.22%. Statewide, however, Schaefer won easily with 62%. Epstein garnered only 38% of the vote total.

Paul Rappaport (R), candidate for attorney general, received the support of 4,559 votes in Garrett County, or 64.35% of the vote, while incumbent J. Joseph Curran trailed with 2,507 votes, or just 35.38%. Again the statewide choice was the opposite, however, with Curran tromping Rappaport with 63% to 37% of the vote.

In a slightly closer race, locals supported Ross Z. Pierpont in his Republican bid for United States senator, giving him about 54% of the local vote. Incumbent Democrat Barbara Mikulski received 46% of the Garrett County vote. Statewide, Mikulski earned a resounding 68% of the vote, while Pierpont came through with just 32%, according to early counts.

The only state race that reflected Garrett County's majority's choice was that of U.S. Congressman Roscoe Bartlett, who locally received 5,861 votes, as compared to his challenger Timothy D. McCown's 1,765 nods. Statewide, Bartlett won re-election to his post with 63% of the total vote. McCown collected just 37%.

stores that might be able to offer children's and teenagers' winter clothing and footwear. Stores interested in taking part in the effort are welcome to contact McEwen at the newspaper (301-334-3963).

Needy children are currently being identified by a process involving various individuals and groups in the county. The Department of Social Services for Garrett County is given the names, which they cross-reference with families receiving help from the Rotary Christmas Project. Applications are then sent out to eligible families and, as they are returned, are processed in a first come, first served fashion. (The social services staff is volunteering its help on the project, but Warm the Children is not a program of social services.)

"We couldn't do this project without the good folks at social services," McEwen said. "They assist us a great deal, all on a voluntary basis."

As for how persons can help with the effort, there are at least two ways.

"Donations are always welcome for the campaign, but we need volunteers, too," McEwen said. "It only takes an hour or two to go shop, and the rewards are great."

Persons interested in being volunteer shoppers are also encouraged to contact McEwen, or any staff member in the newsroom at the paper. Members of the Junior Woman's Civic Club have already offered their assistance again this year, having volunteered last year throughout the campaign. The Republican staff (many members of which will be volunteer shoppers) will be putting out a call for volunteers to several civic and church groups over the next few weeks, with shopping to begin within a month.

Persons who wish to donate to the fund may do so by sending their tax-deductible contributions (with checks made out to "Warm the Children Fund") to The Republican newspaper, P.O. Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550. A clip-out coupon can be found in a Warm the Children advertisement in today's issue to mail with the donation (it is not mandatory).

"Thanks to everyone who has helped so far, and thanks in advance to the folks who we're sure will be here for us again this year," McEwen said.

WATCH OUT FOR HIDDEN SUGARS TO PREVENT TOOTH DECAY.

A healthy, well balanced diet is essential for proper growth and development. This is also true for proper tooth development.

Most everyone knows that the simple sugars found in breakfast cereals, candy, soda, and gum can lead to tooth decay. But few realize the effects of complex sugars and starches.

Foods containing starches, such as breads and pasta, along with snack foods such as chips, pretzels, and crackers, may lead to tooth decay.

Proper prevention including frequent brushing, sugarless gum (especially around snack time) and regular dental visits will go a long way to protecting your smile.

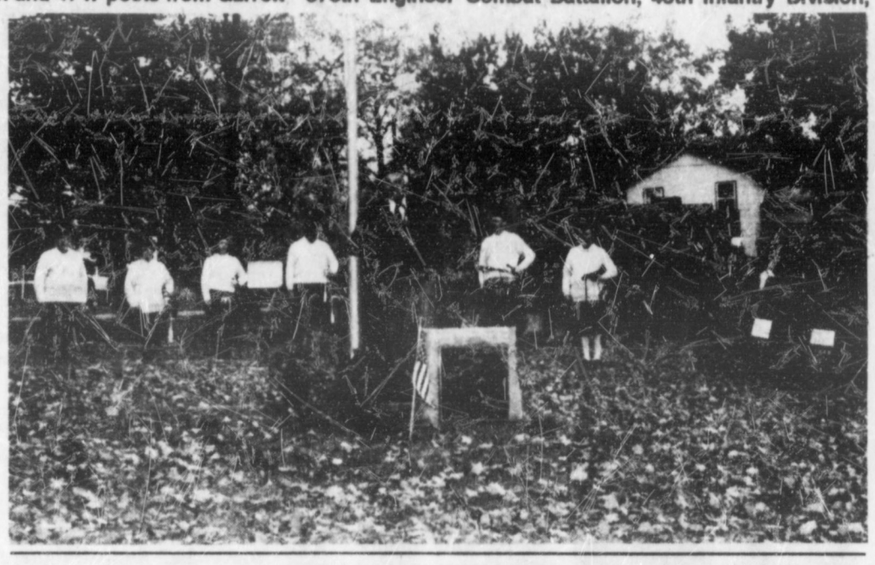
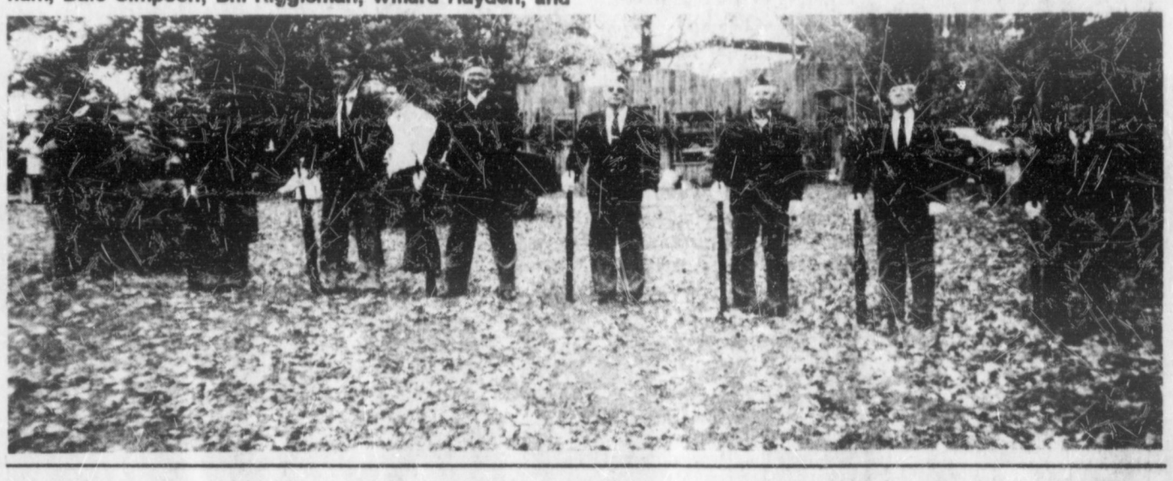
THE COLORS WERE PRESENTED with dignity at a recent Korean War Memorial program, held in Deer Park in conjunction with that town's annual Fall Festival. The line of veterans above, representing the Western Maryland Korean War Veterans Association, consisted of personnel from a number of American Legion and VFW posts from Garrett and Allegany counties. Garrett County vets in the alignment, from left, are: Kevin Mohn, Mahlon Yost, Ed Nazelrod, Ray Porter, Jack Ford, Pat White, and Ron Friend. Pictured below left is Carl Rebele, Korean War veteran and guest speaker for the program. He was a member of the 578th Engineer Combat Battalion, 40th Infantry Division, 8th Army. Behind him are the members of the Garrett Community College Pipes and Drums, who provided bagpipe music for the program. Below right are the members of the VFW Post 10077, Deer Park, Firing Squad. From left are: Clyde Beckman, Oliver Guthrie, Stan Tichnell, Paul Graham, Dale Simpson, Bill Riggleman, Willard Hayden, and Dave Sweitzer. Serving as master of ceremonies was program coordinator Jim Seeders, immediate past commander of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, Oakland, and current chairman of the Americanism Committee. The nation will observe Veterans Day next Monday, Nov. 9.





Holiday Luncheon Slated To Benefit Memorial Hospital

A holiday luncheon featuring holiday gift ideas will be held to benefit Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Friday, Nov. 13, at 12:30 p.m. at the Silver Tree Restaurant along Deep Creek Lake. The public is invited to attend.

The doors will open at 10:30 a.m. when a selection of Garrett County merchants will display a number of holiday gift suggestions for inspection before and after the luncheon. Door prizes will also be given away during the luncheon.

The cost to attend this benefit event is $20 per person, half of which is tax-deductible. Checks may be mailed to the GCMH Foundation, 251 North Fourth Street, Oakland, MD 21550. To make a reservation or for further details, interested persons may call 301-334-2155, ext. 464 or 377.

Garrett Summit

and Dr. Linda Thompson, special secretary of the governor's OCYF. Offering the keynote address over the lunch hour was Speaker of the House Casper R. Taylor. Several representatives of the state agencies noted were also in attendance.

"We'd like to show you folks from the state how well we can work together up here," Edwards said in his address. "Many of us are friends, and we're not afraid to 'pass the ball' when we need to." The delegate noted that the unemployment rate in the county is currently four points lower than it was one year ago, and attributed that achievement to the abilities of the county leaders.

Dr. Thompson said Garrett County is the leader in the state in working together.

"You are going to show the rest of Maryland how to bring communities together, and how to create strategies and put them in motion," Thompson said. "I thank you for having the courage to do this, and I want you to know we're all closely watching this process. You are the experiment."

To begin the day, the group was led in a "talk show format" discussion by William Potapchuk, executive director of the Program for Community Problem Solving, a division of the National Civic League. The discussion focused on the needs of the county, as well as recent achievements. The participants then were given a variety of workgroup topics from which to choose, and each joined his or her workgroup in the afternoon.

Seven workgroups, each to address a specific issue, were formed. These workgroups and the tasks given to their members were as follows: Measures of Success, to create a Garrett County "report card" to publicize and track measures of community success; Building a One-Stop Shop, to design a one-stop job training and employment shop that combines the various services available to persons seeking gainful employment; Building the High-Tech Economy, to focus on the elements necessary to build high-tech industries in Garrett County and to train and hire residents for those jobs; Building After-School Opportunities for Youth, to enhance after-school activities and events for teenagers.

Building the Tourism Industry and "Real" Jobs, to address the problem of seasonal employment often related to tourism jobs and make tourism employment more economically sound; Making Health Families the Cornerstone, to develop family-strengthening strategies based on the principle that children do well when their parent(s) do well; and Expanding Our Civic Capacity, to use the National Civic League's "Civic Index" to analyze Garrett County's civic health.

In the interest of making actual steps forward as a result of the summit, these workgroups are continuing to meet, Stephens said in an interview last week, and will gather together in a public meeting on Thursday, Dec. 3, at the Mary Browning Senior Center in Oakland from 6 until 9 p.m. The public is encouraged to attend the gathering.

Summit participants were asked to complete evaluations to gauge their perception of the event's success.

"The evaluations were very positive," Stephens said. "The main thing everyone wants is action. No one wants to just get together and talk about things and then never actually move in a positive direction."

Stephens said at the summit that the goal of the organizers is to be able to say in two years that at least 50% of the ideas planned at the event have been completed.

As the summit participants ate lunch, Speaker Taylor spoke to the group about his One Maryland Strategy, a proposal to address economic difficulties in the state's six poorest counties. He said he is committed to promoting the needs of these jurisdictions and working with individuals from them to create strategies and move on them.

"We need to erase the line between Allegany and Garrett counties so we can join forces and promote all that we have to offer," Taylor said.

A TRADITION OF QUALITY AND SERVICE

Veterans...

We salute you because you served in uniform at home and abroad. Many of you fought on foreign shores in Desert Storm, Panama, Grenada, Lebanon, Bosnia, Vietnam, Korea or in World Wars I and II.

We salute you because you unselfishly answered your country's call to make certain that world freedom and the American way of life would remain strong.

We salute you because even in peacetime you continue to serve your country - to fill a lifelong need to serve which you share with veterans everywhere. Many of you continue to serve through service to your community as members of The American Legion.

We must remember your sacrifices today and everyday.

Southern Girls Advance In Playoffs By Edging Huskies

In its first year of competition, the Southern High School girls' soccer team advanced in Maryland 1A West Region playoff action Tuesday evening by getting by county rival Northern, 1-0, in a quarterfinal match played at Beall High School in Frostburg. It was the third time this season that the Rams have faced the Huskies, with the first meeting ending in a 1-1 tie and the second in a 2-1 Southern win. The Rams, who are coached by Nan Gangler and assistant Ron Petrella, are now 10-2-1 overall and will play the winner of the Allegany-Smithsburg match either Friday or Saturday.

Meanwhile, the Northern Huskies, coached by Katie Kane and also in their first year of competition, wrapped up a winning season with a 7-6-1 record, which included a 2-0 playoff win over visiting Beall last Friday.

It was at the 18:11 mark of the first half in Tuesday's match with Northern that Gina Reeves scored an unassisted goal, a goal that would ultimately be the game winner for the Rams. Reeves' winning shot was a long, high blast that went just over the out-stretched hands of Northern keeper Ashley Warnick.

The Huskies led in shots on goal by a 16-12 margin, and each team had four corner kicks. Warnick was credited with eight saves, while Ram keeper Becky Martin turned away 13 shots by the Huskies.

Emily Rawe was the star of the day for the Huskies last Friday when they blanked Beall, 2-0, in their first-round playoff match. Rawe played in goal the first half and turned away two Mountaineer shots. Then in the second half she scored both of Northern's goals, both unassisted.

Rawe's first goal came off a steal at the 24:05 mark of the second half. She doubled the Huskies' total with another solo shot with 10:14 remaining in the match.

The Huskies finished with an 11-7 advantage in shots, and each team had three corner kicks. Warnick, who took over goal keeping duties in the second half, had four saves to go with Rawe's two in the first half. Ligaya Roque finished with seven saves for the Mountaineers, who concluded their season with an overall mark of 4-9.

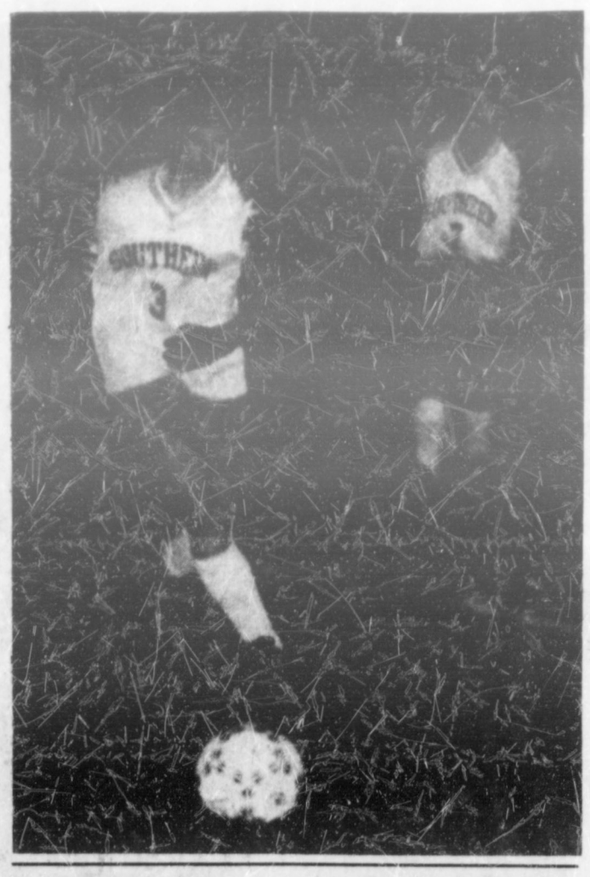
RAMS ADVANCE IN PLAYOFFS - The Southern High School girls' soccer team captured a spot in the Maryland 1A West Region semi-finals Tuesday night by edging cross-county rival Northern, 1-0, in a quarterfinal contest played at Beall. It was the third meeting of the season between the two teams, the first ending in a 1-1 tie and the second in a 2-1 Southern win. In the photo at left, Southern defender Miriam Sincell prepares to blast the ball out of Ram territory. The win upped Southern's overall record to 10-2-1, while the Huskies finished their first season with a 7-6-1 mark.



Southern Booters Eliminated From Playoffs By Mt. Savage

Through another "close encounter" with Mt. Savage Tuesday night, the 1998 soccer season came to an end for the Southern High School varsity boys. The Rams, who finished second only to Mt. Savage in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League standings, saw their playoff run end when they were nipped by the Indians, 2-1, in a Maryland Class 1A West Region quarterfinal match, played at Northern High School. Southern had lost to Mt. Savage just two weeks ago in the regular season, 1-0, in double overtime.

First Half

S - John Andrews penalty kick, 33:10.

MS - Adam Moulden unassisted, 33:16.

Second Half

MS - Adam Mouldin unassisted, 37:16.

A penalty shot by senior striker John Andrews with 6:40 remaining in the first half gave the Rams a 1-0 advantage, but they enjoyed that lead for a grand total of eight seconds, as Adam Moulden recorded the first of his two unassisted goals on the night at the 6:32 mark.

The deadlock remained at 1-1 until the final minutes of the match, and it began to appear that the two teams would once again require overtime to determine a winner. But Moulden broke loose and fired in the winning shot with just 2:44 left in regulation to give the Indians a spot in the regional semi-finals and their 13th win in 15 matches.

The Rams were edged in shots on goal by an 11-9 margin, and neither team had a corner kick. Jonathan Price was credited with seven stops in goal for Southern, while Adam Stafford had six saves for Mt. Savage.

Coach Tom Powers, assistants Mel Menker and Bill Lovett, and the Rams concluded their season with an 8-4-1 record, the best-ever mark since soccer returned to Garrett County high schools six seasons ago.

RAMS' SEASON SCALPED BY MT. SAVAGE - The 1998 season for the Southern High School varsity boys was the best ever in the six years since soccer returned to Garrett County high schools, but that season ended Tuesday night when the Rams were edged by the Mt. Savage Indians, 2-1, in a Maryland 1A West Region quarterfinal match played at Northern. The Indians came into the contest as the Western Maryland Interscholastic League champions, while the Rams were the WMIL runners-up. Taking on a Mt. Savage attacker in the photo above is Southern's Michael Schwalm. At right is Southern Ram Uwe Dietzel, a foreign exchange student from Germany. The Rams, who finished with an 8-4-1 record, had lost a 1-0 overtime heartbreaker to the Indians in the regular season.

Arsenal Club Expanding For '98-99 Season

Arsenal Football Associates of Oakland, a private soccer club, is expanding its year-round program to involve both boys and girls in three different age groups. There will be under-18, under-16, and under-12 divisions for boys and under-16, under-14, and under-12 divisions for girls. Indoor practices will begin for all divisions in early December, according to Mel Menker, director.

Try-outs for the 1998-99 season will be held Saturday, Nov. 21, at the Southern High School practice field on the following schedule: U-12 boys and girls, 9:30 to 11 a.m.; U-14 and U-16 girls, and U-16 boys, 11:30 to 1 p.m.; and U-18 boys, 1:30 to 3 p.m. Parents and players should arrive 15 minutes early in order to fill out necessary forms.

All youth reporting to the try-outs must bring a soccer ball and shin guards with socks, a parent, player's social security number, and player's birth certificate. A water bottle is recommended. In the event of inclement weather, the try-outs will be moved into the Dennett Road School gymnasium or another location to be announced. The try-outs will be extended to the following Saturday on the same schedule if necessary, depending upon the number of players.

Arsenal's season will involve one evening practice per week at a local school gym during the winter months and one or two practices per week outdoors when the weather breaks next spring. Competition will consist of at least one indoor tournament per month during the winter months and a match each Sunday afternoon outdoors in April, May, and June. The costs and fees will be explained in detail at the try-outs, or persons may telephone Coach Menker at 301-334-5906 for more information.

Menker is a certified United States Soccer Federation coach with a D rating, which enables him to coach at the collegiate level and below. He is also a licensed referee with F.I.F.A. and as a high school referee in the state of Maryland. He is the assistant coach of the Southern High School boys' varsity.

Other coaches involved with Arsenal are Ron Petrella and Cathy Menker, and others are currently being recruited for the coming season.

Arsenal Football is a sanctioned soccer club registered with the Maryland State Youth Soccer and the United States Youth Soccer associations.

In Loving Memory of Stanley "Buck" Tasker
March 15, 1924 - Nov. 7, 1994

Your gentle face and patient smile
With sadness we recall.
You had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
The voice is mute and stilled the heart
That loved us well and true.
Oh, bitter was the trial to part
From one so good as you.
You are not forgotten, Loved One,
Nor will you ever be.
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed and loved so much by
Wife Dessie, Children Bucky, Rog, Dan, Monie, Sherry, Steve,
Ronnie, and Dave

AGGIES OUST HUSKIES - The Northern High School boys' varsity was eliminated from the regional soccer playoffs Tuesday evening at home in losing to Flintstone, 5-2. Northern defenders pictured above, center, are Mike Fletcher and Andy Fike, who move in to halt a Flintstone attacker. The young Northern team failed to record a victory in the 1998 season, but were competitive in every outing and will return a number of players next year.

Huskies Conclude Season With 5-2 Loss To Aggies

A hat trick by Flintstone High School's Mike Groves represented the difference Tuesday night, as the Northern High School boys' varsity went down to a 5-2 defeat at home Tuesday night in a Maryland Class 1A West Region quarterfinal contest with the Aggies. The young Huskies were competitive in every match this season, but were unable to put one in the win column, as they finished with an 0-11-2 record.

Northern took a 1-0 lead when Josh Gilpin scored an unassisted goal with 26:43 remaining in the first half. However, the Aggies answered with not one, but two, goals within the next minute and a half. Greg Zirkle scored unassisted with 25:42 remaining and Mike Groves gave Flintstone the lead for good just 27 seconds later with an unassisted shot at the 25:15 mark.

Groves connected for his second unassisted goal with just 1:53 left in the first half to give Flintstone a 3-1 advantage.

The Huskies cut the lead to 3-2 at the 33:37 mark of the second half when Ronnie Lipscomb scored off a feed by Gilpin.

The Aggies put the match away with two more unassisted goals, one by Groves with 21:24 remaining in the match and the other by Zirkle with 4:48 left.

The Aggies dominated much of the game, as they finished with a commanding 35-10 in shots on goal and a 10-0 lead in corner kicks. Jimmy Kenner played well in goal for the Huskies, as he turned away 32 shots. Mike Lafferty had five saves for Flintstone, which improved its overall record to 6-9-1 with the win.

Rams Netters Record Sweep Over Preston

Jennifer Teagarden paced Southern High School's volleyball team to a 3-0 victory over Preston County this past Thursday with 14 service points and three assists. The Rams had their best outing of the season in the 15-4, 15-7, 15-9 sweep before an ecstatic home crowd in Oakland.

Teagarden's efforts were aided by Brittany Slider's 10 service points, while Jessica Saturday recorded four kills and Laura Johnson had three kills. Sarah Winters tallied three assists.

The Rams' junior varsity squad paved the way for their elders earlier in the evening with a 15-5, 15-8 sweep of Preston. Carrie Steyer and Misti Sereno each accounted for six points from the service line for the contest.

Southern took a first-round bye in the Class 1A West playoffs which begin this weekend. The Rams will host Flintstone in a quarterfinal match on Monday, Nov. 9, at 7 p.m.

Rams Fall In Overtime Heartbreaker To Alco

"One of the most disappointing losses in my 19 years of coaching" is how Southern High head coach Tom Woods described the outcome of Friday night's game between his team and visiting Allegany, as the Rams were edged 24-22 in overtime and saw their hopes for a state playoff spot, and perhaps a state championship, evaporate on the final play of the game.

The contest featured a number of highly controversial calls by the officials, including one surrounding the Campers' first touchdown, allegedly scored just seconds before halftime. A referee far away from the play ruled that Allegany fullback Dave Aydelotte crossed the plane of the goal line, while the Rams, their coaches, their fans, and even the other referees believed that he failed to do so. After a discussion among the officials, the touchdown was awarded, and the successful two-point conversion sent the Rams to the locker room at halftime with no lead instead of an 8-0 advantage.

Another call contested by the home team was the spotting of the ball on a fourth down play on which it appeared the Rams had easily made the necessary yardage for a first down, but ended up a change in possession for the Campers.

The Rams had control of the contest early, as they halted the Allegany offense in its tracks and forced a punt. Jason Weaver returned that punt 25 yards to the Alco 37-yard line to initiate what would be a scoring drive for Southern. The drive was capped on a fourth-and-goal play from the nine-yard line when quarterback Keith Parks hit Jason Rohrbaugh with a pass in the end zone. Weaver's run for the conversion put the Rams on top, 8-0, midway through the first quarter.

Allegany	0	8	0	8	- 24
Southern	8	0	0	8	- 22

First Quarter

S - Jason Rohrbaugh 9 pass from Keith Parks (Jason Weaver run).

Second Quarter

A - Dave Aydelotte 1 run (Adam Schmitt run).

Fourth Quarter

S - Josh Bosley 2 run (Jason Weaver run).

A - Dave Aydelotte 1 run (Adam Schmitt pass from Jeremy Strother).

Overtime

A - Dave Aydelotte 1 run (Jeremy Strother run).

S - Josh Bosley 10 run (run failed).

The Ram defense was on the field much of the rest of the first half, but managed to keep the Campers out of the end zone until there were just six seconds left on the clock. That's when Aydelotte, on a fourth down play from inside the Rams' one, carried the ball and was awarded the touchdown. Adam Schmitt's conversion run knotted the score at 8-8.

The Rams took a 16-8 lead early in the fourth quarter with another drive that featured a key fourth-down pass from Parks to Rohrbaugh. With the ball on the Allegany 28, Parks connected with Rohrbaugh on a 13-yard aerial to the 15 to keep the drive alive. Josh Bosley then carried the ball 13 yards to the Alco two and crashed through on the next play to regain the lead for Southern. Weaver's second successful run for two points put the Rams on top, 16-8, with 11:25 remaining in the game. The scoring drive covered 74 yards in nine plays.

The Campers started their ensuing drive on their own 26 and, after a sack by Southern's Ryan Channel and Billy Stoner, Aydelotte got the call again and raced 17 yards for a first down. A few plays later, Schmitt broke loose and raced 45 yards before being caught and tackled by Parks on the Ram four. Two plays later, Aydelotte scored on a one-yard carry and Jeremy Strother passed to Schmitt for the conversion, which tied the score at 16-16 with 5:53 to play.

It was on Southern's next drive that possession was awarded to the Campers after it was determined that the Rams were just short of first-down yardage on a fourth-down play.

The Rams won the toss for the Kansas overtime period and elected to go on defense first. It took the Campers all four downs to score, but they did so on a fourth-and-inches by handing the ball to the 6-2, 220-pound Aydelotte. But it was Strother's successful run for the conversion that ultimately made the difference in the final score.

Trailing 24-16, it was the Rams' turn to try to score from the Camper 10, and it took only one play to do so, as Bosley shot through the Alco defense to the end zone. After a time-out to discuss the call for the conversion, Weaver carried a third time to convert, but was nailed well short of the goal and the Rams' season was over.

Bosley and Aydelotte were the game's leading rushers, as each recorded 118 yards, Bosley on 19 carries and Aydelotte on 28. Schmitt finished with 70 yards on 14 carries for the Campers.

"What made the loss so disappointing was that the execution and effort by our team and our staff was near perfect," Coach Woods said. "We prepared well and we feel like we did everything right. It was just one of those games between two very good football teams, and somebody had to lose.

"We are so proud of our kids, and proud of the whole community that was so supportive," he said. "Our cheerleaders generated a fantastic week of school spirit and there was so much emotion coming into the game. It really meant a lot to us."

Woods said he wouldn't be surprised if Allegany goes on to win the state 2A title. "In looking at their probable opponents, we really don't see anyone who is any better than they are," he said.

While the loss ended the Rams' chances for a playoff spot, it did not end their regular season, as they must re-group and come back this Friday to play against the Northern Huskies in the Garrett County championship game.

"Every year we tell the kids that the single most important game on our schedule is the Northern game," Woods said, "and I'm sure Coach Phil Carr and the Huskies feel the same way, regardless of our records at the time."

The Huskies will come to Oakland with a 4-4 record and with hopes of halting a three-game losing skid. "They started like a ball of fire (winning three of their first four), but then they got hit with some injuries," Woods said. "However, they possess the ability to beat anyone on their schedule on a given night, including us.'

The Huskies veer offense, with some wishbone thrown in, is led by sophomore running back Rob Dozier (6-5, 195), sophomore fullback Mark Wolf (5-9, 160), junior halfback Ryan Brenneman (5-11, 180), senior tackle John Carey (6-0, 225), and junior guard Ryan Savage (6-1, 225).

"Northern likes to run quick-hitting plays and tries to find a seam rather than run a lot of straight-ahead power plays," Woods said, "and they run the option well with Adam Brenneman (quarterback). Dozier, Wolf, and Brenneman (Ryan) are all quick, hard runners.

"One of the things Coach Carr does that is similar to what we do is that he stays with the same plays until he

Huskies' Shot At Winning Season Comes Down To The Wire Vs. Rams

After a two-week layoff, head coach Phil Carr and his Northern High School varsity football squad will take on the 5-4 Southern Rams in Oakland tomorrow night, and the 4-4 Huskies' hopes for a winning season hinges on the result. "We've been preaching to the kids that this is our playoff game," Carr said. "Our goal at the start of the year was a 5-4 mark, and this is our chance to achieve it.

"We know we're playing the underdog role against the Rams, but we've been in that position throughout the year and have been relishing it. Southern's a bigger school and not many people believe we can play with them, but our kids think they can and that's what's important. We've gone down to Oakland and won three out of our last four meetings there, and we think we can continue that trend.

"Our team has been practicing hard for the past two weeks, and the extra time has given some of our banged-up players time to heal. The only question mark for tomorrow night is lineman Nathan Resh; he's still feeling the affects of a sprained ankle so we're listing him as probable.

"Southern's been playing real well, especially their offense. We know we won't completely stop them but we hope to slow them down. We're concerned with the size they put on both lines, offense as well as defense.

"The Rams' offensive line, anchored by 6-1 218-pound senior guard Billy Stoner and 5-11 260-pound tackle Robert Unger, is great at springing their backfield tandem of junior fullback Josh Bosely and senior tailback Jason Weaver, who make up what we consider to be the best backfield in the area. Settling in at quarterback is junior Keith Parks, who gives them another dimension on offense. He's a real weapon, his speed makes him a real outside running threat. Slot wing Nick Dolan runs a lot of scissors and counter plays, we'll be watching him closely too.

"Their defense is very aggressive and real quick, Stoner and Unger are a great linebacking duo, and Diehl is a great lineman. We hope we can counter their size and quickness by doing some things that we hope will capitalize on our own quickness.

"We have everything to gain and nothing to lose," Carr said as he prepared to lead his team into another afternoon of practice for the final game of the 1998 season. "I've told the kids it's not all about size, but what they have inside their chest."

Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m. in Oakland.

Rams Jayvees Thump Huskies By 26-0 Margin

The Rams followed running back Brian Yommer to a 26-0 victory Monday night as the younger squads of Southern and Northern High schools' football programs squared off against each other in Oakland. Propelled by a pair of long touchdown runs in the first half, the wingback amassed 163 yards on just six carries for the night, an incredible average of 27 yards per carry.

Yommer scored on a 67-yard TD run in the first quarter, followed by a failed two-point conversion attempt, to make the score 6-0. He repeated the feat in the second quarter when he scampered 47 yards for another touchdown in the second quarter, followed by another failed two-point conversion attempt, to put the Rams up 12-0.

The two teams remained scoreless until the final quarter, then Southern's Ryan Upole made the score 18-0 when he scored on a 15-yard run, followed by a failed two-point conversion attempt. Steven Skipper scored for the Rams a short time later on a 10-yard run, and a successful two-point conversion on a Jeremy Lear run concluded the scoring for the night.

Toby Tasker, Billy Hebb, and Brad Palmer led the Rams' defense.

Southern's season record for 1998 goes into the record books at 2-5, while Northern went 1-5-1.

Earlier in the week Southern's J.V. had blanked Preston, 16-0, at Kingwood, W.Va., behind two touchdown runs by Ryan Upole.

The running back peeled off a 30-yard run for his initial score in the first quarter of the Thursday night contest, and a Skipper run for the conversion points made the score 8-0. In the second quarter Ryan carried the ball in from five yards out, and the successful conversion pass from Tobi Stoner to Skipper ended the night's scoring.

Further details were not available.

League To Host Robert Alexander Of WVU, NFL

The Oakland Youth Football League Family Night will be held next Thursday, Nov. 12, in the Southern High School cafetorium. Activities will begin at 6 p.m. when former West Virginia University star and Los Angeles Ram player Robert Alexander will address all league participants and their families.

Alexander, who was referred to as "Alexander the Great," was one of the most highly touted high school football players to ever come out of the state of West Virginia. He was named first team All-State his sophomore ('74), junior ('75), and senior ('76) seasons at South Charleston High School. He received the Kennedy Award and the Morgantown Touchdown Club Award both his junior and senior year. In his senior year at South Charleston he was named West Virginia Mr. Football, Parade Magazine All-American, and Best High School Player in the U.S.A. by Joe Namath Magazine. He still holds the West Virginia high school career scoring record (570 pts.) and the career rushing record (5,872 yards).

Following his stellar high school career, Alexander played at West Virginia University in the first years of the Don Nehlen era ('77-'80). While there he amassed enough yards to end his career as the second leading rusher in West Virginia University history. He was drafted by the Los Angeles Rams in 1980 and played four seasons in LA before being traded to San Diego. After one year with the Chargers, Alexander finished his career with the L.A. Express in the fledgling upstart league called the United States Football League. Robert played there in the same backfield with future '49er star Steve Young. Also in the league at that time were Hershel Walker, Doug Flutie, and Jim Kelley.

All members of the NCAA division (flag football league for 4th-6th graders), as well as the NFL division (tackle football for 6th-8th graders) are urged by league officials to attend. Coaches, sponsors, and their families are also invited, along with the families of players.

The evening will include recognition of the team champions from both divisions as well as words of advice and inspiration from Southern High School football coach Tom Woods. After Robert Alexander's address, pizza will be served. Alexander will stay and answer questions, and sign autographs. Any high school parents or students attending parent conference night at the high school are welcome to come hear Alexander's address.

All-Conference Team Includes Rachel Leverenz

Among the collegiate cross country runners named to the Centennial Conference All-Conference team was Garrett County student and Northern High School graduate Rachel Leverenz, who is currently a member of the Dickinson College women's team. Leverenz was awarded the All-Conference honors by placing third in the conference championship meet, held Saturday at Western Maryland College in Westminster.

Leverenz, daughter of Neil and Jann Leverenz, Accident, led Dickinson to its second straight Centennial Conference title with her third place finish among 109 runners. Her time for the 5-kilometer (3.1-mile) course was 19 minutes, 15.38 seconds.

The top seven finishers received All-Conference honors, while the next seven finishers (8-14) were named to the second-team All-Conference squad. Five teammates of Leverenz were among the second-team All-CC honorees.

Don Nichter is the head coach of the Red Devils. Dickinson, an independent liberal arts college located in Carlisle, Pa., competes as an NCAA Division III institution.

finds a way to make them work," Woods said. "He also uses an unbalanced line, as we do. I think we are a little more power-oriented."

The Huskies' 5-3 defensive unit is anchored by junior defensive end Josh Resh (6-1, 185), senior linebacker Troy Sisler (6-0, 170), senior safety Jed Wilhelm (5-9, 155), and big sophomore nose guard Tony Gilpin (6-3, 280).

"One constant for Northern this year has been their defense, which has given up the third fewest points in the area," Wood said. "They gang tackle and run to the ball very well. Coach Ewing (Frank) is an excellent defensive coach. He has a wealth of experience and he always does a great job at changing his defense to meet the opponent's offense."

Woods said that his team will attempt to control the line and, on offense, create the running lanes for Weaver and Bosley, which the Ram linemen have done well in their last five games.

"Our biggest unknown is the emotional level of our kids after our close loss last week," Woods said. "But we've had a couple of very good days of practice, Friday will be Senior Parent Night, and I know our kids are going to want to end the season on a positive note."

Friday's kickoff at the Southern athletic field is set for 7:30 p.m.

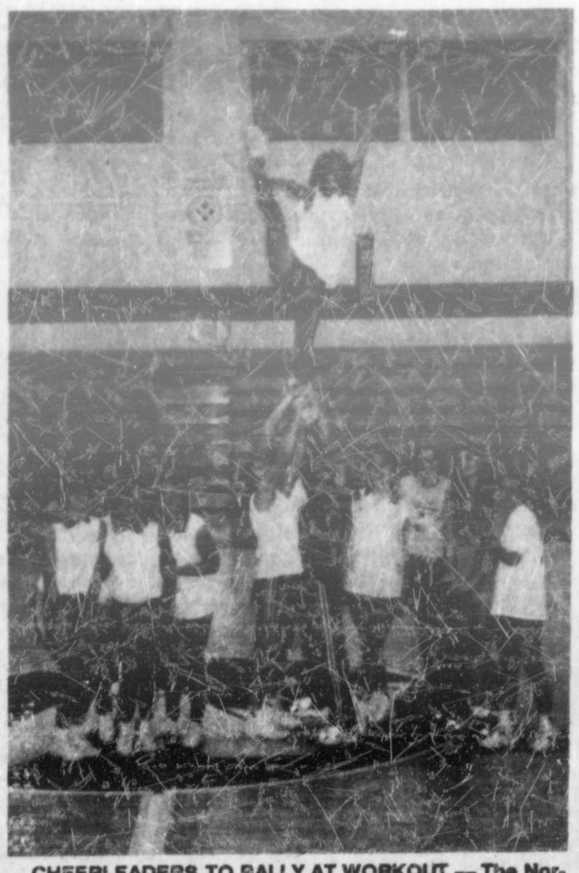
LOCAL MOUNTAIN BIKER RACES THROUGH YEAR - 15-year-old Holly Kuhn, pictured above both at rest and in action, daughter of Diane and Dennis Kuhn of Gorman, recently completed a very impressive year on the National Off Road Bicycle Series as she won a number of races across the nation. Two-time World Cup downhill qualifier in the junior women expert category, Kuhn was deemed ineligible for this year's World Cup because of an age technicality. Her potential competitors in that race probably breathed a sigh of relief, for Kuhn had taken the title for Expert Women Open Class in dual slalom for amateur racers of all ages by finishing first in 15 races, second place five times, and placed third once as she took the dual slalom championship for the states of West Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Ohio. She also took the Maryland state championship for the downhill competition, and her year's win total in downhill races was 15 first-place finishes, four second-place finishes, and one third-place finish. She also competed on the top-rated technical downhill course in the world at Mount Snow, Vermont, a tricky and challenging descent over rocks and through mud. Her performance caught the eye of the cycling world, and she received a special invitation from the USA Cycling National Mountain Bike team's coach, Stephan Girard, to participate in a Colorado mountain bike clinic. Kuhn is sponsored by a number of top mountain biking-related outfits, including area businesses Tips-Up Ski and Sport Shop, McHenry, and Blackwater Bikes, Davis, W.Va.



CHEERLEADERS TO RALLY AT WORKOUT — The Northern and Southern High School cheerleaders will offer their support to the participants of the Workout for Hope, a fund-raiser slated for Sunday, Nov. 15. Also scheduled to give cheering support will be members of youth league squads. The workout, a benefit event for the local House of Hope, is being coordinated by Brenda's Body Shop and Premier Physical Therapy, and will take place at Southern High from 2 until 5 p.m. It is to be a family event and is open to the community. Spectators may give a donation at the door or may bring non-perishable food items for the House of Hope food pantry. Middle and high school students who take part in the event can earn up to three service learning hours, a spokesperson said. For more information, persons may call 301-334-1275 or 301-533-3200. The Northern cheerleaders are pictured at left, with Moriah Geis being held aloft. The other girls are Kanya Knox, Janelle Sines, Kerri Brantner, Amber Weimer, Brooke Butler, Coty Warn, Kristin Wright, Jenn Goehringer, Dana Braskey, Renae Sines, and Laramie Slawson. The Southern girls are shown above right. In the front row, left to right, are Toni Sullivan, Crystal Hinnant, Andi Bender, and Sheri Per-ando. Second row, same order: Emily Nemith, Meghan Mahaffey, Bethany Savage, and Heather Hanline. Third row: Mariana Beltzel, Carrie Dolan, Erin Orr, and Lindsay Perry.

Lakers Take Fourth In Region XX Volleyball Tournament Play

The women's volleyball team of Garrett Community College finished fourth in a field of seven teams competing in the Region XX Tournament last weekend in Hagerstown. The Lakers posted a 2-2 mark in the tournament, as they downed Charles 2-1, lost to Catonsville 2-0, then came back to defeat Allegany 2-1 before dropping a 2-0 rematch with Charles.

The tournament crown went to the home team, Hagerstown, while Catonsville finished second and Charles third. Garrett was followed by Allegany in fifth, Potomac State in sixth, and CCAC-North in seventh.

The Lakers opened the tournament with Charles, falling 15-3, but rebounded for 17-15 and 15-7 victories to take the match.

Kerri Sines, a former Northern High School standout, led the Lakers with a dozen service points, and former Southern High star Sindy Niner had nine service points and three aces. Seneca Rocks, W.Va., native Crystal Kimble added three aces and seven points, while Erica McBride, of Shanks, W.Va., was 19 for 25 on the attack with nine kills. Former Husky leader Mindy McCarty was 17 for 21 with 11 kills, and Niner was 10 for 12 with seven kills.

Niner and Sines each had three service points in the losing effort against Catonsville, while McCarty had four kills and McBride tallied three kills.

Next up were the Trojans of Allegany, and the Lakers won a tough three-game match against their western Maryland rivals, taking the first contest 16-14, dropping the second 15-11, and prevailing in the finale by another 16-14 margin.

Leading the way was Sines with eight service points, while former Northern lynchpin Laurel Wolf tallied four points from the service line and one ace. Niner had a pair of service points and a pair of aces, and Keyser, W.Va., native Andrea Barrick had 15 kills and went 29 for 33 on the attack. McBride was 22 for 26 with 11 kills.

The rematch with Charles caught the Lakers on a downswing, and they were defeated by 15-12 and [illegible] ed 10 service points and a pair of aces, and tallied five kills. McBride had three kills and went 12 for 15 on the attack.

All-Region XX Tournament honors went to McCarty and McBride, while Barrick was named to the All-Region XX first team and McBride was named to the second team for their overall season play.

The conclusion of the 1998 season for the Laker netters brings the outstanding GCC volleyball careers of sophomores Barrick, McBride, McCarty, and Niner to a close as they move on in school and the workplace. Head coach Margaret Quinn and assistant coach Stacy Sines will have a fine crop of freshman moving up to sophomore status next year, and are looking forward to drawing on the high school talent prevalent in this region to round out the 1999 squad.

MARYLAND YOUTH DEER HUNT

Saturday, Nov. 14, is the date for this year's youth deer hunt day in Maryland. On this day, licensed youth under 16 may hunt deer throughout the state accompanied by a licensed adult over 21. The adult may not do any actual hunting nor have a firearm with them.

The idea is for older experienced hunters to have an opportunity to pass along not only knowledge and woodsman skills, but also the traditions of hunting. In 1997, youth hunters across the state tagged 1,665 deer, and 307 were tagged in Garrett County. For more specifics about Youth Hunting Day regulations, consult the DNR publication Hunting and Trapping in Maryland 1998-1999.

STAMP DESIGN CONTEST ANNOUNCED

The 1999-2000 Migratory Waterfowl Stamp Design Contest, commonly referred to as the Duck Stamp Contest, was opened for entries as of November 2 and will remain open until March 15 of next year. This is the 26th year for this competition and is the mechanism by which artwork for the state's duck stamp is selected. Entry forms, rules, and guidelines are available from Jeneanne Hunter at 301-292-8331.

FOREST FIRE DANGER

Dry conditions across the state have increased the danger of forest fire. Residents are urged to be careful with any fire.

TASTY CRAYFISH

A local friend of mine was recently telling me of the value of crayfish as food not for smallmouth bass, but for folks like you and me. According to Bill, crayfish tails are delicious boiled and dipped in garlic butter. Sounds like they might be something to try, considering their similarity to shrimp and exotic lagostino.

FISHING CONDITIONS HOLDING UP

The relatively warm fall has extended the fishing season for both fly-fishermen and lake anglers. The Casselman has delayed harvest regulations in effect and has been restocked. The water levels are very low, however, which is concentrating the fish in deeper pools and cuts, but making them very difficult to approach. The best results have been coming on beadheads and various types of woolly buggers. Fishing should be good through November.

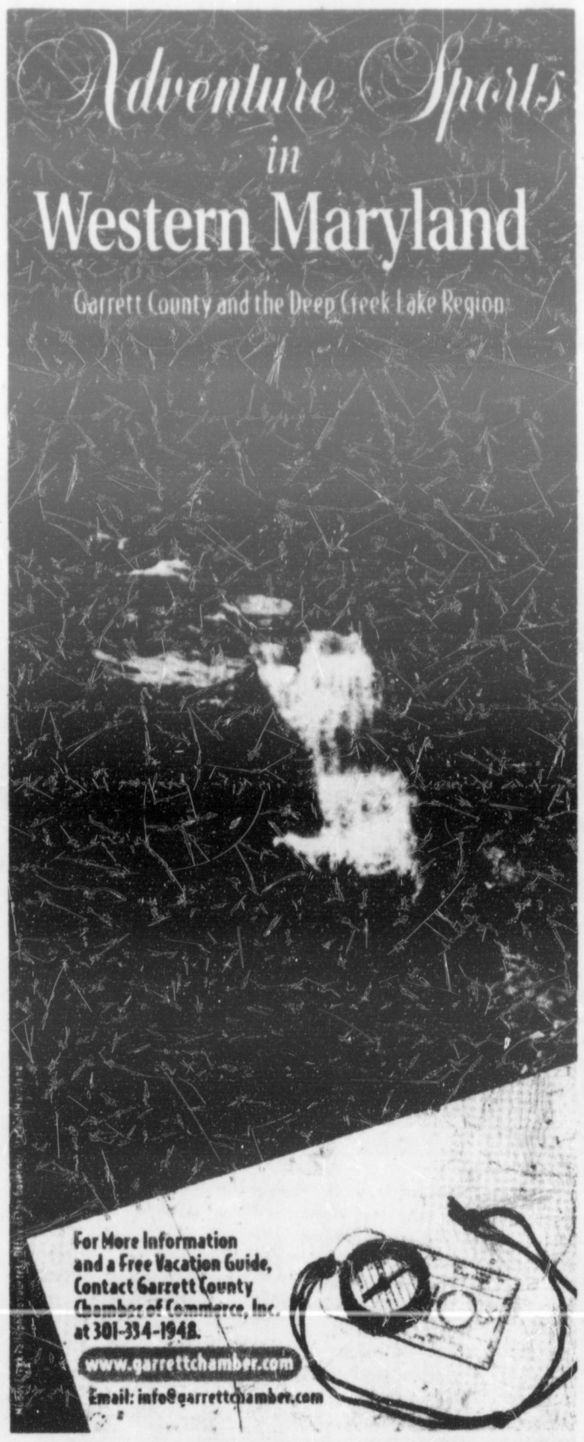
The North Branch has been fishing very well. Action has come on muddlers and Clouser minnows, along with some surface action on warmer days. The Savage has been producing on some terrestrials, along with small blue wing olives, caddis, and cream midges. Think small. Conditions on the Yough have been good, in spite of extremely low water. As the water cools, fish deeper with imitation crayfish, muddlers, and sculpins.

Deep Creek Lake has had some decent smallmouth fishing, along with good chain pickerel activity in weedy areas.

FALL IS A GREAT TIME FOR PHOTOS

Much of our attention at this time of year is focused on hunting; however, there are great photographic opportunities in our county. The key is to look at the surroundings that we have become so use to seeing in new and different ways. Study the position of the sun and how it is affecting the lighting. Take a canoe and explore quiet coves on Deep Creek Lake, the Savage River Reservoir, or Broadford Lake. These areas may be difficult to catch undisturbed in the high summer season, but now present a whole different photo op with both landscape and wildlife.

To get great photos, you don't need to be encumbered with loads of equipment. In fact, it may be easier to get super images with a minimum of camera bodies and lenses. The most important step in getting good outdoor photos in the fall is to get out and start shooting.



AVS BROCHURE PUBLISHED - A new full-color brochure detailing the adventure sports (AVS) scene in Garrett County was released recently. Designed to attract outdoor enthusiasts to the area, the brochure provides comprehensive information about local outdoor recreation opportunities and lists package availabilities for AVS participants wishing to partake in any of the number of activities Garrett County's 70,000 acres of public land has to offer. The brochure is being distributed by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce through its visitor information center, local businesses, and Maryland state information centers around the state. The Chamber is also working to place the brochure in the hands of travel writers and agents, group tour leaders, and participants at outdoor sport consumer travel shows, as well as numerous other outlets. The AVS brochure is a cooperative venture of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, the Garrett County Economic Development Department, the Adventuresports Institute of Garrett Community College, and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and its members. Interested persons may obtain a free copy of the AVS brochure by calling the Chamber at 301-334-1948.

PARKS TO FEATURE CENTRAL RESERVATION SYSTEM

Next year, Maryland state parks will have a central toll-free reservation system in place. As we get more information and specific phone numbers, we will pass them along.

HUNTERS AND FARMERS FEEDING THE HUNGRY

Again this year, Maryland's hunters are providing food for those less fortunate by donating their game for food to be distributed by the Salvation Army and local food banks. The venison is field dressed, legally tagged game donated through participating processors. This year, the cost of processing is being covered by donations from businesses, churches, and individuals. Anyone wanting to participate can call Rich Wilson at 301-582-4506.

Entries Sought For Annual Duck Stamp Contest

The 1999-2000 Maryland Migratory Waterfowl Stamp Design Contest, more familiarly known as the duck stamp contest, opened Monday, Nov. 3, and will close March 15, 1999.

The annual design competition, open to Maryland residents only, is the mechanism for choosing the artwork that is reproduced in stamp form and required to be affixed to waterfowl hunting licenses. The 1998-99 stamp was designed by 21-year-old Paul Makuchal of Pocomoke City, thought to be the contest's youngest winner. His work, which beat out 48 other entries, depicts a pair of pintails along a winter shoreline.

Duck stamp sales generate proceeds that go to the Wildlife Management and Protection Fund, which are also widely collected and treasured for their uniqueness and beauty. The fund has helped finance more than 1,000 wood duck nesting boxes, wetland construction projects totaling more than 700 acres, and repair and maintenance of more than 7,000 acres of existing wetlands.

"This is the third year the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission have jointly sponsored this event that brings out the best in Maryland's art community," said DNR Secretary John R. Griffin. "The works created for this competition are truly inspirational and act as constant reminders of why wise management of our natural resources is so important."

As in recent years, the 1999-2000 duck stamp contest will be judged during the Patuxent Wildlife Art Show and Sale, set for March 27 at Harmony Hall Regional Center in Fort Washington. Contestants and the public are invited to attend and witness the judging process.

Entries in this year's contest will be on display in the gallery at Harmony Hall Center from March 27 until April 14, 1999. During the contest's judging, Maryland's entries in the 1999 Federal Junior Duck Stamp Scholarship Competition will also be on display. The federal junior duck stamp program is open to kindergarten through 12th grade students attending public, private or home schools.

For more information on the Maryland Migratory Waterfowl Stamp Design Contest, interested persons may call 410-260-8012 or visit the DNR website at <www.dnr.state.md.us>. Questions about the eligibility of waterfowl species may be referred to Chris Wagnon at 301-627-2270. For contest entry forms, rules and guidelines artists should contact Jeneanne Hunter at 301-292-8331.

DNR's Fisheries Service Unveils Enhanced Website

Anglers seeking the latest information on Maryland's fish, their health, regulations and techniques for catching them, state fishing records, and other related topics may consult the enhanced website of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Fisheries Service at <www.dnr.state.md.us/fisheries>.

"The new fisheries page was designed to be cleaner, faster loading, and easier to navigate," said DNR Secretary John R. Griffin. "With just a few clicks of the mouse, a visitor to the page will be hooked on the latest information about fishing in Maryland."

Among the page's new features are a monthly newsletter from DNR Fisheries Service Director Dr. Bob Bachman; on-line participation in the 1998 cooperative striped bass survey, which helps DNR determine the size of striped bass caught by recreational anglers and which supplements existing monitoring programs; quick links to a number of regular monthly offerings, including a monthly feature; and a newly revised calendar of events that lists hearings, advisory committee meetings, and other events.

DNR's homepage, found at <www.dnr.state.md.us>, is consistently the state of Maryland's most visited website.

Elliott Competing In Miss Maryland Teen USA Pageant

Shannon Jean Elliott, daughter of Dan and Carolyn Elliott, Oakland, has been selected as a contestant in the Miss Maryland Teen USA Pageant.

Elliott will be competing with other young women from across Maryland in the preliminary competition on Saturday, Nov. 28, and the final competition on Sunday, Nov. 29, at the Marriott Inner Harbor hotel in Baltimore. The winner of the Maryland pageant will represent the state in the nationally televised Miss Teen USA Pageant, which will be held in August 1999.

A senior at Southern High School, Elliott writes for the school newspaper, The Acorn, and has played basketball for the Rams for three years. She also enjoys hiking, running, and swimming, and she intends to pursue a career as a nurse.

Elliott's Miss Maryland Teen USA Pageant appearance is being funded with major assistance from a number of local businesses and individuals. Additional businesses or individuals interested in sponsoring Elliott may forward donations to her at 164 Fingerboard Road, Oakland MD 21550, or call 301-334-2469.

Letters

wanted seafood, we went to A-1 on Eastern Avenue. When we wanted shoes we went to Charles Bootery in Essex. The same man, I forget his name now, fitted my first Buster Browns and every shoe I wore until I my late teens. For clothes we went to the Hochild Kohn or Hutzler's store in Eastpoint, or, joy of joys, to the big main stores on Howard Street. These stores belonged to Baltimore, like Macy's to New York. They were ours and ours alone.

They are all gone. Now people go to Red Lobster and call it seafood. They go to Foot Locker for shoes. Teens in referee outfits wait on them. They go to Wal-Mart and K-Mart for everything else under the sun. They go to some mall. Colorful, convenient, and completely the same everywhere. Baltimore has lost a part of its charm.

Garrett County's loss of identity was bound to happen sooner or later. You can't fight Wall Street. I am a bit shaken by how fast we seem ready to roll over. To me it has the feeling of a defeat: some big company telling us we can't take care of ourselves. I grieve to see a proud community sell its soul and heritage to save a couple of bucks and a few minutes' time.

Sincerely yours,
Richard Hill

To the Editor:

World War I rationing afflicted almost all Americans, causing controversy over conservation, much like we now have over the superhighway. A few wanted the wilderness reopened for the selling of game. Game is the least concern of this letter. Please stay with me.

According to Outdoor Life (February 1998), the arguments peaked and faded in May 1918, after the champion of conservation, President Theodore "Teddy" Roosevelt, issued this meteoric missive from his hospital death-bed:

"To the proposal of the pseudo-patriots, the patriots for revenue only, that protection of wildlife in wartime be relaxed, the united hosts of conservation reply:

"YOU SHALL NOT PASS,"

"Let this be the slogan of every farmer, of all who dwell in the open and of all who see our natural resources conserved for the perpetual use of our people and not destroyed for all time to gratify the greed of the moment."

In another setting, Roosevelt once said, "When the soil is gone, man must go. And the process does not take long" (World Book, "Conservation"). Wisdom like that earned him a statue on Mount Rushmore with Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln.

Today, natural resources are shrinking drastically worldwide. In the Orient, circumstances are so severe that abortion is not just a "choice," but sometimes a legal requirement. And for lack of burial space, cremation becomes mandatory. Kuwait oil wells will be drained in about 40 years, says Newsweek. The ozone layer and global warming might or might not be life or death issues 20 or 40 years from now, but meantime, Roosevelt's demands and commands for conservation make him sound almost as prophetic as Noah with his ark.

In America, gas was rationed only several decades ago. President Nixon lowered the White House temperature to 68 degrees in winter as an example of conserving energy, Normal water levels, to say nothing of drought, are increasingly insufficient for many towns and cities. Modern Maryland has so little of its forests and farms left from the early 1900s that state legislation ("Smart Growth") has been enacted to preserve them. Unfortunately, Smart Growth does not protect us from the superhighway.

Interestingly, the Bible also addresses this issue. Note that after Christ fed the thousands with a few fish and loaves, the disciples gathered 12 basketfuls of uneaten remains (Matthew 14:20). Moral: Thou shall conserve, even in places of plenty.

Clearly, as global resources of all types continue to dwindle, they become simultaneously more valuable. Coffee prices, pennies per pound 40 years ago, have now soared higher than John Glenn. Equally obvious, for Garrett County's progeny's preservation, even possible prosperity, it becomes critical that we leave them as much and many possible natural resources as we ourselves inherited.

Yet, unfortunately, the "patriots for revenue only" are still with us, and —trust me— revenue is the only thing they care about, your home and land be damned (literally)! They advocate further destruction (for all time) of massive tracts of Garrett Co.'s chief natural resources: Actual and potential forests, farms, land, waters, etc., which, some believe, were made by our Maker for specific purposes. These parties prefer not to raise crops or timber, but the speed limit, from 55 to 65 mph for the Peter Pan Superhighway. (Think of it as the cornucopia from Utopia.)

Simultaneously, while all highway proposals are ostensibly still hypothetical, we've already heard talk of proposed tax increases: Again.

This is progress?

CHRISTIAN SCHOOL SELLING FRUIT - Students from the Oakland Seventh-Day Adventist Christian School are selling fruit throughout the school year to raise funds for needy students and other areas of Christian education. The school is also offering fresh fruit because of a desire and interest in promoting healthful living. The cost for navel oranges is $16 per box and $9 per half box, while red grapefruit are available for $15 a box and $8 per half box. The ordering deadline is Thursday, Nov. 12, and the fruit should be available for pickup between Nov. 19 and 22. Schoolchildren under the supervision of teacher Suzette Cowgill are visiting businesses and homes to provide area residents with an opportunity to order fruit and support the project. Shown above, Ken McConnell of Delano's Carpet and Furniture places an order from a group of students, left to right in the foreground, Steve Seeders, his sister Nicole Seeders, and Tasha VanSickle; in the background are Chad Friend and Sarah Cowgill. Interested persons may also call 301-387-9532 or 301-387-0457 to place an order.

To the Editor:

Recently I was told I needed to have a breast biopsy, something that generates fear in most women's hearts. Friends in the Baltimore-Washington area suggested I go to Johns Hopkins Breast Center, but I elected to have the procedure done here.

I cannot say enough about the excellent quality of care I received from start to finish. I was greatly impressed with the radiology department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the radiologists and technicians involved, the out-patient surgery department, the nursing care, the pathologist, and especially my surgeon, Dr. John Porcaro. From all I have read, I believe the best and most up-to-date diagnostic procedures were used. I would highly recommend the hospital and all involved. I would like to say a big "thank you" to all of them.

To my great relief, the results were negative or "nothing bad," as Dr. Porcaro said.

Sincerely,
Anne Forrester

To the Editor:

As I read the two front page articles "The Clergy Seminar To Focus On Abuse Awareness" and "State's Children's Well-being To Be A Roundtable Topic," I couldn't help but wonder when and if we would ever see the equivalent articles on the front page regarding Garrett County's mentally ill? Would any prominent person ever get behind the very huge tragic subject of mental illness? Would anyone, clergy or otherwise, ever consider thinking sufficiently of chemically imbalanced, brilliant, handicapped human beings as other than crazy, insane misfits to shunt aside and ignore or hide?

I wonder and think about it very often. Could it be a Garrett County sleeping giant, ready to explode? There are many people here making a very good living from the mental health arena, but the actual real help to the overall problem is minuscule.

The state of Maryland and our elected officials need to wake up! We have a very real problem!

This is my opinion.

Thanking you,
Mrs. Louise V. Harvey
Friendsville

To the Editor:

I am amazed at the inflammatory tone of your editorial of October 29, but I understand (though do not agree with) your opinion. You are consistent in your support of the public school system. However, I am concerned about several statements you made.

Your remarks twisting the Choice in Education Resolution compel challenge. Your assertions indicate that you either failed to read the actual Resolution before writing or, if you did actually read it, deliberately sought to mislead the public concerning its content.

First, the Garrett County School Board did not, in fact, pass a resolution in support of a voucher system. Rather, the Resolution did no more than reaffirm the self-evident principle that parents have the constitutional right — and moral obligation — to direct the upbringing and education of their children; and to reaffirm the board's commitment to improve our public schools so they would remain the schools of choice if vouchers ever were enacted. The Resolution was passed in response to a National School Board Association directive. Thus, even though a school voucher system is currently nonexistent in Maryland, the Garrett County School Board spent their valuable time responding to the dictates of a national association's political agenda.

Does it not seem ludicrous that our local school board felt compelled to spend time and energy responding to the national association's current agenda? Surely the voters elected the current incumbents to reflect their local, individualized concerns as Garrett County parents and taxpayers — NOT the agenda of a national association.

Expecting our local board to march hand-in-hand with the political positions espoused by a national school board association is like expecting all Democrats to align themselves with the values and principles of the current President.

Next, your demand for resignations or recalls of board members who voted for school choice on the grounds that they are "members of a public school system board" is ill-informed. The state of Maryland has jurisdiction over all students, including students who don't participate in the free public school system, through oversight programs governing home schooling, religious schools, correspondence schools, and other private schools. The Garrett County board members are elected by all Garrett County voters — not just the voters who choose to educate their children in the public system. The revenue from all county taxpayers, including those parent taxpayers who select an alternative education for their children, is used to support the public school system. These Garrett County taxpaying parents who have chosen other avenues to educate their children are also constituents of the Garrett County School Board, and have the right to insure that their views are represented.

Thus, while the Garrett County School Board rightly spends the majority of its time on issues of import to Garrett County's public schools, this focus does not mean the Board must (or should) respond to national association directives by passing resolutions that serve no purpose other than to advance an agenda that infringes upon the rights of citizens who choose not to use the public schools.

Third, and most disheartening is your assertion that "support of a voucher system is, in fact, anti-Christian behavior." Such a statement defies credulity, and, not surprisingly, you fail to cite to any sort of Christian teaching reflecting such a shocking pronouncement. Do you mean that those who support ONLY the free public schools — to the exclusion of any other form of education — are Christians? Do you really believe that those who select alternative forms of education for their children are, by definition, ANTI-Christians? I can only hope your fingers were running off the keyboard faster than you were thinking when you wrote that — and that upon further reflection, you retract it.

Sincerely,
Felicia A. Schrock

To the Editor:

It is with great disappointment that I write this letter. As a public school music teacher in one of the largest elementary schools in Garrett County, I am privileged to work with over 500 students each school year. In addition, as a D.J., I also have contacts with middle and high school students. Over the course of my teaching and D.J. careers I have made acquaintances with thousands of young people, many of whom earned my respect and admiration because of the standard they had set for themselves.

Over the past few years, however, I have become increasingly saddened and disappointed by the irresponsible, and I might add very dangerous, behavior of many of these "children."

On Autumn Glory Saturday I was asked if I knew "where the party was going to be?" Word was out that there was to be a "party" that night. By Sunday of Autumn Glory I learned that one "child" was taken by rescue squad to the hospital because of excessive alcohol consumption, and several other "children" had made their way into the swamp to elude officers!

Once again the names that began emerging were some of the very students that I had put my trust in.

Maybe if we had something for these kids to do this kind of thing wouldn't happen!! NOT SO! For almost 10 years my wife, myself, and several other adults provided dances at the fire hall in Oakland. Dave Terlizzi and his wife had done them for years before that. This venture was only somewhat successful. We had strict rules, and censored the music and the dancing; hence, it was boring!! Another thing we heard was "only those kinds go in there." Eventually, after many years of trying to get these kids in and off the streets or out of the fields on Saturday nights, we decided to call it quits.

Maybe all this is really not happening though! Maybe I'm concerned about nothing at all. When I stop to think about it, I've not read anything in the paper or heard anything on local radio about our teens having parties where there is underage drinking. So maybe I should be commending and not condemning these "children." MAYBE!

In closing, I would make one final plea to the children and one final plea to those of us who can help to stop this senseless gamble. It is only a matter of time, and for the sake of the victims, I hope a long time, until tragedy will strike again. My prayers already go out for those whose lives will never be the same because of this reckless pursuit of a good time.

It is, however, very comforting to know that in Garrett County we have zero tolerance for underage drinking. "DO WE?" [parents, teachers, coaches, law enforcement, churches, etc.]

THE MIGHTY

Rated PG-13 - Running time: 1:47

You've got to hand it to Kieran Culkin. Making Peter Chelsom's The Mighty seem like a thoughtful piece of cinema would be a difficult task for even the best actor, and yet he almost pulls it off. But the odds and the director are against him. Despite his valiant efforts, The Mighty is a cheesy, overdramatic tear-jerker full of transparent sentimentality and forced emotion. I don't know whether the novel (Freak The Mighty by Rodman Philbrick) was so drippy with pretense, but Charles Leavitt's screen adaptation of it surely is.

Culkin (little brother to Macaulay) plays Kevin Dillon, one of the two co-protagonists in this story about two kids who don't fit in until they find each other. Kevin, nicknamed "Freak," suffers from a disease that prevents his bones from growing in proportion to the rest of his body. He has a curved spine and walks with difficulty and crutches, but his brain is fully intact. A hero to his protective single mother (Sharon Stone), he's a genius compared to Max Kane (Elden Ratliff), an overweight outcast who lives with his grandparents (Harry Dean Stanton, Gena Rowlands) and seldom utters a word.

The boys find each other when Kevin is assigned as Max's reading tutor. He asks Max to read a chapter of the King Arthur story, and when Max balks, Kevin reads a bit to him. "Every word is part of a picture," he explains. "Every sentence is a picture." The two boys meet regularly to read, and eventually form a partnership, each making up for what the other lacks. With Max carrying Kevin on his shoulders, they adopt the credo "a knight proves his worthiness through his deeds," and begin living out heroic adventures as if they had a reserved seat at the round table.

But the story turns dark when Max's father (James Gandolfini), who has served several years in prison for murdering his wife (Max's mother), is released on parole. He kidnaps Max, and Kevin does his best to come to the rescue without the physical agility Max's large frame had afforded him.

The acting is good in this picture. The plot is fine. The problem lies in the execution. Every character is an extreme; there is no credible reality. This was intended by Leavitt to give a sense of subjectivity to the storybook Max is writing--he quotes the chapter title before each new scene--but it fails because all other aspects are presented realistically. Chelsom stages one overdramatic moment after another, with loads of pretentious closeups to make sure we get the emotional point, and tries to pass this off as the way life really is.

If this is supposed to be a subjective story told through Max's oversensitive psyche, then Chelsom needs to show us the difference between that and reality. If it's supposed to be reality, then Leavitt's characters are too cartooney to be believed. ★★★

PLEASANTVILLE

Rated PG-13 - Running time: 2:04

Though at the start its pretext looks like nothing more than a campy poke at those "classic" TV series shown every night on some cable channels, Gary Ross's Pleasantville turns out to be much more. Aside from being an incredible visual experience, it is a statement about freedom, race relations, escapism, and our nation's loss of innocence. Writer/director Ross, whose writing credits include the clever Dave (1993) and Tom Hanks's breakthrough hit Big (1988), has woven a number of lessons into his directorial debut.

The story centers around teenager David (Tobey Maguire), who is addicted to an old black & white TV show called "Pleasantville." But his sister Jennifer (Reese Witherspoon) has other plans for the TV tonight. When the two kids break the remote control, a mysterious repairman (Don Knotts) shows up and replaces it with a special new model. Before they know it, David and Jennifer have zapped themselves into the show. Their father (William H. Macy), their mother (Joan Allen), their house, town, neighbors--everything is... pleasant.

Horrified, the kids must live their lives in black and white, in a 1950's town full of people with black-and-white, 1950's sensibilities. For David, who is now Bud Parker, the first impulse is to play along, knowing that if he and Jennifer (now Mary Sue) alter the Pleasantville universe, they might never get home. But "Mary Sue" has other plans. She sets out to educate the simple folk about the real world, and she starts by having sex with the captain of the basketball team in the back seat of his convertible. Soon all the high school kids try it, with an interesting side effect: Those who have been "experienced," if you will, start to see (and be) in color.

At this point, the film suffers from its only fault. As more and more people show up in color, it looks like the message is, "Life is all about getting some nookie," resulting in a rather sophomoric mood--for a while. But sex is not what's colorizing the Pleasantville residents. Anyone who makes a personal discovery, who realizes that there's a world outside, gets, er, fleshed out. The "colored people" begin realizing they have a choice, that there are things to discover--art and literature and music that is different from anything they've ever seen. Even fire and rain are new to them. Naturally, those who are still living "in the pleasant" are outraged. And the mid-20th century in America is played out all over again--the civil rights movement, the women's movement, the sexual revolution, . . . all re-enacted before our eyes.

There is not a bad actor in this film. Macy has a great moment--at once hilarious and tragic--totally lost when his dinner isn't on the table at the prescribed time. Also notable are Jeff Daniels as the soda shop owner who discovers art, and the late J.T. Walsh as the mayor determined to stop the colorization of his community. The color/B&W scenes are amazing to behold; the film is almost worth seeing just for that. The music is also very effective, with lots of great oldies like Buddy Holly's "Rave On," Dave Brubeck's jazz classic "Take Five," and a haunting rendition of John Lennon's beautiful "Across The Universe," sung by Fiona Shaw.

Ross's vision of a '60s TV show coming to life could have been designed as just a silly diversion, but he has endowed it with a textured mosaic of messages about our culture and values. Pleasantville is a microcosm of the American struggles of this century, struggles that are still going on in many places. But it's also funny and fun, and Ross makes his point without being preachy or looking down at his audience. Bravo. ★★★★½

ANIMAL SHELTER GUESTS SEEK HOMES - The four animals pictured here need loving people to adopt. The reddish-brown male chow shown at the very top of the lineup is 10 months old; the 6-month to 1-year-old "mountain cur" female to the left in the next row is described as very quiet and docile, and won't grow much beyond her present size; and the pair of feline brothers at the right are long-haired 8-week-old domestics, one of which looks like he might have some Himalayan in the old family tree. The Garrett County Animal Shelter is located on Oakland Sand Run Road near the Oakland Golf Club, and boasts a brand new sign, shown above right, to guide interested persons to its doors. The shelter may also be reached during regular business hours from Mondays through Fridays at 301-334-3553.

Funding Renewed For Grantsville HotSpot Program

Funding for the second year of the HotSpot Communities Initiative was announced last week by the Governor's Office of Crime Control and Prevention. Garrett County's HotSpot program in Grantsville will receive nearly $39,000 to continue the work started this past year.

Under the lead local coordinator, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, the program combines efforts of law enforcement officers, probation officers, prosecutors for the state's attorney's office, and community youth crime prevention teams, who work together to reduce incidents of crime in the community.

Each element of the Grantsville HotSpot team will focus on particular actions during the coming year. The community mobilization group, comprosed of local residents, will receive $2,499 to continue to provide community activities involving youth. Efforts will also be made to strengthen community relationships and carry on the Neighborhood Crime Watch program.

Community policing will be provided by members of the Maryland State Police from the McHenry barrack and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The team's strategy, funded at $6,000, will continue supporting additional time for a community police officer to maintain a presence in the town and to work closely with the community probation officer and the prosecutor.

The community probation team, consisting of adult, juvenile, and federal probation officers, along with police, will assign agents to supervise all at-risk offenders in the HotSpot community. Grant funds will continue to support training, technical assistance, overtime, and equipment, including portable computer notebooks and digital cameras.

The youth crime prevention element, to be funded at $18,000, will continue to provide the after school program located at the Grantsville Senior Center, which offers tutoring, mentoring, community service learning, social competency skill development, and family activities.

Awarded $12,334, the community prosecution component will provide the part-time presence of the assistant state's attorney in Grantsville to focus on quality of life issues and community involvement in criminal prosecutions. The funding will also provide support for the lead coordinator.

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

FOOD DRIVE

St. Paul's Lutheran youth group is conducting a holiday food drive beginning Saturday, Nov. 7. The youth will be leaving plastic bags on door knobs throughout the Aurora community. Those who wish to donate are asked to place the nonperishable food items in the bag and put them on the front porch for pick-up the following Saturday, Nov. 14. Persons may also stop by Deerwood Service Center and leave a contribution there.

Anyone who is in need of food, or knows someone who is, may contact Cara Radford at 735-3407 or Tamara Fauber at 735-5730. If there is no local need, the food will be given to the Preston County Food Pantry.

MTN. LIONS BUCKWHEAT DINNER

The Mountain Lions Club will hold its annual buckwheat cake and sausage dinner at the Mt. Grove Community Building from noon until 7 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 21.

Those who wish to reserve bulk sausage may contact John Calcamp at 735-3141 or another member. The sausage will be in five- or 10 pound packages at a cost of $1.75 per pound. Delivery will be at the dinner unless otherwise arranged.

CWU AT MAPLE SPRING

The women of Union District will meet at the Maple Spring Church along Rt. 24 on Friday, Nov. 6 for a covered dish luncheon at noon, and a 1 p.m. program during which Linn Crowe will speak about Portugal. Mrs. Crowe and her husband John are pastoring the Maple Spring Church and are former missionaries to Portugal.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER

The Maple Spring Church of the Brethren will be the site of a buckwheat cake and sausage dinner on Saturday, Nov. 7. Serving is from 4 until 8 p.m. Donations are $5 for adults, $3 for 3-12-year olds, and younger children may eat for free. The dinner proceeds go to the youth of the church.

APPLE BUTTER AVAILABLE

The John Parsons farm on Mt. Top was the scene of old-fashioned apple-butter-making on Saturday, Oct. 31, with the spread cooked outdoors in a copper kettle. The Stemple Ridge Ladies Aid is now selling this apple butter, with both pints and quarts being available. To find out how to purchase it and where, persons may contact either 735-3352 or 735-6704.

GOSPEL SING AT BROOKSIDE

Open mike gospel sings are scheduled for Nov. 14 and 28, and Dec. 5 at the Brookside Church of the Brethren along U.S. 50, beside the Aurora fire hall. The freewill offerings each evening will go to the church's pastor, Don Knotts, to add to his liver transplant fund. The public is welcome.

MYERS, SIMMONS TO WED

Iris Shaffer Myers of Aurora and Eugene "Gene" Simmons announce their approaching marriage. They will be wed in an open church ceremony on Nov. 14 at the Brookside Church of the Brethren. The time of service is 2 p.m., and the couple invites their family and friends to join them for this ceremony and the reception, which will follow at the Aurora fire hall.

BOLYARD BIRTH

Albert Clinton and Christine (Cummings) Bolyard of Kingwood announce the birth of a son, Matthew Cling, who was born Sept. 25 at Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown. He weighed 6 pounds, 2 ounces and was 19 1/2 inches in length at birth.

Maternal grandparents are Ralph and Selma Cummings of Stemple Ridge. Louis and Dorothy Bolyard of Terra Alta are the paternal grandparents.

ATTEND CONFERENCE

Hancell and Mildred Teets of Aurora attended the West Virginia Conference of Resource, Conservation and Development, along with W.Va. Soil Conservation Society and W.Va. State Supervisors' Conference at the Marriott in Charleston last Monday through Friday. Mr. Teets is a supervisor with the Monongahela Soil Conservation District and Mrs. Teets a member of its auxiliary.

While the supervisors had their business meetings and held joint conferences, members of the auxiliary had a tea on Tuesday, a craft show and sale on Wednesday, and visited the Farmers' Market at the old Charleston depot on Thursday.

Named Conservation Farmer of the Year were Ron and Dianne Parsons of Harrison County, West Fork District. Second place went to the Roberson Farm in Wayne County, Guyan District, and third place to the Bonner Farm in Tucker County, Tygart Valley District. Named Supervisor of the Year was Aubrey Riner of the Southern District, who has served in that position for more than 30 years.

FESTIVAL WINNERS

Aurora PTO Fall Festival winners are listed below.

Selling the most tickets was Keith Baker, second place was Joey Amos, and third place was Trevor Spaid.

One-half hog went to Walter Skeweris, and one-half went to Joan Stump. A 20-inch bike was won by Allen Dale Strawser. One hundred scratch-off lottery tickets were awarded to Bill and Linda Lantz, 35 went to Doris Brandt, and 15 were won by Renee Ellifritz. The first grade class won two free Disney movies for providing the most items for the harvest baskets.

The Aurora PTO expressed its appreciation to the parents, the community, and the surrounding area businesses for making this festival a success.

PASSES INSPECTION

Union Ambulance Service was recently notified that it received the scoring from the inspection which took place this last summer and it passed. It will not be reinspected for another two years.

New regulations required by the West Virginia Office of Emergency Services encompass areas such as vehicles, buildings, practices, equipment, training, dispatch centers, and community involvement. Union was particularly commended for its community involvement.

BRITNER BIRTH

Phillip and Anita Britner of Aurora announce the birth of their third child and first son. The baby was born October 27 at Preston Memorial Hospital, and weighed 7 pounds, 9 ounces. Elijah Thomas is 19 inches in length and has two older sisters, Nicole and Julia.

Maternal grandparents are Tom and Carolyn Wotring of Aurora. Walter and Violet Britner of Rowlesburg are the paternal grandparents. Mrs. Delbert (Madge) Wotring of Aurora is the great-grandmother.

PERSONAL MENTION

Delbert and Madeline Sims of Warren, Ohio, were recent visitors with his sister, Jessie Winters, Eglon.

Ellis and Marie Teets of Silver Lake left Wednesday to visit with their daughter and family, Martha and Merlin Reish, at Harrisonburg, then with her cousins, Robert and Helen June Winters, in Roanoke, both in Virginia, and on to Knoxville, Tenn., for a visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Scott and Sharon Teets.

Stanley J. Harsh returned Thursday night to his home at Eglon to continue his recuperation. His condition is reportedly improving. Jim Jamison returned to the home of his mother, Fern Jamison, Aurora, on Oct. 20.

Sheridan and Nina Layman have returned to Aurora from a visit in Flatwoods, Ky., with his sister, Neva Kincaid.

Floyd Knapp of Amboy is a patient in the rehabilitation center at Morgantown as the result of a fall at his home.

Paul Stemple of Aurora accompanied his son, Steve Stemple, Elkins, on a flight to Arizona for the Oct. 24 marriage of Steve's son Alan. While in Arizona they also visited with Ken and Betty Bailey at Casa Grande.

Curt Lowery of Martinsburg was a Saturday afternoon visitor with Ron and Avenell Parsons in Eglon.

Herb and Jean Starr of Stemple Ridge were in Ohio last week where they visited with their children; did their Christmas shopping; visited his uncles, Floyd Starr in Warren, Robert Plunkett in Cleveland, and Raymond Plunkett in Akron; and also visited his mother, Annie Starr, and his sister and brother-in-law in Akron.

Mary Stemple (Mrs. Erwin) of Stemple Ridge was honored and surprised Sunday on the occasion of her 50th birthday. Planned by her daughter Melody and other immediate family, friends, family and neighbors from the local area, as well as family from St. George, swelled the attendance to about 45 persons at the Stemple Ridge Church.

A dedication ceremony for Andrew Hauser was held Sunday, Nov. 1, at the Maple Spring Church, following his first birthday on Oct. 31. His grandparents, Sam and Patricia Masters, Organ Cave, and Jerry and Barbara Hauser were present, along with his great-grandmother, Gladys Hauser, and aunts, uncles, and a cousin.

Leonard, Tammy, and Daniel Parsons returned Saturday evening to Aurora from a trip to Dollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Winters of Eglon were Sunday visitors in Clarksburg with their sister-in-law, Joann Winters, and her mother, Goldie Sommerville.

Eglon Farm Women Note 50th Anniversary

Members of the Farm Women's Club (currently the West Virginia Community Educational Outreach Service) recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of the club's organization.

The group, formed in October 1948, was later known as the Homemakers, then Extension Homemakers, and in 1994 became a Homemakers Club by mailbox membership.

Charter members were Dori (Mrs. Robert) Byrd, Audra (Mrs. Charles) Teets, Marie (Mrs. Ellis) Teets, Rebecca (Mrs. John) Teets, Elmina Stemple, Pearl Hamstead, Avenell (Mrs. Dale) Roth, Dorothy (Mrs. Robert) Spaid, Mildred (Mrs. Lester) Wilt, Hazel (Mrs. Gilmour) Fike, Effie Wolfe, Winona (Mrs. Lawrence) Artis, Jean (Mrs. Claude) Winters, and Lela (Mrs. Paul) Roth.

The club members met Oct. 6 at the Eglon Memorial Building to prepare and serve a ham luncheon to current members, former members, guests, and charter members Rebecca Teets, Avenell Parsons, and Jean Winters. Both Parsons and Winters have remained club members for the past 50 years.

CLUB CELEBRATES 50 YEARS--Members of the Eglon Farm Women's Club (now the West Virginia Community Educational Outreach Service) recently gathered to observe the club's 50 years of service to the Eglon community. Shown above are two charter members, Jean Winters, left, and Avenell Parsons, who have both remained members since the club's inception in 1948. (See story)

The afternoon was spent reminiscing, using the club history as a basis for helping the ladies reflect on the years. On display were crafts, old lesson books, and other items of interest.

Former members present were Mrs. Teets; Lorraine Fike, Bridgewater, Va., and her daughter, Judy Riley, Luray, Va.; Ruth Parks, Eglon; Rose Ina Harsh and her daughters, Brenda Hartsell and Neva Frantz, all of Eglon; and Ardis "Sandy" Teets, Eglon. Current members in attendance were Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Winters, Sandra Hauser, Mary Rembold, Linda Lewis, and Nina Layman. Two members, currently homebound, are Ruth Teets and Lectie Bonner.

"As the workforce grows," said a club spokesperson, "women are no longer able to find time for meetings, other than those involving their children...so this group has somehow been relegated to a 'back burner.'" Although the official name of the organization has gone through a variety of changes, those who remain members are dedicated to "meeting, studying, and doing."

Local Business Sets Benefit For McDonald House

The Christmas Chalet, located along U.S. Rt. 219 at Deep Creek Lake across from Uno's, will hold its fourth annual "Homes for the Holidays." Starting today, Nov. 5, the Christmas Chalet will help customers turn their houses into "homes for the holidays" and raise funds for the Morgantown, W.Va., Ronald McDonald House.

Christmas Chalet will host a variety of holiday-themed decorating activities and in-store displays. A 32-page Guide for Celebration and Inspiration will be available free of charge while quantities last.

"Homes for the Holidays is a great event to help customers prepare for the upcoming holiday season," said Jan Shafer, owner. "We have something for everyone to help ring in the season — special event products, great gift-giving ideas, decorating and entertaining tips, and fund-raising activities to benefit the Morgantown Ronald McDonald House."

Christmas Chalet is helping Department 56 raise a goal of $1 million in cash and product donations for Ronald McDonald houses throughout North America. Department 56 is the official holiday decorator for Ronald McDonald houses, and over the past three years, the company and its retailers have raised $2 million in cash and product donations for Ronald McDonald houses.

This year, Christmas Chalet will donate all the proceeds from fund-raising activities using "The House That Love Built, 1998," a limited lighted Village piece honoring Ronald McDonald houses. The piece is not available for retail sale. However, the Christmas Chalet will raise funds by raffling off two Ronald McDonald lighted Village pieces. The first one will be raffled this Sunday, Nov. 8, and the second one on Sunday, Dec. 13. All proceeds will be donated to the Morgantown Ronald McDonald House. Department 56 will only produce 5,600 pieces, and each will be numbered.

A portion of the proceeds from Kensington Palace sales also will be donated to Morgantown Ronald McDonald House.

"The holidays are a time of giving, and we're pleased to support the Morgantown Ronald McDonald House and the families that are staying there over the holidays," said Shafer.

Cruisers Note Winners Of AG Festival Show

The Mt. Top Cruisers Car Club sponsored a car show in the Oakland city parking lot on Sunday, Oct. 11, during the 31st annual Autumn Glory Festival. Forty-four registered vehicles and several club members' cars were on display for the public to view. The club awarded trophies to the best of show and top 20 scoring vehicles in this judged competition.

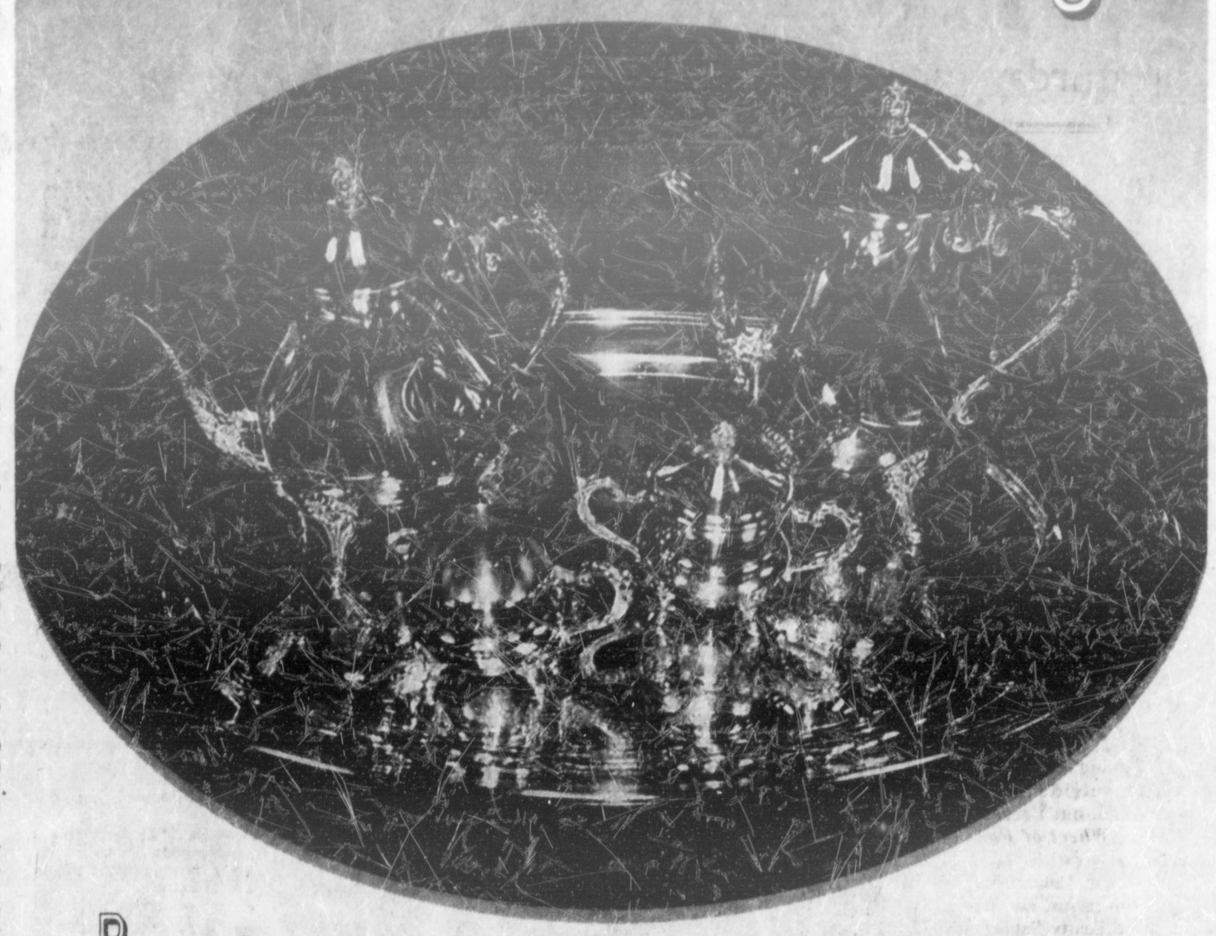
Let the Shine Through



Perhaps some of you helped your mother or your grandmother polish sterling silver, particularly before holiday gatherings. As you sat at the table with soft cloths and creamy polish, you may have chatted about some things that were of importance or perhaps laughed at nothing at all. At any rate, the smooth, circular, repetitious polishing motions worked a remarkable feat. From the grayish-black tarnish emerged the original warm, gleaming silver sheen as if it were new again.

Of course, silver that is regularly handled and used seldom needs polish, but as it sits it collects layers of tarnish from disuse. Perhaps our faith in God behaves in much the same fashion. The more we use it, the brighter it shines. Yet, should we neglect it, our faith dims and it takes more strength to renew it once more. "Let light shine out of darkness, who has shone in our hearts..." 2 Corinthians 4:6

Worship this week. Your faith need not dim. Polish it with praise and prayer. It will shine like new.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHEN 'BAD GUYS' PROSPER

November 8, 1998

Background Scripture:
Psalms 73
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 27:1-14

The Psalmist may have said it a bit differently, but at some time or other most, if not all, of us find ourselves thinking or even saying what he confesses: "All in vain have I kept my heart clean and washed my hands in innocence" (Ps. 73:13). To put it in a more contemporary way: "What good is it to be 'good'?"

The Psalmist was not just feeling resentful because his goodness was unrewarded, but because the sinfulness of arrogant men seemed to go unpunished. If we are good and see no advantage over those who are evil, it is logical that we should question being good. Not only were the wicked not being punished, but they were prospering while he was not! "For I was envious of the arrogant, when I saw the prosperity of the wicked" (73:3). Not being rewarded for our goodness is even worse if someone evil is seen to be rewarded.

He was thus challenging the same popular religious concept that occasioned the writing of the Book of Job: if goodness is to be rewarded and evil punished, how do we explain the good person who suffers and the evil person who prospers?

GLARING EXCEPTIONS

These ancient questions are just as current today as they were then. Some Christians assume that goodness is always rewarded and evil is always punished. But, although that often is true, there are glaring exceptions. Not every Mafioso dies unhappy and regretful. In fact, we are told that some of them die smiling. On the other hand, there are lots of good people who die unjustly. At the top of that list, we must remember, is the name of Jesus Christ!

It becomes apparent that being a Christian, obeying God's commandments is no guarantee of justice and satisfaction. In fact, doing the right thing may even bring us pain, anguish and even death. So, Christians have learned to answer these questions with the assurance of justice and retribution in the life beyond death. If God is just and loving, he certainly cannot permit an evil person to escape punishment on the other side of death.

In the Psalmist's day, however, not many Hebrews believed in a life after death and so they could not comfort themselves with the hope of ultimate punishment for evil and reward for good. (We could say this with more certainty if we knew precisely when this psalm was written.) In fact, it was this enigma that helped to inspire the beginnings of belief in the life hereafter. The Psalmist's conviction that the evil are eventually punished perhaps is leading him to speculate upon punishment in a life beyond death.

MY GREATEST DESIRE

When he "went into the sanctuary of God" during a time of worship he found some answers to his problem. He discovered that, as a man who tried to live rightly, he had found something the wicked person could never have: the promise of God's eternal nearness. "Nevertheless I am continually with thee; thou dost hold my right hand. Thou dost guide me with thy counsel,

COVER STORY

Haley's Mama Flora mixes history, storytelling

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

Cicely Tyson

When Roots author Alex Haley died in 1992, he left unfinished the story of his mother's life, an uphill struggle against harsh circumstances.

Mama Flora's Family is the fulfillment of Haley's vision.

"It was meant to be a novel and a miniseries," says executive producer Jon Avnet (Fried Green Tomatoes), who recalls Haley as a mentor and friend. "There was a story inside (Haley), and he sort of hammered it out. (We intended) to do the miniseries after he finished the book. He worked on the book for a number of years and wrote quite a bit of it but ultimately never completed it."

That task fell to David Stevens (Breaker Morant). Stevens also co-wrote the script for the film, which airs Sunday and Tuesday, Nov. 8 and 10, on CBS.

Mama Flora's Family opens in 1970, as 74-year-old Flora Palmer (Cicely Tyson) collects her granddaughter Diana (Queen Latifah) and toddler great-grandson from a trashy apartment to take them under her own roof. Unwilling at first, Diana learns from her grandmother's life story, which begins before the turn of the century.

Flora (played in flashbacks by Erika Alexander) is a sharecropper's daughter. In her teens, she gives birth to the child of a well-to-do young man and is forced to give the infant up. Crushed, Flora leaves home to start life over, working as a laundress and housekeeper.

Flora's marriage to farmer Booker T. Palmer (David Ramsey) brings happiness, but Booker pays for his ambition with his life. Flora is then left to raise their son, Willie. She tries to keep the boy in school, but he quits to work in a cotton field. Later, Willie heads for Chicago.

During the 1940s, Flora finally meets her estranged son, Luke (Mario Van Peebles), who has had the benefit of a law-school education but resents the absence of his mother for so many years. At the same time, Willie envies the maternal pride Flora has in Luke.

"Willie goes through the same struggle a great many men go through in life," says L.A. Law star Blair Underwood, who plays Willie from 17 to 55.

"I see Willie as almost three different people. In the beginning, he's a kid trying to find himself. I liken it to a young deer trying to find his legs.

"Then when he goes up to Chicago and he's drinking and gambling and running around with women, he's trying to find his manhood in many ways. And later on, he's trying to find his heart, around age 45 or 50."

Mama Flora's Family is a big story, and Avnet fits as much as he can into four hours. The characters' lives intersect with World War II, the civil rights movement and the Vietnam conflict, but the story stays focused on Mama Flora's values and determination.

"As I read the script," Underwood recalls, "and saw the broken English, and (the story) starting off with slavery, there was a side of me that said, 'I don't want to see that, much less be a part of it or do it.' But as I continued to read, I came to the realization that a lot of kids don't know the history of African-American families in this country. So it's worth exploring."

And, he adds, "it's by far the most challenging role I've ever played."

Pat Sajak

Q: I thought Pat Sajak committed suicide a couple of years ago, but I recently saw him on Wheel of Fortune. I am really confused! –Mrs. Joyce Lane, Lenoir, N.C.

A: You're just confusing the hale and hearty Sajak with the ill-fated Ray Combs, the former Family Feud host, who killed himself in June 1996 in the wake of a failed marriage and several disastrous investments.

Q: Please help settle an argument. Who played Judge Peters on a recent episode of Ally McBeal? I say it's the guy who used to play Winchester on *M*A*S*H*. He says the actor appeared in Animal House. Who is right? –Dana Greenup, Clarks Hill, Ind.

A: You are. David Ogden Stiers played stuffy Maj. Charles Emerson Winchester on *M*A*S*H*, before going on to appear as Judge Andrew Peters in the Ally episode titled "They Eat Horses, Don't They?"

Q: Can you tell me the name of the dog in the Taco Bell commercials? –CeJae Boggess, Appleton, Wis.

A: The canine character's name is Dinky, but "he" is actually played by a 3-year old female Chihuahua named Gidget. The voice is supplied by comic Carlos Alazraqui.

For any puppy playboys out there panting after her vital statistics, Gidget weighs 8 pounds and stands a statuesque 11 inches tall.

Q: I say Lisa Ann Walter played Gloria, the divorced hairstylist on Hope & Gloria. My mother insists it was someone else. A $20 bet is riding on this. –Samantha in Kodiak, Alaska.

A: Cough up, Sam. Gloria Utz was played by Jessica Lundy. She also played Elaine Shulman, Dr. Joel Fleischman's erstwhile fiancee on Northern Exposure.

Q: Who did Craig T. Nelson play in Call to Glory? Who else was in that series, and when did it air? –Jacob Wang, San Francisco, Calif.

A: Nelson played Air Force Col. Raynor Sarnac in that ABC drama, which premiered on Aug. 13, 1984, and had its last telecast on Feb. 12, 1985. Cindy Pickett (Hyperion Bay) played his wife, Vanessa; their three children were played by David Hollander, Gabriel Damon and a future Oscar nominee named Elisabeth Shue.

Q: I miss Rob Estes and Mitzi Kapture on Silk Stalkings. What are they doing now? –Mary Probert, Golden City, Mo.

A: They're hiding in plain sight. Estes is in his second season as a Melrose Place regular, while Kapture recently joined the cast of Baywatch.
